Winston-Salem, March 23.—A desire to go on the stage induced Dora McDonald, a pretty girl of about 17 years of age, of Coolemees, to run away from home this morning, but she was taken in custody at the depot by Policeman Cofer, who had been notified that she would be on this train. A gentleman from Coolemees arrived this afternoon to take her back tonight.

Rocky Mount, N. C., March 23.—An alarm of fire came from the first ward this morning and proved to be the plant of Shore Manufacturing Company in the northern part of the city. The session will be presided over by President R. H. Lewis, of Raleigh.—Greensboro Daily News.

Halifax, N. C., March 23.—E. E. Powell was brought into court today and arraigned on a bill of indictment for the murder of Chief Police C. W. Dunn, of Scotland Neck. Governor Aycock, counsel for the prisoner, asked for a removal of the case. Judge Ward, after taking the matter under advisement, denied the motion. But he continued the case to Thursday of next week, March 31, and ordered a venire of one hundred and fifty men, to be taken from the section of the county west of the main line of the Atlantic Coast Line.

TUNGSTEN STREET LIGHTS.

They Are Being Considered for Business Section of Greenville.

Seeing mention in several exchanges about Tungsten electric lamps being substituted for arc lamps in street lighting, and that they gave a better light to say nothing of the improved appearance, The Reflector man called on Superintendent E. G. Couch to inquire about the advisability of making such a change in Greenville. Mr. Couch says he has been investigating the matter and already has an order placed for a sample arch of the Tungsten lamps to use as an experiment on Evans street. If this experiment comes up to expectation, other arches will be placed on Evans street and Dickinson avenue, and groups of the Tungsten lamps also be substituted for the arc lights at the intersection of streets throughout the town. It is thought the Tungsten lights can be maintained cheaper than the present lights.

We are glad to know that this change is in contemplation, and hope the experiment Superintendent Couch is to make will come up to expectation. Strings of arched lights at proper distances across Dickinson avenue and Evans street from the depots to Second street would certainly be attractive and prove an effective advertisement for the town. If such lights can be operated cheaper than the present ones the change should be made.

Held up on Road.

While returning to his home near Grifton, Tuesday night, from attending court in this city, Mr. A. L. Patrick, in company with Mr. Henry Cannon was stopped in the road by four negro men. Mr. Patrick demanded of them what they meant by stopping his team, when they let him pass and then began firing pistols behind the buggy. Recently he had trouble with two men on his place and he believes that it was a demonstration by these two men and two of their friends. Warrants were issued for the negroes for assault and Deputy George Gray went out to serve them this afternoon. The negroes for whom the warrants were issued are: Claud Pittman, John Coward, Henry Watters and Robert Judge.—Kinston Free Press.

At the Skating Rink.

Be sure you go to the skating rink Friday night. There will be a foot ball game and two races—one by the small boys and one by the larger—which will make it interesting for everybody. Everyone will be charged ten cents admission. Spectators are cordially invited to come and see the fun.

Grinds Every Day.

It having been rumored that the Sheppard water mill, in Carolina township, is run only on occasional days, this is to give notice that the mill is run for the public every day, and corn will be ground on any week day that it is brought to the mill.

We are glad to know that Mildred Stokes, who has been sick for a week, is improving.

We are having good weather now, and the farmers are taking advantage of it. They are busy planting corn.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., March 24.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity:

Trade conditions generally are about as reported for the past several weeks. The principal feature being the steadily increasing price of many food commodities, especially meats and their by-products. The wholesale dry goods market is fairly active. Spring shipments are going forward in favorable comparison of the same period of last year. The same may be said of the wholesale manufacturing shoe trade. Drugs and chemicals are fairly active. Fertilizer is moving more satisfactorily as the spring season advances. Some activity in early spring farming operations is noted. The majority of the 1909 crop of tobacco is out of the hands of the grower. Manufacturers of plug and smoking tobacco report active ordering. Retail trade in millinery and spring wearing apparel has been enlivened by the approach of the Easter season and favorable weather. Collections are fair.

N. L. Simmons, to Respond.

Mr. Norwood L. Simmons, a member of the local order, Phalanx Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows, has been extended an invitation by the Greenville lodge I. O. O. F., to deliver the response on behalf of the visiting lodges to the address of welcome at the next meeting of the second district, which occurs in Greenville on April 7. The Daily News congratulates the order on their choice. Mr. Simmons will prove equal to the occasion.—Washington News.

Build a Pavilion and Bath Houses.

The coming of spring weather has started up boat riding on the river again. And this reminds us once more to say that Greenville ought to have a pavilion with both houses and boat houses on the river front. Our people could get much pleasure and recreation from the river if proper provision was made for boating and bathing. In addition to the pleasure afforded the people, it would be a profitable investment. Somebody ought to get busy in this direction. As it is, Greenville has no general place for recreation.

Notice.

All parties owing for paving and curbing on Evans street and Dickinson avenue, are hereby notified that unless same is paid as provided by the Board of Aldermen at a meeting held on March 21st, 1910, to wit: "One-half of the amount due and 6 per cent. interest on the whole amount from Nov. 24th, 1909, to date of payment, balance to be collected as taxes for 1910" your property will be advertised and sold the same as for delinquent taxes.

THURSDAY, MAR. 24, 1910.

It will soon be fly screens.

This is one time President Taft is having little to say, and is not even reported to be smiling.

President Taft says he did not mean what he said about the newspaper men. All right, let it go at that.

Don't let the pretty spring weather get you in too much hurry to shed 'em. Cold weather is not all gone yet.

They have got Jack Johnson in jail in New York, and we hope they will keep him there long enough to prevent the fight with Jeffries.

You cannot tell much about that Philadelphia strike from the press dispatches. One day they say it is over, and the next it has receded larger proportions.

Dave Ought Not to Be Quizzical.

In speaking of the next meeting of the North Carolina Press Association, the Durham Sun says "On to Wrightsville, boys, with your bathing suits in an envelope, under your arm." We are at a loss to know whether Jim means to intimate that envelopes are large, or bathing suits small, but we think it the latter.—Greenville Reflector.

Dave ought to know, for a fact. Surely he has not so soon forgotten the last time we were there he appeared beautifully and artistically "enveloped" in a full dress bathing suit that made him appear as a Zulu in full rig, and that as soon as he touched the water he looked as if he were tied in the middle with a white and blue striped string, and there was a desire on Dave's part for some one to bring him a rain coat to keep him dry and that he might also return to the hotel in a presentable appearance. Dave knows all about bathing suits, from the smallest to the greatest.—Durham Sun.

We didn't know that just because a fellow asked a question you were going to tell everything you knew. That was mean, but we are not going to retaliate by showing that kodak picture where a bunch of youngsters mistook Jim in his abbreviated bath suit for a big sand fiddler and chased him in a hole.

The Charlotte News remarks that "Editor Julian is as coy about his age as one of those Greensboro widows." This comment we trust will serve to draw the fire of the flirtatious editor of the Greenville Reflector from us to the editor of the Charlotte News and his Greensboro widows.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Oh, what a dodger the Dispatch flirt is. Just because we got him cornered on the too much kissing and too little hugging proposition, he wants to switch us off to flirting with widows. No, sir, you can't do it. We've cut our wisdom teeth. The Charlotte News may have the Greensboro widows all to himself, without any interference from this quarter.

Members of congress get $7,500, not counting the "pickings," which amount to some $2,000 more, hence it would seem that their first duty is to be in their seats, yet the public will be astounded to know that the average number of absentees each day is close to a hundred. The other day when the big fight on Cannon was on, exactly 97 members were absent and it is said the roll will show this is a fair average for every day. When a man receiving something like $10,000 a year cannot attend to the business it is time for him to quit.—Greensboro Record.

We wonder the man who can cure cancer does not go to Washington and get the $100,000 which has been deposited for anybody who would make this wonderful discovery. We wonder again if the papers which carry this fake advertisement have ever realized that they are publishing an absolute falsehood, so branded by the best medical authority in the world.—State Democrat.

And we wonder why these brutally false advertisements are seen more frequently in the religious press than anywhere else.—Monroe Journal.

WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD

Lady Learned About Cardui, The Woman's Tonic and is Now Enthusiastic in its Praise.

Mount Pleasant, Tenn.—"Cardui is all you claim for it, and more," writes Mrs. M. E. Rail, of this place.

"I was a great sufferer for 2 years and was very weak, but I learned about Cardui, and decided to try it. Now I am in perfect health.

"My daughter, when changing into womanhood, got in very bad health. I gave her Cardui and now she enjoys good health.

"Cardui is worth its weight in gold. I recommend it for young and old."

Being composed exclusively of harmless vegetable ingredients, with a mild and gentle medicinal action, Cardui is the best medicine for weak, sick girls and women.

It has no harsh, powerful, near-poisonous action, like some of the strong minerals and drugs, but helps nature to perform a cure in a natural easy way.

Try Cardui.

Salvage Fire Extinguisher

Fire Department statistics show that some eighty per cent. of all fires are extinguished by chemical apparatus.
Nearly all fires are discovered at the start and are readily put out if means are at once available.
A stream is thrown to a distance of about fifty feet, carrying a large amount of carbonic acid gas, which excludes the oxygen and prevents combustion.
A fire cannot live if a small per cent. of carbonic acid gas is in the air.
It is forty times as efficient as water and will extinguish fires of oil, naphtha, gasoline, etc., which water only spreads.
Protect your home and property before it is too late.

SPEED OF WILD DUCKS.

In Dead Calm They Average Fifty-eight Miles an Hour.

My observations were made with mallard and widgeon just off the sea and coming in at the evening flight, such birds not having got fully under way, having traveled only about two miles or a mile and a half, according to the state of the tide. The times varied from 10½ miles an hour in the teeth of a hurricane to 190 miles an hour with half a gale driving them forward, their speed with a full gale being below this.

In a dead calm they averaged fifty-eight miles an hour; but, as I have mentioned, they were not traveling at top speed. Other species of duck fly much faster than this, the speed of a merganser going down wind being something terrific, and if I mentioned my rough calculations made as to its speed with a stiff breeze behind it no one would believe me, so I will refrain from doing so.

One day in March, when a fresh breeze was blowing down the Holy sound, in Orkney, mergansers were lost sight of in five seconds after passing the point upon which I was sitting. They are without doubt the fastest of our webfooted birds, although other of the diving ducks, such as the goldeneye, fly at an enormous velocity.

The speed at which birds are traveling is very deceptive. For instance, swallows appear to be going very fast, but rarely attain a speed of thirty miles an hour, whereas wild geese appear to be traveling very slowly when seen at a distance, but see them passing over you at dawn about fifty yards overhead and their wings look like flywheels, giving the birds the appearance of huge bees in the half light, so fast are their wings vibrating.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Little Tragedy of Love.

She had told him that her father utterly disapproved of him and had issued peremptory orders that he should not come to the house. She trembled as she told him and there were tears in her eyes, for she feared that even then papa might be within hearing, possibly reach, of her loved one.

But he was brave.

When love was in the van
What cared he for any man?

He was, indeed, no fair weather lover, and the storm and stress made him very much stancher in his devotion to the one girl in all the world for him.

"What boots it, dearest?" he whispered to her, soft and low, taking her to his manly bosom, breathing into her shell-like ear. "What boots it?"

"I do!" thundered papa, appearing upon the scene, rear entrance, and there was a dull, sickening thud which indicated that he did.—Judge.

Slavery.

A certain man, fettered by his instincts, married with a certain woman, whose instincts likewise left her no alternative.

But after awhile they discovered what the amount of it was and grew restive.

"I am your slave!" protested the woman. "I do nothing but cook for you and mend your clothes."

"No; I'm your slave," retorted the man, "for when I have earned so much as will buy you hats and dresses I've no time left for anything else."

Just here, however, a baby came along. "Hush! You're both of you my slaves!" quoth he.

And in that view the man and the woman forgot their bickering and lived happily ever after.—Puck.

Initiating Emily.

Clubs had taken possession of the feminine element in the school.

As the teacher left one afternoon she saw seated on the lowest step a group of small girls, each holding a cup and spoon and each feeding a vinegarish looking liquid to one of their number, whom the teacher had already rendered pallid and passive.

"Why, what on earth are you doing?" the astonished teacher demanded.

"Teacher, please, 'm," came the eager answer, "it's our club, and we're inducting Emily!"—Hatter's Weekly.

Considerate.

Paterfamilias—See here! What does this mean? The parlor clock is stopped. Mr. Niciefellow was here last night, as usual, wasn't he?

Daughter—Yes, pa, and I told him what you said about the cost of coal and gas in the parlor every night, and we began to wonder how we could economize for you, and finally Mr. Niciefellow decided that we could at least stop the clock and save wear and tear on the wheels, you know.

PUNCTUALITY.

It Gets a Jolt From One Who Never Can Be on Time.

So much is said about the virtue of punctuality that people who go in for it to any great extent are exceedingly uppish and disagreeable. Punctuality has its bad side, just as everything else has. People should remember this. If they are on time they only serve to throw into embarrassing relief the poor souls who come hurrying in ten minutes late. It is smug to be precisely punctual. It is raising yourself above the rest of mankind, refusing to partake in its frailties. The ideal thing from the point of view of courtesy to others and recent humility about your own attainments is to be always ten minutes late or at least to appear so.

If you are to meet at the package office in the Grand Central station at 4 o'clock sit quietly in the middle of the hall until twelve minutes after 4; then when you have seen the other person dash up, followed by panting porters and fairly dripping with explanations, wait until the arrival has had a second in which to recover self respect and stroll up with a remark on Timbaktu or the best way to cultivate carrots. This will insure your popularity and show you to be a person of kindness and forethought. At any rate, it is better than a pitiless standing at the place where you said you would be, your superiority increasing every minute, and confronting, upbraiding silently, the person who promised to meet you because you appeared a rather likable sort, but who finds you in your panoply of punctuality the very reverse of likable.

For be it remembered that just as some people cannot be on time others cannot to save their skins be late. So that they deserve not a whit of credit for it and should, in fact, be reprimanded when they do it ostentatiously and in public.—New York Sun.

A Rejected Novel.

Before he had achieved fame the French novelist Xavier de Montepin, on concluding a long and elaborate tale of adventure, took it, full of hope, to a publisher, who promptly declined it on even the most advantageous terms, to the writer's poignant mortification. Twenty years afterward this identical publisher besought at his hands a sensational story, one of those serials which were the delight of grisettes, offering any price within reason. "Well," said De Montepin, "I will oblige you, but my terms must be very heavy. I want 20,000 francs." After many protests it was paid. In telling the story De Montepin used to add, "The best of the business was that it was the very same story which he had previously rejected and which I had in various directions endeavored in vain to dispose of."

Church Encouragement of Sport.

Ecclesiastic recognition has been given the sport of skeeving in Norway in the special short, early services held in all the churches during the season for the convenience of skeevers. These services are called skeeving prayers, and a stranger coming into the sacred edifices on such an occasion might think he had blundered into the barracks of a skee corps. However, the services are much liked and very well attended, and there is no difference of opinion about the wisdom of the church authorities in thus encouraging a sport making so strongly for healthy bodies and therefore going a long way toward making healthy souls.—Outing.

The Compass in China.

It is generally admitted that the Chinese used the compass at a very early period to guide them in their journeys across the vast plains of Tartary. They made little images, the arms of which, moved by a freely suspended magnet, pointed continually toward the north. An apparatus of this kind was presented to ambassadors from Cochin China to guide them on their homeward journey some 1,100 years before the Christian era. The knowledge thus possessed seems gradually to have traveled westward by means of the Arabs, though it was over 2,000 years afterward before it was generally applied among the peoples of western Europe.

A Tongue Twister.

Do you read by sight or sound? Do you skim the sense or pronounce the words as you go—inadvisably, but consciously? There are many readers who read by the ear, and when this writer had written the sentence about Wick (there was an election there), "Wick is rich in Pictish relics," he leaned back and tried to whisper it, thinking of the text. "Wick is rich in Pictish relics." Say it three times quickly.—London Chronicle.

A Bargain.

"I have something for you here, my love," said Mr. Darley as he proceeded to open a large, round box.

"What is it, precious?"

"Wait and see."

Darley carefully unwrapped the article and disclosed a lady's hat.

"Isn't it a beauty?" he asked. "I bought it myself as a surprise to you. Don't you think it is a perfect dream?"

Mrs. Darley gazed at the hat and burst into tears.

"I can't wear it!" she cried. "It doesn't suit me at all. You meant to please me, I know, but it isn't my style at all."

"Don't cry, dear. The milliner said you could exchange it, and if you'll agree not to buy any ties for me hereafter I'll let you select your own hats and bonnets."

An agreement was concluded on that basis.

Her Very Clear Thoughts.

"Well, aunt, what are your thoughts about marryin'?" asked a young woman in Scotland the other day of her aunt, a decent body who had reached the shady side of life without having committed matrimony.

"Deed, lassie," frankly replied the old lady, "I've had but three thoughts about it a' my days, an' the last is like to be the longest. First, then, when I was young, like yourself, I thought, 'Wha'll I tak'?' Then, as time began to wear by, I thought, 'Wha'll I get?' An' after I got my leg broken w' that whumel oot o' Saunders McDrunthle's cart my thoughts syne have bin, 'Wha'll tak' me?'"

A Cruel Joke.

Oswald, a witty and original Parisian, had a mania for practical joking. He was very amusing to his friends, but when his talents were exerted to avenge some wrong there was more bitterness than fun in his wit. One evening when a man who had not treated him politely gave a reception he revenged himself cruelly. The man was slightly deformed. All the hunchbacks of Paris, 500 in number, presented themselves at his reception. They had received notices from Oswald that if they should go to this address on this evening they would learn of a legacy which had been left them.

Stood on His Rights.

The Lawyer (who is drafting Mr. Snarler's last will and testament)—Oh, but if I may make a suggestion, don't you—Mr. Snarler—Hang it all, who's sayin'—you or me, eh?—London Tit-Bits

Gold in Ancient Rome. William Jacob in his "History of the Precious Metals" estimates from the accounts given by the Roman writers that in the reign of Augustus, the first of the emperors, when Rome was at the height of its power, the amount of gold in the Roman empire was nearly $2,000,000,000. This vast treasure had been gathered chiefly by conquest from various nations of Europe, Asia and Africa. There had been extensive mines in Spain and in the Atlas mountains of north Africa, but their yield in the wealth of kings and of cities in Asia and Egypt had been despoiled and carried away to enrich the conquerors.
