HAPPENINGS WITHIN THE OLD NORTH STATE GATHERED FROM OUR EXCHANGES TODAY

Newsy Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

Greensboro, N. C., March 17.—That Wrightsville Beach will be the meeting place of the North Carolina Press Association was decided upon last night by the executive committee in a meeting held here. The meeting will be held June 22-24.

Asheville, N. C., March 17.—Charles Morris a farmer living three miles from Marion, this morning killed his mother-in-law, shot to death his own two-year-old child, wounded his wife and turning his pistol to his breast, ended his unhappy life.

Scotland Neck, March 17.—Paul Kitchin, who was shot by Powell last week, is getting along nicely and will probably be out in a day or two.

Senator Travis, another victim of a bullet, is not doing so well, a setback having occurred Monday. Late reports, however, say that Mr. Travis will recover, though slowly.

Monroe, March 17.—A. L. McLarty, of East Monroe, recently brought in for ginning his white cotton raised on what he says is his best acre of land. This acre produced 930 pounds white lint and there yet remains about 100 pounds of stained cotton from this same piece of land which Mr. McLarty will soon have ginned. The August drought materially reduced the yield. Mr. McLarty conducts his farming operations on an intelligent basis and gets the best results.

Charlotte, N. C., March 17.—A jury this afternoon in a civil action returned a verdict for one thousand dollars in the case of Miss Mary Long vs Dr. J. A. Austin, after two days' of court proceedings. The plaintiff alleged that the defendant failed to discover a dislocation of the shoulder when called in professionally several years ago. She has suffered from epilepsy and had fallen a number of times when the physician was summoned. Dr. Austin offered testimony to prove that he had used the complete programme of tests for locating such an injury as the plaintiff claimed to be suffering with; that the arm had been manipulated in accordance with the methods of practice among physicians in such cases, but the jury after three hours' deliberation, returned a verdict adverse to the plaintiff. Dr. Austin will fight the case through the higher courts.

New Firm—New Goods.

To our friends and the public: We have opened a fancy grocery store on 9th street, opposite the Liberty warehouse. To meet the needs of our customers and friends we are carrying the most complete line of fancy groceries in Greenville and ask you to give us a trial. We have no old goods and carry nothing but the best money will buy. A trial will convince you that what we say is true. We deliver all goods bought from us promptly.

Important Meeting.

Immediately after the service in the Christian church Sunday morning a very important meeting will be held. Every member who feels an interest should be present.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Husting Town Briefly Told

Ayden, N. C., Mar. 18. James A. Davis has purchased the house and lot of Charlie S. Summerell, in Ghent, and we learn he will soon proceed to improve same.

The clock at J. R. Smith Co's store was uncovered Thursday at 3 p. m. amid a crowded house and stood at 7.28.26. Rev. Henry D. Manning received the 42 piece set of china, his time being 7.29.2. Mrs. Chas. Ewell received the set of elegant vases as second nearest 7.20.3. G. W. B. Garriss, received the third prize, a beautiful glass pitcher, his time 7.29.9. You get a ticket with each dollar purchase.

Work is progressing rapidly on the artesian well. The drill is at this writing founded upon a rock.

The Ayden Lumber Co. have shut down their mill for a few days for repairs.

Poultry has reached a startling price. A coop of nice hens sold here Monday for 48 cents each and turkeys at 18 cents per pound.

W. E. Tingle has returned from Goldsboro.

There was a public rhetorical at the seminary given by the pupils Thursday night.

Mrs. E. T. Phillips and Mrs. T. E. Peden are both on the sick list this week. We hope they will soon be out again.

Mrs. Moore, of Burke, Va., is here on a visit to her grandson, Stancill Hodges, Jr.

The meeting at the Methodist church this week is attracting large congregations. Much interest is manifested. Rev. J. H. Shore, of Greenville, is doing the preaching.

Miss Addie Johnston has returned from the north with her flowers, feathers and straw. Look out for her ad.

Get an Express Package.

An express office will be opened in the city hall Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock under the management of the Sunday school class of Mrs. A. H. Taft. Every little child in Greenville will receive a package at this office on the above date which can be had by the payment of five cents charges. Let all the little ones come and get their package.

Millinery Opening.

Our opening display of spring millinery will be on Tuesday, March 22nd, and the ladies of Greenville and community are cordially invited. Our stock has been carefully selected and embraces the very latest shapes and styles. Mrs. I. F. Lee & Co. 316 tfd 11w

Certainly They Were.

Ben was putting on his shoes one morning when his mother said, "Why, Ben, you have your shoes on the wrong feet." "Why, mother," replied Ben, "they are the only feet I have." —The Delineator.

Our Greenville, yours if you come.

AFTER THE PUBLIC BUILDING.

Chamber of Commerce Appoints Committees to Act in the Matter.

As was expected, the letter from Congressman John H. Small, published in The Reflector of Wednesday, relative to the public building for Greenville, got our people busy. President F. M. Wooten called a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night in the mayor's office, and quite a number of representative business men were present.

After a free discussion of the points discussed in Congressman Small's letter and the best means to accomplish the purpose set forth, there were motions to appoint several committees. The first of these was a committee to prepare the data suggested as early as possible and forward the same to Washington City; also to confer with Congressman Small relative to the advisability of sending a delegation to Washington to personally present Greenville's claims to the congressional committee on public buildings and grounds. This committee consists of P. M. Wooten, D. J. Whichard, A. L. Blow and H. B. Smith.

Another committee, consisting of C. T. Manford, J. L. Little, C. S. Carr and Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse, was appointed to secure the means of sending the delegation to Washington provided this should be found advisable, by soliciting the co-operation of the Board of County Commissioners, the Board of Aldermen and the business interests of the town with the Chamber of Commerce.

The delegation to Washington City will be selected after hearing from Congressman Small as to the advisability of sending personal representatives.

The matter of awakening interest in the Chamber of Commerce and having more frequent meetings was also discussed, followed by a motion for a membership committee to solicit all business men of the town to become members. The selection of this committee was deferred for the time being.

New North Carolina Industries.

For the week ending 16th the Chattanooga Tradesman reports the following new industries for North Carolina:

School Invitations.

The Reflector Printing House has a beautiful line of samples for school commencement invitations, and will be glad to quote prices to schools wanting them. The samples cannot be sent out, but may be seen at this office.

PACTOLUS ITEMS.

Pactolus, N. C. March, 18. Mrs. Fernando Ward and daughter, Miss Corinne, were in town Monday visiting Mrs. J. J. Sitterthwaite.

R. R. Fleming left Tuesday for New Bern on business.

Miss Lille Evans who is attending school at Washington, came home Wednesday to spend a few days with her grandmother who is very sick.

Mrs. J. C. Chustnut, of Kinston, came Wednesday to visit her mother, Mrs. McGuire, who is very sick. Hope she will soon be up again.

Mrs. Maud Williams, of Wharton, and Mrs. Jennie Stamper, of Norfolk, were in town Thursday visiting Mrs. G. Z. Ricks who is confined to her room on account of sickness.

M. B. Ward is on the sick list this week. Hope he will be out soon.

Misses Bonnie Dixon and Louise Latham, of Wharton, are spending the week in town with friends.

Pactolus has an auto now. Come and see it speed on the track prepared for fast running.

R. R. Fleming while in Norfolk not long ago purchased a fine horse. The animal came Wednesday by freight.

They are carpeting the church this week, hoping to make it look very much nicer inside, also have had the organ tuned. More of the members are expected to attend at next meeting.

Farmers are hauling more guano this year than they have in several years, looking for a better crop.

Pactolus has men of all classes, you will find merchants, lawyers, mechanics, blacksmiths, milliners, preachers, and others. Who can tell of a town that has so many kind of men to the population.

Shirtwaist Sale.

The Methodist ladies will hold their annual shirt waist sale on Monday, March 21, at the store of Fineman & White. They will also sell cream. The ladies who are making the waists are requested to send them in as soon as possible. Mrs. W. A. Bowen. 319

Embossed School Stationery.

The Reflector Book Store has just received a supply of beautifully embossed stationary containing the monogram of East Carolina Teachers' Training School. Faculty, students and friends of the school are invited to call and see it.

Farming With Fire.

During these early spring months, when the ground is getting dry enough to cultivate and the air begins to feel like planting time, the smoke from burning brush, grass, and leaves goes up from every farm in North Carolina. New grounds are burned off, fence corners and brier patches cleaned out, rotting stumps and logs disposed of, and old fields and pastures prepared for the summer grazing.

All this burning means the liberation and consequent waste of the most valuable part of the food of our growing crops, from material much of which might be put into the soil. All vegetable matter contains the three elements of plant food which we purchase in our complete fertilizers. By burning, the nitrogen (the most expensive of these materials) is liberated in the air, and is absolutely lost to the soil. The other two ingredients, potash and phosphoric acid, are left on the ground in the ashes; but even this plant food does not all get back into the soil, for it is quite soluble, and being also very light, it is readily washed off into the streams by the rains. But this is not the only loss. The leaves or the grass, if plowed in, add to the soil not only these plant foods but also humus, the ingredient that nearly all soils need and one which it is impossible to get even in commercial fertilizers. It is the lack of humus in the soil that impoverishes so many of our farms, even though commercial fertilizers are used heavily, and that causes the abandonment of so much land in all parts of the State.

Drink Vending Machine.

Mr. Charlie Jones and Mr. W. B. Dorton, of the Brown mill, have invented a bottle drink vending machine. The machine is so arranged that you can drop a nickel in it and get a bottle of most any kind of soft drink including coca-cola, pepsi-cola, etc. Those who have seen the machine work pronounce it a great success. Mr. Jones and his attorney, Mr. J. F. Newell, are now in Washington, where the machine is in the patent office. They will no doubt be successful in securing patent and the young men will very probably realize handsome profit from their invention.—Concord Times.

Dall With the Doctors.

Today we heard a doctor say he had nothing to do, or the nearest nothing of any day in six months. May be the folks are getting "distressingly healthy."

Must Win Victories Every Day.

The popular idea is that if a girl marries well, in the world's way of thinking, that settles her fate for life. Nothing could be further from the truth, writes Hilda Richmond in The Delineator for April. The young woman who has that false idea in her mind had better root it out at once. She may have won a good husband, but that does not insure her a happy home life. Every day she must win her great and small victories, or the marriage will be a failure. There are some women who begin to let themselves down the day after the honeymoon ends, and after that it is easy to drift to the place where "anything is good enough for home."

It is safe to say that no woman ever won very much in the way of domestic happiness who is untidy, careless and unlovely in her home when strangers are not present. A weeping woman who confided her troubles to an old aunt, and thought nothing but threats of a divorce would bring her husband to a sense of his sins of neglect, was shocked beyond measure when the aged relative told her in plain, forcible English to clean up, and her husband would be all right. Of course, she was furiously angry, but when she combed the mussy hair, applied soap and hot water to her dingy skin, got into a neat housedress and burned up the soiled house-jackets and loose garments in which she had trailed about so long, a reformation took place at once. There was no difficulty in winning back the husband, and she has never lapsed into the old slouchy ways.

The move of the prohibitionists to break up the jug trade ought to succeed. When a State adopts prohibition other States should not be allowed to ship liquor into it.

Two hundred and fifty Republican editors met at Springfield, Ills, and adopted resolutions endorsing President Taft, his policies, the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and Speaker Cannon. Must be a lot of the boys wanting "pie."

Frank Dague, of Toledo, Ohio, is somewhat of an eloper. He eloped with a young lady to Kentucky where they were married, returning to the paternal home a few days later. Two weeks after the marriage he eloped with his wife's younger sister, his wife ending her sorrow by taking poison. The father of the young woman is out with a gun hunting for Dague.

The Chamber of Commerce Thursday night took up the suggestions mentioned in Congressman John H. Small's recent letter concerning the public building for Greenville, in a way that means business. The committees appointed are at work and will leave nothing undone to meet the needs of the occasion. That is Greenville's way, go after things with a determination to get them, and we expect to see the appropriation for the public building here included in the omnibus bill before the present session of congress.

Factional spirit is the curse of many towns. It causes ill feeling, divides the people into hostile camps and effectually prevents progress of any kind. Doubtless each faction sincerely wants to see the place flourish, but the spirit of jealousy and opposition is so keen that what ever one proposes, however good the proposition itself may be, the other side is sure to oppose it. The one thing needful is to bury all such bitter and irrational feeling out of sight, to consider every plan of betterment on its merits, and for all to work with an eye single to the welfare of the community. Only in that way can a town prosper.—Snow Hill Standard-Laconic.

The custom of "kissing the book" in swearing witnesses was abolished in England on the first day of last January, and it ought to be abolished in this country. Of course witnesses ought to be sworn on the Bible or Testament, but it does not add to the solemnity of the oath to make the witness kiss a much used and dirty book. It would be just as well, certainly just as solemn and binding, if the law should only compel the witness to place his hand on the book and not kiss it.—Pittsboro Record.

THIS IS CERTAIN
The Proof That Greenville Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubted the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

Mrs. T. S. Norman, 911 Evans St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I gladly give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement, as they have proven of greater benefit to me than any other remedy I have ever used. I suffered severely from a dull ache through the small of my back. There was also a soreness across my kidneys and I was barely able to get around on account of sharp, darting pains through my loins. Upon arising in the morning, I felt tired and languid and had but little ambition or energy. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooten's Drug Store, the backaches and pains have disappeared. I no longer suffer from backache and that tired, languid feeling has been removed."

Salvage Fire Extinguisher

Fire Department statistics show that some eighty per cent. of all fires are extinguished by chemical apparatus.

Nearly all fires are discovered at the start and are readily put out if means are at once available.

A stream is thrown to a distance of about fifty feet, carrying a large amount of carbonic acid gas, which excludes the oxygen and prevents combustion.

A fire cannot live if a small per cent. of carbonic acid gas is in the air.

It is forty times as efficient as water and will extinguish fires of oil, naphtha, gasoline, etc., which water only spreads.

GLASS AND CUT GLASS

Pressed Ware at Times Deceives Even Experts.

A GUIDE FOR THE UNWARY.

The Seeker After Cut Glass Is Safe in Purchasing "Closed In" Articles, as They Cannot Be Duplicated in Pressed Glass—Art of the Cutter.

Buyers for large houses are sometimes deceived when buying cut glass and find they have bought what is commercially known as pressed glass instead of the genuine article.

Yet there are a few simple rules that will safeguard the ordinary buyer at retail. The chief one is to pick out only what the manufacturer calls closed in articles. By this he means vases, jugs, pitchers, bottles and the like.

These cannot be duplicated in pressed glassware, which is first molded in patterns and the edges ground. This process gives it so close a resemblance to real cut glass that even experts may be deceived.

But in the "closed in" articles some way is yet to be devised by which the pressed lines can be followed through the opposite side when put on the wheel to be cut, as the pressed part interferes with the workman seeing through the glass, which he has to do in order to follow the lines of the design on the cutter.

The kind of cut glass that is counterfeited is called open work, such as plates, nappies or any flat article through which the workman can readily see when finishing it.

Another help in selecting cut glass is its weight. The genuine is made from pure lead glass, made chiefly in America, especially for cutting. This lead glass is very heavy.

The first step toward cutting is to mark on the "blank"—that is, the dish in the clear glass—in red or other paint the design that has been selected for it.

The most common designs are diamond shapes, stars of various points, crosses and squares and other geometrical patterns.

The design must be marked on the glass exactly to stand the test of compass and rule. When all lines are in perfect accordance with the pattern and also fit the blank the "roughing" begins. This is cutting the heavy work such as the necks of vases and bottles and the heavy lines on the stars.

This is done on a machine called the "mill," a big wooden framed affair, on top of which is a hopper holding about half a ton of Berkshire hills sand. This sand is the only kind in this country that has proved satisfactory for this work.

The sand runs down through the hopper, is moistened with water and comes out of a large steel disk, the edge of which is sharp. This disk is turned by power at a very high speed. The wet sand of the disk gives it a "tooth," which when the glass is held against the edge of the disk cuts very rapidly.

All the coarse and heavy cutting is done on this "mill." The cutting in of the finer work begins on a mill with a stone disk resembling an old-fashioned grindstone but much narrower and with a beveled edge. These stones come chiefly from Italy or Scotland. They are very hard and carry a keen edge a long time. They are used for the fine cutting altogether.

There is a stone found in Nova Scotia much softer that cuts quicker and is used for fluting on water bottles and composes where heavy cuts are desired. Very often as many as fifteen or twenty different stones of varying degrees of hardness are used for the cutting of one article.

After the design has been all cut comes one of the most difficult parts of the work, the polishing.

This is done on the outside of the work with a very high speeded brush wheel covered with moistened pumice stone powdered. This stone is lava thrown off by a volcano.

Large wooden disks made to fit the cuts and fed with pumice and water are used for polishing the fine work in and around the delicate tracery of the pattern.

The hand of the glass cutting expert must be steady, strong and accurate, for the least mistake spoils a whole pattern. In the case of a fourteen inch punch bowl this means the loss of $50.

Another kind of glass cutting is known as stone engraving. It is done with little stone wheels and copper tools entirely by hand. The designs are chiefly vines and flowers. They are not cut deep and are often mistaken for pressed glass. In reality they are the most expensive kind of cut glass, the price for a single piece of large size and ornate decoration reaching four figures.

Glass cutting is not only a trade, but an art, and any one after seeing the method employed will readily understand why genuine cut glass commands high prices.—Boston Globe.

AN ODD EXPERIMENT.

It Explains How Cyclones Drive Straws Through Tree Trunks.

If a needle is shoved into a cork until just the tip end shows on the opposite side and the needle is then broken off so that the upper end is flush with or hidden under the top surface on the cork an interesting thing may be shown, known as the increase of pressure. If this cork be now pierced needle point down on a copper cent or other small coin a light blow on top of the cork with a hammer will drive the needle through the copper. The explanation is as follows:

Everything has its limits of resistance, and we may define this in terms to the square inch that will overcome it. Take a ten pound weight and place it on a surface of two square inches; the pressure is evidently five pounds to the square inch. Now take away one of the square inches, and there is just as evidently a pressure of ten pounds to the square inch. Decrease this surface to the dimensions of a needle point and put a five pound blow on the needle head. The pressure to the square inch at the point is tremendous. So, of course, it can be forced through almost anything, provided the needle is kept from breaking. For this purpose the cork is supplied, which keeps the needle from starting to bend, having for this purpose what might be called an infinitely inclined plane or straight line.

This phenomenon explains several things of frequent occurrence. Cyclones sometimes drive straws through trees three and four feet thick. The compressed air round the straw keeps it from bending, and the enormous force driving it forces it through.

Of course in the case of the needle and, in fact, any pointed instrument gradually getting larger from the point the advantage of the inclined plane is made use of in continuing the motion. As it takes much less force to roll a barrel up an inclined plank into a door than to lift it directly from the ground to the door, so we can separate two things or two parts of the same thing easier with a pointed instrument (which is the same thing as a round wedge) than with an instrument of the same size all the way.—St. Louis Republic.

INSECT RESISTANCE.

No Such Thing as Any Animal Having More Than One Life.

All animals have the power to recover from injury occasioned by shock—from being stunned. Insects are in no sense an exception to this, and most of them possess what has been called tenacity of life to a remarkable degree. A butterfly will sail away with a pin through its body, an ant will go floundering around after being cut in two, and all insects will quickly recover from a blow, even if such may dent or break their external coverings. In such cases the inside parts are mostly out of use for a short time, somewhat similar to the case of your arm when you have struck the "funny bone" or to your foot when it is "asleep." But after a few moments rest the wasp can again resume its actions.

A wasp is well armored. Its exterior covering is hard and almost unyielding. When it is struck a severe blow the soft, delicate inner parts yield to the impact; the nerves and muscular tissues cannot operate in unison, and the insect may be said to have been rendered unconscious as well as incapable for the "mind" actions depend upon its entire nervous system.

But there is no such thing as an animal's having more than one life. When crushed, dismembered, poisoned or smothered beyond recovery, when its vital organs are injured so that they cannot again resume their regular uses, an insect will die—not in appearance, but really so. And this may result from the wearing out of its active vital organism, which may be called old age, after sometimes only a few days or weeks of life. Its one life has then been terminated beyond any doubt.—St. Nicholas.

Very Considerate.
A marriage advertisement is published in a Zurich paper by a rich Swiss philosopher who wants a wife who must fulfill the following conditions: She must be beautiful in body, face and mind and possess beautiful teeth and hair of her own and not bought articles. Besides German she must have a knowledge of English and French, be a musician and have an irreproachable reputation. "Other faults," the philosopher of forty years states, "will be overlooked."

Not Guilty.
It was 4 a. m., and Bilkins crept softly into the house and removed his shoes, but as he tiptoed up the stairs one of the trends gave a loud creak. "Is that you, John?" demanded Mrs. Bilkins from above.

"No, my love," replied Bilkins; "it's the stairs."—Illustrated Bits.

"Half the world doesn't know how the other half lives."
"Possibly," answered Miss Cayenne. "But that isn't the fault of the ladies who get together with their knitting in our hotel."—Washington Star.

Unfair.

Politeness in China.
In China parents are held responsible for the manners of their children. Accordingly, for the credit of their parents, people try to be polite. If you are noxious in a Chinese town you should look straight at one or two of the people and say: "Your parents did not pay much attention to your manners. They did not teach you the rules of propriety." A remark like this will make the crowd shrink away, one by one, ashamed of themselves.

The Reason of It.
"Why is it that novels are so much more popular with the women than with the men?"
"In a novel the fellow invariably asks the girl to be his wife."—Chicago Record-Herald.
