HAPPENINGS WITHIN THE OLD NORTH STATE GATHERED FROM OUR EXCHANGES TODAY.

Newly Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

Fayetteville, May 2.—Capt. James D. McNeil was today elected mayor of Fayetteville without opposition in the city election.

Wilson, May 2.—While at work this morning at 10.30 o'clock in the establishment of William Walls, Tom Herring received an apoplectic stroke and remained unconscious until death came five hours later.

Mr. T. H. Fountain, who was hurt in a saw mill accident near Eagle Rock last Wednesday and brought here for treatment died yesterday morning about 9 o'clock from the injuries received.—Wilson Times.

Winston-Salem, May 2.—Two colored men, Harry Stockton, aged 25, and William Nash, aged 50, both unmarried colored men, were crushed to death at noon today by a cave-in while the men were at work in a deep sewer ditch. Three other workmen had narrow escapes.

News reaches this city of the death of Rev. S. S. Barber, of Swan Quarter. The end came last night and the deceased was in his 81st year. Mr. Barber was the oldest preacher in the East Carolina diocese of the Episcopal church. His son, Rev. Milton Barber, is rector of Christ church, Raleigh.—Washington News.

Henry Coker, a young white man who was stabbed in the abdomen by John Faircloth, in an altercation at LaGrange, two weeks ago, died Saturday evening of his injuries and after an inquest by Coroner Greene, Faircloth was arrested and brought to this city and lodged in jail, pending a preliminary hearing before a justice of the peace. Coker was about 30 years of age and formally lived near the Norfolk & Southern Railway bridge, at Neuse river, two miles from Kinston.—Kinston Free Press.

Wilmington, May 2.—The Star tomorrow will carry the editorial announcement of the retirement of Editor Robert L. Gray who leaves May 15th for Richmond, Va., to become chief editorial writer on the Richmond Virginian in the meantime spending a brief holiday at his former home in Raleigh. Mr. Gray carries with him to his new home the very best wishes of a host of friends in Wilmington for his success in his new and larger field of endeavor.

J. R. B. Caraway, who was convicted in the Federal court in New Bern, last week, of misappropriation of funds and false entries on the books of the First National Bank, was Saturday night taken to Raleigh and thence to Atlanta to serve his term of five years in the Federal prison. The officers in charge of Mr. Caraway out of courtesy to him, allowed him to sit in a seat alone, without shackles, and when the train passed this city, he was observed quietly smoking a pipe.—Kinston Free Press.

Raleigh, May 2.—C. B. Edwards, one of the founders of the firm of Edwards and Broughton company, well known printing house here, has retired from the business on account of advanced years and a desire to spend the residue of his life in the bosom of his family without the cares and responsibilities of business. On the occasion of his leave taking from the more than 100 employes he was presented by them with scarfpin and cuff buttons set with sapphires.

During the recent cold spell one frequently heard persons say it was the coldest weather for the time of the year ever experienced. We call such persons' attention to the following records given by a correspondent of The Wadesboro Ansonian: "The frost this morning (Tuesday) was the heaviest since about April 10. 'Twas very plainly visible between the cotton rows when the sun was more than an hour high. In 1908 we had frost the first and second days of May. In 1905 we had enough to kill cotton plants on May 10. June 15, 1904, I reaped wheat with machine till dinner with coat on. The lowest temperature my record shows for August was the 29th of that month, 1905, when the mercury stood at 58 degrees, F." Most people's memory is very short when it comes to weather conditions of the past. Bad weather is like a bad cold in one respect. The present, barring "the winter of something or other," is usually the worst ever experienced.—Charlotte Observer.

Morganton, May 1.—There died at the State hospital here last night a very remarkable character in the person of Mr. John Greenlee of McDowell county. He was 18 years old when the civil war broke out and was among the first volunteers from his county. He fought under the stars and bars for four long years and was thrice wounded. His last wound was received in the final charge at Appomattox, the bullet from enemy imbedding itself in the spinal column, depriving this noble soldier at the same time of his health and reason. He was brought home from the war with his mind a blank. For forty five long years the power of reason has been denied him and last night after a weary struggle of 67 years the noble old warrior was called home. Only a man of iron constitution could have withstood the suffering and torture as this man has undergone all through these long weary years. Mr. Greenlee was first a patient at the Raleigh institution and when the Western North Carolina hospital was opened was transferred here and was among the oldest, if not the oldest, patients of the institution, being number nine on the roll. His brother Mr. Robert Greenlee, a prominent business man of Marion, came here this morning for the body and carried it back to the old home of his youth for interment.

Annual B. & L. Meeting.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of The Home Building and Loan Association of Greenville, will be held in the mayor's office Tuesday night, May 3rd, at 8:15 o'clock. Every stockholder should be present. The directors are called to hold their last meeting before the annual meeting at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in the office of the secretary.

H. A. White,
53 Secretary and Treasurer.

Announcement.
I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of sheriff of Pitt county, subject to the Democratic primary.
62 Joseph McLawhorn.

CHAPEL HILL NOTES.

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 2.—The memorial services to Dr. Eben Alexander, the late dean of the university, were held in Gerrard hall Sunday afternoon. The exercises were very personal and simple, as simple as the life of the great man in whose memory they were held. Rev. R. W. Hogue opened the services with a beautiful prayer. Dr. Kemp P. Battle presided and in an introductory address spoke of the brilliant mind, the statesmanship, and the beautiful home life of Dr. Alexander. Mr. A. H. Wolfe, president of the senior class, spoke feelingly of the students' love of Dr. Alexander. Prof. W. S. Bernard, of the department of Greek, with simple eloquence interpreted the life of Dr. Alexander. He found the outstanding characteristic of his life to be expressed by the Greek word eidos, sort of pity, ruth, sympathy, an indefinable tenderness and something more. He exhibited this same fine quality whether at the Court of Greece, in the dean's office or on the streets of Chapel Hill. The principal address was delivered by Mr. Josephus Daniels, the gifted editor of the Raleigh News and Observer. Mr. Daniels spoke for the trustees and alumni. In an interesting and comprehensive manner he sketched the life of Dr. Alexander. Sprung from forebears who were pioneers in the founding and building of the city of Knoxville, a high honor graduate and a loyal son of Yale, chairman of the faculty of the University of Tennessee, professor of Greek in the University of North Carolina, American Ambassador to Greece, and Dean of the University are the facts with which Mr. Daniels paid a rare eulogium to a great man. Mr. Daniels gave his address a personal touch that added much to its interest and charm. He told of Senator Ransom's hesitancy in approving President Cleveland's appointment of Dr. Alexander and how the old general was finally won over by Dr. Winston's appeal to his love for his alma mater and his state.

Senator Ransom lived to bless the day he approved Dr. Alexander's appointment. The people of Greece and the press of both countries voiced the opinion that Dr. Alexander was perhaps the best minister that any country ever sent to Greece.

Tulane University of New Orleans is making arrangements for a pentangular debate between Tulane, North Carolina, Virginia, Vanderbilt and Missouri. This debate will require two years for completion. It will be one of most significant debating contests engaged in by any of the American universities. Involving such cities as New Orleans, Nashville and St. Louis (not to mention Chapel Hill) and such states as Louisiana, North Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee and Missouri, this pentangular debate will be interstate and national in interest and consequence.

Carolina lost in baseball to the navy 1 to 0, won from Georgetown 5 to 1, and from Wake Forest 1 to 0. In the Wake Forest game only 29 men faced Hedgepeth and not a single man got even the semblance of a hit.

Plan for Lodge and Office Building.

We have seen a plan for the contemplated lodge and office building on Five Points. If the plan can be carried out the building will be a beauty. We would like to see the building go up.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Old Fellows meet tonight. The peek-a-bow need not be afraid any longer.

The boosters of the best gardens are next in order.

In less than a month it will be tax listing time again.

Installation service in the Presbyterian church tonight.

The flies are having their inning, too, and mostly indoors.

C. S. Carr is having his residence on west Fifth street remodeled.

Ain't it peculiar that when the weather turns warm people catch cold?

You see them walking the streets now with fishing poles in their hands.

Annual meeting of stockholders of The Home Building & Loan Association tonight in the mayor's office.

J. S. Mooring is wearing that pleased smile and receiving the congratulations of friends over the arrival of a girl at his home.

The county commissioners and building committee will hold another meeting Friday on the new court house and jail matter.

Seventeen Candidates.

There are seventeen candidates from fourteen counties in North Carolina who aspire to the position of a member of the North Carolina Corporation Commission to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. B. F. Aycock, of Fremont. While there are simple applications from some of these, without the matter of endorsements being taken up, yet seventeen names have been placed before Governor Kitchin for appointment.

Among those most strongly and prominently endorsed are: Mr. S. O. Middleton, of Hallsville; Mr. E. B. Lewis, of Kinston; ex-Judge A. W. Graham, of Oxford; Maj. Henry A. London, of Pittsboro; Mr. John H. Pearson of Morganton, and Mr. Henry C. Brown, the present chief clerk of the commission.

The other gentlemen whose names are before the governor are from the following counties: Pasquotank, Onslow, Wake, Beaufort, Guilford, Wayne, Runcombe and Orange.—Raleigh and Observer.

Jack White to Leave.

N. G. White, who has been manager of the insurance department of the Greensboro Loan and Trust company for the past year, has severed his connection and will leave after a 30 day rest for the Pacific coast to engage in the same business. Mr. White has sold his interests in the local agency to O. L. Grubbs, Southern Express agent at Winston, and formerly of this city, and Mr. Grubbs and family will arrive today to make Greensboro their future home. Mr. Grubbs will begin his duties here Wednesday.—Greensboro.

Sentenced to Attend Church.

When Judge Eure yesterday sentenced a defendant in his court to pay a fine of $100 and to attend the Presbyterian church at least once every Sunday, an attorney present remarked that it was the first time he had ever heard a Methodist sentence a man to the Presbyterian church and he wonders why the unusual punishment! Great joke.—Greensboro Record.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

J. S. Norman went to Tarboro today.

D. M. Jones went to Coneeoe today.

Mrs. T. E. Hooker is visiting in Raleigh.

R. J. Cobb went to Rocky Mount today.

Ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis went to Norfolk today.

Dr. J. C. Greene, of LaGrange, was here Monday afternoon.

Miss Gertrude Critcher returned Monday from Farmville.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Outlaw went to Raleigh Monday evening.

Miss Birdie McKinney returned Monday evening from Williamston.

Mrs. Moore, of Hamilton, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. W. Whitehurst.

E. V. Smith went to Raleigh today. He will be gone several day on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trefy, of Scranton, Pa., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Trefy's brother, W. A. Bowen.

President E. G. Flanagan left Monday evening for Goldsboro to attend the annual meeting of the State Funeral Directors Association.

L. C. Brogden, State inspector of elementary schools, was here today and delivered an address to the teachers of East Carolina Teachers' Training school.

Walter H. Savory, representative of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., was here today to talk over the linotype with The Reflector and take an order for a machine.

S. T. White, Great Sachem; R. C. Flanagan, chairman of the board of appeals, and J. R. Corey, representative of Witalacoochee Tribe No. 35, left Monday evening for Concord to attend the Great Council of Red Men. Dr. D. L. James, chairman of the judiciary committee, will go this evening.

Of Great Importance to Farmers.

St. Louis, Mo., May 2.—An event of unusual importance to every farmer in the United States will be the eighth semi annual meeting of the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union to be held in this city May 2-8 inclusive, and from present indications it will be the largest gathering of farmers ever held in the United States. While the membership of the organization is composed mainly of southern farmers, the American Society of Equity, similar organization composed of northern farmers, will hold its convention at the same time. The combined membership of these two organizations is more than $5,000,000, and the total number of delegates exceeds 90,000. Representatives from the American Federation of Labor and kindred organizations will also be present.

Woman Stabbed.

There was a row Monday night among some colored women gathered in a restaurant run by Tempy Yellowby, on Fifth street, and the outcome was one woman being severely stabbed by another.

Schoolmates Marry at 75.

Braintree, Mass., May 2.—In the presence of a large number of friends ex-representative Fred Hanson, of Brockton, Mass., and Mrs. Emily J. Cole were married today at the home of the bride in this city by the Rev. W. Waldon, chaplain of the Massachusetts house of representatives. Both Mr. Hanson and his bride were born on May 2, 1835 and celebrated their birthday by becoming married. They had been schoolmates more than sixty years ago, when their families lived in Weymouth. Both are still healthy and vigorous. The marriage of today is Mr. Hanson's fourth and his bride's third. Both are prominent in Grand Army circles, Mr. Hanson having served in the civil war and both his bride's former husbands having been members of the Grand Army.

Women's Meetings.

The End of Century club will meet with Mrs. W. A. Bowen on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock.

Thirteen applicants for appointment as corporation commissioner makes an unlucky bunch—for all but one.

We hasten to tell the Wilmington Dispatch that a Boston doctor has announced that kissing is a perfectly safe pastime.

Newspapers all over the country report that the census enumerating has been poorly done. From some of the appointments made for enumerators this is no more than could have been expected.

By misplacing the head liner, the Gaffney, S. O., Ledger gives a lot of happenings in North Carolina as Palmetto State news, and those in South Carolina as Tar Heel State news. They read just as well that way, but North Carolina does not like to stand for some of the things happening across the line.

Soon after Judge O. H. Guion resigned, it was stated in an exchange that the reason for his resigning was that he intended to enter the race for congress in the third district. Judge Guion has set this report at rest by saying that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for congress. His reason for resigning as judge was to return to his law practice, which he liked better and found more remunerative.

Respectfully Dedicated.

Don't be a kicker. You have heard of the man who kicked when he was young, and he kicks when he's old; he kicks when he's hot, and he kicks when he's cold; and he kicks at the shade, and he kicks at the sun, and the kicker keeps kicking until he is done. He'll kick at the garments the angels will wear, and he'll kick at the methods of wearing their hair. He'll kick at the music the angels will sing, and he'll kick at defects he'll find in his wing. He'll kick at St. Peter for letting him in, and he'll kick at the virtues, as nothing but sin. He'll keep on a kicking, and call all a "sell," till a kick from St. Peter will land him in—Well, are you a kicker?—Charlotte Observer.

The Rainbow in the West.

whose ages range from 18 to 50 years and older, declare most positively that they never saw a rainbow in the west and do not believe there ever was any such thing. One citizen, who is more than 50 years old, says that the sight of a rainbow in the west would scare him even worse than Halley's comet would. But on the other hand there are many witnesses both young and old, to the fact that rainbows are sometimes seen in the west.—Waxhaw Enterprise

Politics and Good Roads.

While it is right to demand that candidates for office declare for good roads, especially representatives in the various legislatures, yet any disposition on the part of an office-seeker to ride good roads, not because he loves good roads especially, but because he thinks it will help him, should be frowned on. Politics will kill the efforts of any community to secure improvement in roads and the matter will bear the closest watching.—Southern Good Roads.

The merchants of a town should combine to keep every foreign ad. out of their home paper by buying all the space the editor has to spare and utilize it for their own good. This would place the editor under obligations to them and he could freely and conscientiously blow the trumpet in their interest only.—Gaffney, S. O., Ledger.

An exchange says that "one-third of the fools in the country think they can beat a lawyer in expounding the law. One half think they can beat the doctor in healing the sick. Two-thirds of them think they can put the minister in a hole in preaching the gospel; and all of them think they can beat the editor in running a newspaper."

A Dead Stomach, of What Use is it?
Thou—ah! yes hundreds of thousands of people throughout America are taking the slow death treatment daily. They are murdering their own stomach, the best friend they have, and in their sublime ignorance they think they are putting aside the laws of nature.

This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny. These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of repulsive and other strong digesters made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach. Mi-o-na stomach tablets relieve distressed stomach in five minutes; they do more. Taken regularly for a few weeks they build up the run down stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach and headache will go.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold by everywhere and by Coward & Wooten, who guarantee them for a box. Booth's Pills cure constipation, 25c.

Take Your Time

—plenty of it, and be extremely careful how you spend your piano money.

Terms amount to very little—glittering promises cover a multitude of faults—you can get satisfactory terms anywhere, but a satisfactory piano at a precious few places.

We have 8 makes under grades and classification as follows: highest medium and low. Each grade is characterized by the price we ask for it. What ever price you are willing to pay for a piano, if bought from us, you will be getting legitimate value, as you won't be deceived in the grade you are getting. We have several self-player Pianos at bargain prices.

A Cold Storage
In Your Home

You can not be too careful in buying a refrigerator, as much of the illness in some families can be traced directly to using insanitary refrigerators. We have carefully investigated all the many makes of refrigerators, and have selected a line which we can positively guarantee to be the cleanest and most sanitary refrigerators made. No germs are possible with the smooth, seamless surface, and they can be kept spotless and germless for years to come. One of these refrigerators will soon pay for itself in saving of ice bills. Before you buy let us show you our complete line of perfectly constructed refrigerators. They cost no more than the ordinary kind.

JUST A MISTAKE.

The Antique Collector and a Bargain Jewel Casket.

The collector had been sneering at Americans for their ignorance of antiques. We had been walking in Venice, down a narrow calle while he was speaking. "Look at that old brass scale," he resumed, pointing to a fish stall in the little outdoor market on which we had just emerged. "There's a gem, not very old, but of the finest seventeenth century Venetian work. If you saw that in a New York dealer's, all cleaned up, you'd give up a good deal for it, but you'd 'a' passed it by a dozen times if I hadn't spoken about it. See that old junk stand over there? I never pass a thing like that. You can never tell what you may pick up—if you only know."

We had scarcely reached the stand when the collector thrust out his hand with the swiftness of a hawk darting on its prey and swooped upon a little jewel box.

"Carnelian! Russian, I should say, from the Ural mountains. It's not of great value, but it's a pretty little thing if it was cleaned up. It's mine, anyway." To the keeper of the stall:

"The Venetian slowly uncoiled himself and came down from the church steps, where he had been sleeping.

"Does the signore want the pretty trifle? The signore knows its value better than I, and he'll be generous?"

"I'll give you a lira for it. It isn't worth it, but one mustn't be hard with the poor."

"I had hoped I should get five!"

"Well, I'll make it two."

"It is the signore's."

"There, you see!" exultingly chuckled the collector. "That's what it is to know. An exquisite carnelian Russian jewel casket for 40 cents! You'd never have thought of looking among a lot of rusty old iron for a thing like that, would you?"

While speaking he held the box with a miser's clutch.

"May I see it, please?"

He reluctantly handed it to me as though fearing I might make a sudden dash down the calle with his treasure.

"Pshaw!" said I contemptuously, handing the box back to him. "It's not carnelian at all. It's glass—nothing but glass."

"Glass!" drawing a magnifier from his waistcoat pocket and mutely examining the purchase. "I'm—I'm afraid—it is!" he said sheepishly.

"Of course it is."

"I—don't know," sadly. "Yes, it is glass! You see, it's so dirty. Oh, well, we all make mistakes at times. Do you want it?" disgust taking the place of sadness. "You can have it for a quarter."

"Well, I guess it's worth a quarter." I think my eyes must have snapped. "Yes."

And that is how an almost unique example of the cinque cento came into my collection of Venetian glass.—New York Post.

Absentminded.

A Canadian farmer noted for his absentmindedness went to town one day and transacted his business with the utmost precision. He started on his way home, however, with the firm conviction that he had forgotten something, but what it was he could not recall. As he neared home the conviction increased, and three times he stopped his horse and went carefully through his pocket-book in a vain endeavor to discover what he had forgotten. In due course he reached home and was met by his daughter, who looked at him in surprise and exclaimed, "Why, father, where have you left mother?"

Not Actually Necessary.

The lawyer proceeded to examine the witness. "Pardon the question, Mrs. Chucksley," he said, "but your answer constitutes a part of the record. How old are you?" "Why, you ought to know, Mr. Sharpe," she answered. "My birthday is the same as yours, only I was born ten years later than you were." "Ah, yes; I remember. Well, it isn't important, anyhow. Go ahead, Mrs. Chucksley and tell the jury what you know about this case."—Chicago Tribune.

Wholesale.

A Frenchman was teaching in a large school where he had a reputation for making some queer mistakes. One day he was taking a class which was rather disorderly. What with the heat and troublesome boys he was very snappish. Having punished several boys and sent one to the bottom of the class, he at last shouted out in a passion, "Ze whole class go to ze bottom!"

A MONSTER FLAG.

It Floats Above London When Parliament Is Sitting.

Probably few who see the union jack flying over the Victoria tower at Westminster when parliament is sitting realize that the flag which flutters so high above the inhabitants of London is one of the most remarkable pieces of bunting in the world.

Small as it seems to the upturned gaze more than 450 feet beneath it, this floating emblem is so enormous that its outspread bunting would completely hide from view a couple of suburban villas. It is sixty feet long and forty-five feet wide—so capacious, in fact, that 3,000 persons could find standing room on it. The mast from whose dizzy summit it flutters is as tall as the Duke of York's column, rises from a base little less exalted than the cross of St. Paul's cathedral and weighs sixteen tons.

To reach the foot of this towering mast one must climb 350 feet up the dark interior of the Victoria tower. On entering the tower through the low iron door at its foot and gazing upward one sees far above a blue light, apparently no larger than a man's hand, which marks the summit of the tower, and to this opening the only access is by means of a fragile, spiral staircase which winds around the dark walls, clinging to them as if for support.

As we climb round and round this frail "Jacob's ladder" we pass story after story, each in itself a commodious house of sixteen rooms, until, panting and perspiring, we pass the eleventh of these stories and emerge gratefully into the open air.

Arrived at the summit, more marvels await us. We find that the parapet, which from the bridge far below looks but a tiny speck of stone, is actually thrice the height of the average man. The crowns which adorn the four turrets are five feet across and weigh a ton apiece. The lions which guard the corners are leviathans, towering twenty feet high, and the roof of the tower, we gasp to learn, would turn the scale at 400 tons.

But perhaps the greatest wonder of all as we stand on this dizzy eminence is the far stretching view of the world's capital, dwarfed to the dimensions of a toy metropolis, along whose narrow ribbons of streets men crawl as ants and the largest vehicles are slow moving points of black.—London Tit-Bits.

A BROKEN ENGAGEMENT.

The Romance That Kept Charles Villiers Single All His Life.

"Charles Villiers, long the 'father of the house of commons,' never married, but he was the hero of a romance which is described in the 'Reminiscences and Correspondence of Mme. Olga Norikoff' as having lasted all his life.

Villiers was once on the eye of marrying a very rich spinster. The lady, however, was imprudent enough one day to say to her fiancé that she knew very well he only wanted to marry her money and not herself.

Villiers' aristocratic dignity manifested itself. He took his hat, bowed to the lady and said that after that remark there could be no more question of marriage between them. Off he went.

Strangely enough, the deserted spinster spent the next thirty years in trying in vain to see him to make up. He never came near her or gave her a chance of coming near him. "And do you know," remarked Lady Gilbert, who told me the story, "she still loves him and cherishes his memory."

"Oh, that is charming! Quite a romance!" I exclaimed. "Tell the lady to lunch with me tomorrow." We were acquainted. "Charles Villiers is coming."

Lady Gilbert delivered my message. The two old people met at my hotel, after which the lady humbly asked Charles Villiers to call on her. He accepted the invitation. When we were alone together she said: "Do you know, Mme. Norikoff, he is not in the least altered after all these years. He is exactly the same in looks and manners."

Of that, of course, I could have no opinion. But surely thirty years before the old Charles Villiers was neither half bent nor half blind. However, the old time friendship was renewed and lasted until the lady's death a few years later.

She left him the greatest part of her very great fortune. Charles Villiers became very rich in money, but unfortunately he was then very rich in years also.

Kindness to Teacher.

Jimmy," said the fond mother to her smart nine-year-old, "what became of that fruit cake I made for you as a treat yesterday? Did you eat it?" "No, mamma," answered Jimmy, with a grin; "I gave it to the teacher instead."

"That was very nice and generous of you, Jimmy," complimented his mother. "And did your teacher eat it?"

"Yes; I think so," answered Jimmy. "She wasn't at school today."

A JOKE ON ANSON.

It Reacted on the Players the Captain Was Training.

In an article on baseball training camps Hugh S. Fullerton, in the American Magazine, recounts the following joke played on "Cap" Anson, the leader of the famous old White Stockings, during a training season some years ago:

"Anson was one of the most tireless runners in the world, and training under him was a nightmare to his players. Anse would drive his men for three hours in practice, then lead them in long runs, placing himself at the head of the procession and setting a steady, jogging pace. If he felt well the morning training was a Marathon route. I have seen players resort to all kinds of tricks to avoid those killing runs.

"One afternoon in New Orleans years ago Anson ordered ten laps around the field after practice, which on the old grounds was nearly ten miles. The afternoon was hot, one of those wiling southern spring days that sap the life out of men fresh from the rigors of a northern winter. The players fell into line, grumbling and scowling. Back of left field a high board fence separated the ball grounds from one of the old cemeteries, and near the foul line a board was off the fence. The first-time the paunting athletes passed the hole in the fence Dahlen gave a quick glance to see if Anson was looking and dived head first through the gap into the cemetery. The others continued on around the lot, but on the second round Lange, Ryan, Kittridge and Decker dived after Dahlen and joined him in the cemetery. The third trip saw the line dwindle to four followers, with Anson still leading. The fourth found only Anson and poor Bill Schriver, who had the bad luck to be directly behind his captain, plodding on, and on the next trip Schriver made the leap for life.

"Majestically alone, Anson tolled on, while the onlookers writhed with delight. Perhaps their behavior aroused suspicion or the absence of following footsteps attracted 'Cap's' attention. He stopped, looked at the vacant field; a grim grin overspread his red face, and he resumed the jogging. Straight to that fence he plodded, and, sticking his head through the hole, he beheld his team leaning against the above ground tombs, smoking and laughing. Just for that he marshaled them into line again and, sitting in the stand, watched them grimly until every man had completed ten rounds."

A SHARK'S EYE.

The Effect It Had on the Skipper When He Was a Boy.

"Ever been mesmerized by a fish?" said the skipper. "No? Well, I have been many a time. It was a shark that did it.

"I don't know the scientific name of this particular variety of shark, but it abounds on the Nantucket shoals. Full grown these sharks are from eight to ten feet long and weigh from 500 to 700 pounds. They have a broad head with the mouth well under it. They have saw teeth, five rows of them, about an inch and a half long, and they can flatten the lot and chew their gums. But for a human being the peril is in the eyes.

"I don't believe in man eating sharks. I believe that if a shark is in bloody water he gets excited and will snap at anything he sees, but let one of those fellows get his eye on you and you don't know where you are at.

"They have a habit of coming up alongside of your live boxes and lying there while you fish. Then when you get anything on your line the shark has it off before you get a chance to pull.

"I remember the first time I saw one of them. I was a boy at the time, and one of these fellows had come up alongside of my live box, and I put my hand out and touched his back. He didn't seem to mind it at all, but a minute later when I stood up I caught sight of his eyes, or one of them. Well, sir, I just tumbled back in the boat and was as helpless as a jellyfish out of water.

"I don't know how to explain it. The eyes of this fish are no bigger than the point of your little finger, but there is something that comes out of them that makes you tumble all in a heap. Many a time after that did I have a similar experience, and I know of a lot of men who have felt the same effect. The only explanation I could suggest is that the shark's eye has some sort of mesmeric power."—New York Sun.

A Powerful Weapon.

They were examining an old fashioned shotgun of murderous build. It looked as if it would be an effective weapon against anything short of an elephant, and its owner was boasting with that scorn of fact which is allowed the successful hunter of its power.

"Doesn't it kick like anything?" asked one.

"Oh, yes, it kicks some," said the proprietor, "but that's the beauty of it. Why, once I shot at a grizzly that was charging me. I missed him, and he came. If it had not been that the gun kicked me so far back that I had time to reload I shouldn't have been here to tell the story."—Youth's Companion.

THE WEASEL.

A Formidable Foe to Animals a Hundred Times Its Size.

The weasel is about six inches in length from tip to tip, which seems very great compared with the height of the animal, which is not above an inch and a half. The wolf is not above one and a half times as long as he is high, while the weasel is nearly five times as long, an amazing disproportion. The tail also, which is bushy, is generally two inches long and adds to the apparent length of the body.

The color of the weasel is a light brown on the back and sides, but white under the throat and belly. The eyes are little and black. The ears are short, broad and roundish and have a fold at the lower part, which makes them look as if they were double. Beneath the corners of the mouth on each jaw is a spot of brown.

This animal, though diminutive in appearance, is nevertheless a very formidable enemy to quadrupeds a hundred times its own size. When kept in a cage it will not touch its food while anybody looks on. It keeps in a continual agitation and seems frightened so much at the sight of manking that it will die if not permitted to hide itself.

For this purpose, says Fur News, it must be provided in its cage with a sufficient quantity of wool or hay in which it may conceal itself and where it may carry whatever it has to eat. In this state it is seen to pass three parts of the day in sleeping and reserves the night for its exercise and eating.

In its wild state the night is likewise the time during which it may be said to live. At the approach of evening it is seen stealing from its hole and creeping about the farmer's yard for its prey. If it enters the place where poultry is kept it never attacks the cocks or the old hens, but immediately goes after the young ones. Generally it merely sucks the blood of the victim.

It is remarkably active, and in a confined place scarce any animal can escape it. It will run up the sides of the walls with such facility that no place is secure from it. Its body is so small that there is scarce any hole but that it can wind through. During the summer its excursions are extensive, but in the winter it chiefly confines itself to barns and farmyards, where it remains till spring and where it brings forth its young.

All this season it makes war upon rats and mice with still greater success than the cat, for being more active and slender it pursues them into their holes and after a short resistance destroys them. It creeps also into pigeon holes, destroys the young, catches sparrows and all kinds of young birds, and if it has brought forth its young hunts with still greater boldness and avidity. In summer it ventures farther from the house and particularly goes into those places where the rat, its chief prey, goes before it.

The female takes every precaution to make an easy bed for her little ones and lines the bottom of her hole with grass, hay, leaves and moss and generally brings forth three to five to a litter. The weasel, like others of its kind, does not run on equally, but moves by bounding, and when it climbs a tree by a single spring it gets a good way from the ground. It jumps in the same manner upon its prey and, having an extremely limber body, evades the attempts of much stronger animals to seize it.

Sucking Poisonous Wounds.

Among all people the sucking of the wound has ever been considered the most effective remedy of immediate application for snake bites. In Africa a cupping instrument is employed in emergencies of the kind to draw out the poisoned blood. The ancients followed the same methods, and when Cato made his famous expedition through the serpent infested African deserts he employed many savage snake charmers, called "psylli," to follow the army. They performed many mysterious rites over men who were bitten, but the efficacy of their treatment appears to have consisted in sucking the wounds.

Javanese Music.

The Javanese musical instruments are made mostly of bamboo. They also played upon a pipe or whistle, which was about three feet long and six inches across. This sounded like the hollow roar of a lion. Another was a bundle of tubes of different lengths, which covered the small boy who carried it like a big saddle. A log hewn out with two strings stretched across it served as a drum. A zither of sixteen strings and a mandolin of two completed their outdoor band, while inside one could hear other music made by gongs of wonderfully pure and beautiful tone.

A FEW COMPARISONS.

They Ease the Mind of the Man of Moderate Means.

"All things," said the man of moderate means, "impress us by comparison. If a man had lived all his life in a palace, why, then it would have to be a very grand sort of place indeed that would seem anything particularly fine to him, whereas if one had always lived in a shack a very modest house would seem to him luxurious.

"If since autos first came in we had been driving steadily a $10,000 automobile, then obviously it would take quite considerable of a kerogen cart to give us any added joy in that line, while if we had been accustomed constantly to ride in the street cars, why, then the simplest of gasoline gigs might give us great glee. All things go by comparison.

"Take, for instance, smoking. My regular smoke is a stogy that costs $1.45 a hundred, but I buy also for special occasions a special brand of cigar for which I pay $2 a hundred. I buy a fifty box at a time for a dollar. Commonly I smoke the stogies, and I think they're pretty good, at a little less than a cent and a half a smoke, but if I happen to strike a little streak of luck, why, I then blow myself to a couple of those choice smokes out of the other box, in which really I find great pleasure.

"It's all by comparison. Some men would have to pay $10 for a cigar to get any fun out of it. I can get a lot of fun out of a two center.

"And, speaking of great pleasure, I'm glad I have not exhausted all my great pleasures. I've still got them all, or most all, to enjoy. My capacity for novelty and enjoyment has never been much taxed. It is still practically boundless! I have got life ahead of me, not behind, and when I do get money, as I certainly hope to do some day, why, everything will be new and charming to me, and I shall enjoy everything and all immensely.

"I've got something to look forward to anyway, and I think there's something in that."—Detroit Free Press.

"Do you think there is really any such thing as platonic love?" "Yes. It exists between most husbands and their wives."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A GREWSOME PRISON.

The Famous and Terrible Russian Fortress of Schluesselburg.

In the middle of the river Neva, where it flows out of Lake Ladoga, there lies a tiny island surrounded on three sides by the mighty, turbulent waters of the river and hemmed in upon the fourth by the cold and stormy lake. Upon this island stands a very ancient fortress inclosed by high walls more than twenty feet in thickness. This is the Fortress of Schluesselburg. Day and night sentinels relieved every two hours pace around the top of these walls, keeping a vigilant lookout on every hand. No one from within the fortress, not even the soldiers or gendarmes, is allowed to communicate with the people who dwell upon the banks of the river. If the unwary fisherman chances to drift in his boat too near to the walls of the fortress he is greeted by the shout of a sentinel, aiming his rifle: "Away, or I shoot!"

Not even the Dead sea in the deserts of Asia is so utterly isolated and cut off from the living world as is this Fortress of Schluesselburg, which lies within forty miles of St. Petersburg. They are very ancient, the high walls of the fortress. In many places they are cracked from old age, and in the cracks little trees have taken root. The lower part of the wall has gradually become covered with thick dark moss, just as the face of a very old man becomes covered all over with hair. They look sullen and ominously silent as if they hid dark and grewsome secrets. And, in truth, in the whole world there are no other walls that have witnessed so many and such terrible human tragedies as the Fortress of Schluesselburg.—David Soskice in McClure's Magazine.

When Fashions Lasted For Years. In times past a fashion lasted with slight modifications for years. Much the same fashion continued through the long reign of Louis XIV. and another through that of Louis XV. while the ladies of the middle ages never thought of varying their costumes. As for the Greeks and the Romans, generation succeeded generation with little change in female dress, and yet all these ladies of the past were more artistically dressed than those of today. Many no doubt spent more than they could afford, but when they had a costly dress they kept it and did not throw it away to replace it with another.—London Truth.
