AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hasting Town Briefly Told

Ayder, N. C. June, 28.
I hereby announce myself a candidate for township constable, subject to the primary of Contentnea township. J. T. Keel.
R. C. Cannon & Sons have on exhibition at their store a cabbage weighing 18 pounds—that Dutch variety—raised by Jesse Cannon, herein Ayden.

Rev. C. C. Bland is a practical man and model farmer. He raises his own supplies, such as are adapted to this climate. This year he had some wheat in rows from which he will thrash about 32 bushels per acre. After raising a money crop he supplies his own family, and sells the surplus, and has money to let. Mr. Bland is an ex-Confederate soldier, and made a record that has gone down in the annals of history, having leaped upon the breast works and replaced the colors at Fort Fisher, which was a brave act of heroism. This deed now forms a part of our own North Carolina history. A few minutes after this he lost a leg and has been a cripple since.

Rev. B. F. Huske filled his regular appointment in St. James church here Sunday night and was the guest of W. J. Boyd.

Lime! Lime! Lime! 300 barrels just received by J. R. Smith Co.

Claude Lamb, a small son of Mr. L. H. Worthington, fell from the top of a box car and landed on the coupling on his head, cutting a severe gash as well as knocking out several of his front teeth. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Make your home cheerful and rooms comfortable, by using muresco on the walls. A stock of assorted colors at J. R. Smith Co.

Mr. Stancel Hodges, wife, and Roland and Stencil, jr., spent Sunday with relatives near Washington.

E. G. Cox, of Greensboro, was in town Saturday and arranged with J. R. Smith Co., undertakers, to exhume, and remove two of his children who are buried in the country and bury them here in the cemetery. The Cox family have erected a magnificent monument on their lot to mark the last resting place of Hon. E. V. Cox and others of the family.

Our colored people have an academy of music or hall on First street, where they have a theatre or vaudeville every other night during the week. They have a good brass band with one woman who blows a cornet, something out of the ordinary. They have reserved seats for white people and preserve the best order during the exhibition.

Miss Essie Ferebee, of Hertford, is visiting at "Buckingham" in Ghent.

Mr. Webb, of Morehead, who was here some days ago prospecting, after consulting his better judgment has decided to cast his lot with us. His office will be in the old post office building, which has been nicely fitted up.

Carney Daughtery, who moved here from Tarapin last fall to work with Ayden Lumber Co., left Monday for Pinetown, where waters are deeper, pastures greener and wages higher.

Joe Patrick and Miss Carrie Johnson spent Sunday in Vanceboro.

Miss Lucy Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. Moseley, of Kinston, spent Sunday with J. R. Turnage.

Mrs. Frank Burroughs, of Scotland Neck, arrived last night to spend a few days, with her

DON'T BE A SPONGER.

People Should Be Willing to Pay for What They Get

Have you ever thought about what you are doing when you use a telephone, if you are not a subscriber? If not, stop and think. You would not ask a dealer to give you a stick of wood or a scuttle or coal, would you? Yet these articles are theirs to give if they choose to make such disposition of them. But when it comes to the use of a telephone the situation is different. Your friend or neighbor rents telephone service for the use of himself and representatives only, therefore when you step in to use his telephone without payment to the company furnishing the service, you are asking them to give you something which they have for sale.

You would not ask the merchant to give you a yard of cloth, or a spool of cotton, or a pound of meat, yet the comparison is the same. The telephone company rents service, not instruments, and when you ask them for service free, or take it without the asking by troubling your neighbor for the use of his telephone, you do an injustice to the company. The rates of telephone service are low enough for those who need it to afford to pay the small rental, and it is not just to take the service of another without paying for it.

The same thing can as well apply to people who borrow their neighbors' paper, or in any other way take advantage of the investment and labor of others instead of paying for what they get the benefit of.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Berry.

For Sale—Several thoroughbred Berkshire male pigs. Apply at once to J. R. Smith Co.

Misses Jimmie Davis and Lena Dawson were to have started yesterday for Nashville, Tenn., to take a special teachers course, but Miss Dawson was taken sick and the trip had to be postponed.

Julius Brown, of Greenville, spent Friday night in Ayden.

If the Hanrahan correspondent will let us know more definitely what information he desires or point cleared up regarding the marriage of the late Henry Smith, we will try to oblige him.

Guy Taylor and family spent Sunday with friends in Lenoir county.

Miss Georgia Coyton and Miss Ethel Tuten, who are attending the training school, spent Sunday in Ayden.

Rev. G. C. Vauce, pastor of the Free Will Baptist church has just closed a very successful meeting in Kinston.

Rev. C. O. Armstrong filled Mr. Vauce's appointment at the Free Will Baptist church Sunday.

E. M. Swain and Miss Ethel Heath are to be married here Wednesday morning at 7:30 on Lee street and spend their honeymoon abroad.

Jesse Braxton and Miss Nina Dixon will be married Wednesday at 10 o'clock. The above couples are not all. The marriage bells continue to ring here.

The columns of the Ayden department are open for any legitimate ads, even campaign. Business solicited, now is the time to subscribe for the best daily in Pitt county. R. W. Smith.

ADVANTAGE OF COUNTRY FOLKS.

They See Things in Nature That Town Folks Miss.

Hanrahan, N. C., June 27.
What is 'news'? Well we suppose it's anything that happens out of the ordinary, that all of the folk, and especially the city people, might not know about. Indeed we country clod-hoppers have the advantage of you who tread paved streets but are surrounded by high walls, in observing the exquisite beauties of nature.

It was on last Saturday evening that two resplendent natural scenes attracted our admiration. As the sun was just hiding himself behind the western horizon he sent up a glittering beam somewhat in a bow shape, that far surpassed the sheen of Halley's comet. And about 9:30 the same night as old Luna, the queen of the night, was lifting herself from old ocean's bed, causing high tide on the bar, she seemed to have a desire to vie with the orb of day. So she, too, sent up a streak of light that did not take on the bow shape, but looked like glistening waters shot up from a fountain. "Surely the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork."

I wish you city people could have seen these lovely displays of nature, then some of the boys would have determined to come out on the farm where they can behold nature in all her beauty. Will you not do it, boys, yes and girls, too? The country is a glorious place to live, but we are married, girls, but there are some splendid fellows all round about. And to you boys we would say there are lots of most excellent girls in this section, though we can't put it as did the editor when that letter was in the post office. We have but one, and she is too young to leave her mama.

There are things that happen sometime that provoke a smile and at the same time arouse our sympathy. Now the train does not stop at our station unless it is flagged, and the railroad rule book says that any object that can be seen swung across the track is a signal to stop, and two short toots of the whistle is an answer to that signal, but an object swung up and down the track is what the railroad men know as a highball and means to go forward, even faster if needs be. One day last week a somewhat aged colored lady came out from Grifton in the morning, and picked huckleberries until about 5 p. m. Then she came and took a seat beneath our inviting oaks to cool, refresh herself, and wait for the train.

She serenely sat there for about two hours and until about ten minutes before the train came. Then it was that she bethought herself to walk over and talk a while with a white lady, for she loves to talk with her white friends. The time passed so quickly that the train was in 50 yards of the station when she heard it. She ran to the side of the track jerked her straw hat off, and gave it several swings up and down the track. Of course the train kept on, and if any difference got faster. She gathered up her two peck baskets filled with berries and tramped off behind the train facing a heavy thunder storm. At first we could but see the ridiculous side of the episode, and then we were sorry for her.

Crops are responding to the glorious sunshine and the farmers are beginning to have an occasional smile.

STATE NEWS.

Newsy Items of Interest Condensed for Busy Readers.

Hickory, June 26. The latest freak of lightning, which is always pranky, is amateur photography. A few days ago lightning struck the house of a Mr. Smith, living near Mr. George B. Hiss' Rhodehiss. Almost at the same time it struck a tree in the yard, and, going into the house, it struck Mr. Smith, stunning him. An elegant picture of the house was made both on the back of the tree and on the skin of Mr. Smith's back.

Raleigh, N. C., June 27.—This morning about 8:30 o'clock Mr. Vernon Bynum, a native of Wilson, but who lately has been residing in Raleigh, where he held a position with the electric company there, was electrocuted at the top of an electric light pole. Mr. Bynum died at about 11 o'clock from the shock and burns received.

Cathedral Abbey for North Carolina.

Belmont, June 27.—A cablegram has been received from Rome, Italy, which is confirmed by the apostolic delegation in Washington, D. C., that Belmont Abbey, at Belmont, has been raised to the dignity of an "Abbatia Nullius" or "Cathedral Abbey," with its own territory and jurisdiction. This honor is the highest the Catholic church ever confers on any abbey, and Belmont is the only one of its rank in North Carolina. There are only eighteen abbeys of this class in the entire world.

This distinguished honor is principally due to the zeal and energy of the venerable Bishop Haid, who as "abbot" celebrates his silver jubilee next October. The canonical erection of the abbey will be formally promulgated in the presence of high dignitaries of the church in the above occasion.

Excursion to Morehead.

The Norfolk Southern railroad will run its regular Sunday excursion from Raleigh to Morehead City and Beaufort on Sunday, July 3rd, and will also run another on same schedule and at the same fare on Monday, July 4th. These trains pass Greenville at 8:36 a. m. and the round trip fare from here is only $1.50. There will be many attractions at Morehead on the 4th.

Mr. Leslie Newton Dead.

A telephone message from Norfolk early this morning announced the death of Mr. Leslie Newton, in that city, of typhoid fever. Mr. Newton was a Pitt county boy, raised near Falkland, and clerked some years in Greenville before going to Norfolk. The remains will be brought to Falkland for interment Wednesday afternoon.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Odd Fellows meet tonight.

There are only two days more for tax listing.

The fats and the thins are having another practice game this afternoon.

Not long before there should be a showing up of the home grown watermelon.

The Christian Sunday school excursion will start in the morning promptly at 7:30.

Those little yellow "box rent due" warnings are appearing in the mail boxes at the postoffice.

Odd Fellows have business of importance for tonight's meeting. Every member urged to be present.

If you sit still and wait for business to come your way, you don't find much of it on the path to your door.

The town administration will change hands from the old to the new board of aldermen on Friday, July 1st.

The excursion by the Baraca class of Memorial Baptist Sunday school to Raleigh on Thursday, 30th, is going to be a big one.

TUESDAY, JUNE 28, 1910

Congress has done and adjourned.

There will be plenty of room for the air ship flyers to drop.

Is Greenville your town? Then you should talk it up and not down.

The result was too close in Wake for the News and Observer to announce it in red lines.

There now! Some of 'em up and say that Senator Gore is a liar. Let the senator come forward with the goods.

And even Charlotte business men were caught napping on a "get rich quick" scheme. Some sharpers went there selling territory rights to sell kitchen cabinets and found numerous easy marks. Had this occurred in Greensboro there would not have been so much surprise, but Charlotte ought to have been wiser.

So far as primaries held throughout the State last Saturday took the vote for the Supreme court judgeship, the contest was so close between Judges Manning and Allen that it will take the State convention to decide which one gets the nomination. Here is the way the Charlotte Observer sizes up the situation:

The situation as regards the contest between Associate Justice Manning and Judge W. R. Allen for the State Supreme court has not clarified considerably since Saturday night, notwithstanding the fact that additional details have been forthcoming. The early returns Saturday night from the counties voting on the State ticket indicated that Judge Allen had very much the best of it, but additional matter yesterday after the heat of battle had cooled, seems to point to a convention battle between the contestants, neither having much the advantage apparently, though Judge Allen's manager claims a comfortable lead which is substantiated to great extent by returns received by The Observer.

Based on claims made by the respective managers of the two candidates on the counties which have expressed themselves, Judge Allen has received majorities in 38 counties, and Justice Manning 23, while the primary votes of 9 counties will be divided. This accounts for 70 of the 48 counties of the State. What the other 28 will do will only be known when the convention meets here July 9.

Congratulations to the Greenville Reflector. It is soon to be issued in enlarged form. A stock company has been organized for the splendid paper, and modern machinery is to be installed and a rattling good paper gotten out. This is a good move and the folks of Greenville should appreciate it. The Reflector, edited by Mr. D. J. Whichard, a clever writer, as well as a clever gentleman, is an excellent journal, and at all times is loyal to Greenville, and has always been progressive in preaching. That Editor Whichard is to remain at the helm is, of course, the best part of all.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Bob Phillips, of the Greensboro News, says; "Whichard can take care of his hair all right, but if Cowan doesn't quit putting a 't' in his name and making it Whitchard, we fear President Shipman will have to appoint a peace commission." Ob, we don't know. What's in a name? And, perhaps, we were justified in putting it in his name, because we couldn't put anything save tea in him when he was at the convention. Whichard, we mean. Not Phillips.—Wilmington Dispatch.

"In order to increase facilities and enlarge its sphere of usefulness, The Greenville Reflector has been incorporated under the name of The Reflector Company." So reads an editorial in that paper of the 20th instant. This means much for Greenville and the Great County of Pitt, for the power of the press is marvelous. We are glad to see among the list of directors the name of our former townsman, S. J. Everett.—Wilmington Enterprise.

With towns adopting the commission form of government and the counties putting their officials on a salary basis it is not going to be long before pickings for the politicians are slim.—Durham Herald.

BAD DREAMS.
Nightmares, Restlessness and Night-sweats all Caused by Indigestion
Half of the nervousness in the world, all of the disturbing dreams and nightmares can be ended in a few weeks by a simple, inexpensive treatment.

Upset stomach is the cause of nervousness and bad dreams. Your food is lying in your stomach undigested and fermenting; it is forming poisonous gases which irritates the pneumogastric nerve that leads direct from the brain, and ends in a network of tiny branches running through the stomach.

It is also the irritation of this great pneumogastric nerve that causes headaches. Many times people have severe headaches and know they are caused by the stomach, but do not know in what manner.

If you are nervous, have dreams or nightmares and do not sleep sound at night, get a 50 cent box of M-O-N-A stomach tablets and take one or two after or with meals. They relieve distressed stomach in 5 minutes. Sold by Coward & Wooten, who guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

The Uses of Rubber.
It is probable that no other commodity ever came into such varied use within so short a period as india rubber. First employed practically for footwear and other waterproof apparel, rubber has come to be employed in electrical insulation, hose pipes for the conveyance of water, steam, air and so on; pneumatic and other tires for all sorts of wheeled vehicles, balloons and the planes of aerial machines, innumerable articles for the comfort of invalids, household conveniences and what not. Thus far rubber has never come into use to an important extent for any given purpose to which it is not still devoted. In other words, its advantages are so marked in many uses that when once introduced no substitute can be found for it.—Cassier's Magazine.

Color Harmony.
The key to all color harmony is simply this—that kindred or related colors harmonize, go well together, while un-related colors are antagonistic to each other. Those colors are kindred which are side by side on the spectrum band or the color circuit. Red is kindred to orange because orange is an admixture of red and yellow; orange is kindred to yellow because of the yellow in the orange; yellow is akin to green because green is an admixture of yellow and blue.

THE ARCTIC PERIL

Peary's Method of Battling With Polar Conditions.

THE USE OF RELAY PARTIES.

Without This System, the Explorer Says, It Would Be a Physical Impossibility For Any Man to Reach the Pole and Return to Tell the Tale.

Many persons who have asked why, if Peary got to the pole, it was impossible for Cook to do so will find an answer in Commander Peary's own story in Hampton's. Although he does not mention Dr. Cook by name, Peary shows how impossible it would be for a man without his equipment and system to surmount the difficulties of such a journey. He says: "Fortitude and endurance alone are not enough in themselves to carry a man to the north pole. Only with years of experience in traveling those regions, only with the aid of a large party also experienced in that character of work, only with the knowledge of arctic detail and the equipment necessary to prepare himself and his party for any and every emergency, is it possible for a man to reach that long sought goal and return."

"In order that the reader may understand this journey over the ice of the polar sea it is necessary that the theory and practice of pioneer and supporting parties should be fully understood.

"The use of relay parties in arctic work is not new, but the idea was carried further in the last expedition of the Peary Arctic club than ever before.

"Without this system it would be a physical impossibility for any man to reach the north pole and return to tell the tale.

"First.—Because a single division, comprising either a small or a large number of men and dogs, could not possibly drag all the way to the pole and back (some 900 miles) as much food and liquid fuel as the men and dogs of that division would consume during the many weeks of the journey.

"Second.—It is absolutely necessary that the arduous work of trail breaking for the first two-thirds of the distance should be done by one division after another in succession in order to save the strength of the main party for its final dash alone.

"Third.—When the supplies of one sledge after another have been consumed the drivers of these sledges and the dogs are superfluous mouths which cannot be fed from the scanty supply of provisions being dragged forward over the ice.

"Fourth.—Each division being an independent unit, these divisions can be withdrawn at intervals from the main party without affecting the main party.

"Fifth.—At the very end, when the supporting parties have performed their important work of trail breaking and transportation of supplies, the main party for the final dash must be small and carefully selected, as a small party can travel so much faster than a large one.

"The pioneer party was one unit division, made up of four of the most active and experienced men of the expedition, with sledges lightly loaded with five or six days' provisions, drawn by the best dog teams that could be selected from the entire pack. When we started from Cape Columbia this pioneer party, headed by Bartlett, went out twenty-four hours in advance of the main party. Later on, when we reached the time of continuous daylight and sunlight through the twenty-four hours, the pioneer party was but twelve hours in advance of the main party.

"The duty of this pioneer party was to make a march in every twenty-four hours in spite of every obstacle, excepting, of course, some impassable lead. Whether there was a deep snow or violent winds to be faced or mountainous pressure ridges to be climbed over, the march of the pioneer party must be made, for past experience had proved that whatever distance was covered by the advance party with its light sledges could be covered in less time by the main party even with heavily loaded sledges, because the main party, having the trail to follow, was not obliged to waste time in reconnoitering.

"In other words, the pioneer party was the pacemaker of the expedition, and whatever distance it made was the measure of accomplishment for the main party. The leader of the pioneer party, in the first instance Bartlett, would start out ahead of his division, usually of the snowshoes. Then the light sledges of the party would follow after. Thus the leader of the pioneer division was pioneering ahead of his own party, and that whole division was pioneering ahead of the main party.

"One great advantage which I had on this expedition was that, owing to the size of my party, whenever the men in this pioneer division became exhausted with their arduous labor and lack of sleep I could withdraw them into the main party and send out a fresh division to take their place. A large party is absolutely necessary to success."

OLDEN TIME BEAUTIES.

The Wonderful Devices They Used to Retain Their Charms.

The beauties of the past evidently did not believe that the best cosmetics lie in "the merry heart that maketh a cheerful countenance," for they depended very largely upon artificial aid in the preservation of the complexion.

The Empress Poppaea kept 100 asses to supply her bath of milk and always retired with a mask or poultice of bread and milk upon her at night. Over this a bladder was drawn to exclude the air.

The eyebrows of the Roman beauty were tipped with black to resemble the "ox eyed Juno." They were decorated with paints and sprinkled with perfumes and wore a quantity of false hair or dyed of their own, according to the prevalent style of the time.

The Greek lady had a retinue of maids who rubbed out the wrinkles and shaded the face with red and white paints, tinted her eyelids and anointed the face with white of egg and goose grease to protect it against the air and sun. They also had a recipe to turn blue eyes into black.

All through the history of famous women we had ideas of the bath as an improver of the complexion.

Isabelle of Bavaria had enormous decoctions of chickweed poured into hers; Queen Elizabeth bathed in wine; Mary, queen of Scots, in milk, Italian ladies in warm blood, Mme. Tallien in crushed strawberries and raspberries poured into water, the Empress Josephine in milk perfumed with violets, and the beauties of the eighteenth century used such infusions as bouillon in which veal had been cooked, rosewater and honey and juice of barley mixed with the yolk of an egg.

In the time of Catherine de' Medici and her famous daughter, Marguerite of Valois, the face was covered at night with a fine linen cloth dipped in milk into which slices of lemon and orange, with sugar and alum, had been laid or into a distillation of snails and lemons, but the beauties of the court of Charles II. of England went further and applied crude quicksilver to their skin so that a new one might come in its place. The Duchess of Newcastle especially recommended this.

Nearly all these fashions were derived from Italy, where the most extravagant toilet arts were practiced. Lucrezia Borgia is supposed to have been a brunette, but she dyed her hair any color she pleased. When she went to Ferrara she made her escort halt for days while she applied her cosmetics, and she dyed her hair five times during the journey.

In the eighteenth century Lady Coventry died from the effects of rouge, as did many other women less famous for their beauty.—Exchange.

Clerical Frugality.
In the faroff days of 1766, the year in which Goldsmith wrote his immortal "Vicar of Wakefield," the Universal Magazine contained this obituary notice:

"Lately, the Rev. Mr. Mattinson, curate of Patterdale, Westmorland, for sixty years. The first infant he christened was afterward his wife, by whom he had one son and three daughters, all of whom he married in his own church. His stipend was forty years £12 and for the last twenty not £20 per ann. Yet he died at the age of eighty-three worth £1,000, £800 of which was saved out of his stipend."

The correspondent of London Notes and Queries who quotes this astonishing record of frugality asks if Goldsmith may not have received the first impetus to the composition of his novel by reading this announcement.

A Curious Clock.
In one of the chief watchmaking establishments in Zurich there is to be seen a remarkable curiosity in the way of watch or clock making. The timepiece is in the form of a ball, which moves imperceptibly down an inclined surface without rolling. The length of this inclined surface, which is sixteen inches long, is accomplished from top to bottom in twenty-four hours. Then the ball only needs lifting to the top again. This extraordinary timepiece has no spring and therefore needs no winding. The hands are kept in motion by the sliding along an inclined plane.—London Globe.

Not a Surprise.
"Mrs. Winkler, what I am going to say will surprise you, I have no doubt, but I love your daughter Minerva, and"—

"Mr. Spoonamore, do you think any young man ever stole a march on a watchful mamma? According to my calculations, you were due to say two weeks ago tonight what you have said to me just now."—Chicago Tribune.

HINDOO COOKING.

All the Nutrimen In Vegetables Saved by Cooks In India.

In India it is literally a case of being a vegetarian or starving, for the Hindoos of Hindustan, taking them almost as a whole, are enjoined by their religion to abstain from eating meat. They are not allowed even to open the shell of an egg, because by so doing they would destroy the life within it.

Thus they are compelled to subsist on a vegetarian diet or go hungry. But if the cooks of India were to prepare their vegetables for the table as do the women of America, writes St. Nihal Singh in the Nautilus, it is certain that the Hindoos would be meat eaters. It would be impossible for them to live on a vegetarian diet.

This for an essential reason. The American cook boils all the flavor as well as the vitality out of the vegetables and throws it away. The occidental cook declares this operation is necessary, as the flavor of the vegetable is too strong and pronounced if the water is not drained away from it. Be that as it may, the result is that the food has lost much of its nutriment and is useless to build up or sustain the body. Moreover, the boiling process renders the dish more or less insipid in flavor.

The East Indian cook works on a directly opposite principle. The woman of India is taught that the food must be cooked in its own steam or with just enough water to generate steam to cook it, and every drop of moisture must be evaporated before the food is served unless it is to be eaten with a gravy or shorba, in which case a small quantity of liquid is allowed to remain on it.

But as a usual thing not a drop of water is drained away. This would be looked upon as positively sacrilegious and wasteful by the East Indians. The American throws away as useless every day what would keep an East Indian family from starvation.

This fact was demonstrated when during a siege the Indian soldiers requested that the water in which the rice was cooked alone should be issued to them, while the rice itself might be served to the English soldiers. This was done, and the native sepoys apparently were as well fed as their white brothers.

The Origin of the Mastiff.
Mastiff is a term applied to a very large and powerful species of the canine family, and there is considerable conflict of opinion regarding the origin of the word. Some claim that it is derived from the Italian mastino or the French mastin, both of which signify large limbed. This word, they say, was gradually corrupted into masty, a Lincolnshire expression meaning very large, muscular or big, until it gradually assumed its present form. Others again say its true origin is the old German masten, to fatten, because the mastiff is a large dog and so seems better fed than any other.—London Field.

Notice to Contractors.

The board of county commissioners and building committee of Pitt county, N. C. will entertain sealed proposals for the erection and completion of the new Pitt county court house and jail, in the city of Greenville, in the public square, in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by Milburn, Heister and Co., Architect, Washington, D. C. A set of plans will be on file with the register of deeds and at the architects' office on and after June 10th, 1910.

Bids will be received until 11 o'clock a. m. July 15th. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check on some well known bank, made payable to J. P. Quinerly, chairman, in the sum of $1,000, as evidence of good faith if their bid is accepted they will enter into contract at once and give an acceptable guarantee company's bond in the sum of fifty per cent. of the contract price for the faithful performance of the contract. Should they fail to enter into contract, the check will be forfeited to the county as liquidated damages by reason of delay. Separate bids will be entertained for the court house, the jail, the steel cells, heating apparatus or for the whole. Each bid must be sealed and returned to the register of deeds of Pitt county and plainly marked "bid for court house and jail." The commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. P. Quinerly,
Chm. Board County Commissioners.
