BARKOOT'S CARNIVAL.

Starts Under Difficulties But Goes Just the Same.

The Barkoot Amusement Company that is conducting a carnival here this week, met with many difficulties the first day but managed to pull over them. Hauling the paraphernalia down from the A. C. L. depot and pitching the many tents and booths on the Williams lot had to be done in a cold disagreeable rain, and the men having to work under such disadvantage naturally made slow progress. Still when night came many of the tents were ready to begin business.

Then a further handicap arose when it developed that the town was not able to fill its part of the contract by providing lights for the grounds and tents. As the electric light plant is heavily loaded with the current it has to regularly carry, adding the lights necessary for the carnival was not considered, so the plan was to place a smaller dynamo at the Higson mill, near the carnival, and furnish the lights from that point. This might have been all right if it had been gone about in time, but being put off until the last day it was found that from something being wrong the dynamo could not be made to work. This caused much disappointment.

The carnival people had along some tent oil burners, and enough of these were brought out for one of the shows and some of the booths to run. A large crowd of people went down, and these having to crowd in and around the few places open made too much of a jam for seeing anything to advantage.

The one show that was open Monday night the was four-in-one museum. This proved quite an attraction and did a big business. In this is a monkey family, tremendous snakes, animals and "Rose" the wild girl. In the same enclosure with the latter were several snakes which she played with, now and then pulling or biting off the head of one as it took her fancy.

The electricians think they have discovered the trouble with the dynamo that was tried last night, and expect to have it in good working order in time for lights tonight. In the event they do not have electric lights, the carnival people will use their own lights and have everything going.

All the attractions have been made ready. Beside the one already mentioned there are nine others—the ferris wheel, the merry-go-round, "Dolletta" the little mother, crazy house, Salsome dance (no coochee), old plantation, Jesse James, Life of Christ and the penny arcade. Then there are numerous concessions, and several free attractions.

Twice a day Mat Gay, at 4:30 and 10:30 p. m. will dive from a tower 102 feet high into a tank containing 4 feet of water, turning a backward somersault in his descent.

Phoenix Bros. will give aerial acts twice a day.

A band of twelve pieces with Angelo Mummolo director, will give concerts about the grounds and in the different tents.

The band came up this afternoon and gave The Reflector a serenade. They are skilled musicians, having won several prizes in competition with other Royal Italian bands. Every member of the band is now

METHODIST BARACA CLASS.

Elects Officers for Next Six Months' Term.

The attendance at the Methodist Baraca class has taken a slump for the past month, but it is hoped that with more agreeable weather a new vigor will be demonstrated and once more the class room will undergo a "full house." During the month of September the total number attending was 149, an average of 37 each Sunday. The collection was $6 80.

Last Sunday ending the regular six month's term, the following officers were elected for the ensuing half year: Teacher, Rev. J. H. Shore; president, S. T. Hooker; vice president, Frank Wilson; secretary, Guy Lanier; assistant, Chas. Haskett; treasurer, A. C. Holloman; press reporter, Chas. Haskett.

A hustlers committee was appointed by the president to see all the absent members and urge them to attend the rally day service October 3rd.

Mr. Shore, who has been not only the organizer and spirit of the Baraca class, but also instrumental in developing the entire school, was re-elected teacher because of his ability to so entertainingly hold the class together. We recognize that it is a strain on him; and in no wise do we discount his creditable services laboring under this imposition. In his talks to the class he does not unfold landscapes and gather flowers to toss to his hearers, but in the simple way that makes him interesting, he seeks after the truth of things and delivers it in a manner that carries conviction. He is possessed also with the power to ascertain the different phases of any subject. This he utilizes to the effect that his hearers become thoroughly enlightened on verses of Scripture, which they could not understand. We are indeed fortunate in having a pastor and teacher of his calibre.

Mr. Hooker made a short talk expressing his appreciation for the honor tendered him during the past but hoped that they would see fit to make a change. But the class is too well impressed with him as a leader to make a change. Consequently he was re-elected.

Next Sunday begins a new month. Let every member be present. Surely you can arise by Sunday school time one day out of seven to pay reverence to Him who guards your slumbers.

Smallest Mother in the World.

"Dolletta" the little woman at the carnival, is the smallest mother in the world. She is 27 years of age, 28 inches high and weighs 37 pounds. Her child, now 3 years and 8 months old, is nearly as tall as the mother. Her husband is 42 inches high and weighs 98 pounds. They are a bunch of little people.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will meet with Mrs. D. W. Arnold Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All friends of the society invited to meet with them.

wearing a Greenville slogan button.

K. G. Barkoot is proprietor of the carnival and has brought together quite an aggregation. He has strong press testimonials and personal recommendations from all parts of the country.

Paper Hanging and Decorating.

Nice line of new wall papers at Browne's show room, in triangle building on Dickinson avenue. This is the time of year to have your rooms decorated and walls papered. Will keep out cold and preserve the plaster. Call and look over stock and let me estimate on your work. Prices reasonable and work guaranteed. I do my own work. Those contemplating having work done should see me as far ahead as possible to insure promptness. Wells Browne. 9 28

Range Demonstration.

The Malleable range demonstration at the store of Carr & Atkins Hardware Co. this week, is attracting considerable interest and many people are calling at the store. An expert demonstrator is here to show and explain the good qualities of the Malleable. It is a good range.

THE BOUDOIR PIANO.

That Will Be Given Away By The Reflector.

Anyone interested in The Reflector popularity contest can go to the music room of Fineman & White and see the beautiful baby upright Boudoir piano which this paper will give away on Christmas eve. The piano is labeled, and those gentlemen will take pleasure in showing it to you and explaining its merits. While smaller in size than the ordinary piano, it is a perfect instrument, in tone and volume ranking with the best made.

Madame Emma Calve, one of the world's noted singers, carries one of these pianos on her concert tours, and calls it "a little jewel." She says further: "To state the whole truth, I am enthusiastic over this little piano."

I would not dispose of mine for any consideration. It possesses a quality of tone that is unusually sweet and sympathetic, being particularly well adapted to accompanying my voice, and a volume that is the equal of, if not surpassing, pianos of usual size."

The prize is worth working for, and you can win it by bringing in more subscriptions to The Reflector and getting more votes than any one else. Contest open to all. Get to work at once.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 25.—A special term of the Superior court, beginning October 25th, has been called by the governor, whereat F. C. Watkins, constable of Black Mountain township, will be tried for the killing of John H. Bunting, a traveling salesman of Wilmington, and the wounding of Paul Cameron Collins cashier of the Bank of Hillsboro, on August 7th while they were guests at a Black Mountain hotel. Watkins maintains that he shot in self-defense being called in to quell a disturbance by the men.

GRIMESLAND ITEMS.

Grimesland N. C. Sept. 28, 1909.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Moore returned from Norfolk and Baltimore last week.

M. Levy, of Richmond, was with us a short time Friday.

R. A. Fleming, of Ayden, spent Saturday and Sunday here.

O. J. Galloway and Frank Taylor went to Norfolk last Wednesday on the excursion.

Rev. J. R. Tingle, of Ayden, filled his regular appointment in the Disciple church here Sunday.

Hon. J. J. Laughinghouse, superintendent at State prison, was in our midst a short time last week.

Miss Lucy Galloway, from near Galloway X Roads, was visiting Mrs. J. P. Wilson Sunday.

Ed. Matthews, of Washington, was up to see us today. We are always glad to see the old boy. Grimesland came very near having to suffer from a fire this morning when M. M. Smith's house caught on fire, but with the aid of the good citizens and others succeeded in extinguishing the flames before very much damage was done.

The Doctors.

Doctors and newspapers do more charity work than all the other professions put together, but they get very little credit for it. The doctors, however, pursue a different course from any other line of business. They are forever telling the people how to live to prevent sickness; in other words, working against themselves. For all this they get no pay; rather, as stated, they lose by it. Lawyers perhaps do not encourage clients to get into litigation, but they do not kick against it as a general rule. Discussing this matter the Statesville Landmark says: "Considered from the selfish standpoint, it is to the interest of the doctors if the people are sick, for by this craft they have their wealth. And yet it must be said to the everlasting credit of this great profession, that they show much more interest in preventing sickness than the laymen. It is through the doctors, by their untiring and faithful efforts, that all movements looking to better sanitary conditions and the improvement of the public health are improved and carried on. At the meeting to organize a society to prevent the spread of tuberculosis, held in Statesville Tuesday afternoon, there were four doctors present, nearly one-fourth of the entire audience; and yet the work of the society, which will largely depend on the doctors, is not for their benefit but for the benefit of the public. The betterment of the public health does not help the doctor; it hurts his business. Considering that the doctors are willing to give time and money to help teach the laymen how not to get sick, it is to the discredit of the laymen that they take so little interest in movements for the preservation of the public health, a matter that is entirely for their benefit. This is not business, as business is known in these days. For an illustration, take the automobile makers; they maintain a regular press bureau, sending out bushels of literature every day illustrating the benefit, the utility of these machines for various purposes. This is legitimate, of course; it is "strictly business," and should the doctors do likewise it might be considered in the same light by the business world, but they would get cussed roundly. In fact they get it as it is.—Greensboro Record.

The Protestant clergy of Utah protested against Mr. Taft's making an address in a Mormon church. They had their pains for their trouble. Since Hanna made a trade with the big Mormon, and Senator Smoot became Aldrich's chief lieutenant, the Republican presidents have been very agreeable to Mormon wishes. Mr. Taft is like his predecessors. As long as they vote the Republican ticket, the Mormons look very good to him.—Raleigh News and Observer.

THE IMPRACTICAL

Why Business Failure is Inevitable to Some Individuals.

So many individuals with limited business aspirations fall so hopelessly short of a practical business point of view that failure is inevitable.

I listened long and patiently the other day to the hard luck story of a small farmer practicing the intensive system with fruits and vegetables. He lived on the edge of a considerable village, and fifty miles away was a growing city of 200,000 population. But the farmer was sore and discouraged.

"Nobody in this whole section begins to touch the stuff that I'm growing," he said hotly. "I'm a past master in the business. But what is the result? Every year I have stuff rotting here on the ground. I wouldn't haul it into town for the prices they pay. It's ridiculous!"

To me, however, that farmer himself was the most ridiculous single thing in the whole story.

In an age of specializing he had specialized in the growing of fine fruits and vegetables. They were his hobby. But he overlooked the fact that after his fruits were grown and ripened his work was only half done. Without connecting with a profitable market he might as well have put in his time making mud pies in his back yard. Fifty miles away was a city which would have grabbed for his produce. A main line of railroad ran eight passenger trains into it every twenty-four hours. Why didn't he complete the work by establishing market connections?

But this was a sore spot with the farmer. A few years before he had kept three or four Jersey cows, and the farmer's wife was an expert buttermaker. In some way an official of an express company operating over the line of road through the village heard of this famous butter product and arranged to take the surplus without transportation cost and paying a sharp premium for it.

But the farmer had made only one shipment and had quit in disgust. Why? Simply because the farmer's wife always had used glazed crockery in which to handle milk and butter and in making the first six or eight pound shipment in a vessel that had cost her 50 cents the city purchaser had failed to return the empty crock! Why had she used the crock for shipment? Oh, well, she had never used anything else in the handling of butter!

Yet not a few of the big business concerns of the country that are seeking foreign outlet for trade are no wiser than this farmer's wife. They are producers of goods that are in foreign demand. Transportation rates are reasonable and direct. Prices are satisfactory. But, would you believe it, these bidders for foreign trade will not pack their goods for shipment as the market requires?

A few years ago a manufacturing concern in Chicago sold a consignment of neckties to a retail firm in British India. Instructions for packing were that tin boxes should be prepared, with covers, the ties placed inside and the covers soldered on closely. The Chicago house balked at this. It packed the ties as it would have done were they to go to Baltimore or Denver and made the shipment. Several weeks later notice came that the whole shipment had arrived in a ruined condition. A small grub, recognized in those seas, had penetrated the cardboard and wooden coverings and eaten the silk into rags—Chicago Tribune.

A Mighty Autocrat

A misguided woman once ventured to remonstrate with Worth, the man milliner, because he charged her $600 for a dress. "The goods," said the lady, "could be bought for $100, and surely the work of making up would be well paid for with $25 more." "Madam," replied the outraged tailor, "go to M. Constant, the painter, and say to him: 'Here is a canvas and colors, value $1. Paint me a picture on that canvas with these paints, and I will pay you 33-1/3 cents.' What would be the answer? 'Madam, this is no payment for an artist.' No, but I say more—if you think my terms are too high keep the dress and pay me nothing. Art does not descend to the pettiness of haggling." History does not record the lady's reply.

Unusual, but Right.

"Curtis," said the teacher, "suppose I had two squash pies and cut one into six pieces and the other into twelve pieces. Which pie would you rather have a piece of?" "The one divided into twelve pieces," answered Curtis. "I don't like squash pie."—Chicago News.

A RAILROAD STORY.

The Superstition of an Engineer and the Result.

Railroad engineers have an abhorrence for an engine that ever has been in a wreck. This no doubt is due to their belief in the infallibility of wrecks and other accidents coming in cycles or in occurrences of threes. When an accident happens on the road they wag their heads and wonder when the next one will take place, and when the third has happened they breathe easier until another occurs to give them the chance to look for two more again. An engine that has been in only one wreck is looked to finish its cycle, and until it does so and gets a clean bill of health it is regarded as a hoodoo.

Friday has the same hold on the superstitious fear of railroad men that it has in other quarters. Men will refuse to take a layoff on Friday, and if it is forced upon them they will not return to work until the following Monday. Many railroad superintendents and trainmasters coddle their men as far as they can in this superstition, but a general regard for it would be impossible, else the railroad traffic of the country might come to a comparative standstill some Friday.

There are thousands of stories rife in railroad circles that prove to railroad men that there is good reason for their fear of this or that hoodoo. Here is a true story of the number 13:

Several years ago one of the severest snowstorms in the history of railroading swept the west. Between Chicago and Aurora drifts ten feet high obstructed traffic, and a snowplow and engines were sent out to clear the road. At a point on the road was a yardmaster, who is now a railroad superintendent in St. Louis, and it is he who tells the tale.

"The snow bucking train was composed of thirteen engines behind the plow," says he. "In the front engine was my older brother, who was the engineer of it. The superintendent of the division was there supervising the work.

"When the train was made up and ready to start, the superintendent told me to go with the head engine. I climbed aboard, and my brother asked me what I was doing there. I replied that I was to go along with him. 'Do you know that there are thirteen engines in this train?' he asked solemnly. I told him I knew all about it. 'Well, there's going to be an accident,' he said. 'I don't want you on the engine. When the accident comes one of us will be killed, perhaps both. Who is to look after our old father and mother then?'"

"I was young, and I wasn't very strong on the thirteen superstition anyway, and I told him he was talking like a sentimental kid. The superintendent approached us and must have heard the last part of the conversation, for he told me to stay in the yard and see that the road was kept clear.

"The snow buckers pulled out without me. They had not been out an hour when the journal burned off on the front engine and dropped the axle. It caused a rail to curl up and the end of it shot up through the floor of the cab and knocked the hat off the fireman. Had I gone on the engine my body would have been pierced by the rail, which went through the seat where I would have been sitting."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Marriage.

Marriage if not carried to excess is a wise provision and sacred obligation. Marry your opposite as far as possible, especially as regards sex. You will never regret it. If possible marry above your station. Both of you should do this. It is sure to advance your race. Do not marry a foreigner unless highly recommended by those in whom you have perfect confidence or unless you want to very much indeed. Do not encourage long engagements. It is better to get weary of each other at your leisure after marriage than to do it beforehand. Courtship, however, is a most delightful industry and should not be rashly broken in upon by marriage. Some people seem to be admirably fitted for suitors, but fail in other occupations. This is very fortunate indeed. No suitor can be sure of a permanent situation. The supply greatly exceeds the demand.—Exchange.

Asbestos.

The mystery of the mineral kingdom is asbestos. It is, in fact, so much of a puzzle that many scientists look upon it as a sort of link between the mineral and the vegetable world. It might be said to resemble a mineralogical vegetable, possessing the curious properties found in both, for it is at once fibrous and crystalline, elastic and brittle, heavy as a rock when taken from the mines, but light as spun silk when treated mechanically.

OUR PIANO WAREROOM

Now Open.

WITH the exception of two makes which have not reached us yet, the most of the makes which we intend to handle are now on our floor, next to Carr & Atkins Hardware Co.

The grandest display ever shown. In this magnificent group of pianos can be seen, the artistic Lester. This strictly high grade piano is used in the leading Conservatories of the U. S., among them in the New England Conservatory, Boston, largest musical institution in the U. S. The East Carolina Teachers' Training School, Greenville, N. C., has also equipped its music departments with these famous instruments. The renowned Henry and S. G. Lindeman Pianos, this concern is one of the most noted of the pioneers in the piano industry in this country. Of this piano we quote from the music trades:

"Mr. Henry Lindeman is considered to be one of the few really scientific and expert piano makers we have living today. He is also recognized as an expert scale drawer and his reputation for developing the same is second to none in the trade. He stands pre eminent as a maker of scales of pianos." Six other makes are all standard and legitimate. Among those "the Boudoir pianos" known as the smallest high grade, upright, ever manufactured "Nothing ever like it." A truly artistic little piano and is the artists' favorite of the little pianos. We thus quote the celebrated Madam Emma Calve: "Relative to the Boudoir Piano, which I purchased for my private use last February and used by me in my Trans-Continental Tour. I desire to say that this piano has certainly proved itself to be a little jewel. To state the whole truth, I am enthusiastic over this little piano. It possesses a quality of tone that is sweet and sympathetic, being practically well adapted to accompanying my voice, and a volume that is the equal of, if not surpassing, pianos of usual size. It is truly a wonderful little piano, and I would not dispose of mine for any consideration."

We invite the public to visit our wareroom. Are you considering the purchase of pianos, or have you one in your home on trial? Come and look at ours, and your home will be made happier and your pocket book will remain decidedly in a healthier condition. Terms to suit your convenience. Come and listen to the Lindeman, Lester, Milton and Bjure Bros. Player-pianos. Daily recitals.

The Countercheck Quarrelsome.

When the famous John Radcliffe, whose library is so well known an institution at Oxford, lived in Bow street his garden adjoined that of Sir Godfrey Kneller. "Being intimate friends," as Jesse tells us, "they agreed that a doorway should be broken through the wall to admit of their enjoying a free intercourse with each other. Some misunderstanding, however, having arisen between them, Kneller sent a message to Radcliffe that he intended to close up the door. Radcliffe, it is said, asked the messenger to tell Kneller that he might do anything with the door except paint it, while the painter returned the obvious message, 'Tell Dr. Radcliffe, with my compliments, that I will take anything from him but his physic.'"—London Post.

An Endless Task.

Mrs. Arnold had been calling on her friend, Mrs. Black, and upon leaving asked, "Why do you never come to see me?" Mrs. Black replied: "I would so much like to, but some way I don't get time to go anywhere now. It takes me all the time to fix over my sleeves."—Lippincott's.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

One Theory as to How the Fearful Climax May Come.

What will be the end of the world? This is a question which was formerly asked of soothsayers and prophets and often answered by them with definite statements and dates which were, to those who believed them, to the last degree disquieting. Such prophets and prophecies have all been proved erroneous, and the Millerites and their kin have all been laughed out of serious consideration. Science has taught us better, and yet science, which seeks always new facts and revised reasoning, is now teaching us that our faith in the safety of the solar system is misplaced.

Instead of the eternally changeless procession of the planets about the sun and of our solar system about some other greater sun, astronomers find grave evidence of what seems disorder in what we thought was perpetual perfection, a disorder which may—indeed, probably will—some time wreck our own planet. It is possible—astronomically considered, it is probable—that unseen within the remote confines of space the vast mass of a dead world is hurtling toward our sun with inconceivable velocity. In time the two will come together and the immeasurable heat produced will make gas of granite and floating clouds of nebulae of us all, for thus worlds die and thus they are immediately in process of being born again, for out of the condensation of this nebula will come the beginnings of a new solar system which will in the countless eons of astronomical time go through the same process of evolution and decay.—Technical World Magazine.

Managing a Drawer.

A woman will take the smallest drawer in a dressing table for her own private use and will pack away in it bright bits of boxes of all shades and sizes, dainty fragments of ribbons, scraps of lace, foamy ruffles, velvet things for the neck, bundles of old love letters, pieces of jewelry, handkerchiefs, fans, things that no man knows the name of, all sorts of fresh, bright looking knickknacks that you could not catalogue in a column, and she can go to that drawer any hour of the day or night and pick out any article she may happen to want without disturbing anything else.

And a man, having the biggest and deepest and widest drawer assigned him, will throw into it three socks, a collar box, an old necktie, two handkerchiefs, a pipe and a pair of braces, and to save his life he can't shut that drawer without leaving more ends sticking out than there are things in it, and it always looks as though it had been packed with a hydraulic press.—Exchange.

A BISMARCK STORY.

Playing the Role of Cousin Was Just to His Liking.

In his university days Bismarck was as jolly and boisterous as the least promising youth of his generation. According to the author of "The M. P. For Russia," he enjoyed dancing and singing better than study and was as full of fun as his chosen companion, Count Keyserling, was deficient in it, and on this difference in temperament hangs a tale.

One day the shy and reserved Keyserling came to Bismarck in great agitation.

"What is the matter?" demanded Bismarck.

"My mother writes that an aunt and two cousins are coming for a week to Berlin, and, as they are very young and inexperienced, I must go about everywhere with them, offering them all sorts of amusements. It is most annoying," groaned Keyserling, "as I have to prepare myself for examinations and have no time for pretty country cousins."

Bismarck saw his chance and immediately inquired:

"Have you ever seen these young girls? Have they ever seen you?"

"Never in my life."

"Capital! Nothing could be better. Let me be Count Keyserling for the time being, and you become simple Bismarck. You stay at home, and I shall become a first class cicarone during all the time of their visit."

Keyserling eagerly accepted the proposition. When the young ladies arrived, Bismarck met them as Keyserling and placed himself at their disposition during their stay in Berlin. Keyserling buried himself in his books, and thought no more about it until the girls had gone home to the Baltic provinces.

A week or two later he was disconcerted by receiving a letter from home in which his mother expressed her great delight in hearing from the young ladies and their mother how immensely they had enjoyed themselves and how very agreeable and kind their cousin had been.

"I am overjoyed," continued the fond parent, "to hear from their description that you have grown quite stout and robust during your stay at Berlin."

THE GREATEST SPECTACLE THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN

Hudson-Fulton Celebration—Excursion Rate of $18.15 Via. A. C. L. to New York and return

This historic celebration will take place from Saturday, September 25th, to Saturday, October 9th. The principal events during the first eight days will occur in greater New York and in the Hudson River opposite the city. The following week the celebration will continue at the Hudson River cities and villages from New York to Troy.

This event, commemorating the 500th Anniversary of the navigation of the Hudson River by Hendrick Hudson and the 102nd anniversary of the operation of the first steam boat by Robert Fulton, will present a spectacle on land and water, parades and illumination SUCH AS THE WORLD HAS NEVER WITNESSED.

All the great navies of the world will be abundantly represented, which with other craft, including replicas of the historic "Halfmoon" and "Clermont" will go to make up a water parade of a thousand or more vessels, and on land there will be gorgeous spectacles in floats, parades, reviews, exhibitions, decorations and a thousand and one object lessons in our 300 years progress.

Every day will be a picture of a veritable fairyland and millions of electric lights of all colors and sizes will fairly turn night into day.

For this occasion the ATLANTIC COAST LINE will sell on September 23rd to 30th, inclusive, round trip tickets to New York at the low rate of $18.15 from Greenville. The tickets will be limited returning to leave New York any time up to and including October 10th. Mr. W. H. Ward, the ticket agent, will be pleased to answer inquiries regarding schedules and make reservations and this matter should be attended to at once by those desiring to take the trip

The Value of Good Digestion

Is easy to figure if you know what your stomach is worth. Kodol keeps the stomach at par value, by insuring good digestion. Kodol cures Dyspepsia.

Kodol insures good digestion by absolutely duplicating Nature's normal process, in perfectly digesting all food taken into the stomach. While Kodol is doing this, the stomach is resting—and becoming strong and healthy. A strong and healthy stomach guarantees a sound and active brain. The man with a sound stomach—a stomach that is doing for the body just what Nature intended it to do—is the man who is always prepared for any emergency. He is "there with the goods." The man with a sick stomach, is a man sick all over. When the stomach is irritated by undigested food, the blood and heart are directly affected. Then dullness, unnatural sleepiness, sick-headaches, vertigo and fainting spells, and even serious brain trouble develop. Kodol will prevent these. Spurring the stomach and brain to special effort by "tonics" and "stimulants" doesn't cure anything, or accomplish any good. Neither does dieting. Indigestion and the serious ailments which it induces can be averted and corrected only by natural means. Kodol supplies this natural means. It performs the stomach's work for it—just as the stomach should perform it—while the stomach takes a little rest, "for the stomach's sake."

Our Guarantee
Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one family. The large bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle. Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago.

"IN THE HOUR OF DEATH."

A Note on the Authorship of a Well Known Poem.

The question is often asked in newspapers and magazines, "Who wrote the poem beginning, 'In the hour of death, after this life's whim?'"

The answer is given that nothing is known of the author. It is true this poem was published with only the initials of the writer in the University Magazine in 1879. But I hold the manuscript of the poem, and I have also Blackmore's letter that accompanied it. Blackmore has been so long dead I do not feel that there can be any harm in giving his letter to the public. I subjoin an exact copy of it; also of his poem.

AGNES E. COOK.

Tedd., Jan. 5, 1879.

"My Dear Sir—Having lately been at the funeral of a most dear relation, I was there again (in a dream) last night and heard mourners sing the lines inclosed, which impressed me so that I was able to write them without change of a word this morning. I never heard or read them before to my knowledge. They do not look so well on paper as they sounded. But if you like to print them here they are, only please do not print my name beyond initials or send me money for them. With all good wishes to Mrs. Cook and yourself, very truly yours,
"R. D. BLACKMORE.
"K. Cook Esqre LL. D."

Dominus illuminatio mea.

I.
In the hour of death, after this life's whim,
When the heart beats low, and the eyes grow dim,
And pain has exhausted every limb,
The lover of the Lord shall trust in him.

II.
When the will has forgotten the lifelong aim,
And the mind can only disgrace its fame,
And a man is uncertain of his own name,
The power of the Lord shall fill this frame.

III.
When the last sigh is heaved and the last tear shed,
And the coffin is waiting beside the bed,
And the widow and child forsake the dead,
The angel of the Lord shall lift this head.

IV.
For even the purest delight may fall;
The power must fail, and the pride must fall,
And the love of the dearest friends grow small,
But the glory of the Lord is all in all.

DISCIPLINE.

The Way Binks Tried it on His Six-months-old Baby.

Binks had sent Mrs. Binks on a visit to her mother, and he was on the job with the six-months-old baby.

In the night the baby woke and cried. Binks looked at his watch—three-quarters of an hour till bottle time. He said to himself:

"Let him yell. He's a healthy little Indian, and he must be disciplined."

Then Binks tried to sleep.

But Binks couldn't sleep. Every cry grew more pathetic and abused and heart-sick and discouraged. Each cry said more and more plainly: "I have no friends or relatives. I'm unhappy and uncomfortable and want some one to be good to me."

But Binks, the stubborn and stiff-necked, stuck it out, though each cry stabbed him clear through.

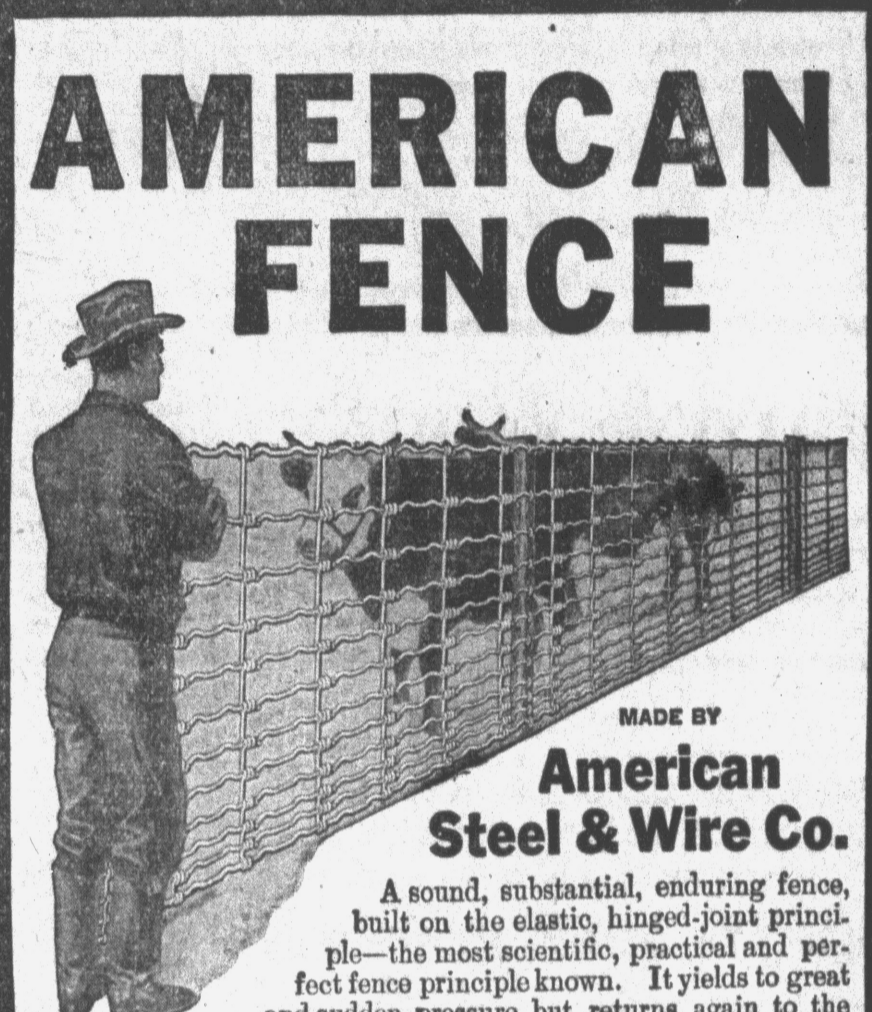

Finally (maybe he set it forward a bit—who knows?) Binks' watch announced the arrival of bottle time. He went to the icebox for the food, heated it and took it to his now faintly sobbing infant son.

But the infant son could not take the bottle. He choked on the first swallow, then put up his hands and renewed his wordless plea to the big man he could see dimly through his tears.

Then that father said, "Discipline be hanged!" Maybe, though, it wasn't "hanged," he said, but the vowel sound is right, anyway. He took up that baby, and the baby stuck to his daddy like fly paper. Further attempts to lay him down were futile. He wanted no food but heart food, no milk but that of human kindness. So the big man laid that baby beside him on the pillow; the baby put one rose petal hand to his father's stubby cheek, gave a long, quivering, satisfied sigh and slept for six unbroken hours.

As Binks lay there, afraid to stir lest he disturb the little one and feeling like a horse thief because he had let the love-hungry infant cry his heart out, he repeated frequently: "Discipline be hanged!" —Chicago News.

as, and as the beautifying of the party was always a hobby of its hers it is not surprising that until taste should have been shown in it out. It is a fact that there 105 varieties of trees and bushes are found within a stone's throw of clubhouse. Not far from the pres-fourth green there was once a ten garden, but this is scarcely a memory now.

Chevy Chase club took possession in 1888 and at first rented the erty from the Rodgers estate, but the club purchased 200 acres. ral horse shows have been con-ed on the property, and some s back the regular old fashioned y fairs were popular there. The ersionship consists of persons promi-in Washington socially. It is only an hour's ride from the treasury be door of the clubhouse.—Ex-

CHEVY CHASE.

The Old Rodgers Mansion and the Famous Washington Club.

Doubtless few of the many thousands of persons who have read of Chevy Chase have any idea of the interesting history attached to the clubhouse and surroundings. Part of the old colonial structure as it stands today was erected in 1747 and from that time until a few years ago remained in the Rodgers family. In the war of 1812, when the British were advancing on Washington, the army and navy records were taken from the White House and secreted in the cellar of the Rodgers mansion, where they were kept for several days.

The Rodgers family has been famous in the American navy, no fewer than seven having served as admirals. The estate consisted of something like 200

ABOUT YOUR CLOTHES!

THE time has come for you to consider where to buy, and what to buy.

We don't mean to dictate to any theclothes they should buy, but if you will allow us to put you into some of our new models, you will be readily convinced what to buy and why we say so much about Hart, Schaffner and Marx Clothes.

The all wool fabrics are a special point for Hart, Schaffner and Marx Clothes; the perfect fit and tailoring the extremely fashionable style give the H. S. & M. Clothes an appearance not to be found in other makes.

Some of the fashions for young men are exceptionally good; the cut and finish are exceedingly smart and we can promise you something out of the ordinary.

For all ages, sizes and tastes, stouts and slims, we have the right clothes.

Prices, we can fit your form, we can fit your purse.

SUMMER IS GONE

And now is a good time to have your summer suit nicely cleaned and pressed, so it can be put away and kept for months. It is time to bring your overcoat and have it cleaned and overhauled for winter, perhaps it needs a new collar or re-lining. A little work on it may save buying a new one. I am ready to do this work for you as it ought to be done.

A COOK'S CREST.

The Decoration Worn by a Pompous Persian Chef.

A quaint story from Persia is given in a book by Mr. James. The author had missed from his saddle the brass plate inscribed with the maker's name, Souter, and was wrath at his loss, since the name went for much in the judgment of the east.

"One day," he says, "I was sitting in my favorite teashop with my friend Hassan Ali, discussing as usual England's perfidy in abandoning north Persia to Russian machinations, when a most dignified Persian entered the auberge. He was preceded by a well-groomed boy carrying his dust coat. The Persian bowed to me with great civility and passed into an inner apartment. As both man and boy bore burnished gilt crests upon their tall astrakhan hats I took them to be public functionaries of no small importance.

"Who was that, Hassan Ali? I asked. 'I do not remember having seen him before, yet evidently he recognized me.'

"That," said my friend, with his small, beady eyes twinkling, 'is your cook--yes!'

"My cook? I answered in astonishment. 'I took him to be at least the governor's chief of staff.'

"Well, he is your chief of staff, which to him seems a higher degree--yes! And Hassan Ali smiled his inimitable smile.

"But what in the name of good conscience is the impertinence that he wears upon his hat?"

"That must be your crest. It is a badge of yours!"

"On my honor, Hassan Ali, you must not make fun of me! I have given the man no crest, and I have never set eyes on him before!"

"I have seen the badge!" Hassan Ali continued. "It is undoubtedly your own. It has the motto 'Souter,' which is doubtless the old heraldic contraction for the word souteneur, and also the subtitle, 'By royal appointment'--yes!"

It was, of course, the missing saddle plate, which the ingenious cook had "conveyed" as a heraldic decoration.

Not Personal.

Count d'Orsay had an explosive temper. Sir Algernon West says that the count "once called on the nightbirds."

Archdeacon Webber's Mission.

Archdeacon Webber began his mission in Greenville last night by preaching a splendid sermon on "The Christian Life." The congregation was large, and was deeply impressed by the clear and masterful presentation of many vital facts about our daily living. Services each day at 7:30 a. m. 10 a. m. 4 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The hour for the evening service is changed from 8.00 to 7.30 p. m.

Messrs. Saunders & Otley, on Lady Blessington's behalf and used very strong language. A beautiful gentleman in a white neckcloth said he would rather sacrifice Lady Blessington's patronage than stand such personal abuse. 'I am not personal,' said D'Orsay. 'If you are Saunders, then -- Otley; if you are Otley, then -- Saunders.'
