FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS.

Interest the People and the Danger is Lessened.

Raleigh, N. C., May 9th.—“Nearly all the people know, or think they know, quite a little about tuberculosis or consumption. But the most of what most folks think they know about this disease is not knowledge at all. The greater part of what the average man thinks he knows is purely tradition, inherited misinformation, so-called information which they have heard as children.”

That this situation is a chief argument for the tuberculosis exhibition is the contention of Dr. W. S. Rankin, State Board of Health, who says that the people generally are a full twenty years behind the medical profession in an understanding of the nature of this disease which ought not to exist in this country at all.

“The situation is marvelously complex simply and solely because of the difficulty in convincing the people of the real facts and in getting them to act in the light of those facts. Tuberculosis is not a mysterious disease at all. The mystery is in the difficulty in getting usually well informed people to discard the traditions of ignorance and accept the unquestioned pronouncements of science. Just as quickly as we can get people informed and interested in living according to that information that soon will this chief cause of disease become a matter of history.

“We must inform and interest people before the board of health will be able to do all that it ought to do and would like to do. We must inform and interest the people before the board of education can do all that the schools are seeking to do for the health of the children. We must inform and interest the housekeeper so that our homes may be more conducive to health. We must inform and interest household servants that they may do their part. We must inform and interest all sorts of people before the big, concrete undertakings can be launched. The exhibition is an agency for doing the largest amount of this educational work in the shortest possible time.”

Horse Falls in Streets.

Tuesday a horse belonging to Mr. W. S. Moye, driven by a negro, got rather gay on the street and began plunging about. Instead of trying to quiet the animal the negro whipped him with the ends of the reins, which only made the horse more excited. The animal slipped on the paved street and fell, and could not get up until the buggy was unhitched and pulled out of the way.

Nice Printing.

The commencement invitations for Winterville High school and of East Carolina Teachers Training school were both the product of The Reflector Printing House, and it is work that we can feel proud of. The plant is in better shape for turning out nice printing than it has ever been.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Chapel Hill, May 9.—The University annual, the Yackety-Yack, has arrived and is ready for distribution. It is a splendid representation of college life and in every way worthy of the University and the State whose seal it bears. The book is dedicated to the late J. W. Gore, C. E., former head of the department of physics, and a professor much loved in North Carolina. One of the featured articles is a short history of the University by Dr. Kemp P. Battle, president of the University. The entire contents are of a high class. The drawings, caricatures, poems, sketches, drags and humor get-offs are breezy with interest. Every department of the University and every activity of the student life has its place.

E. Joseph Nixon, a member of the senior class, has won the prize of $50, given by The North Carolina Society of Colonial Dames for the best essay on a subject relating to the colonial history of North Carolina. His subject was “The Early German Settlers of Lincoln County.” S. E. Teague won the second prize of $25.

Brevard D. Stephenson of the sophomore class, won the Ben Preston memorial cup for the best work of a journalistic nature by an undergraduate of the University. His subject was “The Gentlemen from Mississippi” and dealt with the lately retired Senator Gordon.

The Senior Honor Order of the Golden Fleece this week received into membership: E. W. Turlington, first scholar of his class, debater and the president of the Y. M. C. A.; B. C. Stewart, captain and pitcher of the Varsity and president of the junior class; John Tillet, scholar, athlete, and all-round man; K. S. Tanner, social and representative man of the University; J. S. Cowles, chief marshal and representative University man; W. H. Jones, editor-in-chief of the Tar Heel and literary man; W. A. Dees and G. W. Thompson, scholars and debaters. The basis of membership is all-round development plus marked achievement in one particular phase of University life.

The State track meet was called off on account of rain. Carolina lost in a close meet with V. P. I. but has won by good scores from Wake Forest and Washington and Lee.

Arthur E. Brides, the great Yale tackle, will again coach the Carolina football team. The annual game with Virginia has been arranged for Thanksgiving. Other games will be with Kentucky, V. M. I., V. P. I., Washington and Lee, Wake Forest, Davidson and Georgetown.

The Gasoline Railroad Car.

Mr. J. P. Cook, editor of The Uplift, has been down in eastern North Carolina and has had a ride on a gasoline car which the Norfolk & Southern Railroad is running between Edenton and Suffolk. The car, says Mr. Cook, in The Uplift, is built of boiler iron and painted black—it ought to be olive green, or white or even an ox-blood color would be more pleasing. You find your way into it through doors from either side placed at or near the middle of the car. The car is 72 feet long and weighs 35 tons or 70,000 pounds. The front runs to a sharp point, like a boat; and the rear is rounded, like a boat's rear. The interior is finished in Cuban hardwood. The car is divided into six compartments. The front compartment is the home of the wonderful machinery of a most wonderful gas engine. This is operated by one man, and his job is a strenuous one. His job on this must be harder than on a steam engine. He sits with his back to the side, operates levers in front, levers behind, and does stunts with his feet—this is the break feature. No unpleasant odor from the gasoline used in operating the car reaches the passengers or crew. A four-inch pipe from the engine runs down under the car and sticks out at the rear. Behind the engine room, which can only be reached from the outside, is the United States mail apartment in charge of one of their postal clerks. The next section is the baggage and express room. Behind this is the compartment for the colored passengers. Now comes the narrow hall way from doors from either side. The rear of the car is for white people. It surpasses an observation car. The windows are circular and about 30 inches in diameter and stand, in the construction of the car, close together thus giving the passenger an almost absolutely free view of the country along the railway.

This car, says The Uplift, was brought to Edenton on its own

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

Rochdale, May 10.—Mrs. Anna Willoughby spent a portion of last week at C. L. Tyson's, near Renston.

Mrs. W. F. Pippin, of Washington, was visiting relatives in our community last week.

J. T. Smith, of Middlesex, came one day last week to visit relatives in our section.

F. M. Smith purchased a nice horse and buggy Saturday from a fruit agent who had worked up his territory and wanted to sell his outfit.

I think the farmers in our section are waking up from their drowsiness, for they are preparing their lands better than ever before. They are fertilizing better and are planting more corn and the most of them are diversifying. They plant corn, cotton, tobacco, wheat, oats, rye, peanuts, potatoes, peas, soja beans, and are raising more hogs and trying to raise plenty of hog and hominy. Another advantage they have over some sections is when they want a bag of corn ground they can take it to B. P. Cobb and he will make them some nice meal, or he will grind their corn, cob and all, for stock. Besides planting improved seed they are using improved and labor saving farming implements. They use about all kinds from the riding cultivator down, and raise all the hay they need.

Mrs. R. M. Starkey, of Kinston, was visiting at Mills Smith's Sunday.

Miss Mary Joyner, of Farmville, spent last week with Mrs. L. W. Smith in Smithtown.

We had much rain Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night and some Monday.

We see it stated in the papers that it has been the coldest of late that they have ever seen for the time of year, but I want to take them back just fifty-one years ago last Saturday, when on May the 7th, 1859, there fell about a two inch snow and the next day it fared off, the snow melted, and on that night there came a heavy frost which cut down the crops generally. Notwithstanding all this the Lord gave us very good crops. That same year in September I think we could see a comet or a star with a tail to it that appeared to be about fifty yards long. It was seen in the west from 7 until 9 or 10 o'clock at night.

We have had a very nice time in every way at the reunion in Greenville today. We met many our old brother soldiers, had good speaking a nice dinner and a very large crowd.

Miss Nannie Smith returned home from Wilson Wednesday evening where she had been in the sanatorium for treatment for a few weeks.

Rev. E. L. St. Claire Coming.
On Wednesday night, May 18th, Rev. E. L. St. Claire, a noted Free Will Baptist evangelist and lecturer, will preach at Delphia Moye Chapel. Dr. St. Claire is an eloquent speaker and his sermons are indeed helpful to all. We extend a cordial invitation to all and would be very glad to see the other churches well represented. Don't forget the date and let every one who possibly can attend the meeting.

wheels and under its own power, from Omaha, Nebr. It was put into commission on March 14th, 1910. That's a date that we must establish, for if we don't the muck-rakers and the doubting Thomases will ere long try to beloud North Carolina's priority in introducing this wonderful means of travel.—Charlotte Chronicle.

C., in “a fit of temporary mental aberration this afternoon flung herself from the roof of a local sanitarium to the pavement six feet below, meeting instant death. Mrs. McDairmid had been a patient at the institution for six weeks.

The residence of Preston Bryant, a worthy, white farmer, was demolished and Mrs. Bryant seriously hurt. The top of the house was carried bodily nearly half a mile away and left in a swamp. There were eight children in the house and these had barely gotten out when the crash came.

KING'S CROSS ROADS.

King's Cross Roads, May 10.—H. S. Tyson attended church at Red Banks Saturday and Sunday and returned Monday.

J. I. Allen and family spent Saturday night at his mother's. Mrs. G. T. Allen, who is right sick.

We had a large rain Sunday and some hail but not enough to damage the crops.

Elbert Tyson, from near Stantonburg, was in our section Sunday.

C. E. Case and W. W. Worthington spent some time with Mr. J. L. Mathews near Farmville, last week and returned home Sunday.

We are glad to know that the young boys of this community are taking a great interest in singing.

Miss Lanie Tyson is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. Joe Brown, near Macesfield.

The singing class met at King's Cross Roads Sunday with a very large attendance of both young and old. There will be singing at the church every second and fourth Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Everybody is invited. Some of our farmers are plowing up and planting over their cotton. They say that they haven't got over half of a stand.

A Cynical Statesman.
The saying that “all men have their price” is ascribed to Sir Robert Walpole. While speaking of a faction in parliament which bitterly opposed some of his measures he said, “You see with what zeal and vehemence these gentlemen oppose me, and yet I know the price of every man in this house except three.”

Of some who called themselves patriots he said: “Patriots! I could raise fifty of them within four and twenty hours. I have raised many in one night. 'Tis but to refuse an unreasonable demand and up springs a patriot.”

A Dilemma.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, 1910.

They have had a regular blind tiger shake up in Kinston, and even a brother of the mayor of that town is said to be in the list of offenders captured.

The question has been asked The Reflector if there is now living in Pitt county a man who had a son who was a soldier in the civil war. We could not answer the question, but if there is such a man we would be glad to have his name.

It is evident that the government is curtailing the rural free delivery mail service wherever some excuse can be given for so doing. No service in the postal department brings as much benefit to the people at large as the rural free delivery, and wherever there is any curtailment of the service it is apt to be because the people living along the route affected fail to show proper interest in it. Every man ought to feel an interest in the route on which he lives. He ought to take daily newspapers and use the mails so as to make business for the route.

Mr. John F. Evans, agent for Pitt county of the farm demonstration work, says he never saw such interest in better farming, and such improved condition of farms as in evidence this year. Correspondents of The Reflector in various parts of the county now and then tell of the same condition in their sections. It is certainly gratifying to note such things as this, for it shows that the farmers are waking up to their opportunities. Pitt is truly one of the best agricultural counties in the State. Her soil will produce any crop abundantly, and several crops the same year. All that is needed is intelligent up-to-date methods, and these the farmers are gradually coming to. No county is making more rapid progress.

It is time the folks should be looking around for candidates for aldermen in the different wards. Under the provisions of the last charter one from each of the five wards must be elected on the first Monday in June, and now since the two-year term aldermen in both the third and fourth wards have tendered their resignations, there are seven to be elected. It is the duty of the people to see that good men, men of business capacity, should be chosen for these places. Certainly the office of alderman is one in which the pay is practically nothing, and it requires much of a man's time to fill the place properly. At the same time the affairs of the town are of great importance and should be conducted by men who are capable and in whom the people have confidence. It is time this matter was being considered, for it will be against the interest of the town for incompetent men to be on the board of aldermen.

Our Big Towns in 1910.

According to reports which purport to be unofficial announcements, the census of 1910 gives New York City 4,563,608 population, Chicago 2,282,926, Philadelphia 1,540,429, St. Louis 575,238, Baltimore 583,374, Cleveland 520,938, Cincinnati 354,012, Washington 350,145, New Orleans 332,162. Whether these figures are authentic or not, New York City will show up with as much population as the States of North Carolina and Virginia combined. Chicago with as much as either North Carolina or Virginia, and Philadelphia with nearly or quite as much as South Carolina. New York will doubtless overtake London within this generation. We have some big towns in this country, and a lot of others big except by comparison with them. Their rapid growth has upset the balance between the town and the farm, causing some economic problems which, unless soon remedied, must grow acute. If effective means can be found for distributing to undermanned land the multitudes of immigrants who now stop in cities, great good will result. It is even more to be hoped that the census will not show continued growth by cities at the rural district's expense. — Charlotte Observer.

A New Pack for an Old One. How it Can be in Greenville

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Greenville residents would do well to profit by the following example: Joseph Savage, Church street, Tarboro, N. C., says: "For some time my kidneys were disordered, the passages of the kidney secretions being scanty and at times painful. I had pains in my loins and if I stooped suddenly, sharp twinges caught me across the back, making it hard for me to sit or stand. After trying a number of remedies without finding relief, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. They removed the aches and pains and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I have derived from their use."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Catarrhal Asthma and Hay Fever.

Tens of thousands of sufferers from hay fever and catarrhal asthma find great comfort and quick relief by breathing Hyomei.
Of course where asthma is not caused by a catarrhal condition, but by nervous contraction of the bronchial tubes, Hyomei is not recommended.
But in a case of asthma where there is a discharge of mucous, breathing Hyomei gives most wonderful relief by soothing the irritated and highly inflamed membrane.
Mr. W. A. White, R. F. D. No. 1, Evansport, writes: "I have been bothered with asthma for over five years but could not get any relief until I tried Hyomei. I have spent lots of money on remedies for asthma and if I could not another bottle, I would not be without Hyomei for $50. I recommend it."
A complete Hyomei outfit, including hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs $1 with instructions for use in hay fever and asthma. Extra bottles of Hyomei at 50 cents at druggist everywhere and at Coward & Wooten's.

BUILT ON DISCIPLINE.

Big Department Stores Are Managed Like an Army.

"This is like an army," the manager explained when I went to him to ascertain by what system he handled the big department store. "The assistant managers are the generals, the department heads the colonels, the floorwalkers majors, and so on down the line. Only matters which are out of the ordinary routine are brought to the commander in chief.

"The organization is built on discipline. Each individual knows what work he has to do, and if he fails the failure reacts directly upon him. Thus each in turn is responsible to the one above him until the responsibility reaches this office. In the final analysis I am responsible to the firm. If a girl ties a bundle wrong or there is a dispute with a customer I am directly responsible, although I have probably known nothing of the incident. I pass the actual administration of authority and responsibility right down the line until the person who is at fault feels it personally. Doubtless hundreds of things happen in this store every day of which I have no knowledge, and I don't need to know about them. So long as the man to whom I have delegated the authority delegates it in turn to some one who knows how to use it properly there is no reason why I should interfere.

"This is the way it should be. I should not consider that we had an effective system if it were otherwise. A system must be so perfectly organized and every man must know and live up to his responsibilities so sincerely that I could walk out of this office today and not return for six months."—Interview With Manager of New York Store in Bookkeeper.

Eating Away an Island.

Strength is not a thing usually connected with maidenhair fern, yet if its roots have not sufficient room they will break the pot in which the plant grows. Blades of grass will force the curbstones between which they spring up out of their place, and in a single night a crop of small mushrooms have lifted a large stone. Indeed, plants have been known to break the hardest rocks. The island of Aldabra, to the northwest of Madagascar, is becoming smaller and smaller through the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliffs. They eat their way into the rock in all directions, and into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way. In time they will probably reduce the island to pieces.—London Globe.

The Judge's Error.

"Give one verse of 'The Star Spangled Banner.'"
"I can't do it, judge."
"Quote a passage from the constitution."
"Too many for me."
"Then I can't naturalize you, my man."
"But I was born here, judge. I don't want to be naturalized. I'm after a ballf's job."—Kansas City Journal.

Unkind.

The Kind Lady—You clear off or I'll set the dog at you.
The Tramp—Ah, 'ow deceptive is 'uman natur'. Fer two nights I've slept in your barn, eaten of yer poultry an' drunk of yer cider, and now yer treats me as an utter stranger.—London Sketch.

Our own anger does us more harm than the thing which makes us angry.—Sir John Lubbock.

WONDERS OF A WATCH.

Its Marvelous Mechanism and the Power That Moves It.

We hear much from time to time of the wonders of this or that complicated and intricate machine, but there are few pieces of machinery more marvelous than that of the common watch.

A watch, it may be stated as a general proposition, is the smallest, most delicate instrument of the same number of parts that has ever been devised. About 175 different pieces of material enter into its construction, and upward of 2,400 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture.

Certain of the facts connected with its performance are well nigh incredible when considered as a whole. A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day and, as a matter of course, is glad when Sunday comes, but the roller jewel of a watch makes every day—and day after day—432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,680,000 blows during the course of a year, without stop or rest—some 3,153,600,000 blows during the space of twenty years, the period for which a watch is usually guaranteed to keep good time.

But the wonder of it does not cease here. It has been calculated that the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a flea's jump. The watch power is therefore what might be termed the equivalent of a four flea-power. One horsepower would suffice to operate 270,000,000 watches.

Furthermore, the balance wheel of a watch is moved by this four flea-power 1 43-100 inches with each vibration, or 3,558 1/2 miles continuously in one year. Not much oil is required to lubricate the little machine on its 3,500-mile run. It takes only one-tenth of a drop to oil the entire machinery for a year's service.—Harper's Weekly.

Duck by Duck.

An old farmer had brought twenty ducks to the market to sell and, after the usual amount of haggling inseparable from a bargain of that description, managed to dispose of the lot to a dealer.

"That's 30 shillings I have to give you," said the dealer as he proceeded to count it out.

But the old chap's strong point was not arithmetic, and he was not satisfied with this mode of payment.

"No, no!" he exclaimed. "Ye bought them at wan an' six apiece, an' ye'll jist pay for them duck by duck."
And "duck by duck" it had to be.—London Scraps.

How It Is Done.

Returning from school the other afternoon, a little girl proudly informed her mother that she had learned to "punchate."

"Well, dear," said her mother, "and how is it done?"
"You see, mother," explained the child, "when you write 'Hark!' you put a hatpin after it, and when you ask a question you put a buttonhook!"

In Doubt.

Visitor—So your boy is in college, is he, Mr. Cornstossle? Farmer—I can't say exactly. He's in ther ball nine, an' in ther rowin' crew, an' in ther jinnayzeum, an' in ther donyotry, but whether he's ever in ther college is more'n I kin find out by his letters.—Harper's Bazar.

Time's Changes.

Father (meditating on time's changes)—Ah, yes, the fashion of this world passeth away! Daughter—Indeed it does, papa. I shall want a new hat next week.

JEFFERSON'S PICTURES.

A Wonderful Landscape Painted Entirely From Imagination.

Marvelous were the products of Jefferson's inspiration. He had created a school of his own. He was prone to portray forest scenes, with tree trunks of wonderful size, in accurate military formation. Old mills were a favorite subject with him, especially old mills with water wheels, and in some of his paintings he actually accomplished the impossible, for to all intents and purposes he succeeded in making the water run uphill. This having been called to his attention by an overcritical friend, Mr. Jefferson responded that he was well pleased with the result, for "few men could have accomplished it."

When president of the Players club, a position he held for so many years before his death, Mr. Jefferson presented to the club a large canvas of his own. If the writer remembers correctly, there was a pond in the foreground, with rushes, a tumbledown house and a large and rather theatrical looking forest, all painted, the artist boasted, in the dead of winter in his own sitting room and entirely from his imagination. When it was first displayed on the walls—for of course none of the old gentleman's gifts was ever refused—it attracted much attention, and one day Mr. Jefferson, being in the club, seized a brother member, who happened to be a man whose pictures had on more than one occasion won prizes in the salon, and stood him before his own masterpiece. "Now, I want you to tell me," he said frankly, with his childlike and delightful smile, "what you think of it."

"Well," replied the painter, responding to the pressure on his arm, "I'd like to have one hung as well as that." And the old gentleman was delighted.

During his lifetime that picture remained in its prominent position, and whenever Mr. Jefferson entered the club he would manage to maneuver himself in front of it, regarding it from all sides and angles, and hardly ever did a picture receive so much praise and so little criticism as that marvelous landscape.—James Barnes in Bookman.

EQUATORIAL AFRICA.

Three Things a White Person Must Have to Live There.

Without a mosquito bar a white person would be unable to live on the equator, writes Ida Vera Simonton in the Delineator.

No matter how hot and stifling the night—and no other place can be so stifling as the equatorial African night during the long rainy season in the midst of the jungle—one must sleep under a closely tucked in mosquito bar, not the ventilated kind civilization knows, but one of closely woven stuff through which no air circulates.

When the mosquito bar was let down it took in almost the entire room, but it proved especially useful in sickness and convalescence. It permitted existence free from insect bites. As malaria is the white man's most insidious foe and comes from the bite of the mosquito, every precaution must be taken against it. Three things are absolutely necessary in Africa—a mosquito bar, a water filter and quinine.

The bed was made by a native carpenter. The frame was of wood, the slats of bamboo ribs fitted closely together with the pith side uppermost. They didn't give a bit and were an excellent dancing floor for the dried plantain leaves which made the mattress. The leaves were confined beneath ticking tacked to the four sides of the bed, but they matted easily, and every night it was continuous leaf turning for me. The bamboo was slippery, and insomnia kept me and the leaves on the move, so that most of the time I slept on a hard surface. My pillow was of dried sweet smelling grass. Whoever says that hard beds are beautifiers should sleep upon an African bed.

Gold Heated Water.

Over 4,000 years ago an elaborate system of filtration was established by the Egyptians to purify the waters of the Nile. In both Rome and Athens hot water was drunk in preference to cold by the small minority who used water for drinking purposes. Champley, writing in 1560, notes that the habit of drinking hot water was spreading among all classes in France. "Some warm it by holding it over the fire. Others dip burning bread into it. Rich people plunge a bar of hot gold into their water before drinking it, and the less wealthy a bar of hot iron, while the very poor are content to warm their drink with a live coal."

Got His Number.

Uncle Zeph had had some trouble getting about on the cars and complained of the employees. "When a conductor is uncivil to you take his number," said his nephew.
Two days later uncle came in somewhat battered, but looking triumphant. "I got the number," he said, with a satisfied air, "but I had to grab the hull cap too."—Buffalo Express.

Had a Proxy.

"Have a drink, old man?"
"No; I've cut it out."
"Aw, be sociable."
"Well, my companion here will take a drink with you. He's my social secretary."—Kansas City Journal.

Entirely Capable.

"Is your new maid capable?"
"Yes, indeed. She can tell callers I don't want to see that I'm out and make them believe it."—Detroit Free Press.

A QUANT OLD TAVERN

The Old Cheshire Cheese, In the Heart of London.

SERVES A FAMOUS PUDDING.

A Noble Pastry It Is, and It Was Sampled by Such Men as Gladstone, Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Trollope and Whistler.

Nearly all Americans when they go to London make it a point to visit that quaint old tavern in the heart of the newspaper and printing business, the Old Cheshire Cheese, to partake of its famous pudding.

It is the Londoner's delight when he gets back to Fleet street to make a rush for the pudding, and it is almost the last thing he eats before leaving it. Travelers in the Sahara have seen mirages of that pudding, and during the Boer war the men shut up in Ladysmith and Mafeking dreamed of it at regular intervals.

Precisely at 1 o'clock p. m. Tom conveys the pudding from the first to the main floor. It is a big pudding, and the price of it is just 2 shillings—that is to say, a feed of it is 2 shillings, as much as you please, as many shares as you ask for, cut and come again, all for 48 cents of American coin. Cheap, aye, and, oh, how good it is! It is worth crossing the Atlantic to get a sniff of it, and the aroma lingers in the memory for many a day.

Big? The dimensions are Falstaffian. It is a round earthen vessel something more than two dozen inches deep, with a diameter of about eighteen inches. A noble pastry, my masters!

When it is placed upon the service table an elliptical white crust meets the hungry gaze. Tom and his myrmidons take their places in front facing the host, who, knife and spoon in hand, poses with gentle dignity and benignant mien. It is a moment of solemn thought when every man hopes that his portion will be larger than his friend's and that he will be blessed with an abundance of gravy. But they ought from years of acquaintance with the host to understand that his hand is as steady as his judgment is impartial.

No more and nothing better for one than for another. He waves his weapons, and the first onslaught is made. The room is full of a delicious steam bearing with it the concentrated essences of ambrosial substances. The guests sniff it up and murmur choice blessings on the cook, the original inventor, the house and the host. It is a time when men feel good, one toward the other.

One smell of that pudding makes the whole world kin. This famous pudding, which has tickled the palates of thousands, is thus compounded:

A crust of flour, water and suet.
Beefsteak.
Sheep's kidneys.
Larks.
Mushrooms (freshly gathered).
Oysters.
Stock.
Pepper and salt.

But it is the boiling that does it. For at least twelve hours this heaven sent pudding is kept slowly simmering in an immense copper specially constructed for the purpose. It must not boil quickly, but the same temperature be kept up the whole period. The steak assumes a juicy tenderness; the larks—not sparrows, as some malignant spirit has suggested, although sparrow pudding is not to be despised—are seethed to the bone, and you can chew up each little songster without an effort; the kidneys are soft and mushy and offer no resistance to the digestive organs, and the oysters, despite their lengthened cooking, are not leathery. The amalgamation and assimilation of the variety of constituents are perfect; the result is bliss.

There is a story told of one eminent litterateur who had seven helpings of the pudding and still yearned for more, and there is another remarkable narrative of four men who ordered a pudding of the regulation size and finished it among them.

J. Pierpont Morgan praised the pudding, and Theodore Roosevelt was delighted with it. Lord Beaconsfield bestowed his approbation thereon, and Gladstone thought it far superior to his famous "three courses." Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, Swinburne, Tennyson, Trollope, Whistler, Leighton, Sala, Phil May—all sorts of the best of men of their day have fed upon the pudding, and it no doubt helped to inspire their work.

Apparently any cook can fashion it, mix it, fix it, boil it. Let any cook try it. Lots of cooks have tried it, but the results have not been satisfactory. There was a man who once ran the Old Cheshire Cheese, and in his day the pudding first achieved its great fame. When he sold the old hostelry and took a house in the financial district he announced that the same pudding—the same in every respect—would be served every Saturday.

Many of the Cheese's old patrons came around to celebrate. There was the size, but the aroma was wanting; there were the identical materials, but the flavor was not in them. It was not the same, not a bit of it. There was something missing. It may have been the shades of the departed great ones of a bygone time. And so it is that today the famous dish of the Old Cheshire Cheese tastes as of old, and its devotees cannot be seduced by any resigning invitation based upon "just as good" simply because there is nothing just as good.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.
