SOMEBODY TO BE MADE HAPPY.

BY GETTING AN ELEGANT CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

The Reflector Will Give Away that Beautiful Baby Upright Piano at Fineman & White's.

This is but a preliminary announcement, just to get you ready, as it were, for what is to follow from day to day in these columns, and it is going to help somebody to be the happiest person in all this section Christmas.

Since the recent opening of the piano salesroom of Fineman & White, everybody who has been there to look at their instruments has "gone crazy" over that beautiful baby upright Boudoir piano. It is the smallest piano made, yet in tone and volume it is the equal of the best regular size instrument. Of that part of it you will be told more later. In the meantime go there and look at it.

The fact that you want to get uppermost in your mind right now is that The Reflector is going to give that piano to somebody for a Christmas present. Who that lucky person is to be remains for the 24th day of December to tell. The paper is going to open a popularity voting contest, and the person—man, woman, boy or girl—who receives the most votes will get the piano. And it will be absolutely free, there being no charge at all for voting.

Now keep a watch on this paper for further announcements and be ready for the contest.

To All People.

Archdeacon Percy C. Webber, of Boston, Mass., a learned and godly man, and one of the great est preachers of this country, will conduct a mission, or series of services, from Oct. 1st to Oct. 7th, at St. Paul's Episcopal church. Every person will be most welcome to any or all services. I take this method of asking all persons in our community to take part in this mission and to help make it as great a blessing as possible to all of our people. Faithfully yours,
B. F. Hüske.

The man who was today painting the "Little Mother" carnival signs on the sidewalks, was just about the right height to do the job without much stooping.

BIG FLAW IN REVENUE ACT.

Test Case May be Carried to the Supreme Court From Wilmington.

Wilmington, Sept. 23.—What is regarded by many as a very important error in the revenue and machinery act as affecting the State prohibition law insofar as it pertains to the sale of malt liquors, though regarded as wholly irrelevant by many others, has just been announced by several attorneys here who have been looking the question up.

For several days it has been rumored on the streets that a very serious defect or rather conflict in the law had been discovered, the effect of which is that dealers may sell all the malt liquors they please just so such beverages analyze above one-half of one per cent. of alcohol, the mistake having occurred in Section No. 63 of the revenue and machinery act passed at the legislative session of 1909 and, therefore, superseding the prohibition act of 1908, the error having occurred in providing a tax on beverages analyzing one-half of one per cent. "or more" when "or less" was clearly meant.

Section No. 63 under the sub-head of "grain distilleries" provides that "No license shall be issued to any grain or brandy distillery or to any person, firm or corporation desiring to engage in the manufacturing of any spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors, the sale of which is prohibited by chapter 71, public laws, special session of 1908."

Tacked on to this section is the following: "Every individual firm or corporation dealing in malt or beerine, near-beer or any drink, under any name or description whatsoever, containing one-half of one per cent. alcohol or more shall pay an annual license tax of $20." It was clearly the intent of the law that such a tax should apply to dealers in near-beer and other and such non-alcoholic drinks of less than one-half of one per cent. and some lawyers take the position that the law after all would be construed in court solely as to its intent, but nevertheless there is an interesting question and it is believed that a test case will be carried up to the Supreme court from this city at no distant date. Even should the section of the revenue and machinery act be declared as vitiating the section of the prohibition law, however, it is pointed out that the legislature could either be called together to remedy the defect in the State, or so far as Wilmington is concerned the board of aldermen could pass an ordinance requiring a very high license that would tend to minimize the evil that would result from a liberal construction of the act of the 1909 session.

It is understood that Hon. John D. Bellamy several weeks ago advised a number of his clients among the near-beer dealers here that under the subsequent act of the legislature they have a right to sell malt beverages of any kind, just so it contains more than half of one per cent. alcohol, but other attorneys of equal learning and ability contend that such is not the case.

Developments will be watched with interest at any rate. It is expected that the technicality will be raised in some of the cases to be tried at next week's term of the Superior court, in which event the point will be passed right up to the higher court. In the meantime, it is

WILL WED IN DECEMBER.

Scotland Neck Groom and Greenville Bride.

On Friday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock Mrs. Robert J. Cobb entertained a number of friends at a card party. The interest in the occasion was increased near the close by Mrs. Cobb making the announcement, which took the guests by surprise, of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Irma Lea Cobb, to Mr. William Albion Dunn, of Scotland Neck, to take place in December.

Mrs. Cobb, assisted by her second daughter, Miss Lucille, received the arriving guests at the front door and directed them down the hall where underneath draped crimson portieres Misses Irma Cobb and Nell Skinner, two December brides-elect, served punch.

The game of the evening was six-hand euchre, there being eight tables of players.

The guest of honor prize, a set of pearl pins, was awarded to Mrs. C. L. McDowell, of Scotland Neck. The first prize, a book "Sweethearts" was won by Miss Lizzie Jones and the second prize, a dainty piece of china, by Mrs. J. A. Ricks.

At the conclusion of the game a salad course was served. Heart shaped mats and doilies decorated with hearts and cupids were placed upon the tables, being in keeping with the general color scheme of red and white, the hall having the additional decorations of ferns and potted plants.

The cream, served as the last course, was in red and white cupids, and on each plate was a plateau mounted with a red heart at which Cupid was shooting an arrow. Within the heart was a tiny card bearing this announcement:

Dunn-Cobb,
December

Nineteen hundred and nine. The loving cup was then borne in. After a toast by the hostess it was passed to the guests, each drinking and giving a toast of good wishes to the bride-elect.

The announcement of this approaching marriage will be received with much interest not only in Greenville and Scotland Neck, but throughout the State, as both the parties are well known. The bride-elect is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cobb and a social favorite. Mr. Dunn is a prominent banker of Scotland Neck.

Successful Meeting.

Rev. D. W. Arnold has been holding a meeting at Macedonia, near Williamston, the past week. It has been a very successful meeting with about thirty additions to the church. Mr. Arnold, with his wife, will return home this evening and fill his appointments in the Christian church tomorrow.

ALMOST A COLLISION.

Automobile and Train Came Near Meeting at Crossing.

Friday evening there came close to being a serious collision at the street crossing near the A. C. L. depot. The passenger train was coming in late, and at the same time Mr. C. R. Townsend was returning from out the sand-clay road in his automobile. As he came near enough the crossing to get a view of the railroad track he saw the train coming, both about the same distance from the crossing. To put brakes on the automobile was the work of a second, but going at good speed and down grade it was seen that the car could not be stopped short of striking the train. By presence of mind Mr. Townsend whirled the front wheels of his car, which slid the rear wheels around after them just in time to avoid a disaster.

A WEEK OF AMUSEMENT.

Barkoot Carnival Will Open Monday Night.

Beginning Monday night, 27th, Greenville is to have a solid week of amusement. Barkoot's Carnival will pitch its numerous tents on the Williams lot on Co-tanch street, between Fourth and Fifth, and gathered there will be all the fun you are looking for. Everything connected with this carnival is new and up-to-date, and there will be many interesting features, with something going on all the time from 2 o'clock p. m. until midnight.

Besides the different tented shows to which a small admission fee will be charged, there will be numerous free attractions and band concerts daily. Wherever the Barkoot carnival has been it is pronounced the best on the road.

Come to Greenville and enjoy the fun.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Selma, N. C., Sept. 24.—Will Bower a negro employee of the Selma Lumber Company plant, shot and seriously wounded Chief of Police J. W. Griffin tonight. Someone telephoned that the negroes at the plant were fighting, shooting and raising a general rough house. Chief Griffin, accompanied by Policeman Smith, answered the call. When they arrived at the mill, the negroes had stopped shooting. A search was begun for the offenders. When Bowers was discovered in the woods nearby and halted by the chief, he only stopped to aim a double-barrel shot gun and fired. Fourteen shot took effect in the chief's side, several in the right hand and arm and two in the head.

Fine Record.

For the week ending Friday, 24th, F. D. Foxhall, at the Star warehouse branch of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co. sold 252,076 pounds of tobacco for $25,050.05, an average of $9.94 per hundred on the entire week's sales.

GREED?

George L. Phillips, an Ohio judge, still in the vigor of middle age, announces his intention to retire from the bench and not to renew the practice of law. He says that "when a man has enough to live on with a reasonable amount of comfort he ought to retire at an age when he still has some manly vigor left with which to enjoy life." Because he has enough of worldly goods to permit him to carry out his idea is the reason he assigns for retirement from the bench and the practice of his profession.

Many persons will commend Judge Phillips' course, but how few of them, similarly situated, will follow his example; and how those men who applaud his course would denounce any political party or body of reformers which would advocate the doctrine that all persons after attaining to a certain competency should retire from official life. Yet isn't there much of the true philosophy of life in this abstract proposition? Wouldn't it solve some of the difficult problems of political and social economy? Would it not tend to equalize wealth and to give opportunity for advancement in official life and in the professions to a much larger number of persons? But man's thirst for wealth and greed for office makes discussion of the proposition as a practical one perfectly useless. The advocates of such a measure would be classed as the enemies of man's rights, both natural and guaranteed by the government under which we live.—Charlotte Observer.

Evidently the Observer thinks man is put here merely to earn his living and not to be of service to the world and his fellow-man, who may be less fortunate than he. That is real greed—the source of all our social ills—in its highest form. Man is put here for something greater than simply acquiring so much of the filthy lucre. He is put here to serve God in His infinite plan. Every one has an active place to fill and should be at his post to the end of the time allotted to him, always working for the highest good to his neighbor. "When a man has enough to live on" and retires from the active life for which he is qualified, to "enjoy life," who is he serving? He is serving his own selfish desires—a sin.

Joy comes through doing thoroughly and honestly whatever work it is ours to do for the world and not through retiring from active life. If one has acquired more than he needs through service, he should help those less fortunate to better lives, but never quit because he "has enough to live on," whether he be old or young. An inactive man, rich or poor, is worthless. We make money and its luxuries too much the sole object in life. Success should be measured by a higher and nobler standard, and "retiring" should be obsolete. There is work for all.

Something must have gone wrong in Republican circles around Greensboro, as some of them have gone to resigning offices. When one of them got hold we did not know he ever turned loose until prized off.

It is getting time of year now to remind you to be careful to look after chimneys and stove flues that have been out of use during the months when fires were not needed.

Now they say that bacteria have been found in eggs. Possibly the high price has something to do with this discovery.

Wonder if those folks who thought the world was coming to an end yesterday feel very much alive today.

Those who come forward to predict the kind of winter we will have are beginning to see signs.

Mr. N. Glenn Williams, of Yadkin county, is said to be the largest grower of alfalfa in the State. He has one hundred and thirty-five acres in this forage crop, says The Winston Sentinel, which will average four tons of hay to the acre, and he can sell all he makes at $20 a ton. That is a money making crop. It beats cotton and tobacco. It is a great pity more farmers in this State do not grow this splendid feed crop. Even those who do not wish to make the hay for sale would find just a small field of it very profitable whether for feeding green or for curing.—Charlotte Observer.

Freight Rates Too High.

Are freight discriminations always to continue? The Charlotte News says: "The business men are becoming more deeply aroused on the subject of freight rates. Against the iniquitous system now in effect, protest is strong. Let those in authority to render service do their duty."—News and Observer.

A TELEGRAPH JOKER.

He Knew What the Crowd Wanted and Delivered the Goods.

ELECTION RETURNS TO SUIT.

Swung States and National Chairmen Into Line in His Reports and Gave the Boys of the Mining Camp the Time of Their Lives.

A funny incident happened on the night of the national election of 1896 in a little camp tucked away in the mountains of southwestern Colorado, where the only means of quick communication with the world were a single uncertain telegraph wire and a single more uncertain telegraph operator. Naturally only the merest scraps of election news reached the camp, but before the certain news of McKinley's election could have been got the uncertain operator had fallen a victim to his favorite vice and, further, had fallen beneath the table.

The only other person who knew anything about telegraphy was "Shorty," the local wit and humorist, who volunteered to write out the election returns as they came off from the telegraph instrument. Political sentiment was afloat for Bryan. News of his election was not only sought, but demanded, for the average American miner is as sanguine concerning the uncertainties of politics as he is concerning the uncertainties of mining. The volunteer telegrapher was noted for an obliging disposition. He was the "genial" of the camp.

The "boys" had placed stores of giant powder at various points. They had cleaned and oiled their six shooters and refilled their cartridge belts. Bonfires were ready to be lighted on the hillsides, and natural enthusiasm had been stimulated at the Metropole, the Cosmopolitan, the Fashion, the Trocadero and less pretentiously named oases in the desert of mining camp existence—in fact, every preliminary to the grandest celebration the San Juan country ever had known.

Shorty was not the man to neglect an opportunity like that. The first bulletin he handed to the waiting crowd stated that New York and Indiana were in doubt and it looked like a close election, with the chances favoring Bryan. That whetted the crowd's keen appetite for returns to razor edge. The second bulletin sent their spirits up with a leap. "Bryan has carried Kansas, and the Democrats are claiming Iowa."

"Whoopie!" from the crowd. Shorty bent his ear to the clicking sounder and inscribed "Bulletin No. 3—Illinois joins the Bryan column with 50,000 majority. Indiana certain, New York very close."

When the deafening chorus had died down a young member of the party asked the leader. "Hadn't we better begin to set off the giant?"

Before the leader could answer Shorty reproved him by word and look. "Don't go off half cocked," he said. "It's always best to wait until you are sure. You can't be too conservative in a case like this."

After a long pause, in which the crowd displayed much impatience, the imperturbable and conservative Shorty transcribed bulletin No. 4, but before passing it out he said:

"Now, boys, don't do anything rash. Wait for the actual returns." Bulletin No. 4 read, "Senator Jones claims Ohio and Pennsylvania for Bryan."

Under ordinary circumstances a doubt might have been expressed concerning the probability of such states reversing their political records, but the crowd was convinced of an impending landslide for their favorite and yelled with delight. "Now we are beginning to get the news," remarked Shorty when the cheering ceased, and he began to write bulletin No. 5 as follows:

"New York gives Bryan 100,000 plurality; Indiana, 40,000. Returns from Wisconsin and Minnesota indicate large Democratic gains."

The crowd heard only the first sentence. Shouting, cheering, yelling, screaming, it broke for the street.

"Hold on!" called Shorty. "Here's another."

Bulletin No. 6, "Quay concedes Pennsylvania to Bryan."

Another fragment broke from the crowd and ran down the street shouting the news. The new operator's pencil was traveling rapidly over the paper, while his friends and fellow citizens crowded closely upon him and read as he wrote bulletin No. 7. "Mark Hanna has locked up Republican headquarters and gone home."

The roar of the crowd was drowned by the roar of exploding giant powder. Buildings shook, windows rattled, accompanied by the crash of broken glass. The celebration was on, and Shorty McIntyre was alone.

The celebration lasted for two days. The morning after election the regular operator had recovered sufficiently to transcribe messages announcing McKinley's victory. Those who were sober enough to understand them didn't believe them. After several warnings of what would happen to him if he didn't quit "trying to fool people" the operator desisted and joined in the general jubilation. Not until the arrival of the Denver papers on the second day did that camp awake to a realization of the outcome of the election, and then there was not sufficient energy left to vent even indignation upon Shorty, much less to take revenge. On the third day the volunteer operator was more popular than ever, for all admitted he had given them the time of their lives.—New York Post.

CARNIVAL!

CATARACT OF THE EYE.

It May Be Prevented by the Judicious Use of Glasses.

Among the diseases which are believed to belong peculiarly and of right to old age cataract is perhaps the most frequent. It is true there are cases of cataract in young children, and one may even be born blind, the absence of sight being due to nontransparency of the crystalline lens, but nine-tenths at least of the sufferers from this affection are past sixty years of age, and most of these have exceeded the limit of threescore and ten.

A cataract is an opaque condition of the crystalline lens, the body lying just behind the pupil. The opacity may exist in the body of the lens itself, or it may form a layer on its surface just beneath the capsule inclosing it. The cause of cataract is variously stated, but most authorities are agreed in regarding the opacity as a result of the vain efforts of the lens to change its shape in order to focus the rays of light exactly at the retina and so secure distinct vision. In youth this can be done readily by the little muscles within the eyeballs, but as the years go on the lens gets harder and less readily changes its shape, and soon after forty it is so hard that perfect accommodation, as this change of shape is called, is impossible.

That is the time for glasses, if astigmatism has not made them imperative before that. Many persons seem to be ashamed of glasses, thinking that the taking to them is a confession of age. So it is, perhaps, but the scowling and the drawing up of the features, which cannot be helped if glasses are refused, are a confession much more definite than the wearing of glasses.

Even more important, the putting on of glasses as soon as the slightest indistinctness of vision is perceived is an almost certain preventive of cataract. The pulling and hauling and tugging at the hardening lens which the eye muscles must do in order to change its shape for the varying needs of near and far sight irritate the lens and induce a low state of inflammation, which results in cataract.

When cataract is once established there is nothing for the sufferer to do but wait patiently for the so called "ripening" of the process, when an operation will procure relief.—Youth's Companion.

Caesar's.

Some of the conspirators were frightened by what they had done. Not so the great souled Brutus, however.

"We have rendered unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's!" declared the noblest Roman of them all, wiping his dagger upon his toga.

And, sure enough, when the ambulance arrived the surgeon's first words were to the effect that the dictator had got his.—Puck.

SIMON BOLIVAR.

Stormy Career of the Man For Whom Bolivia is Named.

Bolivia, the South American country, gets its name from Simon Bolivar. The land has had as stormy a history as did the liberator who assisted in making it a republic in 1825. Bolivar had been writing his name large in South American history for a long time before that date, however, earning for himself the title of the "Washington of South America." Simon Bolivar was born in Caracas, Venezuela, in 1783 of a noble and wealthy family. He studied law in Spain, traveled much in Europe, married and returned to his native country. In 1809 he visited the United States on his return from another journey to Europe. It was at this time that he became an enthusiastic admirer of republics and made up his mind to free Venezuela from Spanish despotism. From that time on war was his portion.

In 1813 he entered Caracas as conqueror, was hailed as the liberator of his country by the people and made absolute dictator in civil and military affairs. He met with reverses, however, at the hands of the Spaniards, and it was during a period of defeat on the continent that he convoked a congress in Haiti, instituted a government and abolished slavery there. That was in 1816. Thereafter he was successful against the Spaniards in South America, and in 1819 at Angostura, Venezuela, he was chosen president with the power of dictator. When New Granada united with Venezuela he was made the first president. By 1822 the new republic was completely cleared of royalist troops.

Bolivar was summoned the same year to help the Peruvians and in 1824 was named dictator of Peru. By 1825 the Spaniards were driven out of Peru also, and Bolivar, calling a congress at Lima, formally resigned the dictatorship. Soon after that the southern part of Peru was erected into a separate state and named Bolivia, and he could have been dictator for life. However, troubles in Colombia kept him busy. Venezuela broke away from the rest of Colombia in 1829. Bolivar was denounced for his ambition, and he was virtually forced to retire to Cartagena. He died in 1830.—Chicago News.

Queer Courting.

All the courting is done by the women of Ukraine, Russia. When a girl falls in love with a man she goes to his house and tells him the state of her feelings. If her affections are reciprocated a marriage is arranged. If, however, Barkis is not willin' she remains in the house, hoping to coax him into regarding her suit with favor. The poor fellow cannot treat her with discourtesy or turn her out, for her friends would be sure to avenge the insult. If he is really determined that he won't have her his best plan is to leave his home and stay away as long as she remains in it. Thus a man may be turned out of house and home.

Statue of Liberty.

The statue of Liberty in New York bay is of copper sheets about one-tenth of an inch in thickness. The total weight is about 440,000 pounds, of which about 176,000 are copper and 264,000 iron, and cost a million francs ($200,000). The height of the statue itself from the heel to the top of the head is 110 feet, and from the base to the top of the torch is 150 feet. In regard to the preservation of the work perhaps the words of M. Bartholdi himself are in order: "Since all the elements of its construction are everywhere visible on the inside in all their details it will easily be kept in good condition."

Had All the Others.

"Were you ever in love?" asked the sweet young thing.
 "No," replied the bachelor, "but you can't mention any other fashionable disease that I haven't had."—Detroit Free Press.

Shoemaker's Candles.

I well remember some seventy years ago seeing flat candles in use. To produce what was known as the flat candle, which was also sometimes called "shoemaker's candle," two newly made "dips" were pressed close to each other while soft and then again lowered into the hot fat, thus holding them together as one candle with two wicks. The size could then be increased if desired. This flat candle was most generally used by shoemakers and tailors, but was made use of in some households whenever an extra bright light for working or reading was required.—Cor. Dickensian.

THE GREATEST SPECTACLE THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN

Hudson-Fulton Celebration—Excursion Rate of $18.15 Via. A. C. L. to New York and return

This historic celebration will take place from Saturday, September 25th, to Saturday, October 9th. The principal events during the first eight days will occur in greater New York and in the Hudson River opposite the city. The following week the celebration will continue at the Hudson River cities and villages from New York to Troy.

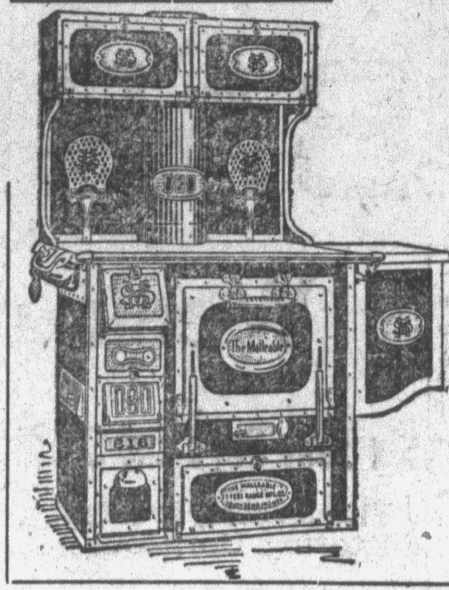

This event, commemorating the 500th Anniversary of the navigation of the Hudson River by Hendrick Hudson and the 102nd anniversary of the operation of the first steam boat by Robert Fulton, will present a spectacle on land and water, parades and illumination SUCH AS THE WORLD HAS NEVER WITNESSED.

All the great navies of the world will be abundantly represented, which with other craft, including replicas of the historic "Halfmoon" and "Clermont" will go to make up a water parade of a thousand or more vessels, and on land there will be gorgeous spectacles in floats, parades, reviews, exhibitions, decorations and a thousand and one object lessons in our 300 years progress.

Every day will be a picture of a veritable fairyland and millions of electric lights of all colors and sizes will fairly turn night into day.

For this occasion the ATLANTIC COAST LINE will sell on September 23rd to 30th, inclusive, round trip tickets to New York at the low rate of $18.15 from Greenville. The tickets will be limited returning to leave New York any time up to and including October 10th. Mr. W. H. Ward, the ticket agent, will be pleased to answer inquiries regarding schedules and make reservations and this matter should be attended to at once by those desiring to take the trip. 9 30

MISMATED.

Unhappy Marriage the Lot of Many Famous Men.

"No sun warmed my rooftop; the marriage was a blunder; she was nine years my senior." Seldom did the last of the great Victorian novelists, George Meredith, refer to his first marriage, in 1849, with Mary Ellen Nicholls, widow of Lieutenant Nicholls and daughter of Thomas Love Peacock, writes an English paper. But on one occasion he broke the silence concerning that unhappy episode in his life with the foregoing pathetic words. It is some satisfaction to know that when the first Mrs. Meredith died, in 1860, this great writer enjoyed some twenty years of much happier domestic life with Miss Vullian, a lady of French descent, whom he married in 1864 and who died in 1885.

Several other men of genius contemporary with George Meredith had reason to regret the matrimonial yoke. John Ruskin, for instance, after falling in love as a boy with a beautiful French girl whom he wooed with poems, romances, dramas and mute worship, receiving nothing in reply but chilly indifference and lively ridicule, married at the age of twenty-nine a lady of great beauty, Euphemia C. Gray, of a family long intimate with the Ruskins. The marriage, we are told, was arranged by the parents of the couple, was a somewhat hurried act and brought no happiness to either. Ruskin was immersed in his studies and projects, while his wife was devoted to society, and six years after the marriage she left him, obtained a nullification under Scotch law and ultimately became the wife of John Everett Millais.

Then there was George Frederick Watts, the famous Royal academician, who, when he was forty years of age, married Miss Ellen Terry, who was not then out of her teens. As might have been anticipated, the union of two such artists, only one of whom was permitted to pursue his art, was tempting disaster, and after a short time the marriage was dissolved. Subsequently Watts married a Scotch lady, with whom he lived for years in great happiness.

Tragic in the extreme was the marriage of Carlyle to Jane Welsh, whose heart had been given to Edward Irving, but the gifted orator was engaged to a Miss Martin and was held to his vow. The absence of love coupled with the bad temper and irritability of the famous historian led to much unhappiness both for himself and his wife, who confessed that the years were to her the "bitterness of death."

Most of us have read of the unfortunate union of Lord Byron to Miss Milbanke, the only daughter and heiress of Sir Ralph Milbanke, a wealthy baronet, and how after the birth of a child Lady Byron went to her father and refused to return to her husband. Subsequently a formal deed of separation was signed. Then there was Shelley, who married the sister of a school fellow without being really in love. He separated from his wife and ultimately married a second time after his first wife had committed suicide by drowning herself in the Serpentine in Hyde park.

In the annals of literature, however, it would be difficult to find even in fiction a more amazing example of enmity between husband and wife than that which existed between Lord Lytton and Rosina Wheeler, a beautiful Irish girl, whom he married in 1827 despite the protests of his mother. It was a most unhappy marriage, and even after the separation, in 1836, they referred to one another in the most embittered tones.—New York Mail.

Obeying the Autocrat.

That fine old New Englander, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, laid down the rule that the law of the road entitles a man to two looks at every pretty woman. This fair and proper limit provokes no complaint in Kansas City, and it is not commonly exceeded, though we would have to go far afield to find a locality with more women worth looking at than are seen on the streets of Kansas City every day.

OUR PIANO WAREROOM Now Open.

WITH the exception of two makes which have not reached us yet; the most of the makes which we intend to handle are now on our floor, next to Carr & Atkins Hardware Co. The grandest display ever shown. In this magnificent group of pianos can be seen, the artistic Lester. This strictly high grade piano is used in the leading Conservatories of the U. S., among them in the New England Conservatory, Boston, largest musical institution in the U. S. The East Carolina Teachers' Training School, Greenville, N. C., has also equipped its music departments with these famous instruments. The renowned Henry and S. G. Lindeman Pianos, this concern is one of the most noted of the pioneers in the piano industry in this country. Of this piano we quote from the music trades:

"Mr. Henry Lindeman is considered to be one of the few really scientific and expert piano makers we have living today. He is also recognized as an expert scale drawer and his reputation for developing the same is second to none in the trade. He stands pre-eminent as a maker of scales of pianos." Six other makes are all standard and legitimate. Among those "the Boudoir pianos" known as the smallest high grade, upright, ever manufactured "Nothing ever like it" A truly artistic little piano and is the artists' favorite of the little pianos. We thus quote the celebrated Madam Emma Calve: "Relative to the Boudoir Piano, which I purchased for my private use last February and used by me in my Trans-Continental Tour. I desire to say that this piano has certainly proved itself to be a little jewel. To state the whole truth, I am enthusiastic over this little piano. It possesses a quality of tone that is sweet and sympathetic, being practically well adapted to accompanying my voice, and a volume that is the equal of, if not surpassing, pianos of usual size. It is truly a wonderful little piano, and I would not dispose of mine for any consideration."

We invite the public to visit our wareroom. Are you considering the purchase of pianos, or have you one in your home on trial? Come and look at ours, and your home will be made happier and your pocket book will remain decidedly in a healthier condition. Terms to suit your convenience. Come and listen to the Lindeman, Lester, Milton and Bjure Bros. Player-pianos. Daily recitals.

BURGLARS' TOOLS.

Most of Them Made by Supposedly Respectable Mechanics.

Every little while, said a detective recently, the police arrest a man with a set of burglar's tools in his possession, and one naturally wonders where they all come from.

It is easy to buy a gun of any description, and the most reputable person would not be ashamed to be seen purchasing the most wicked looking knife ever made. But who would know where to get a "Jimmy" or a device for drilling into a safe or any of the many tools used by the professional burglar in the pursuit of his calling?

There are places in the large cities where these things are made and sold to the users, but such places are exceedingly scarce. It may seem a little strange to learn that most of the tools used in burglaries are made by mechanics who are looked upon as respectable men in the community.

When a burglar wants any particular tool made he goes to a mechanic who can do the job and pays him perhaps five times what it is actually worth for making the tool and keeping quiet about it. Many detectives can recall cases of this kind that have come to light.

One in particular occurred some years ago when an escaped convict named Williams went to a blacksmith and got him to make a lot of drills to be used in safe cracking. He personally superintended the tempering of the steel, but when the job was nearly completed it leaked out, and Williams was arrested. In this instance the blacksmith knew nothing of the use to which the tools were to be put. Most of the tools used by burglars are secured in the same way.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Shufer" Flanagan says that he lost five pounds of dust while he was coming down the sand-clay the other night at 173 miles per hour—but that Hart Schaffner Marx suit stuck to him like Dick's hat band. They continue to stick to those who wear them. "Shufer."

The Mean Thing.
"Why are you mad at her?"
"I met her on the car today, and she said, 'Oh, let me pay your fare!' and I said, 'Oh, you mustn't' and she didn't."

CENTRAL MERCANTILE COMPANY

J. F. DAVENPORT, Manager.

Millinery Buyer Gone North

Our milliner is now visiting the Northern markets, where she will purchase the most stylish headgear for our millinery department that Paris and other leading cities can make. She will assure you that when you have seen the styles that will be on display at our opening, and watching the leading style books, you will admit that she has the latest styles of the season. Mrs. James, Higgs, and Cowell, will be glad to show the ladies these beautiful hats at our opening.
