JUDGE HARRY W. WHEDBEE.

As The Reflector has predicted from the time Hon. Harry W. Whedbee, of Pitt, was mentioned as a candidate for judge of this judicial district, he was nominated by the judicial convention. His friends presented his name to Governor Kitchin and urged his appointment as successor to judge O. H. Gulon when the latter resigned, but the governor saw fit to act otherwise. On the very day that the appointment was made, the Democratic executive committee of Pitt county was in session and upon learning of the action of the governor at once adopted a resolution endorsing Mr. Whedbee and recommended him to the people of the district for nomination as judge. The approval with which this resolution and recommendation met, and the enthusiasm it created throughout the district, made it look clear that Mr. Whedbee would be nominated by the convention. And so he was.

Pitt county is proud that this honor comes to one of her citizens and can assure people of the district that no mistake was made in nominating Mr. Whedbee for this high office. He possesses every qualification of intellect, ability and character to make a model judge, and he will occupy the judicial bench with credit to himself, to his county and to the State.

The past week experienced some very large conventions in this State. The first district judicial convention at Effort convened two days in nominating a solicitor. The fifth district convention at Greensboro was in a deadlock three days and adjourned without making a nomination. The fifth judicial convention at Wilmington took 510 ballots before nominating a solicitor, and the third district congressional convention at Goldsboro was almost as long nominating a candidate for congress.

It was a high mark of approval of his previous record as solicitor of this district when the judicial convention renominated Hon. Charles L. Abernethy by acclamation. He well deserved it.

And the fifth district congressional convention got into such a deadlock over making a nomination that it had to adjourn to another date.

Pitt is not fully prepared to understand the action her sister county, Greene, toward her candidate for judge in the judicial convention.

Those fellows who want Jeffries and Johnson to fight again must not know when they are humbugged.

The State convention comes this week in Charlotte, then you will hear something else.

Judge Harry W. Whedbee sounds well.

DANIEL'S INTEGRITY.

The Lynchburg News tells of an incident in the career of Senator Daniel that shows the absolute integrity of the man, and at the same time exposes the insidious methods of those who thrive in the corruption of public men. It says: "During the earlier years of Major Daniels career in the senate, he received a letter from a certain steel corporation doing business in the North, enclosing a check for $10,000, and asking him to accept the same as retainer fee for legal services in behalf of that concern. At that time it is said the Wilson bill was in preparation, and at that time also Senator Daniel was on a committee by which the iron and steel schedule was to be formulated. At any rate he was a conspicuous and influential figure on the Democratic side of the Senate. Major Daniel replied by returning the check and stating that in view of the pendency of tariff legislation which would of course deal with the iron and steel schedule, he deemed it inconsistent with his station as a public man, and out of accord with the duty he owed his constituents to assume the relation of counsel as proposed. "That Major Daniel should have thus proceeded will provoke no sentiment of surprise in Virginia, or indeed in any part of the country. His response to the insidious approach of venal temptings was simply like Daniel, simply Daniel's undefiled and incorruptible integrity expressing itself in fact. Some men might be lauded for a thing of this sort—but not Daniel. Daniel would probably resent praise thus promoted—just as the knight errant of old would have spurned commendation for not lowering his lance when the demands of chivalry required its service. Indeed Senator Daniel regarded the matter as of little importance save as being symptomatic of a grave national peril."

She Has Some Beauties.

If New Orleans is selected as the Panama Canal exhibition city, it is proposed to have a beauty show with a prize of $25,000 for the prettiest girl in the United States. A contest like that would arouse tremendous animosity against North Carolina, because one of her girls would get that money without half trying.—Wilmington Star.

Census enumerators say Little Rock county, Arkansas, holds the State record for large families. Mrs. Abraham Buller, 34 years old, is the mother of fifteen children, all living. Mrs. Laura Rundles, 44 years old, has twenty two children living, while two are dead. Mrs. Maggie Howard has been married nineteen years and is the mother of seventeen children, all living.—Hartford Times.

The Merchant's Association as a state organization is doing a good work for the business interests of the whole state and is preparing to do greater work in the future. The opening of permanent offices in Raleigh for the transaction of the business of the association means much to this city, and marks another long step forward by the association.—Raleigh Times.

DO IT NOW

People Should not wait until it is too late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidneys secrete irregularly of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here is one of many cases in this vicinity.

Romulus S. Butler, 219 Harvey st., Washington, N. C., says: "I am well pleased with the results that followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case and highly recommend them to other kidney sufferers. I was subject to dull pains in my back, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills removed my trouble and benefited me in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo New York, sole agents for the United States.

KILL OUT THE FLIES

Quarantining The Home Against The Diseases of Summer.

During the next six months—the period of flies and mosquitoes—the average American home will be daily endangered by malaria or intestinal disease, or by both. Yet, in nearly every case, this peril may be reduced almost to the vanishing point by a small expenditure for wire-netting, plus a reasonable amount of determination on the part of the keeper of the home.

It cannot be too strongly impressed upon the American housewife that every fly that enters her home may be heavily laden with the germs of typhoid fever or some other intestinal disease. Microscopically examined, the fly ranks as one of the most loathsome of all creatures, vultures not excepted. It feeds on filth by preference, and its effect are so formed that the germs through which it walks are carried away to be distributed wherever the fly may chance to land—in the milk picher, perhaps. Its possibilities in the spread of disease are shown by the fact that 100,000 bacteria were found adhering to one fly that was examined in New York City.

Too many people are content with the partial exclusion of flies from the house. Small openings are overlooked because a few stay flies do not cause a great deal of discomfort. The extraordinarily rapid rate at which flies multiply is overlooked. Let us suppose that one fly lays her eggs in an unoccupied house that contains sufficient fly-food, and that no destructive force interferes with the successive generations. It has been estimated that the number of flies in that house at the end of five weeks would be about ten million! And yet the housewife who pays no attention to half a dozen flies scattered through her house wonders from day to day "where so many flies come from!"

If these carriers of disease be rigidly excluded from contact with the food eaten by any animal this summer, the danger of diarrhoeal diseases may be disregarded. Of course the of these, typhoid fever, unless one case of that disease is within the range of their activity, but they are the hosts of many other parasites. Here is a definite and well authenticated instance of how they quickly spread typhoid germs:

A regiment of healthy young men, most of them from one city, was mustered into service for the Spanish-American war. For several weeks they were encamped within their own state. It was not a joyous outing; the food was scant and cooked by men who did not know even how to boil potatoes; the sudden change to tent life produced many varieties of colds; the nicknacks of the camp-followers upset the digestion of two men out of every three; on the whole, vitality was at a low ebb during the first month.

But no body was really sick. A correspondent would send to his paper daily the names of men who had fainted during the hot afternoon drills but the victims were back in line by the time the newspaper was published. The surgeons and the hospital stewards were occupied mainly with social functions.

Then the regiment was bundled off to Chickamauga Park, glorying in its record for health and fitness. Its new camp was laid out in an isolated grove, high and well drained. Its company streets won the praise of the division staff. Its drinking water came from a deep well and from first to last was pronounced microscopically free from infection. The food was nutritious; every man in the regiment had become a fair cook; rank and file were bronzed and "hard as nails."

Within a few weeks, however, the surgeons were daily diagnosing typhoid fever; the hospital tent was crowded with patients; and now and then the word came that this man and that man had died in the general hospital. The perplexed colonel walked the surgeons from one end of the camp to the other every morning, but there was none wise enough to point his finger at the cause. They all guessed, and guessed wrong.

It is as clear as daylight now. The Chickamauga woods were full of typhoid when the regiment with the health record had set up its tents. Within three days the new camp was full of flies, which had come from other regiments. If it had occurred to one of the staff surgeons to examine the fuzzy feet of a few flies, he would have found the typhoid germs which he vainly sought in the well—and his reputation would have been made. These flies walked all over the food in every company kitchen and the proud record of the regiment was quickly shattered.

The mosquito, as well as the fly, should invariably be looked upon as a red flag of danger. It is not worth while to wait until he alights to see whether his body rests in a horizontal position or at an angle—in other words to determine whether he be an anopheles (malaria bearing) mosquito, or one of a number of other varieties. The fact that he is a mosquito should be a signal for his speedy destruction and for the closing of the inlet by which he has entered the house. It is true, that malaria is decreasing both in its prevalence and in its virulence, but there are yet many thousands of deaths from it in the United States every year. Moreover, for every case of serious illness from malaria, there are dozens of cases where the diseases units work without producing the symptoms of a fever. The important thing to remember is that scientific medicine knows only one way in which the malaria parasite can get into the human blood current—through the bite of the mosquito.

The ease with which malaria may be acquired in a region where the mosquitoes are so scarce as to produce no discomfort is shown by the following instance:

An American and his mosquito-bar landed on the west coast of Africa, a region which has been known for a century as "The White Man's Grave." He knew that "African fever" is simply a pernicious form of malaria; and he had been taught that without the mosquito malaria is impossible. He determined to protect himself against mosquito-bites, but he also began to take five grains of quinine daily as an extra precaution.

To his surprise, mosquitoes were not one of the white man's burdens on that coast. None of the European homes were secured; the familiar hum was never heard on the porch after twilight; and most of the beds were unoccupied. Presently the American forgot his mosquito-net, but kept up his quinine. Occasionally, on awakening in the morning, he would find a small red spot on hand or forehead; but it seemed absurd to protect against mosquitoes so few as to attract no notice.

Before the first of the month had expired, however, the American was tossing in bed with the fever that has taken its heavy toll on that coast. And thereafter, on an average of every two weeks for six months he had the African fever. He steadily lost flesh and strength, his complexion turned yellow, and there was a look about his eyes that caused more than one European to take him aside and say, "Better get away for a while!" Then an army surgeon happened along—a man with a reputation as an expert on tropical diseases. He was gathering data for a report on West African diseases. When he met the American he saw material for his report. He punctured an ear-lobe, collected a drop of blood on a glass slide, and went off to his microscope. "The malaria parasites are eating up your red blood corpuscles," he said the next day, as calmly as if he had announced that the pigs were in the garden. "You have two varieties. One of them can be killed with quinine; the other can't. Better run home and build up your system." "Very well," said the American. "But when I come again the mosquito that bites me must first saw his way through the bars."—The Worlds Work.

His Fifth Killing.

His hands already stained with the blood of four men whom he has killed James B. Allison, formerly a member of the local police force, shot Floyd M. McGhee, driver of the city patrol wagon, five times yesterday afternoon and then to make sure of his terrible deed struck him on the head with a heavy hammer, killing him instantly. The tragedy occurred in the shop of I. R. Coffey on College street shortly before 2 o'clock and was unprovoked so far as immediate cause for the killing could be seen, although from reports and from the testimony subsequently brought out at the coroner's inquest held by Dr. E. R. Morris, it appears that the same woman who was the cause of Allison's killing a man named Roberts of Eagle Terrace about a year ago was involved in this homicide.—Asheville Citizen, 7th.

A Rude Intruder.

He was standing among his fellows this lion of the salon of the Independent Artists, telling what art and life meant to him, when he was approached by a matter of fact citizen, who wanted to know. "Can you tell me," he asked, looking straight into the eyes of the great man, "if these here burned pictures were done by real artists or just amateurs?"—Argonau.

LOYALTY OF DOGS.

Devotion of a Pair of Spaniels to Their Young Master.

The affectionate loyalty of dogs is always pleasant to read about, even when, as in the instance recorded by Mr. Woodgate in the "Reminiscences of an Old Sportsman," their devotion is a little annoying to the master. The story is of a pair of spaniels belonging to Mr. Woodgate's younger brother.

One day the spaniels accompanied Gerald and Austin to bathe in the "New" pool, the only secluded part of the chain of artificial lakes. The younger boy, Austin, put on an old straw hat in the water. It tore to pieces.

After the bath they separated, one going to a friend's house for luncheon, the other going home.

Gerald was dressed first and started, the dogs following him. Presently, observing that Austin was not following, the spaniels raced back to hurry him up.

Meanwhile Austin had completed dressing and had thrown his tattered straw hat into the pool, jumped the mill "lead" where it was narrow and so departed.

The dogs sought for him. The jump over the "lead" apparently foiled the scent. The tattered hat floated visibly in the pool and seemed to tell a tale of disaster. The dogs plunged in. The hat had no one under it. They dived and quested in vain.

Hours passed and forgermen observed them there at work, and when forger hours were over rumor reached the village that drags were needed in "New" pool to find the remains of Master Austin Woodgate, whose straw hat was floating there and the rectory spaniels swimming round it.

Gerald went and tried to call the dogs off. They declined to come. In such an emergency it was no longer, in their opinion, a matter of seniors priores. They stuck to their quest.

There was nothing to be done but to send up Austin to fetch them. As soon as they were satisfied that he was no ghost they came home complacently to their supper.

A Witty Suggestion.

At the time when Thaddeus Stevens was a representative in congress a member of the house who was noted for his uncertain course on all questions and who confessed that he never investigated a point under discussion without finding himself neutral asked one day for leave of absence.

"Mr. Speaker," said Stevens, "I do not rise to object, but to suggest that the honorable member need not ask this favor, for he can easily pair off with himself."
