FROM CAMPUS.

East Carolina Teachers' Training School Notes.

Reported for The Reflector by Miss Mamie E. Jenkins.

A valuable addition to the faculty is Mrs. Jennie M. Ogden, of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, a woman of exceptionally fine training and experience. Mrs. Ogden will take charge of the dining hall and deliver lectures on Domestic Science. The daily menus will be made out according to scientific principles and will be of great educational value to the students.

Nineteen new students have entered school since the holidays, making the total enrollment one hundred and forty two. It has become necessary to divide some of the classes into two sections.

A book room in which all school supplies are kept, has been opened and placed in charge of Mr. E. C. Dodd.

The first week in February will be devoted to mid-year examinations.

A room in the administration building has been attractively furnished for the use of the Y. W. C. A. On the evening of January 15th a reception was given in honor of the new students and the new room.

On the morning of Lee's birthday, appropriate Jackson-Lee exercises were held in the assembly hall. "How Firm a Foundation," Lee's favorite hymn, "Ho, for Carolina" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were sung. Pres. Wright first spoke briefly on Stonewall Jackson, then made an excellent talk on Lee's setting forth his qualities as a man rather than his generalship.

NEW STORE FOR GREENVILLE.

Gornto Shoe Co. Will Open Here About March 1st.

Greenville, N. C., is to have a first class and up-to-date family shoe store, to be known as the Gornto Shoe Co. The new firm will be ready for and doing business by March 1st. George Gornto, accompanied by P. C. Hemby, has visited the principal markets of Boston and the east during the past week, and the best efforts of both men were used to obtain the most desirable goods on the market. The new store, when stocked, and furnished and ready for business will be thoroughly modern in every respect.—The Shoe Retailer, Boston.

Mr. Gornto is here now and is making preparations to open in the store recently occupied by Dr. Bryan's drug store. The latter occupies one of the new Higgs stores near the A. C. L. depot.

The new exclusive shoe store of Gornto Shoe Co., will fill a long felt want in Greenville and we extend to them a hearty welcome.

Carrier Boys Enjoy Show.

The management of the Horse Show, that is going on in the Proctor building, entertained The Reflector carrier boys this afternoon. The boys went over in a body and greatly enjoyed seeing the curious animals. As might have been expected of boys, they were especially delighted with the little horse, the little donkey and the white-faced monkey. They all wished they could own the trio, but had to content themselves with only looking at and petting them. The boys appreciate the courtesy the show managers extended them.

WHY THE MAPS ARE DELAYED.

Will be Ready for Delivery in March or April.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24, 1910. Editor The Reflector:

Many inquires have come to me asking when the report and map of the soil survey of Pitt county would be published and available for distribution. I had fully expected them to be ready by this month.

I recently submitted a written inquiry upon the subject to Prof. Milton Whitney, Chief of the Bureau of Soils, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and I append hereto his reply as a matter of interest to your readers.

Very sincerely,

Jno. H. Small.

Washington, D. C., Jan., 20, 1910. Hon. John H. Small,

House of Representatives. Dear Sir:

In response to your inquiry of January 20, the map to accompany the soil survey report on Pitt county, North Carolina, has been in the hands of the lithographer for about six weeks. In awarding contracts for lithographic work from four to six months is allowed the contractor, and I can not state definitely when this map will be finished. We might reasonably expect to receive it in March or April, and the report will be issued within a week or two after the maps are delivered to the public printer. I have requested that the work on this map be pressed in every practicable way.

Very truly yours,

Milton Whitney,
Chief of Bureau.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Jan. 27.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity:

Trade in practically all staple commodities continues fairly active, the principal feature, however, is the high prices of many staples. Sales of loose leaf tobacco have been unusually large and prices have compared favorably with recent years. Dry goods are fairly active. Produce is quiet. Machinists and foundry men report satisfactory ordering indicating general activity in manufacturing industries. Wholesale grocers report a lull in business basis usually following the inventory and holiday seasons. The wheat and oat crops are reported to have improved, but are still below the average. In North Carolina naval stores are reported firm, while prices of cotton continues unchanged. Retail trade and collections are fair.

The following new books have been added to the public library: "The Glory of the Conquered" by Susan Glaspell.

"The Barrier" by Rex Beach

and "The Power of a Lie" by Johan Joher, are in the public library. New books are added monthly. The library is open on Monday's, Wednesday's and Friday's, from 3 to 5 p. m.

All Trains "On Time All The Time."

The passenger trains of N. & S. Railway, equipped with modern coaches of the latest design, are operated punctually on time to a degree unequalled upon any other line.

A. & M. COLLEGE NOTES.

West Raleigh, Jan. 26.—The new year has brought quite a large addition to the college members. Thus far 81 new men have been enrolled. The new dormitory makes the accommodation of these men possible. At the present rate of growth, it is evident that the State must enlarge the college in every direction, if it would accommodate all the young men who desire a purely technical education. The total enrollment this year has reached 525—the largest number ever enrolled. With no hazing and everything running so smoothly, no one can predict the enormous growth of the A. & M. College.

The winter course, composed of men direct from the farms, has enrolled about forty. These men will spend eight weeks here at minimum cost, studying the methods which bear directly upon the best farm practices. This year the course will include a series of lectures and demonstrations on practical road-building. These will be given by State Engineer Spoon and by an engineer detailed for the purpose by the United States government.

Beginning with this term, the boys are occupying the new dormitory, which was recently completed. This building accommodates 123 and its completion relieves the overcrowded condition which existed before Christmas. It is one of the most beautiful buildings on the campus, being modernly equipped with water, steam heat and electric lights.

The college is having many applications for men to take charge of farms and dairies, also for men to teach agriculture in the public and high schools. There is a splendid field for men and women who are qualified to teach this subject. The salaries offered are lucrative enough for special preparation to be very desirable and profitable.

The Reflector does job work.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

Charlie James went to Rocky Mount today.

Miss Lee Brown left this morning to visit relatives in Norfolk and Portsmouth.

Mrs. Frank Wilson and little son and Mrs. Zeno Brown have gone to Hendersonville to visit their parents.

Mrs. W. H. Dail, Sr., of Snow Hill, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse, left today.

J. F. Evans, local agent for Pitt county, returned this morning from New Bern where he had been attending a meeting of county agents of farm demonstration work.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Chapel Hill, Jan. 26.—The Carolina-Georgia debate will be held in Chapel Hill about the middle of April. The Carolina-Washington and Lee debate has been postponed from March to April. This debate will be held in Greensboro. Several years ago Carolina lost to Washington and Lee. With the exception of that defeat and the tie with George Washington University, Carolina has won a majority of series; two out of three with Virginia, one out of one with Johns Hopkins, three out of three with Vanderbilt, two out of three with Pennsylvania, and eight out of twelve with Georgia. President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, delivered the McNair lectures on "The Stability of Truth." He was too unwell to deliver the third lecture. These lectures had for their purpose the harmonization of science and religion.

E. E. Barnett, A. R. Morgan, W. L. Cooper, J. G. Walker, J. W. Freeman and C. E. Norman represented the University Y. M. C. A. at the Laymen's Foreign Missionary convention, which was held at Greensboro. All of these young men are members of the student volunteer band and intend to go as missionaries to Japan, China, India and Africa.

Dr. Thomas Ruffin, senior professor of law attended the trial of the case of the United States vs The American Tobacco Company before the United States Supreme court. He gave an interesting account of this significant case to the law school.

There are rumors and rumors that several members of the university faculty have received offers from other colleges and universities with far larger salaries. It is becoming a serious question how long the legislature of North Carolina is going to allow other universities and other states to draw away the big men of the university. Dozens of the faculty could leave tomorrow and it is now with many a conflict between dire necessity and college and State loyalty.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha Feb. 7th and 8th, Monday and Tuesday, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. Those who desire work done will be charged no fee unless terms are agreed upon. 2 6 st

BOYS' CORN GROWING CONTEST.

We notice that a number of counties in the State are taking much interest in boys' corn growing contests, and are offering many premiums locally in addition to those offered by the State Board of Agriculture for the best yields of corn. In Wilson, for instance, a number of premiums ranging from $5 to $50 in gold, besides fertilizers, machinery and various articles of merchandise, are offered by the business men to the boys. This encourages the boys to have a corn crop and to put forth their best efforts in cultivating it and making a large yield. The Reflector had hoped before now to announce that interest in the boys' corn growing contest had taken hold of Pitt county, but some how our people are slow about it. No doubt there are many business men in Greenville and other towns throughout the county who are willing to give premiums for this purpose, and in a county as large as Pitt there should be fully a hundred boys enlisted in such a contest. It will be worth much to the boys and much to the county to have the corn growing contest. It is not too late to start now for this year's crop, and it ought to be taken hold of in Pitt county with a vim.

If they advance the price of socks it will be darned tough.—Greensboro News.
That depends on whether they are hole proof.
If the boycott on the meat trust teaches people how to get along with eating less meat, it will be a lesson of no small value.

The meat boycotters will have a large addition to their ranks when Lent comes.

When a man comes to Greenville now, and has not been here in some years, he opens his eyes with astonishment at the improvements that have taken place.

The way railroads in this State are extending their lines looks like they have plenty of faith in North Carolina's development. It is a good indication, too.

A horrible story comes from France that floods in that country have claimed more than one hundred thousand victims. Such disasters are appalling.

DRIVING AN ELEPHANT.

The Mahout's Hook and Spike and His Knee and Toe.

"The dog is man's companion; the elephant is his slave," writes Sir Samuel W. Baker in "Wild Beasts and Their Ways." The dog shares with his master the delight of hunting and defends him from an enemy's attack, but an enemy might kill an elephant's mahout and the beast would not interfere to save him. He never volunteers his services, although he can be trained to do certain acts, for he has a wonderful capacity for learning. But he will not do them unless he is ordered to by his mahout, to whose guidance he submits because he knows that disobedience will bring punishment.

The mahout, sitting on the elephant's neck, governs the animal by an iron hook and spike, which resembles a boat hook and weighs from four to six pounds. The mahout drives the elephant forward by digging the point of the spike into its head and pulls him back by inserting the hook in the tender base of the ears. Without the hook the elephant is like the donkey without the stick. He obeys not from affection, but because he knows he will be punished if he disobeys.

An elephant whose mahout rules him responds to the secret signs of his driver. The gentle pressure of the mahout's toe, the compression of his knee, the delicate touch of his heel or the slightest swaying of his body to one side guides the mighty beast as a ship is guided by an almost imperceptible movement of the rudder. But the mahout must himself be cool and free from all nervousness if he expects the elephant to obey him.

Illustrating the fact that a poor driver makes a disobedient elephant, Sir Samuel says a man may sit a horse gracefully, but if he has not the gift of a "good hand" there will be little comfort for the animal and no ease for the rider. A rider with a "bad hand" makes the fact known to the horse almost as soon as he seats himself in the saddle. The result is that the horse becomes nervous and does not perceive what his master wishes him to do.

The elephant is not bitted and therefore is not disturbed by a "bad hand." But if the mahout is nervous or hesitates or vacillates he will be sure to have a "bad knee" or a "bad toe." His mood will influence his muscles, and the elephant feels that the mahout does not exactly know what he is about. Instead of obeying instantly the pressure of knee or toe, the animal vacillates, swings his head, becomes unsteady and if engaged in hunting or scenting a tiger turns round and runs away—made a coward by his master's nervousness.

Forests and Deserts.

Whole provinces of the Tibetan borders of China have been converted into uninhabitable, sandy desert, which centuries ago were fertile and well watered and supported rich cities, apparently in consequence of the destruction of forest. The formation of desert is due in the first place to the destruction of forest, the consequent formation of a barren, sandy area and the subsequent spreading of the "disease" or "desert ulcer" by the blowing of the fatally exposed sand. Sand deserts are not, as used to be supposed, sea bottoms from which the water has retreated, but areas of destruction of vegetation—often both in central Asia and in north Africa started by the deliberate destruction of forest by man, either by artificial drainage starving the forest or by the simple use of the ax or fire.—Chicago News.

Midnight Messages.

The hour grew late. "Do you believe in mental telepathy?" asked the first clubman. "I do," answered the second clubman. "I know what my wife is thinking right now."—Washington Herald.

Judge of a man by his questions rather than by his answers.—Voltaire.

DEGREES OF BURNS.

How They Are Marked and How They Should Be Treated.

The medical books describe several degrees of burns, according to the amount of damage the fire has done to the skin or the parts beneath.

The first degree consists merely in redness and stinging of the skin, such as is caused by the flame of a match touching the finger for an instant or by a drop of hot wax from a candle falling on the hand. Ordinarily this is a trivial accident, and the pain of it, if annoying, may be subdued by applying a cloth wet with a solution of cooking soda, but if a large surface is burned, as when a cambric night dress catches fire and blazes up for a moment, but is quickly extinguished, the patient may suffer severely from shock.

In the second degree, blisters form on the injured part. Care must be taken not to tear the blisters—in removing the burned clothing, for example. A little snip with clean scissors or two or three punctures with a clean needle should be made in the part of the blister which protrudes most, and as soon as the water has drained away the part should be covered with a cloth wet with soda solution or with equal parts of limewater and olive oil—called carron oil.

In burns of the third degree the upper layer of the skin is destroyed. This is the most painful of burns, for the sensitive cutaneous nerves are exposed. The first thing to do is to cover the part so as to protect the bared nerve endings from contact with the air. The same dressing as that for burns of the second degree will give relief until the physician comes. Carron oil is best, but the soda solution is better than nothing and much better than plain water or oil.

In burns of the fourth degree—the third and fourth degrees usually occur together—the skin is burned through and the bare flesh is exposed. This, strange as it may seem, is less painful than a third degree burn, for now the nerve endings, which receive and transmit the painful sensations, are entirely destroyed. It is more serious in its after effects, because it always leaves a scar which is disfiguring and may contract and draw the part out of shape.

In burns of the fifth degree the muscles and other tissues are more or less extensively disintegrated, and in those of the sixth degree the entire limb—finger, hand, arm, foot or leg—is destroyed. In all these severer burns there is more or less shock, which may be so profound as to kill, and there are also serious symptoms caused by congestion of the internal organs and probably also by a poison formed in the burned tissues.—Youth's Companion.

The Chief Requisite.

Richard Watson Gilder had a dry wit of his own. He once received a call from a young woman who wished to secure material for an article of 3,000 words on "Young Women in Literature." "It was a fetching subject, full of meat," explained the young woman afterward, "and I saw not only 3,000 words in the story, but at least 6,000. But I never got any further than the first question. Mr. Gilder's answer took the very life out of me. I asked him, 'Now, Mr. Gilder, what would you say was the first, the chief, the essential requisite for a young woman entering the literary field?' I waited with bated breath, when he answered, 'Postage stamps!'"

The Lost Company.

"Hungry, I suppose?" said the sharp faced woman as she opened the door just a little bit.

"W'y, no," answered the ragged wayfarer. "I've clean forgot how to be hungry. But I'm out and out lonely."

"Lonely?" "Yes. You see, I hain't had nothing to eat for so long that I've got so thin I can't cast no shadow, and you ain't no idea what company a man's shadow is to him while he is travelin' along the road."

Where She Drew the Line.

A story of a little maiden who finally asserted her rights is related in an exchange.

She was only three years old, and it was her first visit to a number of relatives. Aunts, uncles and cousins crowded around her and kissed her over and over again. She stood it patiently and gave every kiss that was asked for without demur. After awhile, when she had run the gantlet of affectionate relatives, Uncle Tom said, "Now, baby, I'll take you out to see the cow."

Outside the door she stopped and shook her little head. "Uncle Tom," she said, "I won't kiss the cow!"

And Uncle Tom took pity upon her and did not insist.

It Made Him Angry.

When a merchant in the Hill district who had been standing in front of his store saw two young men stop the other day and begin looking over his wares he naturally was pleased and immediately gave them attention.

"I want to know," began one of them, "if you have any clean shirts ready to wear."

"Certainly, certainly!" was the quick response.

"Well, then, go in and put one of them on," was the reply of the smart young man as he and his companion continued on their journey.

Eyewitnesses say that the merchant didn't laugh.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

A Curious Chinese Custom.

According to the rule sanctioned by centuries of Chinese observance, the emperor must have the approval of the imperial throne of China unless it bears a red spot placed there by the sovereign. To the grand council the tsung-li-yamen and all other departments of state take their business, and the grand council in its turn considers all documents and attaches to each a piece of red paper on which its own decision is written. Each morning at daybreak the grand council proceeds to the palace to submit the papers to the sovereign, who as each document is produced signifies approval by making a small spot with a brush on the margin of the red paper. With the red spot upon it the paper is the most sacred thing in the world to a Chinaman. Without it it may be torn to shreds with impunity.

Michigan Iron.

The first discovery by white men of the iron ore of the Lake Superior region was made Sept. 16, 1844, near the eastern end of Teal lake, in northern Michigan, by William A. Burt, a deputy surveyor of the general government. In June, 1845, the Jackson Mining company was organized at Jackson, Mich., and in the same year it secured possession of the celebrated Jackson iron mountain. The ore from this mountain was first used in a bloomery at Jackson, Mich., and afterward, in 1847 and subsequently, in bloomeries in northern Michigan.
