TEMPERANCE FORCES.

Next Eighteen Months Will Mark the Most Critical Period.

To the People of North Carolina:

Approved by the hearts and minds of an even larger majority of the people of the State than the forty-thousand majority by which it was ratified last May, State prohibition is a part of the established policy of North Carolina, and has justified the confidence of our commonwealth in adopting it. One of her foremost citizens, conservative and unconnected with our organization, declared this week that prohibition would decrease the number of drunkards in the coming generation of North Carolinians at least two-thirds. More than this the most ardent advocate of prohibition could not have expected, and the half of this would make the prohibition policy the wisest and most profitable step ever adopted by the people of North Carolina.

Prohibition is a success—there is no question as to this; and yet we must not let our gratification over its achievements or over the public opinion of the State keep us from recognizing the dangers of indifference on the part of temperance advocates. We cannot too strongly emphasize the fact that the next eighteen months will mark the one critical period with prohibition in this State. During this time the enemies of the cause will be most active, lavishing money supplied by the great liquor interests of the nation, and using both fair means and foul to make prohibition unpopular wherever there is the slightest chance for success.

It is of the greatest importance, therefore, that our local Anti-Saloon Leagues keep themselves intact and that new leagues be organized wherever there is danger to our cause, and that our league have adequate financial support. Good citizens everywhere must hold up the hands of officials who are vigorous in behalf of law enforcement, and must bring individual and organized pressure to bear upon officials who deal lightly with the oaths they have taken.

It was not long to have been expected that perfect machinery for the enforcement of our prohibition laws would be immediately developed; it was not to be expected that the enemies of prohibition would immediately acknowledged the hopelessness of their cause attacking the law. The fact that North Carolina is largely rural, and that the rural sections have been dry for years, and that our cities are not only composed largely of native-born, law-loving North Carolina people, but had also adopted local prohibition laws in nearly every case—these things have made the enforcement of prohibition in North Carolina much easier than in some other States.

We should not be true to our trust, however, if we did not remind our people—the churches, the advocates of temperance, and good citizens of all classes—of the imperative importance of strict law enforcement and of undiminished activity in preaching temperance doctrine.

We would especially call attention to the necessity for caution in dealing with the near-beer sellers. If license is to be granted at all, there should be most careful scrutiny of applicants, and most careful inquiry into their conduct. It should be remembered that the board of aldermen in granting such licenses are not proceeding as a court and should consider the general reputation or every applicant regardless of whether legal proof that he has violated the law is in evidence or not, and grant license only to men of absolutely good character renewing license only to such as have not only escaped conviction, but who are above suspicion in the general opinion of the public. That the men who formerly sold liquor and were moving heaven and earth to defeat prohibition only twelve months ago, are not to be profoundly interested in seeing that the prohibition law is now enforced and made popular is a truism so plain as to require no elaboration whatever. The old miracle of Romulus and suckled by the wolf would have to be repeated in order to bring about a favorable outcome of such a proposition. No express statute is needed, but considerations of public policy should prevent any city from exposing an ex-saloon keeper to the temptations which a near-beer shop provides for him to fall into—and certainly consideration for the supreme law of the State and the expressed will of the people should prevent our trusting our prohibition law to such people for safe keeping.

No license to sell near-beer should be granted to any man unless he has recommendations as to his character from the best citizens of the town, and after thirty days' public notice; certainly no license should ever be granted to any man who has government license to sell intoxicants; license to sell near-beer should especially provide that no intoxicants should be drunk upon the premises, and any conviction for selling any intoxicant or allowing any intoxicant to be drunk upon the premises should work immediate forfeiture of license and once a month (without notice and not at stated intervals) inspection of stock should be made by city officials.

We make these recommendations simply for such cities as are willing to permit near-beer establishments. The experience of other States indicate that it is desperately difficult to control it, and if the whiskey element thinks to use the near-beer proposition as a cover for flagrant violation of our general prohibition law, our people will be left but one course—that of prohibiting near-beer establishments entirely.

We again warn our people to be on their guard unceasingly during the next eighteen months. If this is done we shall clinch the prohibition law beyond all future questioning in this State, developing the machinery and the public sentiment which will keep it forever intact. Old officers in the counties and cities should hold their organization intact, and every man who voted in the campaign a year ago should count himself as not paroled until the last active opposition to the State law subsides.

By order of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League.

Clarence H. Poe,
Raleigh, N. C., Chairman,

Why Not Remove the Danger.

Just now it is dangerous for pedestrians on the paved sidewalks, because of the walks being more or less covered with grape hulls and banana peelings. The aldermen should do something to prevent these dangerous things being thrown on the sidewalks. It would also look more cleanly if a stop was put to expectorating on the sidewalks.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Last Tuesday Mrs. J. H. Welsh, who lives on Mr. J. P. Allison's place just west of town, gave her one and a half year old child what she thought was three quarters of a grain of calomel. The child soon lost consciousness, and a physician was summoned. On examination it was found that Mrs. Welsh had given the little one morphine instead of calomel, as the tablets are exactly alike. The child died about 11 o'clock, as nothing could be done to save it when the physician arrived.—Concord Times.

Getting Bigger.

In view of the recent discovery of the North Pole by two Americans, Dr. Cook in 1908 and Lt. Peary in 1909, this by Dr. B. F. Dixon is appropriate:

"At a fourth of July," he says, "speaker after speaker undertook to describe the boundaries of the United States. The first said it was bounded on the north by Great Lakes, on the south by the Gulf, on the east by the Atlantic, and on the west by the Pacific.

"The next speaker said it was bounded on the north by the North Pole, on the south by the South Pole, on the east by the rising sun and on the west by the setting sun."

"The last speaker said the United States was bounded on the north by the aurora borealis, on the south by the procession of the equinoxes, on the east by the primordial chaos, and on the west by the day of judgment."

A. D. HILL.

Farmville, N. C. Sept. 11.—One of Farmville's oldest citizens died at his home here on Thursday, the 9th, at one o'clock p. m. and was buried in the town cemetery, on Friday Sept. 10th, at 3:30 p. m.

He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Covenant Lodge, No. 17, Greenville, N. C. He was in good standing with, and loyal to his lodge; and the great principles of the order were evidently in many respects interwoven into his life; he was always in sympathy with those that were sick or distressed and cheerfully rendered assistance.

It was thought, or intended, that the honors of the order would have been extended him in his burial; but the writer is officially authorized to say, in justice to the lodge and to Brother Hill, that owing to other sick members, limited notice, and various other circumstances, it was impossible. The lodge was represented by its chief officer, H. Bently Harris, (N. G.) and E. A. Moye, Sr. A large concourse of people were present and floral decorations were profuse. Religious service was conducted by the writer.

The deceased had been in ill health for a long while, and his death came not unexpected. He leaves a wife, several relatives and many friends to "contemplate the scene," while he goes beyond "the Sacred River."

The bereaved ones have our sympathy. W. A. Forbes.

Attention Pythians.

The anniversary memorial service will be held Sunday morning. All Pythians are requested to meet in lodge room at 10:30.

MORE CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

According to information sent out from Washington City, it will require about sixty five thousand enumerators to take the thirteenth decennial census of the United States, and of Hawaii and Porto Rico. This is an increase of about eleven thousand enumerators over the number required in 1900. In the taking of the last census enumerators were required to work ten hours per day, but the hours are reduced to eight for the next census. This change in hours alone demands one-fifth more enumerators for the work, which must be done and reports filed in thirty days. In addition to this, the increase in population in the last ten years will also cause a larger number of enumerators. North Carolina's part of this army of census takers is estimated to be fifteen hundred, while there were twelve hundred and thirty eight in this State in 1900. All the States will have a proportional part of the increase in accordance with growth of population. The 15th of April, 1910, is the date for the enumeration to begin.

TEMPERANCE LAWS.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a symposium of the temperance laws of North Carolina, arranged for the Anti-Saloon League by Hon. Heriot Clarkson, solicitor of the twelfth judicial district and president of the State convention. Every person, whether in favor of prohibition or not, should read the article and see what the temperance laws are. Especially should officials, upon whom rests the enforcement of the laws, be informed on this matter, and they should be diligent in enforcing the law strictly. The people of the State by a large majority declared in favor of prohibition, and it is the duty of those whom these same people place in office to see that laws they have declared for are enforced. A copy of the symposium prepared by Solicitor Clarkson can be had by addressing a postal card request to either Mr. Clarence H. Poe, Raleigh, N. C., or Rev. R. L. Davis, Wilson, N. C.

For presidential candidates in the next election the Beaufort Look Out nominates Dr. Cook to head the Democratic ticket and Commander Peary to head the Republican ticket. Surely they are as much in the public eye as anybody at present.

The nearest North Carolina has come to claiming Dr. Cook, is that one man has been found in this State who was his classmate in college. And that man expresses faith in the doctor's discovery of the North Pole.

1909 appears to be a good year for North Pole discovering.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

You are off one point there, Thad. It was 1908 in which Cook made the dash.

The motto of Greenville, N. C., is "Our Greenville, Yours if You Come." To paraphrase that slightly now that Dr. Cook has reached the goal of his and hundreds of other explorers' ambition and raised the United States flag there, we might say "Our Pole, Yours if You Want It."—Henderson Gold Leaf.

THE CAMERA.

Some of the Wonderful Things of Which It is Capable.

The camera, which divides time into thousandths of a second and records the impressions of each, makes permanent pictures of events which pass too quickly for the dull human retina to recognize. It is only through the camera that the motions of the wings of flying birds and of the legs of swift running animals have been analyzed. To the camera the fuzzy drivers of the swiftly speeding locomotives stand out clear cut and stationary, while each flying drop of rain in the driven storm is distinct and seems frozen in its place. The tarpon fisherman, familiar with the first wild leap of the frenzied fish as it casts hook and bait fifty feet in the air, sees first in the finished picture the outstretched gills, the convulsive opening and closing of which had escaped his eye, however closely he may have looked for it.

Often the eye of the camera will decipher documents of which the writing had been substantially obliterated by age, and I have successfully copied with the camera the utterly faded photograph of a classmate of forty years previous and thereby been enabled to present to a grizzled veteran a likeness of his curly haired youth. Changes in the pigment of the skin undetectable by the eye appear with distinctness on the sensitive plate, and it is said that ample warning of approaching disease has been thereby given.

By means of the invisible rays lying beyond the violet of the spectrum objects may be photographed in the darkness and, with the aid of the so called X rays, through substances otherwise opaque. When from the darkness of night and storm the forked lightning flashes, the camera makes a vivid and permanent picture of each fiery trail. Creatures that travel by night can be "caught" in the brief blaze of a magnesium charged pistol, the flash of which is of too short duration for the creature to move or the dull human eye to recognize the subject.—A. W. Dimock in Van Norden's.

JAPAN A LAND OF COLOR.

Farms of Two or Three Acres Divided into Many Tiny Fields.

Land is so scarce in Japan and the people so numerous that a farm rarely consists of more than an acre or two. These little farms are divided up into tiny fields. During the season of the year in which we made our journey one of these fields was filled with sprouting barley, light green in color; another field, perhaps the next, with vetch, a lavender colored, cloverlike fodder; a neighboring field with a dark green grass from the seed of which a lamp oil is manufactured; another with the pale yellow flowers of the mustard, and scattered here and there fields filled with what looked like a variety of lily, some white, some red, some yellow, but all equally brilliant.

Then to get the complete picture you must imagine patches of flowering azaleas dotting the roadside; towering, round topped camellia trees breaking the sky line with frequent splashes of bright green; usually in the shade of these trees houses with white plastered walls and red tiled roofs; about the more pretentious of these houses white plastered walls, above which appeared a profusion of palms, roses and strange native flowers, and in the doorways of the garden walls kimono clad Japanese girls, the kimonos as many and as gayly colored as the garden that framed them.

I have traveled in but one other country that is so gayly colored, and that was some few years ago, when, in the company of a number of other youngsters and an evil smelling magic lantern, I used to make frequent visits to the Land of Primary Colors.—George MacAdam in Outing Magazine.

Good Kitchen Company.

One housewife in this town doesn't know anything about the servant problem, at least so much of it as has to do with the keeping of a maid of all work, the quality of such service not being counted. This is because her servants always become devoted to her because of her brightness and magnanimous treatment of them. Having only the one servant of doubtful skill and accomplishments, this housewife has to spend a good deal of time in her own kitchen. The other day Julia expressed her appreciation this way: "Miss Fanny, yo' ce'tinly is good kitchen comp'ny."—Louisville Times.

SUMMER IS GONE

And now is a good time to have your summer suit nicely cleaned and pressed, so it can be put away and kept for months. It is time to bring your overcoat and have it cleaned and overhauled for winter, perhaps it needs a new collar or re lining. A little work on it may save buying a new one. I am ready to do this work for you as it ought to be done.

TAMING WASPS.

The Way One Woman Managed to Make Pets of the Insects.

Directly I catch wasps I give them honey from my hand and then place them in a large glass jar and leave them to themselves for several hours. By that time they are generally hungry again, so, uncovering the jar, I put my hand in with some honey on it. As soon as they are comfortably settled on it I withdraw my hand slowly from the jar, so that on flying off after their meal they find themselves in free space. The first things to be explored are the windows, and then, when they have quite satisfied themselves that they cannot get through the glass, they fly about the room, alighting first on this object, then on that, until I catch them and replace them in their home. The easiest way to catch them to begin with is by inclosing them with one's hands as they are flying. Later on they get so accustomed to this that they will dodge about in the cleverest manner and refuse to be caught in this way, but as by that time they are generally sufficiently tamed to be picked up gently between the finger and thumb it does not matter. If they are never fed except from the hand they soon come to know their feeder, and all my wasps when loose in the room would fly on to my hand if they were hungry and refuse to go away from it until fed.

As an example of these creatures' intelligence I would quote the following instance: One wasp that I had for some time and that was exceedingly tame used to be loose in my room constantly, and she was so clever at dodging me when I tried to catch her to put her home that I resorted to the ruse of placing a piece of blue stuff in front of her so that when she unsuspectingly walked on it I could drop both it and her into her home.

After a time she learned this and would on no account get on to the stuff. Suppose she was walking toward the north. Directly I put the stuff in front of her she would wheel around to the south and go off in that direction, but no sooner had I altered the cloth than she was around again to the north. She knew that piece of blue stuff meant home, and so she would have nothing to do with it. This same wasp would often creep down my neck inside my collar and then go to sleep there, and on several occasions I nearly lost her in this way, for I would forget completely about her and on one occasion actually went out of the house before I remembered.

Closes Engagement.

The Todd vaudeville show that has been playing here for a week closes its engagement tonight and leaves tomorrow for Kinston. The show has given our people much amusement during the week. Mr. Todd says Greenville is one of the best towns he has ever visited, and both himself and those with him express much pleasure at their stay here.

Methodist Service.

The members of the Methodist church are earnestly requested to be present at the Sunday morning service.

Disappointed Indeed.

In Jamaica it is the rage among courtiers from England to go butterfly hunting. In a great variety of flannel costumes these subjects of Great Britain go careering about in the fields armed with green nets, to the great amusement of Americans.

Not long ago one of the most ardent of them, after a most exciting chase, bagged an insect. He gazed at it for a moment, then, turning away with a look of the most intense disgust, he addressed the gathering on the hotel veranda with these words: "Oh, I say, 'tis but an immature cricket!"—New York Times.
