FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., Sept. 18, 1909

Most of the merchants are now busy opening their new fall and winter goods that are coming in every day.

The sales at both tobacco warehouses have been very large for the past two weeks. Prices are not as good as the farmers desire, of course, but are better than some of the markets.

There have been some signs of lawlessness in our town recently. The Board of Alderman, for reasons sufficient to themselves, dismissed the former chief of police and secured the service of D. W. Beddard, of Grifton. Some of the friends of the former policeman complained and talked as if they were going to take things in their own hands but they have about "cooled off." There has been considerable drinking and a number of cases tried before the mayor.

Prof. H. H. McLean, superintendent of the graded school, has been here for over a week planning his work. The other teachers are coming and getting ready for the opening of the school Monday morning Sept. 20. Prof. McLean has made a good impression on the people of the town. We welcome him to our town and assure him of our hearty co-operation in his earnest desire to make the school what it should be.

Work has been moving rapidly on the new brick store for Mrs. Fannie L. Joyner. Everett Stroud, of Ayden, is the contractor.

W. R. Fields is building a splendid new shop near the Carolina Tobacco warehouse and will soon be ready for business.

T. L. Turnage is preparing to build a dwelling house just across the street in front of his beautiful home.

The new house opposite the Baptist church to be occupied by the pastor, is near completion. The work has been done very rapidly.

Work on the new Baptist church is a little slow now, but is at a stage that requires time. It is only sixteen days until the time for the house to be completed and the contractor and workmen will have to get a double hustle on them to get it done on time. J. H. Whitehead, the foreman of the work, left yesterday afternoon for Oriental where he is to begin another building. We shall miss his genial smile, the ring of his hammer and the thunder tones of his voice as he shouted instructions to the men at different parts of the building.

Cotton is coming in market every day now. Prices range from 12 to 12½.

L. W. Godwin, the agent at the East Carolina station, has just returned from a week's vacation.

Marion Davis, son of Frank Davis, has been very ill recently, but shows some signs of improvement.

Rev. Jesse McCarter, Baptist pastor, leaves this afternoon for Eagles, where he will be engaged in a meeting for several days.

Already the people are beginning to look forward to the union meeting at the Baptist church here Oct. 29 and 30. Farmville are a kind hospitable people and love to have people share the hospitality of their homes.

My Kingdom For a Drink.

Tomato wine, lemon and other flavoring extracts, and gum drops show that the genius of man is yet great. When the regulation goods can not be had substitutes are resorted to. To what extent the making of stimulants will reach in a few years can not be fore-told. There be those who want liquor but when that cannot be had they are willing to risk health and life for a drink.—Littleton News Reporter.

A hard shower came along this afternoon.

Norfolk and Southern Railway Will Use Union Passenger Station at Raleigh.

It is officially announced by the management of the Norfolk and Southern Railway, effective October 1st, next, that all of its passenger trains will use the union passenger station at Raleigh, N. C., now jointly used by the Seaboard Air Line railway, Southern railway and the and Raleigh Southport railway. This will be a great convenience to the traveling public using the Norfolk and Southern railway to and from Raleigh, by reason of the more central location of the union passenger station, and avoids a transfer between stations across the city by such passengers as have through tickets reading from or to stations on the Norfolk and Southern railway in conjunction with other railway lines via Raleigh. Raleigh is to be congratulated now that all of the railway lines entering that city use one union station.

Twenty Thousand Vets in State.

"How many Confederate veterans are there in North Carolina?" asked an Observer man of General London at the State reunion.

"I am often asked that question," was the reply. "I estimate the number at 20,000. A great many people doubt that there are so many. But there are about 9,000 on the pension rolls. I believe, and I feel sure, that not half of the veterans receive pensions."

"No accurate figures," he continued, in reply to a further interrogation, "are available as to the number of ex-Confederates now extant throughout the country, but since North Carolina furnished one-fifth of the total number of soldiers who fought for the Confederacy and is believed to have now 20,000, it would seem as though 100,000 would be in the neighborhood of a correct estimate."—Charlotte Observer.

Making It Plain.

The following simple and explicit directions are posted up in a hotel on the Nordjord:

"The fire escape! Directions for use. The one end of the rope is to be fixed at the hook in the window frame, the other is to turn out of the window. The plaited snorter, which is fixed at the log of wood, is to be put under your arms, whereupon you may safely let yourself slide down. You may regulate the hurry by keeping the rope under the log. If more persons are to be saved you have to pull up the contrary end of the rope, fix this at the hook and go on so till nobody is left."—London Punch.

Forever Dry.

There is a youngster in college who combines the poetic instinct with a keen sense of humor. He is not a close student. In fact, he regards books as instruments of torture. One of the professors picked up a text book belonging to him the other day and found on the flyleaf this bit of verse, which no doubt expressed the student's opinion of it:

Should there be another flood
For refuge hither fly,
And should the whole world be submerged
This book would still be dry.

—Philadelphia Record.

A Suspicious Silence.

Howard was only twenty months older than the baby. He had somehow come to realize that Elwood, who was creeping, was more likely to be in mischief when quiet. One day he called to his mother with a great deal of anxiety in his little voice, "Mamma, I hear Elwood keeping still."—Dellmeator.

OUR PIANO WAREROOM Now Open.

WITH the exception of two makes which have not reached us yet, the most of the makes which we intend to handle are now on our floor, next to Carr & Atkins Hardware Co.

The grandest display ever shown. In this magnificent group of pianos can be seen, the artistic Lester. This strictly high grade piano is used in the leading Conservatories of the U. S., among them in the New England Conservatory, Boston, largest musical institution in the U. S. The East Carolina Teachers' Training School, Greenville, N. C., has also equipped its music departments with these famous instruments. The renowned Henry and S. G. Lindeman Pianos, this concern is one of the most noted of the pioneers in the piano industry in this country. Of this piano we quote from the music trades:

"Mr. Henry Lindeman is considered to be one of the few really scientific and expert piano makers we have living today. He is also recognized as an expert scale drawer and his reputation for developing the same is second to none in the trade. He stands pre-eminent as a maker of scales of pianos." Six other makes are all standard and legitimate. Among those "the Boudoir pianos" known as the smallest high grade, upright, ever manufactured "Nothing ever like it" A truly artistic little piano and is the artists' favorite of the little pianos. We thus quote the celebrated Madam Emma Calve: "Relative to the Boudoir Piano, which I purchased for my private use last February and used by me in my Trans-Continental Tour. I desire to say that this piano has certainly proved itself to be a little jewel. To state the whole truth, I am enthusiastic over this little piano. It possesses a quality of tone that is sweet and sympathetic, being practically well adapted to accompanying my voice, and a volume that is the equal of, if not surpassing, pianos of usual size. It is truly a wonderful little piano, and I would not dispose of mine for any consideration."

We invite the public to visit our wareroom. Are you considering the purchase of pianos, or have you one in your home on trial? Come and look at ours, and your home will be made happier and your pocket book will remain decidedly in a healthier condition. Terms to suit your convenience. Come and listen to the Lindeman, Lester, Milton and Bjore Bros. Player-pianos. Daily recitals.
