Remember the lecture at the Baptist church tonight, (Dec. 4.)

Words and Music.

The "Belles of Brittany" at Daly's Theatre is the big musical hit of the Christmas season. Frank Daniels is in the leading role, and the very best song in this is "The Ingle Nook," a love ballad. The words and music of this catchy melody will be given free with next Sunday's New York World, by arrangement with Francis Day & Hunter, publishers of the score.

Correction.

In the last two issues of The Reflector we have been inadvertently advertising the Central Mercantile Co. contest to close December 17th when the local should read Dec. 27th instead.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. M. D. Lassiter. The Foreign Missionary society will meet immediately after.

BETHEL ITEMS

Things Doing in That Busy Little Town

Bethel, N. C., Dec. 3, 1909.—M. K. Blount spent Thanksgiving in Bethel.

Miss Lettie E. Parker went home to spend Thanksgiving and returned Monday.

Miss Christine Stancill spent the Thanksgiving holidays at her home.

Dr. M. P. Manning returned Saturday from Granite Fall where he was one of the attendants in the marriage of Dr. C. A. Russell, a classmate of his.

Misses Minnie Willis and Lucy Manning attended the Methodist conference at Raleigh last week.

Misses Jennie Carson and Minnie Bell spent a very pleasant Thanksgiving in Wilson.

Thanksgiving is over and we are reminded that Christmas is almost here, by the holiday appearance of the stores.

Miss Effie Grimes is visiting in Norfolk for a few days.

J. B. Higgs, of Greenville, spent Sunday night here.

Misses Addie Rollins and Barbara Manning are spending a few days at home because of the sickness and death of little Elva Rollins.

Everybody is glad that Rev. J. W. Autrey has been sent back to Bethel to be with us another year.

The death angel visited our town last week and took from our midst little Elva, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rollins. Being always in good humor, she was loved by all who knew her and was a favorite among the teachers and pupils of her school. She has left a vacancy, both in her home and school that no one else can fill, and we can only direct the bereaved ones to our Supreme Ruler who knoweth and doeth all things well. She is the second victim that appendicitis has claimed in her family, the other being a sister about eight years ago.

Farmville Bazaar.

Farmville, N. C. Dec. 4.—In behalf of the members of the M. E. church, South, at Farmville, I desire, through the courtesy of this paper, to express my gratitude to every person in the town of Farmville, and surrounding community, who in anyway added to the success of our bazaar held Thanksgiving day and night.

The day dawned bright and beautiful, following the cloud and storm of the day preceding, and we really felt that God was smiling his approval on our preparations, and we resumed our duties with renewed vigor, and with our hearts filled with a greater degree of thankfulness to Him for all His goodness to us.

At the close of the day we found that our net proceeds amounted to over $100, which I hope some day you will see in the form of a memorial to you for your generosity.

And last, but not least, I want to thank our dear sister who so generously threw open her doors to us and bid us enter and at the same time using her every effort to promote our cause.

May God deal with you in your every effort for good, as lavishly as you have dealt with us.

IT GOES MERRILY ON.

Contest Will Increase in Interest to the Close.

This has been a good week with the candidates in The Reflector piano contest. They realize that the time to the end is short and are working as never before. While some of them are piling up votes, they have asked us not to print how many they have. So the published list today only shows the position in which the candidates stand, without giving just the number of votes they have. From inquiries by phone and letter we know that work is going on, and there is no telling what result the wind up will show. It is not worth while to ask who is going to get the piano—nobody knows.

Another word about the piano that is on exhibition at the music store of Fineman & White. Because it is called a baby upright Boudoir piano, some folks have got the idea that it is not a real piano but a toy. Such an idea is almost too amusing to correct, but we will say that the winner of this prize is not going to get any toy, but a handsome, elegant piano, made by one of the best manufacturers and the equal in tone and volume of the best on the market. You only have to go and look at it and test it to be convinced of this.

And this beautiful piano is going to be given absolutely free to the candidate in the contest who has secured the highest number of votes by noon on the 24th of December. If you have a favorite that you want to have this piano, help that favorite get votes. There is but one way to get votes, and that is subscriptions to The Reflector. Every subscription counts, whether paid in advance or on back dues, but the one in advance counts twice as much as the other. This is as easy as can be.

The candidates should have no idle time from now on, as the one who comes out ahead will get the piano.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

In State V. Dannenberg, Judge Brown in his usual clear-cut and able manner writes the opinion for the court deciding that a license tax of $1,000 on near beer saloon is not discriminative, unreasonable, prohibitive or otherwise forbidden by either the States constitution or by the fourteenth amendment of the United State constitution. The facts in the case are as follows: The Board of Aldermen of Charlotte imposed a license tax of $1,000 on all persons selling near beer or kindred drinks in that city. To test the legality of the ordinance, Dannenberg refused to take out a license and sold a pint of near beer. He was arrested, tried and convicted before the city recorder, which conviction was sustained by the Superior court of Mecklenburg county. An appeal was then taken to the Supreme court—Raleigh News & Observer.

Lumberton, N. C., Dec. 3.—The entire plant of the Kingsdale Lumber Company situated at Kingsdale, N. C., about four miles south of here, was destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at about fifty thousand dollars, as the company store and several other buildings, together with all of the lumber, were burned. The cause of the fire is unknown and it is not known how much the property was insured for.

SATURDAY DEC. 4, 1909.

Liquor is too scarce and eggs too high for eggnog to be as plentiful this Christmas as usual.

Money may have the reputation of being tight, but Christmas usually loosens the purse strings.

San Francisco gets the Jefferson-Johnson fight. That is right, let it be as far away as possible.

Since the Supreme court has said that it is all right for towns to charge $1,000 for a near beer license tax, those towns that sold the privilege for practically nothing see what they missed.

A Blow for "Knockers."

No progressive man has a good word for the knockers, and it is strange that they have boldness enough to exist. The Merchants' Journal put it up to them in the following vigorous style:

"If you don't like living in your own town, for the sake of the community get out of it. The local paper is about an even hundred times better than the support you give it. The town government is what you make it. The streets are in a far better condition than the returns you made to the tax assessor are accurate. Your competitor is just as good a man financially and morally as you are. The stores handle just as good a stock of merchandise as the trade demands. They sell these goods just a little bit cheaper than you can buy them elsewhere.

The little children are just as happy, the women are just as pretty, the grass is just as green, the flowers just as fragrant, and opportunities are more abundant right at home than any known spot on the universe. If you are so blinded by envy, hatred, malice, or petty jealousies, or you can't do what you have willed to do at home, go to that place where the environments are in accord with your nature. Don't stay in a town and knock it. If you haven't the patriotism of your forefathers nor the co-operative spirit of the present generations, you are not going to be much of a factor anywhere."

Which, in plain English, means that you ought to be ashamed of yourself, and if you can't quit knocking and go to boosting you ought to move. You can't deceive yourself into thinking your neighbors are fond of you. You are lonesome, and you know it, and the reason is that you have made yourself so by being disagreeable and grouchy.—Greensboro News.

There is no task that is more sadly performed by a local newspaper than the writing week by week, of the death of this and that one in the community, almost every time acquaintance of the writer, and often close friends. The various ministers are called upon to perform the last sad rites at the grave of the departed, but there are many ministers and they come and go besides. But the local editor must write of every one and he passes his life in the same community. And in performing this duty the editor must not do it mechanically and without feeling, else he does not do his duty. He must be able to really feel and sympathize, and to put upon paper the sadness that this or that section of the community really feels at the departure of its various members. A mechanically written obituary or a feelingless funeral sermon is worse than none. There are times when the hearts of a people are as one, and such a time comes in a homogeneous community where everybody knows every one else and where all are more or less bound by the ties of acquaintance, friendship and association, when one or more of its well known members is called upon to pass to the great unknown. And the editor, more than any one else, is called upon to voice this sentiment.—Monroe Journal.

The Chester (Pa.) Republican thinks that "he is a brave man who enters the state of matrimony on a small salary in these days of high price for food and rent." Yet, perhaps not. He may want a wife to support him.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Nervous Women

For nervous, tired women, we recommend Cardui. Cardui is a woman's medicine. It acts specifically on the female organs and has a tonic, building effect on the whole system. It contains no harmful ingredients, being a pure vegetable extract. If you suffer from some form of female trouble, get Cardui at once and give it a fair trial.

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

Mrs. W. W. Gardner, of Paducah, Ky., tried Cardui and writes: "I think Cardui is just grand. I have been using it for eleven years. I am 48 years old and feel like a different woman, since I have been taking it. I used to suffer from bearing down pains, nervousness and sleeplessness, but now the pains are all gone and I sleep good. I highly recommend Cardui for young and old." Try it.

Whistling and Weeping Trees.

Among the curiosities of tree life is the sofar or whistling tree of Nubia. When the winds blow over this tree it gives out flutelike sounds, playing away to the wilderness for hours at a time strange, weird melodies. It is the spirit of the dead singing among the branches, the natives say, but the scientific white man says that the sounds are due to a myriad of small holes which an insect bores in the spines of the branches.

The weeping tree of the Canary islands is another arboreal freak. This tree in the driest weather will rain down showers from its leaves, and the natives gather up the water from the pool formed at the foot of the trunk and find it pure and fresh. The tree exudes the water from innumerable pores at the base of the leaves.—Chicago Journal.

Groundhog.

Teacher was telling her class little stories in natural history, and she asked if any one could tell her what a groundhog was. Up went a little hand, waving frantically.

"Well, Carl, you may tell us what a groundhog is."

"It's a 'souse.' It's sausage."—Ev

Player Piano,

The Milton,

The Bjure Bros.

Or Lester

Player Pianos,

In fact, with either of these Player Pianos as a companion, you have the advantage of playing the music yourself--the music you best like, and playing it in that rich, full manner, bringing out the delicate beauties of the melody which even many skilled pianists fail to develop, and this, possible with the veriest novice, without your knowing one note from another.

We will take your deaf and dumb piano in exchange.
