STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Salisbury, Oct. 24.—A rather severe storm passed over the city late yesterday afternoon during which lightning set fire to the big barn and stable on the farm of Mr. T. A. Coughenour, at the old Fraley race track, near the city, the bolt striking a large tree a few feet off and running to the barn. The building, a number of farming implements and a large amount of hay and feedstuffs were consumed. Some live stock which was in the stable at the time were gotten out, though two colored employes were stunned but soon recovered.

Fayetteville, Oct. 24.—Mrs. A. R. McLeod, wife of Mr. A. R. McLeod, superintendent of ex-Congressman G. B. Patterson's farm in Gray's Creek township, this county, while superintending the weighing of cotton on the farm was viciously attacked by a negro woman cotton picker, who becoming enraged over the question of weight of cotton picked by her felled Mrs. McLeod to the ground and severely beat her. She was prevented from inflicting further injuries only by the interference of other negro hands. The De Vane woman fled, accompanied by her husband, Archie De Vane, and has yet been apprehended, though the neighborhood has been searched by a posse.

Asheville, Oct. 24.—The business part of the town of Andrews on the Murphy branch, near Murphy, was almost wiped out by fire which broke out in the centre of the town last night. Six buildings were destroyed before the fire could be checked. Russell's drug store, an adjoining millinery store, a hardware store, the Andrews bottling works and office buildings were burned. The buildings destroyed carried little if any insurance.

Yesterday afternoon, at her home in Jacksonville, N. C., Mrs. Hafford Willis, the wife of a prominent citizen, shot and instantly killed a colored man named Henry Williams. Mrs. Willis was sitting upon the porch cleaning her husband's gun when Williams started up the steps. The hammer of the gun was cocked, and in some way released it and the entire load of shot took effect in the negro's face. Mrs. Willis was taken before a magistrate and given a preliminary hearing, but the evidence was not sufficient to convict her and she was released.—New Bern Journal Oct. 24th.

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 25.—Will Hendricks, colored, 45 years old, serving a two year term on the county road force for blind tigering, was buried beneath many tons of rock at the quarry near the city today and instantly killed.

Winston-Salem, Oct. 25.—J. J. Reed, aged 58, who conducts grocery store in this city, while out collecting in the northern part of the city this morning was shot and robbed of fifty dollars by two white men unknown to Reed.

Ginners' Report.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—The census bureau today issued a report showing that 5,525,591 bales, counting round as half bales, had been ginned from the growth of 1909 to October 18 as compared with 6,296,166 for 1908; 4,20,258 for 1907 and 4,931,621 for 1906.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 26, 1909.

Mr. and Mrs. Stancill Hodges spent Sunday at his former home near Washington.

J. J. Gentry spent Sunday at his home in Winston-Salem.

The Methodists gave another very fine musical on last Friday night. It was much enjoyed by everybody.

D. D. Haskett, of Greenville, spent Saturday in Ayden in the interest of The Progressive Farmer.

Richard Wingate has some very fine horses in now. You will not regret coming to see his stock.

The famous piano man, Fineman, was doing some hustling in our little town last week. When Mr. Fineman is in town you would think the place has taken on new life, for you can hear music at all times.

The people who went from Ayden to the Raleigh fair report a fine trip.

The Southward Swing of Commerce.

During September of this year only Southern ports along the Atlantic and the Gulf showed a gain in exports of breadstuffs. These were Norfolk and Portsmouth, Mobile and New Orleans. All North Atlantic ports showed a falling off. The gains were made in the face of nearly $6,000,000 decline in breadstuffs exported. The only port on the Atlantic or the Gulf showing a gain over the same nine months of last year was Mobile.

In meat and dairy products exported only Galveston and Mobile out of all the Atlantic and Gulf ports showed any gain over September 1908.

The ports showing gains over September 1908 in cotton exported are Philadelphia (1,261 bales) Brunswick, Ga. (18,451) Charleston, S. C. (10,000) Savannah, Ga. (56,244) Wilmington, N. C. (10,418).

In mineral oils the nine months ending September show Galveston and Sabine to be the only ports along the Atlantic or the Gulf that gained over the same nine months of last year.

HANRAHAN ITEMS.

Hanrahan, N. C., Oct. 26, 1909.

J. McLawhorn went to Kinston Wednesday and returned Thursday.

J. C. Dawson attended the circus at Rocky Mount Thursday.

W. J. Bullock attended the carnival at Kinston Wednesday night.

J. Z. Brooks, of Grifton, passed through town Tuesday.

T. F. Johnson and Luther Smith attended church at Ayden Thursday night.

Dr. J. W. Perkins, of Greenville, was here Thursday on business.

M. G. Bryan, of Winterville, gave us a call Saturday.

P. Harris attended the fair and show at Raleigh last week.

Several from here went to the carnival at Kinston last week.

Five Potatoes.

Mr. H. S. Tyson, one of Falkland township's farmers who makes things grow, brought The Reflector some specimens of his sweet potato crop. They are the Norton yam variety and so large that ten of them overrun a peck.

The Reflector does job work.

PREPARING FOR TAFT.

His Visit Will be a Red Letter Day for North Carolina.

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 26.—

One thousand men representing the United States and state military establishments will participate in the magnificent Taft day parade when President Taft makes his memorable visit to Wilmington, Tuesday, November ninth. There also will be numerous bands, including the following crack musical organizations: United States Coast Artillery Band, thirty pieces, from Fort Caswell; First South Carolina Regiment Band, twenty-five pieces, from Spartanburg, S. C.; Third North Carolina Regiment Band, twenty-five pieces, from Raleigh, N. C.; the Delgado Band, of Wilmington, sixteen pieces, and others.

The inspiring military pageant with its pomp, its bands, its drum corps, and its colors flying, the ensemble of two thousand school children dressed in red, white and blue to form a United States flag, the spectacular marine parade, an exhibition drill by United States troops, profuse decorations, magnificent illuminations, and other features will indeed make the Taft visit a red letter day for North Carolina. Wilmington will be the beauty spot of North Carolina—the municipal gem of Dixie—the thrilling sphere of enjoyment—the mecca of countless throngs.

At the Pastime Theatre Tonight.

Everyone knows about the great Aviation Contest held at the Rhems, France, recently. It was a great event. Not many people in this part of the country got to see it, because of the expense, but the moving picture people have arranged so the people all over the world may see the next best things to it—pictures of the real contest—at a small cost. This great picture—Aviation Contest at Rhems, France—will be run, together with two other very fine pictures—"Caught in His Own Trap" and "Stricken Blind"—at the Pastime Theatre this afternoon and tonight. Don't miss it. The price is the same, 5c and 10c. You will find the building nice and warm.

A Brief Courtship.

Miss Lula Scoggins, of Bragtown, and Mr. Lonnie Morgan, of Snow Hill, Greene county, were united in holy bonds of matrimony this morning at 9 o'clock by Justice of the Peace R. C. Cox.

The ceremony was performed in his office in the presence of friends of the couple. This marriage is the aftermath of a courtship that was started little less than three months ago. The bride went to Raleigh yesterday to attend the fair and met her sweetheart there by agreement. After having been with her all day he could not bear the thought of leaving her and so came with her to Durham. They talked the matter over last night with the result that they decided to get married this morning.

They left on the morning train for his home in Snow Hill, where they will make their future home.—Durham Sun.

All ladies coming to Greenville shopping are cordially invited to go to the rest rooms, where they will find everything comfortable. You will find them in the Hoel building on Third street. They are free to all.

SHOULD MEET HUMAN NEEDS.

They Must Keep Pace With the Rapid Progress of the World.

Does a decline in church attendance necessarily prove a decline in religious interest? Where there are opposing motives acting, failure in the desired result may be due to a strengthening of the negative motives, without a weakening, and even in spite of a less increase, of the positive.

The conditions of life have been more changed since the application of steam and electricity to manufacture and transportation than in all the millenniums which preceded. Men work harder; need more rest and relaxation; find it less easy to secure them without leaving their own neighborhood or availing themselves of the arts of popular entertainment, while they find the means both of travel and of amusement rendered easy and inexpensive by the same civilization that taxes their energy in toil.

And the remedy? Not in vain lament at changed conditions; not in denying the attractiveness of the varied possibilities developed by civilization, but, as Dr. Crooker tells us in "The Church of Today," in insisting and demonstrating that the church also is permanent because it, too, meets a genuine human need and is highest of all; because that need is the deepest, and is "the supreme element which all other institutions need in order to reach their greatest worth and highest efficiency."

Just because the motives to worldliness have been strengthened, it is not enough for the church to do as well today as it did in the past. "What is needed is a church as far ahead of its predecessor as the railroad is swifter than the stage-coach. Shall a people who have quintupled their rate of travel over the earth be satisfied to proceed toward the heavenly kingdom no faster than their fathers?—Edward Tallmadge Root in The Delinquent for November.

Two Accidents at Ayden.

Ayden, Oct. 25.—W. H. Roberson, a prosperous mill man and farmer, was adjusting a set screw in his saw mandrel, when his trousers were taken by the shaft and he narrowly escaped an untimely death, his leg being badly lacerated.

Raleigh Jackson, one of the foremen of the Ayden Lumber Company, while superintending cutting and operating a skidder was hit by the limbs of a falling tree, rendering him unconscious for a while. He is now in a critical condition at his home on Lee street. Grave fears are entertained for his recovery.

Graded School Notice.

Parents and guardians of children are hereby reminded that no beginners will be admitted to the first grade of the Greenville graded school after Nov. 1st.

If your children have never been to school, and they are six years old, send them to school on or before next Monday.

H. B. Smith, Supt.

Forty Years After.

In the first decade succeeding the civil war the South made an average annual crop of 2,500,000 bales of cotton.

The cotton mills of the South are now consuming 2,500,000 bales annually.

This looks like progress.—Charlotte Observer.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

C. V. York went to Tarboro today.

J. F. Stokes went to Rocky Mount today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Evans returned Monday evening from Ayden.

Earl Harrington went to Washington Monday evening and returned this morning.

Miss Lillian Gray, one of the graded school teachers, went to Kinston this afternoon.

E. L. Conn, a member of the Raleigh News and Observer staff, spent Monday night here.

Mrs. C. S. Carr returned Monday from Richmond where she had been for treatment in the hospital.

The family of President R. H. Wright arrived a few days ago and have joined him over at the training school.

Mrs. M. Cherry, who has been critically ill for the past week is now convalescent. At one time her recovery was despaired of.—Washington News.

Mrs. D. E. House, who for several weeks has been quite sick with fever at the home of her mother, in Edgecombe county, has sufficiently recovered to return to home, much to the delight of her many friends.

An Unfortunate Prayer.

There is an elder of a certain church up State who thinks that things are only half done or not well started in which he has no voice. At a prayer-meeting he offered thanks for the safe return from their vacation of the minister and his wife. With proper dignity and in a loud voice he said: "O, Lord, we thank Thee for bringing our pastor safe home, and his dear wife, too, O, Lord, for Thou preservest man and beast." "The dear wife" has made a change in her visiting list since then.

Young Men's Mistake.

The trouble with most young men is that they do not understand the dignity of manual labor. They do not realize that honor and fortune may be more readily gained outside of the so-called learned professions than in them; and that it is just as honorable to swing a hammer or to hold a plow as it is to make a speech in court or to amputate a limb. The lesson young men should be taught as early as possible is that it is not so much what a man does for a living as how he does it, and that manual labor is as honorable as any other.—Durham Sun.

A Nice Street.

The street leading from Five Points to the training school is nearing completion and a plank sidewalk has been built from Cotanch street to the school entrance. The improvement greatly helps the appearance of things over that way.

For Sale—The complete bottling plant now operated by the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company in building near Atlantic Coast Line depot. Also seven tenant houses and lots fronting on A. C. Telegraph Lines to be Improved.

Telegraph Repairers Jones, of Weldon and Rigan, of Tarboro, were here Monday afternoon looking into the needs of reconstructing the Western Union lines from the office in The Reflector building up Third street to the A. C. L. railroad. It is likely that a cable will be installed as far as Pitt street to avoid contact with shade trees.

STAY ON THE FARM.

On Sunday morning President Taft spoke to a large gathering of Sunday school children at Terrell, Tex., and closed his remarks with this excellent advice:

"You here live on agriculture. I sincerely hope that you are growing up with the idea that it is your business to go into the towns and cities. The future of the American boy, in my judgment, is largely involved in his pursuing the science and profession of the farmer. The results of economic, scientific business like farming are more profitable than any other trade or profession, and when you look forward just consider that you are going to follow along the course of our fathers and that you are going to make this country, or some other country, blossom as the rose. The tendency toward the city is not one that we ought to encourage. I hope that the development of the comforts of country life are such that we may look forward now to a lessening of the movement toward large cities. The place for us to accomplish things is in the country. The cities will take care of themselves."

There is no better time than now for some men of means to get interested in the establishment of a flour mill, and for the farmers to be planning to sow wheat. At the present high price of flour there is no denying that the farmers can raise wheat and have it ground into flour much cheaper than they can buy it. There is plenty of good wheat land in Pitt county and the farmers can grow it successfully, but to get them to do this there should be a good mill at which flour can be made.

Down in Texas a big fat 'possum was put aboard President Taft's train, and the president was looking forward with pleasure to a 'possum and tater' dinner next day. But during a stop at night somebody stole the 'possum and another had to be provided before the anticipated dinner could be spread.

This week is Charlotte's turn with a fair and a circus, and the "Queen City" is happy.

The Coming Better Day for Southern Farming.

We have faith in Southern farming. We realize that, in spite of all our faulty methods and all our imperfect systems, it is the agriculture of the South which has built up its cities—as well as the cities of other sections—and which has changed this region from a land of seemingly hopeless ruin to one of comparative prosperity and of untold possibilities. If all this has been done under the crude, wasteful and often destructive methods of the past, what may not be accomplished when, with a clearer view of the underlying principles of scientific farming, a more careful attention to the details of every-day work and the general adoption of more economical methods, the Southern farmer starts out in real earnest to make this country what it should be? We believe that good farming—the kind of farming that our readers, and that all the farmers of the South, are going to do—will not only produce crops at a lower cost and hence at a greater profit, but will also redeem the worn-out fields of the South and convert the lands now waste and unprofitable into fertile and productive areas, the homes of a thrifty, progressive and prosperous people.

Not only do we believe in the possibility of Southern agriculture, we also believe with all our hearts in the Southern farmers—they whose work it is which decides for all the South—the question of plenty or scarcity. We believe that the farmers of the South are not less intelligent, less industrious, less aspiring or less capable than farmers of any other section. Therefore, we believe that they can build up in the South a rural civilization the equal of any that can be built up in the South a rural civilization the equal of any that can be built in any other land or climate, and the superior of any that the world has yet seen.—Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer.

A LOAFERS' PARADISE

Life of the Happy-go-lucky West Indian Negroes.

LAZY JOY FOR LITTLE WORK.

Six Months' Labor Enables Them to Loll in Indolence For a Year and a Half—Combing the Islands For Men For the Sugar Plantations.

A happy-go-lucky, stand up and fall down, genial, inconsequential spirit animates the West Indian negroes in their labors and in their begging. From the sweating toilers on the dock at Macoris loading sugar into the steamers, with their warning cry, "Ree-low!" to the men in the hold, to the grinning boys hauling their fishing boats up on the beach at Dominica, they live from day to day and take no thought of the morrow. A West Indian negro with $50 will live for a year and never do a stroke of work.

And why not? His living costs him only 9 cents a day. He has his little cabin for the occupancy. A mango tree grows in his yard, and he can pick plantains by the road at will. If he is too lazy to hake 5 cents will buy bread for the family for the day, and a few cents more will buy a dozen small fish and one large one. A single garment does for the women, and $5 will clothe the man for a year, while the pickaninies run as God made them.

The West Indies are the paradise of the happy loafer. Every year the islands are combed from end to end for hands to work the great sugar plantations in Santo Domingo, and at that the negroes must often be practically kidnaped to get them on the boats.

In November of each year the sugar boats, little sloops and schooners that spend the remainder of the year trading among the islands get into the Santo Domingo negro trade. Their captains and supercargoes, when they have them, and the owners go up and down the islands telling the negroes that on a certain day the vessel will sail for Santo Domingo and take all who want to go to work on the sugar plantations.

Take the little island of St. Martin's for illustration. For a week the island is combed, and on the appointed day a dozen sloops and schooners are crowded into Marigot bay. The night before the negroes have begun to stream into the little town that sleeps through the year, waiting for this one day to bring it to life. Boards are laid across boxes, and rum and whisky are set out to arouse the negroes to the pitch that will carry them out to the vessels bound for the plantations.

All day the men stream into the town, traveling barefooted along the sandy roads, swept in by the sailors, singing their song of riches to be had for the asking. Ahead of the men walk their women, toting heavy boxes on their heads, while the men are dressed in their best, with a cocky straw hat perched on one ear, swinging a dandy cane and carrying their shoes in their hands. At the outskirts of the town they put on their shoes and swing gayly up to the open air bars on the beach.

The women lug the big boxes down to the beach and wait at being left alone until they, too, become filled with the excitement of the scene and urge their men folks on. The men hang back and laugh and drink and deny that they are going.

"Is you goin', Big Tawm?"

"Naw, Ah ain' goin'. Ah jus' come tuh see."

"Yas, yo' is goin', Big Tawm. Git in dat boat."

"Come on heah, boy. Yas, ha!"

And all the time the rowboats, loaded to the gunwales, are plying back and forth between the shore and the sloops. By sundown the beach is swept clean and six little sloops and a schooner make sail and drift out of the harbor on a dying breeze, loaded down with a thousand black men and women, who will wake in the morning with a raging thirst. Then woe be to the captain who has not filled his water casks, for there is sure to be at least one body to be given to the sharks after the fight around the butts!

When the vessels drop anchor off Macoris the plantation foremen come off and look over the cargoes and pay the shipmasters $2.50 each for passage money for the negroes. Then the blacks are herded ashore and are credited with 30 cents a day for a month for working from sunrise to sunset in the cane fields. By that time the $2.50 passage money is paid back. Then they receive their 30 cents a day in cash for the next six months with the cutting and grading season is over, when the sloops show up again and take them to their homes for $2.50 each, paid in advance.

The foremen collect from the plantation owners 60 cents a day each for pay for the black hands, but with their share of the money the negroes can live for a year and a half before they have to think of being another day's work. And they do it. Year after year the trade is piled, and the islands are combed for men for the plantations, and year after year the negroes return home to eighteen months of lazy joy.—New York Tribune.

MENACE OF ICEBERGS.

One Danger of Sea Against Which Wireless Is of Little Avail.

The fear of icebergs has been partly removed in recent years by wireless telegraphy, but their presence on the seas is still menacing enough to cause anxiety.

The government every summer and fall makes out an iceberg guide. When some ship reports an iceberg in a certain latitude and longitude a little red dot is placed on the iceberg chart.

It is drifting in a southerly direction, and allowances are made for so many miles of advance every twenty-four hours. So the red dot is moved slowly forward. But adverse winds, seas and currents may change the course of the berg, and this sort of reckoning may prove all wrong.

Later another ship reports the same or another iceberg in a different place, says Harper's Weekly. More red dots appear on the chart, and as the season advances the danger points increase. These charts are issued as warnings to mariners. Ships sailing in certain northern latitudes must study the location of the icebergs, and for the sake of safety the captains provide themselves with duplicates of the charts.

Icebergs are dangerous obstructions to navigation on clear, dark nights as well as in times of fog. They carry no lights, and they cannot be detected in the dark until close upon a ship.

Experienced sea captains possess a certain instinct for detecting the presence of icebergs. Some captains claim that they can smell an iceberg miles away. Something in the atmosphere warns them of the danger, and they double the watch and reduce speed until out of the danger zone. Then, again, when near an iceberg the air grows suddenly cold and chilly, and sometimes there is a drop of several degrees in the temperature.

Many unaccounted disappearances of ships and steamers are attributed to collisions with icebergs, ships and all on board going to the bottom without so much as a remnant left to tell the tale.

Bidding in a Bride.

While some furniture was being sold at auction at Orkallyunga, in Sweden, a curious incident occurred. A young girl pushed her way through the crowd until she was quite close to the auctioneer, so close indeed that she somewhat impeded him when he desired to make effective gestures. Being a man of humor, he resolved to get rid of her in a novel manner, and therefore, taking her by the arm, he shouted: "Here, now, is an excellent bargain—a young girl, aged nineteen, very pretty and well educated! What am I offered? Come; we'll start it at 3,000 crowns!" At once there was brisk bidding, which continued until an elderly bachelor farmer offered 10,000 crowns. The auctioneer tried to get a higher bidder than this, but failed, and so he declared the farmer to be the purchaser of the girl. All those present thought that it was a good joke, but it was more than that, for a few days later the farmer and the girl were married in the presence of the mayor, and before the ceremony the farmer presented the young woman, an orphan, with 1,000 crowns, the exact amount which he was willing to pay for her at auction.

PREJUDICES.

They Don't Mind Close Quarters—The Closer the Better.

Of all the occupations known to men, entertaining a prejudice is the most absurd. Yet the practice is almost universal.

The prejudice is usually uninvited. He comes in quietly, removes his hat and coat, saunters up to the guest chamber and prepares to become a permanent feature of the establishment. You entertain him royally, strain him to your bosom, exhibit him proudly to every one, fight for him, defend him and perpetuate him. Yet you do not even admit that he is present. "I entertain a prejudice?" you say, with becoming concern. "Never!"

Birds of a feather flock together. It therefore happens that if there is one prejudice present there are also others. They always come in unawares and take their places silently and unobtrusively. But, oh, how they hang together in an argument!

A group of prejudices is invincible. They have never been beaten.

The strange part of prejudices is that one would think they would prefer more commodious quarters. But, no; the narrower the mind the more content they are. They don't mind close quarters. The closer the better.

Prejudices are always busy. If they are not tampering with one's eyesight they are screening the mind from the open—putting blinds on and making it dark enough to sleep in comfortably.

A man can get insured against almost anything else but prejudices. He can insure himself against fire and water and loss of life and accidents and depreciation in his property. But there is no company so fortified that it would take the risk of insuring against prejudice. And, then, no man would ever think of taking out any insurance against one, because he would never admit that he had it. The prejudice himself fixes that. The first thing he does is to make the man think he isn't there.

That is why prejudices, no matter how much damage they cause to character, are never evicted. They have come to stay.—Thomas L. Masson in Lippincott's.

Just Like a Man.

Mr. Hopperdyke, who had been slightly injured in a railway collision while on a trip away from home, found it necessary to make a stop of a day or two to rest and repair damages. He was not much disabled, however, and he wrote a letter to his wife, telling her of the accident and assuring her that he was all right and that she need not have a moment's uneasiness about him.

When he had posted the letter an idea struck him, and he sent her the following telegram:

Have been hurt in railroad accident. Letter on the way, which will explain.

JOHN.

Two days afterward he received this dispatch from her:

Why on earth did you send that horrid telegram?

LUCY.

His reply was:

I sent it to prepare you for the letter.

JOHN.

TUESDAY OCT 26, 1909

the system looked cheap to him, and he used his $20,000 to margin 4,000 shares. A bull market was beginning, and within a month or two Blank's capital had increased to $60,000. He was content with a ten point rise, though the stock advanced ten points more. That was the first of Blank's deals. Twelve months later he won again. He thought that the stock of a certain western system was selling below its value and set about an investigation to find the facts. He hired a first class engineer and a retired traffic manager to travel from one end of that railroad to the other, and he himself analyzed the accounts. When all the reports were in it seemed to him that the system was earning enough money to justify an increase of its dividend, and he plunged once more. He waited six months for his point this time, and his investigation had cost him $5,000. He made $50,000. Good interest, you say, but think of Blank's special equipment for the game and the trouble he took to be right. You, Mr. Thinmarginist, after reading the Wall street gossip in your daily paper, adventure your thousand or two thousand dollars and expect to double your money. Mark the difference.—John Parr in Everybody's Magazine.

PLAYING THE STOCKS.

He Who Has Knowledge and He Who Gambles on Gossip.

Of the many popular delusions touching Wall street and its people none is more persistent or more dangerous to the outsider than the belief that from nothing great permanent fortunes have been made by shrewd and lucky speculation in prices. It isn't true. We differentiate here between speculation in prices only and the kind of legitimate speculation which seeks to anticipate economic changes. Legitimate speculation has its translation in profits expected and, secondly, in some reasonable proportion of exceptional with correct imagination. The best are very large. Among street acquaintances are several headed men who succeed in making $25,000 a year by speculation. Not one of them has a capital of less than $250,000. They make it earn about 10 per cent.

Take Blank, one of the ablest speculators we know. He has made half a million dollars during the past five years. Very handsome return, you say. Let us look at Blank. He was the chief accountant of one of the big railway systems when an uncle, dying, left him $20,000. Mind you, he was an expert railway statistician and an exceptionally able young man to boot. He knew his own road like a book, as well as some other things that only the veterans were aware of. The stock of Tennyson's First Poems.

The wind came sweeping through the garden of an old Lincolnshire rectory one morning in the beginning of last century and blew upon a child of five years old, who opened his arms to the blast and let it carry him along, crying as he traveled, "I hear a voice that's calling in the wind." That was Tennyson's first line of poetry. The first poem he ever composed was written upon a slate one Sunday morning at Louth. The subject, set him by his brother Charles, was "Flowers," and little Alfred covered his slate with blank verse after the model of Thomson's "Seasons." His next attempt was an elegy upon his grandmother, who had just died, written at the request of his grandfather. When it was written the old man put 10 shillings into the boy's hand and said, "There, that is the first money you have ever earned by your poetry, and, take my word for it, it will be the last."—Westminster Gazette.

Opening an Oyster.

"The Cook's Oracle," a book which was never far from the kitchens of our great-grandmothers, is very precise in its directions as to the proper manner of preserving and eating oysters, says an English journal. "The true lover of an oyster," writes the author, "will have some regard for the feelings of his little favorite and will never abandon it to the mercies of a bungling operator, but will open it himself and contrive to detach the fish from the shell so dexterously that the oyster is hardly conscious he has been ejected from his longing for life reefs the teeth of the plebeian gourmand tickling him to death"

This Was In Denmark.

An Englishman having business in a certain Danish town arrived at the railway station. He inquired of a group of men standing near the way to the house he wanted, whereupon one of them offered to go with him and show him. With recollections of what such a service meant in England he said, "I don't want a guide." "But surely you asked us to show you the way," said one of them. "Yes, but I don't want a guide." "My dear sir, I am not a guide; I am the bishop."

Dumas' Mushrooms.

A Paris contemporary, commenting on the little knowledge of French possessed by some Germans, relates a story of Alexandre Dumas pere, who knew little German. I found himself at an inn in German Switzerland. He exhausted his small stock of German in trying to make the waiter understand what dishes he required for dinner. One he could not make the man understand, so in despair the author of "Monte Cristo" called for a pencil and sketched what he wanted. Some minutes later the innkeeper himself appeared bearing a large open umbrella. Dumas had ordered mushrooms.—London Globe.

Climatic Changes.

There is indisputable evidence that the greater part of Europe was at one time covered with icebergs and glaciers and that an arctic climate prevailed as far south as the shores of the Mediterranean. But there is also abundant proof that at a still earlier epoch not only Europe, but the lands situated within the arctic circle, possessed a tropical climate, for the numerous fossil remains found in those regions are those of plants and animals which, according to the present state of our knowledge, must have lived under conditions now found only in the equatorial portions of the globe.—New York American.

TEMPERAMENTS.

They Divide the Human Family Into Five Great Classes.

The physician of a former generation used to talk much of the "temperament" of his patients—that is to say, the predominant type of physical constitution possessed by each. He studied this permanent temperament fully as carefully as he did the disease temporarily present before deciding upon the line of treatment to be adopted.

Even today, although the physician speaks less of temperaments and diatheses and perhaps would be at a loss to tell the names by which they were formerly designated, he by no means ignores the physical tendencies of his patients. From the viewpoint of temperament one may regard the human family as divided into five great classes, although few belong solely to one type. Most persons have a mixture of two or more, being classified rather by the one which predominates.

The first of these temperaments is the lymphatic or phlegmatic. In this the individuals are of a quiet, rather inert disposition. They move slowly, but they move surely. They are usually dependable people, true to their word and faithful to perform the duties assigned to them.

A second type, in many ways the direct opposite of the first, is the nervous temperament. These persons are quick in their movements, energetic in work and in play, strenuous, but often without staying power. What they accomplish they accomplish quickly.

The third type is the gouty, sanguine or rheumatic. The individuals of this group are of florid complexion, frank and jovial disposition, good eaters and sleepers and "never sick." But in later life they pay for their previous health by gouty attacks, and when attacked by serious illness they are likely to succumb quickly.

Persons of the bilious temperament are poor assimilators of food. They suffer from intestinal indigestion, which leads to repeated attacks of "biliousness." All the processes of secretion and excretion are sluggishly performed.

The fifth temperament is the strumous. These people have poor digestion and defective reparative power, little cuts and scratches healing slowly. They are always "catching" whatever contagious disease is about. They are thin, thinness of texture. The glands in the neck, in the armpits and in the groins frequently become enlarged.

The treatment of the same disease in persons of different temperaments often varies greatly, and hence the importance of the study and power to recognize the five distinct temperaments.—Youth's Companion.

Marriage Deals in France.

French marriages turn out surprisingly successful, although they are generally arranged by the parents of the bride and bridegroom. In some parts of provincial France the wishes of a man or a maid are as often not taken into consideration by the parents "making the deal." In one province a lover, after declaring his passion, may receive, while sitting at dinner at the house of his beloved, from her hands a plate of pea soup into which she has grated some cheese. He relishes that soup, for the grated cheese means that he has been accepted. If his addresses to the young woman are not welcome he finds that some one has placed a stinging nettle and some oats in his pocket. Another unmistakable sign is when the young woman turns the blackened end of a poker toward him.—New York Tribune.

Tied It Down.

Joseph Chamberlain in one of his political speeches said: "Many of my opponents are as ignorant of my proposition as was a certain farmer many years ago of the umbrella. This farmer had made a journey of some twenty miles on foot to a small town. As he was about to set off for home again a hard rain came up, and his host lent him an umbrella—a novelty at the time—opening it himself so as to save his friend all possible trouble. A week later the farmer brought the umbrella back. The weather was bright and fine, but he held the contrivance open over his head. 'This instrument,' he grumbled, 'is more trouble than it's worth. There wasn't a doorway in the village I could get it through, and I had to tether it all the week in a field.'"

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

How Animals Learn.

Dr. T. Zell, an eminent German naturalist, has collected many instances to prove that animals learn by experience and thus become wiser than their uninstructed parents. Game animals of all kinds, he avers, have learned the range of modern rifles. Greyhounds quickly learn to let rabbits alone, and foxhounds pay no attention to either rabbits or hares. Killer whales and gulls follow whaling vessels, just as vultures follow an army. Crows begin to accompany the chamois hunter as soon as they have seen the result of his first successful shot, and rough legged buzzards follow the sportsmen after winged game. The number of birds that kill or injure themselves by flying against telegraph wires is much smaller than it used to be. Dr. Zell also refers to the fact that birds and quadrupeds have learned to disregard passing railway trains, as horses quickly cease to be frightened by motorcars.

Mother's Experience.

Fond Mother—Now, look here, George! I want you to break off with that girl. She is very pretty, and all that, but I know her too well to want you to risk your life and happiness by marrying her. Why, she knows no more about housekeeping than I do about Greek—not a bit!

George—Perhaps not, but she can learn.

Mother—After marriage is rather late for that, George.

George—But you said yourself that you did not know a thing about housekeeping until after you were married.

Mother—Very true, George, and your poor father died of dyspepsia twenty years ago.

A Possible Explanation.

There is a certain clergyman who has a happy way of enjoying his own disadvantages.

Never a handsome man, Mr. C. was severely battered in a railroad wreck, in which he suffered the loss of a foot.

Soon after marrying a beautiful woman the ill used minister met an old friend on the street, who banteringly asked, "C., how in the world did such a pretty girl come to marry you?"

"Oh, ladies like remnants," was the cheerful reply.

What's in a Name.

Returned Traveler—By the way, Mr. Mann, your daughter, Miss Etta, is married. Isn't she? Old Resident—No, she could have married a fine young fellow once, but she threw him over on account of his name. She said it was bad enough to be Etta Mann, but she drew the line at Etta Knox.—Chicago Tribune.

His Luggage.

An Aberdonian went to spend a few days in London with his son, who had done exceptionally well in the great metropolis. After their first greetings at King's Cross station the young fellow remarked: "Feyther, you are not lookin' well. Is there anything the matter?" The old man replied, "Aye, lad, I have had quite an accident." "What was that, feyther?" "Mon," he said, "on this journey frae bonnie Scotland I lost my luggage." "Dear, dear! That's too bad. 'Oo did it happen?" "Aweel," replied the Aberdonian, "the cork cam' out."

Land Sale.

By virtue of a deed in trust executed and delivered by A. L. Jackson and wife, to W. H. Long, Trustee, on the 28th, day of March 1909, which deed in trust appears of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, in book L-8 page 136, the undersigned will sell for cash before cash before the court house door, in Greenville, on Monday, the 22d day of November, 1909, the following described lots, situate in the town of Grifton:

One lot adjoining the lands of C. P. Gaskins, C. C. Dunn and others, beginning at a stake at S. B. Wood's corner and runs with his line south 57, east 31-2 poles; thence north 46 E. 72 feet to a stake; thence north 57 west 13 1-2 poles to the middle of the street; thence with the middle of the street south 46 west 72 feet to the beginning, being the lot deeded to A. L. Jackson by W. L. McLawhorn.

Also an undivided one-half interest in that lot on Pitt Street, known as the livery stable lot, beginning at a stake on Pitt Street 235 feet from the corner of Pitt and Queen Streets, and running north 45 west a distance of ninety feet to Jackson's line; thence with Jackson's line south 45 west 40 feet; thence south 45 East a distance of ninety feet to Pitt Street; thence 45 east 40 feet with Pitt Street to the beginning.

Also one other lot beginning at a stake on Queen Street, 88 feet from the corner of Queen and Pitt Streets, and running north 45 west 23 feet to a stake; thence north 45 east 125 feet to a stake; thence south 45 east 23 feet to the corner of J. C. Gaskin's line; thence with J. C. Gaskin's line south 45 west to the beginning on Queen Street, it being the same land conveyed to A. L. Jackson by J. L. Tucker and wife.

Said land being sold to satisfy the indebtedness secured in said deed in trust.

SUMMER IS GONE

And now is a good time to have your summer suit nicely cleaned and pressed, so it can be put away and kept for months. It is time to bring your overcoat and have it cleaned and overhauled for winter, perhaps it needs a new collar or re-lining. A little work on it may save buying a new one. I am ready to do this work for you as it ought to be done.

AN EVENING SPENT

With the most versatile pianists, could not possibly bring you more enjoyment than you, yourself could derive from either

The Lindeman

Player Piano,

The Milton,

The Bjure Bros.

Or Lester

Player Pianos,

In fact, with either of these Player Pianos as a companion, you have the advantage of playing the music yourself—the music you best like, and playing it in that rich, full manner, bringing out the delicate beauties of the melody which even many skilled pianists fail to develop, and this, possible with the veriest novice, without your knowing one note from another.

We will take your deaf and dumb piano in exchange.

New Tailored Suits

For months we have been keeping an eye on the production of the greatest garment manufacturers and style originators, both in this country and abroad, watching for the distinctive, out of the ordinary thoughts which spring up as it were, the multitude of handsome stamped out designs, which mark the display of ready-to-wear garments. We have been studying the style effects for fall at close range, too--drinking in some fashion messages of what is to be needed in woman's wearables and watching our selection of suits with first hand knowledge of your needs.

A MOST GORGEOUS DISPLAY OF FALL SHOWING

MUNFORD'S ENCHANTINGLY PRETTY WEAVES RADIANT WITH AUTUMNAL COLORS.

BEAUTIFUL AS THE MOUNTAIN SIDE when the autumn sun shines on the trees and grasses of dull Brown, Green, Blue and Gold, are the new goods for the coming season. Rich effects, every weave, which fashion has declared worth while is here at tempting prices. Many a beautiful sheen conceals a coating of lead to give weight, which causes the fabric to cut with very little wear. When you buy our goods, you buy absolutely the best our money can buy. That is why among people of this vicinity our goods have such a recognized standard. Choose the goods for the new class from our enticing values.

STYLISH CLOTHES FOR MEN.

In developing this special line we have anticipated every whim--every need of the young men who care for their dress. They are better suits than you'll find most anywhere else this season. Cut on vigorous lines and finished with due details--those details that young men are so keen about--shown in a wide range of styles, fine, fancy Worsted and Navy Blue Serge.

BOYS' SCHOOL SUITS--TIMELY VALUES.

Our complete fall line of school clothes has arrived and when we say school clothes, we mean something more than substantial knock-about clothes. These new suits enlist the same pains-taking care of the designers as do the suits for young men, and that is saying a great deal. Why shouldn't our boys have clothes full of class and style as well as we grown up folks?

BOYS, YOUR SUITS ARE HERE!

STYLISH MILLINERY.

For more than a decade this store's Millinery has been the premier event of the season. Each season they've grown nearer to perfection. In the great numbers, the vanity, the exclusiveness, and artistic elegance of the Hats assembled for this fall's exhibit, all our previous similar displays have been far out classed. Our Millinery Department with its magnificent settings of new fall Millinery will present a marvelously interesting and beautiful picture.

OUR OWN DESIGNERS

have had in view for the last several months the requirements of this event, and their contributions are equally praise-worthy. The prestige of this store as a style source will be immeasurably increased by the many beautiful creations and adoptions in the present exhibit. So elaborate presentation of fascinating modes has never before been attempted.
