MRS. EDDY AT HOME.

How She is Regarded in Concord, New Hampshire.

Asheville, N. C., Dec. 11, 1909. Editor The Reflector:

As indicating the estimation in which Mrs. Eddy is held by the citizens of Concord, N. H., where she was long an honored resident, I request that you publish the following remarks made by Judge James W. Remick, one of the leading citizens of Concord, in introducing the speaker at a recent lecture delivered there.

Very sincerely,
Geo. S. Powell.

Judge Remick spoke as follows:

"I am glad to stand here this evening in this beautiful temple, the gift of one of the world's most remarkable women to the cause to which she has devoted her life, and in a sense to the city she loves, and standing here present a distinguished exponent of the religious philosophy known as Christian Science.

Whatever may be said for or against this philosophy, it has been accepted by hosts of men and women of the highest character and intelligence and the sweetness of their lives is the best tribute to their religion. Certainly the ideal that to be spiritually perfect is to be physically well cannot but make for a nobler humanity and a better and happier world.

We do not like to contemplate what the condition of society would be without the influence of the church in the various forms in which it is appealing to the human heart; but from the church as an institution and from religion in its dogmatic aspect, we are ever turning to the noble and inspiring example of the Christ. To think as he thought; to feel as he felt, to love as he loved; to pity as he pitied; to forgive as he forgave; in short to live as he lived; and if necessary, to die as he died for truth and justice is the sum total of religion, and that church, whatever its name and whatever its teaching, which does the most in the years to come to make men in thought and deed like the Master will be the best church."

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity: Trade conditions generally are up to the average for this season of year. Trade in holiday specialties thus far shows more activity than at a comparative period of last year, and early evidences indicate an unusually active holiday trade. Sales of shoes, dry goods and kindred lines hold up well and houses report a fair volume of house sales and filling in orders. Manufacturers of harness and saddlery are busy and in some instances are working extra time. The same is true of manufacturers of boxes, shooks and finished lumber. Dry weather has retarded sales of loose tobacco, the old supply is well used up and manufacturers are eager for the new crop. Produce is in good demand, prices generally are high. Virginia apples are scarce and high. Drugs and sundries are active. Retail trade and collections are good.

My last order for canary birds for Christmas will be sent in tomorrow morning. Those wishing to get birds, guaranteed singers, in this order should see or phone me at Reflector office by 9 o'clock tonight.

C. R. Whichard.

AYDEN ITEMS

News Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told

Ayden, N. C., Dec. 17.

Mrs. W. F. Hart is spending this week in Kinston with relatives.

Miss Moore lectured here in the Free Will Baptist church Thursday.

The machine has arrived and installed and labor began on the artesian well this morning at half-past eight. Everybody was out and see it.

We never saw cotton seed selling as high as at present.

There were 200 bales of cotton hauled here today from Ridge Spring purchased by Speight & Co. Greenville.

Prof. W. H. Cale conducted services at the Baptist church Wednesday night.

It looks like fall of the year to see so many hauling seed and seed cotton to and from our system gins.

We were pleased to have a call from Walter Barfield Thursday. "Uncle Walter" is the man who first built up that portion of our town called South Ayden, and made it so prominent.

Merry Christmas is near at hand. The little girl with her doll, the small boy with horn and cap pistol, seem to be enjoying the approach of the happy event.

J. R. Smith Co. have a nice stock of community silverware for Christmas and bridal presents.

C. A. Daughtery, of Graingers, has accepted a position with Ayden Lumber Co., and occupies the Johnson residence.

Mrs. J. H. Newsome and son, of Lucama, are visiting her daughter, Mrs. Exum Dail.

Abb Faulkner, of Greene county, is moving to Ayden.

The Christian Sunday school will have a Christmas tree.

Miss Mary Love Gray, of Hertford, who has been visiting Miss Olivia Berry, returned home.

Entertainment at Forbes' School House

On Monday night next, Dec. 24th, there will be an entertainment at the Forbes school house near the O. L. Joyner place, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock. The operetta (in 3 acts) "While Mortals Sleep" will be presented. Admission will be 15 cents and the proceeds are to be applied on payment of a piano which the school has purchased. Those who have attended entertainments at this school house before know what a treat there is in store for them this time. We trust that the people of the community and of Greenville will patronize liberally this entertainment, as it will certainly be enjoyable and the teachers will be able to liquidate the debt on the piano.

Penitentiary Has a Successful Year

The penitentiary management will have good success this year, says a Raleigh correspondent. It is said the farms on the Roanoke river will make more than ever before. The cotton is now practically all gathered, and there are 1,100 bales. The sale of this and the other crops will bring in $110,000. The receipts from the hire of convicts to railways and to private development corporations will be about the same as last year. Ten thousand dollars has been expended on permanent improvements on the farms and a large number of mules purchased.

The Pastime Theatre will be open tonight with two night's programs to select from.

ORPHEAN MUSICAL CLUB.

Coming Next Wednesday Night December 22nd.

For the eighth consecutive season the Orphean Musical Club has begun a tour of the South and will appear in Greenville on Wednesday night, 22nd, under the auspices of the End of the Century Club, presenting a concert program that promises to be one of the most enjoyable ever offered to music-lovers and amusement-seekers of this place.

The club consists of a quartette of young gentlemen, skilled instrumentalists, humorists of no mean parts, and vocally measuring up to the best in their class on the lyceum circuits. The program will be a delightful combination of popular songs, readings, instrumental selections, impersonations, rapid cartoon work, and other features, the whole providing a sufficient variety of entertainment to please everybody. The brass quartette, consisting of cornet, mellophone, baritone horn, and trombone will prove one of the particularly pleasing numbers. The cartoon work of A. H. Richardson, the tenor, also calls for special mention. Mr. Richardson's remarkable rapidity with the crayon in illustrating some of the songs while they are being rendered has won him a reputation independent of the organization as a whole.

The sale of seats to season subscribers will open Tuesday morning, and to the public Wednesday morning, at Reflector Book Store.

PASTOR 'POUNDED'

Greenville, N. C., Dec. 17, 1909. Editor Reflector:

Last (Thursday) night was the occasion and the pastor's home the scene of a delightful gathering of a large number of the members of Memorial Baptist church to extend to the pastor and his wife "Christmas greetings?" The coming of these friends was enjoyed all the more because it had been kept a "profound secret."

Each person present brought a substantial token of his or her love, and many, who could not come, sent packages. "Uncle Zack" Broughton, who had been commissioned to represent several of his neighbors, looked like a "traveling grocery."

After an hour spent in pleasant conversation the happy company departed, leaving the pastor and his wife to take "inventory of stock."

Investigation revealed the pantry well filled with such things as meats, flour, sugar, coffee, canned goods, nuts, pickles, preserves, confections and other articles too numerous to mention.

We wish to make public acknowledgement of this kindness and to commend the observance of this old custom, not half so much for the intrinsic value of the donations as for the beautiful sentiment back of it.

J. B. Cook.

Bridge Completed.

It is rumored that the first train from Norfolk to this city over the new bridge across Albemarle sound will be operated on Christmas day. This bridge will greatly reduce the amount of time consumed in the trip. Several new cars have been received by the company and these are to be used on the initial run.—New Bern Journal.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

Dr. S. Hassell went to Norfolk today.

Mrs. J. M. Whedbee and daughter, Miss Rushie, left this morning for Hertford.

W. L. Brown and Miss Kate Lewis went to Tarboro Thursday evening to attend a marriage.

Miss Helen Beddingfield, of Rocky Mount, who had been visiting Miss Allie Rives, left Thursday afternoon for her home.

R. L. Little and Madison McGowan have returned from Greensboro where they went to attend the meeting of the North Carolina Farmers' Union. They said the meeting was largely attended and very interesting.

Mrs. T. E. Hooker has returned from Baltimore where she went with her husband to have his injured eye treated. It is gratifying to know that the specialists think Mr. Hooker's eye may be saved. He will remain in the hospital a few weeks longer.

A Correction.

For the past two days we have been publishing a reader about the masquerade ball to be given by the End of the Century club for the benefit of public library on December 21st. Through a typographical error it read December 31st instead. The ball will be given on the 21st. Don't get the dates mixed.

Conductor Hart.

Captain A. E. Goodman, conductor on the N. & S. railway, was hurt yesterday at Farmville by a passing freight train which dashed him against the depot building. He was carried to Wilson, and as yet the full extent of his injuries have not been ascertained.—Washington News.

Christmas trees are cut, too, or soon will be.

If they had only held that Brokaw divorce suit back until after Christmas.

Make your own Christmas happy by carrying happiness to somebody else.

With Patten out of it, wonder who is getting the corner on wheat this time to make it go so high.

To the little folks Christmas yet seems a long way off, but to the older ones it comes very fast.

If you are not using this pretty weather in which to make your Christmas purchases, you may have to take what comes later on.

With stores in Charlotte selling for $20,000, that price having been paid at two recent sales, real estate in the "Queen City" must be worth something.

Haven't you a friend living elsewhere, a former Pitt countian, who would be glad to receive The Reflector through the coming year? Send it as a Christmas present.

The papers have contained accounts of many large corn yields per acre this season, and no doubt a large number of farmers will try for much larger yields next year than the few bushels they have been raising.

The wife of the editor of the Charlotte Observer has taken a position on the reportorial staff of the Charlotte News. This certainly indicates a most cordial relation between the newspapers of the "Queen City." Mrs. Caldwell, like her husband, is an accomplished journalist and brilliant writer.

Mr. C. H. Gattis, who has for years been connected with the Seaboard Air Line railroad and at present district passenger agent with headquarters in Raleigh, has tendered his resignation to become effective January 1st, and will take a position with the Georgia & Florida railroad and will change his residence to Savannah. In his going North Carolina loses a mighty good man.

Last Friday the Greenville Reflector issued a mammoth paper commemorating its fifteenth anniversary as a daily paper, and we must congratulate Brother Whichard on his successful achievement. The Reflector is in every way worthy of the large patronage it receives, and this last effort on the part of the proprietor certainly shows that the community in which the paper is published appreciates it and patronizes it. From a mechanical and news standpoint the edition was a gem. We look for great things yet to come to this excellent journal, and no doubt they will soon be attained under the same management of the present owner. Congratulations are in order to our worthy neighbor.—Washington News.

Life is simply time given to man to learn how to live. Mistakes are always part of learning. The real dignity of life consists in cultivating a fine attitude toward our own mistakes and those of others. Man becomes great, not through never making mistakes, but by profiting by those he does make; by being satisfied with a single rendition of an unwise act, not encoring it into a continuous performance; by building a glorious today on the ruins of yesterday, and by rising with renewed strength, finer purpose, and freshened courage every time he falls.—Merchants Journal.

The Greenville Reflector has celebrated its fifteenth year as a daily by issuing a handsome anniversary edition that is creditable alike to the paper and to the growing town it serves.—Raleigh News and Observer.

HIDDEN DANGERS
Nature Gives Timely Warnings That no Greenville Citizen Can Afford to Ignore

Danger signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale foamy, or thick, red, ill smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of color.

Danger signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here is proof in the statement of a nearby resident.

Wm. Murrill, Washington and Tarboro Sts., Rocky Mount, N. C., says "Doan's Kidney Pills proved in my case to be a valuable remedy for kidney trouble and I have no hesitation in recommending them to anyone afflicted with this complaint. I used them for backache and other annoyances arising from disordered kidneys and they brought me prompt relief."

For sale by all dealers, Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

PUZZLE OF THE AIR.

Changing Currents Shown by the Action of Birds in Flight.

The average person regards air much as he regards water—as much lighter, of course, but like it otherwise. Calm air is precisely to him as calm water in a pool. If there is a wind he pictures the air as a flowing river. And just so long as all men looked at it so, just so long the birds kept their monopoly, for the only state in which water approaches the condition of air is when water forms a maelstrom. Even then water in its wildest turbulence falls far short of the unstable, incessant agitation of the atmosphere. Air is never still. It is filled with warm waves ascending, cold waves descending, and through it race cross shoots and diagonal shoots, with cork-screw whirlwinds wandering hither and yon as they list. The warm air off a cornfield creates one kind of a disturbance; off plowed land it creates another. A layer of cold air may hold down a layer of warmer air. Consider what happens when the warm air breaks through its envelope as a millpond bursts its dam. A flowing stream churned to and fro and round and round and up and down would give a feeble idea of the air's inconstancy.

Now, a bird, circling with fixed wings, floats on a rising column of air. It maintains its altitude as to the earth, but it is constantly coasting down through the air's ascending volume. Once the bird loses the air column it has to flap its wings, and it flaps till it finds another column, when it goes on wheeling again with fixed wings. Moreover, when it flies the wind comes toward it in waves, rising and falling like the billows of the sea. It meets them, and then it does precisely what a boat does—goes over them or goes through them. The Wrights learned all this, and when they'd learned they were about as near to flying as you and I would be to writing Chinese philosophy when we'd just learned the English alphabet. Furthermore, there were no teachers, living or dead, that could help them more than a few steps along the way. —Everybody's Magazine.

FOUGHT WITH HIS BOYS.

An Amusing Passage Between Willich and Rosecrans.

There are times when the so called "red tape" of the army gives way under the stress of circumstances. At the battle of Chickamauga, General Willich who was commanding a brigade, incurred the displeasure of General Rosecrans, the commanding general, by some very slight omission. General Willich was sent for and informed by the general commanding that he must consider himself under arrest for the present.

"General," said Rosecrans sternly, "consider yourself under arrest and leave your sword here until your case is tried."

"Yes, general, I will consider myself under arrest," was the reply, "and shut so soon as dis fight's over I'll come and fix him up."

"But, sir," said the astounded Rosecrans, "I want you to consider yourself under arrest now."

"Of course I do," responded Willich promptly, "and so soon as I get off dis fight I'll be up and settle him."

"But, sir," expostulated the commanding general, "I can't let you go into this fight. You are under arrest. I will send an officer to your brigade."

"You send an officer to fight my boys," cried Willich indignantly. "He can't do it. They don't know him. Me they know. I teach them. I fight them, and none of the boys would know how to fight or what to do only when I go with them. My boys be long to me; yes, me, General Willich. I command the brigade, and I must fight the brigade."

General Rosecrans gave it up. General Willich was requested to return and "fight his boys," which he did most successfully. And that was the end of the matter.—Youth's Companion.

They Don't Like Rain.

The tortoise shows a greater dislike to and fear of rain than any other animal. Twenty-four hours or more before rain falls the Galapagos tortoise makes for shelter. On a bright, clear morning, when not a cloud can be seen, all the shellbacks on a tortoise farm may sometimes be seen headed for the nearest overhanging rocks. When that happens the people know that rain will come down during the day, and, as a rule, it comes down in torrents. The sign never fails.

Told the Truth.

"Why are you sore at Miss Skreacher?"
 "When she was urged to sing, something at the party that night she said, 'Oh, I can't sing!'"

 "Well, she went ahead and proved it."—Cleveland Leader.

Her View of It.

"There was a time," said the old inhabitant, "when that piece of property sold for a song."

"Really?" replied the grand opera prima donna. "How very expensive!"—Washington Star.

Knew Her Style.

Editor—But you haven't asked me yet whether or not I can make a living for your daughter. Father—Never mind, Henry. If you marry her she'll see to that.—Chicago News.

Better Late Than Never.

"I hope this proposal of mine hasn't taken you completely by surprise, dear est."
 "Well, yes, it has. I long ago abandoned all idea of it."—Life.

How a Moose Eats.

Of all peculiar sights I think that that of a moose eating grass is the most extraordinary. The neck is so short and the legs are so long that the animal usually kneels in eating grass. True, it does not attempt it very often, for grass is by no means a staple with it, but even a moose likes a change of diet. The appearance of this huge and awkward creature in this devotional attitude is not only interesting, but laughable.—St. Nicholas.

In School.

Teacher—Bobby, give me a sentence in which the verbs "to set" and "to sit" are used correctly. Bobby—The United States is a country on which the sun never sets and on which no other country ever sits.—Judge.

THE CENTURY PLANT.

It Blooms, Says a Florist, Every Twenty-five to Forty Years.

"The regular century plant," said an expert in floriculture, "is not a cactus. It belongs to a family by itself—it has a large, broad leaf, sometimes two or three feet long and several inches thick where they branch from the center. There are two varieties, one the variegated and the other green. The only difference is that the variegated has a white stripe along the outer edge of the leaf. Both bloom every twenty-five to forty years. A stock perhaps eight or ten inches in diameter shoots up from the center to a height of fifteen or twenty feet, and around this stock cluster small blossoms. They are neither pretty nor fragrant. They were formerly supposed to bloom once in a hundred years."

"The nearest thing to a century plant is a night blooming cereus. It is a cactus and blooms once in about every twenty-five years or so. The flower is large, very beautiful and has a delightful odor. One plant may have several blossoms, but each flower lasts only one night."

"There is no such plant as a 'century cactus.' The cactuses that many have mistaken for 'century cactuses' will bloom in four or five years if kept under glass or about seven years if not in a hothouse. Because they are so long in blooming, I suppose, they have been called 'century cactuses,' and the name has been handed down until it is considered the proper term for them. They bloom yearly after the first blossoms appear. They are just an ordinary cactus, but they have a pretty, fragrant flower."—Seattle Times.

Great results usually arise from great dangers.—Herodotus.

A DREAM CAT.

Repeated Appearance Premonitory of Disease.

"Some years ago, early in the summer," says H. Addington Bruce in Success Magazine, "I dreamed that while out taking a walk I was suddenly attacked by a huge cat, which clawed ferociously at my throat. That was all there was to the dream, or, at any rate, that was all I remembered on awakening in the morning, and, naturally enough, I dismissed it from my mind as nothing but a dream."

"But when I found myself dreaming the same dream again and again I began to wonder what significance it would possibly have. Usually it varied greatly in minor details. Always, however, the climax was the same—the cat had me by the throat and was biting and scratching viciously. Altogether I dreamed this dream not less than a score of times in six months."

"Shortly before Christmas I took a cold, which settled in my throat, affecting it so badly as to require the attention of a specialist. Much to my astonishment, it was then discovered that a growth had been developing for some time and that an immediate operation was necessary."

"Several weeks later, the operation having been performed successfully, it suddenly occurred to me that I was no longer being troubled by the phantom cat. For the first time the meaning of the singular dream dawned upon me. 'It had been a genuine premonitory dream.' Consciously I had been in utter ignorance of the dangerous growth in my throat. It had not progressed far enough to give me any pain or even to cause discomfort. At the same time the organic changes it involved had produced sensations plainly felt by what psychologists call the subconscious and manifesting through the subconscious to the conscious in the form of a symbolic dream."

No Port in a Storm.

The most dangerous of all places when a thunderstorm rages is probably a powder house; consequently it is a rule in explosive works that all the workers shall leave their "house" at the approach of a thunderstorm. So far all is well. But very often when the thunderstorm has passed and the men return and open the cake presses severe explosions have occurred. The reason of these accidents is that in the process of manufacture black powder is placed in the cake presses in alternate layers of powder and bonfire. This acts as an electric pile, just like the pile of coppers and disks of zinc with which boys amuse themselves. When the pile is disturbed the electricity "sparks," and up go building, workers and all.—London Answers.

WASHING DISHES.

Only One Time in a Woman's Life When She Enjoys It.

We never knew but one woman who professed that she liked to wash dishes, and from that moment our faith in her veracity melted like soap in hot dishwater.

The only time we wish we were a man is after a heavy dinner, when he can enjoy a siesta or discuss the papers, while we must attend to the inevitable dishes.

Can any one wonder that girls get tired of the monotonous round of dishwashing, which must be done three times a day for the 365 consecutive days?

Think of it, ye gods, and tear your hair and weep for the woes of our sisterhood!

There is a short time in most every woman's life when it is a pleasure, but that is when we are too small to reach upon the kitchen table without a chair and are permitted to wash the cups and saucers to keep us out of mischief. When we are older and have it to do alone the soup tureen would not hold the tears we shed over it.

How we have dreamed over the blue pictures on the old fashioned dishes—pictures of impossible temples and castles, built in unhealthy proximity to "clear lakes," and in girlish fancy wandered to unheard-of lands to dwell in those "castles in the air."

There should be no dishwashing there.

But hark! The shrill voice of our mother rings out clear and sharp:

"Matilda, what are you doing?" with rising inflection on the last syllable of our name.

All the house knows that "Till" is dreaming over the dishpan again, and reverie is not permitted in our active household, which was conducted on the "whoop her up" system.

When we see ladies going mad over ceramics we wonder if they served their apprenticeship polishing tableaus of china.—New York Weekly.

Enough For Him.

When the physician arrived at the designated house he found that his patient was a decrepit negro, who sat up in bed and inquired:

"How much yo' charge, doctah?"
 "Two dollars a visit, which includes my time, experience, advice and the medicine."

"A poor old coon like me don't need all dem extras. Just gib me 10 cents' worth o' your cough medicine, and dat's enough fo' me."—Judge.

Jealousy.

"May's new hat is perfectly hideous."

"It isn't a bit more hideous than mine. You're always saying nice things about May."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Clever men are good, but they are not the best.—Carlyle.
