R. A. WILLOUGHBY.

Died February 26th—A Short Sketch of His Life.

He was born in what is now Beaver Dam township, Pitt county, Feb. 16th 1835, and was raised on the farm on which he died. Not knowing much about his boyhood life I will say nothing of that, but after he grew to manhood I moved in his neighborhood and he and I became very intimate friends and remained so until his death. He took up the carpenter's trade and carried on his farm also. He was very industrious and ingenious. He joined the Confederate army Sept. 1862 in Co. G, 8th N. C. Regt., under Capt. E. C. Yellowley and made one of the very best soldiers, remaining in the war until it ended. He was taken prisoner at Cole Harbor June 2nd, 1864, and remained in prison until Feb. 1865.

Some time after the close of the war he put up a work shop at Rochdale and did much repair work, and was the coffin builder of the community. The writer was often called on to help make coffins. He has with my help made many on Sundays. He was so good and kind that he would often let the work go without the cash and in many cases, yes, very many, he failed to get his pay. So he gave away considerable of his labor.

Mr. Willoughby was married in 1867 to Miss Caroline F. Cobb, daughter of the late J. C. Cobb, and had five children born unto him, four of whom are now living, J. H. and B. P. Willoughby, Mrs. C. D. Smith and Mrs. C. L. Tyson. His first wife died in June 1879, and he remained a widower for a year or two, and finding that it was not good to be alone he married Miss Christina Crawford in 1881 and had three other children born unto him, two of whom are now living, R. E. Willoughby and Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn.

Mr. Willoughby was a very good and kind neighbor and one of the best citizens. He was a hard worker, and worked as long as he was able and then he stayed around the house and did many little jobs that some of the hands would had to have done. He was one of five of we old soldiers' that lived on the same road and the two farthest apart not more than one and a half miles. They were E. S. Parker, B. F. Crawford, Joab Tyson, R. A. Willoughby and T. E. Little. Mr. Willoughby like the writer, never failed to attend the old soldiers' reunion as long as he was able to be present.

When Mr. Willoughby was taken sick his friends, who were very many, paid all the attention to him that friends could, and there was nothing left undone.

He lay speechless for about a week from the time he was first taken on the 16th of February, 1910, and passed quietly away February 26th, at the age of 75 years and ten days.

I have written the above sketch very briefly and have left out much that might have been said, but decided to let this suffice. Thos. E. Little.

Dr. Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville, at Hotel Bertha, on Friday, April 1st, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses. He will also make his regular monthly visit to Greenville on Monday and Tuesday, April 4th and 5th. 3 16 12d 2w

STATE NEWS.

Newly Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

New Bern, N. C., March 24—The morning session of the Superior court was taken up with the trial of the city officials charged with selling to the city, and all the cases were disposed of in one way or another. The first case taken up was that of E. H. Williams. It was charged and admitted that Williams was, and is, a member of the board of aldermen; that he is also a stockholder and president of the New Bern Iron Works & Supply Company and foreman of the machine shops; that the city bought from the above company supplies for the electric light and water department, nearly all of which could have been bought elsewhere; that the board allowed the bill and it was paid, said Williams being present but not voting for this particular bill. It was finally agreed to make up a special verdict on the agreed facts and let the case go to the supreme court.

The many friends of Mr. E. B. Moore here and in other parts of the State, will regret to learn that he had another stroke of paralysis this morning about 3 o'clock. His entire left side is affected. Dr. John G. Blount, his attending physician, states he is some better today. Mr. Moore has been engaged in the wholesale and retail fish business. He has been a most useful citizen and his illness is to be regretted. It is to be hoped he will soon be on the road to recovery.—Washington News.

Notice.

To the public: I wish to announce that I am in no way connected with the so-called Taft & Boyd Furniture Co. This is an incorporated concern and is owned by other parties. I do not know why they prefer doing business in my name to theirs, however this seems to be the case. I am in the White building near Five Points and have no connection with any other furniture business in Greenville. I am carrying a full stock of the very best furniture and house furnishings money can buy and will be glad to have the public, as well as my friends and former customers, visit my store and inspect my stock. I promise courteous treatment and a square deal. I am yours truly, 3 26 J. H. Boyd, Jr.

Entertainment for Library.

The committee of the Greenville Public Library will have a silver tea at the music store of Fineman & White on the evening of Easter Monday. Refreshments will be served free of charge, and an interesting musical program will be given. Donations of silver from twenty-five cents up are asked for the purpose of aiding to establish a public library in the town of Greenville. About fifty books were saved from the recent fire, and the donations asked for will go towards buying others. Everybody who feels any interest in Greenville's welfare is most cordially invited to attend. The hours are from 8:30 to 11 o'clock. 3 26

A LITTLE BIRD'S GIFT.

Dropped Little Wild Flower at Feet of Miss Mildred Briggs.

Miss Mildred Briggs the little thirteen year old daughter of Mr. F. H. Briggs, had a peculiar experience yesterday afternoon as she was returning from the Wiley school. The incident would make a good story for a nature magazine.

Miss Mildred is evidently a lover of nature and a close observer. Just as she was passing the home of Mr. Benahan Cameron, opposite St. Mary's, she says she was attracted by the absolute stillness of the day. No cars or vehicles were in sight and she seemed to be the only person passing. There was nothing to break the stillness of the perfect spring afternoon. She stopped for a few moments to enjoy it all, the quiet, the smell of flowers, and budding trees, the bright sunshine, etc. Her love for nature and appreciation of it was soon rewarded in a most unexpected and almost startling manner. A little bird began circling round and round just above her, all the time coming nearer. She kept perfectly still, watching to see what the little bird was going to do. It circled to the ground directly in front of her and to her great astonishment dropped a little blue wild flower from its beak on her shoe. Then hopping aside the little bird turned its head and watched her from its little bead-like eyes, evidently to see how its little gift was going to be received. It was doubtless satisfied for Miss Mildred was overcome with delight at being singled out by the little bird for its dainty little gift.—Raleigh Evening Times.

Easter in Winston-Salem.

Those who are so fortunate as to be in Winston-Salem Easter will have something to remember the balance of their lives. The celebration of the risen Christ by the Moravians is inspiring and solemn and each year is witnessed by greater and greater numbers. Residents of both towns arise before day and repair to the church, from which point they file up, with the Moravian congregation, to the beautiful graveyard, where are held the most impressive exercises.

Probably in no other city in the United States is Easter such an occasion as it is in Winston-Salem. It may be said, to be to the south what the Passion Play is to Europe. With us it is the climax of the Lenten season, and is more generally observed than Christmas.

The social side of the Easter-tide is likewise notable. The club has a series of dances and receptions, the college youths return home, college ball teams play here, and there is enthusiasm to spare. Young men and young ladies, generally, inaugurate the season with fresh spring clothes. No occasion is made so joyful as this.—The Journal.

Tonight is the Night.

Don't forget to go to the Centre Brick Warehouse tonight and join in or see the foot ball game and race on roller skates. Lots of fun is in store for you there. Admission 10 cents for each one. Prizes will be given to winners of the races.

FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., March 25.—The new bank's officers are Richard Joyner, president; J. T. Thorne, vice president; T. C. Turnage, cashier. They hope to be ready for business August 1st.

Mrs. J. W. Holmes has gone to Wilson sanatorium for an operation.

We haven't heard much of the electric light proposition for the past week. We hope we are to have some light on the subject soon.

If all the work that is being planned in the way of improvements and building is carried out, we will say "Good for Farmville!"

Last Tuesday a news paper man was here, by invitation, to confer about the establishment of a paper in Farmville. We understand that plans are being perfected and that we are to have the paper soon, the editor to live in our midst.

If Farmville citizens would rise in their might, in the courage of manhood, and stop this abominable liquor peddling and blind tiger lawlessness, we would have a first class town.

I am aware that I have been warned not to write anything else about liquor, but I have not been accustomed to take orders from liquor sellers, liquor drinkers or their sympathizers.

It has been hinted that there have been at least fifteen barrels of liquor shipped to Farmville since Christmas, to say nothing of the small packages. This may or may not be correct, but it makes one wonder who is handling all this stuff. It was talked a few days ago that one man sold from 50 to 100 bottles of liquor here in one day. This year three barrels of liquor were shipped to a negro. The negro denied that he ordered the liquor and at first refused to claim it. Later, so I learned, he went to the depot and paid the freight on the goods, rolled it in another man's wagon and rode off.

Now somebody is to blame for all this lawlessness. Some lay all the blame on the alderman, but they are not responsible for all of it, I am sure, even if some say it is not worth while to try to do anything while the present board holds the reins. Others say that the policemen are to blame, that they set around and play cards, set back, etc. But they are not altogether to blame, surely. Another says it is because the citizens do not urge the officials to do their duty and then give them their moral support. Every man is afraid of his own shadow so far as the liquor question is concerned, they would say. There are six organized churches and four Sunday schools in our town. Let us ask some questions for each one to answer honestly for himself.

First, what are the preachers and pastors doing to control this lawlessness? What are the Sunday school teachers doing? What are the churches doing? Do any of our members patronize the blind tigers? What are the officials doing? What are the business men doing? What are the law-abiding citizens doing? What are the wives and mothers doing? Who will suggest the remedy? Mr. R. L. Davis, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, when here recently, suggested the organization of a law and order league for the express purpose of law enforcement, but very few were present who were willing to enter into such an agreement. I thought

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

J. S. Stump went to Tarboro today.

Mrs. W. C. Hines left this morning for Dunn.

Mrs. F. E. Horne, of Farmville, is visiting Mrs. E. A. Moye.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Albritton returned Thursday evening from Southern Pines.

Mrs. L. I. Moore and children, of New Bern, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. King.

Mrs. J. P. Minnatee and children, of Greensboro, are visiting the family of her brother, H. A. White.

Mrs. J. L. Carper and daughter, of Williamston, who have been visiting her father, E. A. Moye, returned home today.

Mrs. J. N. Hart and Miss Bessie Hellen spent Thursday in Washington with their father who is in a hospital there for treatment.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Good Friday.

Red Men meet tonight.

Base ball is about the topmost thing in the boys' heads now.

Tomorrow is just a day between Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

Patrons of the post office are finding yellow reminders in their boxes.

If this pretty weather continues through Easter Sunday it will contribute to the happiness of many people.

The choirs of the Episcopal and Methodist churches are both rehearsing special musical programs for Easter Sunday service.

The entertainment in the music store of Fineman & White, Monday night for the benefit of the public library promises much interest.

Donations to Library.

The ladies of the End of the Century Club are gratified at the interest the people of the community are taking toward helping them to re-establish the public library that was lost in the recent fire. The following voluntary contributions have been made, and there should be many others:

Dr. D. L. James, set of book shelves.
Miss Martha O'Hagan $ 5.00
Mrs. J. E. Winslow 5 00
Mrs. R. O. Jeffries 5.00
Mrs. J. G. Moye 10.00

The Reflector will take pleasure in publishing any other donations that may be reported to the office or to Mrs. W. A. Bowen.

Lyman Twins Pass Through.

The Lyman Twins company spent the forenoon here enroute from Washington to Kinston.

They came up to look over the ruins of the recent fire and expressed regret that the opera house had been burned and they could not give Greenville a date. The company called on ex-manager Jimmie Reuss at his bakery and gave him a song.

then and still think that is best. But I am willing to cooperate with any number of men who will wage unceasing warfare on this lawlessness. Who will suggest the plan?

Praise To Whom Praise is Due.

Editor Reflector: Your past kindness makes us bold to ask a small space in your good paper today.

The Civic League desires to express through your columns their hearty appreciation of every attempt by whom so ever made to help keep "Our Greenville" clean. It was with special gratitude that we observed this morning not only a careful sweeping of sidewalks, but the space in front of Herbert Edmonds, barber shop had been well washed and the superior cleanliness of it naturally attracted our attention. This a splendid example, one well worth following. Reporter.

Cut Out Meat.

A. L. Potter, rural mail carrier on route No. 1, says he is glad to be able to be out again after being confined to his bed for five days with a severe attack of rheumatism. He says his doctor told him he must stop eating meat, which he says he had been seriously thinking about anyway on account of high prices.

Be Careful Where You Spit.

It will be well for people going up and down the street to take a good look at the anti spitting notices which Chief of Police Smith is putting up for public information. A bit of carelessness about where you spit may be the cause of your contributing a V to the town treasury.

FRIDAY, MAR. 25, 1910.

The scene of bribery seems to have changed from New York to Pittsburg.

The ground hog is out for good now, even if it should freeze later.

If you want your town to grow, there is not a better way to show it than to support home enterprises.

Mister Shemwell was not considering the health of the conductor on whom he drew the pistol.

Mrs. Hetty Green has joined the Carnegie and Rockefeller class and decided to give away some money.

Those who were making such haste to step into Senator Daniel's shoes now have time to catch their breath.

The Greensboro Record is after the "2x4 habit" in that city. It might also be knocked in some other places.

Congressman Morehead must have had enough of the game, as he announces that he will not again be a candidate.

There is an old saying that eggs laid on Good Friday will never spoil, but we would not like to try one of them six months hence.

The secretary of the treasury is talking about abolishing the mint at Charlotte on the ground that it is too expensive to maintain. If the government starts to cutting off things that do not meet expenses, quite a bunch of custom offices ought to be put on the shelf.

That South Carolinian who on the Baltimore & Ohio train near Wilmington, Del. shot and killed the porter and the conductor and wounded several others before being killed himself, must have been in the brainstorm class. He was certainly too crazy to be at large.

Two Raleigh butchers recently went out of business, giving as a reason that meat was so high people of moderate circumstances could not buy. We expect the recent discovery that the packers were shipping diseased meat there had much to do with Raleigh people drawing the line on it.

A matter that the citizens of the town generally might interest themselves in now is an opera house. In the destruction of Masonic temple in the late fire the opera house was lost. The Masons at much expense to themselves put an opera house in their first temple because they thought the town needed one, yet it did not prove a profitable investment to the fraternity. Handicapped as they are by the loss sustained in the fire, they are talking of leaving off the opera house when they rebuild. This is where the citizens can come in with some good work for the town. Greenville needs an opera house now as much as or more than ever. The town has grown so that there is better prospect or such an enterprise bringing a fair return. It will be easier to build one in connection with the Masonic temple than otherwise, and if the citizens will cooperate with the Masons now while plans for rebuilding are under consideration we believe it will be worth while.

City newspapers no longer make jokes on their country brethren for accepting eggs, butter and other farm produce in payment for subscriptions. Far from it.—Charlotte Observer.

Exactly, and there are occasionally other good points the city brethren might get from their country cousins.

Governor Denver S. Dickerson, of Nevada, has refused to accept the fraudulent bonds of North Carolina given to his State by the New York bondholders, and has employed counsel to fight the efforts of the donors to force the State to receive them.

Everyone has a weak spot. Too often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day and night. Tells you the kidneys need help. For backache is really kidney-ache. A kidney cure is what you need. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Cure backache and urinary ills. Good proof in the following statement.
"Jackson Baxter, 424 Bonner street, Washington, N. C., says: 'I suffered from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. The kidney secretions were scanty at times while at others profuse, and the passages were attended with pain. I had severe backaches and constant, gnawing pains through my kidneys. I was feeling miserable when I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. They gave me such great relief that I obtained a further supply and since that the pains across my back have disappeared. I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone troubled by kidney complaint.'"

Salvage Fire Extinguisher
Fire Department statistics show that some eighty per cent. of all fires are extinguished by chemical apparatus.
Nearly all fires are discovered at the start and are readily put out if means are at once available.
A stream is thrown to a distance of about fifty feet, carrying a large amount of carbonic acid gas, which excludes the oxygen and prevents combustion.
A fire cannot live if a small per cent. of carbonic acid gas is in the air.
It is forty times as efficient as water and will extinguish fires of oil, naphtha, gasoline, etc., which water only spreads.

THE WEASEL.

A Formidable Foe to Animals a Hundred Times Its Size.

The weasel is about six inches in length from tip to tip, which seems very great compared with the height of the animal, which is not above an inch and a half. The wolf is not above one and a half times as long as he is high, while the weasel is nearly five times as long, an amazing disproportion. The tail also, which is bushy, is generally two inches long and adds to the apparent length of the body.

The color of the weasel is a light brown on the back and sides, but white under the throat and belly. The eyes are little and black. The ears are short, broad and roundish and have a fold at the lower part, which makes them look as if they were double. Beneath the corners of the mouth on each jaw is a spot of brown.

This animal, though diminutive in appearance, is nevertheless a very formidable enemy to quadrupeds a hundred times its own size. When kept in a cage it will not touch its food while anybody looks on. It keeps in a continual agitation and seems frightened so much at the sight of mankind that it will die if not permitted to hide itself.

For this purpose, says Fur News, it must be provided in its cage with a sufficient quantity of wool or hay in which it may conceal itself and where it may carry whatever it has to eat. In this state it is seen to pass three parts of the day in sleeping and reserves the night for its exercise and eating.

In its wild state the night is likewise the time during which it may be said to live. At the approach of evening it is seen stealing from its hole and creeping about the farmer's yard for its prey. If it enters the place where poultry is kept it never attacks the cocks or the old hens, but immediately goes after the young ones. Generally it merely sucks the blood of the victim.

It is remarkably active, and in a confined place scarce any animal can escape it. It will run up the sides of the walls with such facility that no place is secure from it. Its body is so small that there is scarce any hole but that it can wind through. During the summer its excursions are extensive, but in the winter it chiefly confines itself to barns and farmyards, where it remains till spring and where it brings forth its young.

All this season it makes war upon rats and mice with still greater success than the cat, for being more active and slender it pursues them into their holes and after a short resistance destroys them. It creeps also into pigeon holes, destroys the young, catches sparrows and all kinds of young birds, and if it has brought forth its young hunts with still greater boldness and avidity. In summer it ventures farther from the house and particularly goes into those places where the rat, its chief prey, goes before it.

The female takes every precaution to make an easy bed for her little ones and lines the bottom of her hole with grass, hay, leaves and moss and generally brings forth three to five to a litter. The weasel, like others of its kind, does not run on equably, but moves by bounding, and when it climbs a tree by a single spring it gets a good way from the ground. It jumps in the same manner upon its prey and, having an extremely limber body, evades the attempts of much stronger animals to seize it.

Sucking Poisonous Wounds.

Among all people the sucking of the wound has ever been considered the most effective remedy of immediate application for snake bites. In Africa a cupping instrument is employed in emergencies of the kind to draw out the poisoned blood. The ancients followed the same methods, and when Cato made his famous expedition through the serpent infested African deserts he employed many savage snake charmers, called "psylli," to follow the army. They performed many mysterious rites over men who were bitten, but the efficacy of their treatment appears to have consisted in sucking the wounds.

Javanese Music.

The Javanese musical instruments are made mostly of bamboo. They also played upon a pipe or whistle, which was about three feet long and six inches across. This sounded like the hollow roar of a lion. Another was a bundle of tubes of different lengths, which covered the small boy who carried it like a big saddle. A log hewn out with two strings stretched across it served as a drum. A zither of sixteen strings and a mandolin of two completed their outdoor band, while inside one could hear other music made by gongs of wonderfully pure and beautiful tone.

A FEW COMPARISONS.

They Ease the Mind of the Man of Moderate Means.

"All things," said the man of moderate means, "impress us by comparison. If a man had lived all his life in a palace, why, then it would have to be a very grand sort of place indeed that would seem anything particularly fine to him, whereas if one had always lived in a shack a very modest house would seem to him luxurious.

"If since autos first came in we had been driving steadily a $10,000 automobile, then obviously it would take quite considerable of a kerosene cart to give us any added joy in that line, while if we had been accustomed constantly to ride in the street cars, why, then the simplest of gasoline gigs might give us great glee. All things go by comparison.

"Take, for instance, smoking. My regular smoke is a stogy that costs $1.45 a hundred, but I buy also for special occasions a special brand of cigar for which I pay $2 a hundred. I buy a fifty box at a time for a dollar. Commonly I smoke the stogies, and I think they're pretty good, at a little less than a cent and a half a smoke, but if I happen to strike a little streak of luck, why, I then blow myself to a couple of those choice smokes out of the other box, in which really I find great pleasure.

"It's all by comparison. Some men would have to pay $10 for a cigar to get any fun out of it. I can get a lot of fun out of a two center.

"And, speaking of great pleasure, I'm glad I have not exhausted all my great pleasures. I've still got them all, or most all, to enjoy. My capacity for novelty and enjoyment has never been much taxed. It is still practically boundless. I have got life ahead of me, not behind, and when I do get money, as I certainly hope to do some day, why, everything will be new and charming to me, and I shall enjoy everything and all immensely.

"I've got something to look forward to anyway, and I think there's something in that."—Detroit Free Press.

Horsepower.

Old James Watt established the term "horsepower" in order that he might have some basis of comparison of the power developed by his engines. He measured the work done by a heavy London draft horse of the Clydesdale or similar variety during short intervals by observing the weight it could lift against gravity, the horse walking on the ground and pulling horizontally on a rope led through pulleys, so that the weight rose vertically. The unit horsepower, so established, was 550-foot pounds of work per second, or 33,000 foot pounds a minute—that is, 33,000 pounds raised one foot in a minute, 330 pounds raised 100 feet or a pound raised 33,000 feet a minute. But whereas few horses could do that amount of work for more than a few seconds together, a one horsepower engine will go on producing that amount of work indefinitely so long as it is supplied with steam.

Absentminded.

A Canadian farmer noted for his absentmindedness went to town one day and transacted his business with the utmost precision. He started on his way home, however, with the firm conviction that he had forgotten something, but what it was he could not recall. As he neared home the conviction increased, and three times he stopped his horse and went carefully through his pocket-book in a vain endeavor to discover what he had forgotten. In due course he reached home and was met by his daughter, who looked at him in surprise and exclaimed, "Why, father, where have you left mother?"

Not Actually Necessary.

The lawyer proceeded to examine the witness.
"Pardon the question, Mrs. Chucksley," he said, "but your answer constitutes a part of the record. How old are you?"
"Why, you ought to know, Mr. Sharpe," she answered. "My birthday is the same as yours, only I was born ten years later than you were."
"Ah, yes; I remember. Well, it isn't important, anyhow. Go ahead, Mrs. Chucksley and tell the jury what you know about this case."—Chicago Tribune.

Wholesale.

A Frenchman was teaching in a large school where he had a reputation for making some queer mistakes. One day he was taking a class which was rather disorderly. What with the heat and troublesome boys he was very snappish. Having punished several boys and sent one to the bottom of the class, he at last shouted out in a passion, "The whole class go to the bottom!"

NEVER OPENING FLOWERS.

A Large Number of Plants Bear Cleistogamous Blossoms.

The never opening flower, or, as botanists call it, cleistogamy, is well illustrated by the case of the common sweet violet. The familiar purple, sweet scented blossom, which to most people is the violet flower, hardly ever produces any seed. But altogether unseen by most people it produces a number of minute, scentless and colorless flowers which never open.

These are self fertilized and produce abundant seed. The word cleistogamous expresses the fact that the fertilization takes place without the opening of the flower and hence without the agency of insects. Such never opening flowers occur in a large number of plants, sometimes along with blossoms of the ordinary sort and sometimes without them. It is a disputed point, however, whether there is any plant which in all circumstances will produce nothing but cleistogamous flowers.

There are nevertheless a number which normally produce nothing else. As regards fertility, the seeds produced by the cleistogamous flowers are never inferior to those of the ordinary blossoms. In some cases they are superior and in others they are the only seed produced by the plant.

It has been found that the amount of cleistogamy varies with the height of the plants. The shortest bear cleistogamic flowers only, and those a little taller have a few small open flowers in addition to the closed ones. The tallest plants have larger open flowers, with only a few cleistogamic.—Botanical Gazette.

Politeness in China.

In China parents are held responsible for the manners of their children. Accordingly, for the credit of their parents, people try to be polite. If you are mobbed in a Chinese town you should look straight at one or two of the people and say: "Your parents did not pay much attention to your manners. They did not teach you the rules of propriety." A remark like this will make the crowd slip away, one by one, ashamed of themselves.

The Reason of It.

"Why is it that novels are so much more popular with the women than with the men?"

"In a novel the fellow invariably asks the girl to be his wife."—Chicago Record-Herald.
