HAPPENINGS THROUGHOUT NORTH CAROLINA.

CREAM OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE EXCHANGES.

Burke County Sheriff Short in Account—Temporary Receivers for Chapel Hill Bank.

Morganton, July 25.—Reports coming from Mitchell county state that the present sheriff of the county, J. W. Bryant, is in trouble over a settlement with the commissioners. It appears that the commissioners claim to have discovered what appeared to be a considerable shortage in the sheriff's accounts. They notified his bondsmen and at a meeting a few days ago an expert accountant was employed to go over the books and until he finishes his examination and makes his reports nothing will be done. It is said the sheriff offers to resign and if he is in debt to the county to turn over all his property to make good.

Chapel Hill, July 25.—The latest development in the situation of the defunct People's bank is the appointment of a temporary receiver. Upon the prayer of the North Carolina Corporation Commission, Judge J. Crawford Biggs, in chambers at Durham yesterday, appointed Prof. M. C. S. Noble of Chapel Hill and Mr. G. C. Thomas of Durham to be co-receivers. Judge Biggs later withdrew the appointment of Professor Noble and continued Mr. Thomas as temporary receiver. A permanent receiver will be appointed in a few days.

With a fracture of his skull at its base, his nose broken, bruised from head to ankles and unconscious, Mr. Lacy Myers, a young man employed as cleaner at the Ben Vonde Dyeing and Renovating Works on West Fifth street, was found last night at 8.35 o'clock, after a fall from the window of his room on the third floor of the Queen City hotel, corner of North College and East Fifth streets. His condition is precarious and his chances of recovery look to be slim.—Charlotte Observer.

Mount Gilead, July 25.—Fred Thompson, a boy about 18 years old, son of David Thompson, who lives near here was killed near Miscoe today while at work as trainman on an extra train of the A. & A. Railroad. His body was brought here and delivered to his father.

Durham, July 25.—William Nichols, 15 years old, was accidentally killed in north Durham tonight by Eugene Watson. The boys were playing in a room and when Watson handed a 22-caliber rifle to Nichols the hammer struck the bed and was discharged, the load entering Nichols' forehead.

Sidney Davis, 16 years old, swinging on a freight train in Raleigh, fell under the cars and lost a leg. In his agony the poor boy wailed repeatedly that his mother had warned him to keep away from trains.

Littleton, N. C., July 25.—Mr Thad Shearin, young farmer about twenty-five years old, living two miles from this place, was found dead on the Seaboard Air Line track about one mile south of Littleton by the engineer on train No. 33 last night. It is alleged he was shot and placed on the track last night before twelve. Train No. 33 could not stop after seeing the body on the track and ran over it, stopping about three hundred yards the other side.

FIRE IN BROOKLYN NAVY YARD.

Lighter Burned and all Shipping Threatened.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, July 26.—Shipping in the Brooklyn navy yard was threatened with destruction today when a big navy department lighter containing 1800 rounds of ammunition caught on fire at the dock. The supply ship Calgoa was set adrift to save her, and the receiving ship Hancock narrowly escaped. The lighter was finally burned to the water's edge in mid stream in East river.

One seaman was badly burned and may die. The shells on the lighter contained powder only. One of them suddenly began burning and set the others afire before the lighter caught. Men working on the lighter had to jump in the water to save themselves and the lighter was allowed to drift out of the dock.

ANOTHER VERSION.

There Was Another Matter Behind the Trouble.

Mr. J. B. White, who was in the trouble with Mr. E. H. Forbes Saturday night, tells us that the cause of the difficulty as stated in The Reflector was not correct. He did hear that Mr. Forbes had been talking about him, and he went to the latter, purely in a friendly way, to ask what he had done to be talked about in this way, both of them sitting on the sidewalk when the conversation started. By way of explanation Mr. Forbes remarked: "You challenged my vote in the election for mayor and I have never been satisfied about it, and do not suppose you are, either," and thereupon he struck Mr. White. Other parties quickly stopped the difficulty and Mr. White struck no blows at all.

As to the colored woman, she says she made no statement to Mr. Forbes about Mr. White owing her anything, but told him that the reason she had missed paying one of her installments on the furniture was that she had been sick, and that she was then at work again, having added some additional patrons to those for whom she took in washing, Mr. White among them, and as soon as she finished her week's work she would have the money.

YOUNG ZAHNIZER KNOCKED OUT.

His Preliminary Training Did Not Count for Much.

Some of our boys around town have developed a "craze" for boxing. Young Chandler Zahnizer was particularly enthusiastic on the subject, and seemed to have an air of "wearing a chip" on his shoulder to see who could knock it off or take him up on a light weight challenge. He had been taking on some training and wanted to show his skill. The challenge became so pronounced and galling to the other boys that Sherwood Ragsdale decided to "take him up."

Equipping themselves with a pair of gloves each, the boys got off on a private lot, Monday night, with a bunch of "rooters" on each side, and went at it, with referees and umpire. There were six rounds, Ragsdale taking the honors in the first two, a tie in the third, Zahnizer in the fourth, and Ragsdale in the next two, Zahnizer "throwing up the sponge" in the sixth.

Now that the challenge has been met and vanquished, we would advise the boys to drop that kind of sport.

EIGHT EARS TO STALK.

Corn Averaging Six Ears to the Stalk Within a Mile of City.

A beautiful sight to the agricultural loving people was a stalk of corn containing eight ears which was raised on the farm of Hamilton and Jones, two prosperous negroes of the city. They have leased 32 acres of the old city farm, bordering chiefly on Walnut creek, two and a half acres of which are in corn which contains four to eight ears to the stalk and the one brought to The Times office this morning was just a sample of many more.

Ten acres of their farm are planted in cotton, from which one, if not the first Wake county cotton bloom was produced.—Raleigh Times.

Special Train from New Bern.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, will be a big day at the New Bern bi-centennial. Persons from this section wishing to can leave on the regular 9.20 a. m. Norfolk Southern train and go through to New Bern. Returning, a special train will leave New Bern for Washington at 11 o'clock at night, connecting at Washington with the night train that reaches Greenville at 3.58 a. m.

Just an Idle Rumor.

How easy it is to get rumors started. Monday it was all over town that a boat crossing the sound between Morehead and the beach had capsized and 20 people were drowned. The Reflector phone was kept ringing for particulars of the disaster, the inquirers learning that there was not a word of truth in the rumor. The sea serpent story is due to come along next.

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Newsy Items About the Town and Its People—Progressive Community.

Ayden, N. C., July 26, 1910. Misses Lorena and Lizzie Dixon are visiting at Macklesfield this week. Mr. R. C. Cannon, wife and two daughters, Miss Blanche and Sudie May, left today for Asheville, the "Switzerland of America."

Our politest bow to the city fathers for the much needed and substantial work now in progress on the streets. Mr. C. G. Moore is the proud father of a baby girl.

Miss Norma McGlohorn, of Winterville, spent Sunday in town. The large commodious prize house of C. J. Smith & Son, is nearing completion.

Miss Eliza Nelson returned from the training school Saturday.

The five and ten cent counter at J. R. Smith Co.'s seem to be very popular. They sell large dish pans and gray stain wash pans at 10 cents each.

Commissioner J. J. May and wife, was on our dry goods market Monday. Mr. May tells us that crops are making wonderful improvements.

We regret to learn that the condition of little Thad Moye is regarded as very serious.

Mr. Jesse F. Hart is very sick near Littlefield.

Mrs. E. L. Brown left Monday for a few days at Wrightsville Beach.

Messrs. Willie and Derby Tucker, of Red Banks, spent Sunday in town. Mr. Brown, our efficient railroad agent spent Sunday with his parents at Kelford.

Mrs. Wilkerson, of Enfield, is visiting her brother, Dr. Joseph Dixon.

Mr. L. H. Crawford, of Greenville, was here Sunday.

Miss Clara Forest is spending the week at Morehead.

Mr Fairbanks' Golden Text.

"The best advertiser and the best merchant are synonymous, and the poorest advertiser is usually the one who finds himself in a court of bankruptcy."

That is what the Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, former Vice President of the United States, said to the Advertising Clubs of America in his admirable address at Omaha yesterday. It is a golden text, the wise conclusion of a very successful business man, a man who keeps his wits about him, who does not jump at his judgments, but who take life as it is and men as they are, reasoning from observation and experience that the most successful business men are those who "possess the faculty of bringing their business fairly and favorably before the public." Every man engaged in business should have what Mr. Fairbanks said printed in large type and kept constantly on his desk as a reminder that when times are dull and customers are falling away there is a certain means of bringing them back and making things move.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Handsome Office Building Completed.

Mr. Ed. H. Shelburn has completed his two-story office building on Third street, on the site where his building was burned in the February fire. This new building is much handsomer than the old one, and is a credit to the town. It has two splendid suites of offices on each floor, besides some convenient living rooms on the second floor. It also has bath rooms and is fitted with water and electric light throughout. The tenants have begun moving in the building.

OHIO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Columbus, July 26.—With James R. Garfield in the lead as the candidate for governor before the Ohio Republicans, but with the situation very much muddled, the delegates to the State convention are devoting their efforts to routine work. The stand-patters are at sea and are casting about for a dark horse with which to defeat Garfield.

A Platform endorsing the good intentions of President Taft, but not endorsing his administration, will be adopted without much of a fight, and whoever is nominated for governor will be on a progressive platform.

STRIKE LEADERS CONFERRING.

Both Sides Frown Upon Arbitration—Deliberations Secret.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Montreal, July 26.—Leaders of the Grand Trunk railroad held a conference here today. Utmost secrecy marked the deliberations of the meeting, leaders on both sides refusing to divulge anything about the nature of their talk. All prospects of arbitration are being frowned upon by both sides, and there is little indication today of a renewal of attempts at intercession. President Hayes, of the railroad, said conditions were approaching normal again.

THE FARMERS' UNION.

Large Attendance at the State Meeting in Raleigh.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Raleigh, July 26.—Five hundred farmers are here attending the meeting of the State Farmers' Union. An enthusiastic open session was held this morning, the principal speech being delivered by Hon. J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of State, in place of Governor Kitchin, who was prevented from being present because of absence at the bedside of his sick mother in Scotland Neck. The union is holding a closed session this afternoon.

Taft Keeps Ear on Ohio.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Rockland, Me., July 26.—President Taft followed every movement of the political situation at Columbus today, keeping in close touch by wire with what was going on here. He is intensely interested in the situation in his home state. He left here at noon for a cruise on Casco bay, but has arranged to keep informed by the wireless telegraph.

Rioting in Indiana.

By Wire to The Reflector.

South Bend, July 26.—This city continues to be a hot bed of trouble. There was a great deal of rioting last night. Troops were held in readiness for action but were not ordered out, as quiet was restored without them.

Hard Luck Sure.

Train beaters, as well as wife beaters, get into trouble occasionally. Sometimes it's one kind of trouble and sometimes another, but the nicest and most appropriate thing that we have heard of in a long time took place in South Carolina a few nights ago. A couple of boys, runaways, from Spray, N. C., went to sleep in a car of brick and when they awoke the next morning found themselves in the penitentiary yard at Columbia where the brick had been carried for unloading. We don't know just how they felt, but we have very little sympathy for people who beat trains wives, time or anything else except mules, boys and drums, and that should be done with a great deal of thought and consideration.—Marshville Home.

Now in Greenville.

Mr. Albion Dunn, formerly of Scotland Neck, who it was recently announced would move to Greenville, is now here and is opening his law office in the new Shelburn building. Greenville extends him a cordial welcome, and is always glad to gain such citizens.

Mrs. W. O. Bodell and children, went to Rocky Mount this morning.

Mr. W. L. Jenkins, of Charlotte, who on Wednesday evening in St. Paul's Episcopal church will wed Miss Janie Brown, arrived this morning. He was accompanied by two brothers, Messrs. Lawrence and Edward Jenkins, and Dr. H. C. Henderson, all of Charlotte.

Mr. A. D. Johnston, of Kinston, is in the city.

Mr. R. J. Cobb went to Washington this morning.

A Farmer Who Knows How to Charge

One farmer, at least is playing with the automobilists along the national auto highway between Atlanta and New York as is shown by the experience of Mr. J. E. Kennerly, of Winston-Salem, who made a trip to Spencer last Sunday in a machine, says the Spencer correspondent to the Charlotte Chronicle. Approaching a swollen stream in Davidson county, near Spencer, he was told by a farmer standing near the stream that it was perfectly passable and all right to ford the waters with his auto. Reaching a point where the water over-run the bearings, the machine was put out of commission in deep water. The autoist was forced to employ the farmer to hitch a big pair of mules to the auto and pull it ashore, for which the farmer made a substantial charge. Before leaving the scene Mr. Kennerly learned that the same farmer is "good at such tricks," and that he makes it a practice to tell autoists that the stream is passable, doing so in order to get to pull them out of the creek. It is said that he ordinarily charges $10 for the job and that he makes it convenient to be near the place with a team so as to get the extra fee. Being located on the national highway along which numerous machines pass almost daily it is said that he makes a big profit of the new industry brought about by the prevalence of automobiles.

Tomorrow Will Decide.

The county Democratic executive committee will meet here tomorrow. After then you will know whether it is to be a voting primary or a delegated convention. We predict that it will be the former.

BRYAN READY FOR THE FRAY.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Grand Island, Neb., July 26.—William Jennings Bryan arrived at Grand Island today, ready for the fight of his life against the Allied Democratic leaders who are prepared to send him into oblivion at the Democratic State convention which meets here this afternoon. Mr. Bryan would not talk today, but his brother-in-law, T. S. Allen, said they did not concede defeat and are getting stronger every minute. He further says that they have won over many delegates and would accept no compromise but stand firm for county option. The anti Bryan forces, however, claim to be practically sure of winning out.

Saturday night on the crowded streets of Charlotte one colored woman cut another to death with a pocket knife. This will give a Mecklenburg jury another chance.

A South Carolinian has rigged up a saw on the rear of an old automobile and converted it into a wood sawing machine, utilizing the engine to drive the saw.

Wonder if we have ruffled the esteemed Greensboro Record. It has persistently refused to show up on our table for over a week or more. Come across, Uncle Recce, we want to see what you say.

Mrs. Hetty Green, the richest woman in the world, a few months ago had a physical break down that alarmed her relatives and a son was sent for to look after her business. Through this son the cause of her break down in health has leaked out, at least he says it was due to the death of a pet dog. Verily, the rich do have great troubles.

Public School Agriculture.
The South Carolina board of education has for the first time made agriculture a required subject at its examinations for teachers' certificates and as corollary to this step the subject will be taught very much more widely in the public schools of the State than it has been heretofore. "Agriculture as a science," is said to be the motto of the board of this matter, and every effort will be made to establish its course on a firm foundation.

The prescribed course, after dealing briefly with the history of agriculture for the purpose of calling the pupil's attention to the importance the occupation has possessed in all ages, proceeds to discuss in a simple fashion such subjects as the construction and possibilities of soils, the theory and practical application of fertilizers and the advantages to be derived from careful seed selection. Special care will be devoted to the elucidation of a few fundamental principles in connection with the proper handling of farm animals, the marketing of cotton and other cognate topics, while the economic phase of farming will by no means be neglected. The effects of the various systems of labor which have been tried in the South will be pointed out, not in technical language but in such a way as to make investigation of the matter attractive when the boy shall have reached maturity. Introduction of such a course in the public schools will beyond question result in much good in every way to the State. The South is enjoying a remarkable industrial revival just now, a phase which was due long ago had not extraneous circumstances such as slavery, war and reconstruction intervened to retard it. None the less, our agricultural development must go hand in hand with every progress we make, and this course of instruction makes very tangibly for the right kind of agricultural development. The lad from the farm who pursues it can hardly fail to find his work in the field and garden take on a new interest, and this in turn will result in his better equipment for the duties of life. Ever the pupils whose careers lead them away from the farm will be given an interest in agricultural affairs altogether wholesome. Scarcely any other branch of the public school curriculum offers so attractive or so wide a field of possibilities.—Charlotte Observer.

Influence of Roads on Land Values.

Prof. W. C. Latta of Perdue University, Indiana, has made a valuable contribution to good roads literature by his report on the investigation on the subject of increased money valuation of land where good roads are adopted. The data was collected from intelligent farmers scattered through several counties of Indiana, and the basis of increased valuation included such elements as the economy in time and force of transportation, the reduction of wear and tear, as well as the direct increase of the market value of real estate. From the figures collected Prof. Latta concluded that in the region where his investigations has been carried on poor roads represent an annual loss of $2,432 for every section of land—enough to construct at least two miles of good roads. The increase in the value of each section of land by construction and maintenance of good roads was from the same data, estimated at $5,760, or about $9 per acre.—Extract from "Good Roads," by Albert A. Pope, in State's Duty.

Iredell Turtles Eat Blackberries.

An Iredell county man who attended the State convention, went the tree-climbing, blackberry-eating fox one better. He declared that in Iredell county the turtles will come up out of the creek and eat blackberries from the lower limbs of the bushes that line the creek banks. This, he says happened on his farm and he can prove it. We suppose that just because this story did not originate in The Landmark, Judge Clark will say it's not so, even at the expense of discrediting the Iredell county turtle, but the man who tells it can make an affidavit as good as that of Dr. Mott or Esquire Barkley.—Charlotte Chronicle.

TO SAVE THE EDITOR.

Here is a minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention he offered the following toast: "To save an editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair send him items of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes, bury him. Dead people are the only ones who never make mistakes."

"The farmers want no protection for their own industry. They are willing to meet the requirements of a tariff framed to meet the public expenditures, but not a tariff which taxes them for the benefit of private interests." Thus spoke the spokesman of Manitoba's farmers to Canada's premier. They were many statements and at the same time those of men who knew their rights and were ready to maintain them. It was good democratic doctrine according to the pure democracy of this country—a tariff for revenue and not one for the benefit of a favored few. In the United States the fundamental principal of the tariff as it is understood by most people these days is to so frame the law that the burden of the tax, whether for revenue or protection, shall fall on the other side. When the people of this country show as much sense on this subject as do the Manitoba farmers there will be prospect of securing just and equitable tariff laws.—Charlotte News.

One thing was evident at the democratic convention—the day of long-winded nominating speeches is ended. Under no circumstances should these speeches exceed ten minutes, and seconding speeches five minutes. What is the use of them, anyway? The fitness of every candidate has been published in every paper in the State, long before the convention meets, and everybody who attends a convention is thoroughly acquainted with them. The nomination of candidates at any convention should be confined to a simple mention of their names.—Concord Tribune.

THE BLACK HAND.

Origin of the Name of This Group of Daring Criminals.

According to the United States secret service, the Black Hand is a title common to innumerable groups of criminals operating under the direction of some secret central government. These men are blackmailers, using murder, arson, kidnaping and bomb throwing as punishments for those who will not submit to their iniquitous demands. Black Hand is, in short, a handy name for a brand of crime peculiar to Italian criminals who are successful in it because of the temperament of the foreign immigrants and their inborn dread of the extortionist. Whether the central government which guides the Black Hand society is located in the United States or in Italy is something which neither the Italian nor American authorities can discover. United States officers say the name of the American Black Hand emanated from Chicago about ten years ago, when one of the first of many mysterious murders in the Italian quarter remained unsolved. The victim of the murder had received a warning that death would follow his failure to contribute a specified sum of money. The letter was embellished with a crude drawing representing a fist clutching a dagger. The fist and dagger gave the name Black Hand—later to become unpleasantly familiar to every citizen of the country—and the sinister sketch was soon a source of terror to all law abiding Italians.—Wide World Magazine.

A SAMOAN FISHING BEE.

Trapping the Game With a Leaf Chain Half a Mile Long.

A Samoan fishing bee is a unique sight to witness. Coconut leaves are gathered in abundance and secured, doubled and tripled, end to end, to form a long prickly chain, round in appearance and about three feet in diameter. These leaf chains are often woven to a length of half a mile. When the chain is complete all the men of that particular village turn out en masse with their "papaos," or Samoan canoes.

When the tide is high the chain is stretched across some convenient place, supported by natives in their papaos or simply wading where the shallowness will permit. The coconut seine is then submerged and slowly forced shoreward, the prickly points driving the fish before them. When the point is reached where the chain can rest upon the bottom and still protrude slightly from the water the natives after securing the ends to the beach retire and wait for the tide to recede, leaving the fish high and dry.

It is often found that large fish are driven and caught in this manner, but since they are capable of jumping the barrier they are dispatched with spears at once. The catches of fish thus made are sometimes enormous and often number thousands.—Los Angeles Times.

The Flag of Denmark.

In the year 1219 King Waldemar of Denmark, when leading his troops to battle against the Livonians, saw, or thought he saw, a bright light in the form of a cross in the sky. He held this appearance to be a promise of divine aid and pressed forward to victory. From this time he had the cross placed on the flag of his country and called it the Dannebrog—that is, the strength of Denmark. Aside from legend there is no doubt that this flag with the cross was adopted by Denmark in the thirteenth century and that at about the same date an order, known as the order of Dannebrog, was instituted, to which only soldiers and sailors who were distinguished for courage were allowed to belong. The flag of Denmark, a plain red banner bearing on it a white cross, is the oldest flag now in existence. For 300 years both Norway and Sweden were united with Denmark under this flag.—Housekeeper.

Handel as a Child.

George Frederick Handel, the son of a Saxon barber and valet, was only five years old when his "fingers wooed divine melodies" from the "spinet," which a good natured aunt had smuggled for him into an attic, so that no sound of it might reach the ears of his father. At eight his playing so astonished the elector of Saxony, that his father was compelled to withdraw his opposition and allow the genius of the boy to have fair play. And before he had reached his twelfth birthday young Handel was known throughout Germany as a brilliant composer and virtuoso at the court of the emperor.

A Pleasant Outlook.

"I wonder why the bride is crying," remarked one of the "guests" at the wedding. "Can it be because she is leaving home?"
"No, it ain't that," answered the bride's small brother. "She's in love with the fellow she married, and I think she's crying 'cause she feels sorry for him."

The Line.

"I have a long line of ancestors who were all of my trade," said the baker. "Oh, a sort of bread line," said the chump.—University of Minnesota.

A LAND OF LEISURE.

The People of Guatemala Like to Take Things Easy.

Just as Spain is the land of "mama," Guatemala has been called the land of "no hay." These words mean "there is none," and one hears them wherever one goes. "No hay," the people do not want to bother. "No hay," the people do not want to bother. "No hay," the people do not want to bother. "No hay," the people do not want to bother.

You might go up to a house where the yard was full of chickens, the woman engaged in making tortillas and fruit trees loaded with fruit in the yard and yet have a conversation about like the following:
"Have you any meat?"
"No hay" (pronounced eye).
"Have you any eggs?"
"No hay."
"Have you a house?"
"No hay."

In such a case the best way to do is to enter the house and hunt round for yourself and blindly order the woman to prepare whatever you chance to find. Then, if you leave a small sum of money with her on departing, she will not take any offense, but will politely thank you.

Time is the only thing with which they seem to be well supplied. It is equally hard to get anything done, for unless the party is willing to do the work requested he will find some plausible excuse. An American traveling across the country a few years ago found it necessary to have his horse shod at one of the small towns. There were three blacksmiths in the town. Of these one was sick, but had supplies, a second had no nails and the third no charcoal. As there was no lending among the craft the horse could not be shod.

A MEXICAN FIRE BRIGADE.

Leisurely Way They Fight the Flames at Matamoros.

It might be thought that such an exciting thing as a fire would startle the Mexicans out of their habitual indolence, but such is not the case.

The alarm of a fire at Matamoros, Coahuila, Mexico, was given by the discharge of numerous pistols and guns, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, and I hastened to the scene, thinking at first that a battle was raging.

After a long interval, during which the people watched the fire with interest, chattering among themselves meanwhile, there appeared placidly trundling along the road the Matamoros equivalent of a fire engine, a barrel rolling along the ground, drawn by a reluctant burro.

A swivel pin in each end of the keg permitted it to roll freely, and ropes attached it to the animal. Behind walked the fire brigade, a solitary peon, bearing a bucket. Arrived at the scene of the conflagration, the water in the barrel was poured into buckets and hauled to the roof of an adjacent house, whence it was fung on to the flames.

Everybody was greatly excited. The calmest thing of all was the fire, which burned steadily on till there was nothing left to consume. Then as the spectacle was over the people dispersed. Every one was satisfied except perhaps the unfortunate owner of the house that had been destroyed.

Insect Sits on Its Eggs.

Family matters in the case of insects usually mean only the depositing of eggs in suitable situations for the independent development of the offspring. The parent insects often dying before the young appear. The earwig, however, provides a remarkable exception to the general rule, for it sits upon its "fifty" or more eggs until they are hatched, just as a bird would do, and, moreover, if the eggs get scattered it carefully collects them together again. In the early months of the year, when digging the soil, female earwigs may frequently be found together with their batch of eggs. At the slightest sign of danger the young ones huddle close to their mother, hiding beneath her body so far as it will cover so large a family.—Strand Magazine.

Social Distinctions.

Are we born snobs, do we achieve snobbishness, or do we have snobbishness thrust upon us? If we achieve it we sometimes do it early. The other day I heard Beatrice, a little nine-year-old, expounding to a visitor of about her own age.
"No," said Beatrice impressively. "we don't play with Sarah any more. We found out that her father has only a first name job. Our papa, you know, holds a mister position."—Woman's Home Companion.

An Effective Threat.

A certain Missouri editor is ready to take a fier in high finance. He got his schooling by threatening to publish the name of the young man seen with his sweetheart's head on his shoulder if he didn't come across with a dollar on subscription. Fifty-seven young fellows slipped in and paid a dollar. The editor says he has letters from several others informing him they will hand him a dollar the next time they are in town.—Kansas City Star.

Losing Their Charm.

Vicar's Daughter—I suppose the rain kept you from the funeral last Tuesday, Mrs. Blogg? Mrs. Blogg—Well, partly, miss; but, to speak true, wot with the rheumatiz and dola' away with the 'am and the cake afterwards, funerals ain't the joints they used to be for me!—London Opinion.

The change of fashions is the tax that the industry of the poor levies on the vanity of the rich.—Chamfort.

HELPED BY HUMIDITY.

Many Materials and Products Which Require Moist Air.

There are many materials, operations and products which require special atmospheric conditions for advantageous or profitable maintenance. Principal among such operations is the manufacture of textiles, perhaps the largest single industry carried on in factories. In the favored climate of the Lancashire district of England the natural climate affords working conditions equaled in America only on occasional days in certain localities. Even in England, however, there are many days in which the atmosphere is too dry for the best work.

Since textile fibers are increased in strength and elasticity by high humidity and moderately high temperature, breakages are less frequent under proper conditions, and the output is increased. But even before the fiber reaches the manufacturing plant atmospheric humidity plays an important part. Cotton loses weight as it dries out, but, more than that, the fibers bristle and appear shorter and of lower grade than when slightly moistened. Leather, feathers and many other porous substances lose a considerable percentage of weight in drying out, so that the maintenance of average and uniform humidity in the storage rooms has a direct advantage to the owner in maintaining the value of his goods as they lie in the warehouse. Cigars and tobacco lose flavor in dry air and regain it to some extent, after loss, by storage in proper humidified rooms. Wooden furniture and musical instruments are sometimes cracked or the finish injured by the dry air of steam-heated rooms. All these and other similar goods are advantageously worked or stored in rooms in which the atmospheric humidity is artificially controlled and kept at the most desirable point.—Engineering.

A PIG'S SQUEAL.

It Played a Momentous Part in American History.

The war between this country and England in 1812 was caused by one war, and, stranger still, the small marine came from a pig getting its head stuck in a rail fence. It was a Rhode Island fence at that, but built much like a Virginia worm fence.

They were having an election of members of the legislature in Rhode Island. One Federalist put off going to the election and left himself just time enough to get there before the polls closed. Just as he got on his horse and started for town he heard a pig squeal. He looked around and saw that the pig had its head jammed into that old rail fence, and anybody who knows anything about hogs knows that the hogs would have eaten that pig up if it hadn't been rescued. The farmer stopped long enough to liberate the pig, and when he got to the polls they were closed. He was too late.

The result was that a Democratic member of the legislature was elected from that district by one vote, and he would not have been elected if that Federal had got there on time. In the legislature a Democratic United States senator was elected by one vote, and that Democratic legislator who had been elected by one vote voted for him.

In the United States senate they voted for the war of 1812 by one vote, and that Rhode Island Democratic senator who had been elected because that pig was caught in the fence voted for the war of 1812.—Popular Magazine.

Not a Waxwork.

The opening of the courts in an seaside town in England is always a great day for the residents. The procession to the church, where the judge says his prayers and listens to a homily, the march to the court, with the attendant javelin men and the braying of trumpets—the men in wigs and gowns—fill the rustic mind with the sense of awe and the majesty of justice. It is related in Mr. Thomas Edward Crispe's book, "Reminiscences of a K. C.," that a farmer once took his son into the crown court.

On the bench was the Baron Cleasby, gorgeous in scarlet and ermine, stately and motionless. The yokel gazed with open mouth at the resplendent figure on the raised dais. Suddenly the baron moved his hand from right to left and left to right.

"Why, feyther," said the boy, "it's alive!"

Fred—I am helping you, old chap. I argued with her for two hours yesterday trying to convince her that you weren't as big a fool as you look.—Chicago News.

Laughter.

Without laughter the human race would have wept itself to death or exterminated itself long ago. Pathos is beautiful; tragedy is absorbing. But both pathos and tragedy are instantly routed by the laugh.

A Memorable Date.

"What member of the class can mention one memorable date in Roman history?" the teacher asked.
"Antony's with Cleopatra," ventured one of the boys.—Everybody's.

What is civilization? I answer, the power of good women.—Emerson.

A Knock That Wrecked a Door and Raised a Rumpus.

Some of the inns of modern China are badly built. The correspondent of the London Times in traveling across the country recently had this experience: "At only one village had I any difficulty. We were marching late in the dark, and I had sent my groom on ahead to find me an inn, as he had often done before. He entered the village, and finding the large inn door closed, he called out to the people to open it. But his Peking speech is not easily understood in Kansu, and no one answered him. Then he knocked, and to his dismay the crazy door fell down. Immediately there was a row. The innkeeper and his vociferous spouse shouted out their wrongs.

"Every one came into the street to hear; the whole village was roused. When I arrived it seemed like a demonstration in my honor. As is the custom, a dozen people together told me what had happened. I soon satisfied every one by first examining the damage and then paying compensation in full. I paid 100 cash rather more than twice, and my generosity was approved.

"The structure thus damaged reminded me of the jerry built houses familiar to students in Edinburgh, where it is on record that a lodger once complained to his landlord that the ceiling in his room had fallen down. 'But how do you account for that?' asked the landlord. 'Somebody in the next flat sneezed,' replied the lodger."

A RECORD IN HITTING.

Delehanty's Four Homers and a Single in Five Times at Bat.

The baseball expert Hugh S. Fullerton, in an article on "Batting" in the American Magazine, describes as follows the greatest hitting feat recorded, executed by Ed Delehanty, and which it was his good fortune to witness:

"Adonis Terry was pitching a great pitcher with a wonderfully fast curve ball—and three of the home runs were made off the curve. The first time at bat Delehanty hit the ball high over the right field fence, perhaps seventy feet from the foul line, which would be 245 feet from the plate, and the fence was thirty-five feet high. The second time he hit over the same fence, but farther toward center field. The third time he drove a single over short stop, a line hit and perhaps the hardest hit of all. Dahlien, leaping, touched the ball with both hands. They were torn apart and the ball caromed almost to the left fielders before it struck the ground. The next home run was straight to the center field between the clubhouses, nearly 400 feet away. The last time he came to the bat the crowd was cheering him on. Lange retired between the clubhouses, which were set at angles. Delehanty hit a curve ball. It alighted on the roof of one clubhouse, bounded to the roof of the other and rolled halfway back to the second baseman. And yet Chicago won the game—8 to 6.

Doubling Her Capacity.

"I want a nurse girl who is capable of taking care of twins," said a woman to the manager of an employment agency.

A dozen maids ranged against the wall were questioned as to their familiarity with twins. Finally one girl produced documentary evidence that for the last five years most of her waking moments had been spent in the company of twins. She got the job. When she reported for work in the afternoon she was introduced to but one infant.

"Where is the other one?" she asked.
"Oh, there are no twins about this house," said her mistress. "I just said twins so I would be sure to get a competent nurse. Any girl who is capable of handling two children can give extra good care to one. That is a little ruse I always employ when I hire a nurse."—New York Times.

The Wolves and the Meat.

"I had thought that it was peculiar to human nature to regard that which one has as of less value than that which one has not, but I had reason to change my opinion the other day," said a visitor to the zoo.

"A keeper tossed four pieces of meat into the den of two gray wolves. One piece landed on the roof of the shelter house, and a wolf with a lame fore leg passed over the pieces on the ground, and, standing on his hind legs, tried and tried to get that on the roof, which was just out of reach. The other hungry wolf gave his attention to the pieces on the ground and disposed of all three. Going over to the house, he sniffed for a moment and then sprang upon the roof, ate the fourth piece and stretched out for repose."—New York Sun.

Fought Catarrh For 20 Years.

Here is a letter that we sincerely ask every reader of The Reflector to read. If you suffer from catarrh or any nose, throat or lung ailment, read it over twice, and then consider if you can afford to ignore a prescription with the healing virtue of Hyomei (pronounce it High-o-me). Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Gentlemen—"I suffered terribly with catarrh in the head for twenty years, and I tried many prescriptions, but never found relief. I have used Hyomei for two weeks and find it the best preparation I have ever used for catarrh. Every cold I would catch seemed to go to my throat, and I had to use gargles for days at a time. Now when I catch cold in the throat I use Hyomei inhaler and this soreness disappears over night. Hyomei has put me on the good road to getting rid of my catarrh, and if you want to use this letter to publish in your advertising, do so. Perhaps it will help some other suffer."—W. K. Photographing a Panther.

A panther is not easily killed and will often revive with very unpleasant results, as on a certain occasion in the Deccan. He appeared to be quite dead, and one of the spectators rushed up with a camera on a stand to obtain a picture of the supreme moment. He got his photograph, and, strange to say, it survived what followed, but no sooner had he taken it than the panther revived, tore himself loose and went for the photographer. Somehow the man escaped, but the camera was sent flying and, disconcerted by his encounter with it, the panther turned and made for the nearest tree, up which he went as quickly as a monkey. Now, the tree was crowded with interested spectators, and for three or four strenuous seconds (until the panther was shot) we enjoyed a spectacle of natives dropping to earth with loud thuds like ripe plums from a jungle plum tree as the panther approached them.—Wide World Magazine.

Bismarck and His Dog.

Sultan, Prince Bismarck's favorite boarhound, attacked a passing railroad train and was cut to pieces. Bismarck's grief over the dog's agonies was such that his son Herbert tried to lead him away, but the prince would not go. "No, I cannot leave him like this." Then, when the dog's sufferings were over, Bismarck wiped his eyes and murmured: "Our Teuton forefathers showed benevolence in their religion. They believed they would find in the hunting grounds of their paradise all the dogs that had been their faithful comrades here below. I wish I could believe that."

WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD

Lady Learned About Cardui, The Woman's Tonic and is Now Enthusiastic in its Praise.

Mount Pleasant, Tenn.—"Cardui is all you claim for it, and more," writes Mrs. M. E. Rail, of this place.

"I was a great sufferer for 2 years and was very weak, but I learned about Cardui, and decided to try it. Now I am in perfect health.

"My daughter, when changing into womanhood, got in very bad health. I gave her Cardui and now she enjoys good health.

"Cardui is worth its weight in gold. I recommend it for young and old."

Being composed exclusively of harmless vegetable ingredients, with a mild and gentle medicinal action, Cardui is the best medicine for weak, sick girls and women.

It has no harsh, powerful, near-poisonous action, like some of the strong minerals and drugs, but helps nature to perform a cure in a natural easy way.

Try Cardui.

BLINDING A SHARK.

A Pearl Diver's Ruse by Which He Made Good His Escape.

A successful diver must possess great courage and nerves of steel. Such a man connected with a large wrecking company was visiting some years ago the pearl fisheries in the Gulf of California, where sharks abounded. On one of his trips in quest of the pearl oyster he had a narrow escape from a fearful death.

He had been instructed never to stir from the bottom until he had looked up and around. Fortunately he heeded the advice. Having filled his bag, he glanced quickly about and caught sight of a huge shovel nosed shark watching him.

In an emergency men think fast. Near the diver was a large rock. He moved quickly to the other side of it, hoping to dodge the ferocious monster, but the maneuver did not work. The shark watched every movement, changing his position by a slight motion of his powerful tail.

Time was precious, and the diver conceived the idea of blinding the shark by stirring up the mud. Under cover of that he might escape. He worked for dear life and had the water thick with mud in less than half a minute.

Slipping around the rock again, he rose to the surface, having barely strength enough to reach the side of the boat, and was hauled on board just as the voracious man eater made a rush for him.

SOWING HIS WILD OATS.

Nights of Wasteful Debauchery That Wore Him Out.

"Yes, I'm dissipating too much," said the red faced rustic as he rubbed his head despondently.

"Dissipating?" gasped his friend. "That's the word I used. You've heard that expression about 'burning life's candle at both ends?' Well, that's my case exactly. To tell the truth, I have been having too gay a time. Last night I went down to the Blue Moon and drank a soda. Then some traveling man offered me a cigar. Of course I had to take it."

"You don't mean it?" "I mean just what I say. Then I bought a ham sandwich. I ate it and actually forgot myself and took another. On my way home I dropped into the church social for a few minutes. Some of the young ladies made me try the 'penny dip,' and I drew a blank."

"Such extravagance!" "That's exactly it. Extravagance and dissipation will kill me. It was 9 o'clock before I reached home."

"Nine o'clock?" "Yes, I must be sowing my wild oats. Well, I've finished now. Night before last I called on my girl. She wouldn't let me leave until I had taken her out and bought chocolate creams. Talk about pleasure hunting! I'm simply worn out after these nights of wasteful debauchery."—Pearson's Weekly.

Romeo Not Taken Seriously.

Juliet was only fifteen years old, but she thought she was quite grown up. One evening, says Mrs. R. A. Pryor in "My Day," she was receiving on the moonlit veranda a young man caller. He, too, it seemed, considered himself grown up. The anxious youth was moved to seize the propitious hour and declare himself. Juliet wished to answer correctly and dismiss him without wounding him.

She assured him mamma would never consent.

A voice from within—they were sitting beneath her mother's window—settled the matter:

"Accept the young man, Juliet, if you want to. I've not the least objection. And let him run along home now. Be sure to bolt the door when you come in."

Evidently the mother had small respect for boy lovers and wished to go to sleep.

A Prince Edward Island Legend.

There is a delightful legend among the people of Point Prim to the effect that when the English attacked the French fort at that place a chain ball from one of the attacking vessels cut the steeple from the old church located on the very point. In falling it toppled over the promontory and carried the bell which it contained into the sea. Dwellers along the point affirm that from time to time the sound of that bell comes over the waters at eventide and that its phantom tone is ever a warning of a fierce storm or some imminent danger to those who make their living by the spoils of the ocean.

An Office Engagement.

One of Washington's gilded young men came rapidly down the steps of his house half an hour after noon the other day.

"What's the rush?" asked a friend. "Oh, I've got to hurry down to the office or I won't get there in time to go out for lunch."—Saturday Evening Post.
