CARNIVAL NOTES.

Some of the Things to be Seen There.

Everybody goes to the carnival, and all seem to enjoy it.

Lights were better last night, but yet not as good as they ought to be.

By now the ground is fairly covered with confetti.

B-a-r—"C-o-o-l"—Barkoot—How's this for a pair? "Coot" says they didn't.

Some of the folks who try the shooting gallery keep the bell ringing, others come outside of the mark.

The Old Plantation is certainly good. There are some splendid voices among the singers and the old time songs take you back to the long ago.

The folks hold their breath when the high diver turns off the ladder, and the way he strikes the water is enough to take his breath, too.

In Salome there are a variety of attractions. The Indian acrobat and fire blower does some wonderful stunts. The butterfly, serpentine and Salome dances draw the folks.

"Sasso"? Yes, Have you seen this Egyptian wonder and marvelous mind reader? If not you are missing one of the features. He can call your name, tell your occupation, describe your friends, warn you of your enemies, and give you hints in business pursuits. Sasso's powers are really astonishing, and it is wonderful how by simply studying one's hand he can tell so many things of the past that you know to be true. If you can judge what he predicts for the future by his correct description of the past, there are good things ahead for some folks, and others may find the opposite.

Notice to Ice Customers.

In order to continue in operation the plant formerly owned by Hill & Johnson, it is found necessary to sell the product for cash, and no sales will be made after this date except on this basis. The schedule of prices as follows:

Less than 100 pounds, 50 cents per hundred.

Less than 300 pounds and over 100, 40 cents per hundred.

300 pound blocks, 33½ cents per hundred.

Ice tickets can be had at the office or from the drivers at the following prices:

210 pounds, $1.00.

500 pounds, $2.25.

1000 pounds, $4.00.

Sunday deliveries have been discontinued and you should have your needs supplied on Saturdays. The factory will be opened on Sunday morning from 9 o'clock a. m. to 10:30 a. m.

It is the purpose of the management to see that patrons receive good service, and all complaints telephoned to 109 will have prompt attention.

H. A. White, Trustee.

Pulley & Bowen will have their fall millinery opening on Tuesday, Oct. 5th. They will show all the newest and latest styles in pattern hats and other millinery. Be sure to see their display. 9 29 5td 1tw

ARCHDEACON WEBBER.

The Mission in the Episcopal Church this Week.

The mission being conducted in the Episcopal church by Archdeacon Percy Webber, of Massachusetts, is proving very interesting to our people and attendance upon the services is large.

Wednesday morning Archdeacon Webber spoke beautifully on "Examples of our Lord in Prayer." An exceedingly practical and helpful talk was the one in the afternoon on "Our Duty to Our Neighbor, as illustrated by some New Testament Saints." At night he gave an inspiring instruction followed by a splendid sermon on "The Christian Man. The Christian is as the Shadow of a Great Rock in a Weary Land."

Tonight Archdeacon Webber will give an instruction and a sermon on "Five Things that Christianity Stands for."

Sunday will be the closing day of this mission and those who fail to hear Archdeacon Webber while he is in our midst will have lost a great opportunity.

Improving Equipment.

Today the Reflector received a large new paper cutter for its job printing department, growing business making a larger and better machine than our old one a necessity in the plant. Quite a nice lot of new type has also been added to the equipment, making the plant in better shape than ever to turn out good work. And remember, folks, this is a home institution. The Reflector force live at home and spend their money here, and every one of them believes in Greenville and joins heartily with The Reflector in working for the town. If there was no other reason, this is enough to entitle us to your patronage.

Smith Rawls.

Friends of the family here have received the following invitation:

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stowe Rawls request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter
Velma Tyson
to

Mr. Edgeworth Smith on the afternoon of Saturday October the sixteenth nineteen hundred and nine at half after four o'clock, Grace Episcopal Church Baltimore.

Court Adjourned.

The civil term of Pitt Superior court adjourned Wednesday evening, and Judge O. H. Guion left this morning for his home in New Bern. During the two terms of court he has held here the people of this section became very fond of Judge Guion, and they are glad he is coming back to hold the November term. Besides being a learned jurist, he is a most clever and polished gentleman, and makes friends of all who meet him.

At Methodist Church.

Next Sunday will be Rally day in the Sunday school. An attractive programme will be arranged and announced tomorrow. Gov. Jarvis has consented to make a talk before the school on the subject of duties of parents in regard to helping the children prepare the lesson at home. All parents of members of the school are earnestly requested to come and hear this address.

HARDY STEWART.

Washington Couple Gets Married in Greenville.

Wednesday afternoon there was a marriage at the home of Rev. J. B. Cook, on Fourth street, that took everybody by surprise, except those directly interested in it. The parties were Mr. G. B. Hardy and Miss Lizzie Stewart, both of Washington, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Sullivan, of the same town, he having been advised and coming here for that purpose.

The bride is a daughter of ex-Mayor and Mrs. E. T. Stewart, of Washington. It seems that Mr. Hardy was paying Miss Stewart more attention than her parents liked one of her age to receive, she being only 17, so last week sent her to Greenville to stay with relatives here, this step being taken to remove her from the influence of her suitor.

But love laughs at the movement of parents in matters of this kind. Wednesday's 1.12 A. C. L. train brought Mr. Hardy, Rev. Mr. Sullivan and Mr. A. G. Smithers, all of Washington. Mr. Smithers is a brother-in-law of the bride, having married an older sister a few weeks ago, and he came to assist in the run-away marriage. It was he who went to the place where Miss Stewart was staying, proposed to take her to ride, and being her brother-in-law nothing was thought of it. In the meantime Mr. Hardy got a friend to procure the license for him, and went to the home of Rev. Mr. Cook where Rev. Mr. Sullivan had already preceded him. Mr. Smithers also carried Miss Stewart to the home of Mr. Cook and the ceremony was performed there. The couple went to Kinston on the evening train.

Too Brave a Man to Kill.

There died in Fayetteville last week Mr. James W. Atkinson, a gallant Confederate soldier, who was singularly respected by his comrades and esteemed by the whole community. The Fayetteville Observer gives this thrilling incident of the life of the brave man:

"Major E. J. Hale, who was adjutant general of Lane's brigade, and who commanded it in a number of battles in 1864, was struck with the intelligence and bravery of his young townsman, a member of the 33rd Regiment, and made him color bearer of that regiment. This, under the law passed shortly before, made him ensign with the rank of first lieutenant.

"Major Hale says that he was one of the bravest soldiers he ever saw. He distinguished himself, under the former's eyes at Fuzzel's Mills, Ream's Station and Battery Gregg. His escape from the latter, under the fire of the enemy on the parapet, was watched by both armies. When a couple of hundred yards away, he wheeled, unfurled his flag and waved it defiantly at the enemy. Then, he turned again, and with his staff in his belt and his colors flying, he marched to the Confederate line as if on parade. Shortly after he began this march the enemy was heard to shout, "Do not shoot any more; he is too brave a man to kill!"

The End of the Century Book Club will meet Wednesday, October 6, at Cottdale. President requests a large attendance as business of importance will be transacted.

THE LYCEUM COURSE.

By Patronizing it You Help the Public Library.

As a result of the unusual demand for tickets to the series of attractions soon to be presented here by the Radcliffe Entertainment Bureau of Richmond under the auspices of End of the Century Book Club, it is now possible to predict the entire success of Greenville's concert season. In every section a gratifying interest has been taken in the announcement and the sale of season tickets has gone steadily on.

In view of the promise of complete success for its work the ladies feel encouraged to believe that a substantial sum will be raised and will be used in the interest of the public library, a worthy object in which all the people of the town are interested. It should be borne in mind that any profits derived from the entertainments will go, not to the Richmond entertainment bureau, but to the library which will benefit the community itself. This feature of the undertaking gives it the character of a local institution which it is the duty of all our people to support to the best of their ability.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Statesville, Sept. 29.—The plant of the Ingram Lumber Company, at Taylorsville, including a large amount of lumber, was destroyed by fire soon after 12 o'clock last night, entailing a property loss of about $12,000 with no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. The night watchman says that he had gone home at midnight to eat a lunch and on his return to the plant he found it in flames.

Malleable Range Exhibit.

Every day numbers of people are going to the store of Carr & Atkins Hardware Co. to see the Malleable Range exhibit and enjoy a lunch cooked on one of the excellent ranges right in the store. Mr. J. H. Welsey, of South Bend, Ind., is here conducting the demonstration, and he certainly knows all about ranges and explains the good qualities of the Malleable. A set of ware is given to each person who purchases a range this week.

Fine Corn.

Young O. C. White, a son of Mr. W. A. White, of Farmville township, brought The Reflector two sample ears of corn of his raising. The ears are very large and well filled. One of them is 11 inches long and the other 9 inches. The shorter ear contains the most grains, having 1026, while the long one has 994. The shorter ear got the advantage by being almost the same size from end to end, the long ear being tapering.

Anybody Can Enter.

The Reflector popularity contest, the winner to receive that beautiful baby upright Boudior piano at the music room of Fineman & White, is not confined to any locality. Any person anywhere can enter the contest, and the one who gets the most votes will receive the prize. Fill out a nomination blank (you will find one in this paper) and then get to work for the prize. You can nominate either yourself or a friend.

If Mars is having anything to do with this early cold weather, we wish she would let it alone and attend to her own affairs. We earthly fellows have enough troubles already.

Up in Iredell county a "blind tiger" was found under a hay stack. There was a barrel of liquor on storage, and the manipulator also had a sleeping den under the same stack. He was sticking close to his business, but happened to be out when officers called.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, has challenged Candidate Bryan for a joint debate on the tariff question. As the Republicans are the boss of the tariff situation, and manipulate it to suit themselves, we wonder what good Senator Bailey thinks is to be derived from a debate between two Democrats.

We would like to see Greenville mentioned often in the list of places where new industries are established. It is a little strange that this town does not take hold of the cotton mill spirit. Factories are needed here about as much as anything that could be mentioned, but the town is slow starting in that direction.

Many of us started out as poor in life as Rogers or Harriman, and while our store of wealth looks like thirty cents as compared with what those gentlemen accumulated, we doubt if they were able to surpass us in happiness. Wealth is a good thing to have, but its possessors are not always the happiest people you see.

Graces of Manner.

It is little graces of manner that make up a charming personality. Few people know how to receive a favor graciously. Ask them to render you a service, and they are. But try to offer them a courtesy, and see how quickly you will retire from their presence with a feeling of wounded pride and annoyance. Some will refuse outright, and others will accept as if they were bestowing a royal condescension. To accept something that we do not want, for which we have no use, to accept it in such a manner that the one who offers it will feel that he has rendered a service, is the height of consideration and good breeding. The strong, capable and able-bodied do not like to be served. It is much easier to serve oneself than to lie back and be waited upon. They truly feel that it is more blessed to give than to receive—blessed perhaps, because they do not want to receive. But such people would deny to others what they claim most strenuously for themselves—the right to confer a favor or to discharge an obligation, the sense of which sits heavily upon them.—Selected.

A rule recently adopted by the Postoffice Department should have good effect in the matter of improving the public roads. By this rule postmasters are empowered to suspend for thirty days the delivery of mail on any portions of rural free delivery routes over roads which are permitted to get in bad condition. If the people in the country want their mail delivered at their doors they must see to it that the roads over which the mails have to be carried are in such condition that the carriers can make reasonable time and with reasonable comfort to themselves. We can see no hardship in this regulation.—Charlotte Observer.

VARIES IN QUANTITY

A Cord of Wood Is a Rather Uncertain Proposition.

ODD FACTS ABOUT ITS BULK.

There Are Many Different Conditions That Affect the Measurement of the Pile—The Interesting Result of an Experimental Test.

When is a cord not a cord? To the farmer harvesting his small wood lot and to the man laying in logs for the large fireplace of his country or seaside home, to the paper manufacturer buying pulp wood and to the proprietor of the ordinary city wood yard, to all of these men this question has an important financial meaning.

Queer to say and contrary to the belief of most people, there are many times when a cord is less than a cord and many conditions when it is more. School arithmetics say that a cord of wood is 128 cubic feet, or the contents of a pile eight feet long, four feet high and four feet wide. Wood is marketed on this basis. A pile whose length, breadth and height multiplied together gives this number of cubic feet fills this requirement, no matter whether the sticks are long or short, straight or crooked, round or split, unless there is an understanding to the contrary. Nevertheless, a cord, though it comes up to legal measurements, is an uncertain quantity, even when the seller is honest and the buyer satisfied.

A lumberman may have a tract of pulp wood which he sells to a paper mill at $5 a cord for as many cords as it will make. It is in the contract that he shall cut and stack it. He cuts it in twelve foot lengths, and when the job is complete it measures 200 cords, and he receives $1,000 for it. Would he have made or lost by cutting four foot lengths instead of twelve?

He would have lost in the first place from the additional labor required to cut four foot wood, but his principal loss would have resulted from a greatly diminished number of cubic feet, due to the fact that short sticks lie closer together than large.

Measurements and experimental tests have been made to ascertain exactly how much actual wood is in cords of different lengths, sizes, shapes and species.

Had the 200 cords of twelve foot wood been cut in four foot lengths there would have been only 176 cords, and the owner would have received for it $880 instead of $1,000. It was, therefore, clearly to his advantage to cut twelve foot lengths, but it would have been to the buyer's advantage to have it cut in four foot lengths. He would have received the same actual quantity of wood for $120 less.

It also makes considerable difference to the seller whether wood is chopped or sawed. If chopped, the chips are lost. Where the logs are large this loss amounts to no small total. In a cord of four foot wood, with sticks six inches in diameter, the chip loss is from 6 to 8 per cent, and, of course, the shorter the sticks are

OUR BIG COUNTRY.

A Season When the Sun Never Sets on the Stars and Stripes.

There is only one flag that the sun never sets on—the British. But the American flag is a close second, for the sun during half the year never sets on it either. That is to say, these two are the only flags that the sun is continuously shining over, no matter what his position in the heavens—the one all the year round and the other during exactly half the year, from March 22 to Sept. 22.

Of course it is true that on no day at all during the year can the sun be seen from any two points of continental United States at all times during a period of twenty-four hours. But the United States naval observatory has made careful calculations which by including Alaska, Porto Rico and the Philippines show that between the spring and fall equinoxes the sun never ceases to shine in the eyes of the American eagle.

Perhaps nothing could make us realize how great a nation our expanded country is better than this simple astronomical fact. Moreover, within these two dates there are also several other pairs of eastern and western extreme points where the same condition obtains, though for much shorter times.

It is not generally known, but the easternmost point in the United States and its island possessions is in the island of Porto Rico—longitude 65 degrees 12 minutes west, latitude 18 degrees 20 minutes north. The westernmost point is in Balobé Island, in the Philippines—longitude 116 degrees 40 minutes east, latitude 8 degrees 0 minutes north. When the sun is at what the calendar makers call "north declination" of 0 degrees 19 minutes—that is to say, on March 22 and on Sept. 22—it rises in Porto Rico at exactly the same time that it sets in the island of Balobé. Between these two dates during the winter months the sun does set on the United States, and during the remainder of the year, the summer months, it does not.—Scrap Book.

HUNTING THE SEAL.

The Dog Hood of the Atlantic Is a Desperate Fighter.

The seal hunters have been called heroes, but they have earned the title in doing just what their fathers and forefathers have done for 200 years—catching seals to make a living. When we think of seals we bring to mind the animals for whose rich coat of fur milady is willing to pay hundreds or even thousands of dollars—the fur seal, which inhabits the north Pacific ocean. But in the waters of the Atlantic lives another species, which is also sought for its coat or hide, which goes into many thousands of pocketbooks, satchels, gloves and other articles, for which it is especially valuable. So every year hardy Newfoundlanders take their lives in their hands in the seal hunt, for not only is its coat valuable, but the blubber of the young yields an oil much prized for different purposes.

There are four species of seals in the waters around Newfoundland and Labrador—the bay seal, the harp, the hood and the square flipper. The harp seal—the seal of commerce—is so called from having a broad, curved line of dark connected spots extending along each shoulder and meeting on the back above the tail, forming a figure something like an ancient harp. As the hoods are often with the harps, they are also taken for their skins. The male, called the "dog hood," is distinguished from the female by a curious sack or bag of flesh on his nose. When attacked or enraged he inflates this hood with air so as to cover the face and eyes, and it is strong enough to resist seal shot. When thus protected he can be killed only by shooting him in the neck and the base of the skull.

Unlike the cowardly harp seal, the dog hood fights desperately in defense of his mate and young ones, and if they are killed he becomes furious, inflates his hood, while his nostrils dilate into two huge bladders. As he rushes at his enemy with floundering leaps, it is as well to keep a safe distance if the hunter is alone, for instances have occurred where a fight between an old dog hood and five or six men has lasted for an hour, and more than once a man has been crunched to death by the powerful jaws.

The seal is a great traveler, but depends on the rivers of the ocean to take him where he wants to go. Like a good many other tourists, he spends his summer in the north, leaving the southern waters in May and spending about three months in the seas about Greenland. With the beginning of the arctic winter the seal horse starts on its long southern voyage.—Day Allen Wiley in Van Norden's.

Reason For English Optimism Discovers at Last.

Only the Englishman knows the science of sitting down. He alone, declares a writer in the London Saturday Review, has evolved the chair which recovers for its students all the comfort that has been lost in the day, all the hope that the morning may so inhospitably have barred. Watch, say, a Frenchman in an English easy chair, and you will find him no worthy apprentice of the science. He is ill at ease and out of sympathy with the chair. But the Englishman has no such quarrel with comfort. He does not, as the Frenchman, sit at attention. There need not, in fact, be any doubt that England's position as the optimist among the nations is due largely to this appreciation of the easy chair.

Had Schopenhauer lived in England and been instructed in the art of sitting down he would have written dainty testimonials to the charm of human nature. Pope had no optimism, and it is not surprising that he complained of the "rack of a too easy chair," for only an optimist can be comfortable. Whistler refused to have an easy chair in his house and quite inevitably wrote a book on the art of making enemies. Carlyle lived among the hard angles of uncomfortable furniture and wrote irritably. A man's literary taste, it may as well be said, is not formed so much by his education or his early life or his friends as by his chairs. A man without an easy chair would develop an austere taste. He would read Bacon, Macaulay and Hume. A man with an uncomfortable easy chair would read Hazlitt, Carlyle, Schopenhauer, Nietzsche and Ibsen. A man with a chair which he had molded to all the whims of his body would read Dickens, Lamb, Shakespeare, Meredith, Flaubert and Tennyson.

No one, fortunately, has a finer instinct for comfort than the Englishman, and so long as this is so there should be no danger of the decline of good books and poetry and optimism. Only the man who has an easy chair can read the right books.

OUR PIANO WAREROOM

Now Open.

WITH the exception of two makes which have not reached us yet, the most of the makes which we intend to handle are now on our floor, next to Carr & Atkins Hardware Co.

The grandest display ever shown. In this magnificent group of pianos can be seen, the artistic Lester. This strictly high grade piano is used in the leading Conservatories of the U. S., among them in the New England Conservatory, Boston, largest musical institution in the U. S. The East Carolina Teachers' Training School, Greenville, N. C., has also equipped its music departments with these famous instruments. The renowned Henry and S. G. Lindeman Pianos, this concern is one of the most noted of the pioneers in the piano industry in this country. Of this piano we quote from the music trades:

"Mr. Henry Lindeman is considered to be one of the few really scientific and expert piano makers we have living today. He is also recognized as an expert scale drawer and his reputation for developing the same is second to none in the trade. He stands pre eminent as a maker of scales of pianos." Six other makes are all standard and legitimate. Among those "the Boudoir pianos" known as the smallest high grade, upright, ever manufactured "Nothing ever like it." A truly artistic little piano and is the artists' favorite of the little pianos. We thus quote the celebrated Madam Emma Calve: "Relative to the Boudoir Piano, which I purchased for my private use last February and used by me in my Trans-Continental Tour, I desire to say that this piano has certainly proved itself to be a little jewel. To state the whole truth, I am enthusiastic over this little piano. It possesses a quality of tone that is sweet and sympathetic, being practically well adapted to accompanying my voice, and a volume that is the equal of, if not surpassing, pianos of usual size. It is truly a wonderful little piano, and I would not dispose of mine for any consideration."

We invite the public to visit our wareroom. Are you considering the purchase of pianos, or have you one in your home on trial? Come and look at ours, and your home will be made happier and your pocket book will remain decidedly in a healthier condition. Terms to suit your convenience. Come and listen to the Lindeman, Lester, Milton and Bjure Bros. Player-pianos. Daily recitals.

I always gave the old fisherman a tip. "But one morning I was very busy, and when the old boy brought the fish I thanked him hurriedly and, forgetting his tip, bent over my desk again. He hesitated a moment, then cleared his throat and said: "Senator, would ye be so kind as to put it in writin' that ye didn't give me no tip this time, or my wife'll think I've went and spent it on rum."—Los Angeles Times.

Fresh Water Fish In Germany.

German law does not permit of fresh water fish being sold except when alive. Therefore it is common to see tanks of such fish in the restaurant windows, and they are hauled in this way considerable distances over Prussian railways, and shipments are made to Berlin from Lyons in France, and from as far south as Roumania.

ANCIENT SURVEYORS.

Their Methods Depicted on the Old Tombs of Egypt.

In an address delivered before the Royal Geographical society Captain H. G. Lyons, director general of the survey department of Egypt, told of the work of ancient Egyptian surveyors. "At every period of ancient Egyptian history," he said, "the land was measured and recorded with considerable accuracy. Property was dealt in regularly, and an elaborate system of registration was maintained. No map of landed property in ancient Egypt has come down to us, but on the tomb walls we meet with representations of land measurers at work. Their methods of land measurement are represented on the walls of the tomb of one Menna at Sheikh Abd el Qurna, in Thebes, a land overseer and inspector of the boundary stones of Amon.

"In the scene depicted are shown two chainmen measuring a field of corn with a long cord, on which are knots or marks at intervals which seem to be about four or five cubits in length. Each also carries a spare cord coiled upon his arm. Beside them walk three officials, who carry writing materials and who are accompanied by a small boy carrying writing materials and a bag in which are probably documents and plans referring to the property. An old man and two boys also accompany the surveyors, and a peasant brings a loaf of bread and a bunch of green corn.

"A similar scene is pictured on the walls of a tomb belonging to a certain Amenhotep, also at Sheikh Abd el Qurna. Here only one man accompanies the chainmen, each of whom, as usual, carries a spare cord. The figures are larger than in the tomb of Menna, and, though they are now much damaged, it is possible to see clearly that the cord terminated in a ram's head."

COFFEE AS A WEDDING GIFT.

A Custom Which is General in Coffee Growing Countries.

"We have a custom in the coffee raising countries," said a high Brazilian official, "which is unknown in other parts of the world. When a child is born in the coffee country a sack of the best grain is set aside as part of the inheritance to be received on attaining its majority. Usually the sack is the gift from some close friend or relative, and it is guarded as sacredly as if it were a gift of gold or bonds. No stress would induce a Brazilian parent to use coffee which was made the birth gift of a child. As a rule, it is sealed with the private seal of the owner and bears a card giving all particulars about the variety of grain, its age on being sacked and the birth of the child to whom it is given and other details, which are very interesting when the gift is due.

"Generally the coffee is opened for the first time when the child marries. The coffee for the reception or marriage feast is made from the legacy, and, according to precedent, this must be the first time the sack is opened. After the coffee is made for the wedding feast the sack is carefully closed and sent to the new home of the young people and should keep them in this staple for a year at least. When both bride and bridegroom have the birth gift of coffee they have started life under very hopeful conditions, so far as one necessity is concerned. Few people know that the older the unpareled grain of coffee is the better the flavor. Like wine, it grows with age, and that which is over twenty years mellowing under proper conditions will bring from $1.50 to $3 a pound from connoisseurs. The giving of pounds of green coffee is a common practice in the coffee belt. Friends exchange these gifts and compare results. When one cannot afford to give a sack of coffee, it frequently is the case that ten pounds of the best green grain are packed in a fancy case and bestowed on a newly born child, with directions that it must not be opened until the wedding day."

Gold.
An assayer waved his hand toward the ingots lying in a corner of the room.

"A good assayer," he said, "can tell at a glance whence a piece of gold came, as a good wool sorter can tell what country's soil gave his fleece its color. It is a matter of color. California gold is yellow, Australia gold is red, and the gold of the Ural is the reddest found anywhere. Placer gold is yellower than that obtained from the quartz, and behind you is an Alaskan placer ingot, the yellowest gold in the world."

SAWING THE SPILES.

A Problem in Wharf Building Which Seems Hard, but Isn't.

When in building a wharf they have got the spiles driven you see them first standing in rows and sticking up above the water at uneven heights and with their tops all frayed. Then the surplus upper length of the spiles has to be sawed off so that the stringers upon which the wharf planking will be laid can rest upon them. And the question is, How do they manage to saw off each spile so that it will have a perfectly flat and level head, and how do they manage to get all the spiles sawed off at exactly the same height? They do this in the simplest way in the world.

The spiles all driven, they spike along to each row, at a little distance below where they are to cut them off, planks, upon which they lay crosswise other planks to make a scaffolding to work on. Then along each row of spiles at the height where they are to be cut off they draw a leveling line, which, drawn taut and leveled up, touches every spile in the row at exactly the same height, and then to each spile they nail two smooth topped crosspieces, little strips of board, one on either side of the spile, like the crossbars on a mast, only shorter, these cross strips being nailed on so that their tops just touch the underside of a leveling line. And then the sawyers, with their long crosscut saws, worked by a man at each end, come along.

The crosspieces nailed to the spile show exactly where it is to be cut off, and they serve also as guides and supports for the saw in cutting the spile off true. Resting the saw blade on their projecting ends at one side, the men saw and saw until they have sawed the spile off. And so they keep on until they have got them all sawed off and ready for the stringpieces. — New York Sun.

Diplomacy.

"But what made you irritate her father?"
"I had to do it. I wasn't any too popular with the girl until her father forbade me the house." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

After Him.

Ann Crabbe—I think it is my duty to tell you that I have heard from several sources that Mr. Brown is a very fast young man! Daisy—Fast as he is, I shall catch him yet, auntie! — London Free

Miles and the Reporter.

"General Nelson A. Miles always did like to have fun with new reporters," said an old newspaper man. "I remember some years ago he told an unfortunate Washington correspondent a long story about a new gun metal that some genius was supposed to have just discovered. It was a wonderful alloy which was as tough as steel and as light as aluminum. By its use, the general said, it would be possible to build guns which would weigh no more than the immense projectiles which they fired.

"The correspondent was delighted and went off and wrote a beautiful article, which produced spasms of laughter throughout the entire artillery service. You see, it doesn't require a very profound knowledge of ballistics to know that if a gun and projectile both weigh exactly the same amount they would fly in opposite directions with exactly the same velocity when the piece was fired."

City of Mexico Street Cars.

The street car system of the city of Mexico is a fine one, but here is one arbitrary rule that strangers must learn as soon as possible—that is, the cars do not stop except at certain points, where you will notice the electric light poles have a band of white painted on them. These stopping places are very close together in the crowded parts of the city, so you must look out for them. You are expected, too, to enter at the back and go out at the front door. Apart from this, the conductors will be found courteous, ever ready to tell you things and anxious to assist you. — Houston Post.

No One Questions It.

An automobile party was touring through a mountainous district of one of the states and had made a stop in one of the small towns to make some repairs to the machine. While they waited the attention of one of the party was called to an intelligent looking lad of about fourteen who seemed to be very much interested in the work and of whom the following question was asked:

"Say, son, what do you live on out here?"
"Nuthin," replied the somewhat surprised youth. "Dad's a preacher." — Judge.

Object, Matrimony.

"I want to put an ad. in your paper," said the weary looking man. "Make it, 'Wanted, a situation—any old job.'"
"Shall I say 'wages no object?'" suggested the clerk.
"No; make it 'object matrimony.' If I could get acquainted with a decent job I'd be willing to marry it for life." — Catholic Standard and Times.

Sometimes a man is willing to remain at the foot of the ladder for the purpose of pulling others down.

A Peculiarity of English.

Still another peculiarity in our English language has been pointed out by a foreign linguist. This time it concerns the use of the pronoun "I." He says:

"If a Frenchman writes with reference to himself, he makes 'je' (the French equivalent of 'I') with a small 'j.' So with the German, who may use capitals to begin every noun, but he always uses the small 'I' in writing 'ich.' The Spaniard avoids, so far as possible, the use of the personal pronoun when writing in the first person, but he always writes it 'yo,' taking pains, however, to begin the Spanish equivalent of our 'you' with a capital. In English it is surely big 'I' and little 'you.'"

THE GREATEST SPECTACLE THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN

Hudson-Fulton Celebration—Excursion Rate of $18.15 Via. A. C. L. to New York and return

This historic celebration will take place from Saturday, September 25th, to Saturday, October 9th. The principal events during the first eight days will occur in greater New York and in the Hudson River opposite the city. The following week the celebration will continue at the Hudson River cities and villages from New York to Troy.

This event, commemorating the 500th Anniversary of the navigation of the Hudson River by Hendrick Hudson and the 102nd anniversary of the operation of the first steam boat by Robert Fulton, will present a spectacle on land and water, parades and illumination such as the world has never witnessed.

All the great navies of the world will be abundantly represented, which with other craft, including replicas of the historic "Halfmoon" and "Clermont" will go to make up a water parade of a thousand or more vessels, and on land there will be gorgeous spectacles in floats, parades, reviews, exhibitions, decorations and a thousand and one object lessons in our 300 years progress.

Every day will be a picture of a veritable fairyland and millions of electric lights of all colors and sizes will fairly turn night into day.

For this occasion the ATLANTIC COAST LINE will sell on September 23rd to 30th, inclusive, round trip tickets to New York at the low rate of $18.15 from Greenville. The tickets will be limited returning to leave New York any time up to and including October 10th. Mr. W. H. Ward, the ticket agent, will be pleased to answer inquiries regarding schedules and make reservations and this matter should be attended to at once by those desiring to take the trip.

SUMMER IS GONE

And now is a good time to have your summer suit nicely cleaned and pressed, so it can be put away and kept for months. It is time to bring your overcoat and have it cleaned and overhauled for winter, perhaps it needs a new collar or re lining. A little work on it may save buying a new one. I am ready to do this work for you as it ought to be done.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.

Kodol will effectually assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

We knew what Kodol would do before ever the first bottle was sold. If we did not know just what it will do, we would not guarantee it the way we do.

It is easy for you to prove Kodol—the next (or the first) time you have an attack of indigestion. And you will certainly be surprised at the results. It is perfectly harmless.

There can be no harm in trying something that may do you a great deal of good—when it costs you nothing if it doesn't.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

DEMOCRATIC PEERS.

The House of Peers Not One of Birth or Ancestry.

Strangely enough, the house of lords still remains the most democratic institution in England. It may still claim for itself to be the Whangemot, or gathering of wise men, and one wonders why it does not defend itself along those lines.

It is not a house of birth or ancestry, for it is composed today to an overwhelming extent of successful men from almost every walk of life. No one cares a fig what a man's ancestry was in this matter of fact land if he succeeds, if he becomes rich and powerful.

The mother of the great Queen Elizabeth was the daughter of a plain English gentleman.

A pot girl of Westminster married the master of the pothouse. After his death she consulted a lawyer named Hyde. Mr. Hyde married her. Mr. Hyde afterward became lord chancellor, with the title of Lord Clarendon, and his wife, the former pot girl, bore him a daughter. This daughter married the Duke of York and became the mother of Mary and Anne Stewart, both afterward queens of England.

It is evident that if queens of England may have a barmaid for grandmother lesser mortals need not fret on the subject of ancestry.

The Englishman would not be what he is nor would he be in the least be transmitting his very valuable Saxon heritage if he gave up his democratic custom of an aristocracy of power for the feeble continental custom of an aristocracy of birth. What the one and the other is today answers the question as to the relative merits of the two systems without need of discussion. The English, though nowadays many of them do not know it themselves, are the most democratic of all nations.

William the Conqueror divided England among the commanders of his army and conferred about twenty earldoms. Not one of these exists today, nor do any of the honors conferred by William Rufus, 1087-1100; Henry I, 1100-1135; Stephen, 1135-1154; Henry II, 1154-1189; Richard I, 1189-1199; or John, 1199-1216.

A Missing Point.

"Professor," said an acquaintance, "you understand Latin, do you not?" "Well," replied the professor, "I may be said to have a fair knowledge of Latin."

"I know everybody says you have. I wish you would tell me what 'volix' means. Nobody that I have asked seems to have heard the word."

"If there is any such word as 'volix,' madam, of which I have serious doubts, I certainly do not know what it means."

"You surprise me, professor. A man of your attainments ought to know that 'volix' means vol. ix."

The professor devoted a moment to calling up his reserves and bringing his light artillery into action.

"It is no wonder, madam," he said, "that I did not see the point of your joke. You left the point out of it."

Quick Witted Divines.

Dr. P. S. Henson once delivered his lecture on "Fools" at the New York Chautauqua. In introducing him Bishop Vincent said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are now to listen to lecture on 'Fools,' by one"—The audience broke into a roar of laughter, and after it had died away Bishop Vincent added, "of the most brilliant men in America."

Dr. Henson rose and, with a genial smile, said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I am not so great a fool as Bishop Vincent"—Another roar of laughter, after which the speaker added, "would have you believe."

Diagnosis.

Into a general store of a town in Arkansas there recently came a darky complaining that a ham which he had purchased there was not good.

"The ham is all right, Zeph," insisted the storekeeper.

"No, it ain't, boss," insisted the negro. "Dat ham's shore bad!"

"How can that be," continued the storekeeper, "when it was cured only last week?"

The darky scratched his head reflectively and finally suggested: "Den mebbe it's had a relapse."
