A. & M. COLLEGE NOTES.

Military Promotions for the Next Year

West Raleigh, May 26, 1910.—The boys are in the midst of final examinations, at least those who failed to get exempted by a grade of 90 or above. Each day witnesses the leaving of one or more, who are more anxious to get home than attend the commencement exercises which begin Sunday the 29th and end Tuesday 31st.

There is nothing unusual or "newsy" since the closing of the baseball and track season. We are champions of the State in baseball by an easy figure, and our percentage of 938 gives us a right to claim that of the South. The track team defeated Davidson, Wake Forest and Guilford and lost no meets.

Tuesday afternoon a terrific cyclone struck the college doing damage upwards of a thousand dollars. The athletic fence and grandstand were practically demolished, the roof of the textile building was partly torn off resulting in damage to machinery from rain. Many of the poultry houses were wrecked and not a few of the campus trees were uprooted. Besides this five of the large windows in Pullen hall were broken out, resulting in slight damage to library books below. Some damage was also done at the power house and along the wire lines.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town—Briefly Told

Ayden, N. C., May 27. We have heard it said that self-praise is half scandal. Assuming that this is true, we are going to say one thing which is certain, and that is the town of Ayden is one of the best and among the most progressive and public spirited towns in the State of North Carolina. We are prepared to back up this assertion with a preponderance of evidence.

Miss Mamie Thomas, a most charming young lady of Stoneville, will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Glenn, during the summer months. Everybody is glad and we have one friend who is purely delighted.

Misses Rosa Lee Nunn and Belle Tucker, of Kinston, are visiting Misses Lorena and Lizzie Dixon.

We have heard the address of Greenville's townman, Mr. W. F. Evans, at the seminary Tuesday night, highly eulogized. He is a Pitt county boy, and is fast making his mark as a talented young attorney. In our opinion he deserves great credit and we attribute it to him with pleasure.

Shelton Garris, a young son of Jesse Garris, cut his leg right badly Tuesday in an attempt to clear his plow of some vegetation. Dr. Dixon had to take several stitches to close up the wound.

E. B. Joyner, of Georgia, R. F. Pilton, of Kenly and M. A. Allen, of Selma, former students of the seminary, were here Thursday attending the commencement.

At the debate at the seminary Thursday afternoon Mr. Grice won the medal which was presented to him by P. R. Hines. At night D. V. Denton won the medal for the best oration, which was presented by Rev. J. R. Tingle. Mr. Waters won the medal offered to the pupils for making the highest average in his studies, which was presented by Prof. F. C. Nye.

Several of our Pythian friends attended the district meeting at Kinston Wednesday night, and report a very enjoyable occasion.

Our town has been crowded with visitors for the past few days who have been attending the commencement exercises of the Seminary. This institution is doing a great deal of good in our community and we bespeak for its management still greater success and usefulness in the future.

Hookerton union meets at Rountree church fifth Sunday.

The heavy rain Wednesday stopped farm work for a few days, which caused the crowd to be larger at the commencement.

Could Lend Worry.

"No, my little girl, I can't lend your mother any flour, or oil, or butter, or flatirons, or lamps, or potatoes, or anything else that she sent you over for; but go back and tell her I have a lot of trouble she can borrow."

Notice.

Application will be made to the board of commissioners for Pitt county on the first Monday in July, 1910, to change the lines between Pactolus and Carolina townships.

STATE NEWS.

Newsy Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

The Federal government will place in the Hall of History, Raleigh, the conning tower of the torpedo boat, Winslow, as a further tribute of respect to the memory of Ensign Worth Bagley.

Durham county is spending $36,000 per year in building roads. She now has about 85 miles of macadam and work is now being done on the Red George and Willettsville roads. A survey is being made for a new road in the Bumpus Cross Roads section in Mangum township and the Coles' Mill road is being surveyed.—Durham Sun.

A goat on Mr. Rance Plyler's place, in Buford township, killed a dog Wednesday night in a peculiar way. The goat and the dog got into a scrimmage during the night and next morning the goat was walking around carrying the dog on his horns. His horns had become fastened under a collar which the dog had about its neck and the latter had been choked to death.—Monroe Journal.

Governor Kitchin has commuted the sentence of Cobb Withers from death to life imprisonment. Withers was convicted of murder at the February term of Mecklenburg county court, 1910 and sentenced to death, the date of the electrocution was set for April 21. In order to give time to prepare an application for commutation he was granted a respite until May 27. Yesterday his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.—Raleigh Times.

At a meeting last night of the commission chosen by the North Carolina conference, Rev. L. S. Massey, of Oxford, was elected editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Rev. T. N. Ivey, D. D., at the general conference at Asheville, to the editorship of the Nashville Christian Advocate, the organ of the Methodist church, South. A telephone message was sent to Mr. Massey informing him of the appointment and he notified the members of the commission that he would accept.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Officeholder 52 Years.

Durham, N. C., dispatch May 24.—After having served in office continuously for 52 years, John Laws, of Orange county, at the age of 85, is in the field as a candidate for re-election as register of deeds. He is declared to be the oldest officer-holder in point of service in the United States, and during his long term has weathered many political upheavals. It is not doubted that he will come out victorious at this, his latest battle at the polls.

Laws' claim to distinction does not rest alone with his political success. His matrimonial experiences have given him fame as well. At the age of 80 he took to himself a young wife and only recently became the proud father of the third child by this union.

Dr. Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha June 6th and 7th, Monday and Tuesday, for the purpose of treating disease of the eye and fitting glasses.

A Pressing Obligation.

"Putting off advertising," says a writer in Printer's Ink, "is putting off a debt that you owe to your business. Every day the interest mounts. Every day, because of added competition, the debt becomes harder to meet." Many non-advertisers no doubt postpone the settlement of this obligation because they do not realize how easy it is to discharge it in small installments. The little "ad" in the daily newspaper leads by gradual and convenient stages to the half-page and the fullpage spread, paying its own way as it grows. The big advertisers of today sang small at the beginning. The success they have achieved is open to merchants of very moderate capital who back up brains and energy with regular advertising in the leading newspaper.—New Bern Sun.

Boy Started Horse Off.

A little boy left in a buggy to hold a horse, this afternoon, amused himself by slapping the reins on the animal to see it start and then pull the horse down. But the boy carried his fun most too far, the fretted horse starting off at a fast gait. The boy began screaming which made the horse go faster, and something serious might have happened had not Deputy Sheriff Walter Tucker run up behind and climbed in the buggy, when he took the reins from the boy and stopped the horse. It was a close call for the boy.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., May 26th.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity. Trade is generally irregular, some lines show a fair degree of activity while others are quiet. Wholesale grocers report fair orders. Dry goods are quiet. Produce is fair, the supply about equalling the demand. The manufacturing and wholesale trades report satisfactory sales. Retail trade is quiet. Winter wheat is reported in good condition. Tobacco planting is in progress and an average acreage is expected. Collections are fair.

New North Carolina Industries.

The Chattanooga Tradesman reports the following new industries established in North Carolina for the week ending 23rd: Charlotte—$25,000 candy company.
Delta—$25,000 land company.
Enfield—$100,000 hosiery mill.
Stanley—$50,000 ice and cold storage plant.
Waynesville—$50,000 lumber company.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

Miss Nana King left Thursday for a visit in Raleigh.

Mrs. George Buchan and little son, of Panama, spent Thursday night and today with friends here.

M. L. Davis, of Beaufort, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. R. L. Humbert, returned home today.

Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and Miss Vernessa Smith went to Wilson Thursday evening to attend the commencement of A. C. College.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Red Men meet tonight.
Tomorrow will be Federal decoration day.

Comet gezers had another good view last night.

Two nights and one day more of the carnival.

The Baraca class of Memorial Baptist Sunday school will run an excursion to Raleigh early in June.

People from the country say they never saw the woods fuller of huckleberries than this season.

The fair weather Thursday night took a large crowd to the carnival and the shows were well patronized.

J. H. Savage has opened a grocery business at the same stand where he formerly kept a furniture store.

Wonder what will follow to keep up the strenuous life after the carnival has gone. There will be something.

Overhead has a look like it is not going to stay far long, but it may be all right for both the comet and the carnival tonight.

A Comet Egg.

Greenville comes forward with a comet egg, too. Mr. W. H. Ward, agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, brought one to The Reflector Thursday evening that is very much out of the ordinary. This is a soft shell egg and has a tail about 3 inches long. Possibly the hen that laid it had been out taking a look at the comet, and for want of a better name it will have to be called a comet egg.

The Charlotte Observer can take notice that Greenville comes up with its Morganton egg.

High Temperatures and Rare Metals.

Within the last two hundred years about 50 metals have been discovered. Most of them, it is true, have been looked upon by the world as curiosities, and they have been relegated to the dusty shelves of chemical museums in tiny little vials, as concrete samples of the wonderful achievements of modern chemical research. Occasionally they would be referred to by some writer gifted with a vivid imagination, who would call to mind their extreme rarity and fabulous value—but only as chemical curiosities and never as substances that would be of use to mankind. Then the little vials would be put back on the shelves, out of sight, out of mind, until the public again wished to hear the dreams of gallium, aluminum, germanium, and tungsten, and to estimate what it would cost to make a pound of these rarities.

With the advent of the electric furnace and the use of temperatures hitherto unheard of, these little vials have been taken down from the dusty shelves. One by one the rare metallic oxides have been introduced to the fearful heat of the flaming arc, and reduced to the form of pure metals; and these rare metals, now rare no longer on account of the cheapness of reduction and the abundance of ore, are taking their places in the sphere of industrial activity. The little dust-covered vials are looming up, and keen, hard-headed scientists are studying them with a view to their possibilities and the best means as to their utilization.—J. Gordon Ogden in the June Popular Mechanics.

Too Soon for 17-Year Locust.

The impression seems to have gotten abroad that this is the year when the 17-year locust is due to pay Baltimore, Maryland and adjacent territory a visit.

Dr. Philip R. Uhler, Provost of the Peabody Institute, was asked if this was so.

"No," he replied.
He referred his interviewer to a special report on the locust prepared by the United States government. According to that report the 17-year locust is due in 1919.

Locusts of lesser importance there may be this year, but not the 17-year locust.—Baltimore Sun.

FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1910.

To our mind the comet has proven what we have thought all along, that the astronomers really know very little about things above the earth.

The Charlotte Observer and the Charlotte Chronicle might borrow a pair of wings and do some flying on their own account, as long as the aviator failed to come across.

The fruit crop bids fair to be abundant this year, and if people will take advantage of it to put up plenty for use next winter they may find the cost of living materially reduced.

New Orleans is striving to get the government to select that city as the place for the Panama exposition. That is really a much better place for it than San Francisco, the other city being mentioned in connection with it. Besides being more accessible to a large number of people, New Orleans is much nearer to Panama than is San Francisco.

Greenville ought to cultivate the manufacturing spirit. Manufacturing enterprises that will give employment to large numbers of people are among the greatest needs of the town. There are plenty of people who want to come here and would do so if there was profitable employment for them, and nothing furnishes employment so readily as factories. There are numerous available sites for factories with abundant raw material in easy reach, and there is no reason why manufacturing of various kinds could not be profitably engaged in here. If you want to see Greenville grow faster than ever, get more factories here.

Building and Loan Associations.

The gathering of representatives of the North Carolina building and loan associations in annual convention in Charlotte reminds us of the part these organizations are playing in the development of our towns and cities. In this and other cities by the aid of these agencies the creation of a home has been made easy for those who would otherwise have found it difficult upon a slender income to obtain. A little saved each week soon secures a competence and a little invested each week in building and loan stock in a few years builds a home. The building and loan associations of Wilson have been of material assistance to this community, much of our growth being attributed to that source.—Wilson Times.

When we see a negro wearing a bag of sulphur around his neck or rings in his ears, we laugh and say he is superstitious, yet how many people are there in the world who are not more or less superstitious? Take fifty women and you can't induce one-third of them to start on a trip on Friday; if it is Friday the 13th, not one of them will budge. A man will vacate if he goes into a room and finds that he makes the thirteenth man. If he sees the new moon over his left shoulder for the first time he will stop, make a cross mark in the road, spit in it, turn around and walk over it and is then satisfied to proceed. The number of the phone in this office is thirteen. We have managed to live, though as a matter of fact a man, with the aid of two lawyers, once managed to "extract" $800 from The Record in a libel suit. On the same occasion he got $800 from the Charlotte Observer, but we never did know if its phone is numbered thirteen.—Greensboro Record.

Business men of San Francisco raised $4,089,000 in two hours for the purpose of securing for that city the great exposition to be held at the completion of the Panama canal in 1915. This is going some, but we agree with the News and Observer that New Orleans is the logical place for exposition. This city is the natural gateway through which will go the stream of commerce between this country and Central and South America.—Greensboro Patriot.

The name of Speaker Cannon was hissed in the Presbyterian general Assembly now in session at Atlantic City and President Taft was severely criticized by a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian general assembly in session at Dickson, Tenn. Evidently the Presbyterians are in rebellion against the elect.—Raleigh Times.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.
If women only knew the cause—that Backache pains come from sick kidneys.
'T would save much needless woe.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Many residents of this vicinity endorse them.
Mrs. L. Cameron, 117 Payton ave., Kinston, N. C., says: "The great benefit I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills justifies me in recommending them. A dull, nagging backache, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins bothered me for a long time. I had but little energy or ambition and was caused additional annoyance by a kid-ey weakness. Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me, I procured a box. After taking the contents, the pains in my back ceased and difficulty with the kidney secretions was corrected."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

POINTERS ON COMETS

Interesting Facts That Were Unearthed by Bill Nye.

HIS STUDY OF SKY SCIENCE.

The famous American humorist, Bill Nye, wrote the following article on the traits of comets for the San Francisco Argonaut, in which it was published a number of years ago:

The comet is a kind of astronomical parody on the planet. Comets look some like planets, but they are thinner and do not hurt so hard when they hit anybody as a planet does. The comet was so called because it had hair on it, I believe, but of late years the baldheaded comet is giving just as good satisfaction everywhere.

The characteristic features of the comet are a nucleus, a nebulous light or coma and usually a luminous train or tail worn high. Sometimes several tails are observed on one comet, but this occurs only in flush times.

When I was young I used to think I would like to be a comet in the sky, up above the world so high, with nothing to do but loaf around and play with the little new laid planets and have a good time, but now I can see where I was wrong. Comets also have their troubles, their perihelions, their hyperbolas and their parabolas. A little over 800 years ago Tycho Brahe discovered that comets were extraneous to our atmosphere, and since then times have improved. I can see that trade is steadier and potatoes run less to tops than they did before.

Soon after that they discovered that comets all had more or less periodicity. Nobody knows how they get it. All the astronomers had been watching them day and night and didn't know when they were exposed, but there was no time to talk and argue over the question. There were 200 or 300 comets all down with it at once. It was an exciting time.

Comets sometimes live to a great age. This shows that the night air is not so injurious to the health as many people would have us believe. The great comet of 1680 is supposed to have been the one that was noticed about the time of Caesar's death, 44 B. C., and still when it appeared in Newton's time, 1,700 years after its first grand farewell tour, it was still in its very well preserved indeed and seemed to have retained all its faculties in good shape.

A late writer on astronomy said that the substance of the nebulousity and the tail is of almost inconceivable tenacity. He said this, and then death came to his relief.

Another writer says of the comet and its tail that "the curvature of the latter and the acceleration of the periodic time in the case of Encke's comet indicate their being affected by a resisting medium which has never been observed to have the slightest influence on the planetary periods."

I do not fully agree with the eminent authority, though he may be right. Much fear has been the result of the comet's appearance ever since the world began, and it is as good a thing to worry about as anything I know of. If we could get close to a comet without frightening it away we would find that we could walk through it anywhere as we could through the glare of a torchlight procession. We should so live that we will not be ashamed to look a comet in the eye, however. Let us pay up our newspaper subscription and lead such lives that when the comet strikes we will be ready.

Some worry a good deal about the chances for a big comet to plow into the sun some dark, rainy night and thus bust up the whole universe. I wish that was all I had to worry about—the comet's crashing into the sun and knocking its daylight out.

There is much in the great field of astronomy that is discouraging to the servant who hasn't the time or means to rummage through the heavens. At times I am almost hopeless and feel like saying to the great, yearful, hungry world:

"Gripe on forever. Do not ask me for another scientific fact. Find it out yourself. Hunt up your own new laid planets and let me have a rest. Never ask me again to sit up all night and take care of the newborn world while you lie in bed and reckon not."

Pocketed the Silver.

There is an amusing anecdote regarding Lord Crewe how on one occasion at a charitable entertainment he leaned against a corridor wall and went fast asleep with his hat in his hand. Some young fellows started dropping half crowns and coppers into the hat from a balcony above, and the chink of the coins woke him up, when he promptly pocketed all the silver and pelted his impromptu benefactors with the pence.—London M. A. P.

A Wink in the Dark.

There was to be an attack by night. The darkness was impenetrable. A sergeant addressed his section as follows: "Now, pay attention, No. 2 section. We are going to do a night attack. There'll be no talking or smoking. If there are any orders to be passed down I will just tip you the wink!"

It is a great misfortune not to have mind enough to speak well or judgment enough to be silent.

RESERVE POWER.

Value of a Surplus of Energy in the Battle of Life.

In every department of life physical, mental and moral reserves are of incalculable value. Many people work so hard that they exhaust their physical energies each day. They make it a matter of conscience to wade through just as much work as possible every day, no matter how painfully it is done, not realizing the tremendous value of keeping oneself vigorous, buoyant.

No life can be vigorous if it is not kept fresh, responsive, by great physical and mental reserves. As hibernating animals, like the bear, in cold climates sustain life through the winter wholly upon the reserve fat and nutriment stored up in the tissues, so patients who have splendid physical reserves and resisting power are carried through severe sickness and sustained through severe illnesses by this reserve surplus, stored up vital power, while those who lack it, those who have dissipated it in abnormal living and excesses, often lose their lives even in much less severe illnesses.

Great business men accomplish marvels with their reserves. Many of them work but a few hours a day, but they have such tremendous physical reserves and so much stored up mental energy that they are able to accomplish wonders in a short time because of their ability to work with great intensity and powerful concentration.

People who keep their physical and mental surplus drawn down very low by working a great many hours and almost never taking vacations, who do not fill their reserve reservoir by frequent vacations and by a lot of recreation and play, do not work with anything like the freshness and mental vigor of those who work fewer hours and constantly accumulate great reserve power.

There comes into every life worth while a time when success will turn upon the reserve power. It is then a question of how long your stored up energy will enable you to hold out. There will often arise emergencies when your success will depend upon how much fighting there is in you.—Success Magazine.

The Tree Moved.

M. Thonar during his explorations in South Africa had occasion to apprehend an attack from hostile natives. He kept his men on the watch for six days, though they were worn out with fatigue.

"Once a sentinel slept leaning on his gun," he wrote. "I woke him and warned him that one of the least dangers of such a sleep was that a Toba spy would fall on him and kill him with his own gun. While we talked I observed that a little tree which I had noticed earlier now occupied a different position. I fixed my attention on it and saw that it moved almost imperceptibly. I had seen such a phenomenon before. The sentinel and I pretended to sleep. The tree continued to approach. Suddenly I raised my gun and fired. We rushed forward. There lay a Toba wounded in the leg and grasping the branch with which he had disguised himself as a tree."

Time to Quit.

"Gone to the dogs," sighed the big freckled chap with the yellow valise. "I just plumb give up and am going to town. Had a cabbage farm and thought I was going to make a fortune until Jed Hale started a snail farm, and the blamed critters ate all my cabbage."

"That was tough."

"Yes, but I tried to get even. I started a frog farm, and the frogs swallowed all of his snails."

"Well, you got satisfaction anyway, old man."

"Only for awhile. Jed got so all fired hot under the collar, blamed if he didn't start a snake farm, and in two days they had swallowed every frog in sight. Yaas, stranger, I reckon I am out of the farming business for good and all."—Chicago News.

A Beef Ham.

Sir Walter Scott wrote little about meat and drink, but his description in "Waverley" of a Scotch breakfast is memorable, says the London Chronicle. "He found Miss Bradwardine presiding over the tea and coffee, the table loaded with warm bread, both of flour oatmeal and barley meal in the shape of loaves, cakes, biscuits and other varieties, together with eggs, reindeer ham and beef ditto, smoked salmon and many other delicacies." "And," as Samuel Weller would have observed, "a werry good idea of a breakfast too." But has any reader ever seen a beef ham? Fortunately the sideboards in Scott's time were of substantial build.

WHEN JENNY LIND SANG.

A Nightingale That Charmed Hearts as Well as Ears.

"She would trip on and off," he says, "as if in an ecstasy of delight at the opportunity of singing, bowing and smiling to her audience and giving every one present a flattering sense of contributing in a measure toward the success of the evening. She had three or four songs which showed the wonderful compass and power of her voice, and one or more of these were called for at every concert—a Swedish echo song in which she would echo her own voice by a sort of ventriloquism that was quite marvelous and another in which she made a remarkable diminuendo, reaching a pianissimo as faint as a sigh, but with a carrying power that made it distinctly audible at the most extreme limits of Castle Garden or Tripler hall, where the later concerts were given.

"This was a fine building situated at Broadway and Bond street and just finished in time for the second series of concerts. The hall had fine acoustic advantages, and it was a great loss to the city when it was destroyed by fire a few years later. The Winter Garden was afterward built on the same site.

"One of the most haunting things to me was her singing of Taubert's bird song, 'I Know Not Why I Am Singing.' Her shake was the finest I ever heard, so close and even as to be altogether perfect. Her voice, which she said herself was natural, stiff and stubborn, she had educated and practiced into such a degree of perfection that her roulades and cadenzas were unparalleled in their execution.

"In her sacred songs she rose to the sublime, and on one occasion as she finished singing the aria 'I Know That My Redeemer Liveth' I recollect that Daniel Webster, who was seated in the center of the balcony, rose from his seat and made her a profound bow. Her rapt expression of face and never ending volume of voice made her appear like some inspired seraph delivering a divine message.

"She was indebted to Sir George Smart, with whom she had studied in England, for all the traditional renderings of oratorio parts, he being at that time the greatest living authority in this school of music, but her vocal training was done under Manuel Garcia in Paris."

The Tourist in Japan.

All Japanese inns of course charge a great deal more to the globe trotting European tourist who does not speak the language since he or she is not content to travel strictly a la Japanese and worries the entire household with a variety of strange demands—extra quilts to sleep on (because they find the floor hard), an improvised pillow, special food (the ordinary guest takes what is given him and at the hour that the host pleases and is thankful), knives, forks and spoons (because he has neglected to practice eating his food with chopsticks), a bath with fresh water in it (because he will not follow the custom of entering the bath as soon as he arrives, thus getting the opportunity of first bath and the water while it is fresh) and half a dozen other requirements.—Exchange.

New York's Obelisk.

The obelisk in Central park, New York city, is a granite monolith presented to the city, through the department of state, by the late Ismail Pasha, khedive of Egypt, in 1877. It was brought to this country by Lieutenant Commander Gorringe, U. S. N., and placed in position Jan. 22, 1881, the entire expense of removal and erection ($103,732) having been borne by the late William H. Vanderbilt. Its height from apex to base is 69 feet 2 inches and its weight about 220 tons, or 440,000 pounds. It is sixth in size of the famous monoliths of Egypt and is one of two obelisks erected at Heliopolis by Thothmes III. (1600 B. C.) and removed to Alexandria by Augustus about 23 B. C., or, as some authorities say, by Rameses II.

Who Told the Fib?

The bell rang, and the occupier of the apartment started to the window to see who the visitor might be. To his annoyance he saw a persistent creditor who had evidently called again for payment of his long outstanding account. The impatient one instantly called to his youthful son and said:

"Tommy, go to the door at once. I don't want to see that man. Tell him I'm not at home."

"Oh, papa, I thought you never talk fibs!" remarked Tommy.

"I don't, my boy. It's you that's going to tell one. Now run off."—Exchange.

Asking Questions of the Cuckoo.

A curious legend regarding the cuckoo is found among the Danes, which, with some modifications, is likewise current in many parts of Germany, in England and the north of Europe. When in early spring-time the voice of the cuckoo is first heard in the woods every village girl kisses her hand and asks the question, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, when shall I be married?" and the old folks inquire, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, when shall I be released from this world's cares?" The bird in answer continues singing "Cuckoo" as many times as years will elapse before the object of their desires will come to pass. But as some old people live to an advanced age and many girls marry late in life the poor bird has so much to do in answering the questions put to her that the building season goes by. She has no time to make her nest, but lays her eggs in that of the hedge sparrow.

Life is fruitful in the ratio in which it is laid out in noble action or patient perseverance.—Liddon.

SAVAGE ATHLETICS.

Canary Islanders Who Would Have Made Good Ball Players.

In this age of athletics one might think that no people ever showed so much interest in feats of muscular might and skill as those who have perfected football, but modern games, and even the games of the Greeks at Olympia, may have been more than matched by the sports of peoples now held in light esteem. We have the accounts of excellent authorities for the contention that the athletic training of Canary Islanders makes even the college giants of today seem weak and effeminate.

These islands came into subjection to Spain about the time Columbus discovered America. The conquest was due solely to the superiority of European weapons and not to better skill and prowess. Native soldiers were trained athletes developed under a system that held athletic sports to be an important business, like military drill.

Spanish chronicles have left accounts of sports of the Islanders. From babyhood they were trained to be brisk in self defense. As soon as they could toddle the children were pelted with mud balls that they might learn how to protect themselves. When they were boys stones and wooden darts were substituted for bits of clay.

In this rough school they acquired the rudiments of warfare which enabled them during their wars to catch in their hands the arrows shot from their enemies' crossbows.

After the conquest of the Canaries a native of the islands was seen at Seville who, for a silver piece, let a man throw at him as many stones as he pleased from a distance of eight paces. Without moving his left foot he avoided every stone.

Another native used to defy any one to hurl an orange at him with so great rapidity that he could not catch it. Three men tried this, each with a dozen oranges, and the islander caught every orange. As a further test he hit his antagonists with each of the oranges.—St. Louis Republic.

Stopping Hiccough.

Hiccough is a distressing and sometimes a dangerous complaint. Many times a swallow of water will stop it. If simple measures fail the following has been found very efficacious: The nerves that produce hiccough are near the surface of the neck. They may be reached and compressed by placing two fingers right in the center of the top of the breastbone between the two cords that run up either side of the neck and pressing inward, downward and outward. A few minutes' pressure of this kind will stop the most obstinate hiccough.—Dr. Charles S. Moody in Outing.

C. H. McDaniel, engineer on N. & W. Ry., reports: "I feel that I would be doing you and the public an injustice if I did not tell you what Conquerine has done for me. In No Hurry.

"Too many people," said a clergyman, "regard their religion as did the little boy in the jam closet. His mother pounced on him suddenly. He stood on tiptoe, laddling jam with both hands from the jam pot to his mouth."

"Oh, Jacky!" his mother cried. "And only last night you prayed to be made a saint!"

"Yes, but not till after I'm dead," he explained.
