EDUCATIONAL MEETING.

Discussion of Several Matters Interesting to Farmers.

There was a large attendance of representative farmers from various sections of the county in attendance upon the farmers' educational meeting held in the court house today.

The meeting was arranged by Congressman John H. Small, was called to order him; J. D. Cox was chosen chairman and D. J. Whichard secretary.

Congressman Small was the first speaker and showed the necessity for such meetings as this, because of the fact that agriculture has not kept pace with other pursuits. There has been much advancement in farming, and if our forefathers of a century, or even a half century, ago were here they would find great changes for the better. But the advancement in agriculture is not what it should have been, and it is to gain better knowledge of our lands, the better handling of crops, things that make farming more profitable, that creates the necessity for the educational meetings necessary. Instead of the boys leaving our farms and going to the towns to seek employment, should be educated to the value and advantage of farming.

The question has been asked, what has a member of congress to do with farmers' educational meetings? If it is a congressman's duty to look after the promotion of rivers and harbors in his district, to look after proper mail routes and facilities, why should he not be interested in looking after farming interests when 75 per cent of the people of his district are engaged in this pursuit? It is the duty of a public servant to be interested in the welfare of all his people.

S. C. Thompson, of the Government Bureau of Animal Industry, spoke on cattle and dairy industries. He emphasized the value of cattle for dairying, which aside from the profit of dairy products helps the farmers in improving his soils and brings advantage to him in many ways. Raising dairy cattle is a highly specialized industry. Such cattle should be selected with care, and no one going into this industry, should be satisfied with the average animals. The best should be had, even if they cost more money, then there should be constant effort to improve the herd. Breeding, feeding and care of animals should not be overlooked, and proper records should be kept of every animal to show the profit from each. It is useless to keep animals that do not yield a profit. To get the best results animals should not be allowed to run at large in the range. Every advantage for this industry to be conducted profitably in North Carolina. It costs less to maintain cattle here than where dairying is made a specialty in the north, while at the same time butter brings about 10 cents a pound more here than the Northern dairyman can get for his. The price of milk, butter milk and cream is also better here than the northern dairyman can get. He carries on his business at a profit, hence it can be carried on here at a much better profit. Mr. Thompson gave figures showing the value and profit of the different product of the dairy. He said this section of Eastern North Carolina is the most favorable for this industry of any with which he is familiar. The next address was by Prof.

GREENVILLE STORAGE HOUSE.

A New Enterprise That Will Prove a Convenience.

On Saturday the Greenville Storage House, W. H. Dail, Jr., proprietor, began business here, and the first day started off with large storage receipts.

Some time last spring Messrs. C. W. Harvey and J. W. Ferrell began the erection of the storage house for this business on the lot between the Liberty warehouse and the Norfolk & Southern railroad, fronting on Pitt street. While the building was in course of erection the enterprise was taken over by Mr. Dail, who carried it on to completion, and the building was finished ready for use last week. It is a single story brick building in two sections, each 55 x 130 feet, and has capacity for storing about 2,000 hogsheads of tobacco.

There has been much demand here for a building of this kind for storing tobacco, and Mr. Dail has supplied this need. The usual storage house charges are made, and the tobacco, after being packed in hogsheads, is kept in store until the owners are ready to ship it. The insurance rates in this building is only 35 cents per $100, so that it costs but little to keep the tobacco on hand, and the storage receipts can be used as collateral by the owner. No doubt Mr. Dail will find his storage house a profitable enterprise as well as a great convenience to tobacco dealers.

C. L. Goodrick, of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, his subject being "Soil Fertility." He referred to some very large yields of corn, oats and cotton per acre, compared these with the small average yield, especially in the South, and said this small average yield was due to a want of proper knowledge of soil fertility. All industries of the farm centers around the plant. The corn farmer has his mind on the ear of corn, and the cotton farmer thinks of the boll, the tobacco farmer thinks of the leaf, and little attention is given to that part of the plant on which its life depends. The plant above ground depends upon its roots, hence the roots should have the first and best attention of the farmer. This comes through proper fertility of the soil to provide the means necessary to the growth of the plant. Disease and insects in the soil, fertilizers and their proper use, rotation of crops, were all mentioned in this connection. Keeping a supply of humus in the soil was given as the most advantageous means of fertility. In the absence of sufficient barnyard manure derived from stock raising, a good means of supplying humus is to plant peas, clover, vetch, etc., to be turned in. Several charts were used in showing values.

This afternoon there were three other addresses. One by Dr. Custice Cooper, of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, on the subject of stock raising and how to find a market for them. J. O. Wright, Supervising Engineer of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, spoke on drainage, and C. R. Hudson, State agent of the Farmers' Cooperation Demonstration, work spoke on seed selections and farm methods.

ELABORATE BANQUET.

Farmville, N. C., Sept. 11.—

The most elaborate social event of the season occurred last evening when the ladies of the Magazine club celebrated their fifth anniversary at the home of their president, Mrs. J. Stanley Smith. The guests assembled at eight-thirty o'clock, and after being served with punch by Miss Anna Morrill and Mr. and Mrs. Smith they were treated to an unusual and brilliant literary program, each member responding to the roll call with quotation in regard to books and club work, which brought much applause from the guests of honor—the gentlemen.

After an address of welcome by the president, the following original papers were read: "Our Club"—Mrs. S. M. Pollard, "Lines to the Club"—Mrs. W. C. Askew, "World's Events as told by Aunt Maria"—Mrs. Watkins.

After the program a delightful contest was enjoyed by all, Mr. W. R. Horne winning the prize, a fine box of cigars, for the best original verse made from the letters contained in the words—"The Ladies Magazine Club." Each gentleman was then given an amusing verse describing one of the club members whom he was to take to supper, which consisted of many courses; covers, being laid for twenty-one. The gentlemen showed their appreciation by the many original and complimentary toasts to the ladies and the club.

The color scheme of white, green and red was carried out in minute detail on the hand painted place cards, and the unique center piece made of beautiful magazine covers, over which was suspended an immense basket of scarlet flowers. The guests departed, during the "we sma" hours, wishing the club a long life.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Beaman, Mr. and Mrs. Horne, Mr. and Mrs. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Lang, Mrs. J. F. Joyner and Roland Lang, Misses Venetia and Anna Morrill, Dr. D. S. Morrill, Mrs. Helen Watkins and Ben Joyner, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Masonic Opera House.

We have showed the Picture, "Washington under the British Flag." Tonight we will show "Washington under the American Flag" This picture is a much finer picture than the first as it shows the battle of Bunker Hill, crossing the Delaware, with a real scene of river, ice and snow, in fact this is one of the finest pictures ever shown here. Together with another picture we have a program that is sure to please all. Bring the children out to see the wonderful historical picture. We open at 8 p. m.

Pictures and Song Free.

A song which is the big hit of Eddie Leonard's vaudeville act will be given with next Sunday's New York World. Eddie Leonard is well known as a minstrel. Then there will be another pretty collection of Stage Beauties in panel photo shape, all ready for passporting and home decoration. Get the Sunday World and you will receive both pictures and song.

The members of the Volunteer Fire Company, having united with Hope Fire Company, will meet at the city hall tonight for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the Volunteer Company and formally disband it.

Peary must have been a Populist, he claims so much.

In this age of discovery, it would be refreshing to discover a dollar now and then.

There is all the difference in the world between the North Pole and the South Pole.

Coming down to its real value, the discovery of the North Pole is not worth as much as a Lincoln penny.

The more Peary and his manager have to say the more disgusting their side of the controversy appears.

The next dash now is to see which one can get to Mars first. Hurry up with your long distance air ships.

The discovery of the pole has not been followed with an announcement of a reduction in the price of seal skin sacks.

We certainly hope Charlotte will not lose that auditorium. Outside of the newspapers it is the best drawing card the city has.

Even before Mr. Harriman was buried, J. P. Morgan was casting longing eyes and reaching for the position he held as the greatest railroad magnate of the world.

They will not be able to point to Hyrriman as a poor bare-footed boy who began with running errands and worked his way up. His parents were rich before him and he inherited wealth, but different from most young legates he made good use of it.

There is too much prowling around people's houses going on around Greenville, and guns are being loaded for use. First thing you know there is going to be business for the doctors, or possibly for the coroner.

Give Them a Chance.

School time is here again and it is the children's opportunity. In this section the schools run from four to nine months, and the boys and girls should have every day possible. They are just as bright as the children of Massachusetts or Ohio. They have as good brains, as good bodies, as good prospects in life—when properly prepared for life's duties. The struggle grows fiercer and the competition more severe. The greater the necessity for better training—better development of the in-born faculties of the children. It is not houses and lands and stocks that make a child rich, but having the desire and the ability to do something and to do it well. The home sacrifice that gives a child an education is a parental gift of love that cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Give them a chance and in so doing you will minister unto the children, unto the world and unto yourself. Give them a chance. Fayetteville Index.

Editors Who Think Alike.

We noticed last week in a certain well known newspaper in this State, a couple of bright, short paragraphs. We decided at once to string them on our file. The next paper we picked up, was a New York exchange and to our surprise found the identical paragraphs in its leading editorial column. Not knowing which of these papers to credit with these two gems, we threw them aside. It's hard to write a good editorial, hard to produce one that is passable, not one in a hundred that contains anything of real value, but hard as it is, to write what is some account, its better to plough with your own heifer. We are not in favor of raising the standard for editors too high. An editor can not afford to be too good, he must either be seen, heard or felt, or else he does not count for much. But he ought not to "cut" the Fourth Commandment twice in the same issue of his paper, whether he lives in New York or in North Carolina.—The State Democrat.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Many a Greenville Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching. With distressing urinary disorders. Daily existence is but a struggle. No need to keep it up. Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. One hundred thousand people endorse this claim.

Here is one case: Mrs. Joseph Fly, Jr., Rose Street Rocky Mount, N. C., says: "I am pleased to testify in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, as the results I obtained from their use proved them to be a remedy of great merit. I suffered considerably from dull, nagging back-aches and sharp pains across my loins. If I stooped, lifted or made a quick movement, the twinges were more noticeable and often it was hard for me to perform my household duties. I always felt tired and languid and was devoid of energy or ambition. Believing that the trouble arose from my kidneys, I started using Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once and further use disposed of the pains in my back, regulated the passages of the kidney secretions and gave me renewed strength. I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

AN IROQUOIS LEGEND.

Fantastic Origin of the Dance of the False Faces.

The Iroquois Indians on their reservations in New York state maintain many of their primitive customs, although they have adopted in general the mode of life of their white neighbors. In their famous "long house" are held various ceremonies propitiatory of the different seasons in the year, and among the most interesting is the dance of the false faces. Its legendary origin is fantastic.

According to the present version, this earth was created by Ha-wen-i-yu before mortal man was made. While this creator was admiring his work a monstrous head with glaring eyes and flowing hair drifted into view.

"What are you doing on my earth?" cried the monster.

"It is not yours, but mine," retorted Ha-wen-i-yu.

"You lie!" was the reply. "I have lived here since the beginning of the world!"

"But I made the world!" cried Ha-wen-i-yu.

"Prove it," said the monster, and to demonstrate his own power he beckoned to a mountain to approach. It moved up and took a position near by.

Now Ha-wen-i-yu asked the monster to turn aside for a moment and at the same instant commanded the mountain to approach so swiftly that it struck the side of the monster's face and twisted the features awry, giving it the expression of a modern false face. At this display of mysterious power the monster acknowledged Ha-wen-i-yu's superiority and begged for his life and that of his people. This was finally granted upon the condition that the false face people should live forever at the ends of the earth, where they would be unseen of men. In return for this permission they would aid mankind in curing the sick upon the proviso that the latter kept their memory sacred.

The Iroquois have a false face society in honor of those mysterious people at the ends of the earth, and every new year they hold a dance for them. Hideous wooden masks are worn by the dancers, who go through intricate evolutions to the beating of a turtle shell rattle. During this ceremony the sick receive the closest attention and are supposed to derive great benefit through the medium of the dance. —Harper's Weekly.

Does Not Play Them Now.

There was once a man who was very fond of playing practical jokes, but stammered very badly. One day he was walking with a friend by the Thames, when they met an Irish sailor with an Indian parrot in a cage.

"W-watch me," said the joker; "I-w-will have some f-fun w-w-with this m-man."

Stopping the sailor, he asked, "M-m-my good m-man, c-can that p-p-p-parrot talk?"

"Well," said the Irish sailor, "if he couldn't talk any better than you can I'd wring his bloomin' neck."

Contraband.

A lady crossing from France to England was asked by the customs officer if she had anything dutiable. She assured him that she had nothing but wearing apparel in her trunks. But at the bottom of the largest one, which to him seemed the most suspicious, were found twelve bottles of brandy.

"Madam," said the officer sarcastically, "do you call these wearing apparel?"

"Certainly," she replied sweetly. "Those are my husband's night-caps." —New York Journal.

Sometimes a man is willing to remain at the foot of the ladder for the purpose of pulling others down.

SUMMER IS GONE

And now is a good time to have your summer suit nicely cleaned and pressed, so it can be put away and kept for months. It is time to bring your overcoat and have it cleaned and overhauled for winter, perhaps it needs a new collar or re lining. A little work on it may save buying a new one. I am ready to do this work for you as it ought to be done.
