PROF. RAGSDALE'S ADDRESS

At the Celebration of East Carolina Teachers Training School.

This is a glad day to every true lover of North Carolina. The adding of another institution of learning to the splendid ones the State already has, is an occasion for rejoicing. Every heart in our borders must have been buoyant with pride upon reading what no less a distinguished physician in our midst than Dr. Parkin, said last week. "I have visited various schools in the State and I say without any hesitation, after seeing them and reading the reports of what has been accomplished during the last few years, that I know of no English speaking community anywhere in the world which has made such rapid strides in so short a time."

This is certainly a day of infinite gladness to this county and to this town. Counting from six years ago, we had been a county for 142 years. At the end of these years the entire valuation of the white public schools property in the county, including all of its many towns, amounted to $15,000. During the last six years, if we should include this splendid plant here established, the total valuation in round numbers now reaches $300,000. What an inspiration to rejoice and go forward in the educational uplift of this dear old State. But I came not here today to talk of the glory and progress, either of the State or county. I come as a messenger from the faculty of this, the youngest of our splendid institutions of the State, to bear to you our joyous cordial greetings.

First to the student body, these splendid young men and young women who have gathered here from nearly half of the counties of the State and from four different States. We greet you with the fond hope that you have come that you may well and thoroughly equip yourselves to fill in the best possible way, whatever positions, occupations, or professions you may choose in life. We welcome you within these walls. We bespeak for you earnest, faithful efforts on your part. We take you fully into our confidence, our friendship, our personal interest, that we may do our best to aid you in building wisely and well for your future work and life.

With us today are men from more than one fifth of the counties in the State, who are the leaders and directors of the entire educational interest and progress of their respective counties. We know something of your burdens, the cares you have, your imperative need for those to work under you, who are fitted and prepared by proper training to make your schools what you so earnestly desire they should be, and for which many of you are giving the best of your lives. We are glad you are here with us. We would assure you of our deep and lasting interest in your work. We greet you in hearty co-operation, promising you our best efforts shall be given to send you men and women thoroughly prepared and equipped, both in head and heart, to stand with you in your noble work for the boys and girls under your care.

We believe that the legislature acted wisely when it passed the bill for the establishment of this school. We know it acted more wisely when it left the selection of the trustees to the State Board of Education, as is evidenced here today by the presence of this splendid body of men. It is you gentlemen, who have planned so wisely and faithfully, and have built so magnificently, this institution which is to be the ideal of this section of the State.

The best has been done. You did it. We join the entire State in greeting you with the merited plaudit, "Well done good and faithful servants." Will not you and this audience excuse me for the seeming discrimination as I turn to our head, the State superintendent, also a member of your body, and say to him, we know your work. We stand and gaze in wonder and admiration at the proportions it is assuming under your wise, loving and enthusiastic leadership. We greet you and pledge you our loyal support and our best efforts and co-operation in making North Carolina what you are so rapidly making her now, one of the first States in this nation in educational progress.

There is one absent, our Father in Israel, to whom North Carolina owes much of her truest and best, and if he were here I would say, "We all stand in your presence with hearts full of gratitude. It has been said that all institutions are but the lengthened shadow of some great man. As the years come and go, yes even after you have passed over the river and shall be resting under the shade of the trees, when men and women shall be going out by the hundreds from this institution to bless the State you have loved and served so long and so well, we will just then be coming to realize that this last crowning act of service to your State and your people is your best, and is in truth and deed but your lengthened shadow blessing boys and girls yet unborn.

There is another absent, the governor of the state, as governor and ex-office chairman of the State Board of Education. Already the state is beginning to feel the impulse of his wise administration. Standing always for the best, both in home life and in public service, moral, educational, and maternal progress can but be our inheritance while he is guiding the helm of State.

Last, but by no means least, I come specially by the voice of the entire united faculty as their messenger to greet in love, affection and appreciation, you, Mr. President, our president, our leader, our head. Safe in your hands is the destiny of this institution. We realize, we fully appreciate the responsibilities your task brings upon you. We rejoice that these few days of association and contact with you have thoroughly convinced us that all will be well. Serious and sober in thought, wise in council, prudent in action, able in administrative capacity, cordial and loving in companionship, forbearing in disposition, confident in temperament, courageous and true in all as we have already found you to be, we can but congratulate this institution and the State that this call has come to you to guide and direct the destinies of this last daughter of the State.

Our eyes turn for a moment to the future. We see under you here, an institution with five hundred, yes even a thousand young men and young women, being thoroughly trained and equipped for life's best service, going out in every school district in North Carolina, both urban and rural, and by example and precept, loving and enthusiastic-

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, An Allwise Providence has again visited our castle hall and placed the untimely hand of death upon our brother, James Leonidas Fleming, whose noble life went out so suddenly, in the shadows of the evening, on Friday, November the 5th, 1909.

And whereas, as we chronicle the death of this brother Knight and honored Past Chancellor, we will ever remember his distinguished public career in this life, a useful citizen, a talented lawyer, a brave and noble Knight. Therefore, be it resolved,

1. That we mingle our grief with the devoted wife and little children of our departed brother and extend to them our deepest sympathy, with the assurance that we will be ever mindful of their comfort and pleasure.

2. That, to the Great Comforter of all mankind, we commend the widow and her little ones, for relief to grief-stricken hearts.

3. Out of due respect and remembrance of our deceased brother, we drape our castle hall in observance of the dead and that a page in the minutes of our lodge be set apart upon which to record these resolutions.

4. That the Keeper of Records and Seal send a copy of these resolutions to the family of our lamented brother; a copy, each, to the Carlina Pythian and The Reflector for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
H. B. Smith,
A. J. Moore,
B. R. Sugg.

ally bringing happiness to every human soul, by dispelling ignorance and prejudice, and in their stead, giving enlightenment and culture. This task you have voluntarily assumed. We are glad it is thus. In the name of every one of us I pledge this faculty to give you at all times, their loyal and faithful support, their honest and earnest endeavor, their best efforts, both of head and heart, in the task you have been called to undertake.

Again and finally, for each and everyone of us, I greet you as president, as leader, as counselor, as friend, and may heaven's best gifts to man be yours as a fitting reward for service well done.

BLIND TIGER RAIDED.

Two Cases Bound Over to Court by the Mayor.

The police officers of the town had reason to believe that Noah Hardy, a colored man who lives on First street, was running a blind tiger. Saturday night a week ago Policemen Clark and McGowan secreted themselves at the colored man's house, and saw another colored man go there and buy some liquor from Noah. The officers took no action at the time, as there were some other developments they had an eye on, but armed with a warrant they went to the same house last Saturday night and found 43 half pint bottles and one 2-gallon jug of liquor, also 7 empty 2 gallon jugs, 5 empty 3 gallon jugs and 4 empty 1 gallon jugs all bearing evidence of being only recently emptied. Hardy was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Whedbee this morning and bound over to Superior court.

R. D. Gooch, a white man, was also bound over to Superior court on the charge of selling liquor, this charge developing in a trial before the mayor in which Gooch and W. H. Allen were the defendants. It seems that on Saturday Allen gave Gooch some money to get him a bottle of liquor. A bottle was delivered to Allen, and when he went to test it found the contents to be practically all water. He again hunted up Gooch and a scrap resulted. At the trial Allen testified that he had several times given Gooch money to get whiskey for him.

MONDAY NOV. 15, 1909.

Thanksgiving day is the next stop on the calendar.

After a sensational trial in Paris, Mme. Steinheil, accused of the murder of her husband and stepmother, has been acquitted.

When Pitt county takes the advanced step in good roads that she has taken in education, you will see her become the leading county in the State.

The editor is indebted to Editor O. H. Poe, for a copy of his book "A Southerner in Europe." Mr. Poe is an entertaining writer, and it was this sketch of his travels in Europe that won the Patterson cup awarded by the State Literary and Historical Society. It is a valuable contribution to the literature of the State.

Several letters of items that have recently come to The Reflector have taken the route to the waste basket because the name of the writer did not come along with them. As many times as this matter has been referred to in newspapers, it looks like every person who reads would be thoughtful enough to sign his or her name when sending items, and not write on but one side of the paper.

The Reflector man was prevented from attending the Press smoker in connection with the welcome to President Taft in Wilmington on the 9th, but the secretary of the publicity committee was kind enough to send us a souvenir booklet of the occasion that we might see what was missed by not being there. The booklet is a thing of beauty and will be preserved as a treasure. Besides giving a full program of the smoker, it contains twenty pages of most interesting matter about Wilmington and the city's advantages.

If you do not believe that the people of Pitt county are getting interested in good roads, you will think differently if you get out and talk with them when they come to town. The Reflector hears many of them express themselves on this question, and it is gratifying to know that the sentiment in favor of a bond issue sufficient to build good roads all over the county is growing stronger every day. This is the logical way to get good roads, and when the people make up their minds to pay a little tax and get the advantage of better highways the roads will soon be coming.

Without passing on the merits of all the resolutions passed by the Farmers' Congress, which concluded its session at Raleigh Tuesday, that body deserves commendation for asking that the mileage allowed members of congress by the government be reduced from 20 cents per mile to 5 cents. In view of the fact that members of congress, if they pay their railroad fare to and from Washington—and some of them ride on passes—can ride for 2 cents a mile, an allowance of 5 cents, as proposed, is certainly liberal enough. The collection of 20 cents a mile is graft, pure and simple. It is simply an extra salary allowance which cannot be defended; and if it ever was excusable, which it is not, it has no ground to stand on now, when members of congress are paid $7,500 a year, instead of $5,000 as formerly.—Statesville Landmark.

The Durham witness who defined a "sangwine man" as one who has no money today but will have plenty tomorrow, undoubtedly had in mind that large class who, in standing off the payment of bills or in applying for a loan, are always sure they will have the money in the near future and can give a reason for the faith that is in them. For the "sangwine man," however, tomorrow never comes. It is always in the future.—Statesville Landmark.

John G. Latham, 907 Cotanche street Greenville, N. C., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills in my case far surpassed any other kidney remedy I had previously used. For some time my kidneys were disordered, the secretions being too frequent and painful in passage. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was so much impressed that I procured a box at John L. Or Lester
Player Pianos,

In fact, with either of these Player Pianos as a companion, you have the advantage of playing the music yourself--the music you best like, and playing it in that rich, full manner, bringing out the delicate beauties of the melody which even many skilled pianists fail to develop, and this, possible with the veriest novice, without your knowing one note from another.

We will take your deaf and dumb piano in exchange.

THE DARK OF THE MOON.

A Result That is Produced by the Light From the Earth.

Many people have wondered why the part of the moon that receives no sunlight is often visible to us, the term being the "old moon in the young moon's arms." The dark part is easily seen as a copper colored globe reposing in the bright crescent. This that we see is nothing more or less than the earth shine on the moon. We appear the same way to the moon when we are in that phase, and our dark part is where the moonshine appears and the bright part of the sunshine.

The reason the copper color appears is because light has to traverse the atmosphere of the earth three times--once on coming from the sun to the earth, once when reflected to the moon and again on being reflected back to us. Our atmosphere possesses the peculiar property of absorbing the blue rays of this white light and allowing only the red and orange to go through, thus causing the appearance of copper color by the triple absorption.

An odd thing connected with this phenomenon, though having nothing to do with it, is this: That part of the moon which appears dark to us is the same part of the earth that appears light to the moon at any specified time, and that part of the moon which appears bright to us corresponds to the portion of the earth appearing dark to the moon.

Of course it is well known that the moon gives out no light whatever itself, the moonshine being merely the light of the sun on the moon reflected to us. The same applies with the earth in its shine on the moon, save that we do give out glows, no doubt, around great cities at night, on account of the enormous number of lights. One thing, however, in which moonshine excels the earth shine is its constant character. Where the earth possesses varying clouds the old moon never has any at all.--St. Louis Republic.

A PUNJAB CIRCUS.

Program, in "Punch and Jab" English, as Good as the Show.

The sun never sets on the English language. This overdose of sunshine sometimes warps it out of shape. In the Malays it becomes "pigeon," in the south seas it is either "sandalwood" or "beche de mer," and among the erudite along the water front at Yokohama it is "banzai." Here is a sample of a brand sometimes called "punch and jab" English. It was captured alive by a Calcutta exchange editor armed with his scissors in the jungle of advertising literature that threw its shadow ahead of a native Punjab circus:

His Neighbor.

"We are told, Tommy," said the Sunday school teacher, "that we should love our neighbor. Now, who is your neighbor, Tommy?"

But Tommy Tucker merely blushed, hung his head and said nothing. He didn't want to tell the little girl's name.--Chicago Tribune.

BETHEL ITEMS.

Things Doing in That Busy Little Town.

Bethel, N. C., Nov. 9, 1909

Miss Mattie Stancill, of Hill, spent a few days here last week.

Quite a crowd of young people attended the dance at Robersonville Friday night.

Beiley Barnes, salesman for Peele & Parker, of Roxobel, was here last week.

N. C. Everett and R. A. Carson, of Robersonville, spent Sunday afternoon here.

R. A. Lloyd, of Vandemere, spent Saturday and Sunday in our town.

Miss Minnie Belle spent Sunday near here with Miss Jennie Carson.

Miss Linda Moore, of Washington, spent from Friday until Sunday in and near Bethel with friends.

Miss Lettie E. Parker spent Sunday near Mildred with her classmate, Miss Rebecca Knight.

H. V. Staton, W. H. Woolard, S. M. and Mrs. Jones attended the burial in Greenville Sunday.

Misses Blanche Carr, of Snow Hill and Julia Farmer, of Wilson, who have been visiting Miss Ora Carson, left for their respective homes Monday.

We regret to lose Miss Gladys Andrews from our midst, but she has not gone very far and we expect to see her in our town often.

On last Tuesday evening the L. S. Club was entertained by Miss Effie Grimes. They had a very enjoyable and interesting meeting and every one voted her a charming hostess.

Mrs. J. B. Martin and Miss Minnie Willis have organized a choir to sing at both churches. They will assist in every service and we feel sure both churches will benefited by it.

MASTERING A LION.

Exciting Experience of a Famous Animal Trainer.

"Show a lion that you are his master and he will be submissive; once permit him to get the notion that you fear him and his antipathy will increase," said Frank C. Bostock, the famous animal trainer.

In illustration of the lengths to which owners of wild beasts will go in order to retain control of them Bostock told the following story:

"Some years ago when we were at the Hippodrome, in Paris, I decided as a special attraction to go into the arena with Wallace, a huge African lion that all our trainers had despaired of. The house was crowded. We placed the lion in a cage sixteen feet square, and this was put inside a twenty foot ring. Two assistants were stationed in the outer ring in case of accident. I had scarcely got inside when the beast leaped at me. It bit right through my left hand and with one blow ripped the flesh off my back. 'Clear out!' I shouted to the two men in the outer ring. 'I am going to open the doors and let him into the big arena.'

"I was as furious as the lion. My pride as a trainer was wounded deeper than my back. I swung open the doors, and the lion sprang out. The blood was pouring from my wounds, but in the excitement of the moment I felt no pain--only a mad desire to be master. I picked up a 'property' chair, and when the beast came again I struck it full across the muzzle; then, seizing my whip, I actually became the aggressor."

"The audience was in something like a panic, and loud cries of 'Enough, enough!' were raised. But I hadn't finished. In ten minutes I had subjugated Wallace to such an extent that he cowered like a dog. I got out of the cage and just faintly away. From that day no one attempted to teach Wallace."--Pearson's Weekly.
