MISS MARY JOHNSON WINS PIANO

ESTIMATED SHE GETS PRIZE BY LARGE MAJORITY

Committee Not Through Counting Votes as We go to Press—Exciting Time at Reflector Office

The Reflector piano contest closed today at noon with a rush. The committee has not finished counting the votes as we go to press, but have counted enough to permit us to say Miss Mary Johnson has won by a large majority, and she gets the piano for a Christmas gift. The exact vote will be given in next issue.

AYDEN ITEMS

Newspaper Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told

Ayden, N. C., Dec. 24

Postmaster G. W. Prescott tells us that the receipts at this office have increased 12 per cent over last year and the office is now rated 3rd class. We are proud to say "Uncle Sam" has no man in his employment more social, polite and accommodating than Mr. Prescott.

W. J. Boyd, who has represented W. S. Forbes Packing Co., of Richmond, for the past year, has resigned and accepted a position with the Armour Fertilizer Co. Mr. Boyd has made a success in selling meat and we bespeak for him greater success in his new undertaking.

Rev. C. O. Armstrong arrived Wednesday from Chapel Hill to spend Christmas.

Henry Lancaster, who is attending school at Wake Forest, is at home during the holiday season.

If meat and flour continues to advance it will require large capital to do a time business and the people who have these articles to buy, what will be the consequence.

H. M. Hardee, of Norfolk, arrived Thursday to spend the Thursday with his father, Eppy Hardee.

Thad Hart, who left last October to visit his brother, Luther Hart, in Brooklyn, N. Y., returned Tuesday. While he enjoyed his northern trip still no place like Ayden, Pitt county, to him.

Our town is thronged each day with men, women, children, old and young and various colors, doing their Christmas shopping.

Chinese Farmer Sues for Divorce.

Wilmington, N. C., Dec. 23.—Lee Sing, a prosperous Chinese farmer about two miles from the city has instituted proceedings for divorce against his mulatto wife Estelle Lee Sing. The fact that a Chinaman is suing for separation from his wife a mulatto, makes this action probably without a parallel in Southern courts. Sing alleges bigamy and other charges in his complaint. The cause has been started in the superior courts here, papers having been refused in one of the South Carolina counties where the woman formerly resided. The plaintiff contends that the defendant was married when he took her unto himself in 1908 and that no divorce was secured by her in the first mentioned instance.

Sing is worth a great deal of money which he has accumulated in the growth and sale of Chinese vegetables. He alleges that he has provided bountifully for the molasses colored spouse and now seeks a divorce as she left him sometime ago.

The fun will begin at 6 o'clock.

FROM THE CAMPUS.

East Carolina Teachers' Training School Notes

Reported for The Reflector by Miss Mamie E. Jenkins.

Greenville, N. C., Dec. 24, 1909. On Saturday evening, December 19th, Pres. and Mrs. Wright entertained the faculty in honor of their Philadelphia friends.

The school family including faculty and students, had a jolly time at a Christmas tree on Monday evening. Instead of real presents each one received a jumping Jack, horn or other toy. The presence of the children of Pres. Wright and Prof. Austin added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

All of the students and members of the faculty, who do not live here, have left for the holidays, most of them going to their homes. The dormitories will be closed.

And Along With It Buys and Bacteria.

Very often we hear people say that it is cheaper to buy meat than to raise it. And men who call themselves farmers talk this way, too. Mr. Braxton Phifer, of this township, tells us that he has kept an accurate account of every item of expense attached to the raising and fattening of a pig which he killed one day last week that was seven months old and weighed 175 pounds. Mr. Phifer states that his meat cost him just 51-3 cents per pound. At the present price of pork, which is 11 cents, the amount saved by fattening his own meat is 53-4 cents per pound. These figures show very clearly that the pork was raised at less than half what it would cost at the store. But in the face of these and other figures just as alarming, some farmers persist in buying Western meat.

Lady Shot in Eye.

Kinston, N. C., Dec. 23.—A peculiar accident happened here today by which a Kinston lady will probably lose the sight of one of her eyes.

Mrs. Sarah Fields built a fire in her sitting room this morning and was sweeping the floor when a pistol cartridge that had inadvertently been swept into the fire exploded and the bullet struck her in the eye. It was at first supposed that she was fatally hurt, but a physician who was hurriedly summoned, found only a superficial wound of the eyeball from which she may recover without the loss of the eye, but this is not certain at this time.

More Calendars.

Four more beautiful calendars have been added to The Reflector's 1910 list, one by Stephens-Howard Co., of Dunn, one by F. D. Foxhall, manager of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co., and two by the Greenville Lumber & Veneer Co.

Two Piano Christmas Gifts.

The Reflector makes one girl happy today by giving her a fine piano, and on Monday the Central Mercantile Co., will make another one happy with a similar present. Both these contests for pianos have been very interesting and the voting has been heavy.

Dawson Herndon.

Durham, N. C., Dec. 23.—Miss Ada Lee Herndon, of this city, and Mr. Frank Becton Dawson, of Conetoe, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Cora Herndon.

THE RATIONAL CHRISTMAS.

By ELLIS FRAME

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

"Let us give in reason this year," she suggested.

"Not merely for the sake of giving things."

"It's the spirit, not the money invested. Let us, therefore, turn from foolish squanderings."

"Let the gifts we give be things that may be needed."

"Instead of trash soon to be cast aside."

"My darling, your suggestion shall be heeded."

"For there is wisdom in it," he replied.

She did her shopping early, being guided by lessons learned from much experience.

She would show her lord and master, she decided.

How excellent a thing was common sense.

For their baby boy she purchased a French corset.

And an oriental rug that caught her eye.

"Though the darling longed to have a rocking horse, it wasn't sensible," she murmured, with a sigh.

They had promised not to buy things for each other.

They would merely get a few things for the child.

She would sacrifice her sister and her mother.

And it gladdened her to see the way he smiled.

As he said his people, too, should be omitted.

So the wise and winsome woman, day by day.

From shop to shop, with sweet emotion, flitted.

Having dry goods bound up and sent away.

He bought a pipe and splendid smoking jacket.

To give their darling glee on Christmas morn.

With these the child could make no such a racket.

As might have been produced with drum and horn.

He also got the works, unexpurgated, Of old Boccaccio and Rabelais.

So that their little one might be elated.

And long have glad remembrance of the day.

On Christmas when their presents were displayed.

They sat upon the sofa side by side.

And while their child looked up at them, dismayed.

He had a culprit's manner, and she cried.

SPECIAL VOTES.

At Central Mercantile Co. for Three Days.

For the last three days Dec. 23, 24, 27, we will give you two votes for every penny you spend in the great piano contest. You had better take advantage of our special offer. Remember who ever gets this prize it will be the same as getting $400 cash and it is worth your while to work for it. There will be no votes received after 5 p. m. Monday Dec. 27th, when we will turn the ballot box over to three disinterested parties who will count the votes and decide who the winner is.

Thanking you for your past patronage and soliciting a continuance of same, we extend our best wishes for a happy Christmas and prosperous New Year. 12 24 Central Mercantile Co.

Pastime Theatre.

Tonight is the last night—contest closes at 9 p. m. Friends of the ladies can get busy and make her win the prize. A good program tonight. We will be open tomorrow night, and every night during the holidays with good pictures. Don't miss the show tonight.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Salisbury, N. C., Dec. 23.—With his body mashed into a jelly, John M. Crowell, aged 40 years, met instant death in Salisbury last night by falling under a moving train.

Rocky Mount, Dec. 23.—Abram Perry, a negro, was given 20 days on the roads for beating a train. He came in from Elm City, in a sealed car load of brick. His cries to be released brought an officer, who took him in custody. He was almost frozen to death.

Wilson, N. C., Dec. 23.—Tuesday night while at a "Box Party" held at the home of Herbert Clark, a mile and a half from Wilson on the Tarboro road, Oscar Barnes, without provocation, shot at Ernest Braswell five times, one shot taking effect in the right arm. A warrant was sworn out for Barnes but it is thought he has skipped to Richmond.

Fire Works.

The ordinance of the town of Greenville prohibiting the discharge of fire works within the corporate limits of the town will, as is customary, be suspended from six o'clock p. m. on December 24th, to 12 o'clock midnight of December 25th. This suspension of this ordinance is no license to do damage to any property or injury to any person. This December 23rd, 1909. 24 J. T. Smith, chief of police.

CHRISTMAS.

Tomorrow is Christmas, the most joyous day of all the year. It commemorates the birth of Christ, God's greatest and best gift to the world. In recognition of this, mankind throughout the world where Christ is worshipped observe the anniversary of His birth in giving tokens of love and good will to others. The Christ spirit would have us forget hatreds and fill our thoughts with kindness, to dispel selfishness and give ourselves to acts of kindness. Look about you tomorrow for some lonely heart to cherish, for some sorrowing one to comfort, for some suffering to relieve, for some needy to help. This is what Christ did on the earth, and it was He who said when we emulate His example "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye did it unto me."

The smart boys and girls in the Reflector printery have stood by the paper faithfully during the past year, and have never been wanting when any call was made upon them. Being in some respects just like other people, they want a little time to enjoy Christmas, and they deserve it. No paper will be issued tomorrow, but if enough of the force are back at work Monday the paper will be issued on that day.

If the thing has to be repeated another Christmas, it would be better to have whiskey express shipments delivered from some other place than the regular office, so that everybody looking for other express matter would not have to stand behind a line of negroes and booze artists.

"Go naked and you will keep pure," says the Cincinnati Enquirer. And you will stand a good chance of freezing to death, too, in this kind of weather. The very idea of a fellow letting this wind hit him in the back with nothing between the skin and the wind.

If any congressmen have seen the waiting-for-whiskey crowds standing around express offices in the last few days, they will go back to congress convinced that a law should be passed to prevent shipments of whiskey into prohibition territory.

If there was a decent man who ordered any whiskey he had cause to feel very much ashamed of being mixed up with the mob at the express office waiting for theirs.

Let tonight and tomorrow prove that you possess the true Christmas spirit.

The Reflector wishes every one who reads this a merry Christmas.

Here is hoping Santa Claus will be good to every child.

There will be many a hanging the country over tonight.

"Dar's Crismus in mah bones, honey."

The Eastern Reflector appeared in holiday dress and as an anniversary number on December 10. The issue with its beautifully colored covers and sixteen pages of splendid reading matter does credit to the town of Greenville which is giving Editor Whichard splendid support in his effort to furnish a medium of public intelligence. The issue was in celebration of the 15th anniversary of its daily edition.—Snow Hill Standard-Laconic.

Waiting doesn't pay. If you neglect the aching back, Urinary troubles, diabetes, surely follow. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve back-ache. Cure every kidney ill. Greenville citizens endorse them. Mrs. J. S. Stokes, Twelfth and Evans street's Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered severely from kidney and bladder complaint. My kidneys were weak and the irregular passages of the secretions caused me great annoyance. I also had bearing-down pains through my abdomen and sharp, shooting twinges through my loins. There was a tender spot across my kidneys and at times my limbs pained intensely. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and was so much impressed that I procured them at Wooten's drug store. They soon relieved the pains in my sides and limbs, restored my kidneys to a normal condition and at present I am feeling a great deal better in every way. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for the great improvement."

FRIDAY DEC. 24, 1909.

A NEIGHBORLY WOMAN.

Her Little Acts of Kindness Were Not Always Appreciated.

"My, but I'm glad to get a seat!" sighed the little elderly woman who had just come aboard at Dulverton. "When I saw there was a teacher's excursion today, I most gave up coming. Only for losing a week already with the weather, and the latest fashions out this fortnit, I wouldn't have risked it. I dress-make over to the Corners, and I always go up to town twice in the season to see the styles."

Her eye wandered to her seat-mate's throat, and her tone of general chattiness changed to one of apology.

"I don't know I ought to mention it," she remarked, "but your collar's kind o' ris up to one side, and there's a streak o' neck showing. I got a pin if you'd like one—"

"You needn't to thank me. My! I'm relieved you didn't get huffy. Why, a woman I told once, coming out o' church, her petticoat was sagging below her dress—and I offered her a pin, too—just turned round on me an' snapped, 'How much do you s'pose I'm likely to meditate on the sermon now! You've spoiled my Sunday!' Well, I don't see as I was responsible for her piety any more'n for her petticoat. Do you?"

"And then that last time I came down on the train with Mis' Torrington! Sister said she hoped I'd got a lesson that time to last me! All the same, I can't see as I didn't do the right thing. If you'd sat behind a woman with a bat on her hat, wouldn't you have told her?"

"I suppose the critter was in the tunnel and flew in the window going through. Anyway, when we came out, there he was, clinging head-down to a big stiff eagle quill she wore, and she never knowing."

"I didn't speak at once. I was remembering the woman with the sagging petticoat. But when folks begun to stare and giggle and point—well, I told her."

"Thank me! That woman grabbed off her hat, with a screech like the locomotive, and pitched it into my lap, bat and all! And I'm no way partial to bats myself, if I didn't yell."

"You shouldn't have told me sudden, you horrid woman!" she said, sobbing and working herself up more an' more hystericky. "Don't you know you might kill a high strung person with nerves, telling them such a thing sudden? You horrid woman!"

"Well, of course she was hystericky, and her family is a fine one, and she's married a mint of money besides, but if a person who was honestly trying her best to do you a neighborly kindness called you a horrid woman and threw bats at you should you think she was behaving exactly like a lady?"

"I never saw you before, an' I don't know your name nor who your folks are, but I can see you've got breeding, and I'd admire to dressmake for you, but I wouldn't cut and fit for Mis' Torrington, not if she paid me ever so! I've got my dignity."—Youth's Companion.

Death For Kissing.

In ancient Egypt it was considered a high degree of politeness to kiss one's hand and then place it on the top of the head.

Men of rank occasionally kissed each other, but in the land of the pharaohs no man ever dreamed of kissing a woman.

In Rome kissing was at one time a serious matter. If a slave kissed a free woman he was liable to be torn to pieces by wild horses.

It was the great Cato who promulgated a law making it a punishable offense for parents to kiss in the presence of their children.

The Greeks put to death any man kissing a woman in the public street.

In Austria today a man kisses a woman's hand only. In Russia the forehead is kissed among equals. But a Russian peasant salutes his lordly master by kissing his knees.

The Pole kisses the shoulder of his superior.

CAVALRY ON THE MOVE

They Usually Travel at a Walk While on a March.

CAREFUL OF THEIR HORSES.

Reasons Why a Trot or a Gallop Might Prove Disastrous to the Animals. The Wagons and Supplies—Going In to Camp at Night.

People unfamiliar with the marching of troops frequently have the impression that mounted troops usually travel at a trot or gallop while on a march. In the cavalry, however, the gait is usually a walk.

There are reasons why it is not advisable for cavalry to trot or gallop on its road marches. The trooper is required to carry his three weapons—rifle, pistol and saber—over a hundred rounds of ball ammunition, his blanket, shelter tent, canteen, extra horse-shoes and sundry other articles, all of which add considerable weight to that of the trooper.

This weight is more or less concentrated at comparatively few points instead of being uniformly distributed over the horse's back, so that at a trot, in spite of all that may be done to avoid it, the concussion at certain points is considerable and if kept up tends to develop blisters and sores on the horse's back, which may increase until the animal is no longer fit to use.

As the supply department furnishes but one horse to each trooper, differing in this respect from the mounts of the cowboy, who has as many as he wants, a constant vigilance is required on the part of the captain while on a long march in order to keep his horses serviceable and prevent his troopers from becoming dismounted.

This he accomplishes in part by marching at a walk whenever the circumstances will admit it. By means of the walk we make four miles an hour, says Captain William F. Flynn, U. S. A., in Forest and Stream, and as twenty-five miles is considered a fair day's march it is thus made in about seven hours, considering the necessary halts. The wagons carrying our supplies can go no faster than that, and there is rarely any advantage in reaching one's camping ground very much in advance of the wagons.

It is customary with individual tourists and campers upon making camp to turn their horses loose and either to watch them or else trust to luck in the matter of finding them again. We are not permitted to do this in the army. We always mean to provide grain for our animals on the march, and when we are unable to buy hay en route and thus have to rely upon grazing we put each horse out on a rope fastened to a picket pin driven in the ground.

On the march each mounted man carries his lariat and pin attached to his saddle and as soon as he unsaddles seeks a good grazing place for his horse and drives his pin in the ground. The horse thus gets a limited area upon which to graze. The pins are changed once or twice during the evening, and as the horse stays all night on his rope he gets a pretty fair chance at the grass, after all, and when we want him in the morning we can find him.

The horses having been unsaddled and disposed of, the men then put up their shelter tents. A shelter tent is a convenient little affair made in two halves to accommodate nicely two soldiers. Each soldier carries his half and his pole with him on his blanket roll attached to his saddle, so as soon as he unsaddles he can select his "bunkie" and put up his tent. The officers' tents are wall tents, carried in the wagons and cannot be put up till the wagons come in.

As soon as that takes place details of men put up the officers' tents, get wood and water for the cooks, and the latter build their fire and at once set about getting supper. Soldiers like to have their food well cooked; but, better still, they appear to like it promptly cooked, and that camp cook is always popular who yells "Come and get it!" just a little sooner than it is expected.

On the march we eat but two meals a day. After breakfast the cooks give each man a liberal sandwich of bacon and bread. This the man incloses in his meat can and when he gets hungry eats it. This constitutes his mid-day meal.

Supper over, a guard is posted to look out for the safety of the camp, and the other men usually collect fuel, build a rousing fire, gather round it and amuse themselves by singing, telling yarns and cracking jokes upon each other till bedtime, which comes pretty early with men on the march. The officers fill in the time in about the same manner.

On the march one always has to rise early. There are so many things to be done in order to get the cavalcade fairly on the road that early rising is essential. The guard rouses the cooks long before daylight, and by the time the horses are fed and brushed off the cook announces breakfast. After breakfast the tents are taken down, wagons packed, the horses saddled, and the column is once more on the march.

Described.

"Pa, what is meant by a nervous wreck?"

"A nervous wreck, my boy, is something that a woman says she is every time she gets a headache."—Detroit Free Press.

A He always has a certain amount of weight with those who wish to believe it.—Rice.

Missed His Only Chance.

There once lived a woman who never gave her husband a chance to say a word. The moment he opened his mouth she closed it with a torrent of words. It happened that he fell sick when his wife was out of town, and before she could get home death came and took him away.

"I would feel better about it," she is still saying between her sobs, "if I could have been with John when he died. There must have been some last words he wanted to say to me."

HORRORS OF THE ARCTIC.

Terrible Experience of the Crew of the Ill Fated Jeannette.

When Ross in 1812 touched at Etah the Eskis thought they were being visited by ghosts. With her white sails appearing on the horizon, where the sky melts into an abyss of ocean, what else could the ship be but some great white winged ghost, and what these strange creatures on her decks but lost souls? They thought she, a great bird, had flown from the moon, where wood was abundant, and when they saw her close, her wooden belly and her masts, they whispered, "How much wood there is in the moon—how very much!" Wood is like gold to the Eskis.

One of the unhappy crew of the Jeannette writes: "I put some mercury to freeze, and beat it out on the anvil. Our frozen brandy looked like black topaz. We divided meat, oil and bread with a hatchet. Joshua forgot to put on his right glove; in a moment his hand was frozen. The poor devil wished to thaw his lifeless hand in warm water. It was immediately covered with pieces of ice. The doctor was forced to cut the unlucky mate's hand off, and he died next day. Toward the middle of January a caravan of Eskis came to ask us for some dried fish and brandy. We added a little tobacco to these presents, which they received with tears of joy. The chief, a feeble old man, told us that the week before he had eaten his wife and two sons."

Cold more terrible than the white wolf and bear seizes its victims unawares, instantaneously, fatally. The cold purifies the blood, sharpens appetite, favors digestion and stomach. It soothes to sleep by bringing death in the midst of beautiful dreams. This intense cold, so dry, so pure, stops putrefaction, sweetens the air by greatly increasing its density and purifies water. Cold takes the place of cooking, for it makes raw meat, raw fish and tallow eatable.

A Roman nosed people could not hold their own in the arctic. A Roman nose would be too often frozen off. The Esk flat nose is less exposed. The name Eskimo, or raw food eaters, is a nickname given by the Labrador Indians. Their true name in their own tongue is Inuit and means "man." If patriotism be a virtue the Eskis have it surpassingly. Never was a land of verdant groves, golden harvests and willows mirrored in the streamlets and silvery waves better beloved than their snow fields and ice hills and gloomy, stinking tents and igloos.—New York Press.
