HIGGS INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE

Will Receive $3,000 if it Can Raise $1,000.

Prof W. C. Chance, president and founder of Higgs Industrial Institute, for the industrial training and betterment of the colored race, has secured a pledge of three thousand dollars for the school with the condition that he raise one thousand dollars for the school with the condition that he raise one thousand from other sources. In order to do this, Principal Chance appeals to those who are interested in the advancement of the race to contribute something to the amount necessary to be raised. Checks or money orders may be made to Mr. J. G. Godard, cashier of the Bank of Martin county, who is treasurer of the institution. Every subscriber will be sent a list of the contributors when the required sum has been raised. This school is located at Parmele, in a section where the per cent of illiteracy among the colored population is high.

Principal Chance deserves great credit for the work he has begun, and the effort he is putting forth to raise the masses of his people to a higher plane. His appeal should receive a hearty response from every citizen. He is a man of character and his ideas are thoroughly practical and based upon common sense.

There can be no question that the greatest hope for colored race is in their being trained to the habits of industry thrift and economy. The institution which Principal Chance has established will give them this training.

WHY HE RETIRED.

(A Fable.)

Years, and years, and years ago, there was a young man who undertook to do newspaper work, and, being a young man of great conceit, he thought himself succeeding. And many years went by and in course of time it befell, by chance, that two young people were married. And the cub reporter undertook to report the ceremony, which he much admired. He reported and greatly satisfied himself thereby, until—

It chanced that the young man went to a dance of great magnificence, and danced with a fair one of much fairness. He was mistaken for someone else, and in the course of highly interesting small talk, he mentioned the marriage. And the said fair one "lit into" the newspaper report thereof, and spoke in terms of much disparagement of the writer of the same. And the tirade was of long continuance and feelingly rendered.

And at the end, the young man, whose conceit was not too great for him to see the humor of the incident, revealed his identity.

And the discomfiture of the fair one was great of a greatness so great that she lost step in the dance and thereby made known the fact of her discomfiture.

And the young man remarked upon the vanity of the bubble reputation and was silent.

$5 in Gold.

A $5 gold piece will be given to the person that guesses nearest to the number of dots, which will be shown on the picture curtain at the Amuzu theatre. Cards will be given at ticket office. Write your name and number of your guess and leave with ticket seller.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Winston-Salem—$125,000 construction company.

New Telephone Directory Out.

We are now delivering our new telephone directory, and we earnestly ask that all users of the telephone will call by number instead of name, as it very greatly expedites the service. It is not for our own good, but the subscribers that we ask this. Owing to our rapid growth it is impossible for the operator to remember all the numbers and have to look them up, thereby greatly reducing the efficiency of the service. In calling by number always call the figures singly, as 17 call, "one" "seven," or as 280-L, call, "two" "eight" "0" "L. Try this and you will like it.
Respectfully,
Home Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Heavy Rainfall.

The rainfall yesterday was 1.82, the heaviest in sometime. First after the shower in the late afternoon, it was impossible to cross, main street at the corner in front of Nobles' barber shop without wading over the shoe tops.

St. John's Day at Oxford Orphanage.

On Friday, June 24th, in the ample oak grove of the Oxford orphanage the annual celebration of Saint John's Day will take place. The occasion seems to grow in interest from year to year. If conditions are favorable, it is likely that between seven and ten thousand of our people will gather in Oxford for the celebration.

A special session of the Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina will be held about noon and, very soon thereafter, the exercises out in the grove will begin. Unless something prevents, Grand Master Richard N. Hackett will preside.

Mr. W. B. Ballou, of Oxford, will deliver the address of welcome, Grand Master Hackett has announced the appointment of Rev. Plato Durham, of Concord, as orator of the day.

The children of the Oxford orphanage, with their sweet singing and their open-air concert in the afternoon, will contribute no little to the enjoyment and profit of the occasion.

Some of the visitors to Oxford will, doubtless, prefer to carry baskets and enjoy their dinner in good old-fashioned picnic style.

An abundance of pure ice water will be provided. From stands on the grounds, barbecue dinner, sandwiches, other lunches, fruits, ice cream, lemonade, etc., will be on sale.

The Seaboard Air Line plans to again operate excursion trains from Raleigh, Durham, Weldon and Henderson. Besides the usual increased equipment and attractive special rates on regular trains, which are run on schedules most convenient for the people east of Oxford, the Southern Railway will operate an excursion from Greensboro. This special will leave Greensboro at 7:30 a. m. and reach Oxford about 10:45 a. m. Returning it will leave Oxford at 4:30 p. m. and arrive in Greensboro about 7:45 p. m.

The Oxford Orphanage, one of the greatest institutions in our commonwealth, its three hundred and thirty children, the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Masons, the splendid speaking, the sweet singing, the afternoon concert, the out of doors picnic feature, the fine fellowship—these are some of the attractions of this celebration. And the convenient excursion and low rates will be added inducements for many of our people to go to Oxford, Friday, June 24th.

For Sale.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

Miss Lila May Willis, of New Bern, who has been visiting Miss Mary Smith left this morning.

H. B. Bullock, of Rocky Mount, came in Thursday to be at the bedside of his little son, who is quite sick.

W. B. Wilson is attending the commencement at West Point. His son, Durwood, a cadet graduates in this year's class.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Red men meet tonight.

On account of rain last night the Amuzu will show tonight for the benefit of the ball team. Come.

D. D. Haskett pulled his first ripe tomato on the 6th, being 3 day earlier than last year. He will have them on the market next week.

On account of the bad weather this afternoon the lawn party which was to be held on Mrs. C. J. Forbes' lawn has been changed to an in-door party and will be held at the music store of Fineman & White, beginning at 4 o'clock.

Don't Like Schedule.

Washington, N. C., June 9.—The recent change in the Norfolk Southern train schedules between this city and Raleigh, in which the early morning train and the night train arriving here at 8:30, has been removed, is causing a great deal of dissatisfaction, not only in Washington and vicinity, but in all of the intermediate stations between here and Raleigh. The mail service by this new schedule has been thrown back, causing a delay of between twelve and twenty-four hours, as well as the express being similarly delayed. Quite a number of wholesale shippers of fish from this city to Northern points are thus delayed, and in some cases unable to ship their goods so as to reach certain destinations as heretofore when we had the more suitable schedule. It is generally looked upon by Washington's business men that this change is quite a blow to the business and commercial interests of the city and it is to be sincerely hoped that the railroad officials can soon arrange to put back these two trains that were discontinued.

Anthony-Bready.

The following invitation has been received friends in Greenville:

"Mr. Charles Edward Bready requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of his daughter, Julia Estelle, to Mr. Peyton Tunstall Anthony, on Wednesday afternoon, the twenty-second of June, nineteen hundred and ten, at half past five o'clock, Trinity church, Adamstown, Maryland."

Train Delayed.

The Norfolk Southern passenger train, due in Greenville at 12:30 a. m., did not arrive until 6 o'clock this morning. The engine broke down at Farmville and it was impossible to leave until after daybreak.

Among the passengers for Greenville, who were inconvenienced by this delay, was Mr. J. P. Quinerly, chairman of the board of county commissioners.

Newsp Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

Raleigh, June 9.—Governor Kitchin announces a reward of $150 for Joseph L. Baker, wanted in Bertie county for killing Willie C. White, May 14. The fugitive is a young man 30 years.

Wilmington, June 9.—A verdict for $7,000 was returned this afternoon in the case of Susan M. Gregg, administratrix of E. M. Gregg vs city of Wilmington and J. F. Woolvin, the full amount being against the city. The plaintiff asked for $25,000. Mr. Gregg was a broker and was killed last year by a pile of brick on one of the streets falling upon him. The trial of the case consumed nearly six days.

Raleigh, June 9.—Deputy United States Marshal Ripton W. Ward had the misfortune to have a United States prisoner escape while he and two guards were conveying six prisoners from Raleigh to the federal prison at Atlanta. The prisoner was H. H. Freeman, of Moore county, who was under sentence of one year in the prison for blockading and retailing.

Fayetteville, June 9.—While attempting to arrest a negro named John Bootman for failure to work the roads, Chief of Police W. H. Russell, of Raeford, this county, shot and killed Bootman at that place today. Russell swore that Bootman assaulted him with a hoe, but witness made oaths that he did not.

Funeral of Robt. Moore.

The remains of Robert Moore, the twelve-year-old son of Mrs. Allie Moore, now of Reidsville, but formerly of this place, were brought in this morning on the Norfolk Southern train and interred in Cherry Hill cemetery.

The lad was apparently well until a few weeks ago, when he was suddenly stricken with appendicitis. He was taken to a hospital in Danville and an operation was performed. Complication developed, and after lingering for several days, death relieved him of his sufferings.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. C. Deal, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1910.

Just one more week and the great T. R. will land on the American shore. Then you will have a chance to observe what a nation of hero worshippers we are.

The condition of affairs up at Washington reminds us of an old woman's gossip club, where they have turned on each other. Talk about muck-raking! Well, there's nothing that can beat what congressmen hand up to one another, not even the yellow magazines.

Judging from what the subs are doing on the various newspapers around through the State while their chiefs are at the press convention, there is a full crop of editors growing but they are not ripe yet.

The Reflector has a rate per line for all advertisements. Our correspondents will please take notice that boosts of candidates come under the advertisement head and must be paid for. Frequently we "blue pencil" these boosts among community items, not because we are opposed to the candidate written about, but because such items cannot be published free. The advertising space of a newspaper is its only asset and it is only fair that the politician pay for advertising as well as the merchant or any other business man.

The outcome of the bond issue matter is indeed gratifying to the pride of North Carolina. Despite the fact that adverse advertisements inserted in the northern newspapers by reconstruction bond holders gave the State a black eye in the financial world, she has sold her bonds. "The bids run $50,000 in excess of the issue and the State bankers were prepared to subscribe for $250,000 more than was necessary," reads a press dispatch. The action of the A. T. Company in the matter will prove the lie on those northern blackmailers. This great company knew what it was about when it took those bonds.

The following is an extract from the Charlotte News:

"The Business Men's Club, an organization formed for social and moral purposes, pleaded guilty to selling liquor in the Superior court this afternoon and was fined $400. At the instance of Solicitor Clarkson, Judge Pell ordered the sheriff to at once issue execution papers on the property of the club. Mr. Plummer Stewart, who represented the club, said that the sentence would not be opposed, but wanted permission for the members of the club to get their beer, which was stored away in the common ice box."

It appears as if the "business men" of the Queen City are morally stunted. Judge Pell remarking on the case said he had more respect for the old negro who peddles it out by drams, as the members of the club are men of brains and their action was all the more serious.

Sang "The Old North State."

The bankers and state officials, realizing that victory was won and that the bond issue had been subscribed adjourned by singing "The Old North State." They were filled with the spirit of patriotism and gave vent to their feeling in the state song. It was really an inspiring sight. North Carolina will never suffer from humiliation so long as her people are filled with such spirit as manifested yesterday. And that spirit will always be uppermost in the hearts of true North Carolinians.—Raleigh Times.

Hard to do housework with an aching back. Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.
If women only knew the cause—that Backache pains come from sick kidneys.
"I would save much needless woe. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Many residents of this vicinity endorse them."
Mrs. L. Cameron, 117 Payton ave., Kinston, N. C., says: "The great benefit I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills justifies me in recommending them. A dull, nagging backache, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins bothered me for a long time. I had but little energy or ambition and was caused additional annoyance by a kidney weakness. Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me, I procured a box. After taking the contents, the pains in my back ceased and difficulty with the kidney secretions was corrected."

A Good Way to Use Hyomei
Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling Hyomei from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.
Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and makes you breathe easier.
Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a half teaspoonful of Hyomei, cover head and bowl with a towel and breathe through nose and mouth the medicated antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.
This method relieves the stuffiness at once and makes your head feel clear. You can get a bottle of Hyomei at drug stores everywhere and by Coward & Wooten for only 50c. Ask for extra bottle Hyomei Inhalent.
But bear in mind if you want a Hyomei inhaler you must buy a complete outfit which only costs $1.
But as stated before; if you already own an inhaler a bottle of Hyomei costs but 50c.
Hyomei is guaranteed by druggists everywhere and by Coward & Wooten to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, rose fever, asthma and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

BUYING A PUPPY.

The Tots Were Short on Cash, but Mike Was Long on Human Feeling.

The children burst into their mother's room like a twin cyclone.

"Oh, mamma," the two shouted in one gasping breath, "what do you think? We can get a puppy for $1!" The mother did not seem particularly impressed with this bargain in dogflesh.

"What on earth do you want with a puppy?" she asked. "And what sort of a puppy is it?"

"We want to play with it an' love it an' teach it to stand on its hind legs," elucidated the little girl.

"It's a yellow puppy!" exclaimed the little boy. "Mike McDonough down at the carpenter shop's got 'em. There's six."

"Well, ask your father," sighed the mother, turning again to her sewing. "If he says so I haven't anything to say."

The children withdrew for a conference.
Here was a situation not to their liking. If mamma had promised her influence probably papa would have been easy. Since she put it up to them this way the purchase of that puppy was doubtful.

"How much money have you got?"
asked the little boy. The two were seated gloomily upon the back steps.

"I've got 10 cents," said the little girl, "and mamma owes me a quarter for workin' in the garden."

"That ain't money," said her brother scornfully. "If I had all the money they owed me for workin' in the garden an' things I'd be rich."

"Have you got any?" asked the little girl. "Any at all?"

"I've got 43 cents in my bank," said her brother, "but we'd have to break the bank to get it out."

"That's half enough to buy a puppy!" exclaimed the little girl delightedly. "We'll get the rest sure."

The two went down to the carpenter shop again to look at the puppies.

"Going to buy one?" asked Mike McDonough, grinning.

"If we can get the money," said the little boy. "We've got 43 cents and 10 cents. That makes more'n half."

"Now, here," said Mike McDonough, for Mike McDonough was a kindly soul, "won't your pa buy you a pup?" The children shook their heads.

"We're afraid to ask him," they admitted, "but we got 53 cents, and pretty soon we'll have some more."

"Now, here," said Mike McDonough in a burst of human feeling, "I've got too many pups. There's a little one in the lot I haven't got room for. You can just take it home."

"For 53 cents?" gasped the children joyously.

"For 53 nothin'!" said Mike McDonough.
"I'm givin' you a pup. Come on here; let's get it."

And with a child clutching either hand the red-headed dog owner made his way toward the stable, and every step he took carried him closer to paradise and carried the little ones closer to an immediate heaven, peopled largely by little yellow pups.—Galveston News.

A Queer Tug of War.

In Burma the inhabitants have a novel form of the sport that elsewhere is commonly called tug of war.
In the Burmese game are a rain party and a drought party, which pull one against the other,
the victory of either party being considered to have immediate results as regards the weather.
The drought party, however, obtains few victories, for the kind of weather it represents is commonly not so much desired as rain. In the face, therefore, of a strong public opinion the rain party is nearly always allowed to win, the palpable "roping" in the popular notion being generally followed by a fertilizing downpour.

The Same Brick.

One day a mother found her four-year-old Alice playing with a brick in the parlor. She threw it out of doors and, turning to the child, said, "If you bring another brick into the parlor mother will whip you."

Shortly afterward she again found the child playing with a brick and, looking at her reprovingly, asked, "What did mother tell you about that brick, Alice?"

"Well, this isn't another brick," said the child. "This is the one I had before."

Her Royal Joke.

A story is told about a certain European sovereign who paid a visit to England two or three years ago. He attended a bridge party one afternoon, and as darkness began to fall his hostess said to him:
"Sir, if you'll allow me, I'll call for lights. I can't distinguish the king from the knave."

RESERVE POWER.

Value of a Surplus of Energy in the Battle of Life.

In every department of life physical, mental and moral reserves are of incalculable value. Many people work so hard that they exhaust their physical energies each day.
They make it a matter of conscience to wade through just as much work as possible every day, no matter how painfully it is done, not realizing the tremendous value of keeping oneself vigorous, buoyant.

No life can be vigorous if it is not kept fresh, responsive, by great physical and mental reserves. As hibernating animals, like the bear, in cold climates sustain life through the winter wholly upon the reserve fat and nutriment stored up in the tissues, so patients who have splendid physical reserves and resisting power are carried through severe sickness and sustained through severe illnesses by this reserve surplus, stored up vital power, while those who lack it, those who have dissipated it in abnormal living and excesses, often lose their lives even in much less severe illnesses.

Great business men accomplish marvels with their reserves. Many of them work but a few hours a day, but they have such tremendous physical reserves and so much stored up mental energy that they are able to accomplish wonders in a short time because of their ability to work with great intensity and powerful concentration.

People who keep their physical and mental surplus drawn down very low by working a great many hours and almost never taking vacations, who do not fill their reserve reservoir by frequent vacations and by a lot of recreation and play, do not work with anything like the freshness and mental vigor of those who work fewer hours and constantly accumulate great reserve power.

There comes into every life worth while a time when success will turn upon the reserve power. It is then a question of how long your stored up energy will enable you to hold out. There will often arise emergencies when your success will depend upon how much fight there is in you.—Success Magazine.

The Tree Moved.

M. Thouar during his explorations in South Africa had occasion to apprehend an attack from hostile natives. He kept his men on the watch for six days, though they were worn out with fatigue.

"Once a sentinel slept leaning on his gun," he wrote. "I woke him and warned him that one of the least dangers of such a sleep was that a Toba spy would fall on him and kill him with his own gun.
While we talked I observed that a little tree which I had noticed earlier now occupied a different position.
I fixed my attention on it and saw that it moved almost imperceptibly.
I had seen such a phenomenon before. The sentinel and I pretended to sleep. The tree continued to approach. Suddenly I raised my gun and fired. We rushed forward. There lay a Toba wounded in the leg and grasping the branch with which he had disguised himself as a tree."

Time to Quit.

"How's farming, old man?" asked the windmill salesman on the station platform at Gooseneck Junction.

"Gone to the dogs," sighed the big freckled chap with the yellow valise. "I just plumb give up and am going to town. Had a cabbage farm and thought I was going to make a fortune until Jed Hale started a snail farm, and the blamed critters ate all my cabbage."

"That was tough."

"Yes, but I tried to get even. I started a frog farm, and the frogs swallowed all of his snails."

"Well, you got satisfaction anyway, old man."

"Only for awhile. Jed got so all fired hot under the collar, blamed if he didn't start a snake farm, and in two days they had swallowed every frog in sight. Yaas, stranger, I reckon I am out of the farming business for good and all."—Chicago News.

A Beef Ham.

Sir Walter Scott wrote little about meat and drink, but his description in "Waverley" of a Scotch breakfast is memorable, says the London Chronicle. "He found Miss Bradwardine presiding over the tea and coffee, the table loaded with warm bread, both of flour oatmeal and barley meal in the shape of loaves, cakes, biscuits and other varieties, together with eggs, reindeer ham and beef ditto, smoked salmon and many other delicacies." "And,"
as Samuel Weller would have observed, "a werry good idea of a breakfast too." But has any reader ever seen a beef ham? Fortunately the sideboards in Scott's time were of substantial build.

NEEDLESS HARNESS.

Blinders and Tight Checkreins Make Horses Miserable.

Horses are placing mankind daily under everlasting obligations to them, says an official of the Humane society, but how cruelly and thoughtlessly are they repaid by those who are most indebted to them. A horse is a noble animal—patient, kind hearted, self sacrificing, willing to work till he dies in his tracks, uncomplaining, a lover of kind treatment and who is willing to work a whole lifetime with no other compensation than his bed and board.

Of the many things which make the daily life of a horse miserable two are blinders and the tight checkrein, the worst parts of a horse's harness. Very many people believe that they are part and parcel of a horse and that he would not be a horse without them.

The majority of the horses could readily dispense with blinders, and all could if they had never been invented. Blinders were first used by a nobleman in England to hide a defect on his horse's head and later were found excellent locations for the displaying of his coat of arms.

A horse's head was never intended for blinders, for his eyes are so set in his head that he can see behind him without turning his head, and of course the blinders deprive him of seeing the very things he should see for his own safety as well as his driver's. A horse's eye is a beautiful object, and it is a shame to cover it.

Whenever I see a man driving a horse without blinders I always feel like stopping him and shaking hands with him. A horse's head is the best part of him and should have on it as little harness as possible.

Another instrument of torture to a horse is the tight checkrein. It is responsible for poll evil, abscesses, sprung knees, paralysis and disorders of the brain and muscles. It spoils his appearance and detracts from his free and graceful movements.

Why a Boiled Lobster Is Red.

In all crustaceans, as, indeed, in almost everything in nature, there is a certain per cent of iron. Upon boiling the lobster is oxidized. The effect is largely due also to the percentage of muriatic acid which exists naturally in the shell. The chemical change which takes place here is almost similar to that which occurs in the burning of a brick.
In boiling a lobster its coat ceases to be a living substance, and to a certain extent it takes a new character.
It is as a brick would be after burning. This effect can also be produced by the sun, but necessarily not so rapid, as the heat of that luminary, although more intense, is not concentrated sufficiently to produce the result. The sun also exercises a bleaching influence which consumes the oxide almost as fast as it is formed, leaving the shell white or nearly pure lime.

Compact Quarters.

It was the tiniest of tiny flats.
"Yes, sir," said the maid, "the stork arrived with a fine baby boy."
"Great Josephus!" exclaimed Mr.
Flatte, who had been away on a trip. "That means more room.
Have you hung the broom in the air shaft?"

"Yes, sir."

"And trimmed the leaves of the rubber plant down to one-half their normal size?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then take the pet dog to the fancier's and have his tail cut off.
We must economize room some way. Thank goodness it wasn't twins!"—Chicago News.

The White Pine.

The white pine is distinctively a northern tree. The native distribution of the tree was from Newfoundland on the east to Lake Winnipeg on the west and thence to the southern boundaries of Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut. The white pine belt also followed the Appalachian range as far to the south as Georgia. The best growth of the tree was in Maine and the British territory east of the state, along the St. Lawrence river, in New Hampshire, Vermont, northern
New York, Michigan, Wisconsin,
Minnesota and central Pennsylvania.

Turned the Laugh.

"Who is there," cried the impassioned orator, "who will lift a voice against the truth of my statement?"

Just then a donkey on the outskirts of the crowd gave vent to one of the piercing "heehaws" of the tribe. The laugh was on the orator for a moment; but, assuming an air of triumph, he lifted his voice above the din to say:

"I knew nobody but a jackass would try it."

The Valuable Match.

There was a loud splash, and a moment later a dripping head appeared above the waves. On the end of the dock was a stevedore nonchalantly lighting his pipe.
"Help, man!" cried the chap in the water. "Can't you see I am overboard? I can't swim."
"How often you been down?"
asked the stevedore, shielding the flickering match from the wind.
"Once, I believe, but hurry up,

Casting Sleighbells.

A question frequently asked is in regard to the method of producing sleighbells containing iron balls larger than the opening in the bells.
Previous to making a cast the maker of sleighbells puts an iron ball inside a sand core, just the shape of the inside of the bell. This sand core, with the jinglet inside, is placed in the mold of the outside and the melted metal poured in, which fills up the space between the core and mold. The hot metal burns the core so that it can be shaken out, leaving the ball within the shell. Ball valves, swivel joints and many other articles are cast in the same manner.

Sensitiveness of the Phone. Preece has calculated that an audible sound is produced in a telephone by a current of 6 to 10.13 amperes, and Pellat has calculated that a sound is produced by a difference of potential between the two stations amounting to only one two-thousandth volt. These statements give some idea of the great sensitiveness of the modern telephone, but the sensitiveness of the human ear, which perceives the invisible vibration of the telephone diaphragm, is no less remarkable.—Washington Star.

COLOR BLINDNESS.

Hues of the Rainbow That Are Invisible to the Eye.

"If we look at a rainbow or the solar spectrum produced by a prism we see the waves arranged in a regular series—red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet. We also know that there are larger waves below the red and smaller waves above the violet, but these are invisible to the eye. Persons possessing very acute color perception can recognize seven colors in the spectrum," says a writer in the Strand Magazine, "but I have never met a person who could see more than that number. Therefore, though there are really millions of waves, each differing, we can see only six or at most seven definite points of difference."

"Since below the red and above the violet there are other waves of a similar character, but invisible, we should expect that people would differ as to the points where they first recognized color, just as they differ in their ability to recognize very low and very high notes."

"This is the case. While one person will see the whole of the red (or the violet) in the rainbow, another will see only half of it, the remainder being totally invisible. In other cases the visible spectrum commences at the orange. A person of this kind will look at a red light which is simply blinding in its intensity and declare that the room is absolutely dark."

"The second class of the color blind are those who see five or less colors in the spectrum instead of six. In the first degree of color blindness five instead of six distinct colors are seen, orange having disappeared as a definite color. In the next degree only four colors are seen, blue being no longer recognized as a distinct color. Persons included in the above two degrees may for all practical purposes be regarded as normal sighted."

"In the next degree three colors only are seen. Yellow is not recognized as a definite color. It is called greenish red. A person belonging to this class of the color blind told me that a red clover field in full blossom had to him an exactly similar appearance to the yellow of the spectrum."

"The green disappears in the next degree, only two colors being seen in the spectrum, or rainbow. Less and less difference is seen between any part of the spectrum in increasing degrees of color blindness until only the ends of the spectrum are recognized as being different. Finally the spectrum appears one uniform color; the individual being totally color blind."

FRICITION.

What Causes It and What Would Happen Without It.

What is friction really caused by? Why will two things in contact not slip over each other easily? It is because every substance known to science has teeth; microscopic, it is true, but still teeth. The result, then, is obvious. If we shove a book across a table the teeth of the book interlock with the teeth of the table just as cog-wheels do, and the push has to be strong enough either to bend them enough or to break them off for the motion to continue.

It has actually been observed in a microscope that if the push is only a slight one and moves the book only a short distance, on the pressure of the hand being removed the book actually jumps back to its former position. This action is a slight bending of the two sets of teeth, only not far enough for them to lose their relative positions, and their elasticity on being released makes the book fly back.

It has been shown that this friction is not so much between different bodies as between bodies of the same material. One industrial application of this is the bearings for steel axles. They are made of brass instead of steel.

In some things we want as much friction as possible and in others as little. The former is illustrated in the friction between an engine wheel and the track, and sometimes being poured on the track to increase the friction. The latter case is illustrated in all bearings where rotating metal is in contact with stationary metal, sometimes ball bearings being substituted, thus lessening the friction.

Many peculiar things would happen if there was no friction. All screws would immediately twist backward rapidly and shoot out into the air; trains could not run save on cogged rails, which would probably be necessary above as well as below, thus having four rails instead of two; buildings would tumble down, and new ones could not be built unless molded in place like Edison's or else riveted together. "People would have to wear shoes with long spikes in them and then have to be careful, for dirt grains would slip over one another easily, and would act like deep sand. But, one great thing would happen—machines would run at 100 per cent efficiency, would give out as much energy as was put into them.—Lawrence Hodges in New York Tribune.

Troubles comparatively seldom come to us; it is we who go to them.—John Lubbock.
