AREPLANE TURNS OVER WITH CHARLES STEWART.

FAMOUS AVIATOR FALLS 125 FEET TO DEATH.

Only Man Who has Ever Made Round Trip Across English Channel—Was in Wright's Aeroplane.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Bourne Mouth, England, July 12.—

Charles Stewart, the famous aviator, who won the honor of being the only man to make a round trip flight across the English Channel from England to France, was killed here today in an aviation meet while flying in Wright's machine. His aeroplane suddenly turned summersault, crashed to the ground and crushed the aviator to death directly in front of the grand stand. He had ascended to a height of 125 feet when his machine went wrong, and tried to extricate himself but the drop was too swift.

Just before this accident, M. Andemosa, a French aviator, had fallen but was not seriously hurt.

The Kaiser's letter to Madrid was purely personal. The government knew nothing about it and would not be influenced by it.

Corn acted the same as wheat, also being influenced by rains. Oats are lower. Hogs and provisions lower all round. Opening: September wheat, $1.01%; corn, 59; oats 38%; pork, $21.62.

A WORD TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We Hope They Will Heed and Help Lighten Our Work.

The Reflector has quite a number of correspondents in various parts of the county, whose efforts in helping to make their county paper more interesting are very much appreciated. But we want to give them a few suggestions, which if they will heed will greatly lighten our work at this end of the line.

Look carefully for news that is news and do not put in items of people in the same neighborhood calling on each other for the afternoon or night. Only give person items when people from a distance come to your neighborhood, or of people of your section who really go away for a visit. Storms, accidents, fires, deaths, marriages, improvements of consequence and crop conditions are always interesting and should be noted.

Write only on one side of the paper and in a large, clear hand. Do not jumble words together, spell every word out in full, be careful to have names correct, and plenty of space between the lines. Bad writing close together is a trial to the printers and sometimes causes copy to get in the waste basket.

THE HOUSE FLY ARRIGNED AT TRAINING SCHOOL.

PEOPLE WARNED AGAINST THIS DANGEROUS PEST

Prof. Herbert E. Austin Gives Interesting Illustrated Lecture on the Fly and Means of Extermination.

Monday night in the auditorium of East Carolina Teachers' Training School, Prof. Herbert E. Austin, a member of the faculty, gave a lecture that was of incalculable value to the public. The rain of the afternoon and evening prevented many of the town people from attending, but out of the teachers at the summer school and the few who went from town there was a good size audience.

Prof. Austin's subject was the house fly, the danger of the pest and how to exterminate it. Through the assistance of Mr. F. W. Mitchell, of the Amuzu Theatre, who took his machine over for the purpose of showing a film which Prof. Austin had procured for the occasion, the lecture was illustrated, which added much to its interest and effectiveness.

The lecture and illustrations showed how rapidly the fly, a natural breeder in filth, will increase, and how it carries disease and death into the homes. Statistics show that the fly destroys more people than war. The predominance of flies is evidence of the existence of filth, for it is only under such conditions that they breed. To exterminate them the breeding places should be removed and every precaution taken to keep flies out of the house.

One female fly will lay on an average 120 eggs, and in twelve to fourteen days these eggs are fully developed flies, hence it is seen how rapidly they increase. From one fly in a filthy surrounding there will soon be millions of flies, and these carry germs into the homes and by coming in contact with the food communicate typhoid fever and all kinds of intestinal diseases.

Stables, surface privies garbage cans and slops thrown from kitchens, excrement from sick rooms, all of which reek with disease germs, are the breeding places of flies, and too much care cannot be exercised in regard to these. These should be disposed of in such a way that the fly cannot propagate. Heed the admonition to clean up your premises within and without and then, as much as you can, see that others do the same.

The lecture by Prof. Austin was indeed most timely, and being heard by so many public school teachers its effects should be far reaching in creating a sentiment that will mean war to the extermination of this greatest and most dangerous of pests—the house fly.

As many who wanted to be present were prevented from hearing the lecture, the same film will be shown in the Amuzu Theatre at 9.15 tonight, and Prof. Austin will then repeat the lecture. Every person who can should be present.

CONTRACT FOR C. H. AND JAIL.

Awarded to Central Construction Co., of Greensboro.

On Monday the board of county commissioners awarded the contract for building the new court house and new jail for Pitt county to the Central Carolina Construction Co., of Greensboro, for $74,934. There were fourteen bidders for the contracts, ranging from the bid of the Greensboro company, which was the lowest, up to $99,967.

At the price it can be seen that Pitt county is to have handsome modern public buildings that will meet the requirements of the county for years to come. Work will begin on the buildings at an early date and they will be pushed to completion as rapidly as is consistent with good work. SOME ONE FINDS BEAUTY IN YOU.

Friendship and Love Have Eyes When the Casual Passer-by is Blind.

Our dear ones, however they may look to outsiders, are always beautiful to us if we think of their looks at all. Our friends, too, have long passed the stage when we appraise their looks. Looks may lead to love, but character retains it. We love our friends for what they are, but in each one we find some superlative physical beauty. It may be the eyes; or the mouth; or the hands. It may be the voice; the smile; the laugh. It may be the poise the carriage; but something we are sure to find.

Have you ever seen in one list the adjectives we are wont to use in speaking of a friend? She may be pretty, attractive, beautiful, distinguished, delightful, charming, fascinating, stunning, interesting, inspiring, superb, splendid, glorious. She may be sympathetic, helpful, restful, kindly, cordial, unselfish, loyal, tender. For all these and a hundred other reasons, we choose our friends, and no two will ever agree exactly in their estimate of another. But with a world full of beauties of bodies and character it would seem that everybody should have a host of friends to admire and treasure if he have an eye for beauty.

If one cares to make a good impression, to be found attractive and beautiful, health is a first consideration. And the second plain, old-fashioned cleanliness. A healthy, clean, person neatly dressed, however simply, is bound to be attractive. But the wellsprings of beauty are in a woman's heart.

Her body's beauty is but a poem written by God about her soul.

Her gown is the binding for the poem, which, if it serves its purpose truly, will suggest the sentiment of the poem, and at the same time will harmonize with the other bindings on the shelves of life's library.—Erman J. Ridgway, in The Delinist, for August

Change of Township Line.

At their recent meeting the board of county commissioners granted a petition for a slight change in the boundary line between Pactolus and Carolina townships. The change was for the purpose of straightening the line and for convenience. Only about 150 acres of land, known as the James lands, are affected by the change.

The Greenville Reflector has recently added a Linotype to its equipment, and the appearance of The Reflector has greatly improved. In addition to this they have added a telegraph service. The people of Greenville should appreciate this improvement and give The Reflector the support it deserves.—New Berne Sun.

Greenville should begin at once to wage war upon the house fly. This dangerous pest can be exterminated by illuminating the multitude of breeding places that infest the town. Prof. H. E. Austin has started a good work by giving a lecture on the subject, and it should arouse both the city authorities and every household to action. Away with the flies!

We are glad to note signs of prosperity apparent in the case of our contemporary, The Daily Reflector, of Greenville. The Reflector Company has been incorporated and Mr. D. J. Whichard is president and continues to edit the paper. A latest model Linotype machine has been purchased and other equipment added. The Reflector is doing good work for Greenville and Pitt county and deserves the hearty support of its people.—Kinston Free Press.

thorities in various towns of the State over the question of the payment of all fines collected by the towns into the county school funds as required by the constitution. All manner of means of evading this requirement have been evolved by towns and practiced until forced to abandon them by the school authorities. The latest plan of evasion is reported from a certain county where the town has adopted the scheme of imposing a sentence of road service altogether and then allowing the party to get out of the service by paying the authorities $1.00 per day, the town using this for its own benefit. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction has asked the Attorney General for a ruling and the latter holds that the $1.00 per day payments are in the nature of a fine and must go to the school fund.

AND THIS IN A CHRISTIAN TOWN.

Listen to this story given by a prominent gentleman who was an unwilling hearer: I had business in a public place. Several young men sat around, and a few boys were there a- loafing. One young man, less than twenty-four, said: "boys, you just ought to have been with me last Sunday at-----where we had a most exciting poker game going on. I did the boys up; it was a sight the way I raked in the chips."

"And do you play poker—and on Sunday?" was asked the young man. "Why, there is no harm in it; besides you have such excitement in whiling away the time, and you stand a good chance in making considerable money." This was the young man's open, frank and unblushing reply.

This happened in a town of 12,000 people, full of churches, orders, societies, clubs and policemen. A bystander remarked: "He's telling the truth; you would be astonished how many boys in this town are playing poker and shooting dice every Sunday about in the clubs and secluded spots."

And yet the town men are trying to solve the condition of the rural youth. And they are blind to the criminal neglect the town people are participating in many instances with the youth of the town. "There is no harm in playing poker and on a Sunday" is a contemptible estimate of proper ethics, but can better than this be expected if the young are allowed to roam the streets in idleness, day and night, witnessing games of chance, small and large, frequently going right on under the nose of the police and other authorities of the law.

At this rate, what will the next generation reveal to us?—The Uplift.

It Pays to Fertilize the Legumes.

While peas and other legumes will get nitrogen for us from the air, and will furnish the materials for increasing the humus in the soil, they draw heavily on the material matters in the soil, phosphorus and potassium, and hence must be supplied with these if they are to do their part in the improvement of the soil.

Years ago a man in Alabama wrote to me that what I had been writing about peas improving the land was all a humbug, for he had taken twelve crops in succession off a piece of land and the soil got so poor that it would not grow peas. There is no crop grown that can be taken annually off the land and nothing returned without impoverishing the soil, and the legume crops are no exception. They consume phosphoric acid and potash largely, and these they cannot get from the air, and if they are not supplied in fertilizers, the pea, or any other legume, will exhaust the supply of these in the soil.

But where phosphoric acid, and, in most sections, some potash, are applied in a liberal manner, the legumes will enable us to dispense with the purchase of nitrogen, or ammonia, in any form.—W. F. Massey, in Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

How I Fell 4,000 Feet

Hamilton, the noted aviator who electrified the whole world a few weeks ago by flying from New York to Philadelphia and back in one day, has written a thrilling story for the New York Sunday World of July 17, describing a fall of 4,000 feet. The Judge's Joke.
Sheriff Guy is responsible for a court of session story. Once when the present lord justice, Clerk, was conducting a jury trial he made a small jest. The audience thought it his duty to laugh. "Silence" shouted the mace in measured tones. "There's nothing to laugh at!"—Westminster Gazette.

Prima Facie Evidence.
The late Lord Morris on one occasion gave a characteristic illustration of the meaning of "prima facie evidence."
"It," he said to the jury, "you saw a man coming out of a public house wiping his mouth, that would be prima facie evidence that he had been having a drink."

MARCO POLO'S BOOK.

It Gave Columbus the Idea For His Voyage of Discovery.

Mediaeval Europe knew but very little of eastern and northeastern Asia. Many of the most learned cosmographers of the time taught that Asia stretched eastward indefinitely, and no one imagined that it had an eastern coast washed by the ocean. It was seriously taught that eastern Asia was a land of vast swamps, inhabited by monster serpents and dragons. This was the opinion that still prevailed up to within 200 years of the time of Columbus.

At this time two Venetian merchants of the name of Polo went on a vast trading expedition to the uttermost parts of Asia. They were gone many years. Upon their return the son of one of them, a young man named Marco Polo, wrote out a full account of their travels, described the empire of the grand khan (the Chinese emperor) and revealed the fact that Asia was bounded on the east by a vast ocean. He described this eastern coast minutely, with all its vast cities and its wealth of precious stones and spices.

It was from reading this book that the imagination of Columbus was fired, and he conceived the bold idea of reaching this eastern coast of Asia by sailing toward the west around the earth.

So when he discovered Cuba he had not a doubt that he had landed upon the coast of Asia and that he looked upon the same scenes that Marco Polo had gazed upon 200 years before.

HEIGHT OF ELEPHANTS.

In the Majority of Cases It Is Under Eight Feet.

The average term of an elephant's life, although there is no precise information on the point, is seventy or eighty years. The elephant is not in full vigor and strength till thirty-five. The most ready way of forming an approximate idea of the age is by the amount of turnover of the upper edge of the ear. In young animals, sometimes up to the age of eight or nine years, the edge is quite straight. It, however, then begins to turn over, and by the time the animal is thirty the edges lap over to the extent of an inch, and between this age and sixty this increases to two inches or slightly more.

Extravagant ideas are held as to the height of an elephant. Such a thing as an elephant measuring ten feet at the shoulder does not exist in India or Burma. Sanderson, an admitted authority on the subject, said the largest male he ever met with measured nine feet ten inches and the tallest female eight feet five inches. The majority of elephants, however, are below eight feet, and an animal rarely reaches nine feet, the female being slightly shorter than the male. The carcass of an elephant seven feet four inches tall weighed in portions gave a total weight of 3,000 pounds, so an elephant weighing two tons should be common enough. The skin was about three-fourths of an inch thick.

Kind Words Mean Much.

Cultivate kindness of heart; think well of your fellow men; look with charity upon the shortcomings in their lives. Do a good turn for them as opportunity offers and, finally, don't forget the kind word at the right time. How much a word of kindness, encouragement or appreciation means to others sometimes and how little it costs us to give it. We do not need to wait for some special occasion. When calamity overtakes a friend words of sympathy and encouragement are offered sincerely enough, yet in certain respects as a matter of course. Such an occasion calls for expression on our part, and we naturally respond. But why wait for occasion? Why not speak the kind word when there is no special occasion?

The Roman Senate.

The Roman senate had for many centuries but 300 members, selected from the patricians, or aristocrats. The office of senator was for life. The body was practically supreme in matters of legislation and administration. The majority of votes decided a question, and the order in which the voting took place was invariably determined by rank, beginning with the president and ending with the quators. The senators wore on their tunics a broad purple stripe—a badge of distinction, like a modern decoration—and they had the exclusive right of precedence at theaters, the amphitheater and all other public gatherings.

BAD DREAMS.

Nightmares, Restlessness and Night-sweats all Caused by Indigestion
Half of the nervousness in the world, all of the disturbing dreams and nightmares can be ended in a few weeks by a simple, inexpensive treatment.

Upset stomach is the cause of nervousness and bad dreams. Your food is lying in your stomach undigested and fermenting; it is forming poisonous gases which irritates the pneumogastric nerve that leads direct from the brain, and ends in a network of tiny branches running through the stomach.

It is also the irritation of this great pneumogastric nerve that causes headaches. Many times people have severe headaches and know they are caused by the stomach, but do not know in what manner.

If you are nervous, have dreams or nightmares and do not sleep sound at night, get a 50 cent box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets and take one or two after or with meals. They relieve distressed stomach in 5 minutes. Sold by Coward & Wooten, who guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

BUILT ON DISCIPLINE.

Big Department Stores Are Managed Like an Army.

"This is like an army," the manager explained when I went to him to ascertain by what system he handled the big department store. "The assistant managers are the generals, the department heads the colonels, the floorwalkers majors, and so on down the line. Only matters which are out of the ordinary routine are brought to the commander in chief.

"The organization is built on discipline. Each individual knows what work he has to do, and if he fails the failure reacts directly upon him. Thus each in turn is responsible to the one above him until the responsibility reaches this office. In the final analysis I am responsible to the firm. If a girl ties a bundle wrong or there is a dispute with a customer I am directly responsible, although I have probably known nothing of the incident. I pass the actual administration of authority and responsibility right down the line until the person who is at fault feels it personally. Doubtless hundreds of things happen in this store every day of which I have no knowledge, and I don't need to know about them. So long as the man to whom I have delegated the authority delegates it in turn to some one who knows how to use it properly there is no reason why I should interfere.

"This is the way it should be. I should not consider that we had an effective system if it were otherwise. A system must be so perfectly organized and every man must know and live up to his responsibilities so sincerely that I could walk out of this office today and not return for six months."—Interview With Manager of New York Store in Bookkeeper.

Eating Away an Island.

Strength is not a thing usually connected with maidenhair fern, yet if its roots have not sufficient room they will break the pot in which the plant grows. Blades of grass will force the curbstones between which they spring up out of their place, and in a single night a crop of small mushrooms have lifted a large stone. Indeed, plants have been known to break the hardest rocks. The island of Aldabra, to the northwest of Madagascar, is becoming smaller and smaller through the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliffs. They eat their way into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way. In time they will probably reduce the island to pieces.—London Globe.

Floral, Ark.—"I must speak a good word for Cardui," writes Mrs. Viola Baker, of this place.

"About a month ago I was in very bad health. I was so weak and nervous that I was not able to do my housework. "My husband bought me one bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic. I took it according to directions and now I am in good health.

"I think Cardui is a fine tonic for weak women."

Thousands, like you, have written to tell of the wonderful benefit Cardui has been to them.

Cardui contains no minerals, or other powerful drugs. It contains no glycerin or other mawkish-tasting ingredients. It is just a pure, natural extract of natural vegetable herbs, that have been found to regulate the womanly functions and strengthen the female system.

All druggists sell Cardui. See yours about it.

ATTACKED BY SHARKS.

A Swimmer's Plucky Encounter With Two Big Man Eaters.

John T. Clark, a well known swimmer, in 1882 had a narrow escape from serving as a meal for two hungry sharks while giving an exhibition at Pensacola, Fla. He had agreed to be sewed up in a big sack, heavily weighted with sand, and be thrown into the bay near the navy yard, from which bag he was to escape by cutting his way out with a knife and swimming ashore.

At an appointed time a flatboat took him out some distance from shore, and after being tied up in the sack he was thrown overboard. He had hardly got more than thirty feet below the surface when something bumped against the sack, and almost instantly the idea flashed through his mind that it was a shark. Before he could do anything there was a bump from the other side of the bag. In a moment or two he had cut his way out and was rising to the surface, still clutching the knife in his hand. Once something cold grazed his leg as he was rising.

On reaching the surface he was greeted with cheers, but noted with dismay that there were no boats near. He started to swim toward the nearest one when the water parted a few feet to one side and he could make out the long black fin of a shark. The monster headed at once for him, and as he was about to dive to escape its clutch another shark dashed in.

As the first shark turned over on its side in order to bite Clark dived below the surface, then up under the shark, and drove the knife time after time into its vitals, and it sank to the bottom. As he came to the surface gasping for breath a yawlboat-manned by excited sailors from the navy yard ran alongside, and he was pulled aboard just in time to escape the second shark.—Detroit Free Press.

THE PEANUT.

It Starts Growing in the Open, but Finishes Under Ground.

Most people of the north suppose that peanuts grow, like potatoes, on the roots of the vine. Others with equal confidence state that they hang from the branches like pea pods. Both are right, and both are wrong. The peanut starts in the air and sunlight above ground in the shape of a flower growing at the end of a long tube. After the fall of blossoms this tube, or peduncle, elongates and bends downward, pushing itself inches into the ground. If for any reason it cannot do this it dies in a few hours. But if it succeeds in burying itself to its own satisfaction the ovary at the base of the peduncle slowly enlarges and forms the familiar pod, which is therefore dug out of the ground.

Scattered over the roots of the plant, however, are numerous warts or tubercles, in which, by the aid of a good microscope, can be seen myriads of minute organisms. These bacteria-like bodies, though they get their living from the plant, contribute materially to its supporting by collecting nitrogen from the air and holding it in storage, so to speak, supplying it to the plant as need requires. These wonderful little storehouses often, contain, by analysis, a greater supply of this indispensable fertilizer than the surrounding soil.

The native country of the peanut has long been a matter of dispute, but the department of agriculture states that the weight of evidence seems to be in favor of Brazil. Thus the peanut is added to the four other plants of great importance that America has given to the world—namely, cotton, Indian corn, tobacco and the potato.

The Literary Squire.

Traveling Inspector (cross questioning the terrified class)—And now, boys, who wrote "Hemel?"

Timid Boy—P-p-please, sir, it wasn't me.

Traveling Inspector (the same evening to his host, the squire of the village)—Most amusing thing happened today. I was questioning the class and asked a boy, "Who wrote 'Hemel?' and he answered tearfully, "P-p-please, sir, it wasn't me."

Squire (after loud and prolonged laughter)—Ha, ha! That's good, and I suppose the little devil had done it all the time.—London Answers.

Knocked into a Cocked Hat.

The expression "knocked into a cocked hat" is familiar to every one, but perhaps its origin is not so generally known. Cocked hat was a variety of the game of bowls in which only three pins were used, set up at the angles of a triangle. When in bowling tournaments all were knocked down except the three at the corners the set was said to be "knocked into a cocked hat," whence the popular expression for depriving anything of its main body, character or purpose.

She Did Hate Smoking.

Henry M. Stanley once had an experience which shows how a hatred of tobacco is apt to swamp the finer feelings. In 1863, when staying at Brooklyn, N. Y., he notes in his diary "Boarding with Judge X. Judge drunk. Tried to kill his wife with hafehet. Attempted three times. I held him down all night. Next morning, exhausted, lighted cigar in parlor. Wife came down and insulted and raved at me for smoking in her house."

For a Rainy Day.

"In your pursuit of pleasure," said the serious citizen, "you should not neglect to lay something by for a rainy day."

"Of course," replied the light hearted man. "Nearly every member of our fishing club brings along a pack of cards."—Washington Star.

His Own Writing. Dean Stanley's handwriting was atrocious. The late Lord Lytton handed in an amendment to the Tory reform bill of Lord Derby. The clerk at the table could not read it, nor could any one else. At last Lord Lytton—a rare scholar and an accomplished man of letters—was asked to read it himself. He explained that, though he could not pretend to read the text, its purpose was to enact that no man should be admitted to the poll, unless he could sign his own name in legible handwriting.
