RETROGRESSION AND DISEASE.

POWER OF TEACHER IN MARCH FOR HEALTH.

Address by Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse to the Summer School Students at East Carolina Teachers' Training School.

Ladies and gentlemen: I am free to confess that I stand abashed in the realization that I am about to address the great developing power in North Carolina. The power that is taking the North Carolina child and putting it in the way of making a man and a woman that is bigger in mind, in soul and in body than its father or mother. Everybody realizes that from the grasp of the public school the rank and file of the State's constructive citizenship must come. Everybody from the governor of the State to the boy that mails his letters, realizes that the spiritual, moral, material and physical development of the State depends upon you. Go to a bankers' convention—every progressive idea that the public ought to know, is not considered consummated until it receives the teacher's seal of approval, along with the teacher's guarantee that it will be inoculated into the youth of the State, not only that it may live for the future, but that the young may explain and teach it to the old.

The manufacturer is hopeless unless technical and industrial education is made a part of the public school curriculum—agriculture has its future in your hands. The leaders of Sociology are crying out that social betterment is not on solid ground until the public school fires the youth of the land for better things. The prohibitionists does not hope to sober the old fellows; they may vote and legislate all they please, but unless the boy and girl in the school is convinced that alcohol is the principal source of all the ills, poverty, disgrace, crime, disease, and retrogression that fesh is heir to, everything that is done to prohibit it, its use will come to naught.

The Baptist say that unless the public schools teach Baptist doctrine that their hope of ascendancy is lost. The same belief is shared and influences the campaign of all other denominations, Christian Scientists included.

Mr. Rockefeller has donated millions of dollars for the eradication of hook worm diseases in the South. Realizing the power of the public school, he has made your great general, Hon. J. Y. Joyner, president of this commission. I am not throwing bouquets when I say that the State will be just what you make it. You are the moulders of her citizenship. It has not been a week ago since I heard a mutual friend say, that ideals and ambitions implanted by old Mr. Williams, a public school teacher, into the head, heart, body and soul of Chas. B. Aycock was the foundation of the greatness of North Carolina's educational governor.

What constitutes a State? Not money or factories or churches or railroads or agricultural progress. It is men and women. High minded men and women. Men and women strong in body, strong in soul, strong in principle. Ah! You need the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, the strength of Sampson, and I say it all in reverence, the goodness and foresight of God, to discharge the great responsibilities that conditions have placed upon you.

We all agree that your purpose is to make men and women. You have had lesson after lesson in training the mind and soul. In your mind's eye when communing with yourself, you have doubtless seen the vision of your boys and girls becoming Morgan in fiance, Roosevelt in politics, Edison in invention, Blackstone in law, Osler in medicine, Alderman and McIvers in education, Raphaels in art, but sane men in sano corpore, that is a sound mind must have a sound body. It is as true today as when the Romans formulated the adage years and years ago. You, like the Romans, have to bear in mind that the child has a body as well as a mind; that this is the temple of all that you are training, and it should at least receive sufficient attention to make it harmonize with the material it contains. Training an intellect and a soul to perfection in absolute forgetfulness of the training and development and protection of the body, is like the completing of a beautiful garden and protecting it from the invasion of cattle and hogs, by just an excuse for a fence. Doctors have been hammering along this line for years and years—so have a few educators and a few sociologists. Just as is always the case among those who never cease to try; an almost deathlike apathy has been replaced by a national zeal for health and hygiene that is satisfying to even the most demanding. This zeal is breaking into country wide expression, in all sorts of forms and ways. Fletcherism, the Immanuel Movement, New Thought Philosophies, Material Health Cults of every conceivable kind, are means to an end, and that end is the preservation of the body.

William Winter has told us that Willie Collins composed the "Moon-Stone" when he was so racked by sickness and pain that one secretary after another deserted him, because none of them could bear to witness his agony. We cannot deny that men and women, with astonishing frequency, sometimes render faithful service of humble nature, under circumstances that would more than excuse their complete failure. But, notwithstanding all such evidences of rare power that dwells in a few—the rule remains that even a moderate measure of ill health means ignominious defeat to average men and women. The individual who spends his thought and energy upon himself and his ills, dissipates and squanders a stock of energy that would otherwise be available for other and better things. Great prevalence of ill health in a State, a community or an individual, means a degeneration that will exceed that produced by everything else in the world, even ignorance. This has come to be common knowledge and has convinced the world that strong bodies are an absolute necessity.

Business men, scientists, politicians, to say nothing of educators and doctors, are joining hands and every day are making for the nation a splendid health conscience.

Boston donated $320,000 to public health in 1899, she gave $1,500,000 in 1909. She has increased her spending for hygiene 347 per cent. as against 172 per cent. for all other purposes. The first federal appropriation was for $250,000 and went to build a marine hospital, and last year the Federal government set aside $6,334,000 for the public health. Congress will this year vote an addition to the president's cabinet, and that addition will be a secretary of the national board of health. North Carolina gave $100 in 1850 to public health, in 1909 she gave over $20,000.

The subject of hygiene is so large that I can not more than give you an incomplete index of what is being done. Take the growing emphasis that is being placed on child hygiene, the rich health literature which has sprung into existence in less than a decade, the organization of a large mass of the people for health purposes under the influence of the anti-tuberculosis association, physical education societies, the awakening health interests of religious denominations, the education of the masses through the combined efforts of health officers, medical men, ministers, lay organizations and the press. I can simply speak of these, as each of them are of such importance as to demand separate treatment. Nor have I even tried to foretell the possible bearing of this vast health movement on our State and national future. As I refer to this I am very deeply impressed that the world is in every way getting better, and unless we in North Carolina keep abreast of this necessity for progress, our citizenship will be found lagging behind.

There is no doubting the fact that the call to health has undoubtedly everywhere been heard. It is a call to sacrifice and to service—both personal and public. The call to service has been the rumbling undertone of the call to humanitarianism all along the ages, and I stand here tonight to call upon you to help our State, our present and our future, in the effort to make physical perfection one of the most important undertakings.

The signs of an advanced civilization show beyond cotroversy, that hygiene and sanitation is destined to be more and more of a voice and power in the versatile functions of a government. Every day there is an increasing demand for more extensive learning in human biology. The field of sanitary engineer is developing with most astonishing rapidity. Medical men are called upon here, there and everywhere as hygienic educators. All great undertakings, involving human life has to be advanced through hygienic and sanitary supervision. The armies of the crusader have given place to ideas as exemplified by Japan which multiplied three fold the number of its hygienic officers and ten-fold their power and took a stand way in advance of human progress. The value can be demonstrated through the undertakings at Panama, where two continents are being cut in twain, and where men are learning that an undertaking to be done well or indeed to be done at all, must be performed under the auspices of hygiene and sanitation.

The most fertile lands on this green earth of ours has not been made the abode of man, hitherto he has been compelled to go away from them and seek the cold and uninviting North, because he could eke out a living where disease producing germs could not. Where disease producing bacteria are everywhere—man perishes, but hygiene is banishing the infectious diseases of the tropics and is opening up for human habitation, rich lands where dates and bananas have hitherto grown unseen by human eyes, it is destined to give mankind a new world, equal to that which man now inhabits and many times more fertile. Where grain will wave and roses bloom the whole year through and where children will wax healthy and merry in lands which have hitherto been uninhabited because of disease. It is making life more livable, in shielding man from his unseen enemies, in preserving his family and in completing his mastery over the malignant powers of nature.

The scientific study of hygiene and sanitation is equal in importance to that of astronomy, geology and biology, in purging the mind of man of superstitions, which since the beginning of history has hampered his moral development. Pasteur in discovering the relation to diseases of the infinitesimal things called disease producing bacteria did as much as Galileo in the overthrowing of superstitions and the belief in evil spirits. Hygiene touches the bodily and spiritual welfare of the individual, the State and mankind as a whole. The progress of civilization depends upon the advancement of it.

My friends, I could go on for a week and not finish telling you the wonderful things that hygiene and sanitation have done, is doing and will do but I will not take your time. You have heard enough already to convince you that what attention and thought you can give to its service is well worth while. Let me ask you, can I depend upon you to help educate the public both young and old, in this a subject which is conducive to more happiness and prosperity than any other one thing you can give attention to.

Teach them that marshes and mud make mosquitoes, and that mosquitoes convey malaria. Both malaria and mosquitoes can be avoided by the proper screening of houses and by the proper drainage of cess pools, mud holes and the like. Teach them that flies promote flies and flies promote fever; that the fly ranks as one of the most loathsome of all creatures, vultures not excepted; that its feet are so constructed as to catch and carry all kinds of disease producing germs, which the fly distributes on everything on which he crawls; that over 100,000 typhoid germs have been counted on the feet of one fly; teach them that they must not be content except the fly is excluded from the house. This can be done by cleaning up the premises surrounding the house and by screening the doors and windows. Teach them that it has been proven by actual experiment that flies multiply with wonderful rapidity. One fly has been placed in a room where there was a sufficiency of fly food, and from this one fly's eggs ten million flies have been reared in five weeks. And yet the housekeepers pay no attention to a few flies, and wonder where the flies come from. Teach them that consumption is contagious and that nothing will cure it but sunshine, fresh air and proper food; teach them that small pox can only be conquered by vaccination; teach them that hook-worm disease is not a disgrace but a curable disease that is sapping the State's vitality in all classes of society; teach them that measles and whooping cough are responsible for more deaths and life crippling than all the wars that have happened in fifty years, and that proper quarantine can prevent them; teach them to have their eyes, ears, noses and throats examined. Many a child is considered a numbscull, because he can not see, a dullard because he can not hear, a fool because he is not well enough to think. Teach them to spend more time out doors, make them look for and find the culture education and delight, that comes from the observation of the sky with its stars, the budding leaves with their unfolding petals, the flight of birds and the habits of worms. Teach them to study the lives of men and women who are practical enough to care for their own bodies, because they are convinced that healthful happiness goes hand in hand

MRS. HOOKER ENTERTAINS.

Complimentary to Miss Pattie Wooten and Her Guests.

On Tuesday evening from nine to twelve-thirty, Mrs. Travis Hooker entertained at her handsome home on Fifth street, complimentary to Miss Pattie Wooten and her guests, Misses Edwina Lovelace, Helen Patterson, Sude Hackney, and Martha Stevens, of Wilson. The spacious veranda was artistically decorated with festoons of red, white and blue, Japanese lanterns and flags.

On arrival the guests were received by Miss Rubelle Forbes and Willie Wilson, and were served fruit and punch by Miss Pattie Wooten and Key Brown. After all the guests had assembled, tiny cards were handed to them, and progressive conversation was enjoyed for an hour. In the midst of the conversations, the guests were called to the parlor by the ringing of the bell. An interesting contest, "Independence Day Necessities," followed. In this contest were Misses Lillian Burch, Mary Shelburn, and Martha Stevens, Messrs Willie Wilson, Oscar Greene, Alexander Harper, Cecil Cobb Tom Dupree and Percy Forbes. Miss Burch cut the highest and was awarded a pretty belt pin. The guests of honor's prize, achain plate containing a view from Washington was awarded Miss Lovelace.

About eleven-thirty iced cakes which were carried out in national colors, were served by the hostess and Mrs. L. W. Wilson. After this the guests were again summoned in the parlor. Each guest was given a slip of paper with a request on it, and all were required to do what was asked. These consisted of playing, singing, telling stories, reciting, etc.

After this amusement the lights were turned off and a perfusion of indoor fire works was burned.

Having enjoyed several songs by the Warren, Dupree and Hearne trio, the guests departed, declaring the evening most pleasantly spent.

INSTALLATION AT GRIMESLAND.

Newly Elected Officers of the Masonic Fraternity Installed Tuesday Night.

Grimesland, N. C., July 6.—Quite a large number were present at Grimesland Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 475, at their regular communication Tuesday evening to witness the installation of the officers elected for the ensuing year. The installation was conducted by Capt. Richard Williams, Past Master of Greenville Lodge No. 284. The following officers were installed:

J. C. Galloway, W. M.; W. E. Proctor, S. W.; W. S. Galloway, J. W.; J. O. Proctor, Treasurer; A. O. Clark, Secretary; W. S. Godley, S. D.; W. S. Elks, J. D.; L. D. Phelps, S. S.; E. C. Buck, J. S.; and J. R. Mobly, Tyler.

Grimesland No. 475 is one of the most flourishing lodges of the Masons in North Carolina. It has always boasted of some of the brightest Masons. The ceremonies Tuesday night were solemn and impressive and much enjoyed by all present.

with moral happiness. It is an incontrovertible truth that morals do not thrive in an unhealthy body. Lombroso the greatest of criminologists lays all crime at the door of physical deformity and disease.

Teach them that just as they become proficient practically, in just that proportion will they obtain mental and moral proficiency.

Now in conclusion, let me impress you that you have it in your own power more than any other profession except the disciples of medicine, to conserve the physical waste in the State. If you do this, you will have your reward, for "he who preserves the strong are remembered." When the teacher becomes the outspoken and active champion for a physically stronger citizenship, then shall humanity be lead to victories yet undreamed. And the teacher will be indeed and in truth the instrument through which is answered the prayer:

"God give us men. The time demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands.

Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office can not buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And dam his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and private thinking."

75,000 GIRLS ON STRIKE.

Garment Workers Union Want Increase in pay and Better Conditions.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, July 7.—A strike of 75,000 young women in the garment workers Union was officially called today. Order was issued to all members to walk out at two o'clock this afternoon. Word that the strike had been declared was telephoned to all sub-headquarters throughout the city, and balls were soon filled with the crowds of girl workers. Great excitement prevailed in the shops where girls were still at work. It was stated by officers of the union that many employers were ready to sign the proposed agreement providing for recognition of the union, increased wages and better working conditions. A number of employers however, are determined not to grant the demands of the union.

COTTON MARKETS.

Cotton Stocks Irregular—Profit Taking in Provisions.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, July 7.—Cotton opened irregular 4 points, but otherwise market was well supplied with offerings. Opening: July, 15.24; August 14.63; September, 13.22; October, 12.68; January, 12.42.

New York, July 7.—Stocks opened irregular and a heavier tone developed. Prices joining in downward movement. All round the room.

Reading showed the strongest advancing point. At the end of fifteen minutes an upward movement in Reading induced buying by room traders generally.

Chicago, July 7.—There was much profit taking by provisions dealers today with hogs dull. Opening, July wheat 103½. Corn 58½. Oats 46½. September, pork 22.10.

PROSECUTING JEWS.

Situation in Russia Almost Equal to That of Five Years Ago.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Vienna, July 7.—Semitic leaders at Vienna have received letters declaring that the expulsion of Jews from certain cities is being pushed with terrible ferocity. Victims are receiving brutal treatment at the hands of Russian authorities. The Russian government with strict censorship has succeeded in concealing the facts, truth being obtainable only by carrier and cyphen letters. The situation is unprecedented save for scenes five years ago, when the government supervised national slaughter. Expulsion continues in shocking manner.

TAKEN FOR BLOOMER GIRLS.

But They Were Only a Merry Party on Pleasure Bent.

Today Mr. M. A. Smith, of Washington, brought up a merry party of young people on his gas boat. Several colored people were about the wharf when the boat arrived, and some of them asked the pleasure seekers, "Is you the Bloomer girls, what cum ter play ball?" Being assured to the contrary, one of the colored folks was heard to remark, "Den dey mus be er buckleberryin' party." The inquiry and remark were both amusing to the visitors. In the party with Mr. Smith were Mrs. Will Clark, Mrs. Claude Carrow, Misses Mae Ayers, Elizabeth Mayo, Annie and Sallie Carrow and Dick Cox of Washington, and Miss Kathleen Kugler, of Philadelphia.

COMMITTEE REJECTS MRS. YOUNG.

Recommends Another as President of National Educational Association.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Boston, July 7.—F. J. Snyder, superintendent of the Colorado State Normal School, was chosen as candidate of the nominating committee for the presidency of the National Educational Association. This action is usually equivalent to election, but supporters of Mrs. Ellen Flagg Young, superintendent of Chicago public schools, decided though her name was rejected by the committee on the floor of the convention, even they would make a fight for their candidate.

The Womens Missionary Society of the Baptist church will meet Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the church.

WILL ARRAIGN CHARLETON.

Movement of Prosecution to Prove His Sanity.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, July 7.—Porter Charleton will be arraigned tomorrow before Judge Blair. The prosecution will start a movement at that time to prove his sanity.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Knights of Pythias meet tonight. The Bloomer girls are with us today.

State convention in Charlotte on the 14th. It would not hurt Greenville to have another cleaning up.

The thermometer is working as hard as some of the rest of us. Lets take a big crowd to the judicial convention at Morehead City Saturday.

The delegates to the congressional convention got back about day light this morning, somewhat sleepy.

Greenville Beats Farmville.

A pretty game of ball was played here Wednesday afternoon between the teams of Greenville and Farmville, the score being 3 to 2 in favor of Greenville. A feature of the game was the pitching of Ragsdale for the home team.

Fight on Street.

There was a difficulty in front of King's stables Tuesday night between Messrs. J. F. King and J. F. Stokes. The former assaulted the latter with a stick, striking him on the arm. No serious damage was done.

In New Quarters.

The Knights of Pythians have moved into the new quarters provided in the new Winslow building and the members will hold their first meeting there tonight.

THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1910.

While President Taft is making no hurry in the appointment of a successor to the late Chief Justice Fuller, and will likely wait until the fall before doing so, indications point to Governor Hughes of New York, as the man who is to receive that honor.

Pitt county has cause to feel proud at the recognition her delegates received at the congressional convention in Edenton Wednesday. Mr. F. C. Harding was made chairman of the convention and proved an ideal presiding officer of that large body. Mr. D. J. Whichard was one of the secretaries of the convention. And while alphabetically Pitt county stood near the foot of the list, all others passed on roll call waiting for our townsman, Mr. S. J. Everett, to make the nominating speech of the convention. And his speech was one that in every way did credit to himself, his county and to the distinguished gentleman whose name he presented to the convention to receive unanimous nomination.

As predicted yesterday, the congressional convention at Edenton renominated Hon. John H. Small by acclamation. This is Mr. Small's seventh consecutive nomination, and shows the high esteem in which he is held by the people of his district. As he said in his speech of acceptance, he regards himself as the servant of the people, and that is truly what he is. The district has never been more ably and faithfully represented than by Congressman Small.

The bad influences of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno are to go on for some time through moving picture shows. Makers of picture films paid Jeffries $66,000 and Johnson $50,000 for the privilege of featuring the fight, and did not hesitate to say they expected to realize a million dollars from the investment. As long as public taste runs to such things they will go, but we are glad that in some cities a campaign has already started looking to the suspension of the fight pictures. To show the picture will not only have a demoralizing effect, but also cause race strife.

You can count on North Carolina making good wherever she appears. The speeches of Governor Kitchin and State Superintendent Joyner before the National Educational association in Boston were not surpassed by any made before that body.

The governor of Nevada says the fight was great. As he was sponsor for it, he had to say something like that.

Norfolk is preparing to grow in reputed number of population, if not in actuality, by annexing all the adjacent suburbs. As the people of these suburbs really belong to Norfolk, most of them doing business or getting support there while living outside the limits, the city ought to be given the benefit of counting them among her population.

DON'T GET RUN DOWN
Weak and miserable. If you have kidney or bladder trouble, dull head pains, dizziness, nervousness, pains in the back, and feel tired all over, get a package of Mother Gray's Australian Leaf, the pleasant herb cure. It never fails. We have many testimonials from grateful people who have used this wonderful remedy. As a regular it has no equal. Ask for Mother Gray's Australian Leaf at drug stores or sent by mail for 50 cents. Sample free. Address, The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

Every reader of the Reflector ought to show appreciation of the improvement the paper has recently made in putting in modern equipment and adding press dispatches to its news service, by paying subscriptions promptly. The expense of getting out such an improved paper is much greater than before, and we must depend on the people to help us meet this. If you want and appreciate a good paper, do your part.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWSPAPERS.

With all modesty we are glad to say that the average North Carolina newspaper compares very well with those of any other State. Within the past decade there has been a marked advance in the strength and tone of the press. There was a time when editors discredited the profession by pauperizing it. We quite agree with Editor King of the Durham Herald who remarked to us the other day that he had no patience with a newspaper man who gave color to the belief that the business is conducted within plain view of the poor house. Mr. King remarked that if he could make as much money at anything else as he can in the newspaper business he would quit the paper and go into that business. Not only are our papers in good financial condition, generally speaking, but they are free from cant and demagoguery. It is not always so. At one time in the history of the business editors could hardly call their souls their own. They feared to speak the honest truth lest "the party" might be hurt. Thank God, that day is passing. Our North Carolina newspapers, as a rule, are candid and courageous in their expression of their opinions. They are leaders rather than followers of public sentiment. They do not wear other people's collars any more. Most of them are owned by the men who run them, and the others are allowed latitude enough for a full play of their consciences. They are independent and self-respecting gentlemen, and they know their rights and knowing, dare maintain them. Of course, there may be exceptions to the general rule. Here and there may be found a "knocker," or a toady, or a rabbit at the head of a paper, but we are speaking broadly, and we rejoice to know that our papers both daily and weekly are stronger, more high-toned and more influential right now than they have ever been.—Charity and Children.

MY DOCTOR MIGHTY FINE

Mrs. Hattie Cain of Carrsville Thinks all the More of Her Doctor Since He Advised Her to Take Cardui.

Carrsville, Ky.—"My doctor," writes Mrs. Hattie Cain, "who advised me to take Cardui, for my troubles, is a mighty fine doctor, and I say God bless Cardui and the people who make it."

"Before I took Cardui, I suffered with female troubles for sixteen years. I would have to send for a doctor every three months, and oh! how dreadfully I suffered!"

"I would cramp and have convulsions and it looked like I would die. At last I took Cardui and oh! what a surprise! I found it was the medicine for me!"

"From the first bottle, I began to mend and now I am well, can do more work, can walk and go where I please and it don't hurt me, and I owe it all to Cardui."

Cardui helps sick women back to health. It has been doing this for over 50 years. It is not a laxative, or a heart or kidney medicine—it is a woman's medicine.

If you are a woman, try it.

INDIGESTION GOES

A Sells Best Prescription on Earth on the Money Back Plan

Almost everybody knows that sick-headache, nervousness and dizziness, are caused by a disordered stomach. Upset stomach and indigestion happen just because the food you eat does not digest—but lies in the stomach and ferments or turns sour.

You can stop fermentation and stomach distress in five minutes by using MI-O-NA stomach tablets, a prescription that has done more to cure indigestion and put the stomach in fine condition than all the specialists on earth.

A large 50 cent box of MI-O-NA stomach tablets is all you need to get quick and lasting relief.

Mrs. Attie Etson of 93 Dun Road Battle Creek, Mich., used MI-O-NA and within two months was in as good health as ever, and has a strong stomach and eats anything she likes and she attributes her good health to the use of MI-O-NA.

If you have heartburn, belching of gas, heaviness or any stomach trouble, no matter how chronic, try MI-O-NA stomach tablets on the money back plan. Sold by Coward & Wooten, who guarantees them.

The Ants and the elephant.
Eyewitnesses of the marches which ants make aver that when they come to an obstacle they go through it or over it or take it with them. They march as straight as a Roman road. Human occupants fly when an ant army takes its way through a house occurring on its line of march. The legions pass on and destroy nothing but such as will serve as food, but after they have gone not a beetle, a scorpion, a rat or a mouse or an insect or a reptile of any size, shape or name remains. All have been eaten by the army. It is on record that one of these moving companies was obstructed in its passage by an elephant. It took the army eight hours to pass that spot, and then there remained nothing but the picked bones of the elephant.

SHOWS IN LONDON

Crowds That Gather to Secure Seats in the Pit.

A LONG WAIT FOR TICKETS.

The Line, Orderly and Well Dressed, Begins to Form as Early as 5 o'clock in the Afternoon and in Case of a Popular Play Even Earlier.

In the better London theaters it costs 2s. 6d. to go into the pit, which, relatively speaking, is a good sum to pay, for a half dollar in New York isn't much better than a shilling in London when it comes to purchasing value.

The pit crowd begins to assemble as early as 5 o'clock in the afternoon and in cases of a great success even earlier than that. My first experience as a pitte occurred in London one summer night two years ago, when, after vain efforts to buy, borrow, beg or steal stalls for a popular play, writes Adolph Klauer in the Green Book, I finally decided to see it from the pit. When I arrived at the theater, about 5 o'clock one Saturday afternoon, I found there was already a long line of men and boys and women, the foremost with face glued to the pit door and the line extending far beyond the narrow passageway to the street in front of the theater. Now, with every desire in the world to see my New York constituency some news of this great religious success and not without some curiosity of my own I was still far from willing to cool my heels for the best part of three hours until the doors should open.

I turned and found a newsboy at my elbow.

"I'll hold your place for you, sir," he repeated. "What time 'll you be back?"

It was then that I discovered for the first time this London institution, the place holder at the door of the pit, one of the many means by which one of the struggling unemployed or of the poorly paid seeks to add a few shillings to his meager, frugal income. There was no risk involved. The boy was quick to note the foreigner.

"It'll be all right, sir," he said in his cheerful cockney way. "Is the lady coming too? Me and me friend 'll stand in line, and all you'll have to do will be to change places with us when you come around, tonight. Only a shillin' apiece. It's worth it, sir, not to have to wait."

At 7 o'clock we were back in the narrow court, but long before I had been able to disentangle my boy from the dozen or so others, all looking very much alike, his cheerful tones greeted me with "Are you are, sir, are you are, and you and the lady 'll get in the first row if you look sharp when you pass the door."

"Ge-rusalem," I muttered as we dropped into the interstices left by the departing boys. "A good half hour to wait—or more."

But, after all, I found the waiting far from tedious.

Hawkers of fruit and chocolate passed along the line, finding ready buyers among the waiting patrons of the pit, and every few minutes some new vaudeville faker out of work would come along to entertain the crowd with tumbling, dancing, singing or imitations. First a juggler appeared, and when a bobby sent him spinning faster than his plates and balls a contortionist took his place, spread a ragged carpet mat and began to turn himself inside out while the newsboys and shop girls going home from work shouted encouragement and appreciation. Finally the bobby ordered him to "move on," but not until a generous shower of pennies had fallen on the mat. The next man to appear carried a valise from which he produced wigs, crimped hair and several false noses. His entertainment consisted of imitations of composers, "famous," he called them; but "infamous," they really were. He was not encouraged, either, for the pit line knew good from bad and wasn't to be parted from its pennies without proper value in return.

The crowd was genial, orderly, well dressed, and when the doors were opened finally I expected a headlong rush. But there was not the slightest suggestion of a scramble—a little congestion naturally at the narrow entrance, where a smiling, good natured bobby remarked quite pleasantly:

"Now, then, go easy—just the same as you went into church last Sunday—if you did go."

Then a short passage up a flight of narrow stairs, past a little cubbyhole where the tickets are handed out after you have duly deposited your two-and-six, into the theater and ready for the play.

Nine Points in Law.

A three-year-old was being made ready for a bath, much to her discomfort, as she heartily disliked soap and water. "Don't dit water in my eyes," she said, "and don't dit soap in my nose."

Thinking to quiet her, her mother said, "Never mind, Dorothy; it's my nose, anyway."

"Well, I don't care," replied Dorothy, with feeling; "it's me that's using it."—Delineator.

His Revenge.

"You shouldn't have proposed to me," she said gently. "You might have known I'd refuse you."

"I did know," he said savagely. "or I wouldn't have proposed."—Baltimore American.

The essence of knowledge is, having it, to apply it; not having it, to confess your ignorance.—Confucius.

HIS ONLY TROUBLE

The Inquisitive Man Persisted and Finally Learned the Secret.

A small, quiet, but sorrowful if not disgusted looking man sat by the side of a medium sized automobile that was drawn out of the road as a large touring car came along, driven by a man with an interrogatory aspect. The man in the touring car had seen that auto every time he passed that day, so he slowed up and leaned over.

"How long have you been here?"

"Several hours."

"Can't you find out what the matter is?"

"No."

"Inlet valve all right?"

"Yes."

"Trouble with spark plug?"

"Think not."

"How are your batteries?"

"O. K."

"Haven't got a short circuit, have you?"

"Oh, no!"

"How's your commutator?"

"Great."

"Perhaps your worm gear is clogged?"

"No; all clear."

"Got any gasoline in your tank?"

"Plenty."

"How about your circulation? Cylinder isn't bound, is it?"

"No, sir."

"Tires seem all right?"

"Never better."

"Well, maybe your vibrator isn't adjusted."

"That's all right."

"Have you looked at your carburetor?"

"Yes."

"How about the cam shaft?"

"Grand."

"Have you tightened your connecting rods, examined your clutches and gone over the differentials?"

"Yes, yes!"

The man in the touring car paused a moment and then, looking at the stranger by the roadside, said at last, "What's the matter with that machine of yours?"

"There isn't anything the matter with this machine, but since noon my wife has been in that house over there kissing her sister's first baby goodby. When she gets through, if you are not more than a thousand miles away and will leave your address, I will telegraph or cable you the glad news."—New York Press.

A Curious Pavement.

Before the Mexican war, when Alta California still formed part of Mexico, Monterey was its capital city, and for a long period Monterey bay afforded fishing ground for a considerable number of whalers. But, while the bay still provides sport and profit for many fishermen, it is no longer the habitat of any great number of whales. A curious memento of the whaling industry remains, however, in the pavement leading up to one of the doors of the Church of San Carlos de Borromeo, a church founded by the Spanish missionary fathers, that is still in excellent repair. The round, mushroom-like objects in the pavement are the vertebrae of the great mammals. This pavement is in good condition and seems to wear well. It is probably unique, at any rate in this country. —New York Press.

His Excuse.

A Frenchman was once arrested at his lodgings. A lot of smuggled foreign matches—the duty on foreign matches is the prohibitive one of a cent per match—had been found in his trunk. The judge said to the man:

"Foreign matches have been discovered in your possession. What have you to say for yourself, miscreant?"

"Please, your honor," stammered the prisoner, "it is true I use foreign matches, but only to light our own government ones with."—Washington Star.

Later Knowledge.

The janitor brought him in by the back of the neck and reported that two had been fighting, but this was the only one he could catch. His nose was bleeding, and his eye was getting black.

"Why were you fighting?" asked the principal.

"John Rogers said he could lick any boy in the class, and I said he couldn't lick me."

"Why did you say that when you knew he could?"

"When I said that I didn't know he could lick me."—Lippincott's.

The Earth's Crust.

According to the investigations of certain scientists, the solid crust of the earth cannot be greater than sixty-two miles. From the earth's internal reservoir of heat radiations are believed to be passing away into space continually. This loss, however, is declared to be compensated for by the heat received from the sun.

KEPT ON PRAYING.

The House Chaplain Responded to the Journal Clerk's Appeal.

After a rather lengthy prayer by the chaplain of the house of representatives a veteran member said:

"The chaplain's prayer reminded me of the most amusing incident I ever saw during my entire service in the house of representatives. The incident occurred many years ago, so I have forgotten the names of the actors."

"One day the journal clerk rushed into the house while the chaplain was praying. He looked through the drawers of his desk in a hasty manner and then bustled to the side of the chaplain."

"Keep on praying," he urged earnestly. "We can't find the journal."

"Mr. Chaplain was so startled that he faltered in his prayer, but after a moment he seemed to grasp the situation. He bowed his head still lower and continued to pray. The usual time devoted to prayer in the house is about a minute. Members began to shift uneasily on their feet, to look at their watches, and, instead of bowing their heads in reverence, they looked at the speaker pleadingly. The speaker evidently had been informed of the difficulty, and, realizing that the business of the house could not proceed without the journal, he was willing the members should get plenty of prayer. After ten minutes' solid praying the preacher showed signs of getting nervous. He knew the members were getting restive, and he looked down to one of the clerks."

"Don't stop," pleaded the clerk. "We haven't found it yet."

"The preacher did not stop until he had been praying for fifteen minutes, at the end of which time the journal clerk rushed into the house bearing the precious book under his arm."

"Amen," said the chaplain, with a sigh of relief, and the speaker promptly ordered the clerk to read the journal of the preceding day's business."—Washington Times.

RAILROAD TRACKS.

If You Must Follow Them, Walk Outside, Not Between Them.

Two men, one young and the other grizzled with middle age, were walking beside the railroad track in a Boston suburb on their way to the nearest station. The younger stepped between the rails. "Better walk here," he advised. "It's better walking."

"No," replied the older man. "I never walk on the railroad track." "But we're facing the direction from which trains come," persisted the other. "It's safe." "My son," said the middle aged man, "I was a railroad engineer for more than twenty years, and if I learned one thing from the poor chaps I've seen picked up it was not to walk on a railroad track when there is a possibility of walking anywhere else. If the law stopped all trains running on Sunday and this was Sunday I wouldn't do it. It's the fellow that's sure he's taking all the precautions that gets killed."

Here was a man who knew about railroads from intimate connection with them. His advice was the advice of a man who knew. Every railroad man of experience will say the same as he. In England the tracks are private property, and nobody is allowed to walk upon them, so accidents are rare. Here hardly a day passes that we do not read of men killed while making a thoroughfare of the railroad right of way. And usually it is noted that they were on the "safe" side of the track, became confused by the approach of two trains and stepped in front of one or the other.

Occasionally something is to be gained in distance by taking to the railroad instead of the public highway. The man who feels that he must do this will be wise always to walk beside the track and never on it. It may not be quite as good walking, but he is not likely to suffer regrets in a hospital.—Boston Traveler.

What Good is Father?

Father has always been the "goat." It was always father who held the family from the achievement of its social ambitions. It was father who made blunders that put the family to shame. Father never would take to the new fashioned ideas. He was against the domination by the younger generation, against suffrage, against women's clubs, against the teaching of French to the children—in a word, a natural reactionary. It was but natural, therefore, that father should become generally known as a back number, useful only in bringing home money and writing checks.—Washington Post.

The Main Point.

"The successful farmer loves his work," said the secretary of agriculture. "Every detail of it interests him. Thus Squire Ploverlands proved himself a poor theologian, but a grand farmer, when he met one Sunday morning his tenant Hodge."

"Where have you been, Hodge?" said the squire.

"I've been to church, sir," Hodge replied.

"What was the sermon about, Hodge?"

"It was something about Joseph going down to Egypt to buy corn, squire."

"The squire brightened."

"Did the parson say what corn is worth down there?" he asked."

About Egypt.

The total area of Egypt proper is about 480,000 square miles, of which, however, only some 14,000 square miles are arable. The population exceeds 10,000,000, the density of the settled part thus surpassing that of any other land on earth, Belgium not excepted. The superiority of Egypt as an agricultural country is owing to the equable climate, the possibility of carrying on farming all the year round, a constant supply of water and as a consequence of the Nile overflow a natural and perpetual richness of the soil, which does away with the great cost of fertilization.—New York American.

A Vicarious Remedy.

A man went into a druggist's and asked for something to cure a headache. The druggist held a bottle of hartshorn to his nose, and he was nearly overpowered by its pungency. As soon as he recovered he began to rail at the druggist and threatened to punch his head.

"But didn't it ease your headache?" asked the apothecary.

"Ease my headache!" gasped the man. "I haven't got any headache. It's my wife that's got the headache."

A Stork's Nest.

An old stork's nest built on the roof of the Cathedral of Colmar, in northern France, became dislodged and threatened to fall into the street. It measured five feet across, and it was four feet high. It weighed 1,500 pounds and was such a compact mass that to destroy it picks had to be used. In the nest were found seventeen stockings, five fur caps, the sleeve of a silk blouse, a large piece of leather and four metal buttons.

East Indian Monkeys.

A naturalist who has traveled in the East Indies says: "The effect on the monkeys of man's appearance is most interesting. The expression of their emotions is certainly almost human as they sit and stare at him, coughing and snarling with anger and contempt, drawing back their heads and throwing the hand before the face with a gesture of abhorrence and other movements indicative of shocked and outraged feelings. But predominant is the expression of absolute horror, which, coming from those we consider our still degraded cousins, is to our superiority very aggravating."

A Healthful Costume.

When the Fraser highlanders landed in North America in 1757, it was proposed to change the dress on account of the cold winters and hot summers. The officers successfully opposed this and were ultimately justified by the highlanders being the healthiest soldiers in the army. In the campaign in Holland in 1794 some regiments lost as many as 300 from disease, but the Black Watch, which had 300 recruits in its ranks, had only twenty-five casualties, including the killed in battle.

Few Wits.

Him—I was confused for a bit, I confess, but it took me only a moment to collect my wits. Her—Yes; it couldn't take any longer than that. Go on.—Cleveland Leader.

Measures His Man.

Some parts of Japan. It a theft takes place in a household all the servants are required to write a certain word with the same brush. The conscience is supposed to betray its workings in the waves of the ideographs written. Tracing an ideograph involves such an effort of muscular directness and undivided attention that this device, often leads to the discovery of the guilty party. The test is at all events more humane than the ordeal by boiling water, to which accused persons were formerly submitted in Japan.—London Chorus.

Hurried Unto Death.

At the last banquet of the Southern society in New York one of the officers of the society recognized a waiter as one he knew in Richmond. He called him aside and asked him several questions.

"Your brother Sam, who used to serve me in the old town, is dead, I believe?"

"Yes, sub. He was found dead in his bed."

"Died very suddenly?"

"Yes, sub. Sam was de impulsive membah ob de famby."—New York Tribune.
