

MOB BREAKS DOWN OHIO COUNTY JAIL DOORS.

DETECTIVE WHO KILLED SALOON KEEPER LYNCHED.

Call for Troops Saves Others From Similar Fate—Trouble Probably Ended—Detective Strike Breaker.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Newark, Ohio, July 9.—Carl Etherington, 22 years old, employed Thursday night by the State Anti-Saloon League as a blind tiger raider, was lynched here at 10.35 last night, following a day of almost continuous rioting. The heavy doors of the Licking county jail were battered down and Etherington was dragged from his cell. He was shot, kicked and bruised before the street was reached and the finish followed quickly.

Etherington, early in the evening, confessed he killed William Howard, proprietor of the "Last Chance" restaurant and former chief of police in a raid of alleged "speak-easies" in a raiding scuffle at 1.30 yesterday, and narrowly escaped lynching at that time. When news from the hospital that Howard had died passed over the city at 9 o'clock last night the fury to the mob took definite form. Battering rams were directed on the jail and the deputies were powerless. The doors fell after nearly an hour's attack.

Crying piteously, Etherington, a Kentuckian, who has been serving as a strike-breaker since he was released from marine service three months ago was dragged forth. "I didn't mean to do it," he wailed. His cries fell upon deaf ears.

Fearing that the mob spirit would not be satisfied by one victim Sheriff Linke immediately asked adjutant general Weybrecht for troops to protect six other "dry" raiders held at the city prison, in another section of the town.

Trouble Probably Ended.

Newark, Ohio, July 9.—Militia officers held a conference with Sheriff Linke this morning and decided that the trouble in which the man was lynched last night had ended and there was no longer any need for the State militia, but advised that extra precautions be taken during the day to prevent outburst of trouble or attacks on the city prison, where several other detectives are being held.

Tremendous Mules.

We are in receipt of a post card from Mr. J. E. Winslow, who is in Chicago buying stock. The picture on the reverse side of the card shows a team of mules, beside which are standing several men who look to be about the average height and they only reach to the shoulders of the animals.

Did you know John R. Smith's Amusement Co. was coming? Well, it is!

OUR MARKET REPORTS.

July Cotton Strong—Provisions, Grain Hogs Higher.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, July 9.—There was a good underbore at the opening of the cotton market today. Although prices were irregular, 5 points higher to 2 points lower were recorded. Room traders felt there might be a lot of profit taking before the close, which would test the capacity for absorbing cotton to these new high levels. July was strongest on call. Opening: July, 15.47; August, 14.87; September, 13.45; October, 12.83; December, 12.85.

Chicago, July 9.—Wheat, corn and oats were all higher. Provisions and hogs were higher also. Opening: September wheat, 1.05; corn, 61%; oats, 33%; Pork, 21.95.

New York, July 9.—The selling movement which started after the publication of the government crop report yesterday, with stocks pressed on early today, with stocks pressed on markets at concessions. Amalgamated copper and anaconda both declined one point; steel, common shaded, ¼; minor industrials, ¼ to ¾; railroads generally showed losses ranging around ¼ point; St. Paul and Union Pacific went up, and these stocks had a steady effect and started before end of fifteen minutes a vigorous rally.

TRADE AND CROP REPORT.

General Conditions of Tobacco Crop Good—Building Active.

Bradstreet's today says for Richmond and vicinity: Weather conditions have been more favorable to crop growing this week and trade shows a tendency toward improvement. Reports from the cotton districts are encouraging and with continued favorable weather a fair crop is expected. The tobacco crop is in good general condition. Wholesalers of shoes report continued good sales for future shipments. Dry goods are at the usual between season dullness. Drugs, flavoring extracts and kindred lines are active following a warm period. Produce is fairly active, peaches and early spring fruit being plentiful. Building is active and railroad reports show increased receipts. Scrap iron and junk are very quiet and a dullness is shown in practically all metals. Banks find a ready demand for favorable funds. Collections are irregular with a general tendency toward slowness. Retail trade is quiet and unusually large stock remains in the hands of dealers.

TRUE STANDARDS OF LIFE.

The Measure of a Man is What he is, Not What he has.

It takes so long to learn how to live; so long to get even a glimmering of what life is for and what we ought to do with ours. We are so prone to live in the future, to fret ourselves about it. We are so busy yearning for the joys we imagine other people have, and worrying about the troubles we imagine we are having, that we make of the present—the one thing we are sure of—an endless regret.

And of all the follies, the limit is to permit someone else to make our standards for us. Haven't we intelligence? Can't we think for ourselves? To want things we don't need, many we don't really care for, just because some one else has them, and wouldn't understand if we did have them! To struggle and strain to make a show when all the neighbors know it is only a show, and would respect us a heap more if we had the courage to be ourselves! Death's standards ought to be life's standards. Death does not ask how big a house we hall from, nor how many university degrees we have won, nor what is our bank-account. Not what we have, nor what we know, but what we are. And that's our measure of everybody but ourselves.—Emma J. Ridgway in The Delineator for July.

THE CAKE BAKING CONTEST.

Proves a Great Success—Names of The Prize Winners.

The cake baking contest, Friday afternoon, conducted by Mr. John Stanberry, was a success in every way. Quite a number of ladies entered the contest, and the display of cakes was much admired by the many spectators. The prize winners were as follows:

- First prize—Mrs. J. L. Little. Second prize—Mrs. J. B. Cherry. Third prize—Miss Hennie Ragsdale. Fourth prize—Mrs. R. Williams. Fifth prize—Mrs. E. G. Couch. Sixth prize—Mrs. L. C. Arthur. Seventh prize—Mrs. J. A. Ricks.

After the prizes were awarded the cakes were removed to the Amuzu Theater and sold at auction for the benefit of the public library. Those who saw the display of cakes, certainly will not have any doubt in future as to the superior quality of Gilt Edge and Royal flour and Cottolene.

Mr. Stanberry left on the night train for Washington to conduct a similar contest in that place.

How to Kill Nut Grass.

The only way I know to kill nut grass is not to let it show a leaf above ground. This means constant cleaning off, for it will be up next day, but if constantly prevented from making green leaves the roots will die. Nut grass spreads more from seed than from the roots, and being neglected late in the season, it fills the soil with seed, and nothing but constant vigilance will eradicate it. I have just made a garden here from a piece of land that is full of it, and I am going to do just what I advise; clean up every shoot every day. Nothing short of this will answer. Geese penned on the spots will keep it down, it is said, but I have never tried them.—W. F. Massey, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Lockhart, commenced suit in the Superior Court of this county against the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad for damages on account of the accidental killing of his son, J. W. Johnson, while in the employ of the railroad. The accident by means of which Johnson lost his life occurred near Wilmington on the 15th day of May, while Johnson was running as porter on a Coast Line passenger train. It is alleged that the accident was due to the negligence of the defendant railroad, and the amount of damages asked for is $20,000. The older Johnson lives in Morven township.

Death of Margaret Byrd Joyner.

On Tuesday morning, June 28, 1910, between the hours of seven and eight, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. U. Joyner, and took from them their baby, Margaret Byrd aged eighteen months. She was taken sick July 1st, 1909, and was never well any more.

Margaret was a sweet and loving child, and the pride of her mother and father, but God in His wisdom know best and took the dear one home to rest.

Let us not weep for dear little Margaret, for God has prepared a place for His loved ones above. A Loved One.

SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1910.

All together for good roads for Pitt county.

When the news from the convention comes it will be Judge Harry W. Whedbee.

The fifth district was something when it come to holding a long convention.

People sometimes buy from a peddler articles which they could get from the home dealer at a less price.

Monday August 1st, will be a great day for Pitt county. Everybody is coming to the good roads convention that day.

The woman wins out again. Mrs. Young was elected president of the National Educational Association at Boston, notwithstanding the nominating committee had recommended a man for that position.

It is time to forget the Jeffries and Johnson fight and let them sink into retirement. But some of the sports will be a long time forgetting the money they lost on the fight.

The moving picture makers whose pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight are being barred from exhibition in all decent cities and towns, say they are going to wage fight to get the pictures admitted. And in this fight they will get knocked out more than Jeffries was. The municipal authorities certainly have control of the matter. After the State and district conventions are over, the field will be clear for county candidates and they can have a showing.

The Reflector has about got its new equipment in proper running shape. In appearance the paper is not yet what we want to make it, but improvements will continue in this direction. The new equipment recently added includes a Mergenthaler Linotype machine, an Eclipse Folding machine, an extra Chandler and Price job press, a Jenney motor and a large quantity of new job type. This equipment not only enables us to get out a better paper containing more reading matter, but also puts the plant in position to do more and better job printing. We want the patronage of the people in all departments of the business—subscriptions, advertising, and job printing. These increased facilities have been added in order to give Greenville a modern printing and publishing plant, and your patronage is wanted to help maintain this. We want to make The Reflector the pride of Greenville, Pitt county and Eastern North Carolina. Will you help us?

the sweat of his brow, and which the minority of mankind seem to think did not include themselves. What right has any created thing to wish to evade it?

Is there such a thing known as absolute rest among all the powers and agencies of the cosmic universe, the very names of power and agency implying action?

Are not the four elements constant at their never-ceasing, never-resting always interchanging labor? Does one drop of water pause in the roll of the ocean, one tongue of flame hang suspended in the fire, one cloud stay motionless in the wide heavens, one atom of the brown earth cease to disintegrate, to molder, to crumble, and change for its new state?

Is not the seed ever germinating, the flower ever blooming, the fruit ever ripening, sunshine falling, rivers running? Do the planets rest in their courses, the earth in its revolution, the tides in great swimming? All the atoms and impulses of nature are constantly rendering their tithe of service; and why, then, should any of us, as much an atom of nature as stick or stone is, and moved by nature's quickening as much as tide or sap—why should we halt at our work and bemoan our fate that we have our share of work to do?

Even while we bemoan ourselves the work of the universe goes on unceasingly in our own bodies, and the changes that bring on old age daily within us and about us. There is something marvelously strange in view of the industry of all natural forces that the human race, or any portion of it, should be the only thing to rebel at the necessity of labor, in some degree at least.

But apart from all fancies of the kind, it is a fact that there has never been anything of moment in the world accomplished without work. What an immensity of it must have been done to complete those conquests over the raw materials of the earth in the ancient desert ruins, temples, and aqueducts, in the modern tunneling of the mountains and stretching of railroads across continents!

"The money that you pay for our labor we send home," said the Chinese to some agitator against them "but the work remains for you". And so the act of work remains in its effect upon the character of the worker.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

GOLDSBORO HEARD FROM A Lady Who Lives in Goldsboro Joins in the Chorus of Praise for Cardui, The Woman's Tonic.

Goldsboro, N. C.—"A physician treated me for many distressing symptoms," writes Mrs. Etta A. Smith, "but gave me no relief.

"I suffered with neuralgia around the heart and was troubled at times with my head. I had pain in my left side, bowels, left thigh, shoulders and arms.

"After taking Cardui, I am now well and can recommend it to other suffering women."

Just such doubtful symptoms, as those from which Mrs. Smith suffered, are the ones for which it will pay you to take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

It is at such times, when there is nothing to show, for certain, the real cause of the trouble, that you need a tonic, to give the body strength to throw off the illness that evidently threatens.

Take Cardui, when you are ill, with the ailments of your sex. Take Cardui as a tonic, to prevent illness, when you feel it coming.

Your druggist keeps it. N. B.—Write to Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women" sent in plain wrapper on request.

ARABS AS TRACKERS.

They Read the Footprints of the Camels Like a Book.

In some ways the Arabs of the desert resemble the Indians. A traveler writes: "The Sherrarat are all very good shots, and their skill in tracking is also very great, for these nomads, like the red Indians or the Hottentots, have reduced the practice of tracking to a science. Half the life of a Bedouin is spent among the camels. From early childhood, when he is sent out to guard the herds, until he is too old to ride out on raiding expeditions camels form the chief concern of his existence. They are herdsmen by profession. Without the camel life would be impossible in the deserts of Arabia. Small wonder, then, that camel talk is as interesting to the Arab as the camel itself. It is his only means of information, and by constant practice the true Bedouin can read the footprints like a book. They are science and gossip to him. This art is called athar.

"On several occasions when traveling by night my hunter stopped his camel and after a short examination of some camel tracks exclaimed that it was a raiding party of such a number and of such a tribe, and on each occasion I proved him correct. In daylight he could determine the exact number of camels from a mass of tracks all going in one direction and could also say how long ago they passed and to what tribe they belonged. Marauding bands always leave a long, straight, compact line of footprints, as of men traveling fast, close together and with an object. Even on hard, stony ground, where the camels leave little or no impression, they could tell exactly the time at which the owners passed that way and deduce the extent of their wanderings.

"Another most interesting custom of the Sherrarat is their habit of fortune telling. On every possible occasion when in doubt as to the way, in danger of marauding bands, in want of water or even when hunting and in doubt as to the age of an antelope track they proceed to tell their luck before venturing. It is simply done by smoothing out the sand and making at hazard several rows of marks in the sand with the fingers. An even number is a bad omen, an odd number a good."—Chicago News.

THE STOMACH.

Its Power to Resist Its Own Gastric Juices is a Puzzle.

One of the greatest questions disturbing the minds of physiologists both past and present is that of the stomach's digesting powers. It is asked why the stomach does not digest itself. It is well known that gastric juices have the power to digest the tissue of which the stomach is made. One of the things actually manufactured by the body, secreted in the glands near the stomach and poured into it, is hydrochloric acid, a powerful agent that will eat up almost anything. Why it does not eat the stomach up is problematical.

It is known that a stomach from a dead animal or man can be digested by a living man. It has been found out also that when a man is killed accidentally and his stomach is in the process of digesting, if the body is kept warm, his whole stomach will be digested and possibly, too, adjacent organs, as liver, pancreas, etc. From this it was argued that the "principle of life" kept the process from going on in a living being. Subsequently, however, this was proved to be untrue. A living frog was put in an unconscious condition and his leg inserted through a small hole in a dog's stomach, the dog being alive and well. It was found that the frog's leg was wholly digested in the process, although living. So the last reason conceivable was proved incapable of explaining the phenomenon.

About the only conclusion left is that the stomach does gradually actually eat itself up, but that it is being constantly rebuilt. However, as this experiment is hard to perform and as no results have so far been announced in this direction, we are left in a state of absolute ignorance, and all we can do is to be devoutly thankful to Providence that our stomachs do not digest themselves except in the ordinary course of human events.—Lawrence Hodges in New York Tribune.

ROYAL GOLD PLATE

England Has Over Five Tons Stored in Windsor Castle.

The so called gold pantry at Windsor consists of two large fire-proof storerooms in which is kept plate of an estimated value of $1,750,000.

The royal gold plate which is used for state banquets in England weighs over five tons. It is not, of course, all solid gold. If the larger pieces were gold they would be too heavy to move at all. Some of the epergnes take four men to lift. These are of silver gilt. It takes one man to carry two dishes or eight plates. The latter are of pure gold.

There is not much ancient English plate in the gold pantry. Charles I. melted down all the plate of his day and coined it into money. But there are some exquisite foreign pieces, among them a great silver chalice taken from the flagship of the Spanish armada and the famous Nautilus cup, made by that master of the art, Benvenuto Cellini. There is a shield by the same great Italian and the wonderful gold tiger's head taken from Tipoo Sahib's throne after the storming of Seringapatam in 1799.

This tiger's head is a marvelous work of art. It is life size, and its teeth and eyes are cut out of pure rock crystal. Another relic captured at the same time is the jeweled bird called the uma. In shape it is like a pigeon, with a peacock's tail. Its feathers blaze with precious stones, and a magnificent emerald hangs from its breast. According to an old Indian legend, whoever owns this bird will rule India.

There are also a shield formed of snuffboxes and valued at $9,000 and a great quantity of beautiful cups and salvers, among them a rosewater fountain of silver designed by the late prince consort and weighing nearly 3,000 ounces.

Detectives who reside at the castle as ordinary officials guard these vast treasures of plate and also the jewels which are locked in another underground safe. These jewels have of course nothing to do with the crown jewels which are kept in the tower. They are the private property of the royal family.—Pearson's.

A Needle in a Coin.

If a needle is pushed into a cork until just the tip shows on the opposite side and the needle is then broken off so that the upper end is flush or hidden under the top surface of the cork an interesting thing may be shown, known as the increase of pressures. If this cork be now placed with the needle point downward on a copper coin a light blow on top of the cork with a hammer will drive the needle through the copper.—London Scraps.

Will Arrive Tomorrow.

Reports from the last place showed in by the J. R. Smith Amusement Co., are that they have a clean, up-to-date show; worthy of the patronage of old and young.

They will arrive tomorrow and will begin to unpack Monday morning.
