HOWE'S GREAT LONDON SHOWS.

A Very Little Philosophy, But an Awful Lot of Truth.

"Show us the man with soul so dead that he does not feel the least bit of thrill when the circus comes to town, and we will show you a confirmed cynic."

"The circus is your true test as to whether your neighbor is 'human' or 'not.' One who has become thoroughly disillusioned is not only a heavy weight upon himself, but wears his acquaintances as well, and it is a false sympathy which regrets his suicide. If a man claims that the circus bores him, it is because all the freshness is gone from his nature; and by the same token he is a bore himself. Except you become again as a little child you shall not enjoy the circus; and if you have the power to do that you are in such a spiritual condition that you need not worry about the hereafter. Of course, we don't mean to make the flat-footed statement that all who go to the circus will of necessity go to heaven, nor that all who are admitted to the latter place must have been circus goers, for even some circus goers are waiting in the proper childlike simplicity in other things, and may not be able to even creep under the tent of Paradise."

"But the main proposition holds true; it is a bad man and a bad neighbor, and, above all, a bad parent, who can forget his own juvenile delight in the brave bespangled confusion of the greatest show on earth. Each circus is the greatest show on earth."

Howe's Great London shows deserve this appellation, however, every department being completely up to the minute. The show date here is Wednesday, Oct. 13.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

The ladies of the End of the Century Club who are canvassing for season tickets for the lyceum course, in aid of the public library, are meeting with much success. Everybody should encourage them. The season tickets will admit you to all the entertainments in the course at a much lower price than single admissions will be.

CARNIVAL NOTES.

Some of the Things to be Seen There.

They were all there again last night.

The carnival and work don't run well together.

"Coot" landed in the "Crazy House" as that place didn't Barkoot.

The two moving picture shows are good ones.

Sasso says so too.

The Old Plantation continues to rank as chief of the attractions. A cake walk and a prize dance will be features tonight.

There is only one more day of it.

Matt Gay made his high dive amid electric lights last night. It was thrilling, but he doesn't mind it at all.

The early afternoon and evening concerts by Angelo Mummolo's Royal Italian Band continue to delight large numbers of people who gather on the street to hear them. It is truly a feast to listen to such excellent music.

THE MISSION SERVICE.

Growing in Interest Daily—Large Attendance.

The mission service conducted in St. Paul's Episcopal church by Archdeacon Percy Webber, of Massachusetts, grows in interest daily. He is easily the most delightful speaker that has been heard in Greenville and large congregations are at each service. His talk Thursday morning on "Intercessory Prayer" was beautiful and instructive, as was also the afternoon subject on "Some Encouragements to Fulfilling Love's Delightful Service to God and Man." At night he spoke on "Five Things that Christ Stands for." In this some illustrations of man's control of politics and business and woman's control of society were exceedingly timely and ought to bear good fruit.

The subject for tonight is "The Great Obstacle." Service begins at 7:30.

Sunday afternoon at 4:30 Archdeacon Webber will hold a service for men only, his subject being "Higher Manhood."

17 C at Cotton.

That is the talk now and it comes from the operations of Patten, the celebrated speculator in wheat, who has gone to New York and opened an office in Wall Street for the purpose of taking a whirl at the cotton market. Patten is said to have formed a bull pool through which he expects to drive cotton up to 17 cents. He says he is convinced that "the present cotton crop will sell above 17 cents—that the record prices of the Sully year will be bettered." This conclusion is based solely on crop conditions and the increased consumption of the staple and he says he knows the outlook to be poor in all producing States, especially in Texas, which is the most important of all. One new factor he counts on is the demand that will be made for cotton in the manufacture of automobile tires. He thinks that this demand will absorb 850,000 bales. Another thing he believes is that the tariff on woollens will result in a much larger consumption of cotton cloths in this country. Patten declares that he is in the cotton market to stay, and that his present plan is to buy. He is confident that he will be as successful in cotton as he was in wheat. At any rate, his experience in cotton is going to be watched with interest.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Ahead of Death.

When the parson pronounces the sentence, or ceremony, it is, of course, "until death do us part," but subsequent developments frequently make different arrangements. And the range of matters which may beat death to the severing act is wide, as you will observe by a number of recent cases in the divorce court. One husband complained that his wife locked the front door and kept him out all night. Another husband got his, because he stayed out with the boys without being locked out. One woman complained that her husband was a heartless wretch because he made her shine his shoes. Another woman sought separation because her husband wouldn't kiss her; another because her husband would not kiss her enough. Still another sought legal separation because she was kissed too much. An ante-nuptial arrangement provided that she should be "punished" for certain everyday acts by kisses. She got so many kisses in this way that the punishment became real. Those three cases—the kissing ones—indicate the difficulty of striking a happy oscillatory average. A New Jersey husband was divorced because he wouldn't talk. A Wisconsin man left his wife because she wouldn't stop talking. It is so hard to tell what is wanted.—Acheson Globe.

Second Year Growth of Cotton.

W. B. McElhane, a farmer whose place is a few miles from Branchville, in Orangeburg bounty, has a stalk of cotton that has been growing for two years. This stalk of cotton survived all of the cold of last winter, and has produced a splendid yield of cotton for this year's crop. The stalk has on it at present about 60 full-grown bolls and quite a number of younger bolls that have not developed yet.—Fort Mill Times.

LIGHTNING AND SHIPS.

Vessels Are Struck More Frequently Than Is Supposed.

In spite of the popular impression to the contrary, ships remote from the land are seldom damaged by lightning, although some of the most awe-inspiring displays of atmospheric electricity are frequently witnessed by those on board of them.

Standing rigging and even parts of the running gear are now made of steel wire, and this substitute for the old fashioned hemp serves the purpose of lightning conductor when the ship is not fitted with such an aid to safety. The electric current is conveyed down the wire rigging and reaches the sea through the vessel's metal hull. Damage occurs only if the current be interrupted on its way down. In a comparatively large proportion of instances the fore-royal truck is struck by lightning, that of the main less frequently and the mizzen least of the three.

Very serious casualties under this head occurred to warships and merchant vessels in the days of wooden hulls and hempen rigging. In July, 1802, as thirteen sailing vessels of the East India company were trying to round the cape in the vicinity of Algoa bay, homeward bound, two of them, the Britannia and the Bombay Castle, were struck by lightning. The foremast of each was soon enveloped in flames, and the masts had to be cut away in order to save the ships and their combustible cargoes. A heavy gale was blowing, the night was dark, and the other ships of the fleet, which were here to at the time, were witnesses of this thrilling incident.

Many vessels are now fitted with lightning conductors of approved types lest the wire rigging should fail to carry off the electric current. In May, 1896, shortly after a severe thunderstorm, accompanied by lightning and rain, in 3 degrees south, 87 degrees east, the P. and O. steamship Victoria had a sudden increase of deviation amounting to 6 degrees in both the standard and the wheelhouse compasses, and later it was discovered that the lightning conductor on the fore had fused. The ship must have been struck by lightning during the storm.—Knowledge Magazine.

WALL STREET "TIPS."

Best Place to Plant Them if They Come Your Way.

A seasoned Wall street campaigner condenses a life of practical observation in the remark: "Stock market 'tips' are, as a rule, founded on nothing better than guesswork or pure invention. Although usually without value, openly peddled out to the public and not possible to trace to any reliable source, they come clothed in such a garb of mystery and apparent importance that there are always a lot of ill informed persons who will accept them and act on them as on gospel truth.

"Often these so called 'tips' are but the whispered suggestions of some manipulator who was confident that his mysterious, semiconfidential hint would travel and be made the basis of large buying of some stock he was especially anxious should be largely sold.

"It is told of one great speculative magnate of the past generation that when he was approached by the pastor of a rich and fashionable Fifth avenue church in search of means by which he could become suddenly rich he put his lips close to the clerical ear and whispered: 'Buy Pacific Mail. It's a sure thing. If you lose on it I'll make good your losses.'

"The pastor departed gleefully. Some two weeks later he called at the office of the manipulator and deplored the great financial losses he had incurred in following the confidential 'tip.' 'How much were they?' asked Mr. G., and on being told he drew his personal check for the amount.

"The minister took it and after expressing his thanks hesitated a moment and then said: 'But how about my parishioners? You placed no ban of secrecy on me, and their losses have been enormous.'

"The financier smiled grimly as he remarked, 'You see, doctor, those were the fellows I was after.'

"This story may be true or may not, but it points a moral. If you get a 'tip' on Wall street bury it in the back yard and forget it."—Cleveland Leader.

The Wrong Word.

Mrs. A.—I can remember the day when you begged me to say the word that would make you happy for life. Mr. A.—I know, but you said the wrong word.—Life.

Others Whenever.

Some people make happiness whenever they go.—Success.

A Raw Recruit.

Corporal (to town recruit on stable guard for the first time)—Now, you've got to patrol these 'ere lines an' 'ammer in any pegs that get loose an' generally look after the 'orses.

Recruit (whose knowledge of horses is of the slightest)—And what time am I to wake the horses in the mornin'?"—London Tit-Bits.

Off Guard.

"How did it happen that your friends got the best of you?" queried the inquisitive person.

"They got busy while I was watching my enemies," explained the man who had got the short end of it.—Chicago News.

Simplified Spelling.

"Write me an example of simplified spelling, children," said the teacher, and Tommie wrote: "The man who carves monuments urns his lrvng."—New York Times.

FEATS OF STRENGTH.

A Blacksmith Who Fairly Outdid Augustus the Strong.

Not all the world's strong men have been performers on the public stage. Indeed, instances might be multiplied in which the feats of professionals have been equaled or excelled.

Charles Louvier, a carpenter of Paris, found it child's play to roll a tin basin between his fingers into a cylinder. On one occasion he carried off a soldier on guard who had gone to sleep in the sentry box and deposited both the box and the soldier on a low churchyard wall near by.

Another man who sometimes found his great strength a source of amusement was a Danish locksmith, Knut Knudson. While standing in a window on the ground floor he lifted with one hand half a bullock from the shoulder of a butcher who was toiling past with his load.

Augustus the Strong, the elector of Saxony, once entered a blacksmith's shop to have his horse shod. To show his suit how strong he was he picked up several horseshoes and broke one after the other, asking the blacksmith as he did so if he had no better. When it came to paying the bill the elector threw a silver piece on the anvil. It was a very thick coin. The blacksmith took it up and broke it in half, saying, "Pardon me, but I have given you a good horseshoe, and I expect a good coin in return." Another piece was offered him. He broke that and five or six others. Then the humiliated elector handed him a louis d'or, saying, "The others were probably made of bad metal, but this gold piece is good. I hope."

An Italian, Luigi Bertini of Milan, performed a similar feat. Besides horseshoes, he broke nails a finger thick.

The Duke of Grammont, the minister of Napoleon III, frequently astonished the women at court by bending a twenty franc piece in his hand.—New York Tribune.

Early Italian Surgery.

Benvenuto Cellini (1500-1571) tells of early Italian surgery. He had got a bit of chipped steel in his eye, "so far into the pupil that it was impossible to get it out, so that I was in very great danger of losing that eye. But the surgeon came to the rescue with the pigeons. The surgeon, making me lie upon my back, with a little knife opened a vein in each of their wings, so that the blood ran into my eye, and I was thereby greatly relieved. In the space of two days the bit of steel fused from my eye, and I found that I had received considerable ease and in a great measure recovered my sight."

Live and Learn.

Among the words given out for analysis recently by a district school teacher in Pennsylvania was "bank-note." The instructor's astonishment may be imagined when one male pupil turned in the following unique paper: "Bank-note is a compound, primitive word, composed of 'bank' and 'note.' 'Bank' is a simple word, meaning the side of a stream; 'note,' to set down. 'Bank-note,' to set down by the side of a stream."—Lippincott's.

POWER OF WATER.

Under Certain Conditions It is Practically Irresistible.

When a man goes in swimming at the seashore and slaps the water forcibly with his hand or takes a back dive from a pier and lands squarely on his back he realizes that the unstable liquid offers not a little resistance. Yet, says a writer in the New York Tribune, it would surprise almost anybody to see what water will do under certain conditions.

A stream from a fireman's hose will knock a man down. The jet from a nozzle used in placer mining in the west eats away a large piece of land in a day, toys with great bowlders as if they were pebbles and would shoot a man over the country as though he were a projectile from a cannon.

There is a story of an eastern blacksmith who went west and made a bet that he could knock a hole through the jet of one of these nozzles with a sledge hammer. He lifted his arms, swung the sledge and came down on the ten inch stream with a force that would have dented an anvil. But the jet, never penetrated, whisked the massive hammer out of the blacksmith's hands and tossed it several hundred feet away into the debris of gold bearing gravel beneath a crumbling cliff. After this the blacksmith left out iron when he spoke of hard substances.

There is also a power plant near Durango, Colo., where a United States cavalryman one day thought he had an easy job in cutting a two inch stream with his sword. He made a valiant attack. The result was that his sword was shivered in two and his wrist broken.

A little thinner jet of water descending 1,000 feet to a manufactory at Grenoble, Spain, and traveling at the moderate speed of 100 yards a second fractures the best blades of Toledo.

Of course some people will not believe such stories without having seen the thing, and one may think it a proof of the scientific imagination to say that an inch thick sheet of water, provided it had sufficient velocity, would ward off bombshells as well as steel plate.

Nevertheless many persons while traveling have seen a brakeman put a small hydraulic jack under one end of a Pullman car and lift twenty tons or so by a few leisurely strokes of the pump handle, and the experience of riding every day in a hydraulic elevator tends to remove doubts of the magic power possessed by water hitched to a machine.

OUR PIANO WAREROOM

Now Open.

WITH the exception of two makes which have not reached us yet, the most of the makes which we intend to handle are now on our floor, next to Carr & Atkins Hardware Co.

The grandest display ever shown. In this magnificent group of pianos can be seen, the artistic Lester. This strictly high grade piano is used in the leading Conservatories of the U. S., among them in the New England Conservatory, Boston, largest musical institution in the U. S. The East Carolina Teachers' Training School, Greenville, N. C., has also equipped its music departments with these famous instruments. The renowned Henry and S. G. Lindeman Pianos, this concern is one of the most noted of the pioneers in the piano industry in this country. Of this piano we quote from the music trades:

"Mr. Henry Lindeman is considered to be one of the few really scientific and expert piano makers we have living today. He is also recognized as an expert scale drawer and his reputation for developing the same is second to none in the trade. He stands pre eminent as a maker of scales of pianos." Six other makes are a standard and legitimate. Among those "the Boudoir pianos" known as the smallest high grade, upright, ever manufactured "Nothing ever like it." A truly artistic little piano and is the artists' favorite of the little pianos. We thus quote the celebrated Madam Emma Calve: "Relative to the Boudoir Piano, which I purchased for my private use last February and used by me in my Trans-Continental Tour. I desire to say that this piano has certainly proved itself to be a little jewel. To state the whole truth, I am enthusiastic over this little piano. It possesses a quality of tone that is sweet and sympathetic, being practically well adapted to accompanying my voice, and a volume that is the equal of, if not surpassing, pianos of usual size. It is truly a wonderful little piano, and I would not dispose of mine for any consideration."

We invite the public to visit our wareroom. Are you considering the purchase of pianos, or have you one in your home on trial? Come and look at ours, and your home will be made happier and your pocket book will remain decidedly in a healthier condition. Terms to suit your convenience. Come and listen to the Lindeman, Lester, Milton and Bjure Bros. Player-pianos. Daily recitals.

WHAT IS A JOKE?

It is a Serious Business to the Man Who Concocts It.

"There's one thing I thought I knew, but find I don't know," said Tommy.

"What is a joke?"
Father pricked up his ears, as it were. "A joke," he said slowly, "is something its maker thinks is funny, but nobody else does."

"That explains it then. Today I said an awful quaint thing. Mother had a lot of women here, and they talked about clothes. I said: 'A woman's mind is always on clothes. When she ain't talking through her hat she's laughing up her sleeve.' But no one laughed, and I read that one too. Tell me a joke."

"If I were to say when I came home from visiting the cemetery that I had returned from the dead, that would be a joke."

"Is that a practical joke?"

"It is not. It's a grave joke."

"What's a practical joke?"

"If your mother just before going out shopping asked for money and I gave her all she wanted."

"Do you like practical jokes?"

"Not when they're as practical as that."

"Does every one like jokes?"

"Few people do. Most think it is more blessed to give than to receive."

"Then people can't take a joke?"

"There are some who can't. Editors, for instance, rarely take a joke."

"Does any one make money from the writing of jokes?"

"Only the papermakers and the postal department of the government."

"Must a joke be funny to be a joke?"

"Few are."

"Then some are serious?"

"Not exactly." But if you refer to a sexton as a man of grave cares some might think you intended to be jocular.

"Is a pun like a joke?"

"Nothing at all. A man who makes a joke is an idiot, whereas a man who makes a pun is a criminal."

"Then the man who writes what he thinks are jokes is a funny fellow?"

"No; it is a serious business with him."

"He has his ups and downs, then?"

"Yes. He gets up courage to write to editors and gets turned down by them."

"You're not referring to the man who writes the column in the papers every day? Surely life is one joke with him."

"No, it isn't. He thinks he's a humorist, but he's a pessimist. He'd rather be a hodcarrier."

"Why, does a hodcarrier make more money?"

"Well, he has a habit of climbing and often goes higher. Besides, the outdoor work is healthier."

"Isn't joke writing healthy?"

"Not when you're caught at it."

"Can a man write jokes and still be a gentleman?"

"You forget, Tommy, that our remarks are intended for publication and that I have many friends who write. Besides, I sometimes get off a joke or two myself."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The One Who Knows.

"Elijah," said the judge to the defendant, "you have had a fair trial. The prosecuting attorney has shown by circumstantial evidence that cannot be gainsaid that you were in Mr. Brown's chicken coop on the night that his hens disappeared, and your attorney in his speech has practically admitted that the theory of the prosecution is true. Have you anything to say before the court pronounces its decision?"

"Judge," said Elijah, rising politely. "all I's got to say is dis. I don't know much about de law, but I does know heahsay evudence isn't good, an' all dese lawyeys says is heahsay. I oughter know, fob I uz de only man in dat chicken coop dat night, an' I's denied it raight erlong."—Chicago Post.

Concerning His Kissing of Her.

Only one person with a mean disposition would have figured out this little prose poem. It runs as follows:

Which do you think is the greatest slur?

DID he kiss her?

DID HE kiss her?

DID he KISS her?

Or.

DID he kiss HER?—Cleveland News.

The Great Need.

"Miss Dolly, you know the old adage—"

"I don't want to hear anything about add-ages," she interrupted.—"What we girls want is some subtract-ages."—Woman's Home Companion.

Many a Greenville Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching. With distressing urinary disorders. Daily existence is but a struggle. No need to keep it up.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. One hundred thousand people endorse this claim.

Here is one case:

Mrs. Joseph Fly, Jr. Rose Street Rocky Mount, N. C., says: "I am pleased to testify in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, as the results I obtained from their use proved them to be a remedy of great merit. I suffered considerably from dull, nagging back-aches and sharp pains across my loins. If I stooped, lifted or made a quick movement, the twinges were more noticeable and often it was hard for me to perform my household duties. I always felt tired and languid and was devoid of energy or ambition. Believing that the trouble arose from my kidneys, I started using Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once and further use disposed of the pains in my back, regulated the passages of the kidney secretions and gave me renewed strength. I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
