ENTHUSIASTIC DECLARATION FOR GOOD ROADS.

According to Announcement the Chamber of Commerce met in the Town Hall, Monday Night, July 4th, to Make Known, Declare and Publish its Independence of Bad Roads

When the meeting was called to order by its president, H. A. White, in the chair, there were forty members present. The chair announced that there were several subjects to be brought before the chamber—the chief among which were good roads. That being true and there being several present, who had attended the North Carolina Good Roads Convention at Wrightsville, he asked them to make a report of that meeting.

Mr. O. L. Joyner spoke first saying no one could attend such a meeting as that at Wrightsville and not become thoroughly enthused on the subject of good roads. It was a great meeting and meant great things for our State. He said that it seemed to him, that the good roads movement in Pitt county had begun in the right place, that is the Chamber of Commerce. He said that he was first for Good Roads in this entire county, that nothing would increase the business interest of the community and county more than good roads, and that they always increased the value of property. He said that if roads could not be gotten by the entire county, he hoped that Greenville would undertake this and improve the roads in our township. The movement for good roads, among the people is slow in growth, but the spirit was among all of the people, that he had made a personal investigation by asking the great number of farmers that he came in contact with what they thought of good roads, and he said that all classes and conditions were in favor of good roads by taxation in some form or other. The "convict" system has been largely responsible for this growth of sentiment. That the smaller property owner was less enthusiastic on the road question than the larger property owner, but they were all over in favor of them.

Mr. R. R. Cotten, another of the delegates to the good roads convention, referring to Mr. Joyner's statement, said that the good road movement had grown marvelously during the last few years. Five years ago people would not listen to the question of good roads by taxation, but everybody was interested in the subject now. He said no one could appreciate sandy roads more than he, that the wear and tear on man and beast were a greater luxury than our people could afford, that the improvement of our roads was getting at the bottom of the uplift of our race, and our country. It would have a great moral, social, and educational effect, and that the people must be educated as to the best means of getting good roads. He said that after coming from his home about nine miles in the country over sandy roads, his heart throbbled and pride grew when he struck Greenville's paved streets, and his hope rose to the height of feeling that some day the people in the country would enjoy, not the luxury of sand and mud, but the necessity of good roads. The people of Greenville and Pitt county had something to be proud of in their foresight and their work in getting the East Carolina Teachers' Training School. Such an accomplishment had required organization, and effort, but the people had been disappointed in that such a magnificent work had not been continued, and he hoped that the same spirit of success would be aroused for good roads, which would touch not a few people but every member of our human society. He said we must get after the politicians and show them how they could help the people most, and that we were behind them.

Mr. W. E. Proctor, also a delegate and a member of the board of county commissioners, was present and stated that he could not make a speech, but that he was for good roads, and whatever is necessary to get them.

Mr. D. J. Whichard, the fourth delegate to the State good road convention, said that good roads was his pet hobby. It was unnecessary to state this to people who read his paper. The people were proud of their school bond issue, although it took a fight to get them, they would not return to their condition prior to the bond issue for the training school. He stated he was in favor of a bond issue for good roads, the policy of pay-as-you-go, is not what we needed, and would not meet the demand. Newspaper men were always in favor of good roads, and the most enjoyable part of his trip to Wrightsville, was the part taken by the newspaper men in the good road convention. Both conventions meeting in a joint assembly. Greenville should be the beginning point for the county if the county people will not take hold of the movement, lets set them an example

Dr. Laughinghouse was called upon and said that the county's progress depended upon an immediate improvement of its public roads. That a gentleman from Ohio who was going all over the South for the purpose of getting information as to the desirability of various sections for immigrants who would come South and make homes, came to Pitt county a few weeks ago with a letter of introduction to him. He took this gentleman over a good part of Pitt county, showed him the county's map, the county's people, the county's resources, gave him authoritative literature showing the county's attractive climate, the county's varied and rich productions, etc. All of which impressed him very much, but the condition of the county's roads convinced the gentleman that our county, even though it contained everything else that could be desired, would not appeal to his people until we perfected modern high-ways. We must give better things and more attractions than other places, if we would hope to bring the best people from other lands to ours. He suggested, on the theory, that people must have an object lesson, that Greenville township should vote a bond issue for the improvement of Greenville township roads. People from all sections of the county come to Greenville, and if the township had good roads, everybody would have an object lesson, that would in an incredibly short time make the county's roads. He made the point that a very strong sentiment was already established for good roads, and suggested that an enthusiastic good roads campaign could procure a bond issue in the near future.

Mayor Whedbee said that it was unnecessary to talk good roads to this crowd, the only question being, were we willing to pay the price, that he most heartily approved of Dr. Laughinghouse's suggestion that we organize and get to work, and get prepared to pay the price. We cannot have the macadam road, but nature has provided us with a method of having good roads—the sand-clay. The tax now collected for the roads and road purposes would be sufficient to pay the interest on the cost of building roads or on bonds issued for that purpose. Let us decide what we want and go after it. Get influential men all over the county interested and at work, and we can get them. He said that for many purposes the sand-clay road was preferable for the streets, to the paved streets. He said that it was necessary when we started to build the roads to start right and not waste any money as had been done in many counties.

Mr. W. A. Bowen moved that a test vote be taken to indicate the feeling of the chamber of commerce in regard to good roads. Mr. Whedbee offered an amendment to the motion, which was accepted, that we vote on the question as to whether we were in favor of a reasonable bond issue, which motion was carried with a rising vote, indicating the unified sentiment for bonds

Another motion was made and carried that the chamber of commerce call county meeting on the first Monday of August and that the chair appoint a committee of ten to solicit membership for the good roads association of the county. The following were appointed on that committee:

C. O. H. Laughinghouse, S. J. Everett, D. J. Whichard, O. L. Joyner, C. T. Munford, F. M. Wooten, R. C. Flanagan, J. N. Hart, W. J. Hardee, L. M. Hooker

The chamber of commerce then took up the question of better mail service over the Norfolk Southern Railroad. Mr. R. C. Flanagan gave the details as to the present workings and how the system could be improved, and upon motion by Mr. Whedbee, the secretary was instructed to write a letter to each of our senators, to the railroad officials, and to our member of congress, requesting better railroad post office service on the Norfolk Southern train.

A committee was appointed on schedule: F. M. Wooten, H. W. Whedbee, A. B. Ellington.

By motion the question of having a better market with more efficient market service was brought to the attention of the chamber and the chairman appointed the following committee to make a full investigation on the subject and report to the chamber: Prof. H. E. Austin, E. B. Higgs, E. G. Couch.

The next question brought to the attention of the chamber was that of flies. Prof. Wilson called special attention to the illustrated lecture of Prof. Austin to be given at the training school next Monday night. The chamber endorsed and commended Prof. Austin's work, expressed the hope that every lady in town would attend. To show that the movement for good roads was universal as to vocation, the following were present: 1 machinist, 1 doctor, 1 county officer, 4 lawyers, 5 tobaccoists, 2 bank officials, 1 teacher, 1 minister, 14 merchants, 2 civil engineers, 1 census enumerator, 8 farmers, 1 post master, 1 visitor.

The merchants were in the majority, the most encouraging feature of the movement because no progress can be made in any community without the co-operation of its merchants. All progress to the community demands as much if not more to their interest than any other class. They know better what is good for a community than any other business men.

It was an enthusiastic meeting, and the subject of good roads for Pitt county is no longer in doubt.

CLOAK MAKERS STRIKE.

At Sound of Whistle all Walk Out in New York This Morning.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, July 6th.—At the sound of a whistle the strike of the men and women union cloak makers began in New York today. Union leaders declare that they will all be out by night. The committee ordering the strike visited all union shops today. The sound of the whistle called employees from their work and they escorted the committee to other establishments. The cause of the strike is due to demand made for an increase in pay and better working conditions.

The members of St. Paul's Episcopal church are asked to be present at a meeting at the church tonight at 8.30

A Call to the Progressive Citizens of Pitt County.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in Greenville on the evening of July 4th, at which time the GOOD ROADS movement had full swing.

A resolution was adopted calling a convention of the citizens of Pitt county to be held in the city of Greenville on August 1st, 1910, (Monday) for the purpose of organizing a County Good Roads Association.

Prominent men from over the State, who are now bending every energy to secure for North Carolina a system of Good Roads will be invited to address the convention, and an invitation is hereby extended to the citizens of each township in the county to attend this convention, and join in the movement that will mean so much to us in the future.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

PICTURE OF THE FIGHT BARRED.

World-Wide Movement Against Their Exhibition in Shows.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, July 6th.—There is a nation-wide movement turning against exhibiting moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Secretary Shaw, of the Christian Endeavor is leading the movement against the exhibition of these pictures. He is getting in communication with cities all over the country. Seven have already prohibited pictures and many others including Raleigh, Atlanta and Washington, in the South, have taken preliminary action. In the meantime, films of the fight are being brought east from Reno in special cars and are being developed enroute. Till they reach New York Friday no decision will be made by owners as to their method of fighting opposition to pictures. It was declared today, however, on good authority that there is likelihood of a legal battle in the endeavor to force pictures into those cities which have barred them as a result of race riots, which followed the prize fight. The president of the moving picture company is on the train with pictures, but his attorneys here are investigating the matter.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION SPECIAL.

Norfolk Southern Will run Train from Farmville Saturday Morning.

The judicial convention of this district will meet at Morehead City on Saturday, 9th, at 2 o'clock, p. m. For the convenience of delegates from Greene and Pitt counties, the Norfolk Southern railroad will run a special train Saturday morning, starting at Farmville. This train will reach New Bern in time to connect with the morning train for Morehead, reaching the latter place at 10.30 a. m. The special train will return that night bringing all who want to come, but those who wish to spend Sunday at Morehead can do so and return on the excursion train Sunday night. The fare for the round trip will be $3.25. With the low rate and special train service a large crowd should go to the convention. Train leaves Farmville at 6 o'clock a. m., and Greenville at 6.29.

Wants Left Over Business Taken up Early.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, July 6, 1910.—It became known here today that before going to Beverly, Mass., President Taft insisted that all left over business be taken up early in the next session of congress. The White Mountain and Appalachian Forest reserve, ship subsidizing, infusions, federal incorporation of rail roads are the principal matters that will be taken up.

The Cotton Market.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, July 6th.—Cotton opened from one point lower to five points higher today. The New York options are in good request and ruled firmer. Opening: July, 15.43; August, 12.82; September, 12.40; October, 12.75.

Small Nominated by Acclamation.

Special to The Reflector.

Edenton, N. C., July 6th.—John H. Small was nominated for congress by acclamation. F. C. Harding of Greenville, was made chairman of the convention. A large crowd was in attendance.

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Newsy Items About the Town and Its People—Progressive Community.

Ayden, N. C., July 7, 1910.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for Township costable, subject to the Democratic primary of Contentnea township. W. Allen Cox

Prof. C. E. Brooks and wife, of Trinity College and Miss Maggie Barwick of Kinston passed through town Friday, en route to the National Educational Association at Boston.

Alonso Smith, colored, was before Mayor Barwick, on Thursday, for using vile expressions which was unbecoming to a gentleman, and had to cough up $6.80, which is the heaviest cash price for such offense.

Saturday evening while John James and wife were in J. R. Smith Co.'s store trading, their two-year-old child, wandered out in the street, and a horse hitched to a vehicle passed over it. The horse stepping on the little one, bruising its arm and leg. Those who witnessed it were sure the child was killed. Its father took it to Dr. Frizzell's office who examined and dressed it. While this was being done the child's mother remained in the store, and through fear and anxiety she fainted and fell to the floor. Dr. Cooker, James Smith and Rollins, applied the camphor with telling effects.

The more the merrier; we have 3 candidates for constable, who have made their announcement through the Ayden Department, and we hear there are others, but we don't know, or they are like "timid lovers," don't talk in public.

There was a happy meeting at the depot Saturday evening, when Aaron Cox, colored, returned from the penitentiary. He had been there about seven years.

Mr. Stencil Hodges has his plans for another neat residence in "Ghent," on the vacant lot of the old M. E. Church.

Our town was a busy place Saturday; preparatory, to curing tobacco next week.

Mr. E. Strand, contractor, came in Saturday from Snow Hill and Farmville, to spend Sunday with his family.

B. F. James and family, of Granger, spent Sunday in town, and worshiped at the Christian church.

AT THE AMUZU THEATRE.

Guessing Contest Ended With Miss Gladys Bagwell Winner.

The guessing contest ended Tuesday night and the $5.00 was awarded to Miss Gladys Bagwell, who was the lucky one. There were six to guess the number of dots on the plate—739—and it necessitated a draw for the money. Those who guessed it right were Mesdames E. A. Moyer, and J. M. Savage, Misses Susie Warren, Ernestine Forbes, Gladys Bagwell and Mr. Roy Hearne.

Following is the program for tonight: Ninette, the Little Model. Chasing a Motorist, and two more very good subjects.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 6 1910.

"As for me and my house," we are for good roads.

Let's try to make it a sane Christmas next time.

Jim can enjoy the money after he gets over the bruises

It was honest in Jeffries to admit that he was beaten.

Johnson made enough out of the fight to buy all the automobiles he wants.

If Jeffries puts as much interest in his farm as he did fighting he will make a good crop.

Greenville is leading off in the matter of good roads and wants to enlist the interest and co-operation of every man in the county.

Bring Pitt county roads up to the standard of her educational interest, and in a short while you will see the best county in North Carolina

Every man in Pitt county who can do so should go to the judicial convention in Morehead City next Saturday and help make Hon Harry W. Whedbee judge.

You may call this a good road number of The Reflector. That is what we are working for now, and will keep it up until there are good roads all over Pitt county.

We predict that when the news comes from the congressional convention at Edenton today it will be that Hon. Jno. H. Small has been renominated by acclamation.

Read all the good road matter in this paper, also the call for a good road convention in Greenville on the first Monday in August, and make up your mind to join in this movement

After you read this copy of the Reflector, if you have a neighbor who does not take the paper, give it to him. The man who does not take his county paper is the man who needs most to be educated as to the benefits of good roads.

The direct tax the people of Pitt county are now paying for poor roads is very near as much as would be the interest on a bond issue large enough to build good roads all through the county, to say nothing of the indirect tax poor roads cause in loss of time and injury to team and vehicles.

The first Monday in August ought to be made one of the biggest days Pitt county has ever known. It will make the organization of a good road association that, like heaven, is going to wash the whole county. It will pay every farmer to stop his plow that day and come to the convention.

The Reflector is so busy talking good roads today, that it has no time to talk about itself. Fact is it don't need to, as the paper shows for itself that it is putting on new clothes and trying to get adjusted to them. You may see misfits about in spots, as our type setting machine has tricks about it, but just watch us improve. Like as to the good roads movement, you are to lend a hand and help us make it great.

WHAT WIDTH FOR ROADS?

Narrow Ones are Less Expensive and Can be Kept in Better Condition.

Discussing the merits of narrow roads as compared with wide ones, The Savannah News submits that if wide roads are constructed they will not be constructed because of the cost and hence will soon dampen good-roads enthusiasm with expensive repairs. "The wiser plan," says our contemporary truly, "is to construct roads that will be durable and if this plan is adopted it will compel the building of narrow roads. If we are to have in all of the countries a system of good roads—if we want the people to keep the roads in repair when constructed—the narrow road will have to be adopted. The only objection to it is that accidents due to frightened horses are more likely to occur on narrow than on wide roads. There is some truth in that contention, but automobiles are becoming so common that it will be but a short time before horses will not be alarmed by them."

Experience at home and observation in the good-roads countries of Europe have combined to produce a general conviction that most American roads are too wide. Narrower roads would be better constructed and more serviceable in every way. As Mecklenburg county learned long ago, the macadam strip should not much exceed buggy width, with a dirt road running alongside. In bad weather all travel is upon the macadam and the dirt road is thus saved from ruts or any other form of destructive wear. In good weather travel is very largely upon the dirt road, which, easier for beast, vehicle and man, not only serves this excellent purpose but saves the macadam unnecessary wear. The width furnished by the two roads together is sufficient for convenient passing and for the frightened horses, which The News has in mind. More width than this cometh simply of waste. It has been shown that not only is durability thereby sacrificed, but that many thousands of acres are needlessly subtracted from American farm.—Charlotte Observer.

DO IT NOW

People Should not wait until it is too late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidneys secrete irregularly of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here is one of many cases in this vicinity.
Romulus S. Butler, 219 Harvey St., Washington, N. C., says: "I am well pleased with the results that followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case and highly recommend them to other kidney sufferers. I was subject to dull pains in my back, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills removed my trouble, and benefited me in every way."

NASAL CATARRH

Henry L. Britton Says it is Easy to Get Rid of.

"My head, nose and glands leading to my eyes and nose were stopped up and swollen. I tried several so-called catarrh cures, but Hyomei, used thoroughly did the curing. There is nothing too good to say in favor of Hyomei. It cured my nasal catarrh."

Henry L. Britton, Frost St., Eaton Rapids, Mich.
Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) cures catarrh, because it gets where the germs are, and destroys them. It is made of Australian eucalyptus, mixed with other healing antiseptics. When breathed over the irritated and inflamed membrane, it gives relief in two minutes.

Used regularly for a few weeks it will build up and heal the germ-infested membrane and drive out catarrh.

If you own a small Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of Hyomei at Coward & Wooten's for only 50 cents. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, the price is $1.00. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup or sore throat or money back.

LIFTING THE SCALP

An Art Not Confined to the North American Indian.

ALLIED TO HEAD HUNTING.

Some Indians Removed the Skin of the Entire Head, Including the Hair and Beard of Their Victim—Ears and Hands Also Served For Trophies.

The art of scalping has declined owing to the severe pains and penalties dealt out to its practitioners in the various states of North America. It was in a certain sense a product of European settlement, for it would never have become so widespread had it not been for the white man.

Scalping is commonly considered a custom belonging exclusively to the North American Indian. This is a mistake. It is found in South America, and Herodotus mentions it as having been practiced among the Scythians. But as the old Greek traveler's book was not published until 1502 it is probable that scalping appeared to the early explorers of America as a new thing. It was first described by Francisco de Garey, who in 1520 came across it in his ill-fated expedition to Patuco. He found that the Indians removed the skin of the entire head, including the hair and beard. In 1532 Jacques Cartier wrote an account of a scalping party which is more typical of the custom as usually found. From this time on it is described by many writers, notably Captain John Smith and Champlain.

The Indians themselves were uncertain as to the use of keeping an enemy's scalp, except that they felt it would hurt him in some way. Some said it put him in the power of the owner of the scalp, others that it banished him from the happy hunting grounds, while still others believed that it annihilated him.

In the opinion of George Frederic, whose monograph may be consulted in the Smithsonian Institution report of 1906, scalping is a modification of head hunting, a practice indulged in by many savages. There is a primitive notion that the possession of a token or portion of a man gives one a power over that man. To keep the head of an enemy puts him in your power, the savage thinks. But it is often inconvenient to carry so large a thing as a head. A smaller token is therefore substituted. This statement would seem to be borne out by the following facts:

Many American Indians did not follow the practice of scalping, notably those of the north, adjoining the Eskimo, the Fraser river Indians and the Algonquins of New Jersey. Nearly all of these practiced head hunting. A transition period is represented by the Caddoes of Texas, where the men took the scalps and the women at a more convenient period collected the heads. Some tribes in California secured, instead of scalps, the eyes of their enemies, which were preserved in some way, while others in Mexico selected the ears for their trophy, probably following the lead of the Spaniards, who lopped off ears as punishment for crime.

The Hudson river Indians used to preserve hands, probably in imitation of the Dutch, who in the so called Esopus war gave a bounty for Indian hands. Around the sources of the Missouri the Lewis and Clark expedition found the custom of preserving scalps replaced by that of preserving fingers.

In northern Mexico the custom of scalping prevailed, but toward the south it was replaced by head hunting. In South America there are two localities where it still flourishes. One of these is northern Argentina and Paraguay, where it gives signs of being indigenous, as it differs in many ways from the practice of North America. It is also found around Guiana, probably introduced by the Indian slaves brought from Florida.

The Huron-Iroquois have been accredited with the invention of scalping, but unless it arose independently in several places it much more likely originated in Florida, where it was first discovered by Europeans. Contact with a higher grade of culture gave a tremendous impetus to the custom.

Previous to the Spanish discovery the weapons of the Indians had been very simple, being manufactured from stone, bones, shells or even reeds. The tribal wars, though numerous, were seldom bloody, and with such primitive means the braves found it both awkward and dangerous to remove the scalp of a fallen enemy.

But the Europeans brought with them firearms and iron knives. The former increased a hundredfold the number of those killed in battle, while the latter made the process of scalping an easy one. Besides this, the whites encouraged the custom by offering bounties for scalps.

The first premium of this nature was offered in 1637 by the Puritans, who gave a payment for every Indian head, the custom of scalping not having yet reached New England. But by the time of King Philip's war it was in full blast, and in 1675 the Connecticut legislature offered large prizes for scalps. One Hannah Dustin received £50 and other substantial gifts for having secured with her own hands the scalps of two Indian men, two women and six children.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Sure Way. There are several methods whereby pickpockets may be avoided on crowded street cars, but the surest way is to keep your money in the bank in your wife's name.—Kansas City Star.

MAN, STUDY YOUR HAIR!

Then Before You Comb It Study the Architecture of Your Face.

Just as surely as hair is woman's crowning glory it is man's glorious crowning—that is, to those that have it. Those whose heads have pushed up through their hair usually use a backback towel for the delicate process of parting the hair, but unless one has the peculiar requirements it is not worth while to cultivate them.

Men with low, squinting foreheads should not pull their hair down over their brows, and men whose foreheads are beginning to work back should invite their locks down. If your hair has quietly slipped down toward your ears on each side, leave it there. If you bring it up in strings and wisps it will merely look like climbing vines and will never really have the free and easy homelike appearance that ought to be the part of all natural hair.

Do not part your hair any earlier than you can help. Hair is in a hurry these days, anyway. Usually it doesn't stay more than long enough to make sure that the baby is going to be a boy before it hastens off. It will part of itself soon enough the best you can do.

Before combing your hair you should get acquainted with the architecture of your face. If your face is of the harvest moon variety do not inlay your hair. Puff it up as much as possible. It's better to look like a feather duster on a Monday morning than a scratched billiard ball on a Saturday night.

But if your face is of a long, galloping ensemble do not encourage your hair to fluff. Instead keep it down close to headquarters. If your head inclines to run up to a cone do not spread your hair around in imitation of a palm tree thatch. Rather fluff it up and windrow it for fear some un-bred person will begin to talk about spring radish tops.—Homer Croxton in Delinestor.

UNCLE SAM'S DOCTORS.

Rank and Pay of Physicians in the Government Service.

Uncle Sam employs more than 1,000 physicians.

These doctors are pretty evenly divided between the medical corps of the army, the medical corps of the navy, the marine hospital and the public health service. The complete army medical corps includes 444 medical officers in addition to the medical reserve corps, the hospital corps, the nurse corps and the dental corps. The medical corps embraces "a surgeon general with the rank of brigadier general, 14 colonels, 105 majors and 300 captains or first lieutenants, with the rank, pay and allowances of officers of corresponding grades in the cavalry arm of the service."

The pay of doctors is interesting. The lowest rank held by medical officers is that of first lieutenant. The medical lieutenant gets $2,000 per annum, or $166.66 monthly. At the end of three years he is promoted to captain and receives $2,400 a year. In two years he receives an increase of 10 per cent, or five years' service, making $2,640, or $220 per month. After ten years' service the pay would be $2,880, or $240 per month. The pay attached to the rank of major is $3,000 per year, which, with 10 per cent added for each five years' service, becomes $3,600 after ten years' service, $3,900 after fifteen years' service and $4,000 after twenty years' service. The monthly pay of lieutenant colonel, colonel and brigadier general is $375, $416.66 and $500 respectively.

In addition to their salaries, officers are furnished with comfortable quarters and the keep of two horses free, and groceries, fuel, etc., at wholesale prices.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Bald Eagle's Nest.

Among birds the home of the bald eagle is perhaps the most striking, possibly because of the majesty of the bird itself. It appeals to the imagination. Built of huge sticks loosely interwoven and situated on some lofty and inaccessible ledge, with the bones of the eagle's victims scattered round about it, it gives a proper setting to the stern and savage character of its builder. Here the eagle reigns supreme, and here year after year he and his mate rear their young. This is the aerial from which he can scan the whole countryside and, like the robber barons of old, levy toll on all who pass his door.

Her Lost Jewels.

Backlotz—What's this I hear about Mrs. Swellman being robbed of her jewels? Subbubs—Fact. They're gone, and Mrs. Kraft is the guilty party. Backlotz—What! You don't mean to say she stole—Subbubs—What else can you call it? She offered the cook 15 shillings a week and the chambermaid 10 shillings, and now she's got 'em.—London Tit-Bits.

A Substitute.

"Pardon me, gentlemen," said the individual who had just moved into the little town as he entered the grocery store, "but is there a chicken raiser here?"

"Why don't you take an ax?" asked the village Tailor. "A razor will lose its edge if you use it on a chicken."

Well Fed.

The Barmaid—Your dog is getting very fat. What do you feed him on, Mr. McPherson? McPherson—Oh, I dinna gie him ony reg'lar meals. Jist whenever I drop in for a drink he gets a blacut.—London M. A. P.

Right and Wrong.

It requires something of a hero to give up when he is wrong and a good deal of a family man to give up when he is right.—Pack.

Devoted Tribute to a Noble Man by One Close to Him.

Howard A. Banks in The Hickory Democrat.

God never made a finer man in His own image than our Old Boss Man. And perhaps He never moulded a piece of human clay less yielding, less plastic to His touch, to His Will. As our old chief sits so patiently with his hands folded, waiting to finish this plastic to His touch, to His Will. As piece of human clay less yielding, less pliable, we are going to make hold to tell him that this is not punishment not penalty, it is child-training. On some rare occasions our Old Boss Man used to push aside the curtains and let us into the inner shrine, the heart's Holy of Holies. Does he not remember the day he spoke of that Sunday and evening prayer of Dr. John A. Preston, which was that old memories at days in the country church might come trooping back and soften—so they would accept the Man who, when they grew tired over long sermons, would rest their heads in their mother's lap. Does he not remember that he said: "That little boy is me." So this last lesson is merely child training; it is only prayer-answering.

We read of an alchemist who kept peering into the molten silver in his crucible, and in answer to a question he said: "I am looking for my face." God puts His choice ore into the fire, the fierce fire, that he may see, in the mirror clear surface, as the dross burns away, the face of His Son.

"No child-training for the present seemeth joyous but rather grievous. Nevertheless, it afterward yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness to them that are exercised thereby."

"To them that are exercised thereby." Dear Old Boss Man, we have recited so many lessons together in Life's school room. May we not sit together again on the same bench and put our heads together over the Good Text Book and spell out the meaning of the last hard, hard lesson?

After the Carouse.
First Reveler—I say, old man, your wife won't do a thing to you when she smells the whisky. Second Reveler—When I'm near her I hold my breath. First Reveler—You won't be able to. It's too strong.—Boston Transcript.

SHE SHUT HER EYES.

True to Her Principles, She Determined Not to See.

Mrs. Storey's life had been haunted for years by the fear that some day she might be called upon to serve as a witness in court. Her grandmother was a witness once, and when Mrs. Storey was a little girl she used to hear all about it. "Grandma, it appears, had been so scared she couldn't tell the judge her own name.

"And," said Mrs. Storey to her husband, "if there is anything more disgraceful than to be unable to tell your own name I'd like to know what it is."

In order to reduce the possibility of such a calamity to a minimum Mrs. Storey would walk on with deafened ears and averted head whenever she happened to be near a fire, a fight or the scene of an accident. Only the other day she had occasion to shut her eyes and ears to the seething crowd around her. She was waiting in the Grand Central station for Mr. Storey, who had gone around to the baggage room to check a trunk.

Presently she became aware that something exciting was happening close beside her. Hastily she shut her eyes and stuck her fingers into her ears, but before those protective measures could be accomplished she learned that a female thief had snatched a hand bag which she had found lying on the floor and was being pursued by an excited crowd. Not being entirely devoid of the curiosity of her sex, Mrs. Storey would have liked to know more, but the old fear of being detained as a witness held her inert until her husband's return. Then she ventured to ask if they had caught the thief.

"Yes," said Mr. Storey, "but they couldn't do anything with her. Every one was confident the bag didn't belong to her, but as nobody appeared to claim it they had to let her go."

At that Mrs. Storey opened her eyes.

"I am so glad," she said, "that it is all over. I am ready to go now. But, oh, dear me! Where are my purse and hand bag? I had them here a moment ago. They must have dropped—oh, I wonder—"

"No use to wonder now," said Mr. Storey heartlessly. "Of course the stolen bag was yours."—New York Herald.

Hurried Unto Death.

At the last banquet of the Southern society in New York one of the officers of the society recognized a waiter as one he knew in Richmond. He called him aside and asked him several questions.

"Your brother Sam, who used to serve me in the old town, is dead, I believe?"

"Yes, suh. He was found dead in his bed."

"Died very suddenly?"

"Yes, suh. Sam was de impulsive membah ob de fambly."—New York Tribune.
