Miss Hargett, of Richlands, came in a few days ago to visit Misses Mimie and Doris Cox.

O. W. Rollins and E. C. Cox went to Ayden Sunday.

W. B. Wingate who has recently been appointed assistant rural carrier, began work today.

MISS VENETIA COX ENTERTAINS.

For the last few weeks the home of Dr. B. T. Cox has been the centre of social life for our little village. Miss Maude Louise Keehn, of Salem, being the guest of Miss Venia Cox, who several evening ago, gave a six course luncheon in honor of Miss Keehn, and on Monday evening June 20th, a delightful party, as a fitting climax of the enjoyable social functions.

After a few minutes spent in very pleasant progressive conversation, there were various amusements, the most interesting of which was a drawing contest that engrossed the attention of each one for sometime. Miss Mimie Cox was the winner of the first prize—a picture, and the booby was won by Mr. Jesse Rollins.

Refreshments consisting of cream and cake were served. Several selections of music were rendered before the hour of parting when each declared that a most delightful evening had been spent.

Notice, Notice, Notice.

In the City Market House at 12 o'clock on June the 30th Thursday the Market Committee will rent to the highest bidder the meat and fish stalls for twelve months. Satisfactory bonds will be required from the renters for securing six months rent of the stalls.

HORSE DISPLAYS FINÉ SENSE.

Waynesville, June 20.—Several people, who were near the Commercial bank yesterday, saw the finest display of real horse sense ever seen in Waynesville, but the sight was enough to cause cold shivers to run over them. One of Colonel Jones' fine blooded horses, "on a voyage of discovery," walked out upon the ledge between the railing around the court house and Depot street. The ledge at one end where the horse went on is about eight feet wide but gradually narrows toward the other end. The street is some twelve feet below and a perpendicular rock wall is built up from the street to the ledge.

Without seeing his danger the horse, a large beautiful animal, while running loose in the yard back of the court house, walked out upon the ledge and continued to go for some twenty yards until he saw that his path was growing too narrow for his comfortable advance. Attempting then to turn he saw the extreme danger of falling down the embankment, which would have meant broken limbs and probable death, the horse displayed real "horse sense," in stopping and considering what was best to be done.

After a seemingly thoughtful consideration of the whole situation, the horse began to back as if under the spell of an expert trainer. That he did until a point was reached on the ledge where the turn could be made with safety, when, bringing his feet together for a pivot he made the turn successfully and galloped off the scene. The noble animal was applauded as he left the stage. —Charlotte Observer.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

Rochdale, N. C., June 21.—Miss Mattie Little, who had spent more than a week with us, returned to her home at Wilson last Tuesday evening.

Miss Bettie Wainright, of Wilson, is visiting at Cobbdale. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Beaman, of Farmville, were visiting at Ivy Smith's Sunday.

Jack Harrington, of Greenville, was visiting in Smithtown Sunday.

Miss Ruberta Flanagan, who is attending the summer school at Greenville, came up Saturday evening and spent until Monday with relatives and friends.

J. S. Fulford has been very sick for more than a week, but has taken a slight change for the better.

All of the crops that escaped being drowned from the recent heavy rains, as well as oats and wheat, needs the attention of the farmers all at one and the same time.

Mrs. C. C. Cobb and Miss Bettie Wainright went to Greenville Monday.

Why Do Town People Wait?

There are not many more days left for tax listing, yet the list takers tell us that not many of the people living in town have listed. Just why they wait to get in the rush of the last few days of listing time is not easily explained, but it seems to be a habit they have fallen into. When you know a thing must be done, it is just as well to go along and attend to it.

ALL ABOARD FOR RALEIGH.

Annual Excursion Baraca Class of Baptist Sunday School.

The Baraca class of Memorial Baptist Sunday school will run its third annual excursion to the capital city of the State on Thursday, June 30th. Take a day off and go with us to see the many places of interest and sights around Raleigh. We pass through several counties on the route, giving you an opportunity to see the different lands and various crops planted along the Norfolk Southern railroad, and also to compare your home section with others.

That afternoon there will be a league game of ball between Raleigh and Wilson which you will have time to see before the train leaves.

The fare for the round trip is only $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12 years of age.

Training School Ice Plant.

The ice plant of East Carolina Teachers' Training school has been completed and the first block of ice was pulled out of the tanks Tuesday. This first block was decidedly a novelty and attracted much attention from the school and others who were present to see it. Mr. O. E. Warren, the nurseryman, had provided a handsome bouquet of cut flowers which were frozen in the middle of the block and it made a beautiful picture through the clear glistening ice. After being on exhibition a short while this block was sent to ex Gov. T. J. Jarvis with the compliments of the school and faculty.

The Mikado Revival in New York

The Shuberts have put the "Mikado" on at the Casino Theatre, Broadway, New York, with an all star cast. New York is going wild over it, and everybody is whistling it. The New York Sunday World, ever alert to supply its readers with the most popular music, will give two songs from the Mikado. One is "Three Little Maids From School Are We," and the other is "For He's Going to Marry Yum Yum." Words and music complete. Sunday World June 26 and July 3.

County Sunday School Association.

A meeting will be held in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here on Friday, 24th, for the purpose of organizing a Sunday school association for Pitt county. The morning session will begin at 9 o'clock, and there will also be a session in the afternoon. Speakers from a distance will be present and the program promises to be interesting. All persons interested in Sunday schools are invited to be present.

Lodge Meetings.

Greenville Encampment No. 45, I. O. O. F. meet tonight. Every member requested to be present.

Civic League Meeting.

The Civic League will meet with Mrs. W. H. Ricks Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. All members are urged to be present on time, as there is business of importance to come before the meeting.

STATE NEWS.

Newsp Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

A farmer near Greensboro has an acre in corn on which there are 23,000 stalks. He is trying to see how many bushels he can raise on the acre. Over 200 bushels were raised by a man in Wake last year and this Guilford man is trying to go him one better. —Greensboro Record.

BLACK JACK ITEMS.

Eld. W. Lupton, of Grimesland, filled his regular appointment here Saturday and Sunday. There was a large crowd at all the meetings. Eld. W. H. Laughinghouse also was with us.

Miss Lula Mills, from near Simpson, was the guest of Misses Stella and Bertha Gaskins Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. A. O. Clark, of Grimesland, returned home Sunday after spending a few days with friends and relatives here.

Miss Ruby Gwaltney, who is attending the E. C. T. T. S. at Greenville, was the guest of Miss Lula Mills Saturday and Sunday.

We are sorry to say that the recent rains have damaged crops considerably in this section. Tobacco is one of the principal things damaged. Corn and cotton are in the grass, but watch the farmers and they will destroy some of the grass.

The Farmers Union will meet again Friday night.

There will be preaching here Saturday night and Sunday.

A Good Movement.

The work undertaken by the Winston-Salem board of trade of building good roads in adjoining counties is a splendid one and one that will be beneficial in a number of ways. It will not only aid in making Winston-Salem's position with reference to the national auto highway secure, but it will be helpful in developing closer relations with those counties and will be worth all it costs and more in a business way. It is to be hoped the good roads committee's request for funds to further this work will meet with a liberal response. The citizens of Winston-Salem could hardly spend money for a purpose that would be productive of more real benefit to this city. It is a proposition that cannot fail to appeal to those who are interested in the further growth and development of this community. —Winston Sentinel.

A. & M. College.

In the development of North Carolina's industries, the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts is taking a foremost part. Its students are giving their lives to improving our farming, our trucking, our dairying and stock-raising. They are rapidly making their way into our factories, our electric power-houses, and our shops. They are helping to build our roads, our bridges, and our railroads. Indeed, they are just the men needed at this stage in the State's growth. We are glad to note that more young men than ever before are seeking, through this well-equipped institution, a place in our industrial progress. We call attention to the advertisement in this issue.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

F. R. Stretch returned Tuesday evening from the western part of the State.

Mrs. W. S. Anderson and children, of Wilson, are visiting Mrs. H. L. Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tunstall and Mrs. Hugh Tunstall, of Kinston, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tunstall.

J. L. Little, cashier Bank of Greenville, and C. S. Carr, cashier Greenville Banking & Trust Co., left this morning for Wrightsville to attend the bankers' convention.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

There will be prayer meetings in the churches tonight.

The Washington baseball team could not come today, hence there was no game.

The ladies of the Methodist church will have a lawn party Thursday afternoon and night on Mrs. C. T. Munford's lawn. Beginning at 5 o'clock. Everybody is invited to come and buy of them to help a good cause. 22

To Potato Growers.

We strongly urge, those of our friends who have not as yet dug their potatoes, to dig at once and store away in some cool and well ventilated building, as after so much rain there is danger of rot should they be allowed to remain in the ground longer.

It is useless to try to sell or consign with the market in its present condition.

The buyers will not now give $1 per barrel f. o. b. Greenville, and as for consigning, it means with the present outlook, you will get nothing, with perhaps a bill sent back to you for the freight.

Keep your potatoes at home, and you will later get something for them. Moseley Bros.

Mrs. L. C. King Dead

Her many friends here are sorrowed at the death of Mrs. Lou C. King which occurred Tuesday night at her home in Farmville. Mrs. King lived in Greenville for many years and had a host of friends and relatives here. She was a daughter of Mrs. Alice Joyner, and leaves a mother, one sister, two brothers and three children. She was twice married, her first husband being Mr. B. S. Atkinson and her second Mr. John King.

Mrs. H. B. Harris, Mrs. B. F. Tyson, Mrs. C. J. Forbes, Mrs. E. A. Moye, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cobb and Mr. J. F. King went to Farmville this afternoon to attend the funeral.

FIFTY FIVE THOUSAND.

Amount for Greenville's Public Building.

On Saturday the omnibus bill in congress which carried with it an appropriation of $45,000 for the erection of a public building in Greenville on the site already procured by the government, passed the house. When the bill went over to the senate Monday, through the efforts of Senators Simmons and Overman and Congressman Small, $10,000 was added to Greenville's appropriation, making the total for building $55,000, which was concurred in by the house when the bill went back for ratification. The last congress had already appropriated $10,000 for a site, which brings the whole up to $65,000.

Our people heartily appreciate the good efforts of Senators Overman and Simmons and Congressman Small in behalf of Greenville. Congressman Thomas, of the third district, was also very friendly to Greenville and helped much in the matter. This appropriation means that Greenville is to have a handsome public building.

An Explanation.

We wish to explain to the people of Greenville the cause of the failure to play a game of ball here today as was advertised. Last night at the eleventh hour a letter was received from Washington, cancelling the game. All efforts to arrange a game with Kinston, Ridge Springs, etc. were without avail, and consequently there was no game this afternoon. C. Lanier.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1910.

The candidates are busy and other folks are at work.

When you see a network of good roads all over Pitt county you will feel like a different man. They are coming too

In a column dispatch of some of the Tuesday morning papers about the marriage of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. to Miss Eleanor Alexander, just nineteen lines were given to talking about the bridegroom's father.

Justice Brown, of the United States Supreme court, believes that the government should disarm and not be pushing preparations for war. He is right. All the nations should disarm and there should be universal peace.

The promoters ought to have felt of the governor of California to learn how he stood on the fight before they dropped $25,000 in the big pavilion that was being prepared for it. The fighters and spectators can move to Reno, but the pavilion cannot go along with them.

You may forget to list your taxes, but the list taker will not forget that you failed to do so, nor will the county commissioners forget to impose the double tax penalty prescribed for such failure. You had best get busy and interview the list taker. There is just a week left in which to do this.

As long as there is no occasion for any to be offered at present, the hint can be dropped without fear of getting on anybody's toes, that it is no longer good taste to put cards of thanks in the newspapers. Hereafter The Reflector will make a charge of one cent a word for cards of thanks or resolutions of respect that it prints. If any are sent to the paper for publication the sender should count the words and enclose the price accordingly.

The Greenville Reflector, like The Times here, is agitating a park for Greenville. We hope The Reflector is meeting with more encouragement at Greenville than The Times. Both of these growing towns need a park and the longer the purchase of a lot is deferred the greater will be the cost if the park is to be in a convenient location.—Wilson Times.

If The Times is meeting with any encouragement at all on the park matter, it is that much ahead of what The Reflector has found. Both towns do need parks, no doubt about that, and some of these days the people will realize how unwise they were in failing to make such provision.

This tops it. A man who had been confined in jail at Southport prints a card about the excellent treatment received at the hands of the esteemed jailer. He says—"I wish to say in behalf of myself, my boys and Mr. Bullard that Sheriff Knox and his jailer and deputies have been as kind to us and as courteous to us and as obliging to us as we could expect to be treated. I make this statement in justice to these officers to contradict a report that I have heard of being circulated against them. I want to thank them, and also the people of Southport for kindness shown us while we were imprisoned." Reminds us of some other cards of thanks seen in the papers.—Greensboro Record.

It is said that a French workman never goes in debt without first seeing where the money is to come from to get out, in which he is quite different from most men in this country. What most of us want is a chance to get in debt; getting out is left to the other fellow.—Greensboro Record.

It will be time enough for the Democratic party to be looking around for a candidate for president after it has found out that it is going to be allowed to put up anybody.—Durham Herald.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Greenville Homes
Hard to do housework with an aching back.
Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.
If women only knew the cause—that Backache pains come from sick kidneys.
"I would save much needless woe.
Mrs. L. Cameron, 117 Payton ave., Kinston, N. C., says: "The great benefit I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills justifies me in recommending them. A dull, nagging backache, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins bothered me for a long time. I had but little energy or ambition and was caused additional annoyance by a kidney weakness. Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me, I procured a box. After taking the contents, the pains in my back ceased and difficulty with the kidney secretions was corrected."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Good Way to Use Hyomei

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling Hyomei from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.
Try it; it's very simple; gives quick relief and makes you breathe easier.
Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a half tea-spoonful of Hyomei, cover head and bowl with a towel and breathe through nose and mouth the medicated antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.
You can get a bottle of Hyomei at druggists everywhere and by Coward & Wooten for only 50c. Ask for extra bottle Hyomei Inhalant.
But bear in mind if you want a Hyomei inhaler you must buy a complete outfit which only costs $1.
But as stated before, if you already own an inhaler a bottle of Hyomei costs but 50c.
Hyomei is guaranteed by druggists everywhere and by Coward & Wooten to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, rose fever, asthma and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

Starboard and Larboard.

The Italians derived "starboard" from questa borda, "this side," and "larboard" from quella borda, which means "that side." Abbreviated these two phrases appear as eta borda and la borda. Their close resemblance caused so many mistakes that the admiralty ordered the "larboard" to be discontinued and "port" substituted. "Port" for "larboard" is said to be first used in Arthur Pitt's "Voyages" in 1850.—London Mail.

His Safeguard.
I knew that Mr. Rurales lied on a much traveled turnpike, and I asked him if he and his family were not greatly troubled by tramps stopping at his house.
"We're not troubled at all," he replied, smiling shrewdly. "There's a magical sign on the front gate."
"A magical sign?" I repeated.
"Yes," he said, with a grin. "It reads, 'Employment Agency.'"—Chicago News.

Precisely That.
Bragsby—I tell you I'm overworking. I am turning out an awful lot of work just now. Necker—That's just exactly the word your employer used in describing your present work.—Baltimore American.

STRINGING PEARLS

A Difficult Task That Calls For Skill and Judgment.

CORDED ON SURGEON'S SILK.

Every now and then a story is printed about the loss of a valuable string of pearls through the breaking of the cord on which they were hung and their slipping off and scattering over the floor or sidewalk. Those who know anything about the stringing of pearls, however, always read these tales with incredulity, because nowadays, as a general thing, only false pearls or those of small price are strung without a knot being tied between each of them, so that if the cord breaks no more than one can fall off.

It is common belief that because of their great value pearls are strung on something durable, like catgut or wire. As a matter of fact such material is never employed. There is no beauty to a string of pearls that looks wiry or stiff. It must be flexible to the highest degree, otherwise all its graceful effect will be lost. Up to the time of the introduction of surgeon's silk for pearl stringing nothing had been found that would absolutely meet the requirements of strength and flexibility.

That the most valuable pearls are today strung on cords of surgeon's silk is due to the suggestion of a woman employee of a New York jewelry house.

Surgeon's silk—the thread that is used for sewing up cuts and wounds—is a soft, round strand of pure white silk which is woven, not twisted. The weave, when viewed under a magnifying glass, closely resembles that of the silk braid and is capable of only a small degree of expansion. This thread is produced in several diameters or grades, which makes it all the more desirable for pearl stringing. These are numbered instead of being lettered like ordinary sewing silk and are wound on small cards like darning cotton.

When the young woman's idea was first adopted it seemed as though it would prove impracticable owing to the quantity of surgeon's silk manufactured being insufficient to meet the new demands from the jewelers. It was also very expensive. But the idea was such a good one and the surgeon's silk was so much superior to anything ever tried before that in time it was found possible to secure it in sufficient quantities and at wholesale prices.

The principal safeguard against loss, however, is in the method of stringing. An intricate system of knotting the thread between each pearl is employed. This prevents the escape of more than one jewel should the thread break. This knotting is done with tweezers and is a task that requires great skill. There must be no unsightly gaps between the knots and the pearls, and the whole when finished must be immaculate in its whiteness. The tiny knots instead of detracting from the beauty of the necklace enhance it, for they look like seed pearls alternating with the larger ones. Knotting lengths the necklace also and is often resorted to for that purpose.

When a strand of a certain length is desired and the number of large pearls is not sufficient imitation pearls of the exact size and color are often substituted. Some of these imitations will deceive the eye of any but the most expert.

It often happens that the largest pearls have the smallest holes drilled through them, for every grain that is taken from the pearl reduces it in weight. In such cases, however, the risk of the cord breaking is increased owing to the slenderness of the thread and the sharp edges of the pearls cutting through it quickly.

Stringing pearls is never done with a needle. A needle is not yielding enough to pass through very small holes, and the doubling of its diameter at the eye makes its use impracticable. Therefore the end of the thread is sharpened to a very fine point, which is waxed stiffly enough to be used exactly as a needle would be.

Ordinarily pearl stringing is mechanically difficult and also requires taste and judgment. The pearls may have to be rearranged in order to improve their general appearance. In the laying out of collarets especially a great deal of skill is required. In the first place, the collaret must fit exactly. This seems comparatively easy, but it is not. A pattern is always fitted beforehand, but it is rarely the case that the result is satisfactory the first time. Some necks require straight collars and others slightly curved. The same care is given to the fitting of a collaret as to the set of an expensive gown, and it has to be tried on and changed and adjusted as many times.

UNCLE SAM'S STAMPS.

Wonderful Collection in the Postoffice Department Museum.

The fact that nearly all men at some time were stamp collectors is said to account for the popularity of the official stamp collection of the United States postoffice department maintained in connection with the postal museum in Washington. Postoffice department officials say 100,000 men call every year to see the museum stamp collection.

The postoffice department museum is full of interesting objects. It contains almost everything from a lock of Charles Guitteau's hair to models of the big battleships of the navy, but by far its most interesting feature, according to the officials in charge, is the stamp collection. Few visitors miss that sight, and many "hobbyists" spend hours poring over it.

Uncle Sam as a stamp collector is a most signal success. He not only has a complete set of his own stamps, but a complete collection from every other stamp issuing country in the civilized world as well. His collection is valued by the department at $200,000, but stamp dealers say it would demand a figure many times that sum if placed on the open market for sale.

The fact that Uncle Sam's stamp collection is absolutely complete is a statement difficult to comprehend, even to those who have been collectors themselves. Most of those who were collectors in years gone by will remember how many empty places there were in their albums when they glared in the possession of 1,500 and 2,000 specimens. They will recall how many new varieties above the 2,000 mark cost from $5 to $50 each; also the small fortunes placed on some of the specially rare specimens, the kind which the dealers' catalogues related had been printed only to the number of 100 or so and but six or seven were known to be in existence.

Well, Uncle Sam's stamp collection possesses all of these, besides the thousands of common kinds. Although it has taken hard work, many years and a tidy fortune to do it, the collection today stands absolutely complete. The only varieties yet to be added are those yet to be issued.—Baltimore American.

A JUGGLER'S TRICK.

Clever Feat of Illusion Performed by an East Indian.

A retired naval official who served long in the east says the feats of the East Indian jugglers are wonderful. He cites one.

While he was an officer on board a P. and O. steamship two natives came aboard at Madras, he says. They were a juggler and his assistant. After they had performed a number of minor feats and had gathered quite a crowd around them they called for a sack and a piece of sailcloth.

These having been provided, the chief juggler made a small tentlike structure with the canvas and some stools. He then placed his assistant in the sack and allowed a sailor to tie the knot which bound him a fast prisoner. This done, the chief carried the sack into an open space, warning the people to stand back some distance, and then carried on an animated conversation with his assistant, whose replies could be distinctly heard coming from the sack. Suddenly the chief rushed forward, picked up the sack and dumped it overboard, where, to the horror of the passengers and crew, it sank out of sight.

Immediately the captain rushed forward and seized the man under the full belief that he had murdered his companion, but the juggler only smiled and, pointing to the canvas, asked that it be raised. This was done, and the supposed drowned man was discovered squatting on the deck. So realistic had been the throwing overboard, however, that it was some time before the surprised passengers could realize a murder had not been committed.

How a Bird Dresses.
As bird fashions do not change, two suits a year are quite enough for most birds, but they need to take great care of them. Each separate feather must be cleaned and looked over and the useless ones pulled out. These feathers are not packed close together, you know, but lie loose and have places between filled with air. When a bird wants to get warmer he lifts his feathers so that these air spaces may be larger. But if his feathers are tangled or wet and dirty he could not raise them, and soon he could not keep the head in his little body and would, of course, die.

Cutting it Short.
"How long can you stay?" asked a hostess who had received an unexpected visitor coolly.
"No longer than I can help," was the crisp reply. "I have telephoned to have my trunk stay at the depot and to notify me of the first train I can take home. So sorry I can't stay longer!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Dangerous Reproductions.
"An artist," said Mr. Teechum, "should strive to reproduce what is nearest to his thought and deepest in his affection."
"Yes," replied the mercenary genius, "but the laws against counterfeiting currency are so severe!"—Washington Star.

His Request.
Judge—Have you anything to say before I pass sentence? Prisoner (who knows human nature)—Yes, my lord; I should like you to have your dinner before you pass sentence upon me.—London Scraps.

A BOSTON LANDMARK.

Perched on the cupola of Faneuil hall is a grasshopper weather vane which is not only one of the oldest vanes in the country, but is famous as the product of one of America's earliest woodcarvers and artisans, Shem Drowne of Boston.

Drowne's shop was on Ann street in the north end.

Of the many vanes he made only three are now known to be in existence—the one on the Shepard Memorial church in Cambridge, which formerly was on the steeple of the New Brick church on Hanover street in this city and known as the revenge vane; the one in the collection of the Massachusetts Historical society, a relic of the old Boston province house, and the one on Faneuil hall.

This grasshopper of copper, hammered out by hand, has large glassy eyes, which in the sunlight shine like fire. It was made in 1742 at the order of Peter Faneuil when the hall, his gift to the town, was nearing completion.

It has not, however, lived a life of unbroken peace, for several times it has been near destruction. In 1755, when Boston was shaken by an earthquake, the vane fell to the ground, but after being supplied with a new leg by the son of the man who made it it was replaced.

Five years later Faneuil hall was seriously damaged by fire, but the vane remained intact, and when the hall was rebuilt the grasshopper was once more given the place of honor.

Another disaster befell it when in 1839 a flag was being raised to celebrate the anniversary of the evacuation of the city by the British. The hooper hopped to the street below. But in a few days it hopped right back again, and there it has remained ever since, with the exception of an occasional removal for repairs.—Boston Globe.

When Solid Iron Floats.

Experiments have shown that if a ball of solid iron be lowered into a mass of liquid iron by means of a metal fork the ball at first sinks to the bottom with the fork, but that in a few seconds it will leave the prongs and rise to the surface, where it continues to float until it melts. The rising is explained by the expansion of the ball, due to heating, whereby it becomes, bulk for bulk, less dense than the molten metal.—St. Louis Republic.

Kipling's Corncob.

"Did Kipling ever steal one of my corncob pipes?" said the late Mark Twain once.
"Never, and if he says so he's wrong. He tried to steal one and failed; then he tried to steal another, but I prevented the theft and gave it to him, probably the only pipe that Kipling ever got honestly!"

Thrift.

An economical housewife drank a quantity of silver nitrate by mistake. The doctor, who had been hastily summoned, ordered large drafts of the white of eggs to be administered. "Mary, Mary," murmured the almost unconscious patient, "save the yolks for puddings!"—Success Magazine.

The Champion.

"By the way," continued the near sport, "who is the lightweight champion of America?"
"It is still a matter of doubt," answered the wise guy. "Some claim the title for the coal dealer, while others say the iceman is entitled to it."—Chicago News.

PAINTING THE WORLD.

Indian Legend of the Way Spring Came Into Existence.

Once, long before there were men in the world, all the earth was covered with snow and ice.

White and frozen lay the rivers and the seas; white and frozen lay the plains. The mountains stood tall and dead, like ghosts in white gowns. There was no color except white in all the world except in the sky, and it was almost black. At night the stars looked through it like angry eyes.

Then God sent the Spring down into the world—the Spring with red lips and curling yellow hair.

In his arms he bore sprays of apple blossoms and the first flowers—crocus, anemones and violets, red, pink, blue, purple, violet and yellow.

The first animal to greet the Spring was the white rabbit. The Spring dropped a red crocus on his head, and ever since then all white rabbits have had red eyes.

Then the Spring dropped a blue violet on a white bird, the first bird to greet the Spring, and that is the way the bluebird was made. Ever since then it is the first bird to arrive when the Spring comes down from heaven.

So the Spring went through the world. Wherever he tossed the leaves from his fragrant burden the earth became green. He tossed the blossoms on the frozen seas, and the ice melted and the fish became painted with all the tint of his flowers. That is the way the trout and the minnows and the salmon became gaudy.

Only the high mountains would not bow to the Spring. So their summits remain white and dead, for they would let the Spring paint only the sides.

The snow owls and the white geese and the polar bears fled from the Spring, so they, too, remain white to this day.

Curious Tombstone.

On a gravestone in the parish churchyard of Great Yarmouth, England, there is sculptured the unusual representation of a clown seated in a tub, which is being drawn down a river by two swans. Beneath this stone lies one of the many victims who were drowned years ago by the collapse of an iron suspension bridge on which they had crowded to see a clown pass underneath in the manner described. The feat, which was a novel form of advertisement by a traveling circus, was actually performed, but the rush of people from one side of the bridge to the other after the man had passed under caused the tragic ending.

More Acceptable.

The judge frowned down on the humorous tramp.

"At first I was disposed to give you a year and a quarter," said the former in stern tones, "but now I think I'll drop the quarter and give you a year." The humorous tramp looked up quickly.

"Your honor, why don't you make yourself a good fellow and drop de year and give me de quarter?"—New York World.
