GREENVILLE STRUCK BY CYCLONE

TOOK ZIG-ZAG COURSE THROUGH WEST GREENVILLE

Some Buildings Completely Demolished and Others Seriously Damaged—No Lives Were Lost

In the midst of the rain, about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, there was a sudden darkening of the elements by clouds of almost inky blackness, and out of this Greenville got its first experience with anything bordering on a cyclone. People out in the vicinity of the A. C. L. depot saw something coming from the old race track that seemed to be picking up everything movable in its track. They did not know whether it was a small cyclone or a big whirl wind, but be what it may, it was enough to make them hurry for shelter until the thing got by, which it was not long in doing.

Fortunately the whirl wind did not cover a wide space but it certainly left its mark along the path traveled. The first sign of destruction was at Tar River Institute, the colored theological school on the outskirts of the town. This building was badly wrecked and practically ruined. Not far distant is the colored graded school building, one wing of which was torn off, lifted from its foundations and set flat down on the ground, though right side up. School had been dismissed a short while before, Principal C. M. Epps was still there and got an air-ship ride in the wing of the building. He came out with nothing worse than a scare. One room of the house of a colored woman in the same neighborhood was taken off and planted in her neighbor's garden.

From there on towards Murrell's park the thing lifted a little higher from the ground, but it took a conglomeration of hanging-out clothes, chicken coops, boxes, barrels, fence-palings, and so on along through the air with it. When about the A. C. L. track it got down to business on the ground again and seemed to concentrate its fury in the space between the Centre Brick warehouse and the rear of the new Higgs block of brick buildings. A small frame building in that space in which Allen Fleming run a restaurant was literally torn into kindling wood and several cart loads of it piled on the roof of the tobacco warehouse. Seventeen of the warehouse skylights were blown or knocked out, and rear wall of the corner store in the Higgs block, in which Mr. J. W. Bryan had just moved his drug store, was torn about four inches out of place.

Getting hemmed in between these brick buildings seemed to get the best of the wind, yet there was enough of it left to switch around into Dickinson avenue down to Pitt street where it turned again, taking down a few fences in its course. At the residence of Mr. J. L. Hassell the top of a chimney was blown down and a screen door torn off, but the wind could not be traced in town beyond this point.

We have not heard if the cyclone struck anywhere in the country.

During the night there was another hard wind that blowed "Hiram" the big horse at the Horse Show, clear across the street to The Reflector corner.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hurling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C. Jan. 29, 1910. Henry Beddard, who is conductor on the road from Raleigh to Richmond, has been visiting friends here this week.

Mrs. M. G. Bryan, who has been visiting her mother at Stokes for the past few days, has returned home.

Miss Janie Edwards, a Winterville High School student left yesterday for her home at Simpson to spend Saturday and Sunday.

A. W. Ange went to Greenville Thursday.

John Manning, who is at work near Greer, came in 1st night.

Dail & Sutton, who were in the market business on corner of main and mill streets, have moved out on Railroad street, in the store formerly occupied by H. L. Johnson.

There was another baptism at the Baptist church last Wednesday night.

Herman McLawhorn received a message last Tuesday that his aunt, near Greenville, was dead. He attended the burial Wednesday. The bereaved have our deepest sympathy.

Rev. T. H. King, who has been pastor of the Baptist church here for some years, and who has served his church so well, moved to Smithfield last Wednesday, where he has accepted a call for this year. He will preach half time at Smithfield and half time at Selma. We regret very much to lose Mr. King. However, since it is a reality, we can truly say that while it is our loss it is Smithfield's gain.

Mattress as a Bank.

Sheriff Charles Stewart, of Mitchell county, arrived here this morning with George Hannett who had been sentenced to serve a term of seven years in the penitentiary for the theft of $1,001 from a man by the name of Rose.

It seems that Rose was afraid of banking his money, so proceeded to stow away his surplus cash in a mattress on his bed. In some manner, Hannett got wise to this, and realizing that a mattress was by no means burglar-proof, set his think-tank to work devising some method of securing this secreted mazzuma. Finally he saw his opportunity and made haste to attach himself to this unused coin, and right there is where his troubles began. He was suspected of the theft, arrested and tried at a recent term of Mitchell court, and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary.

A mattress is not a safe place to deposit money for not only has it no burglar protection, but it is a great temptation to poor, weak, mortals.—Raleigh Evening Times.

Important to Merchants.

Devote one hour each day to the study and preparation of your advertising and pondering on your various forms of "publicity" the show window, interior displays, etc. Go over the writing of your advertisements again and again until you are satisfied that it is the best you can do. If you are subject to too many interruptions in the store, make this a single exception to a rule not to work at home. Write the advertisement wherever you can be assured of the concentration of all your mental powers.—Merchants' Journal.

PRIZES FOR BOYS' CONTEST.

Ten Dollars Offered by J. R. & J. G. Moye.

The Reflector is authorized by J. R. & J. G. Moye, one of Greenville's enterprising mercantile firms, to say they wish to offer $10 in cash prizes to the boys of Pitt county to encourage the corn growing contest in which the boys have decided to engage this year. The $10 this firm offers will be distributed as follows: $5 to the boy making the best yield of corn on one acre; $3 for the second best yield on one acre; $2 for the third best yield on one acre.

We feel sure the example set by this firm will be followed by others and that many prizes will be offered to encourage the boys in their work. The Reflector will take pleasure in publishing any prizes that are offered. Every boy who enters the contest should do his best, not alone for the hope of winning a prize, but for the benefit it will be to him in learning to be a producer of larger and better crops. Twenty-five Pitt county boys have already enlisted for the contest and there should be others.

WATER AND LIGHT QUESTIONS.

Editor Reflector:

Your correspondent in Friday's issue suggests that there is a stench in the air. I wish to ask if it smells of the fumes of Standard Oil?

By the way, how many of our water and light commissioners use Standard oil instead of electric lights? How many of them do not take city water in their homes? Is it not improper for persons who do not patronize this branch of the city government to occupy such position? Ask those who had their meters read last month if the rate was not increasing? High rates and meter readings may have a tendency to drive the people back to Standard oil lights. Answer these questions if any body knows how.

A Water and Light Pay (tron).

Commencing Wednesday morning Feb. 2nd, at 10 o'clock, there will be a special sale of china, at the store of A. B. Ellington & Co. 1 29 st

DEPARTMENT ISSUES ORDER.

Regarding Placing Loose Coins in Rural Mail Boxes.

Postmaster R. C. Flanagan has received a notice from the post office department reading as follows:

In view of the extent to which the practice of placing loose coins in boxes by rural patrons has grown, and the delay in the delivery and collection of mail and the hardship imposed on rural carriers incident thereto, you are informed that, commencing Feb. 15th, proximo, rural letter carriers will not be required to collect loose coins from rural mail boxes.

Patrons should enclose coins in an envelope, wrap them securely in a piece of paper, or deposit them in a coin-holding receptacle, so they can be easily and quickly taken from the boxes, and carriers will be required to lift such coins, and, where accompanied my mail for dispatch, attach the requisite stamps.

P. V. DeGraw, Fourth Asst. Postmaster Genl.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Good Attendance and Interesting Speeches.

Considering the ugly night and early morning that had preceded, there was a good attendance of farmers at the institute here today, the number being much larger than was anticipated. It was about 11:30 o'clock before the institute could begin, as court was in session earlier, but good use was made of the remainder of the day. Owing to the lateness we can not give much report of it today, further than to say there were several interesting speeches on various branches of agriculture, and every farmer present was benefited by what he heard. The farmers who absent themselves from such meetings do not realize what they are losing. Both the State and National governments are doing much in this direction to help agricultural interests, and farmers should be glad to take advantage of it.

Mr. W. J. Kilpatrick Dead.

Thursday afternoon Mr. W. J. Kilpatrick died at his home near Grifton. The burial took place Friday, funeral services being conducted at St. John's church by Rev. J. H. Griffith, of Kingston and Rev. B. F. Huske, of Greenville. Mr. Kilpatrick was 66 years of age and had been a vestryman of St. John's for 37 years. He was one of the county's best citizens, an upright man in every particular and held the esteem of all who knew him. He leaves two sons, five daughters, one brother and one sister.

SATURDAY, JAN. 29, 1910.

Now who is going to charge that local cyclone to the comet? All the same the cyclone did not come until the comet appeared.

That was a peculiar accident which occurred a few days ago in Bryson City, Swain county, that practically destroyed the new court house built about a year ago at a cost of $75,000. Three men were in the office of the register of deeds thawing a stick of dynamite on the radiator. The dynamite exploded, wrecking the building, killing one man instantly, another lost both eyes, and the third was badly injured.

A Question of Honor.

Lord save us, how weak we are and how prone in stress of temptation to do the very things we condemn most bitterly when done by others and to excuse ourselves to ourselves for doing them. Last spring in the Carolinas when it looked as if the cotton acreage was great and the crop would be heavy, many farmers contracted to deliver to buyers and mills cotton on a ten-cents basis. Now cotton is selling at fourteen and fifteen cents and the farmers refuse to deliver. They are breaking their contracts deliberately and flagrantly. One or two firms which sold cotton for future delivery trusting to their contracts have been forced into bankruptcy.

It is safe to say that all these men who are refusing to stand to their bargains have given much of their breath and time to denouncing the swindling methods of merchants and cotton buyers and city people generally. They have half believed and freely said that all the honesty is in the country districts, that the simple-minded, honest farmer was the one citizen worthy of confidence. Yet they have permitted themselves to become cheats and tricksters of the worst kind. They ignore their own contract. We realize that the temptation was great. A difference of four cents a pound is a difference of $20 a bale. It is a trial to a man who has worked hard in the field all the year to pay over the cream of his accidental profit to another man who has sat comfortably in his office and from the farmer's point of view done little or nothing. The farmer probably tries to persuade himself that he was trapped. But a bargain is a bargain. Buyers and sellers had equal opportunity to judge what the cotton yield would be. Each took a fair chance. If rain and sunshine and temperatures had come in propitious succession and the yield had been enormous; or if there had been war in England or India or famine in China and cotton had fallen to seven cents, the buyer would have been the loser and the farmer the gainer. The latter would have demanded his ten cents a pound as agreed regardless of the market prices or of the results to the broke r. As it has happened, the seasons have been had in some respects and in some places, the world is at peace and needs cotton and prices have soared. And the sellers are trying to wriggle out of their trade. We hope sincerely the courts will force the last man of them to deliver cotton at the price agreed on or to pay over to the buyers the difference in money. Far worse than war, far worse than reconstruction or crop failures or panic or any material desolation would be a general custom of disregarding the obligations of a contract or the establishment among our people of standards of dishonor. We predict that if these men hold to their purpose of refusing to deliver their cotton at the agreed prices their act will be rued by their children's children. A taint of dishonesty fastened on a name sticks to it through generations and the honor of a man, a woman or a people is of more value than all the profit that can be gathered or the wealth that can be heaped up—Richmond Ledger.

People who have warm friends are healthier and happier than those who have none. A single real friend is a treasury worth more than gold or precious stones. Money can buy many things, good and evil. All the wealth of the world could not buy a friend, or pay you for a loss of one and we are the weakest and worst of spendthrifts if we let a friend drop off through inattention or let one push away another, or if we hold aloof from one for petty jealousy or needless slight. One good friend is not to be weighed against all the jewels of earth.—Durham Sun.

THE ESKIMOS' PIPES.

Small Bowls With Stems of Walrus Tusk Handsomely Carved.

The pipes used by the Eskimos are quite different from those of any other North American race and in the shape of the bowl more resemble the opium pipes used by the Chinese than anything else. The old pipes were very small in the amount of tobacco that they would hold, for in former days tobacco was extremely scarce and in its use was most carefully husbanded.

There was therefore a wide flaring margin to the pipe to catch any grains of tobacco that might be spilled in filling it; then there were a hollow which would hold a pinch of tobacco half as large as an ordinary pea and a rather wide hole passing down through the base of the bowl which fitted into the pipe-stem. The bowl of the pipe was of ivory, stone, brass or copper.

The pipestem was curved and had a mouthpiece. It is said that the small hole running down through the base of the bowl and into the pipestem was usually plugged with caribou hair to save any grains of tobacco that might otherwise have passed down through this aperture and so be lost. The smoking of such a pipe would not last long, and we may presume that a very few draws would exhaust it. The smoke was of course taken into the lungs.

The Eskimos are known to be extremely skillful in the representation of scenes and objects, while the Indians of Queen Charlotte's sound and generally all the natives of the northwest coast of America are famous for their carving in wood and in black slate. Handsomely carved Eskimo pipes of walrus ivory from northwestern Alaska have on each side of the pipe—that is to say, on four more or less long flat surfaces—scenes from the daily life of the Eskimo. Of these the two sides on the right hand of the pipe as it is held in position for smoking appear to represent the period of cold weather, later autumn, winter and early spring, while those on the left hand side of the pipe represent the summer life of the Eskimo.—Forest and Stream.

Changed His Tune.

It is said that when President Polk visited Boston he was impressively received at Faneuil hall market. The clerk walked in front of him down the length of the market, announcing in loud tones: "Make way, gentlemen, for the president of the United States! Fellow citizens, make room!"

The chief had stepped into one of the stalls to look at some game, when the clerk turned around suddenly and, finding himself alone, suddenly changed his tone and exclaimed: "My gracious! Where has that darned idiot got to?"

Mental Arithmetic.

Wife of Young Literary Man—Why, George, £10 for that magazine story? How long did it take you to write it?

Young Husband (nonchalantly)—Oh, I don't know. A couple of days, I suppose.

Wife (exultingly)—Five pounds a day! That's £30 a week and £120 a month. Twelve times £120 is nearly £1,500 a year. Why, George, we can keep a carriage just as well as not.—London Answers.

Persian Prayer Rugs.

About 200 years ago small embroidered rugs were largely made in Persia, chiefly at Ispahan. These were prayer rugs, and on each of them near one end was a small embroidered mark to show where the bit of sacred earth from Mecca was to be placed. In obedience to a law of the Koran, that the head must be bowed to the ground in prayer, this was touched by the forehead when the prostration was made, and so the letter of the law was carried out. The custom still prevails. The Persian women who weave the finest prayer rugs seldom weave any other kind of rug.

GOOD EXERCISE.

Practicing Juggling at Home as an Aid to Health.

It has been contended that the easiest and pleasantest way to keep in fit condition is to practice juggling, the art of balancing and catching objects.

When exercising at home, unwatched by a teacher, one is likely to perform his exercises in an incorrect or slovenly fashion, thus doing himself more harm than good, but the simplest feat of juggling can be done in only one way, the right way. Again, where physical exercise develops only a certain part or parts of the body five minutes' juggling calls into play every important muscle. Finally, few physical exercises train the eye or the hand. Juggling does both.

The mistake the novice is likely to make is that he tries to do off-hand what it has taken the experienced juggler years of practice to accomplish. The beginner should, of course, start with the easiest feats, such as balancing a walking stick on his forehead or tossing a ball from behind his back over his shoulder and catching it as it falls. If one is really fond of juggling he may invent his own problems.

Here are a few axioms: It is easier to balance a thing on your head than on your hand.

Up to the point where great physical strength is required the larger the object the easier it is to balance. Thus it is easier to balance a walking stick on your forehead than it is a pencil.

One should always look at the top of whatever he is balancing. Beginners make the mistake of looking at the bottom or the middle of the stick or whatever is being juggled. Again, when catching things do not watch your hands. Keep your eye on the object, just as you would to catch a batted ball.

In all balancing feats it should be remembered that the shape of the object is immaterial. What one has to do is to balance an imaginary line passing vertically through the center of gravity of the object, or, in other words, to keep its axis perpendicular to whatever it is balanced upon. Juggling is said to be the best and healthiest of indoor exercises, because it does not weary, because it develops every part of the body, because it trains the hand and the eye and because it makes for grace.—New York Tribune.

An Afghan Trick.

During a shooting match in the presence of the governor of Kandahar the sirdar noticed to his astonishment that the heads of sparrows were the favorite butt of the marksmen, who but seldom missed their aim, whereupon he declared that it was far more difficult to hit an egg. Sir Peter laughed at the supposition, but the sirdar stood his ground, and the matter was put to the test. An egg was suspended on a wall, and the soldiers fired at it; but, strange to say, not one of them hit the egg. The governor and his suit kept their countenances and excused the nonsuccess of the firing party on the ground of the difficulty of the thing. At last a ball happened to hit the thread to which the egg was fastened, and it fell to the ground without breaking. Now the mystery was solved. The cunning Afghan had used a blown egg and the featherweight shell had been moved aside each time by the current of air in front of the ball and thus escaped being hit.

Snubbed a Duke.

Manners mark the man, but the typical Briton resents any advance from a stranger with a cold stare. Yet it is an Englishman who narrates an incident of railway travel. On the way to London in a first class compartment were two well dressed men. Opposite them sat an elderly gentleman, whose fur coat and silk hat both looked shabby. The elderly man made a remark about the weather. The others stared at him with insolent silence. When the train reached Waterloo there came two tall hunks in fur tippets and corded hats to the door of our compartment, and one of them said to the shabby old gentleman, "Your grace, the carriage is here." Whereupon the two snobs turned thirteen different kinds of green and pink and purple, and I went on my way rejoicing. The cads had snubbed a duke.—Washington Herald.

The Nightingales.

The father of Florence Nightingale was William Shore, who assumed by letters patent the surname of Nightingale in 1815. The name, together with the family property, came from old Peter Nightingale, against whom Arkwright, inventor of the spinning jenny, brought in 1776 one of his actions for infringement of patent rights. Lea Hurst, the home of the Nightingales in Derbyshire, is only two miles from Cromford, where Arkwright set up his mill and the adjacent manor house of which he purchased from Nightingale.—London Chronicle.

CHANCES OF LIFE.

Probability at Your Age of How Long You Will Live.

After we are dead it probably will not concern us whether we died at twenty or fifty or ninety, but just now most of us are intensely interested in the matter, and, being average persons in sound health, we can figure out with certainty just what our chances are of reaching any particular age, says Harper's Weekly.

If we are just 20 years of age, our chances of living to or beyond 30 are nearly 12 to 1; of living to be 40, 5% to 1; to be 50, 3 to 1; to be 60, 12-3 to 1. Of living to be 70 we have less than 1 chance in 2 1/2; to be 80, less than 1 chance in 5 1/2, and to be 90, less than 1 chance in 100.

If we have reached 30, our chances to reach 40 are nearly 11 to 1; to be 50, nearly 4 1/2 to 1; to be 60, 2 1/2 to 1; to be 70, 4 1/2 chances in 10; to be 80, 1 chance in 5 1/2; to be 90, 1 chance in 100.

The average man of 40 has 8% chances to 1 of reaching his fiftieth birthday, 2% chances to 1 of attaining 60, only 5 chances out of 10 of reaching 70, 1 chance in 5% of reaching 80, and 1 chance in 100 of becoming 90.

Having been lucky in all the drawings up to fifty years, the average man has 4% chances to 1 of becoming 60; to become 70 the chances are 1 1/4 to 1 in his favor; to become 80 he has but 1 chance in 5 and to become 90 1 chance in 100.

If already 60 the average citizen has 2 chances to 1 of becoming 70, 1 chance in 4 of becoming 80 and 1 chance in 66 of reaching 90.

The man of 70 has 3 chances in 8 of becoming 80 and 1 in 50 of becoming 90.

If one has weathered the storm until his eightieth birthday he has 1 chance in 17 of reaching his ninetieth milestone.

It will be observed that as we get older our chances of reaching 90 increase greatly.

The Lost Company.

"Hungry, I suppose?" said the sharp faced woman as she opened the door just a little bit.

"Wy, no," answered the ragged wayfarer. "I've clean forgot how to be hungry. But I'm out and out lonely."

"Lonely?"

"Yes. You see, I hain't had nothing to eat for so long that I've got so thin I can't cast no shadder, and you ain't no idea what company a man's shadder is to him while he is travellin' along the road."

Will Close Monday.

Monday will be the last day of the Horse Show in the Proctor building. If you have not seen it yet, do not miss the last opportunity. It is worth more than the 10 cents admission.

SEED CORN DAY.

The Reflector Offers Two Prizes for Exhibits.

Pitt county is to have a seed day in Greenville on Tuesday, Feb. 8th. At that time farmers are asked to bring some of their best corn for exhibition, and an expert will examine it and show how to make seed selection from it. In this way every farmer who comes will be helped. The Reflector wants to see this seed corn day a great day for Pitt county and great good to come from it. As a small stimulus for exhibits on that day we are going to offer as a premium one year's subscription to The Daily Reflector to the farmer who makes the best all round exhibit of corn that day, and one year's subscription to The Eastern Reflector to the farmer exhibiting the five best ears of corn, the award to be in accordance with the decision of the examiner.

If any others want to offer premiums for exhibits The Reflector will take pleasure in mentioning it.

The Reflector does job work.
