DON'T NEGLECT OTHER CROPS FOR TOBACCO

SOME GOOD ADVICE TO FARMERS

Should be Heeded by Every Tobacco Planter in the Country

The season is approaching when each planter will mark off his fields for the next tobacco crop, and before the crop is pitched we desire to give a word of warning. The history of tobacco growing, as we have studied it, proves that only those planters have made money who have concentrated their efforts on making a desirable quality of tobacco. It will not brook neglect in any form, and the planter who counts on making a crop in a slipshod way is sure to get left. The tobacco crop wants your every attention. It demands it and must have it.

Don't over-crop yourself to the neglect of other products. Herein lies the solution to your troubles, and when tobacco planters learn this lesson, and make practical application of it, there will be no further trouble.

To our friends in the bright belts we would say that they would act wisely to go slow in planting large crops. Tobacco is selling well. It will continue to do so providing the world does not produce too much.

It is an old excuse with planters that it is no use for one to curtail his acreage because his neighbor will not do so. That is not the question in the case at all. There will always be large crops of tobacco grown, and don't you fret about that. The point is not, shall I grow less tobacco, but shall I grow better tobacco. An over crop is what keeps nine farmers out of ten from making fine tobacco. That is the point. You need to plant less for the reason that by so doing you are apt to make better stock.—Winston-Salem Southern Tobacco Journal.

STOKES ITEMS.

Stokes, Feb. 2.—Mrs. L. T. Thompson and Mrs. L. W. Mydgett, of Aurora, are visiting Mrs. J. L. Mooring.

J. N. Woodard came in Friday for a few days visit to his father. Miss Eva Woodard spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Eva Thomas.

J. S. Fleming and E. B. Whichard are all smiles.

The basket party at Stokes High School was a success, even though Miss Mary Lee Woodard was very ill. The primary teacher, Miss Susie Ross, successfully managed it.

Marvin Nobles has accepted a position with W. G. Stokes.

W. G. Stokes returned from Baltimore Friday.

When Traveling is Bad.

The telephone has an added value, because it affords the one method of communication not affected by road conditions. When snow or rain make walking difficult or impossible a telephone in your residence proves not only a means of social intercourse, but also a means of transacting much of your business that would otherwise be neglected, and five cents a day will put a telephone in your residence.

BOYS ROCKED TRAIN.

Captured and Turned Over to the Authorities.

Wednesday evening as the east bound Norfolk & Southern passenger train was nearing Wendell, some rocks were thrown at the train. Emergency brakes were applied and the train quickly stopped. The passengers and crew joined in the chase after the guilty parties and two small colored boys who had thrown the rocks were captured. The boys were taken aboard the train and carried to Wendell where they were turned over to the authorities. There has been similar trouble before by rocks being thrown at the train near Wendell, and the conductor was keeping a watch out while passing there.

FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., Feb. 3.—The board of aldermen met Tuesday night and had a busy session. G. A. Clark from Greenville, was sworn in as chief of police. John T. Thorne resigned as mayor and Carl Turnage was appointed mayor.

Chief Clark has made a good impression. As usual there were some fellows who wanted to try the new policeman. It is talked on the streets that several threats had been heard to the effect that the bullies would run Clark off or kill him.

Late yesterday afternoon there was some boisterous conduct in Burnett's store and Chief Clark went in to quell the trouble and was trying to arrest "Buck" Eason, "the bully of the town" and Eason resisted, (so goes the report.) Clark knocked him down. Eason was struck above the eye and severely wounded. It is to be hoped that no one else will wish to "try" Chief Clark.

It is to be hoped that something will soon be done to make it safe and decent for ladies to pass the same side of the street our meat market and town hall occupies. There are a number of negro huts where all sorts of conduct is said to go on, also foul odors and cursing by both white and black, make it so unpleasant that ladies will hardly pass on that side of the street.

Ed Warren has moved into the new and commodious house just completed by T. L. Turnage on Church street.

The farmers are delighted that they have a handsome store in Farmville where they can be supplied with farming implements.

Prof. E. L. Middleton, of Raleigh, will be at the Baptist church Sunday and will make several addresses.

9:40 a. m.—Sunday School.

10:30 a. m.—An address by Prof. E. L. Middleton.

11 a. m.—Preaching.

3 p. m.—Sunday school mass meeting led by Prof. Middleton.

All the Sunday schools of the town are invited to be present.

The people of the town and community are invited to attend.

January Post Office Receipts.

Postmaster R. C. Flanagan tells us that the post office receipts for the month of January were $1,111.72. For the corresponding month last year the receipts were $822.60, a gain this year of $289.12. This brings Greenville that much nearer to the free delivery class, and it will likely be reached by the end of the present quarter.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

The State Sunday School Convention will be held in Wilson April 5th to 7th.

Wilmington, Feb. 2.—Made desperate by troubles of an imaginary nature, Bruit E. Green, an aged negro woman, hanged herself at her home in this city late yesterday afternoon. The woman's body was found dangling from a rope's end and it is expected that she killed herself some hours previous to the discovery.

Salisbury, N. C., Feb. 2.—While playing at the home of its parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsey, in Salisbury, yesterday afternoon, George, a four-year old son, was frightfully burned and died from its injuries late last night. The mother was about her household duties and did not observe the child until it was enveloped in flames, which burned off the clothing and left the body in a crisp.

Elizabeth City, Feb. 2.—A report reached here this afternoon of the drowning of four negro men near Old Trap, Camden county. The negroes, it is reported, were drinking and went out on the water to have a big time. The boat was later found capsized and floating in the Pasquotank river. Thorough search has been made for the bodies, but so far no success has been met with. The negroes were employed at a lumber camp in Camden county.

An effort is being made to stir up sentiment in favor of commuting the sentence of Walter Morrison, the Roberson county negro, who is under sentence of death for criminal assault upon a Croatan woman, to life imprisonment. The plea is being made that this should be done because, forsooth, the execution of the sentence has been delayed from time to time on account of delay in securing part of the apparatus necessary for the execution.—The Robesonian.

Raleigh, Feb. 2.—A determination to press as forcibly as possible a campaign for agricultural high schools in every high school in every county and state, for more adequate agricultural instruction in all the public schools of the state and for better textbooks on agriculture for use in the North Carolina schools, was the result of an important conference just held here by President H. C. Alexander, Charlotte; A. C. Faires, Cleveland; H. B. Edger-ton, Franklin; W. S. Cobb, Robeson, of the State Farmer's union, representing the educational committee of the union, and State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner, Dr. D. H. Hill, of the A. & M. college, and Editor C. H. Poe, of the Progressive Farmer. Mr. Joyner was directed to prepare an outline for effective campaign along the lines indicated and report to a meeting of the committee to be held later in the spring.

DOINGS OF THE DEMOCRATIC SUB-COMMITTEE

REVISE PLAN OF ORGANIZATION.

The Democratic Executive Committee to Meet in March

The sub-committee appointed by the Democratic State Executive committee met yesterday in the State capitol and revised the plan of organization. The committee consists of Hon. A. H. Eller, of Winston-Salem; ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis, of Greenville; Hon. John M. Henderson, of Salisbury; Hon. W. T. Crawford, of Waynesville, and Hon. E. L. Travis, of Halifax.

The committee adjourned last night, after having agreed upon an outline of their work, which is to be drafted by the State chairman and submitted to the several members of the committee.

Chairman Eller said last night:

"The State Democratic executive committee will be called together in the early part of March to pass upon the report of the sub-committee, and, at the same time to fix the time and place for the State convention. They will also designate a common day on which to hold primaries for nomination throughout the State of State, congressional and judicial candidates; and also a common day for the several county conventions."

"The particular changes proposed by the committee are not fully drafted, but it is understood that the principal ones are intended to make the plan more flexible and adaptable to local conditions throughout the State."—Raleigh News and Observer.

Got Down To Business at Once.

We expected that when George Clark was installed as chief-of police of Farmville he was going to be heard from. And it was not long coming, as the reader can see from our Farmville letter today. If the best people up there give Policeman Clark their hearty support, they are going to see the disorder that has prevailed changed in short order. Clark is fearless and will do his duty, but cannot accomplish anything without the support of the people of the town.

Notice to Cut Owners.

All owners of "dead" cuts at The Reflector office will take notice that on March 1st we will sell all such cuts for old metal if they are unclaimed at that time. We are compelled to do so in order to make room, as we have no place for keeping old and out of date cuts, etc. Please notify us if you want yours sent to you. This does not apply to cuts good for further service.

Another Mine Horror Reported.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 2.—Word has reached this city of a terrific explosion in a mine at Las Esperanzas Mexico. Many—no number stated—are reported killed. Detailed report of the explosion has been wired to the governor of the state and pending his action no details are being given out. Las Esperanzas is exclusively a coal mining dis-trict and employs Mexican and Japanese operatives.

Public Stenographer.

Something that Greenville very much needs is a public stenographer, one who can be engaged to do piece work for anybody and do it well. The Reflector believes there is enough work of this kind here to give a public stenographer good employment. If there is one who would like to engage in this work here we will take pleasure in helping them to secure an office.

Help the Corn Exhibit.

Business men of Greenville are being asked to make a small contribution to erect suitable tables and bins to be used for displaying the exhibits of corn which farmers will bring here on Seed Corn Day, Tuesday, 8th. We are sure our business people will contribute cheerfully to this fund and help the good cause along.

Horse Runs Away.

Sam Kinion, white, and Henry Fleming, colored, were in a cart Wednesday afternoon, riding out Fifth street in the direction of the training school. The horse took fright at something and ran away, dumping both occupants of the cart out in the street. Kinion was quite badly bruised and skinned.

PAYING FOR THE SCHOOLS.

The general assembly of 1909 amended the law regulating the apportionment of the second hundred thousand dollars for a four-months' school term, so as to require each county sharing in this appropriation to levy a special tax on property and fifteen cents on the poll as the maximum limit of special tax that could be levied for this purpose, and providing that counties levying this maximum tax should receive all the balance needed for a four-months' school, even though the tax did not raise half.

Under the new law sixty-one counties applied for aid from this State appropriation. Only twenty-one of these counties received more from the appropriation than they raised from the tax. According to the estimates certified to and filed in the office of the superintendent of public instruction, the sixty-one counties sharing in this special State appropriation for a four months school will raise this year from their special county tax for their schools, $106,286.62. In other words, these counties, under the new law, raised that much more money for their schools than they would have been required to raise under the old law. For the $106,286.62 will be raised, according to the estimates, in the counties sharing in that appropriation.—Raleigh News and Observer.

There is a Difference.

There are many examples, but we were especially impressed with an instance today that shows the difference in well advertised stores and those that are not advertised. At one of the former where we dropped in on some business every salesman was busy with customers, and we had to wait some time for the head man of the store to find sufficient leisure to talk and give an order. At some other stores that never advertise, salesmen were seen standing around doing nothing. Such instances as this can be observed almost any day. People read advertisements and go to live stores to do their trading.

New York meat dealers have their nerve along. They advanced prices a cent a pound right in the teeth of the boycott.

The administration at Washington will play more politics than anything else, so not much of benefit to the country may be looked for from the present session of congress.

You can't lose Charlotte, even in the way of organizations. The latest is a number of white boys who organized themselves into a gang of thieves. The police soon got on to them and broke up the club.

Possibly one idea that prompted the New York Federal judge to quickly squelch the libel proceedings against the New York World, was that a trial might develop too much scandal and graft in connection with the Panama canal deal.

He was almost forgotten when the announcement is made from Greensboro that a petition is being circulated asking the president to pardon Franc H. Jones, the defaulting teller of the Charlotte National bank. Jones is in the Federal prison at Atlanta and has served three years of his 5-year sentence.

The Tillman case has brought on some talk that the South Carolina legislature will change the statute in regard to deeding children. While on bad things it might also be well to change the statute that permits marriage without license. But South Carolina is very much "set in her ways" and may change neither.

There is no use for the Democrats or any one else taking notice of the reported rupture or bad feeling existing between the president, Speaker Cannon, the insurgents, etc. They will all be as one man when the voting time comes.

The Republicans of North Carolina are a modest set. They are now only claiming that they will carry six of the ten congressional districts in this State next election. They are generous to be willing this far ahead to concede four congressmen to the Democrats. One thing we have noticed, however, is that they have learned enough to quit making any claims about what they are going to do in the first district.

Do not let your interest in crop preparation and other things at this time of year make you overlook the fact that Pitt county's greatest need is good roads. This is a year that great interest in this question should be aroused all over the county, and the next legislature should be asked to grant the county authority to vote on the proposition of issuing bonds sufficient to build a system of good roads. A bond issue is the quickest, cheapest and best method by which to get good roads. The tax sufficient to meet the interest on a bond issue for this purpose would be so small that the people would never miss it.

John Temple Graves says that the Republicans are getting alarmed over the situation. The mutterings over the new tariff law, the effects of which are just beginning to be felt by the people, are filling the administration forces with alarm. It is "the best tariff law ever passed," the president says and so they will have to stand by it. But in the meantime it looks like the president in his desire to bolster up Aldrich, made a mighty unfortunate speech when he allowed that remark to escape his lips.—Raleigh Times

Food Fermenting Causes Indigestion

"I got a box of Mi-o-na tablets for a distress in my stomach, and the first dose relieved me, and after I took the fourth I have not felt any more of it. I think it is a wonderful medicine." Hiram Saultz, Watseka, Ill., July 27-'99

If your stomach is out of order or distressed, no matter from what cause, Mi-o-na stomach tablets will give instant relief, and if taken regularly, will cure indigestion, acute or chronic, or money back.

Every sufferer from stomach trouble, gas, belching, sour stomach, nervousness, dizziness, and biliousness, should get a fifty cent box of Mi-o-na stomach tablet today and start a treatment.

In three days time the stomach and bowels will be thoroughly purified, and sour stomach and distress will vanish.

Continue the treatment for two weeks and the stomach will become so strong that it will be able to digest the hardest meal without distress. Sold by druggists everywhere and by Coward & Wooten.

THE HARP CAME BACK Professional Cards

A SURPRISE FOR MARETEK.

It Came at a Time When Max Was Broke and the Sheriff Had Levied Upon All His Stage Properties—Mme. Maretzek's Thanks to the Carpenter.

In the old days in New York city, before there was a Metropolitan or a Manhattan Opera House and when the center of the theatrical world was around Fourteenth street, Max Maretzek and Strakosch were prominent at the old Academy of Music. There was a keen rivalry between them. Strakosch had Nilsson, and Maretzek was exploiting Di Murska.

By some error of dates both were booked for New York at the same time. Strakosch was at the Academy and Maretzek, having closed a poor season elsewhere, had halted in New York before going to Philadelphia and secured a week at the Lyceum theater on Fourteenth street. There were strong bills at both places. Each manager had his friends, and the bill-posters had a busy time of it. A round of bills for one company was no sooner posted than the rival billposter covered up the poster with the rival company's sheets.

At last, for the matinee on Saturday, bills at both houses were suddenly changed, every vacant fence place plastered over quickly, and with a peering storm in the morning the managers began to put out "paper" to fill the houses. Alfred Joel was the business man for Maretzek and an adept at "papering" when necessary. With a house packed from parquet to gallery Joel had counted the boxes, found only $100 in the house and announced it to Max when the curtain fell between the acts.

This was serious to Max. The ever ready money lender who had "put up for him" had a lien on the box office, a sheriff's officer was in waiting on the stage, and it was a question of reprieve before the properties and costumes could be liberated to follow the company to Philadelphia early next morning.

"Well, Alfred," quietly said Max, "I guess I'm used to trouble. But there is a good, big house anyway!" Then, turning to his wife, who was the harpist of the orchestra, he clasped both her hands, kissed her and remarked: "Let your fingers do their best. I want to hear you play. It does my heart good, you know, even when there's trouble."

There was bustling after the performance. Legal talent was at a premium, creditors were obdurate, everything that was supposed to be Maretzek's was temporarily in "bock," and Mme. Maretzek in tears, with longing looks at the harp she valued.

The scene of negotiations was transferred to the greenroom just as the officers making the levy were searching for more, and when their backs were turned the old stage carpenter hurried Mme. Maretzek away, then called her back again five minutes after and pointed to the orchestra.

The harp had disappeared. Clearing out everything on Sunday morning, while the boxes of properties were being taken away, Max and his wife stood in the center of the darkened stage. Both were crying. The instrument they valued most had been taken from them. Other things had been liberated, but no harp, and with a scene of grief that no others than themselves could have appreciated they were silent.

Then Old Man Guernsey stood between them and waved his hand above them into space. There were a creaking of pulley wheels, an injunction from the carpenter to "look out for your heads," and, lowered from above, came Mme. Maretzek's harp, landing on the stage between them.

"Now you're got it again, get it away quick!" said Guernsey. "Stop crying and be thankful. That's all."

He moved off without waiting for thanks, and a pathetic scene with Max and his wife closed the incident. To them the harp was as a part of themselves. To lose it was more than a misfortune, and in a broken voice the lady called the carpenter back to her.

"Please let the harp thank you," said she, "and listen. It will speak with my hands on this Sunday morning."

She placed herself beside it, seated on a box, and, with a smile that chased away tears, gave for a moment or two, as only she could give it, the air of the doxology, "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow."—New York Times.

FIRST ROCK TUNNEL.

Made Centuries Before Drills and Blasting Powder Were Known.

The first rock tunnel of which there is any authentic record was achieved over 2,600 years ago on the outskirts of Jerusalem, when the way was opened for the admission of water of the spring of Gihon to the pool of Siloam.

Gihon, now known as Mary's spring, is in the valley of Kedron and was the only natural spring in the vicinity of the city of David. It was separated from the city by the Ophel ridge, a mass of rock, so that when enemies appeared before the wall they could cut off this supply and compel the people within to depend upon stored water. King Hezekiah about 700 B. C. devoted himself to remedying this by constructing a tunnel, which is referred to in II Kings, xx., 20, to bring the waters within the walls.

At that time not only was tunneling through rocks an untried work and one that must be done without such aids in the way of drills and blasting power as even the most amateur workman would use nowadays, but there was no mariner's compass or other means for following a given direction underground. The distance from the spring to the pool of Siloam is about 900 feet in a straight line, and the hill overhead is about 150 feet higher than the spring.

To perpetuate this Hezekiah's workmen had tools of bronze, of a description now unknown. They began digging from both ends at the same time and tried to keep their bearings in a straight line by sighting from outside. They did not maintain a uniform bore, but kept the slope of the bottom with great accuracy. The shaft is from two to three feet wide and from ten feet high at one end diminishes to a foot and a half in the middle.

Sighting from the outside did not prove a very satisfactory method. Many places are to be seen in the tunnel today where headings were abandoned and a start made in a new direction. Even then the tunnel rambles about and was more than 1,700 feet long before the two ends came together. The opposing diggers were able to find each other at last by listening for sounds of the others' picks and working toward the place whence they seemed to come. This was learned from an inscription on the wall of the tunnel which was discovered in 1880 by some boys at play.

For a city, situated as Jerusalem was, no gift could have been more welcome than that of an assured water supply. One can imagine therefore that the ceremonies attendant upon the completion of the work were on as magnificent a scale as could then be devised.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Nerve and Coolness.

Seated reading in his private room, the superintendent of a large prison heard a slight sound and, looking up, was confronted by a dangerous convict holding a long bar of iron. "Don't you move," he muttered. "I'm going to get away, even if I have to kill you!"

"But," calmly rejoined the superintendent, "I thought it was tomorrow you were going?"

The man looked at him with stupid amazement.

"Yes," said the official, "don't you know? A pardon came for you today in consideration of your good conduct. You can go now, I suppose, if you want to. You'd like to see the papers? They're in here, I believe."

He opened a drawer as he spoke, and the next instant the convict was facing the muzzle of a revolver.

Mind Messages.

The hour grew late. "Do you believe in mental telepathy?" asked the first clubman. "I do," answered the second clubman. "I know what my wife is thinking right now."—Washington Herald.

The Sun's Vapors.

"Chromosphere" is the name given to a layer of incandescent vapors in the sun, enveloping the entire photosphere. Its depth varies at different times and in different parts and ranges from 6,000 to 9,000 miles. The chromosphere consists chiefly of hydrogen and an element known as helium, while heavier vapors, such as those of iron, calcium, titanium, magnesium, etc., are sometimes projected into it from the photosphere. The so-called "prominences" are due to projections of hydrogen that are shot up to enormous altitudes, with velocities exceeding 149 miles per second. The name chromosphere is given to this solar envelope on account of its beautiful rosy hue. It is visible only during total eclipses of the sun or by the aid of the spectroscopy and is said to have been first noticed by Father Sacchi during an eclipse.—New York American.

The Silliest Birds.

Dodo is the Portuguese name for simoleon, and it is given to the silliest bird that ever lived. Three hundred years ago, when the Portuguese first visited the island of Mauritius, they found a large number of these birds. They were about the size of a large swan, blackish gray in color and having only a bunch of feathers in place of a tail and little, useless wings. More stupid and foolish birds could not be imagined. They ran about making a silly, hissing noise like a goose, and the sailors easily knocked them over with their paddles. They couldn't fly, they couldn't swim, they couldn't run at any great speed, and as for fighting, they were the greatest cowards in the world. They were much too stupid to build a nest, and so they dropped an egg and went off to let it hatch as best it could.

How to Grow Short.

If you climb a mountain your height decreases by three-quarters of an inch, and it may even diminish exceptionally by a full inch. This is a fact known to all experienced mountain and Alpine climbers. On reaching the summit of the heights that form the pleasure ascents of holiday makers in the Alpine districts the stature of the climber is found to have become less to the extent already mentioned. When the Alpinist has descended to the ordinary level his height begins to increase, but the normal length of the body is not attained until several hours after reaching the regular surface of the earth.

Very Fishy.

She was a fisherman's daughter, she wore her hair in a net, and she preferred love in a piscatorial way.

"My love," he whispered, "you hold first place in my heart! Although I 'flounder' about in expressing myself, my 'sole' wish is that you will save me from becoming a 'crabbed' old bachelor. I shall stick to you closer than a 'limpet,' from you a 'wink'll' be the road to guide me. Together we will 'skate' over life's 'rocks,' and when I look at your hand beside me I shall say to myself, 'Fortune was mine when I put 'herring' there!'"

And then the lady dropped her eyes in sweet confusion and murmured:

"Pass the salt!"—London Scraps.

Human Lives.

There is a story of an old time king who commanded that a palace be built for him to the sound of music. And richly was his wisdom rewarded, for when the palace was done it was found to be the most perfectly constructed and beautiful in the world. The builders had unconsciously wrought the music into their work and made it a finer kind of work than had been known before. So it is with human lives. They are infinitely better built when the builders have something to inspire and uplift them, something to kindle mind and soul and lift them above petty and commonplace thoughts and feelings.—Selected.

GEOGRAPHICAL ODDITIES.

Some Peculiar Facts About These Great United States.

The following collection of geographical peculiarities about the United States and places therein embodies certain unique points well worth remembering.

A novel way to demonstrate the size of the state of Texas is to spread out a map of the union and stretch a string across Texas the longest way. Then, placing one end of the measure at Chicago, one will find that the other end will extend into either the Atlantic ocean or the gulf of Mexico.

The two largest counties in the United States are Custer county, Mont., and San Bernardino county, Cal. Each of these is a little more than 20,000 square miles in extent, and the states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware and New Jersey could be put inside the boundaries of either of them.

The smallest county in the union is Bristol county, R. I., which has only twenty-five square miles.

About fifty miles from Durango, Colo., there is a point where four states meet. Here by stepping a few feet in either direction one can walk in four different commonwealths in as many seconds. These commonwealths are the states of Colorado and Utah and the territories of New Mexico and Arizona.

A nearly parallel case is at Harpers Ferry, where the train stops a few minutes to allow the passengers to alight and enjoy a view which permits them to look into three states, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The highest and lowest elevations in this country are in California, within 100 miles of each other. The loftiest is Mount Whitney, 14,490 feet high, and the lowest is Death valley, about 450 feet below the level of the sea.

Two Oceans pass, in Yellowstone park, is so named because, whenever there is a shower in the vicinity and a certain small creek overflows, its waters spread out over the edge of the continental divide and pass into tributaries of rivers which flow to the Atlantic and to the Pacific.—Boston Globe.

POISON TREES.

They Are Found in Only Two Places in the World.

In only two places in the world, Queensland and the west coast of Africa, can there be found that most remarkable of nature productions, the Erythrophloeum labouchei (or poison tree). Referring to this tree in speaking at a meeting of the Sydney Natural History society, A. Meston, formerly protector of aborigines in northern Queensland, says that when in full foliage it is one of the most beautiful trees in the world. The wood is elegantly grained and marked by colors and peculiar streaks which readily distinguish it from any other known timber. It is extremely hard and tough, and the blacks of the Cape York peninsula use it for making their woomeras, with which they throw the spear. The tree bears long rods containing beans, which, like the leaves, are fatal to all animal life. The stomach of a dead goat or a dead sheep may show only three or four undigested green leaves. All animals are blind before they die and remain blind if they recover. This tree killed sixteen of the Chillaigo company's camels. It killed some of the horses and cattle of the Jardine brothers in their expedition to Cape York in 1834. On one occasion it killed several thousand sheep on the gulf rivers. Occasionally an aboriginal Lucrezia Borgia disposes of a rival by mixing some crushed beans in a mashed yam or pounded cumjehol, and the unhappy Juliet can nevermore gaze upon her lost Romeo. Even inhaling the smoke of the burning wood is said to have a disastrous effect upon ladies who, in Byronic phrase, are among those "who love their lords"; consequently it is never used for firewood except in extreme cases of matrimonial infelicity.—London Standaard.

A Wonderful Help.

"Doctor, I called to thank you for your valuable medicine," said the young man.

"So it helped you, did it? I am very glad," said the doctor, smiling.

"Indeed it helped me wonderfully," was the assuring reply.

"How many bottles did you find it necessary to take?"

"Oh, I didn't take any of it. I induced my uncle to take one bottle, and I am his sole heir."—Ladies Home Journal.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

POPULAR FALLACIES.

THE CYCLE OF THREE IDEAS.

A Drowning Man May Sink Not Only Thrice, but a Dozen Times, and Still Be Rescued—Congestive Chills and the Merging of Diseases—Law Points.

Three physicians were standing in a downtown drug store the other day when one, who had been looking at an evening paper, exclaimed: "Great Caesar, here it is again! I see it in the papers at least twice a month."

"What's that?" asked one of the others. "It's that popular fallacy about a drowning man sinking for the third time. Here it says, 'Just as he was sinking for the third time he was saved by the timely arrival,' etc. The next time I see this third time business it probably will read, 'He sank for the third time before aid could be had and was drowned.'"

"Why will people get that fool idea that sinking for the third time must needs be fatal to a drowning man? Why, bless you, I saw a man sink a half dozen times before he was rescued alive. An uncle of mine, witnesses said, never sank but once, and he was drowned. The number of times a man sinks has nothing to do with his drowning. He may sink but once, and he may go beneath the water any number of times. It all depends upon the person who is drowning, his physical condition and how quickly the lungs fill with water."

"That cycle of three," suggested another of the doctors, "is carried along by those who insist that a person dies in his third suggestive chill. But this is not true. The same rule holds good in congestive chills as in the case of the drowning man. A person may die in the first or he may have a dozen and still live. The rule of three does not obtain there either."

The first physician, with great disdain, then told how many ignorant persons would swear that "if ye get th' malarial an' it runs into typhoid fever an' it runs into newmomy it's shore death."

"There's that same old rule of three again," he continued almost angrily. "First and foremost, one disease does not run into another. There's no such thing as a collision between diseases, as many believe. If one has malaria he has that and that alone. The same thing is true of typhoid fever and pneumonia. Each one is a separate and distinct trouble, and a doctor with any sense should be able to diagnose his malady from symptoms which are always present in each and entirely different."

From popular fallacies in regard to medicine the conversation drifted to fallacies regarding the law. A lawyer present was called upon to explain first one thing and another, when one of the bystanders said:

"I made a bet the other day that a person had no right to touch a dead body until the coroner arrived, and I won."

"Who decided the question for you?" asked the lawyer smilingly.

"Well," said the man sheepishly, "it was a bartender, but he's an educated fellow and is a good judge of the law." "You speak of the law as if it were something to be judged like cattle at a fat stock show," replied the attorney. "There is no law on any statute book in any state in the United States which says one may not touch a body before the arrival of the coroner."

"In case of murder the old English common law used to require that the body of the murdered one be left just as it lay until viewed by one in authority."

"That was done, it can plainly be seen, for the purpose of preserving the surroundings intact so that whatever evidence might be there would not be disturbed. In case of a murder today, especially if any mystery were connected with it, common sense would teach a person to leave everything intact, not alone for the coroner, but for the police officials as well. But should the body of a murdered man be moved there is no law covering it unless it could be proved that the person who moved the body did it with the intention to destroy evidence. In cases of suicide or death by accident there could be no objection to moving the body anywhere in the city if done with humane or some other proper motive."

"I'll tell you what is the law," said a stoop shouldered, long armed man who had been listening long enough to get the gist of the discussion. "If a fellow sees a murder through a pane of glass he can't be a witness in the case."

"Oh, piffle!" exclaimed the attorney. "I'm going to lunch. That's the limit. I was waiting for some yap to spring that. If that was the case and a murder should be committed in this room half a dozen of us could not be competent witnesses, if your statement is true, because we are wearing glasses. Glass is glass whether in a window or on the nose. There is no such law as that. That's foolish."

"I heard my grandfather say that," insisted the long armed man, "and he know'd law too."

"Yes," retorted the exasperated attorney, "and he no doubt gave it out as law that a man could stand with his back against his own house and kill any one who came within a certain distance of him. But he would hang for it unless he had mighty good defense. All of those things are what we call 'chimney corner law,' but they won't hold in court."—Kansas City Journal.

Thackeray as a Hero. No man ever enjoyed his fame more than Thackeray. But no man's head was ever less turned than his. The story is told that Charlotte Bronte, sitting opposite to him at dinner, regarded him for a long time as a hero. "And," said Thackeray, "I had the miserable humiliation of seeing her ideal of me disappear as everything went into my mouth and nothing came out of it, until at last, as I took my fifth potato, she leaned across, with clasped hands and beautiful eyes, and breathed imploringly: 'Oh, Mr. Thackeray! Don't!'" This is one of those stories which may not be true, but ought to be. It shows Thackeray in his typical attitude to life and to himself. He enjoyed the situation and criticised it implicitly as he enjoyed it. A hero perhaps—but there were the five potatoes. —London Saturday Review.

Relieved. "That must be a pretty bad toothache to swell your face like that. Why don't you see a dentist?" "I did call on your friend, Dr. Pullem, yesterday and experienced great relief."

"You must be mistaken. Pullem has been out of town for a week."

"I know. I felt relieved when I found that out."

Literally So. Owing to a change for the worse in the character of the neighborhood a family which for many years had lived in the same house was compelled to sell it and move elsewhere. Their old house became a home for aged colored women. One day a member of the family happened to visit it. Things were indeed different within. Being one of those who harbor a sense of humor, the former occupant in describing his impressions while among the aged colored women, with whom his old abode was filled, remarked:

"I may truthfully say the whole complexion of the place has changed."

The Right Way. Little Willie liked ice cream, but he objected to turning the freezer. One day his mother was agreeably surprised to find him working at the crank as if his life depended on it.

"How did you get Willie to turn the ice cream freezer?" she said to her husband. "I offered him 2 cents to do it, and he wouldn't."

"You didn't go about it the right way, my dear," replied her husband. "I bet him a cent he couldn't turn it for half an hour!"

Land Sale. By virtue of a mortgage executed and delivered by William Holloway and wife, Polly Holloway, to F. G. James, on the 6th day of June, 1907, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Pitt county, in book X-7, page 505, the undersigned will sell for cash before the court house door in Greenville, on Monday, March 7th, 1909, the following described piece or parcel of land, in Pitt county, in Beaver Dam township, adjoining the lands of Rachel Nobles, Isaac Frizzelle and Luke Best, containing five acres more or less, and being the same land deeded to said William Holloway and wife by Rachel Nobles, referenced to which deed is made for an accurate description. Said land is sold to satisfy said mortgage and also two other mortgages on same land. This February 2nd, 1909. F. G. James, Mortgagee.
