POPULAR COUPLE MARRIED

Miss Stewart and Mr. A. G. Smither Happily Married at Baptist Church.

The First Baptist church, of this city, was the scene this morning of one of the most beautiful and impressive wedding ceremonies ever witnessed in that sacred edifice, when Miss Sue Wilkins Stewart became the bride of Mr. Archie Garnette Smither. The hour for the ceremony was 10 o'clock, and long before the appointed time the church was filled with friends and acquaintances, eager to witness the mating of two young lives. The church was beautifully and artistically decorated in palms, ferns and ever-greens, and presented a very pleasing effect.

Promptly at the appointed time, and to the strains of Mendelsohn's, wedding march, under the deft touch of Miss Hannah Shaw, who presided at the organ, the bridal party entered.

First the ushers in the following order: Messrs. Guy B. Hardy and M. A. Smith, down the center aisle; then Messrs. Edward L. Stewart and R. Lee Stewart, brothers of the bride, down the side aisles; while the bridesmaids, Misses Emma C. Haubs, of Norfolk, and Mary Russ, of Kinston, passed down the center, dressed in dainty creations of white, with white picture hats and carrying pink carnations, meeting the Messrs. Stewart at the foot of the chancel.

Little Miss Mary Thomas Stewart, the ring bearer, dressed in white, came down the center aisle. She was followed by the maid of honor, Miss Lizzie Stewart, exquisitely gowned in light blue silk, with black picture hat and carrying white carnations.

The bride entered leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. Edward T. Stewart, who gave her away. The bride was handsomely gowned in a champagne coat suit, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. At the foot of the chancel she was met by the groom and his best man, Dr. W. S. Grainger, of Goldsboro. Together they approached the altar where Rev. J. A. Sullivan spoke the solemn words making them man and wife.

During the ceremony the soft strains of "The Flower Song" were wafted through the church. Immediately after the ceremony and to the inspiring notes of Lohengrin wedding march and the merry peal of wedding bells, the bridal party passed quickly from the church and entering carriages drove to the Norfolk & Southern depot, leaving on the morning train for an extended tour of the Northern cities, amid showers of rice and the best wishes of a large number of friends assembled at the depot to see them depart. A large reception will be given the young couple at West Point, Va., on Friday night.

The bride is the eldest daughter of our esteemed townsman, Mr. E. T. Stewart, who for a long number of years served this city in the capacity of mayor. She is one of Washington's most attractive and popular young ladies, and has hosts of friends in this city.

The groom is a rising young business man and proprietor of the largest jewelry store in the city, having located in this city about a year ago.

LARGEST CROP ON RECORD.

13,825,457 Bales for Season—South Broke Records on Cotton Consumed.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 31.—Statistics showing that more cotton was handled during the commercial year ending at midnight tonight than ever before and that all records had been broken in the amount of cotton consumed by Southern mills was the features of the annual crop statement of Secretary Hester of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange. The document forms the preliminary report of Secretary Hester's annual review of the commercial year.

The count of the commercial crop showed it to be the largest on record, 13,825,457 bales. The previous largest commercial crop was 13,565,885, marketed in 1904-05. Last season's total was only 11,571,966.

The most important feature in the report, next to the size of the crop itself, was the statement on the amount of cotton consumed by Southern mills during the season, which closed today. Here all the records were again broken, the total being 2,558,873 bales. This point was regarded by the bulls as being even of more importance than the size of the crop itself. It was taken as official confirmation of the many stories of the great expansion of cotton manufacturing in the South.

The figures compared with 2,193,000 last season and 2,439,000 two seasons ago.

In the point of port receipts another record was broken. Net receipts at all ports of the season were put at 10,62,845 bales against only 8,579,842 last year and 9,919,555 two years ago.

Trade Report

Richmond, Va., Sept. 2, 1909 Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity—

Trade conditions generally continue to show improvement as the fall season approaches, and in practically all lines dealers are optimistic anticipating an active fall trade. Dry goods and shoes are fairly active, filling in order are liberal. Manufacturers of trunks and bags report active ordering. Reports from the south on the cotton crop are irregular, however, they generally indicate an average crop. Rain is badly needed in the majority of the districts. Building operations are active and dealers in supplies are having an active trade. Retail trade is quiet especially in country districts. Collections are fair.

Under Tent All Next Week.

The Wm. Todd Big 10c vaudeville show will open an engagement for one week, commencing Monday, Sept. 6th, on the lot opposite the court house. The Todd show has the very best of reputation in all the towns where they have shown, and without doubt will play to a packed tent every night during their engagement here.

School of Music.

The department of music at the Greenville graded schools will again be in charge of Miss Olive B. Gaston, of Syracuse University, New York. Persons desiring to enroll for lessons should call on or write the superintendent before the opening of the graded school. H. B. Smith, Superintendent. 8 26 tf

AUGUST TOBACCO SALES.

Comparison Wite Some Months Last Year.

From Mr. E. B. Ferguson, secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, The Reflector obtained the following record of the leaf tobacco sales on the Greenville market for the month of August, and comparison with corresponding month of last year:

The total sales for the month were 846,909 pounds for $52,701.47, an average of $6 23 per hundred pounds.

For the same month in 1908 the sales were 1,552,467 pounds for $122,886.41, an average of $7.92 per hundred pounds.

These figures show that there was nearly twice as much tobacco sold in August 1908 as in August 1909, and the difference in average price paid was $1.67 per hundred pounds. It shows also that the difference in price is not so great as had been made to appear from general complaints, though of course the price is lower than is desired, and is some instances below the cost of production.

The Reflector talked with some of the buyers about the difference in price, and they at once pointed to the difference in receipts and the quality for explanation.

They said that during August of last year considerable good tobacco was included in the receipts, while during August of this year nearly all that came in was of the poorer grades. They said further that if the same proportion of good tobacco had been in the receipts this year as last, the average price would have been brought up to as good a figure as last year, but as the bulk of receipts so far this year have been the commoner grades it made a difference in average.

A message was received from Lervik, Shetland Islands, that Dr. Frederick A. Cook, accompanied by a Norwegian left Etah, Greenland, March 3, 1908, taking with him eight Esquimaux four sledges and 12 dog teams. He was to make his way through Ellesmere Land.

THURSDAY, SEP. 2, 1909.

Doctors are now saying that pellagra is caused by a germ and not by corn meal.

If Mississippi has her way there will be nothing left for the colored man in that State but to work in the field.

Even if they never get Breese and Dickinson in the penitentiary, they will give them a lot of punishment trying them.

With moving pictures every night, a week of tent shows, a theatrical company for a week and a week of carnival, all booked for this month, it is not likely that Greenville's pleasure seekers can complain of dullness during September.

A single bandit held up and robbed a train on the Pennsylvania railroad, within fifty miles of the State capital, in real Western style and got away with a lot of money from the express car. It was not creditable to the crew that one man bluffed the whole bunch of them.

A letter from Congressman John H. Small, that will be found on another page announces that a farmers' educational meeting will be held in Greenville on Monday, Sept. 13th. Congressman Small is always active in behalf of the people of his district in arranging such meetings for their benefit, and the farmers should show their interest by taking advantage of them. There is need of improvement in the methods of farming, and these meetings are a great help in that direction. A large attendance should be at the meeting on the 13th.

Equal Rights.

Discussing the future of the Democratic party, Mr. Bryan's Commoner expresses the opinion that since 1891, when the Democrats last elected Mr. Cleveland, the tariff controversy has been a sham battle, and that from this time forth there should be "a real fight between the taxpayers and the taxeaters."

As the gentleman from Nebraska has made a near approach to a great truth, it may be said without offence that it was he and his lieutenants who inaugurated the sham fight, which was a sham only so far as they were concerned. There was nothing representing mimicry in the attitude of the protected interests. They were in earnest and they shot to kill.

Taking advantage of Mr. Bryan's sham battle and his unsuccessful attempt to degrade the monetary standard, monopoly identified the demoralized Democracy with repudiation and proceeded to inflict upon the country, practically without resistance, the monstrous wrongs which at this late day have at length attracted Mr. Bryan's serious attention. The collapse of the Democratic party under the follies of Populism has cost the people dearly. It is indeed time to look for a remedy.

Mr. Bryan may be able to assist materially in a real fight by Democracy against plutocracy, if such a contest shall be decided upon, but it is a serious question even now whether he fully comprehends the nature of the struggle. It is more than a matter of taxation or of protection or of tariffs. Those who enter upon this conflict with the idea that they can begin where Grover Cleveland left off are woefully mistaken. They are to meet something more formidable than crooked tax schedules, graft and log-rolling. They are confronted by inequalities, deep-seated and almost institutional. What was once mere cheek or rascality is now plutocracy, entrenched in power, claiming vested rights, richer than any known aristocracy and quite as unscrupulous as any favored class of which there is record. Partly through the greed and audacity of the coteries that rules Republicanism and partly as a result of many years of Democratic false leadership, privilege has fastened itself not only upon our political life but upon commerce and industry. It corrupts and enfeebles government. It afflicts society. It oppresses the people. Its one potential foe is true Democracy.

Of the three great aspirations of true Democracy only two have been established. We have liberty; we have union; we do not have equality. While present conditions exist the Democratic party can write no platform more equal, more appealing or more convincing than that which may be stated in two words—Equal Rights.—New York World.

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it, Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

THE INDIANS PAID.

What the White Men Charged Them For Killing One Donkey.

In "Reminiscences of Old Times in Tennessee" a story is told of the good faith and honor of a party of Chickasaw Indians. While hunting one fall they shot a donkey, mistaking the creature for a wild animal. They sold the hide, and it finally came to the hands of John Barnes in Lipton.

When the Chickasaws returned to the region of Lipton for their annual hunt the next fall Barnes invited them to a shooting match, the prize to be the skin of a very rare animal.

Thirty braves appeared at the contest, and one of them won the prize. When he saw the skin he turned it over and said: "Ha, ha! Me kill him! Me shoot him! See!" And he pointed to the fatal bullet hole.

Then Barnes told them that they had killed a donkey, a very useful animal; but he was sure that they had done it by mistake, believing it to be a wild animal.

The Indians listened attentively to the white man's words and then consulted together a few minutes. Finally they separated, each brave going to his pony, unhitching him and leading him to the spot where a gang of white men stood, Barnes in the midst of them. Then one of the Indians spoke:

"We sorry we kill donkey. We think he belong to the woods. We find him in cane. We think him wild. We sorry. Now we pay. We take no white man's boss, pony, nothing of white man. We honest. We have ponies; that's all. Take pay." And he motioned to the long line of ponies, held by their owners.

"How many?" asked Barnes. "White man say," returned the Indian; "take plenty."

The honor of the red men was not equaled by the white men, for, he it recorded to their shame, they took from the Chickasaws thirty-five ponies to pay for the accidental killing of one donkey.

AN AFRICAN RAILWAY.

The Way It Was Described by an Educated Native.

C. J. Phillips, business agent in Uganda of the Church Missionary society, throws light upon the workings of the native mind by quoting a remarkable letter in which a native member of the katikiro's (prime minister's) party gives a description of the Uganda railway.

"My friend, I can tell you the Europeans have done a marvelous thing to make the railway and the trains. They fasten ten or fifteen houses together and attach them to a fireplace which is as big as an elephant, and the road it goes on is as smooth as the stem of a plantain. It goes as fast as a swallow flying, and everything you see outside flits past you like a spark from a fire. If it were to drop off one of the bridges not one in it would be saved, for it goes dreadfully quick. The hills it passes are as high as those of Koki, and they have bridged over great valleys which are as deep as that you see when you look from the top of Namirembo, so deep that you cannot see the bottom when you are going over them."

Later there follows a description of a ship: "It is as deep as our two storied house and as wide as the king's road in Mengo, and it is as long as from the katikiro's fence to the gate of the king's inclosure. It has three tall poles in it and a big throat, out of which smoke comes, which is as wide as the new drum in the church at Namirembo. The rooms in it go down three stories, and the boards of these I cannot describe to you, for such have not been seen before. There is a lot of metal work about them, too, but these also I cannot describe, for it is so fine. There are children on board and a flock of sheep and places to wash in attached to every place where a chief sleeps, such as even our king has never possessed."—London Strand Magazine.

Old Book Terms.

The words folio, quarto, octavo, duodecimo and the like have almost if not quite lost their original meaning. At first they had reference only to the number of leaves into which the sheets used in making the books were folded. Thus if these sheets were folded once so as to form two leaves or four pages the book was called a folio; if the sheets were folded twice so as to form four leaves the book was called a quarto; if they were folded four times so as to form eight leaves the book was called an octavo, and so on.

The blessedness or misery of old age is often by the extract of our past life.—De Mistre.

ENGLISH MONARCHS.

Death Often Unkind in the Manner of Their Taking Off.

Of the monarchs who have reigned over England since the days of the Norman conquest nearly one-quarter of the number have met violent deaths. William I. was killed by a fall from his horse, William II. was shot while hunting, whether by accident or design is still one of the unsolved problems of history; Richard I. was killed by a shaft from a crossbow while besieging the city of Chalus, in France; Richard II. was murdered in Pontefract castle, Edward II. was murdered in Berkeley castle and Edward V. in the Tower of London, Richard III. was killed on the battlefield of Bosworth, and Charles I. had his head cut off in London.

Elizabeth's death was hastened by remorse that she had ordered the execution of Essex, and her sister Mary sickened and died soon after the loss of Calais, declaring that the name of that city would be found after death written on her heart. The death of Edward III's son, the Black Prince, caused the aged monarch to die of grief. So, after the loss of his son in the White Ship, Henry I. was never seen to smile again and lived only a short time, Henry VI. and George III. were insane during the latter years of their reigns and finally died from what in these days would be called paresis. Charles II., Henry VIII., Edward IV. and George IV. hastened their deaths by the lives they lived. Only two monarchs died of that great national scourge, consumption. They were Edward VI. and Henry VII. Queen Anne's death was due as much as anything else to overfeeding. Only two monarchs, Henry VI. and George III., died after long illnesses.—London Tatler.

What Would He Do With It?

A farmer owned a dog—a very good, high bred and thoroughly trained dog—that every morning for three years chased a railway train that ran past the farm. The farmer and his wife were watching the persistent but vain pursuit one warm morning.

"I wonder," the wife said, "what makes that foolish dog chase the train so persistently."

"Never thought about that," replied the farmer, "but I've often wondered what he would do if he caught it."

What He Wanted.

Professional Guide (to palace car porter)—I have an English lord in charge, and I want him to get a good impression of the comforts of travel in this country. Here's $5. Porter—Yes, sah. Do you want me to gib him extra attention, sah? Guide—Great Scott, no! I want you to keep away from him!—New York Weekly.

Tommy Atkins on the Range.

Subaltern—What on earth are you fellows doing? There hasn't been a bit signaled for the last half hour. Private—I think we must 'ave shot the marker, sir!—London Punch.

Broadening.

Bond—Don't you realize that marriage broadens a man? Benedict—Oh yes; I suppose it can be put that way but "fattens" is the word I've always used.—London Express.

No Chance.

"I think it's wrong for a married man to gamble." "It's worse than wrong. It's idiotic. His wife gives him fits if he loses and confiscates the proceeds if he wins."—Louisville Courier Journal.

An Apology?
A London journal says that a lively discussion once took place in a town council in the north of England. One thing led to another till one of the disputants gave another the lie direct. The insulted party rushed forward, and the pair clinched. At that moment the first man exclaimed, "I reiterate that you are a liar!" To the astonishment of every one, the aggrieved party let go his hold. "Oh, well," he said, "in that case I accept the apology. If a man says he reiterates, that is all any gentleman can ask." He did not understand why the bystanders laughed, but the fight was off.

Anything to Oblige.
While crossing the ocean the two sprightly children of very seasick parents were scampering around the deck. "Tom, dear," said the mother in a weary voice, "the children are too near the railing." But he was too ill to notice, and in sheer desperation his wife nudged him on the arm. "Speak to them, Tom," she said faintly. With a wan smile he lifted his head and said, "Eh—how do you do?"—Ladies' Home Journal.
