Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Mrs. Junius Fox went to Greenville Thursday.

Mrs. Carrie Aldridge and daughter, Miss Lottie Belle, went to Ayden last night.

Miss Kate Chapman returned a few days ago from Chapel Hill, where she has been visiting Mrs. R. H. Eubank.

Miss Janie Kittrell returned from Grifton yesterday. She has been visiting Miss Annabelle Kittrell.

On account of delay in getting piping, Mr. Turnage has stopped work on the deep well for a few days.

This is still Winter—ville altho some people persist in calling it Summer—ville these hot days. As a rule people are more energetic in winter. Our people are full of energy and are all the time hustling. Hence our appropriate name "Winterville".

C. T. Cox came in from Raleigh Friday to spend several days at home.

F. A. Edmundson, C. T. Cox, O. W. Rollins, Jesse Rollins, Eugene Cannon and Earnest Cox attended the musical at Ayden last night. They report and excellent time, every piece on the programme being especially good. We always like to go to Ayden, because it does things right. Edmundson and Rollins say it is "the garden spot of the world."

Mrs. E. E. Cox spent last night in the country with Mrs. J. L. Jackson.

Miss Eunice Hargett, from near Richland, is here visiting relatives.

Mrs. Sidie McGlohon, who has been visiting Mrs. W. L. House, returned to her home at Ayden yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Hanrahan, spent Friday here with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cox.

Miss Gather Jolly, who has been visiting Miss Vinie Crawford, returned to her home near Ayden Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cox went to Kinston yesterday and returned the same day.

W. F. Warren left this morning for Oak City and New Bern.

This fall will be the best time of the year for the Winterville merchant to sell goods. Let the people know what you have by dropping an advertisement in The Reflector.

Bird in Box Turns White.

George Parker today discovered a white swallow in an unused oat-box in his barn. Mr. Parker says the box has not been opened in two years. He thinks the bird entered the box before the lid was turned down in 1907 and has subsisted on oats in the box, and that the confinement turned its feathers white.—Philadelphia Record.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

A punkin, weighing 182 pounds and which measures 86 inches in circumference and 24 inches in height, was raised by Mr. Grady West, of Stony Creek township, Wayne county, this season.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

One hundred and forty-two workmen of the car builders department of the A. C. L. shops at South Rocky Mount went out yesterday afternoon from that department of the company and today the number was added to by a few of the employees of the same department on the lower yards leaning their work. Their refusal to return to work is not styled as a strike but instead they declare that they are remaining idle while the committee may arrange for their being paid for certain parts of their piece work which the company has recently refused.—Rocky Mount Record.

Mr. Tony Vogt, a young man employed as foreman kiln burner for the Pomona Terra Cotta Works, died suddenly at the works yesterday morning about 9 o'clock while giving an exhibition of his strength by lifting a fifty-pound bar of iron and raising it above his head a number of times. He and a companion were engaged in this test of their strength and Mr. Vogt said he was going to raise it above his head thirty times without putting it down, but when he raised it the fourteenth time he dropped it and sank to the ground, saying, "I'm done." He died almost instantly, gasping for breath only two or three times after falling.—Greensboro Record.

The contract was let last Monday by Mr. Charles L. Abernethy of Beaufort, N. C., to Mr. Clarence Simpson a local contractor, for the construction and completion of the new hotel in the little city by the sea. The plans and specifications were drawn by Mr. H. W. Simpson, of New Bern. When completed this new up-to-date modern hotel equipped with steam heat, electric lights, hot and cold water, will be a credit to the town and something the people of Beaufort should feel proud of. It will be a winter as well as a summer home. An attractive feature will be broad verandas and a wide board walk to the channel with a concrete foundation. The management of the hotel expects to open its doors for the reception of guests on November 1st.—New Bern Sun.

Papa Wouldn't Mind—What?

After being tucked in bed little Madge begged her mother to stay with her until she got to sleep. "For," she pleaded, "it is all dark and Madge is so 'fraid." "But there is nothing to be afraid of," her mother assured her. "Mama must go right down stairs, for papa is there alone waiting for her. Now try to go to sleep and remember that the angels are right here with you and will take care of you." "Oh, but, mama," wailed the little voice, "I'd rather have you. Please, mama, send the angels down with papa and you stay here with Madge."—The Delineator for September.

Mr. R. W. King's family drive horse "John," died Friday night. He will now have to join the autoists.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Aug. 14, 1909.

The musical given here last night in the auditorium of the public school building for the benefit of the new Methodist church, was largely attended. Besides our own people, there were many present from the surrounding country and from Winterville. The program was excellent and showed that much care had been given its preparation. It was the best entertainment of the kind that Ayden has had. Two recitations by Miss Eliza Kennedy, of LaGrange, were splendid features of the program.

Misses Blanche Cannon, Jennie Dixon and Eliza Kennedy left this morning for Washington.

An Automatic Temperature Indicator.

Mr. W. E. Campbell has been notified that he has been issued a patent on an automatic temperature indicator that he has lately devised and that he has been granted the sole right to manufacture and offer the same for sale. The device, as its name indicates, is intended to register temperature automatically by electric alarm, the specific purpose of the device being to protect water pipes, plants, etc., against freezing, by giving an alarm when the danger point is reached. Mr. R. M. Strange is joint owner with Mr. Campbell and just what steps will be taken towards the manufacture and sale of the appliance will not be determined until Mr. Strange returns from his Western trip.—Chester Reporter.

Motorboats Deliver Groceries.

An engineer who has recently made a tour of the middle West to gather data relative to proposed waterway improvements informs us that he was astonished to find what a large amount of freighting is done by individual storekeepers and smaller merchants in launches propelled by internal combustion motors. The country storekeeper living on the banks of the rivers and canals has found that he can ship his own freight from the wholesale dealer and distribute it to his retail customers by motorboat at a cost far below that of any other available means of conveyance. There is in this fact a suggestion of future usefulness for abandoned canals in which the draft is limited.—Scientific American.

Change of Chinese Ministers.

Washington, Aug. 13—Chinese Minister Wu Ting Fang's recall to Peking and the appointment of Chang Yim Tang as successor, was today confirmed by an official Peking dispatch to the State department. It is not known when Tang will arrive at Washington to assume the duties. The appointment is believed to be highly acceptable to the American diplomats.

Family Frightened from Home by Rat

A correspondent writing from Dover gives an amusing story of a family near there being frightened from home by strange noises which were found next day to have been caused by rats. The family had retired when a weird tapping began, growing more weird and furious as it continued, until the family, who, it is said, believe in ghosts and such things, fled terrified to the open field, where they huddled together in abject terror until day appeared. An investigation showed that the noise had been caused by a rat dragging an old greasy shoe over the floor in the loft of the house.—New Bern Journal.

Name Your Farms.

Not only should there be signboards put up at cross-roads and where the road forks, giving direction and distance, but it would be a good idea if all country homes were named—a neat sign placed by the roadside in front of the house bearing the owner's name at least. Rural letter boxes have proved a great help in informing travelers but neatly printed signs giving names in large letters would be better.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Fire Wipes Out Entire Town.

Dover, Del., Aug. 13.—The town of Milton, 40 miles south of here, was destroyed by fire this morning and its 2,000 inhabitants are shelterless. The militia, bearing tents and provisions, are hurrying to the rescue and neighboring towns are sending relief.

Of Course.

"John," remarked his mother, "your face is fairly clean, but how did you get your hands so dirty?" "Washin' me face, mama."—The Delineator for September.

SATURDAY, AUG. 14, 1909.

Let all the boosters get busy and work for Greenville.

Since a walking fad has struck the country some of us can have more company.

Talk is good in its way, but action mixed along with it is what brings results.

When New Bern couples make up their love matches in the cemetery, we wonder if they look out to the future and also select a burial plot.

The man who opposes things just because he cannot have them his way is not the best type of citizen. Some others may also have opinions.

If you see prosperity coming, do not try to stop it with growling. We all need it in our business, and can help by being cheerful and doing our best.

Some idea of the extent of the rural mail service can be had from the statement that there are now about 41,000 routes in operation throughout the country.

Since the extra congress and Thaw have been side-tracked, and the airships have made a successful flight, some of the fellows have gone to talking north pole again.

OVERLOADED.

One inevitable result of an attempt to do too much is a failure to do anything well. Government in the United States is exemplifying this fact almost daily.

The national machine at Washington is overloaded. It is undertaking to perform at once everything that can be classed as properly within its scope as well as many things that clearly belong to the States and to individuals. Congress therefore manifests an incurable tendency to shift its responsibilities upon others. Thus the most difficult undertakings, the ones calling for the closest scrutiny and having the most far-reaching effects, are apt to be surrendered by the people's representatives into the hands of persons who use more or less arbitrarily only delegated power.

This habit has become so much a matter of course that, although the congress which has just adjourned conferred in three instances almost sovereign authority on the president, the fact has excited less attention than a change of some beggarly fraction in a tax-rate.

From this time forth, under the maximum and minimum tariff, the president alone may impose an extra fine of 25 per cent upon the American commerce of a foreign nation; under the law taxing corporations the information received by the government shall be made public only by the direction of the president, and under the new Panama bond act the president is practically empowered to expend $200,000,000 under contract for canal purposes without further action by congress. That is, congress relinquishes the tariff fight, the question of publicity for corporations, and the construction of the canal into the hands of one man.

Nor is this the worst of it. We are soon to have a permanent tariff commission to which congress will look for direction in legislation, and a permanent customs court to try cases which the regular courts are perfectly competent to pass upon. We are not only having too much government; we are setting up too many governments. They overlap each other; responsibility is dissipated, and the tendency must be toward irresponsible and arbitrary rule.

The Department of state now has a fund of $100,000 to cover the expense of finding new markets for our products, as though American enterprise were dependent upon this official codling. Thus engaged, it is morally certain that that branch of the government will presently be under the necessity of turning over its legitimate duties to high-priced outsiders, just as the department of justice has found itself depending upon expensive special attorneys for most of the work carried on under its authority.

These are only a few of the extravagances and dangers resulting first from overloading the government and secondly from the practice of avoiding the real labor of government. At this rate such authority as is not lodged in the president, who naturally must delegate many of his excessive powers, will be scattered among special agents, boards, commissions and tribunals, while the old and familiar instrumentalities of popular sovereignty remain inert and perhaps helpless.

To govern themselves the people must not lose their grip upon the machinery which they establish. The real governing power in this country is falling from the hands of congress, which is the people's own agent. Attempting too much, that body now is in danger of becoming a mere board of registry for the underlings whom it has set up and encouraged.—New York World.

If parents cannot have a law passed that will keep their boys from smoking cigarettes, why not fall back on the old hickory remedy? We know that it is now considered out-of-date, but it was a good one in its time.—Durham Herald.

What's Your Pet Phrase?

Of course you have a pet phrase or expression. You are one of the few exceptions if you haven't. Very likely the very words with which this article begins—"of course"—are used by you at every turn, but you don't know it. You have a particular ejaculation which does duty in all circumstances. It may be a variation of "Great Scott!" such as "Great Scotland Yard!" or it may be "Good Grace church street!" which is a variation of "Good gracious!" You probably end most of your sentences with "you know" or "you see." Then you have a pet word which you bring in wherever you can. Perhaps it is "logical" and the number of times that word and its opposite—"illogical"—appear in your conversation is simply alarming. But you don't see it, you know.—London Answers.

Had All the Symptoms.

The learned hobo was dispensing knowledge for the benefit of his less enlightened companion.

"Have you ever been bitten by a dog?" he asked.

"Many's de time," replied the unenlightened one.

"Are you not afraid of hydrophobia?"

"Nix on de hydro."

"'Tis a curious disease. When a person contracts hydrophobia the very thought of water makes him sick."

"Is dat on de level? Youse ain't stringin' me?"

"It is a scientific fact."

"Den I bet I've had it all me life an' never knowed wot was de matter wid me!"—New York Times.

Origin of the Word Academy.

Academus was a wealthy Greek of Athens who lived several hundred years before the birth of Christ. Among his possessions was a beautiful grove, where young men used to congregate and listen to the teachings of wise men, such as Plato and Socrates. This developed into the school of modern times, and these modern schools take their name "academy" from the old Greek, Academus. The real meaning of the word academy is a school for boys.

Sterilized.

"Have you," inquired the city visitor, "a moss covered bucket about the place?"

"No, sir," answered the farmer. "All our utensils are sterilized and strictly sanitary."—Kansas City Journal.
