STATE NEWS.

Newsy Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

We hear growling often about keeping the same man in office so long. In 1868 C. M. Pace, then 22 years of age, was elected clerk of the Superior court of Henderson county and he has been there ever since and bids fair to stay there the remainder of his days. Still Mr. Pace is behind the record of old man Law down at Hillsboro, who has been register of deeds well nigh ever since the year one. In truth few men are living who can remember when he was first elected. He is over eighty and is still doing business.—Greensboro Record.

Rev. Dr. J. L. White, pastor of the First Baptist church, received a call to become pastor of the Central Baptist church of Memphis, Tenn., and requesting that he come to Memphis for a conference with the members of that church. Dr. White left this morning for Memphis so as to return in time for his services Sunday. He will not decide upon accepting the call until after he returns.—Greensboro Record.

The hearing of the case of C. L. Gilbreath vs. the city of Greensboro, which was taken up in Guilford Superior court yesterday afternoon was concluded shortly before the dinner recess today and the jury after deliberating about an hour returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $2,500 as damages on account of personal injuries sustained by falling out of a wagon when the front wheels dropped suddenly into a hole on Cumberland street. His leg was so badly injured that amputation was necessary.—Greensboro Record.

Raleigh, April 27.—That the assets of the North Carolina state fair here aggregate $63,250 net, is the showing made in an exhibit of the affairs of the state fair made by Secretary Joseph E. Pogue in his annual report just from the printers. The total assets, in fact, amount to $86,750, and this is reduced by liabilities that consist of $22,500 in 5 percent bonds maturing in 1925, and by about $1,000 in bills payable.

Raleigh, April 27.—The Supreme court took action in ten appeals this weekly delivery day, handing down opinions in eight cases. The list follows: Adesholt vs. Seaboard Air Line, Wake, reversed; Haywood and Laird vs. Wright, Alamance, affirmed, Justice Walker not sitting; House vs. Southern Railway company, Iredell, reversed; Case Threshing Machine Company vs. McClamrock Davis, no error; Thompson vs. Osborn, Ashe, new trial; O'Neal vs. S. & W. railroad, Surry, affirmed; Butler vs. Penn Tobacco Company, reversed; Pain vs. Norfolk and Western Railway Company, Ashe, no error; Cozad vs. McAden, Graham, consent to judgment dismissing petition to rehear; Pegram vs. Hester, Forsyth, motion for certiorari and to reinstate appeal, allowed, case to be submitted on printed briefs.

Raleigh, April 27.—If a movement being inaugurated by the chamber of commerce is successful a number of the larger merchants of the city will undertake to buy cotton on the wagons next season with a view to seeing to it that the growers who come to Raleigh with their cotton receive the very highest possible

PLEAD HIS OWN CASE.

And the Jury Gave Him a Verdict of Not Guilty.

There was a right sharp colored man, named Willis Grimes, in court Wednesday, and the old man showed that he knew a thing or two. Willis, who is a preacher and quite a glib talker, was indicted for assault with deadly weapon. When the case was called Grimes had no lawyer to appear for him, so was given a seat in the bar to conduct his own defense.

The substance of the case was that a young colored buck, filled with liquor, went to Grimes' home and was raising a "rough house." Grimes was out when the young buck arrived, but came in during the disturbance and ejected the disturber from the house. The young buck went in again and was put out a second time, the former doing much cursing and threatening during the rumpus. The intruder then armed himself with a stick, and as Grimes stood in the door with a gun advanced on him saying one of them was going to be killed, and Grimes shot him.

The State began its testimony, turning the witnesses over to Grimes for cross examination which he did very cleverly. When the State rested the old man had his witnesses called and examined them in a way that caused the members of the bar to sit up and take notice, and afforded much amusement.

At the conclusion of the testimony Grimes made a speech to the jury, and notwithstanding the solicitor had the last speech, Grimes had outlined his defense so well as to convince the jury of his innocence and they gave him a verdict of not guilty.

price for their cotton and at the same time seek to attract to their respective stores the trade of these growers. It is this policy that is believed to have had a tendency for some years past to build up the cotton markets of the small towns through the county, where the merchants are the cotton buyers, instead of leaving this to cotton brokers, as is the case in Raleigh.

United States Deputy Marshall Thomas W. Vincent has returned from Randolph county, where, on Tuesday night, he arrested Daisy Caudle, a pretty young white woman, on a warrant charging the use of the United States mails in a scheme for purpose of defrauding and black-mailing. The Caudle woman is said to have confined her operations solely to ministers and it was through the assistance of Rev. G. T. Milloway, pastor of Burkehead M. P. church at Winston, that Post office Inspector C. H. B. Leonard secured his first working strings. The Caudle woman is alleged to have mailed letters to ministers in Winston, Liberty, Mayodan, High Point, Ashboro and numbers of other places, in which she threatened to report them to the conference on charges of improper relations with her provided a letter was not received, by the next mail with a $10 bill enclosed. Whether she got any tens or not is unknown, but it is certain that she tackled the wrong man when she bucked Rev. Milloway.—Greensboro News.

Some needed work is being done on the sidewalk across the street from the graded school. It has long been the worst in town.

STEPHEN C. WOOTEN DEAD.

Lifeless Body Found in His room Early This Morning.

Mr. Stephen C. Wooten, a young attorney here, was found dead this morning just before 8 o'clock, in his room at the Taylor boarding house on Dickinson avenue. Mr. Wooten attended court Wednesday, going to his room early in the evening. Not going down to supper, Mr. B. F. Taylor went up to his room about 7 o'clock to see if he wanted anything. Mr. Wooten told Mr. Taylor that he did not care for any supper, as he did not feel well and wanted to retire so as to get up early this morning and prepare for some business he had in court today.

Not having come down by breakfast time this morning, Mr. Taylor again went up to Mr. Wooten's room a little before 9 o'clock. Opening the door he saw Mr. Wooten lying across the edge of the bed his feet and legs being up on the bed and his head and shoulders on the floor. It was seen at a glance that he was dead.

Coroner Laughinghouse was notified and when he went to examine the body he deemed an inquest unnecessary, pronouncing that Mr. Wooten had died of epileptic convulsion. He evidently had a struggle during the convulsion, from the position in which his body was found, and his neck was broken by his head and shoulders falling off upon the floor. It is thought he had been dead several hours when found.

Mr. Wooten was one of those badly injured in the automobile accident on the 5th of November when Messrs. J. L. Fleming and Harry Skinner, Jr. were killed. After the accident Mr. Wooten was for some weeks in a critical condition, but finally recovered and resumed his law practice. He was apparently as well as usual, with the exception of occasionally having a convulsion.

Stephen C. Wooten was about 26 years of age and a son of Mr. A. M. Wooten, of Falkland township. He was born in Edgecombe county, his parents moving to Pitt when he was very young. He attended Whitsett institute and then the University, taking up the law course at the latter. After obtaining his license about three years ago he came to Greenville to practice his profession. After remaining here a while he moved to Farmville, where he remained a few months, when he again came to Greenville and resumed practice here.

Mr. Wooten is survived by his father and mother, several brothers and sisters. The family was advised of his death by telephone this morning, and a brother came down to take charge of his body. The remains will be taken this evening to the home of his parents near Fountain and the interment will take place tomorrow in the family burial ground.

Judges of Debate

The judges of the debate to take place in Washington, Friday night, between members of the debating societies of Greenville and Washington schools, will be Rev. M. T. Flyler, of Washington; Prof. H. E. Austin, of Greenville and Prof. R. G. Kittrell, of Tarboro.

Several Greenville people will go down with the home boys to hear the debate.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., April 27, 1910.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity:

In most lines of business a tendency toward dullness is noted this week. The unsettled condition of the cotton market has probably had some effect and the destruction of the growing crops, especially cotton, throughout much of the southern territory, has had deleterious effect on southern trade, dealers fearing that collections will be affected. Sales of shoes are up to the average for this season. Dry goods are quiet. Wholesale milliners have had a favorable season and increased sales. Produce is quiet, shipments of early spring vegetables being the principal feature in this line. Building is active. Retail trade is fair, but has been affected by cool weather.

Cold Wave Will Not Hurt South.

Atlanta, Ga., April 27.—"Every planter whose cotton has been injured should replant in corn and not attempt to grow a second stand of cotton," said State Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson yesterday. Mr. Hudson was discussing the effect of this week's cold wave on the cotton crop, at least 50 per cent of which has been ruined.

"Cotton never grows well where it has been injured by the cold" added Mr. Hudson. Mr. Hudson is inclined to take an optimistic view of the situation in the South. "What the planters have lost in quantity will be counterbalanced by the increased price of cotton, which its scarcity will cause, and the South will suffer little financially by the cold wave," he says.

Government Issues Statement.

Washington, April 27.—The sharp criticism of Attorney General Wickersham's prosecution of the cotton people, led the Department of Justice to issue the following statement:

"The action of the government in instituting an investigation of the alleged cotton pool should not in any way be construed as an attack on legitimate operations on any cotton or produce exchange. The proceedings, being on before the grand jury and not completed, cannot with propriety be discussed at the present time.

The Better Way.

Through the good offices of a powerful American residing in Paris an ambitious young girl from our west obtained an audience with the late Constant Coquelin of the Comedie Francaise, who graciously consented to hear her recite.

After listening to a classic or two the great French actor went up to the young aspirant for histrionic honors and placed his hand on her head, as in benediction.

"My dear child," said he, "marry soon. Goodby."—Youth's Companion.

At the Reception.

"I understand, Miss Araminta," said the professor, "that you are inclined toward literature."

"Yes," said the blushing spinster. "I wrote for the Bugle Magazine last month."

"Indeed! May I ask what?" asked the professor.

"I addressed all the envelopes for the rejected manuscripts," said Araminta proudly.—Harper's Weekly.

A Cake Worth While.

There is an exhibition in one of the show windows of the establishment of E. N. Penny, Inc., on South Front street, one of the largest cakes ever displayed in Wilmington, baked especially for this establishment by Farris' Bakery. The cake is 16 inches high, 28 inches long and 18 inches wide and weighs 50 pounds. It is very attractive in appearance, with beautiful decorations, and bears the name of the company in colored letters. Twenty dozen eggs, and a large quantity of flour, butter, sugar, etc., were required for the immense creation of the baker's art. The cake will be cut Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and will be served to the patrons of the store. Mr. E. N. Penny will assay the role of chief carver and every person entering the store during the afternoon will be invited to partake of the delicacy. Three dimes were baked in the cake and those who find the pieces of silver will be given prizes.—Wilmington Star.

The Certainty of Fate.

The Mohammedans have a fable which they repeat to illustrate the certainty of fate.

A sultan was once asked by his favorite, the grand vizier, for permission to leave at once for Smyrna, although a brilliant court fete was then in progress. Upon being asked his reason for such haste the vizier replied:

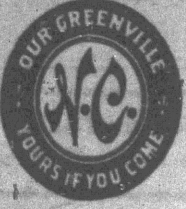

"Because I just saw the angel of death yonder in the crowd. He looked at me so earnestly that I know he has come for me. I wish to escape him."

"Go! Go at once!" said the sultan, who then beckoned to the angel and asked why the latter had looked so earnestly at the vizier.

"I was wondering," replied the angel of death, "why he was here, for I have orders to kill him in Smyrna."

Waste of Food on Big Liners.

As to food, waste the most extraordinary is perhaps found on the big liners that carry three classes of passengers, says the London Chronicle. You might imagine that the elaborate dishes prepared for the saloon would be passed down from class to class and that the poorer would eat of the crumbs that are carried from the rich man's table. Not a bit of it. The second class would resent a "menu" that does not go round, and even the steerage passengers would quarrel if the fare were not the same for all. And so the big liners pitch good food into the ocean.

The Red Book Magazine.

The portrait section of the Red Book Magazine for May is devoted to the latest studies of twenty-eight of those famous American actresses who will preside over the various booths at the Actor's Fund Fair to be held in New York, beginning May ninth. A more representative collection of theatrical portraits has never before been published. The literary features of May Red Book Magazine are fully up to the standard long ago set by this most interesting of the fiction magazines.

The leading story by James Oppenheim presents that author's sympathetic character, Dr. Rast, in a new situation and one that in the presentation will touch the heart of every reader. Richard Le Gallienne contributes one of his exquisite fancies in "The Village-Near the Venusberg." A story as unusual as it is moving carries the queer title, "Tippy, the Jerk Comes Home." One does not recall ever before having read so humanly appealing a study of so called "tramp life." William Hamilton Osborne offers another of his interesting "Rorothy Dacres" stories, and Elliott Flower has a humorous story of a big city police department, no less plausible than amusing. "The Love That Never Died," by Emerson Taylor is a singularly moving story and the note of coming summer is humorously sounded in Walter Jones' "B Secondary Surrenders to Spring." Other well known writers of the sort of short fiction that people like to read represented in the number are, Walter Archer Frost, Rorace

The Progressive Farmer heard the other day of one merchant in a little piedmont town of about 1,000 population who sold $21,600 worth of Western meat last year. "Every pound of imported pork, bacon, or beef brought into the South from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana; every egg brought from the Dakotas or New York; every pound of butter brought from Wisconsin, and every mule brought from Missouri," says The Progressive Farmer, "is a reflection upon the intelligence and enterprise of every Southern farmer. Every county paper should start a campaign for stork raising in its territory. We are not so sure about the mules. A Monroe paper a few weeks ago undertook to show that our farmers saved money by buying their mules, instead of raising them, and made out a pretty good case." —Charlotte Chronicle.

A Resolution!

WHEREAS:

For a number of years I have been paying interest to "John Jones" for money borrowed which is secured by a mortgage on my property and not having made a single payment to reduce the amount due him, in all these years,

POISING OF THE TROUT.

Its Resemblance to the Hovering of the Kestrel in the Air.

As the kestrel is to the clouds so is the trout to the crystal waters. Both kestrels and trout display that magical poising as if suspended by invisible threads—only now and then, when cross currents are encountered, is a sign given to show that life itself is not in suspense.

A brief agitation of the kestrel's wings, a swishing of the trout's tail—the cross current is weathered, and bird or fish poises motionless again. And as when walking along we are pulled up in ever fresh wonder by the sight of the hovering kestrel, so we must needs pause on a bridge when there is a trout in the stream below.

He looks his best poising with head to the stream—a shapely form against the background of smooth brown pebbles and waving emerald weeds. Lending over the bridge with eyes on the trout a vision is conjured—an alluring fly drops on the water, then a slack line tightens, there is a song from the reel, a rod bends, there follows a dazzling dance of vermilion spots against the green of the bank.

Or as we come to the bridge on a winter's day we think we hear a mighty plashing of water over the pebbles, which turns out to be the play of thirty or forty trout, the play of the last round of some water tourney. As they come to the surface, rolling and wallowing, their great fat sides look twice as big as when seen through the clear water. They almost make a dam across the stream as they jostle each other, seeking for the choicest places on the spawning bed—London Standard.

"Berlin, Germany, U. S."

"Say, is this letter addressed right?" asked a subject of Germany, holding up an elaborately decorated envelope before the eyes of a postman the other day. The latter surveyed the writing closely. There were a name, a street and then the city and country, "Berlin, Germany." Below were written in bold characters the letters "U. S." "Oh, you don't want 'U. S.' on there," remarked the postman. "Berlin, Germany, isn't in the United States." "I don't mean United States by 'U. S.," remarked the man from Kaiser Wilhelm's land. "I mean 'up stairs.' This friend of mine lives on the second floor."—Buffalo Commercial.

His Little Pun.
An inveterate wit and punster asked the captain of a craft loaded with boards how he managed to get dinner on the passage.

"Why," replied the skipper, "we always cook aboard."
"Cook a board, do you?" rejoined the wag. "Then I see you have been well provided with provisions this trip, at all events."—London Graphic.
