FATS AGAINST THINS.

Score Thirteen to Seven in Favor of the Fats.

They have had their first practice game, the fats and thins, to try their skill to see who shall have the honor of being chosen in the great contest that will take place July 4th. This first practice game took place in Munford's park Thursday afternoon, the two sides being composed as follows:

Fats—E. A. Moye, Jr., W. C. Dresbach, C. S. Forbes, R. C. Flanagan, W. H. Dail, Jr., W. F. Evans, W. S. Moye, Wince Fleming. Thins—D. M. Clark, J. B. White, J. F. Stokes, G. J. Woodward, E. B. Ficklen, C. D. Tunstall, W. P. Edwards and J. F. Davenport.

The game was exciting from start to finish there being many fine plays made on each side. The features of the game were the heavy hitting and cute base running of Dr. Moye and Roy Flanagan; the wonderful mastery of Dail in the box for the fats. Simon Moye, 1st, Forbes, 2nd, and Dresbach, 3rd, played like old stagers. Evans in right and Fleming in centre accepted every chance perfectly.

For the thins Overton at short played a wonderful game. "Reddy" Clark in the box allowed only one hit, while in the box, Tunstall at first and Stokes at second were superb, while Woodward at third made Devlin look like a thirty dollar clerk. Ficklen's one hand running catch of an otherwise three base hit was the star play of the game by all odds. White and Edwards and Davenport played old time ball in left and right and centre.

Don't forget to go out to see the game July 4th between these teams, when the full complement of players will be out. The game will be for the benefit of the Greenville public library and the Greenville baseball team.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Those of the Greenville fans who did not see the second game of the double header played here Thursday, certainly missed a rare treat of big league ball, scientifically pulled off.

It seems a great pity after having worked so hard, that the gluttons could not share alike with those of the "bone yard" variety, and taste of sweet victory, but of course great ball playing did the work, and the official score of ten to six in favor of the thins tells the tale.

We regret to note that Chief Thorpe, who does the twirling for the fats is not up to his usual form, having allowed some 23 hits in a seven inning game. And unless some improvements are made, all sport loving fans had better stake their dough on the lanks, when the two rivals cross their bats for supremacy on the glorious fourth.

Features of the game were Ficklen's sensational one hand catch in his hat, Wash Edwards' home run, and the extremely fast base running of Chas. Forbes, Will Evans and Roy Flanagan.

An Enthusiastic Fan.

At Delphia Moye Chapel.

On Tuesday night, June 23rd, Rev. A. M. Woodard, of Ayden, will preach at Delphia Moye Chapel Mr. Woodard is an able young speaker and all who can will do well to hear him. The public is invited.

FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1910.

Ohio Democrats have renominated Governor Harmon by acclamation. This brings him forward prominently as a candidate for the presidency.

Birmingham has been added to the list of cities that have adopted the commission form of government. All cities and towns of consequence will come to it after a while.

Governor Hughes of New York took a run up to Oyster Bay to try to get Mr. Roosevelt to lend a hand toward pulling him out of the mud, but he got no promise of help from that quarter.

The Republican, Smith, who contested the seat of Congressman Webb of the ninth North Carolina district, got only pains for his trouble. The election committee of congress decided against him.

The postal savings bank bill before congress has passed both the house and senate, and now only awaits the signature of the president to become a law. As it was one of his pet measures, the signature will soon be forthcoming.

Colored soldiers are giving trouble again, and there may be a repetition of the Brownsville affair. Complaints have been filed with the president of misconduct on the part of colored soldiers of the Twenty-Fifth United States infantry stationed at Fort Lawson, Wash.

Congressman Sibley, of Pennsylvania, spent $40,000 to secure the nomination in his district. As the salary for the term, even if he gets elected, is only $15,000, no doubt he expects to make up the difference some how. It is evidence of corruption when such sums are spent for a nomination.

The governor of Nevada shows that he is a man who has little regard for his official oath when it comes to maintaining the law. His State has a law forbidding prize fighting, yet since Jeffries and Johnson have been shut out of California he has invited them to move over to Nevada and promised that the fight shall not be interfered with.

The Retail Merchants' association has been in session this week in Salisbury. They adopted some timely resolutions, a gist of them being as follows:

"Favoring an amendment to the State constitution so as to allow any citizen to waive in writing his homestead exemption.

Favoring the enactment of a law making husband and wife jointly liable for purchases made for the benefit of the family.

Favoring the enactment of a law making any one who takes goods on approval and fails to return or pay for the goods guilty of a misdemeanor.

Asking that the next general assembly enact a law giving to any town or city right to a popular vote on the question of a commission form of town or city government.

Favoring the continuance of the fight on the part of the association against the unjust discrimination in freight rates against North Carolina towns in favor of towns in adjoining States.

Recommending that the corporation commission be empowered to employ an expert rate clerk to compile information relative to freight rates."

"A horse is a vain thing for safety," said the Psalmist, and by the same token there is never any certainty about a mule's hind legs, no matter how great the age of the mule nor how long and intimate the acquaintance. The Sanford Express tells of a citizen who has a mule 36 years old, which he has owned 28 years. During all the 28 years he had never known that mule to kick, but the other day an opportunity offered, the spirit moved the beast and it lamed its owner with both heels. —Statesville Landmark.

DO IT NOW

People Should not wait until it is too late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidneys secrete irregularly of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here is one of many cases in this vicinity.

Romulus S. Butler, 219 Harvey st., Washington, N. C., says: "I am well pleased with the results that followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case and highly recommend them to other kidney sufferers. I was subject to dull pains in my back, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills removed my trouble and benefited me in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

His Importance.
A New York couple wishing to be married had stopped at the apartment of a minister. The hour was very late. There were no friends of anybody in the bridal party within reach. But the lady was insistent. Somebody must give her away.
About this time the janitor came in sight, and she seized upon him.
"Will you give me away?" she pleaded.
"Sure I will," said the lord of the apartment house.
The minister took him aside and coached him carefully. "When I say, 'Who gives this bride away?' you answer, 'I do.'" When it came to the question in the ceremony the reply was, "Me, the janitor."—New York Press.

Then He Quit.
A pretty little girl about five years of age named Rosa was teased a good deal by a gentleman visiting the family, who finally wound up by saying:
"Rosa, I don't love you."
"Ah, but you have got to!" retorted the child.
"How so?" asked her tormentor.
"Why," said Rosa, "you must love them that hate you, and I'm sure I hate you."

MATRIMONY IN JAPAN.

The Way Matches Are Arranged by Marriage Brokers.

Orio Tamura, as we will call our young gentleman, is about twenty years old. He is an up to date Japanese and has put off all thoughts of matrimony until this comparatively late date—for Japan—in order to finish his university studies.
Now, however, he has finished his training and has intimated to his father, as a dutiful son should, that he would like to marry. That is all he is required to do at present. It is the business of his parents to take the next steps.

Orio's father presumably has some quiet talks with his wife on the subject and then betakes himself to a professional matchmaker or go-between, a discreet man of the world, with a good deal of insight into human nature. For the sake of his own reputation and future the go-between usually does his best to please all parties.

Sometimes, in the east as in the west, love laughs at restraints, and somebody or other conveys a hint to the marriage broker that a meeting between Mr. A. and Miss B. might not be unacceptable to both, in which case his task is easy. Usually, however, he takes time to look around him, and he in turn—how indispensable the ladies are in these matters—consults his wife. At last, after carefully considering the official and social position of the persons and families interested, he suggests that a certain Miss Chrysanthemum would make a most desirable bride for the "learned son of the honorable house of Tamura."

Once more Orio's father consults his wife and sundry other relations and, having no fault to find with the go-between's suggestion, instructs the latter to proceed. The marriage broker's next step is to approach the parents of the young lady he has in view and arrange a formal appointment for mutual inspection—it is known as the "look at each other meeting"—between the prospective bride and bridegroom at the house of the bride's father and in the presence of that gentleman and the go-between himself.

The meeting usually takes the form of a conventional tea party, at which the prospective bride does the honors. It is perhaps unnecessary to add that she does not wear her oldest clothes on this occasion.
Here for the first time in their lives the young lady and Orio set eyes on one another. Etiquette forbids them to speak to each other, but nevertheless they are doubtless very busy "taking stock" of the other's appearance and manners.—Wide World Magazine.

A Street in Moscow.
One street in Moscow, Miasnitskaya Ulitsa, is devoted almost entirely to stores selling machinery. The windows of these shops are large and of plate glass and display the various wares to good advantage. Many windows are devoted to large exhibits of various mechanisms, and at a certain hour in the afternoon these machines are so far as possible set in motion to give practical illustration of their workings.

Chopped Her Stay.

The wife of the clergyman of a certain suburban parish, says the Boston Traveler, was mending clothes the other day when a visitor was announced. The hostess went on with her sewing, for the caller was a well known parishioner. After awhile the visitor glanced toward the sewing table and exclaimed:

"Why, there are some buttons exactly like some my husband had on his last winter suit. They are an odd kind of button too. Where did you get them?"

The clergyman's wife smiled roguishly. "In the collection basket," she answered quietly. "I found a good many of the same kind. I am saving them up for possible use."

The caller changed the subject as hastily as she could, and somehow or other she did not stay very long.

A Disappointing Discovery.
Two newsboys met on the street.
One appeared somewhat glum and disgruntled, whereupon the other benevolently essayed to cheer him up.

"Say, Bill, you 'member dat dime I t'ought I lost yesterday—de one I was goin' to treat youse wid?"

"Sure," assented Bill sullenly; then, with growing reproachfulness of tone, "I treated youse twice already, Jim."

"Well," went on Jim animatedly, "wot d'youse t'ink I found jus' now? I wuz feelin' round in dis pocket, an' I found, right here in dis pocket, I"—A dramatically timed pause.

"Youse found de dime!" exclaimed Bill, brightening up.

"Say, Bill, youse always in a hurry. I wuz tryin' to tell youse dat I found de hole dat dime got t'rough." —Youth's Companion.

Cakes as Love Letters.
The Hungarian gypsies use cakes as love letters. A coin is baked into the sweetmeat, which is then thrown at the lady as she passes by.
If she eats the cake and retains the coin all is well, but if she should fling back the silver it would be fatal to the lover's hopes. Among the savages of the Arabian desert the girl is approached without ceremony while pasturing her flocks.
She resists strenuously, attacking her suitor with sticks and stones.
If he succeeds in driving her into her father's tent she is his, but if she should resist him lifelong disgrace would be his portion.

Antiquity of Bells.
The art of bell founding is undoubtedly of great antiquity. The Saxons are known to have used bells in their churches, although probably but small ones, for the Venerable Bede, writing at the end of the seventh century, alludes to them in terms which seem to show that they were not unfamiliar things. The towers of the Saxon period have belfries of considerable dimensions in most cases, and at Crowland abbey, in south Lincolnshire, there was a famous peal of seven bells many years before the Norman conquest.—London

SUFFERERS FROM ASTHMA.

Just as Likely to Die of Old Age as From the Disease.

Among all physical ills asthma is perhaps the most irritating. It is hard to endure and terrible to observe. Its victims die a thousand deaths, as far as suffering is concerned, and yet are denied the dignity of having a fatal disease, for it is one of the heartless axioms of experience that the asthmatic sufferer is quite as likely to die of old age as of his disease. It has been said that asthma is not a disease, but a state of body, and if its victims are able to extract any comfort from the knowledge that it is nervous in its origin they are entitled to that alleviation.

Any one looking on for the first time at a well pronounced asthmatic seizure is convinced that he is watching a death scene, and no wonder, so terrifying are the symptoms. The patient fights piteously for hours in one position, pallid, bathed in perspiration and apparently in the final stages of suffocation; but, curiously enough, with all the distress, the patient does not seem to feel any real alarm as to the outcome.

The attack may pass off either rapidly or gradually, in many cases leaving no apparent after effect except a sense of great fatigue.

Asthma being a disease with a nervous origin, it follows that there are as many theories about it and remedies for it as there are sufferers from it. With some persons the attacks are apparently a certain outcome of eating a certain kind of food or breathing a certain kind of air or reaching a certain day and month of the year. Many asthmatics claim the power of cheating their enemy up to a certain point by moving to some other locality when the tragic date draws near.
The asthmatics living in the valleys may pass in transit their fellow sufferers who habitually live on the hills.

Those who trace their attacks to digestive disturbances learn to avoid the starchy foods, the fat foods or whatever food it is that upsets them. Some cannot live near a stable; others cannot be near a certain shrub or flower. Indeed, the specialties of these unfortunate people are without number.

The asthmatic, however, has two great sources of comfort. One is the reasonable hope of reaching a good old age. The other is the fact that great help is to be found for him in a strictly hygienic mode of living. The better air he breathes both day and night, the simpler his diet and the more wisely ordered his exercise the fewer will be the number of his attacks.—Youth's Companion.

Color Harmony.
The key to all color harmony is simply this—that kindred or related colors harmonize, so well together, while unrelated colors are antagonistic to each other. Those colors are kindred which are side by side on the spectrum band or the color circuit. Red is kindred to orange because orange is an admix-ture of red and yellow; orange is kindred to yellow because of the yellow in the orange; yellow is akin to green because green is an admixture of yellow and blue.

Her Good Nature.
"Well, John," said Mr. Lovelong to the seven-year-old brother of his fiancée, "you will miss your sister when I take her away, will you not?"
"Um, yes," said John slowly.
"I will give you a penny," said Mr. Lovelong, "if you will tell me what you will miss her most for."
"I guess it will be the pennies she gives me," replied John.
"Ha!" said Mr. Lovelong, who expected to hear some encomiums of his fiancée's good nature. "What does she give you pennies for?"
"Not to touch her front hair when she has curled it and left it on the table to cool," said John to the astonished Mr. Lovelong.—London Answers.
