BARACA CLASS

Of Memorial Baptist Church—Interesting Program.

Sunday was dedicated to the anniversary of the Baraca work, it being 19 years since Rev. Mr. Hudson organized the first Baraca class at Syracuse, N. Y., with 18 members, from which has sprung the great Baraca movement all over the world, until now Mr. Hudson is called millionheir Hudson on account of the great effort being made this year to push the membership to a million Baracas. There is no longer any doubt of reaching this mark.

This is recognized as one of the greatest works and most effective means of reaching mankind to lead him in the realms of higher life, than anything yet devised and is the real advance step of the 20th century progress. Electricity is the advance step of the side of commercial progress, and Baraca is the beacon light of religious advancement. A very suitable program was carried out befitting the occasion, a nice and appealing talk was made by Mr. J. B. Little, who by the way has the honor of being the longest member of the Baptist Sunday school, having joined in 1866. Also Mr. Z. T. Broughton made a very strong and effective talk portraying duty and work.

Prof. Wilson and also Prof. Ragsdale dropped in a few very appropriate words, the exercise closing with a song rendered by members of the Baraca class.

There were present 45 members, collections $2.95. Dr. J. W. Bryan, teacher, made one of the most interesting and forceful talks on the lesson that he has made in a year.

I believe our teacher is loved by every member of the class. Attention was called to the extreme sickness in the family of Brother John Stokes and prayer was offered for his sick child.

FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., Oct. 18.

Miss Savage, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. L. Warren, for the past week has returned home.

W. R. Dixon, who has been visiting his brother near New Bern, returned Saturday. He reports a plenty of fish in the Neuse and says they are easy to catch.

The ladies of the Betterment Association held an interesting meeting of their association at the school house on Wednesday afternoon and elected their officers for the coming year.

Miss Mary Joyner, who is teaching at Smith's school house, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Joyner.

Mrs. D. E. Burch, of Walstonburg, who has been visiting Mrs. Mewborn, has returned to her home.

While B. S. Smith was in Richmond attending the fair he purchased some fine horses. He had these shipped in last week.

Frank Butts, a highly respected young man, died very suddenly at the home of his father, Allen Butts, in Greene county, last night.

The United Development Corporation have sold a great many of the Greenville Heights lots, but have yet some very choice home sites for sale. See our representatives and let them show you.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

Editor Reflector:

The negro is learning the power of organization, Chas. H. Moore, national organizer of the local negro business leagues, came to this city on Friday, the 15th, for the purpose of organizing a league among his people here. By some misunderstanding his coming had not been publicly announced, but when the matter was brought to the attention of the pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church through the co-operation of his board of trustees, arrangements were soon made to hold the meeting at the above named church at 8 p. m., and those interested got busy and talked it up, so that there was an appreciative audience of both sexes to greet this cultured negro. He is easily one of the most learned and best informed negroes of his race. He is the first negro graduate from Amhurst college in Massachusetts, and during the administration of President Author he filled a government position in his State, and since that time his life has been devoted to the educational work of his race.

When the hour arrived for opening the meeting, Rev. Jas. T. Gaskill, pastor of the church, in a few well chosen words, introduced Prof. Epps as chairman of the meeting, who, in his introductory remarks, emphasized the necessity of the negro going into business, and becoming producers as well as consumers. Organizer Moore, then addressing his audience, held it spell-bound for more than an hour, telling of the progress the race has made along business lines since the league was first organized by Booker T. Washington in Boston ten years ago. At the conclusion of this splendid address, an organization was effected, with W. P. Norcott, president; William Little, vice president; Lizzie Kearney, secretary, and Ida R. Jones, treasurer. G.

Public Library.

The library under the management of the End of the Century Club has been a great benefit to the community, as well as given pleasure to many readers. Finding it impossible to enlarge the library, or even to run it with the money we have we ask the people of Greenville to help us, by reading the books and paying one dollar per year for the privilege. Realizing the great benefits derived from reading good books we hope the public will become interested and help us in this work. Subscribers will have the privilege of sending names of new books desired, to the librarian. New books will be added monthly, and many other improvements made. Beginning on November the first the library will be opened on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 3 to 5 p. m.

ASSAULTED FOR WHISKEY.

Colored Man While Delivering Package is Attacked and Relieved of it.

Early Saturday night a man asked Lawrence Norcott, colored, to go with him to the express office to get a package which he wanted delivered. Lawrence went with the man as requested, the package, which contained a gallon of liquor, was turned over to him and he started away to deliver it at the place designated. It seems that somebody overthirsty for a drink saw Lawrence leave the express office with the package and followed him. When around on Cotanch street going toward Third street, Lawrence was almost stunned by a brick striking him on the head and cutting his head severely. He turned around to see why he was thus attacked when he saw a man a short distance away throw another brick at him which grazed his shoulder. Lawrence got out his pocket knife in the effort to defend himself when a third brick struck him a heavy blow on the side, cutting off his breath and causing him to drop the package. His assailant grabbed the package and fled.

Lawrence's cry for help brought assistance and he was carried to Dr. Skinner's office for attention. No bones were broken in the assault, but several stitches had to be taken to close the ugly wound on his head. He is laid up at his home from the injury.

Y. M. C. A. Notice.

The Christian Church Baracas will organize a Y. M. C. A. at the Christian church next Sunday at 3 p. m. Every minister, Sunday school teacher, worker and pupil and everyone interested in this work, are earnestly requested to be present and take part in this organization.

The meeting is simply intended to effect the organization and then a hall for regular meetings and Y. M. C. A. work will be secured.

Come help us—help the town—help the young people.

A fuller notice will appear during the week.

The undersigned was instructed to publish notices and invite all to be present.

Henry T. King

In the Old Postoffice.

Mr. C. A. Payne, formerly with Aronson & Brown, is having the store building which was until recently occupied by the postoffice, fitted up for a motion picture theatre, and carpenters are working hard to get it ready for occupancy by the latter part of this week. The name of the new place will be "The Pastime Theatre," and Mr. Payne says he is to have the same machine and same film service used in the opera house, which we know is good. Watch for the announcement of the first show.

The Hereafter.

On Sunday night Rev. J. B. Cook, pastor of Memorial Baptist church began a series of sermons on "The Hereafter" and will continue it through several Sunday evenings. The subject of the first sermon in this series was "Death and the Immortality of the Soul." Next Sunday night he will speak on "The Intermediate State." This series of sermons promises to be of interest, as people as a rule do not give as much thought to the hereafter as they should.

GAMBLING ON SPECIAL OCCASIONS

Greenville, N. C., Oct. 18.

Editor Reflector:

I want to ask a question that occurs to the average mind once in a while, but is never answered satisfactorily, and if any of your official readers can answer it I would be glad to hear from him.

Why is a law that is for the protection of the people who haven't enough moral strength to protect themselves, suspended on special occasions? I have in mind the gambling at the carnival and circus which were recently here.

If a few "coons" shooting a game of crap at 5 cents a throw or a few young white men playing a game of poker at 1 cent ante off in some quiet place where chances are equal to all parties, are caught they are promptly nabbed and fined a large sum or sent up to serve on the chain gang. They were gambling in violation of our town and State laws, and that is perfectly right.

If a carnival or a circus comes to town and runs three or four skin games, where there is a semblance of gambling but never a chance to win, with "cons" robbing the crowds who have come out to see the show, playing on one of man's greatest passions—that of taking a chance—nothing is said. Thus the law is suspended for the thieves to rob our citizens, those the law was designed to protect, some of whom are too dense to know that they didn't have an equal chance to win, even after they had lost.

Why is this so? Is it the petty little license that causes our officials to violate the State law in suspending it, WHERE THEY HAVE NO RIGHT? Or is it graft that closes the eyes of our officers? I refuse to believe the latter, we have too good men at the helm. Yet, why is the law not enforced in all cases of gambling?

I am not asking this question because I have been "stung," but because I have seen others who were, recently, and because I was born with at interrogation point in my mouth. U Know.

At Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Geo. W. Belk of Wilson, the Synodical evangelist for North Carolina, will conduct a series of services at the Presbyterian church each evening this week at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Belk preached here twice in the Presbyterian church yesterday to good congregations. He is a strong preacher and both of his sermons were very much liked.

The public has a cordial invitation to attend these services. The subject for tonight is "Mysteries of Divine Providence."

Marriage License.

Register of Deeds, W. M. Moore, has issued the following marriage license since last report:

MONDAY OCT. 18, 1909.

An important meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday night, and every business man who is interested in the progress of Greenville should be present.

Charlotte druggists are selling butter milk at their soda fountains, and The Observer says it is running other fountain drinks a race for popularity. That is a drink that ought to become generally popular. It will increase dairy business and drive out some of the hurtful fountain nostrums that people pour into their stomachs.

Prisoners are sent to the jails or penitentiary as a punishment for some crime they have committed, but because they are criminals serving sentence is no reason they should be harshly treated, or their lives entitled to as much protection as other people. Several instances have recently occurred in this State of prisoners being killed by guards who were placed over them. An apparently inexcusable circumstance of this kind took place in the penitentiary at Raleigh, a few days ago, when a guard named Dupree killed a crippled convict named Murphy. The coroner of Wake county investigated the matter and held Dupree for the action of the grand jury.

S. A. L. Operates Trains by Telephone

On September 4th the Seaboard Air Line put into service its new telephone train dispatching circuit between Raleigh and Monroe, North Carolina, 148 miles. This part of the road is single track and handles a heavy traffic, the movement of trains being assisted by a block telephone system. The dispatch is located at Hawlet, North Carolina, 95 miles from Raleigh.

Western Electric telephones and Gill main line bridged selectors are used throughout this equipment. There are 29 selector way stations and two siding telephones located in the weatherproof booths at blind sidings. Two portable telephones are provided for wreck cars. These may be connected to the dispatcher's line at any point by means of a jointed line pole.

Mr. W. F. Williams, superintendent of telegraph, who has charge of the work, states that the telephone circuit has worked perfectly ever since being put into service. He says that the transmission could not be better, and to indicate the character of the circuit he has installed, states that he has heard a watch tick over the entire 148 miles of the line.

The officials of the road consider that the service of this division has been very distinctly improved since adopting the telephone, while the dispatchers find that they can handle the business faster, more comprehensively and with less fatigue.

Rotation in Congress.

The Rowland Sun "could never understand why the people of the sixth district are so anxious to change congressmen every two or four years." Clearly because somehow many people in the sixth district consider high public office just so much pie, to be sliced up small that it may go as far as possible. In congress, where acquired prestige, seniority and acquaintance with legislation count for almost everything, the sixth's constantly changing representative has had a hard time. Inevitably the district suffers. Suppose the whole State or the whole South filled seats in congress on this pie plan! If the whole country did it, transaction of public business would be almost impossible. Those States and sections which send capable men to congress and keep them there are the ones which rule the country. To be represented by a new representative in the house every two or four years is hardly to be represented at all.

How this degraded conception first got hold in the sixth district we do not know, but inasmuch as the sixth district people are themselves all right, it must have been due to unusual circumstances.—Charlotte Observer.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Many a Greenville Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching. With distressing urinary disorders. Daily existence is but a struggle. No need to keep it up. Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. One hundred thousand people endorse this claim.

Here is one case:
Mrs. Joseph Fly, Jr. Rose Street Rocky Mount, N. C., says: "I am pleased to testify in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, as the results I obtained from their use proved them to be a remedy of great merit. I suffered considerably from dull, nagging backaches and sharp pains across my loins. If I stooped, lifted or made a quick movement, the twinges were more noticeable and often it was hard for me to perform my household duties. I always felt tired and languid and was devoid of energy or ambition. Believing that the trouble arose from my kidneys, I started using Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once and further use disposed of the pains in my back, regulated the passages of the kidney secretions and gave me renewed strength. I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."

The First Law of Nature.

Two Irish soldiers stationed in the West Indies were accustomed to bathe daily in a little bay which was generally supposed to be free from sharks. Though on good terms with each other, they were not what might be called fast friends.

One day as they were swimming about 100 yards from the shore Pat observed Mike suddenly making for the land as hard as he could without saying a word. Wondering what was the matter, Pat struck out vigorously after him and landed at his companion's heels.

"Is there anything wrong wid yo?" inquired Pat feelingly.

"Nothin', nothin' at all," replied the other.

"Thin what did you make such a suddint retrate for an' lave me?" continued Pat.

"Bedad," answered Mike coolly, "I spied the fin av a big shark about twenty feet ahead, an' I thought while he was playin' wid you it would give me time to reach the shore!"

The Nebulae.

The discovery of the gaseous nature of the nebulae came about largely through the use of the spectroscope and spectrum analysis. Fraunhofer proved that the spectrum of an ignited gaseous body is "noncontinuous, with interrupting lines," and J. W. Draper demonstrated that the spectrum of an ignited solid is always continuous, with no interrupting lines. In this way it was proved that many of the nebulae are gaseous, illustrating the process of development actually going on.—New York American.

No Race Suicide.

There are many anecdotes of actors and playwrights in the recollections of Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft. Some of these, of course, originate with the always amusing H. J. Byron. To a provincial landlady he once bitterly complained of having been attacked by fleas.

"Fleas, sir?" was the retort. "I am sure there is not a single flea in my house."

"I am sure of it, too," was Byron's rejoinder. "They are all married and have large families."

Warlike Sitka Indians.

"Did you know that the most warlike tribe of savages in this country in the old days was the Sitka Indians in Alaska?" asked a citizen of Vancouver, B. C. "In comparison with them the Sioux and Apaches of our American Indians were as peaceable as cows. The Sitka men were of the real fighting stock and valued life no more than last year's blubber.

"Their religion was one of many gods, and everything about them had its own particular ruling spirit. The relics of their worship still stand—their totem poles, with their inscriptions and strangely carved figures. The Eskimos we know are a far different sort, given to the pursuit of their existence by simple and peaceable means."—Washington Herald.

A Realist.

"I am a great believer in realism," remarked the poet.

"Yes?" we queried, with a rising inflection, thereby giving him the desired opening.

"I sometimes carry my ideas of realism to a ridiculous extreme," continued the poet.

"Indeed!" we exclaimed inanely, somewhat impatient to reach the point of his witticism.

"Yes," continued the poet; "the other day I wrote a sonnet to the gas company and purposely made the meter defective."

At this point we fainted.—Washington Post.

Animals He Had Met.

Little Harry was visiting in the country and while there became very much attached to his cousin's pet dog. "Haven't you any animals at home?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," replied the little fellow. "We have roaches and flies."—Chicago News.

THERMOMETERS.

Testing Processes at the National Weather Bureau.

Each day at the weather bureau in Washington the thermometers received from various manufacturers throughout the country are put through the test of standardizing them.

The various processes through which the bulbs pass before they are labeled "accurate" are easy, inasmuch as there is practically little scientific work attached to the test. When a thermometer is first handed to the man in the testing room it is dipped into a vat filled with a compound far below the freezing point. It is thrust in at the point where it happens to be at the time and worked up and down until the degree of the compound is reached. Having then recorded the lowest temperature, the process of testing for the highest is begun. This is just as simple as testing for the low temperature. The bulb is dipped into a vat of water, first at 60 degrees. Then it is worked gradually until 180 degrees is reached. If the mercury in the bulb will indicate 130 degrees further testing is unnecessary, because that is a tolerably warm temperature and one seldom if ever reached by natural heat.

A thermometer the bulb of which contains mercury will not register lower than 28 degrees below zero—that is, mercury will freeze at that point. In this country very little use is found for thermometers showing more than 28 degrees below zero, but in the far north they are of course necessary. Such instruments, however, contain spirits in the bulbs instead of mercury, but even this fluid becomes sluggish when 40 or 50 below zero is recorded, and it will seldom show 60 below.—Harper's Weekly.

Shampoo.

A mid-eighteenth century traveler, who is the first person known to have made English of the word "shampoo," wrote that "shampooing is an operation not known in Europe and is peculiar to the Chinese, which I had once the curiosity to go through, and for which I paid but a trifle. However, had I not seen several Chinese merchants shampooed before me I should have been apprehensive of danger, even at the sight of all the different instruments." The original "shampoo," as this traveler's detailed account and other allusions for long after his time show, was very much what we call "massage" now. It was from India that the word really came, and it represents the imperative of a verb meaning to knead.

Long Canals.

The Grand canal of China is the longest entirely artificial waterway in the world, extending as it does from Hangchou to Peking, a distance of almost 700 miles. The part between the Yellow river and the Yangtze is said to have been constructed over 500 years before Christ. The remaining portions were built separately at later dates, and Kublai-Khan, whose rule began in 1280, united them and made the continuous canal, which is still used. Much longer continuous waterways, partially natural and for the remainder of their extent artificial, exist elsewhere. Of these the longest reaches from the Chinese frontier to St. Petersburg. It measures 4,472 miles. Another, running from Astrakhan to St. Petersburg, is 1,434 miles. Both these were projected and commenced by Peter the Great.

Always the Sermon.

An American was being shown over an old church beneath which hundreds of people were interred.

"A great many people sleep beneath this roof," said the guide, with a wave of his hand.

"Is that so?" exclaimed the American. "Same way over in our country. Why don't you get a more interesting preacher?"—Liverpool Mercury.
