JUDGE JAMES E. SHEPHERD.

His Career of Honor an Inspiration to Ambitious Young Men.

Of ex-Judge Shepherd, who died in a Baltimore hospital Monday, and whose funeral was held in Raleigh today, we take the following sketch from the Raleigh Evening Times:

James Edward Shepherd, son of Thomas S. and Eliza Ann Shepherd, was born near Suffolk, Virginia, July 26, 1847. His great grandfather, Solomon Shepherd, was a member of the Virginia convention when the constitution of the United States was adopted, and was one of the great men of Virginia.

He lost his mother when he was only two years old and his father ten years later, after which he made his home with his older brother, William. In 1859 the Shepherds moved to Murfreesboro, Hertford county, where William opened up a drug business. Fortunately for James, there was a good high school at this place, and he entered upon his studies with the determination to get an education, but these plans were interrupted by the breaking out of the Civil war, when he was only fourteen. William enlisted and went to the field of conflict and when killed had attained the rank of lieutenant.

Young James was anxious to enter the army and in 1861 attached himself to the 16th Virginia regiment which was then stationed at Norfolk. Because of his youth and being too small to carry a musket, he was made a "marker" for the regiment, and after some months service he was discharged.

In hopes of seeing his guardian, young Shepherd went to Murphree's station near Blackwater. There he learned telegraphy and was assigned to duty first under General Jones in West Virginia, afterwards to the headquarters of General John C. Breckenridge where he distinguished himself by his devotion to duty.

The close of the war found him stationed at Wilson. His brother whom he had depended for counsel was dead and all his property gone. He secured a position as telegraph operator, at Wilson, which he held for several years. In the meantime he was studying under competent instructors, and using every effort to secure an education.

He decided to take up law and with what money he had saved, he entered the law school of the University of North Carolina, was admitted to the bar in 1868, and opened up his office in Wilson.

In 1871 he formed partnership with Maj. Thomas Sparrow and moved to Washington, N. C.

In 1871 he married Miss Elizabeth Brown, daughter of Mr. S. T. Brown, and sister of Associate Justice George H. Brown.

Mr. Shepherd began to take part in politics, and was chairman of the democratic executive committee. All the while he was enjoying a rapidly growing law practice.

In 1875 he represented Beaufort and Pamlico counties in the constitutional convention, though the youngest member of the convention he was one of its most prominent workers, and was the author of the provision in the constitution concerning county government.

In 1876 he was elected chairman of the Beaufort county superior court.

In 1892 he was appointed superior court judge by Gov. Jar-

ORGAN RECITAL MONDAY NIGHT.

By Mr. Muilberger, of Wilson, in the Methodist Church.

An immense audience assembled in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, Monday night, to hear the organ recital by Mr. A. E. Muilberger, director of music of Atlantic Christian college, of Wilson. The recital was under the joint auspices of the Ladies Aid Societies of the Christian and Methodist churches. Mr. Muilberger was accompanied to Greenville by his wife who gave several recitations in the program. Local talent also took part, the choir of the Methodist church rendering an anthem, another was by a chorus of twelve young men, and the vocal duet was by Mrs. Travis Hooker and Miss Vernessa Smith.

The program of the recital was as follows:

Organ—Triumphal March (Fifth Symphony) Beethoven
Anthem—How Beautiful Upon the Mountain

Reading—a—The Wedding at Hovey Ile (with fan drill) Heroin

b—The Bugle song (piano accompaniment) adapted by Mr. Muilberger Tennyson

Organ—a—Berceuse (Jocelyn Godard
b—An Autumn Sketch Brewer
c—Cantilene Nuptiale Dubois

Vocal Duet—Jesus Thou Joy of Loving Hearts Weigand

Organ—Introduction to Third Act and Wedding Music (Lohengrin) Wagner, Dubois

Reading—Skimp's Temptation Arranged by Mrs. Muilberger

Organ—Offertoire de St. Cecelia Batiste

Male Chorus—The Worship of God in Nature Beethoven

Organ—a—Minuet Schubert
b—Capriccio Lemaigre
c—Overture—Poet and Peasant

Suppe. Arranged for organ by Mr. Muilberger

Mr. Muilberger is a master of the pipe organ and his interpretation and expression were excellent.

The part that the home people, under the direction of Miss Gaston, took in the program, shows that Greenville has cause to be proud of her local talent.

Meeting to Revive Club.

There will be a meeting of the members of Carolina Club in the club room on Tuesday night, at 8:30 o'clock, with a view of reviving the club. Those interested are urged to be present.

Dr. D. L. James, Pres.
W. S. Atkins, Sec. 28

vis to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Eure, and was elected to that office at the next election.

In 1888 he was nominated and elected supreme court justice by a big majority. When Chief Justice Merriman died in 1893, Judge Shepherd was appointed to succeed him, which position he filled for about two years with honor to himself and the profession. He was unanimously nominated to succeed himself, but went down with the rest of the Democrats when the fusionists captured the state.

He was engaged to lecture the summer school at the University, which place he held until 1897. When Judge Manning died he was offered the position of dean of the law school, but declined.

In 1897 he returned to active practice, forming a partnership with his son, S. Brown Shepherd. He has appeared in many important cases, among them being the South Dakota bond case.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Chapel Hill, Feb. 7.—In his seventy-ninth year Dr. Kemp P. Batte keeps the same fatherly watch over Battle's park that he kept twenty-five years ago as president of the university. In his shirt sleeves and with his hands he helped last week to lay off additional walks in the park. These walks which are laid back of the athletic field, have doubled the extent of the park and will be a source of increasing pleasure to students who take their walks in the refreshing shades of Battle's park.

The Musical Association has taken on new life. Prof. W. H. Overton of the Conservatory of Music of Durham, has been busy with the organization of the glee club and orchestra. The student band of over twenty pieces has been practicing daily. There are thirty-five candidates for the glee club and twenty-five for the orchestra.

Rev. Hight C. Moore, editor of the Biblical Recorder, preached in the Baptist church here to a crowded house last Sunday. His text was taken from Isaiah 11:9, "For the Earth shall be Full of the Knowledge of the Lord as the Waters that Cover the Sea." Mr. Moore preached a strong sermon. Chapel Hill was glad to welcome him as he was once pastor of the Baptist church here. Arrangements are being made as reported by Mr. Moore to secure a strong preacher to fill the charge here as successor to Rev. J. W. Wildman who has gone to Florida.

The election of commencement ball-managers resulted as follows: Lenoir Avery, of Morganton, chief; O. A. Hamilton, of Unionville, J. M. Reeves, of Mt. Airy, Robert Drane, of Edenton, L. DeK. Belden, of Wilmington, J. B. Colvard of Jefferson, and J. H. Hackney, of Wilson, assistants. The following members of the junior class were chosen Marshalls: J. S. Cowles, chief, J. F. Witherington, E. W. Turlington, R. I. Webb, F. J. Duls, Alex. Blue and George Whitney, assistants. The leaders for the Junior Prom, are: W. L. Small, E. C. McLean and R. W. Vanstony.

The election of the Dean of the University school of law will be held this week. The board of trustees of the university of which Gov. W. W. Kitchin is chairman will meet in Raleigh to select the successor of the late Judge Jas. C. McRae. Those who have been mentioned for the position are: Judge George H. Brown of the present Supreme court, Judge Armfield, Judge A. C. Avery, ex judge of the Superior and Supreme courts, Prof. Thos Ruffin senior professor of law in the University, and Mr. Lucian Polk McGee, of New York City. All are men of profound learning and high achievement in their profession.

Outlaw Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Outlaw arrived this morning from Goldsboro, where they were married Monday at 6 o'clock. The bride was Miss Grace E. Smith, of Goldsboro, and the marriage took their friends by surprise. Mr. F. H. Beaton went up Sunday with Mr. Outlaw to be present at the marriage. Mr. Outlaw is a young lawyer who moved to Greenville last fall to practice his profession here. The couple have taken rooms at Mrs. Bagwell's on Fifth street.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

To be Held in the Graded School Auditorium Saturday, Feb'y 12th.

The program is as follows:
10:30 a. m.—Devotional exercises by Rev. B. F. Huske.

10:45 a. m.—Reading of minutes.

10:50 a. m.—Announcements and distribution of bulletins.

11 a. m.—The preparation of the lesson, by Prof. H. E. Austin. General discussion.

2 p. m.—Drawing, by Miss Kate Lewis.

This will be one of the best meetings we have had. It will be noticed that we have only one subject for the morning. I think I can assure the teachers that this important subject will be so discussed that you will feel that you have been repaid for the sacrifices that I know you have to make to attend these meetings, and I wish also to ask the teachers to make their arrangements to be present at the afternoon session. It is exceedingly gratifying to those who have arranged to give you this work to see how enthusiastically you are entering into it. I feel that I express your sentiment when I say that your absence from either one of these sessions will be your loss. I am looking for a great meeting. Let us come together and make it such. The names of more than thirty boys have come in as contestants in the "Boys' Corn Club." I wish to request all the teachers to explain this contest to their boys between now and this meeting and give to me that day the names of their pupils who will enter. Let us have at least one boy in each school in the county to become a member of this club. W. H. Rigsdale, Co. Supt. Schools.

SEED CORN DAY.

Many Farmers Make Exhibit From Their Crop.

This was seed corn day for Pitt county, and quite a number of farmers brought with them to town specimens of their best corn for exhibition and seed selection. A long row of bins were arranged on the court house lawn and the corn was placed there where all could walk around and inspect the different exhibits, that shown by each farmer bearing a tag with his name and post office address. There were fifty-odd different exhibits, and altogether they made a creditable corn display for the county.

This was only a part of the benefit the farmers derived from this seed corn day. They assembled in the court house and heard several addresses on seed selection preparation of land, cultivation, fertilizers and the quantity used per acre, cost per bushel to produce a corn crop, etc. There addresses were by C. R. Hudson, State agent of the farm demonstration work; F. A. Newell, agent of demonstration work for Warren county; I. O. Schaub, professor of agriculture of the A. & M. College. These addresses were all interesting and helpful to the farmers, and a number of questions were asked each speaker.

The meeting was presided over by J. F. Evans, agent for demonstration work in Pitt county.

After the addresses the corn exhibits were examined by the same gentlemen who had spoken and the farmers were shown how to make selection for seed and keep the type of corn constantly improving. These gentlemen also acted as judges as to the best exhibits of corn in the display.

The awarding of The Reflector subscription prizes for best exhibits will be in accordance with the decision, which was not rendered in time for us to print today.

A. & M. COLLEGE NOTES.

West Raleigh, Feb. 7, 1910.—Professors Newman and Schaub, who have been acting as judges at various corn shows, report that the farmers all over the state seem to be intensely interested in all things pertaining to improved farm methods. Especial care should be exercised in the selection of seed since it bears so directly on its yields.

A local branch of the Farmers' Union was recently organized here, with the following officers: President—Clarence H. Poe; Editor of The Progressive Farmer.

Vice-president—R. C. L. Yates; Professor of mathematics in the college.

Chaplain—D. H. Hill; President of the college.

Conductor—C. R. Hudson; State Farm Demonstrator.

Doorkeeper—I. O. Schaub; who has charge of the Agricultural Extension Work

Secretary—C. L. Newman; Professor of Agriculture.

It was a very enthusiastic meeting, there being sixteen charter members, composed mostly of professors at the A. & M. college and representatives of the state department of agriculture, several students and local farmers were also present. The great movement for which the union stands should receive the hearty support of every one.

The annual reception of the Young Men's Christian Association was given in the college library Saturday night. The senior and junior classes of Meredith College and Peace Institute were present as well as the "Sunshiners" and friends of association in the city. Refreshments were served.

The monthly dance of the Tradesman Club was held in Pullen Hall Friday night.

The faculty has decided that the mid-term examinations will be omitted this spring, thereby giving us only two terms in the scholastic year.

In spite of the inclement weather, the track and baseball teams have been getting in some good practice and Captains Sherman and Septon say that the prospects for good teams are bright.

At Presbyterian Church.

Dr. J. N. H. Summerell, of New Bern, will conduct services at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A cordial invitation to the public.

The crop of office seekers will be large this year, but few of them promise a good yield.

The bill has been introduced in the Virginia legislature to permit the calling of an election on State-wide prohibition upon a petition of twenty five per cent. of the voters.

The number of farmers here today and the exhibits of seed corn they made for seed selection, indicates that this year Pitt county is going in for more corn and better corn. When they make plenty of corn, the meat problem will take care of itself.

Of coal mine disasters there seems to be no end. The fourth great disaster within a week occurred Monday in Pennsylvania, where nearly two hundred men were entombed in a flame swept mine from which it is believed none will come out alive. Really, these things are as appalling.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of a female organization known as the Political Equality Club, has let down the bars to negro women in New York and invited them to become members of the club. Possibly Mrs Belmont thinks the negro women are as good as she is, and perhaps they are.

The nearest, quickest and best route by which to reach the homes of Pitt county is through The Reflector. The Charlotte News, which is a mighty good afternoon paper, has taken a new departure by also getting out a Sunday morning edition which began last Sunday. The first Sunday issue of The News was a fine one, fully in keeping with its usual excellence. We hope the new venture will prove profitable for the paper.

North Carolina must first get the beam out of her own eye before getting too much excited over the mote in the eye of her sister State, South Carolina. An investigation has disclosed the fact that there is a law in this State almost similar to the one in South Carolina that permits fathers to deed minor children. It is an abominable law and should be wiped off the statute books.

The North Carolina law is found in the 1905' Revisal, Vol. I, Sec. 1762, and reads as follows:

"Any father, though he be a minor, may, by deed executed in his lifetime or by his last will and testament in writing, dispose of the custody and tuition of any of his infant children, being unmarried and whether born at his death or in ventre sa mere, for such time as the children may remain under twenty-one years of age. Or in case such father shall be dead and shall not have exercised his said right of appointment, then the mother, whether of full age or a minor, may do so."

A Chicago mail order house has given $100,000 to a Y. M. C. A. building fund. It was given for a good purpose. But there are several places in North Carolina where the Y. M. C. A. is needed and a part of that money was North Carolina money. If the people of Raleigh and Greensboro, for instance, who have been trading with the Chicago firm had spent the money at home the merchants could give more to the proposed buildings in these two cities than he will now be able to do. The $100,000 and the other hundreds of thousands of dollars that this firm has made no doubt represents a legitimate profit, but it is a profit that should go to the local merchant. He spends his money in his own community, helps its business enterprises and supports its charitable organizations. —Raleigh Evening Times.

A FEAST THAT FAILED.
 The Story of a Raccoon That Was Not Served For Breakfast.

In the old days, and not so very old either, the custom of school-teachers "boarding around" was the usual thing in country districts. Although a custom which teachers seldom liked, it is doubtful if many of them had as hard a time as a young schoolmaster who described his experience in the New England Galaxy for 1817. The article was written by Leonard Apthorp, then an undergraduate of Bowdoin college. The young schoolmaster was to receive $15 a month and his board:

From the first day I perceived that I was at board on speculation and at the mercy of a close calculation, he writes. One day the whole dinner consisted of a single dumpling, which they called a pudding, and five sausages, which in cooking shrank to the size of pipestems. There were five of us at the table.

A few days afterward on my return from school my eyes were delighted by the sight of an animal I had never seen before. It was a raccoon, which the young man, Jonathan, had killed and brought home in triumph. When skinned he seemed to be one entire mass of fat and of a most delicate whiteness. I was overjoyed and went to bed early to dream of delicious steaks which the morrow would bring.

Long before daylight I heard the family stirring, and the alacrity of quick footsteps and the repeated opening and shutting of doors all gave assurance of the coming holiday.

I was soon ready for breakfast, and when seated at the table I observed that the place of Jonathan was vacant.

"Where is Jonathan?" I asked.

"Gone to market," said they.

"Market! What market, pray? I did not know there was any market in these parts."

"Oh, yes," they said, "he is gone to —, about thirty miles to the southward of us."

"And what has called him up so early to go to market?"

"He is gone," said they, "to sell his raccoon."

"The Man of Destiny."
 A very interesting pen picture of Napoleon is drawn by John Cam Hobhouse, afterward Lord Broughton, in his "Recollections of a Long Life." He writes:

"I had for some time a most complete opportunity of contemplating this extraordinary being. His face is of a deadly pale, his jaws overhanging, but not so much as I had heard. His hair is short, of a dark, dusky brown. He generally stood with his hands knit behind him or folded before him and three or four times took snuff out of a plain brown box. Once he looked at his watch, which, by the way, had a gold face and, I think, a brown hair chain, like an English one. His teeth seemed regular, but not clean. He very seldom spoke, but when he did smiled in some sort agreeably. He looked about him, not knitting but joining his eyebrows. As the front of each regiment passed he put up the first finger of his left hand quickly to his hat to salute, but did not move his head or hat. He had an air of sedate impatience."

His Great Loss.
 "Well, Garg," exclaimed the farmer, as he greeted one of his laborers one New Year's day, "and how did 'ee get on last year?"

"Aye, maister," was the reply, "it wur a bad year for I. I did lose my mistress, I did lose my canary, and I did lose my dog. And it wur a good dog too." —London News.

Self Protection.
 "You didn't really need a wig."

GREENVILLE, N. C.

JOY THAT BRINGS WOE

Shock of Sudden Glad Tidings at Times Turns the Brain.

IT HAS DRIVEN PEOPLE MAD.

Some of the Saddest Cases of Lunacy Are Those Where the Mind Is Unable to Stand the Strain of News of Unexpected Good Fortune.

It is no exaggeration to assert, said an asylum doctor of long and varied experience, that there are scores of men and women in insane asylums who have literally been sent there through excess of joy. Many of these cases which are, in my opinion, the saddest of all have come under my own observation.

I remember in the very first asylum with which I was connected one of the patients was a strikingly handsome and very well educated man, who was as sane as you or I except on one point. He was really a man of considerable wealth, but his delusion was that he was a pauper, and he would tell the most pitiful tales of his destitution, begging, with tears in his eyes, for a few coppers with which to buy bread.

According to the story told me, he was the only son of a wealthy merchant. In his youth he had fallen among evil companions and had led such a dissolute life that his father not only threatened to disinherit him, but forbade him ever to enter his house again. After that he seems to have sunk into the lowest depths of poverty until he was glad to earn a few coppers by selling papers or matches in the streets.

It was at this last and lowest stage that news came to him that his father had died intestate and that he was heir to all his vast fortune. The sudden news completely turned the man's brain and brought on such a condition of excitement that he had to be sent to an asylum, and when he calmed down again he had lost all recollection of his good fortune, and nothing could shake his delusion that he was on the verge of starvation.

Another patient in the same asylum was a young and in his lucid moments a most intelligent fellow, whose "brain was turned," as the saying is, on learning that he had passed an examination. He had sat for the matriculation examination at the University of London, on passing which he had set his heart and had asked a friend in London to wire the result as soon as the names were screened at Burlington House.

About three weeks later came a fatal telegram, "Failed—sorry," which sent the young man into the lowest depths of despair, for he was too old to sit again. Not many hours later, however, came another telegram, "Passed honors—very sorry crush so great did not see name this morning." The revulsion of feeling was so great that the student's reason gave way, and he became so violent in his excitement that he had to be confined. Fortunately he was not with us long and is now, I am glad to know, doing very well as a solicitor.

Disappointed love sends many people to asylums, but it is very seldom that success in wooing drives a man mad. It had this strange effect, however, on one of my late patients. The girl he loved had gone out to India to keep house for her brother before he had screwed up his courage to the point of proposing to her, but an offer followed by mail very quickly after her.

Weeks and months passed and no answer came to the impatient lover until, after waiting two years in despair, he became engaged to a girl who had nothing but her money bags to recommend her and for whom he had not a particle of love. Scarcely, however, was his fate sealed than he received the long despised letter from India, accepting his offer and explaining that the girl's brother had received and mislaid the letter, which had only just been found and had come into her hands.

Within an hour of the receipt of this letter the man was a raving maniac, and, although his condition is improved, I doubt whether he will ever recover his reason. In another remarkable case it was the joy at seeing her husband again that robbed a lady patient of her reason. Her husband was the captain of a merchant ship which was reported to have gone down with all hands. The widow had deeply mourned her husband for nearly a year when one day on returning from a walk she found him sitting in the drawing room as hale and robust as ever.

With a shriek she fell unconscious on the floor, and when she recovered her reason was gone. It seems that her husband, after floating for some time, had been picked up by a passing "tramp" and had been landed on the west coast of Africa, from which he had returned home by the first available vessel.—London Spectator.

Knew Where He Was.

"When I was studying in Boston," said a musician, "they used to tell a tale about a man named Harper, an odd old character, who played a trombone in one of the small theaters there. One time they were rehearsing a new overture. Throughout the piece Harper was a little behind the rest of the men. Before they started it a second time the leader reproved Harper for not coming in more regularly with the other players. When they attempted it again Harper came in, as usual, two or three beats behind time. The leader stopped and, after letting loose a lot of profanity, demanded to know if the trombonist knew he was playing about half a dozen notes behind the others.

"Harper nodded. 'That's all right,' said he. 'I can catch up with the others any time I want to.'—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Keep Accounts.

Keeping accounts, simple in form, plain, clear and easily understood, showing amounts due to or from others, entering correctly the dates on which money is paid out or received, is the best plan to avoid disputes about money matters and relieves the memory of many unnecessary burdens. A written record of a money transaction has greater legal value in case of controversy in court than any verbal statement. The habit of keeping accounts induces economy in expenditure and inspires the habit of saving up, besides showing at all times a correct financial condition. Housekeepers, mechanics and all who handle money in the management of their personal affairs will find it most profitable to form the habit of keeping accounts.

Case Proved.

"You aver," thundered the black-browed bandit chief, "that you are the celebrated prima donna M'lie. Squallina! Prove it and you are free! Never shall it be said that a Cuttawuzanda would offer an indignity to an opera soprano! It is against all the tenets of the profession!"

"But how," wailed the captive, "shall I prove my identity?" "By singing, of course!" "What!" shrieked the lady. "Sing in this case! No bouquets, no enthusiastic applauders, and not a cent in the box office! Never!" "Gentlemen," declared the bandit, "it is quite evident that this lady is what she claims to be. Escort her to the nearest village and set her free."

Sail Bearing Fishes.

Various marine animals possess organs which, raised above the surface, act as sails, by means of which they are propelled along the water. Among these may be mentioned the Portuguese man-of-war and the paper nautilus. Certain fishes, it appears, use the same method of progression, the dorsal fin acting as a sail. Broussonet called such fishes Poissons voiliers. And the scientific name histiophorus (sail bearer), given to a genus of fish, implies a similar belief. In a contribution to the zoological Jahrbuch Louis Dollo claims that other genera are also sail bearers. He suggests also that among the cetaceans the grampus and bottle nosed whale may make a similar use of the dorsal fin.

Why We Weep.

The extensive authority of parents under the Chinese laws is well known. A Chinaman of forty years, whose aged mother flogged him every day, shed tears in the company of one of his friends.

"Why do you weep?" he was asked. "Alas, things are not as they used to be!" answered the devoted son. "The poor woman's arms grow fobbler every day!"

CHANCES OF LIFE.

Probability at Your Age of How Long You Will Live.

After we are dead it probably will not concern us whether we died at twenty or fifty or ninety, but just now most of us are intensely interested in the matter, and, being average persons in sound health, we can figure out with certainty just what our chances are of reaching any particular age, says Harper's Weekly.

If we are just 20 years of age, our chances of living to or beyond 30 are nearly 12 to 1; of living to be 40, 5% to 1; to be 50, 3 to 1; to be 60, 12-3 to 1. Of living to be 70 we have less than 1 chance in 2½; to be 80, less than 1 chance in 5½, and to be 90, less than 1 chance in 100.

If we have reached 30, our chances to reach 40 are nearly 11 to 1; to be 50, nearly 4½ to 1; to be 60, 2½ to 1; to be 70, 4½ chances in 10; to be 80, 1 chance in 5½; to be 90, 1 chance in 100.

The average man of 40 has 8½ chances to 1 of reaching his fiftieth birthday, 2½ chances to 1 of attaining 60, only 5 chances out of 10 of reaching 70, 1 chance in 5½ of reaching 80, and 1 chance in 100 of becoming 90.

Having been lucky in all the drawings up to fifty years, the average man has 4½ chances to 1 of becoming 60; to become 70 the chances are 1½ to 1 in his favor; to become 80 he has but 1 chance in 5 and to become 90 1 chance in 100.

If already 60 the average citizen has 2 chances to 1 of becoming 70, 1 chance in 4 of becoming 80 and 1 chance in 60 of reaching 90.

The man of 70 has 3 chances in 8 of becoming 80 and 1 in 50 of becoming 90.

If one has weathered the storm until his eightieth birthday he has 1 chance in 17 of reaching his ninetieth milestone.

It will be observed that as we get older our chances of reaching 90 increase greatly.

A Story of Stevenson.

After one of Dumas' plays which he saw presented in Paris and in which a man employs an unworthy stratagem against a woman Robert Louis Stevenson wrote:

"I came forth from that performance in a breathing heat of indignation. On the way down the Francis stairs I trod on an old gentleman's toes, whereupon, with that suavity which so well becomes me, I turned about to apologize and on the instant, repenting me of that intention, stopped the apology midway and added something in French to this effect: 'No. You are one of the persons who have been applauding that piece. I retract my apology.'"

"Said the old Frenchman, laying his hand on my arm and with a smile that was truly heavenly in temperance, irony, good nature and knowledge of the world, 'Ah, monsieur, vous etes bien jeune' (Ah, sir, you are very young.)"

Charitable.

It is said of the author of a volume of biography that his verdict on the great of his chosen period is much that of the New Hampshire parson at the highly approved funeral of a parishioner: "Brethren, we must agree that our deceased friend was mean in some things, but let us in Christian charity allow that he was meaner in others."

Notice to Tax Payers.

A LAWYER'S SLIP.

Put In Damaging Evidence Against His Own Client.

It does not seem to be frequent that a plaintiff gets through the courts what he considers a satisfactory settlement for damages for an injury sustained when a railroad company is the defendant. Cases are of record, however, where the attorney for the railroad has unconsciously admitted evidence that resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff. Such a case was that of Mrs. Herkimer of Beloit, who sued the Missouri Pacific for $10,000 before a court in Kansas.

The defendants were represented by the able and learned Waggener, who sought to prove that there was a full moon on the night of the accident and to place the responsibility with the plaintiff. A messenger boy was sent for and secured an almanac of the year of the accident. Examining it only to learn that it contained the desired proof, he offered it in evidence.

In his argument the lawyer for the plaintiff declared that the defendant company was the property of certain millionaires, whom he named, who had amassed fortunes totaling a great number of millions, and were well able to care for his crippled client.

Waggener was immediately on his feet offering loud objection to this line of argument, claiming that nothing had been introduced in the evidence to justify the statement.

"May it please your honor, there is," declared the other lawyer. "It is in the direct evidence offered by the learned attorney for the defense."

"Where?" shouted the surprised Waggener.

"It is in this almanac, your honor," calmly replied the lawyer. He had studied the book, and there in its pages were pictures of the men named, together with sketches of their lives, and every one of them was rated at from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

These figures evidently appeared to the jury to be substantial enough to award a verdict for the amount asked, and that without leaving their seats.—New York Tribune.

Deeply Injured.

Her eyes were wild; her hair was in disorder; her face was flushed; her hands were clinched. She was a deeply injured and desperate woman.

"Oh, cruel one," she cried in anguished tones, "I have borne with you too long! You have injured the very foundations of my being. Day by day you have tortured me, and yet I could not bear to give you up. When first we met, how your ease and polish attracted me! When you became my own, how my friends envied me! But your understanding is too small for my large soul. You are opposed to my advancing myself. You have ruined my standing in society. If we had never met I might have walked in peace. So now begone! We part forever."

There was a moment's convulsive breathing, then a gritting of teeth and a sharp sigh. It was all over. By a supreme effort she had pulled off her new shoe.

The Time It Was.

Jones—I say, Smith, you are a good hand at arithmetic.

Smith—I am considered very good. Why?

Jones—Well, here is a little problem for you. There was a man named Little, living in Dublin, who had a daughter. Now, she was in love with a chap she knew her pater did not approve of. So one day she eloped with him. When the old man found it out he was very angry and at once followed them. Now, then, what time was it?

Smith (angrily)—What time was it? How on earth do you suppose I can tell you? I give it up!

Jones (triumphantly)—Why, a little after two, of course.—London Answers.

Lost Temper.

"Lost temper does great harm," said a politician. "I once knew a man who held thirteen trumps at whist, and on account of his partner's temper he took only one trick with that ideal hand."

"Impossible!" sneered a reporter who conducted a weekly bridge column.

"Impossible? Not at all!" was the politician's reply. "You see, as soon as this man trumped his partner's ace on the first play his partner in a rage jumped up and kicked him out of the room."

Accounting For Patrick Henry.

It is related that Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase on stopping at the birthplace of Patrick Henry in Virginia exclaimed: "What an atmosphere! What a view! What glorious mountains! No wonder that Patrick Henry grew here!" Whereupon an honest native dryly remarked that the atmosphere, the view and the mountains had been there for ages, but that only one Patrick Henry had been produced.—March Telegraph.

MR. W. P. BAUGHAM DEAD.

Prominent Citizen of Washington Passes Away Suddenly.

Washington, N. C., Feb. 8.—The entire city was shocked and saddened when it was learned that Mr. W. P. Baugham, one of Washington's most prominent capitalists and business men, had died very suddenly at his home on Second street from heart failure, about nine o'clock this morning. It seems that Mr. Baugham had been in poor health for the past several months, but nothing serious was anticipated by his doctors. He had just returned from Baltimore where he had gone to consult specialists, in regard to his health. Mr. Baugham was a man of large business interests and one of our city's wealthiest citizens. He was a member of the local orders of Elks, Masons, and Pythians. He is survived by a heart-broken wife, one grown daughter and several younger children. The hour of the funeral has not yet been appointed.

A Flame Combination.

If a small quantity of chlorate of potash be powdered and mixed with an equal quantity of powdered sugar a candle may be lighted by means of the mixture without matches.

Place a little of it in the depression around the wick of a candle that has been previously used and then touch the mixture with a glass rod the end of which has been dipped in oil of vitriol. It will burst into flame, lighting the candle.
