MEMORIAL MEETING.

Greenville Bar Adopts Resolutions in Memory of Two of Its Members.

On Tuesday afternoon last Judge R. B. Peebles took a recess of court for the bar to hold a memorial meeting in respect to Hon. J. L. Fleming and Mr. Harry Skinner, Jr., who were killed in the automobile wreck on Nov. 5th. Col. F. G. James presided over the meeting, and the committees previously appointed to draft resolutions made report. Every member of the Greenville Bar and also Solicitor Abernethy made short addresses paying tribute to the two lost members. The resolutions were as follows:

IN MEMORIAM.

Late in the day, Friday November the 5th, 1909, four young men, full of life and hope were speeding along the public highway, happy and joyous, never dreaming of danger, when suddenly a crash came! The automobile in which they were driving, in an effort to pass a wagon, swerved to the left and struck a tree standing by the roadside, with such terrific force that the car was shattered into fragments and all four of the occupants were hurled to the earth with death-dealing violence.

J. L. Fleming, one of the party, was killed instantly; Harry Skinner, Jr., another occupant, died a few hours afterward; and S. C. Wooten and E. G. Flanagan were so seriously injured, that for weeks their recovery was in grave doubt.

This terrible disaster occurred in sight of Greenville, and just as the evening shadows were gathering about its homes; but the news of it spread from man to man and from home to home, 'till a hush and a gloom fell upon the town like a dark pall. No citizen of Greenville will ever forget the awful night when two of its beloved young men lay dead in their grief-stricken homes, and two others lay critically wounded.

James Lawson Fleming was born in the county of Pitt, on the 1st day of November, 1867. His parents were Leonidas and Harriet Fleming. He came of a sturdy, honest, industrious, noble ancestry, and he inherited their sterling qualities. He was reared upon the farm and grew to manhood with the well developed body and independence which comes to men possessed of such advantages. In his childhood he attended the country schools, and there learned the advantages and disadvantages which confront the country boy in his quest of an education. Later he attended the Greenville academy, then under the management of that devoted instructor and friend of young men, Prof. W. H. Ragsdale. From the Greenville academy he went to Wake Forest college where he laid still deeper the foundations upon which he builded in after years. After leaving Wake Forest, he taught school for a year and then read law with Latham & Skinner at Greenville, and at the University Law school at Chapel Hill. He was admitted to the bar in 1892, and locating in Greenville, he soon entered upon a lucrative practice which steadily increased; and at the time of his death, he was in the full enjoyment of a large practice in the Superior, Supreme, and Federal courts. As a lawyer, he was true and faithful to his clients and always courteous to his brethren of the bar.

Soon after he located in Greenville, he was chosen as mayor of the town—which position he held to the entire satisfaction of its citizens. In 1904 he was chosen by a large majority, of his fellow citizens, to represent the county of Pitt in the senate; and in 1906 he was re-elected to the same position. His service as senator during the years 1905 and 1907 in the general assembly, was marked by vigor and distinction. Among other important measures which engaged his attention he introduced a bill and pressed to its final passage, to establish a teacher's training school for Eastern North Carolina. To his energy and tact should be attributed much of the credit for the establishment of the East Carolina Teacher's Training School which now adorns the suburbs of the town of Greenville.

On the 21st of June, 1899 he was happily married to Miss Lula White, daughter of Capt. C. A. White. His wife and three bright, interesting children now survive him.

As citizen, lawyer, and legislator, James L. Fleming acted well and honorably his part; and in each and all these relations he steadily grew in favor with his fellow men. Therefore be it resolved:

1. That while we bow in humble submission to the inscrutable ways of providence, we deeply lament the loss we have sustained in the death of our friend and brother.

2. That we tender to his bereaved and sorrowing wife and children our tenderest and deepest sympathy.

3. That we request that the court order this statement of the life and services of our departed brother to be spread upon its records and that a copy be furnished his family, and that the same be published in The Daily Reflector.

Thos. J. Jarvis, }
H. W. Whedbee, } Com.
W. F. Evans.

Whereas God, in His Divine Wisdom, has taken from our midst, Harry Skinner, Jr., a member of the Greenville Bar, who by the strength of his bright clear intellect, by his courteous demeanor, by his kind and affable manner among all men, endeared himself in the hearts of all who knew him; Therefore be it resolved:

Resolved, That in the death of Harry Skinner, Jr., the Greenville Bar, collectively, has lost one of its best, brightest and most useful members, and that each member, individually, has lost a friend whom we esteemed most highly and loved with sincerity.

Resolved, That the Bar, collectively and individually, tenders its sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the Court with a request that they be entered upon its minutes and that a copy be transmitted to family of our deceased brother.

THE HORSE SHOW.

A Curiosity that is Worth Seeing—Wonderful Animals.

The horse show that is going on this week in the Proctor building, opposite the Greenville Banking & Trust Co., comes nearer being exactly what is advertised than any show that comes this way. The animals are real curiosities and well worth seeing, especially at the small admission fee of 10 cents.

The large white horse is a monster in size, being 21 hands high, 10 feet 10 inches long, 36 inches broad, weighs 2850 pounds and wears a 32 inch shoe.

The hairless horse is a medium size animal weighing 1400 pounds, and is devoid of any trace or semblance of hair, the skin being almost as smooth and soft as velvet.

There is a cow 6 years old, with skin resembling a human being. This animal is also practically without hair.

The little donkey is 6 years old, 32 inches high, weighs 150 pounds, and is as fat as a butter ball.

The little Russian horse is 10 years old, 30 inches high and weighs only 138 pounds.

The white-faced, ring-tailed monkey is as docile as can be and a general favorite with children.

The Russian poodle dog has a mane as long as a lion's that hangs in tiny ropes from the neck and head.

It is certainly an interesting collection of animals.

GALLOWAY'S CROSS ROADS ITEMS

Galloway's Cross Roads, Jan. 25 Mrs. R. L. Little, from near Winterville, and Mrs. T. J. Tally, of Grimesland, spent part of last week with their father, W. H. Galloway.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter and son spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. W. A. Tally, near Grimesland.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Porter spent Sunday with her father, J. L. Cox.

Misses Elmo Tucker and Mary Bedard, the former a student in the graded school, the latter at the E. C. T. S. at Greenville, were at Salem Sunday.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale was a welcome visitor at Galloway's school house Thursday.

We are glad that Heber H. Porter was the lucky one in getting the mail route from Grimesland, N. C. Route No. 2.

A Word to Correspondents.

The Reflector has a large corps of country correspondents, and is glad to have them. While several letters coming in the same day sometimes crowd us for space, we try to handle them to the best advantage. But there is a suggestion and a request we want to make to these correspondents: Give more attention to real news items and less to neighborhood visiting. Tell about big crops, improve ments, new houses, marriages, deaths, fires, accidents and so on. There is more news in three items of this kind than in three dozen about neighbors stepping across the road to spend the afternoon or evening with each other. Of course if a person really goes away for some time, or visitors came into a community from a distance for a real visit, that is worth mentioning, but mere neighborhood social calls are not news. Cut out this kind of items and give us the real news and progress of your neighborhood.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

J. S. Stump went to Aulander today.

T. A. Person has returned from Louisburg.

Miss Mary James went to Rocky Mount today.

J. M. Ruess, who has been suffering with a carbuncle on his hand, will in a day or two be able to resume his duties in the bakery.

Dr. S. Mendelsohn, Grand Ruler of the Fraternal Mystic Circle, arrived in our city this afternoon to be present at the meeting of Tar River Ruling tonight.

ALLENS CROSS ROADS ITEMS.

Allen's Cross Roads, Jan 24.—The Farmers Union meets every Tuesday night at Allen's school house.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stocks and children spent Saturday at Cottontale.

Mrs. W. F. Evans, of Greenville, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Allen.

Miss Sallie Sutton, who has been spending some time in Ayden, returned home Sunday morning.

Mrs. Lillie Smith and children, of Greenville, spent Saturday night and Sunday with friends in this section.

Miss Rosa Turnage, of Ayden, spent last week with Miss Martha Wooten.

Miss Pattie Smith, of Greenville, spent from Friday until Sunday with Miss Leona McGlawnhorn.

The Sunday school at Allen's Cross Roads is progressing finely with a hundred members.

Explanation.

Our attention is called to an item in the Pactolus correspondence, published Tuesday, that perhaps did Mr. J. H. Gurganus an injustice. The portion of the item referred to was in quotation marks, and we thought at the time was intended as a pleasantry, but some regard it differently. The Reflector does not knowingly allow thrusts to be made through its columns at any one, and cautions correspondents that such privilege is not given them. We try to guard against such in looking over the items of correspondents, but in this instance it slipped by us without the real intent being discovered, for which we are sorry. The correspondent who wrote it will take notice that he must not again attempt to cast a reflection on any one.

Clark & McLemorel can be found at the old central office with a first class tailoring and pressing establishment. Give us a call.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 26, 1910.

Charlotte is after a slick article now—a soap factory.

The Mississippi legislature is hung up in a deadlock over the election of a successor to the late Senator McLaurin.

If it was Irish potato and spring salad time of year the boycott against the meat trust might be more effective.

If there is an egg trust it would seem that, at least, might be crushed.—Greensboro News.
The hens will cackle at you in that lay.

Thank goodness, the price of roasted peanuts has not "rized."—Greensboro News.

But the package has grown much smaller.

That comet that slipped up unawares has put the scientists to guessing and they are calling it by all kinds of names. Perhaps one name is as good as another, as they do not know what they are talking about anyway.

The people who raise meat need not care a snap about the high flies of the meat trust. But there are too many ought-to-be raisers who depend upon buying, and it takes a lot of money made on other produce to meet the meat bill.

It is a good indication of improved moral conditions to see Sunday schools throughout the rural districts. Do you notice how many of The Reflector's country correspondents talk about Sunday schools in their neighborhood?

Mrs. Hetty Green, the richest woman in the country, has decided to eschew meat. If one with her millions thinks meat too expensive to include in the bill of fare, how must the poor fellow with only a few dollars per week feel about it?

If a farmer sold his produce out in small lots on credit he would think mighty hard of those who did not pay him promptly. Yet there are many who will take a newspaper and make the editor wait years for his money, and often never getting it at all.

Senator Lee S. Overman has introduced a resolution proposing such a change in the constitution of the United States as will prohibit any State or foreign country bringing suit against any other State. If there was such a change in the constitution it would stop North Carolina being harassed by the holders of those old fraudulent bonds trying to give them away in order to have suit brought against this State.

Some of these days, when perhaps there is no place available, Greenville is going to wish it had a large play ground or park. A place for recreation is worth far more to a community than it costs. The Reflector has, at times, for some years tried to awake an interest in building a pavilion and bath houses on the river front, but so far has not been able to make any one see the advantage of it. We mention it again as a reminder, having formed the habit of hammering at a good thing until it is secured. It is coming yet.

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Greenville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, kidney weakness may be the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Can Greenville readers demand further proof than the following statement. Jos. Savage, Church St., Tarboro, N. C. says: "For some time my kidneys were disordered, the passages of the secretions being scanty and at times painful. I had sharp pains across my loins and if I stooped suddenly, sharp twinges caught me across my back, making it hard for me to straighten. After using a number of remedies without obtaining relief, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. They removed the aches and pains in my back and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I have derived from them."

TWO UGLY ANIMALS.

Those Big Pigs, the Rhinoceros and the Hippopotamus.

THEY ARE HARD TO CAPTURE.

Getting Away With One of the Colossal Brutes Makes the Work of Trapping the Big Felines Seem Like Child's Play--Methods of the Hunters.

Trapping the big felines is child's play compared with the work of capturing those lumbering, colossal animals of the "big pig" family, the rhinoceros and the hippopotamus.

Too stupid to tame or to break to a halter and too heavy to transport through hundreds of miles of wilderness, it would take a man half a lifetime to bring one of these five to six thousand pound creatures out of a jungle into civilization. Therefore the expert's only chance is to find a cow with a calf and to capture the young one.

Compared with the alert, grim exterior of the felines, there is little in the appearance of a phlegmatic, ponderous pig-like a rhinoceros to indicate its real ferociousness. There is hardly a wild animal in existence which is more dangerous than this rarest of all our menagerie captives. A few years ago the great creature appears when at rest, once aroused it dashes through the densest thicket with the irresistible speed of an express train.

To catch a rhinoceros the trapper proceeds with preparations much as would an explorer bound for a two or three year expedition in the interior of an unexplored continent, for the difficulty confronting him is the threefold one of first penetrating a thousand or more miles into the interior; second, of finding not only a rhinoceros, but a rhinoceros cow with a calf old enough to capture, and, lastly, of transporting his prize across hills and mountains and plains, over rivers and ravines, across swamps and through forests to civilization.

Skirting swamps and rivers, the men are ever on the lookout for the deep, round spools, like a pie plate driven into the mud, for in this wet ground the rhinoceros loves to wallow. Frequently five or six months elapse before the tracks of a cow and a calf are picked up.

Noiseless and from well to leeward, the trapper and his men gradually steal nearer until the cow and the calf are inclosed in a circle. From ahead, out of the maze of cane and creeper, sounds the uneasy stamping of the cow. With a half snort, half grunt, in an instant the rhinoceros is all attention. Head raised and nostrils sniffling, she searches the air steadily. At sight of one of the savages the cow dashes with the speed of a race horse at the man, charging the hunter's feet.

and at that instant the trapper's rifle is heard, and her furious charge is over, provided the bullet reaches the heart by striking just behind the left foreleg--the only vulnerable point in the inch thick armor with which the beast is clad.

Now and then it happens that the trapper fails to kill in time--his gun may miss fire, intervening trees may interfere or the marksman may miss his aim. Then the life of the decoy depends upon his own agility. To run to one side before the rhinoceros is almost on top of him would be fatal, for the swift brute would overtake him with a few bounds. His only hope is to wait until the deadly horn is almost at his feet and then, with the swiftness of a mongoose dodging the aim of a cobra, to leap to one side while the ponderous creature, unable to turn short in time, dashes onward under its own impetus. Twice, three times, a clever native hunter will dodge in this way, giving the trapper ample time to bring down the rhinoceros.

Then comes the tracking of the frightened calf, which has fled at the first sign of trouble, and soon it is pushed, prodded and shoved up a bridge of log skids into a cage of the bullock cart.

But even more dangerous is the trapping of the hippopotamus, for, although in itself the "rhino" is a more savage antagonist than the "river horse," the trapper hunts the former on land and brings down at a safe distance, whereas in the case of the hippopotamus he must fight in the same primitive fashion that savages have used for ages. Hand to maw, as it were, he must engage this two ton monster while standing in the bow of a frail canoe, for the hippopotamus, as its name, the "river horse," means, is a land and water animal and must be harpooned and brought ashore before it expires, otherwise it would sink at once to the bottom of the river, the coveted calf escaping among the other hippopotamuses instead of following the stricken cow to shore, so that the youngster may be caught.--A. W. Rolker in St. Nicholas.

Tantalizing Ownership. In a French village, a citizen had upon his land a part of an old building containing two very beautiful windows. He was in debt and embarrassed and eagerly closed with the offer of a rich archaeologist, who bought them. Thereupon the government inspector, hearing of the bargain, arrived just in time to stop the masons from dislodging the windows. "You cannot," he said to the villager, "sell antiquities, my man." "But, excellency, I have used the money and paid my creditors." The villager was in despair, but the official was untouched. "That's all right," he said. "The money is safe. The windows are no longer yours. But the buyer can't move a stone of them. He can, however, come with a camp stool and sit down and look at his property as much as he likes."

Followed Instructions.

At Gloucester some time ago a man was sentenced to one month's hard labor for stealing a bottle of medicine that he had been asked to deliver by the doctor in the village in which he lived. Some months after he was brought up on a similar charge and when in the dock was asked what he had to say in his defense.

"Well, your honor," he replied, "I was asked by the doctor to call again for another patient's medicine, and the bottle stood on the doctor's desk labeled, 'To be taken as before.'"

He was discharged amid roars of laughter.—London Fun.

Wise Old Guard.

To a guard at a gate in the Broad street station, Philadelphia, there recently rushed an excited individual with this query, "Have I time to say goodbye to my wife, who is leaving on this New York train?"

"That, sir," responded the guard, with a polite smile, "depends on how long you have been married."—St. Louis Republic.

A Mean Hint.

Miss Oldgirl—I have been studying with Professor Plump, and he gave me a few wrinkles. Miss Pert—Do you think you need any more, dear?—Baltimore American.
