WEST VIRGINIA MOB.

Trying to Lynch Two Colored Prisoners

By Wire to The Reflector.
Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 30.—Martial law was declared here today and three companies of troops were ordered out to protect Thomas Waynard and Charles Clayburn, colored from a mob determined to lynch them. The prisoners are accused of murdering a white woman and fatally injuring her husband. In a clash between troops and a mob of 4,000 persons a score were injured, some seriously, and fifty arrests were made. Militiamen charged into the heart of the crowd which fought back with clubs and misles. Before the troops arrived the mob made an attack on the jail and when the sheriff tried to speak to them he was captured and carried off. Crowds still hang about and more troops may be asked for.

PORTUGAL RELIGIOUS TROUBLES.

Edict of Premier Disorder—Troops Placed on Duty.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Lisbon, Aug. 30.—The long continued tension between Portugal and the Vatican came to a climax today when Premier Sausa, following the plan adopted by Corialeges in Spain, ordered a vigorous inquiry into religious orders. Particular attention is to be given to orders of foreign priests which are not established according to the laws of the country. Their members are to be expelled. The Premier took this move after a long conference with King Manuel and the leaders. The edict was not expected and much disorder is resulting. Troops were detailed to police duty.

DR. CRIPPEN ILL.

Suffers Nervous Collapse—Taken to Hospital Ward.

By Cable to The Reflector.
London, Aug. 30.—Dr. Crippen today suffered a nervous collapse and was taken to the hospital of the jail. He paced his cell throughout the night and this morning was found in a semi-conscious condition.

No Harmony in Sight.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Aug. 30.—Reports received here today from LaCrosse, Wis., have convinced Republican leaders that they have failed in their efforts to harmonize the party and bridge the chasm between the regulars and the insurgents. This belief is based on a speech of Senator Cummings, who in opening Senator Lafayette's campaign continued to breathe defiance to the regulars.

Train Knocks Down Scaffold.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Aug. 30.—Fourteen men were injured, seven severely, when a train backing into the new Pennsylvania terminal here today knocked down a big scaffold, upon which a number of painters were at work. Some of the painters were hurled to the tops of the cars and some of them to the concrete platform. Five of the men were unconscious and two will probably die.

Cyclone in North Dakota.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 30.—Three persons were killed and several injured last night when a cyclone demolished the town of Heaton. Every building in the town was damaged and many of them demolished. Relief trains were sent in from the neighboring towns.

Met in Raleigh Today.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Raleigh, Aug. 30.—The Farmers' State Convention met here today, with a large number of farmers from all over the state in attendance. The address of welcome was made by Secretary of Agriculture Graham.

Will be Recognized.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Washington, Aug. 30.—An unofficial announcement was made at the State Department today to the effect that the Estrada Government of Nicaragua will be recognized for diplomatic relations, pending an election.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

An Asheville negro who committed murder three years ago and managed to disappear absolutely from the ken of the officers of the law, wandered into the sheriff's office at Walhalla, S. C., the other day and made unsolicited confession of his crime. He declared that the ghost of his victim had haunted him continually and that he preferred to pay the penalty rather than retain his freedom under the vengeful eye of the departed. No ghost evoked by the societies for psychic research ever had so real an existence as did the persistent conscience of this remorse-stricken man.—Charlotte Observer.

In the Reedy Fork wreck on the Southern railway, near Greensboro December 15, 1909, in which a number of persons were killed, Mr. W. T. Carroll, at that time in the employ of the Southern at Norfolk, but now of Winston-Salem, lost a bunch of keys when he went over into the creek with the train. Just eight months after the wreck, says the Winston Journal, the keys were found by boys seining in the creek the keys coming up in the seine. Mr. Carroll's name and address were on the plate attached to the keys and by this means they were returned to him.

During the picnic at the State Farm Tuesday some boys looking about the barn found seven young pigs in the barn loft. They told Supt. Mecham of the find, the sow was watched and presently she climbed a step-ladder to the loft and went to the pigs. An unusual place to find pigs.

Raleigh, Aug. 29.—Out at Mt. Pisgah church Saturday afternoon there was the funeral of S. O. Yates, who died Friday morning at Rex Hospital from typhoid fever, death coming to him on the very day that he was to have been united in marriage to Miss Pauline Olive, of Apex. Mr. Yates was 35 years old, a son of J. D. Yates, of Morrisville. He had been for some time a pharmacist in the Main Street Pharmacy, Durham, and about three months ago accepted a position with the Hicks' up-town drug store here.

Shelby, August 29.—Rev Charles F. Sherrill, pastor of Central Methodist church, has resigned the pastorate of the church here to become effective the middle of September, at which time he will move to Charlotte, where he goes to accept the position of district manager for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, with headquarters in the city of Charlotte. Mr. Sherrill leaves the ministry at this time on account of his throat affection, which has been growing worse for several months, and his physicians advise this course.

Bailey, August 29.—Ed. Smith, colored, was shot here early Sunday morning by William Winstead, his 10-year-old brother-in-law. It seems that Smith made an attempt to whip the boy when the latter grabbed up a shot-gun, firing the whole load in Smith's throat, killing him almost instantly. The boy tried to escape, but Mr. C. F. Bissett was the best runner and so the boy was locked up.

Governor Kitchin yesterday issued a requisition on Governor Hughes, of New York, for the return to North Carolina of Lloyd Giles, wanted in Martin county for burglary in the second degree. Giles is now under arrest at Saratoga. J. C. Crawford, sheriff of Martin county has been deputized to go after Giles.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Wadesboro, August 29.—The first bale of new crop cotton was marketed today at Morven, in this county. The bale weighed 517 pounds and was sold by Press E. Ratcliff, to T. V. Hardison at 16 cents. Mr. Ratcliff has brought the first bale to market for several years. Last year he had the first bale on the market, August 17th, and in 1908 the first bale was marketed August 12th.

Maxton, August 29.—Col. E. F. McRae, one of Robeson's most successful farmers, brought the first bale of new cotton to this market today, which this correspondent believes is the first bale for the state. Mr. J. W. Carter was the purchaser at 16 1/2 cents.

Christian Church Members.

There will be a business meeting Wednesday night after the regular prayer meeting in the Christian church. It is earnestly desired that every member be present. Each one should feel interest in this matter.

WAS HE FROM GREENSBORO?

If So, Was He a Banker, or a Prohibitionist.

The following communication signed "Southerner," to the New York Herald has been the subject of much comment in Greensboro, the presumption being that the subscriber thereto is a gentleman of this place.

"I have been coming to New York every summer for twenty-eight years and for twenty-eight years the town has been growing steadily worse. In the days of the old Fifth Avenue Hotel a cocktail was a cocktail. They were good at the old Everett, too. Go into a Broadway bar now, order a cocktail and by watching the barman make one learn something new about speed in drink fashioning. The barman's celerity must be admired, but the concoction which he believes to be a cocktail is a very messy article. Perhaps some reader of The Herald who enjoys a really good cocktail before dinner will tell an old foxy whether there is any place on this island where a cocktail is made leisurely and completely."

Just why it should be credited to a Greensboro man is not clear. Of course it goes without saying that we have men in this town who are judges of all kinds of drinks—cocktails especially. It has been intimated that he is well known; some say that he is a banker; others that he is a big prohibitionist; still others that he is just a plain man with a tooth for good drinks. But why people around these parts should discuss drinks is queer, seeing as how any kind of a drink composed of the ardent is not to be had in public places.—Greensboro Record.

Black Jack Items.

Black Jack Aug. 30 1910. We are having lots of rain through this section now. Farmers are through pulling fodder now and they have a rest spell on it.

Mr. Henry Mills and son, Tucker, have gone to South Carolina. Miss Dollie Dixon spent Saturday night and Sunday with Misses Stella and Bertha Gaskins.

Mr. J. H. Clark, who has been to Asheville for his health, returned home last week. We are glad to see him back.

We are glad to see so many of the sick folks better. Mr. W. V. Clark left Tuesday morning for Whitsett Institute, where he will attend school the coming year.

Mr. Charlie Harper left for Buies creek where he will attend school.

We are sorry to see so many of our friends leave home this week.

This rain is ruining cotton through this section.

We will all be invited to a wedding soon. Guess you all know who it is.

The Farmers' Unions are growing very fast.

The Good Newspaper

A good newspaper is the grandest temporal blessing that God has given the people of this country. In the first place all the people read the newspapers and the newspapers furnish the greatest proportion of the reading to the people. They don't read books. The old people look for health, the young look for marriages, the business men read the business and financial columns and those who are unemployed read the want advertisements. Great libraries make a few intelligent men and women, but newspapers lift the nation into the sunlight.—Gaffney Ledger.

The legless man is not always two feet nearer the grave than the other fellow.

Tread not in crooked paths, unless you are a landscape gardener.

READY TO FIGHT HOOK WORMS.

Dr. Ferrell Says it is Found in Most All Counties of the State.

Raleigh, Aug. 29.—Some very definite data showing the extent of the hookworm infection in North Carolina has been assembled by Dr. Jno. A. Ferrell, in charge of the Rockefeller commission work in this State, through the invaluable co-operation of physicians, military officers and others in every section of the State. He has just completed maps that show by admirable degrees of shading the infections found through the examinations of various people of organizations and other groups, these maps and explanatory notes to be presented to the members of the hookworm commission and the State authorities, legislators and others with a view to getting the work of eradication on the best possible basis. There are four counties, Alloghany, Jackson Madison and Gates in which the hookworms have not been actually located, but this is due solely to the fact that there has not yet been opportunity to look for cases in these counties. For this reason the positive claim is made that the infection is State-wide. Dr. Ferrell now has three assistants in the field in addition to the chemists doing laboratory work and this status of the campaign will cost the Rockefeller commission upwards of $10,000 a year—all that the commission can allot to North Carolina. This will mean very slow work toward the ultimate eradication. He estimates that to put five men in the field and maintain the additional laboratory work will cost about $28,000 and that to inaugurate a really adequate campaign for prompt eradication such as the State would really have at least for the next year or two would cost $86,000. Those promoting the work in this State have come to the conclusion that the Legislature must of necessity, make some additional appropriation to supplement the Rockefeller fund allotted to this State in order to give that relief from the heavy drain of the hookworm eradication that is now generally recognized to be inflicted by its ravages.

The most recent results of investigation are the diagnosis of the men of the North Carolina National Guard and of the children of the Odd Fellows Orphanage. The latter showed 54 per cent. of ninety-six children infected, these being from 21 counties of the State. The examination of the guardsmen shows the infection of the First Regiment to be 36 per cent; second regiment 58 per cent; third regiment 32 per cent and coast artillery 29 per cent.

Don't Appreciate What They Have.

The farmer who owns a farm is the particular person who is fixed. Banks may fail and factories close, workmen strike and mines suspend, merchants fail and towns burn, times may be panicky; even crops may be short but the farmer who owns his acres will get along. He will live in comfort and quiet, with plenty to eat, drink and wear. He is the most independent man on earth. Yet there are lots of them who do not appreciate their situation.

High Dive in Amuzu Theatre.

On Thursday night the patrons of the Amuzu Theatre will have the pleasure of seeing Mr. J. Milton Johnston's bull terrier—"Turk"—make his high dive and do other tricks during the intermission of the regular show. It is worth the price of admission to see this intelligent little dog do his tricks. He is a wonderful brute. Be sure you go to the Amuzu Thursday night.

Carolina Club Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Carolina Club will be held Thursday night, September 1st, at 8.30 in the club rooms. At this meeting will be the election of officers for the ensuing year. Every member should attend. DR. D. L. JAMES, Pres. W. S. ATKINS, Sec. 91

PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The People Who Come and go on Our Trains.

Misses Susie Perry and Hazel Mitchell, of Kinston, who have been visiting Misses Hennie Whichard and Lillian Burch, returned home Tuesday. Lillian Burch, returned home today.

Miss Josephine Harris, of Wilmington, who has been visiting Miss Hennie Whichard and Mrs. J. A. Ricks, returned home today.

Mrs. J. A. Ricks and children left this morning to visit relatives in Wilmington.

Prof. C. W. Wilson left this morning for Chapel Hill to spend a few days with his parents.

Mr. James Evans went to Kinston today.

Mr. E. H. Thomas went to Tarboro this morning.

Mr. S. I. Dudley went to Bath today.

Misses Louise and Ruth Rountree have returned from a visit to Conetoe.

Lieut. D. S. Wilson went to Kinston today.

Miss Ruth Cashwell came up from Ayden this morning to visit Miss Edith Lee.

GREENVILLE BOYS MAKE GOOD.

They are The Kind That Count in the World.

Mr. H. M. Jones, of Tampa, Fla., who has been visiting relatives here and left Monday to return to the far South, is an other Greenville boy who is making good. He is a pharmacist by profession, and while he has all along held a good position in Tampa upon his return there he gets a decided promotion by becoming the manager of one of the largest drug stores in the city.

When The Daily Reflector started in December, 1884, Harvey was the first carrier boy to go out with a bunch of them to deliver, and having been one of "our boys" we have watched his rise in the world with interest, and feel much pleasure in the success he is making.

SOME HIGH COTTON.

Three Bales That Sold for 61 Cents a Pound.

Seeing in the market telegrams in Monday's Reflector about the price of August cotton reaching 20 cents on the New York exchange, which was stated to be the highest level reached since the civil war, Mr. D. E. House dropped in to tell us of an instance in which this price was a little more than trebled. It was in the year just after the close of the war that his father, the late Elder David House, had a lot of twenty odd bales at a gin. The cotton was set on fire by Yankees, but friends saved three bales and hid them. Elder House was told where the three bales were hid, and he sold them for 61 cents a pound.

TWO SPECIAL OCCASIONS.

Norfolk Southern Tickets at Reduced Rates.

On account of the reunion of North Carolina Confederate veterans in Norfolk, September 4th to 6th, the Norfolk Southern railroad will sell tickets at reduced rates for the round trip, with final limit to return September 14th.

Reduced rates will also be given to the Farmers' State Convention in Raleigh, August 30th to September 1st. Complete information can be had from ticket agents.

Rain Doing Damage.

This section is in the midst of a rainy spell. It has been raining off and on for several days, and crops are suffering much in consequence. The farmers lost a great deal of fodder and cotton has been damaged considerably.

Water Rising.

Observer R. M. Hearne tells us that the rainfall here from 3 o'clock Monday afternoon to 8 o'clock this morning was 1.37 inches. The water in the river has reached the 8-foot stage and continues rising.

Greater happiness comes from giving than from keeping.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

(From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 6:32, rises 5:22; moon rises 1:29 a. m.; 6 p. m., planet Mercury at greatest elongation east of the sun, 27 degrees 14 minutes, affording an unusual opportunity to see the planet for a week; 6 p. m., planet Neptune and the moon in conjunction; 8 p. m., eastern time, all Jupiter's visible satellites on east of the planet. Sun's declination, 9 degrees north of celestial equator.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

Odd Fellows meet tonight.

One more day of August left.

The rain is hatching mosquitoes by the thousands—and they will be a great nuisance for a while.

The farmers cannot get much tobacco to market in this rainy weather.

The Greenville Chapter No. 60, Royal Arch Masons will meet Wednesday evening at 8.30 o'clock.

J. E. Winslow, Sec.

That little ugly poodle dog must be weather bound, or scented danger. At any rate he failed to show up.

To go out of doors today means to get wet.

The weather is certainly "mixing" the sand-clay work on Fifth street.

The sidewalks are the only ones that afford good walking now.

This spell of weather will put folks to talking good roads again. They are bad enough now.

Working Overtime.

"I see you claim one hour's overtime, Bill," said the master of the mill. "I thought no one worked overtime last week."

Bill passed a horny hand across his mouth.

"Quite right, guv'nor," he replied. "One hour's me due."

The master regarded his suspiciously.

"Come, when was it?" he inquired.

"Last Thursday," responded Bill. "I was sent up to your own 'ouse to 'elp shake the carpets."

"Yes; I remember that distinctly," cut in the "boss." "But you got off at 6 sharp."

"Ah, tha's true, guv'nor, as far as it goes," assented the man. "But your missus give me 'alf a meat pie to take 'ome, an' that there hour is for bringin' the dish back!"—Answers.

The Other Side.

The Providence (R. I.) Journal sees something more than a big population for cities to aspire to. It says:

"The thoughtful observer must feel, as he goes about the State, that the great problem is now one of numbers. It is gratifying to know that one's home-town is increasing rather than decreasing, but the larger question has to do with its improvement or the reverse. Is life more comfortable within its limits for the mass of the people? Do esthetic considerations receive full weight? What shall it profit Rhode Island if it expands its industries until its inhabitants number a million and meanwhile neglects to beautify its growing towns and to make them sanitary and wholesome?"

TUESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1910.

It will be a lively fall, and somebody will fall hard in November.—Greensboro News

That's right, prepare your side for what is coming to them.

Editor Cowan, of the Wilmington Dispatch, is inclined to resent the Charlotte Observer's imputation that he is red headed. Humph! He don't know when he is placed in good company.

Commissioner Young, who is chairman of the committee to arrange for the sixth district primary, will kindly, as an expert, inform us whether to take out fire or accident insurance?—Wilmington Dispatch.

Possibly the tornado kind is what you want.

Another thing that might be mentioned that adds to the prospects of early improvement in business conditions, is that the schools are soon to open. The Training school will have a large number of pupils, and the graded and other schools will also help to put money in circulation. There is no use of any one continuing to talk hard times, but look on the bright side of things, and all work to help make times better.

Before the sixth district convention that got in such a muddle at Wrightsville, there were several candidates for congress, two of them claiming to be nominated. Since the special committee to whom the trouble was referred decided that no nomination had been legally made, and the matter referred back to a voting primary of the district, it seems to have narrowed down to the two who were claiming the nomination by the convention—Clark and Godwin. The contest between them in the primary will likely be a warm one.

It is the way of the world, that those for whom you do most are the soonest to forget it; and those from whom you might have reason to expect most are the first to give disappointment. Don't try to live on the deeds of the past unless you want to encounter failure. If you reap anything today, it is because your efforts today have merited it. The world forgets what you did for it yesterday. It has been asleep since then, and today in remunerating deeds done it can see no further than the scope of present vision. What you get these days, you must come right up against the cold world and grapple for. Don't stop to wonder at the absence of gratitude—that is a virtue so rare as to hardly be an acquaintance of the present day. If you stop to complain at what you ought to have but did not get, you are simply losing that much foothold in the struggle.

The many friends of Miss Ria Graham are delighted to have her in Wayreton after an absence of several months as one of the Faculty of the Teachers' Training School, of Greenville.—Warrenton Record.

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. They break up colds, cure feverishness, constipation, teething disorders, headache and stomach troubles. These powders never fail. Sold by all drug stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package free to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Shelters.

Very few farmers have enough shelter room. They buy buggies, carriages, mowers, rakes, binders and many other such things without having any suitable place to keep them. Much of the money spent for those things are badly needed by farmers is wasted because of rust to the metal parts and rot to the wood parts. All this loss is caused by not having house room enough. Barns and shelters should be so built as to furnish protection to whatever the farmers may want to protect. The northern and western states farmers are far ahead of us in this matter. Frequently their outhouses are more costly than their dwellings. They are well built and kept painted all the time. They realize that it pays them to protect everything they have from their live stock, to the smallest tool on the farm. Expensive implements should be kept in houses while wagons, carts and many other implements can be well kept under shelters. They need not be a great deal of expense in building shelters. They can usually be erected by barns which brace them and serve as part of the walling. A forty or fifty dollar shelter will protect five hundred dollars worth of implements and make them last several times as long as they would otherwise. Unless farmers are going to build houses and shelters for their implements they might as well quit buying them. It is a poor policy to put money in expensive machinery to stand out in the weather to rot and rust. In many cases farmers do not realize what the losses are until it is too late. The binder or some other implement fails to work because the weather has mastered it. Too late to do anything when rust and rot have ruined it.—Smithfield Herald

Near Beer.

The most troublesome thorn in the side of the prohibitionists of North Carolina is the hole in the fence through which the near-beer dealers have entered. Near-beer in itself is a harmless drink, but the trouble is, that it does not come under police regulations. Anybody can set up a near-beer joint in the country districts and where this is done the near-beer dispensary is a center of demoralization. The near-beer saloon in city or town where it is under the restrictions of police regulations, is as harmless to a community as a lemonade shack and not so much of an evil as some of the dope joints. But the near-beer dispensaries outside of towns are a menace to society. It is from the peration of these country places that much of the well-founded prejudice against the sale of near-beer springs. The Chronicle would prefer to see the sale of this substitute article confined, where it is permitted at all, to municipalities which would throw the restrictions of the law around it. In Charlotte, the sale of near-beer is so well regulated and the spirit of the law so thoroughly observed that a good many of the people have forgotten that such institutions exist here.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Larger Crops Possible.

How long will the farmers of the great corn belt go along satisfied to raise 20 to 35 bushels of oats per acre? If they will take pains to find out what it costs they will learn that they cannot earn 5 per cent on land that is worth $100 per acre—and nearly land is now worth that and more. It costs about 16 cents per bushel to raise oats, according to very careful tests by the Illinois station. Now, there is no money in oats at the average price when it costs so much money to raise the crops and we must make the land produce more. Our corn belt farms are capable of producing 75 bushels per acre, and such a yield is nearly as paying a crop as corn; it cuts down the cost of production one-third. The Illinois experiment farm has produced 97 1-2 bushels per acre. We must economically give our seed bed a much better preparation. We can never raise oats profitably until we set a high mark and plan our rotations and systems of farming eventually to reach it. A permanent system of agriculture means sensible rotations, and the application of plant food in as large or larger amounts than leave the farm, year after year, and generation after generation. Any other plan is hardly worth thinking out.

When this is done the production of 100 bushels of oats or 100 bushels of corn per acre will not be the exception, but the rule.

Prices in the bright tobacco belt, embracing the lower portion of North Carolina and the upper portion of South Carolina, have been increased from three to five cents per pound for leaf tobacco at the warehouses. Naturally, this greatly encourages the tobacco growers who were recently so discouraged over low prices that they were contemplating abandoning the cultivation of tobacco. That, of course, would have been a great blow to a big industry, but the Star is gratified that now the prices are more encouraging. The tobacco growers do the Star credit by saying that its presentation of their cause and its effort to save the industry, had a great deal to do with boosting the price.—Wilmington Star.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

IV.—The Modern Farm Home.

By C. V. GREGORY.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

ONE of the chief reasons why the girls and women of the farm have occasionally longed in the past for the city is because of the more convenient homes that were found there. Many a farm woman has had her life shortened by carrying water from the well or the spring, bending for hours at a time over steaming wash-tubs and doing other hard labor from which the women in town long ago were emancipated. Today the modern farm home is fully as well supplied with conveniences as the house in the city, and

CONVENIENCE IN THE FARM HOME—A WASH ROOM IN THE CELLAR.

It is done at less cost. The reason that more homes are not provided with such conveniences is that the farmers have grown used to doing without them. They look forward to retiring and moving to town, where they can have all the modern conveniences. When they get there they will pay dearly for them in the form of house rent. To have them in the country means a direct cash outlay, and too often the farmer pleads that he cannot afford it. A little figuring would convince him that he need not do without a few of these conveniences that make life so much more pleasant for the whole family.

The first consideration in most parts of the country is the heating system. Farmers are getting out of the habit of using stoves, as they are finding that the added convenience of a furnace or hot water heater, together with the saving of coal or wood, will pay for the installation. With a heating system of this kind all the coal and dust incident to building and keeping up the fire are in the cellar. The whole house can be heated for about what it costs to heat two or three rooms with stoves. There is no need of crawling out of bed into a cold room in the morning. A pull on the chain will open the draft, and in half an hour or so the house is warm. The kitchen also can be heated from the cellar, and an oil stove can be used for cooking. An oil stove takes up less room, saves fuel and is much more comfortable to work over in the summer time.

A furnace has the advantage of cheapness. It also furnishes fresh air to the rooms, if properly put in. For an eight room house a furnace can be put in for about $150. A hot water system for the same house would cost a trifle more than twice as much. The hot water system has the advantages of being cleaner and keeping a more uniform heat. Cheap coal will work well in the boiler, thus considerably reducing the expense for fuel.

The next consideration is the water system. A good water supply under pressure is not only a convenience, but also a form of insurance, since each farm must furnish its own fire protection. Some farm buildings are built now of concrete and hollow tile, but even then there is always some danger of fire. An elevated tank is one of the best means of supplying pressure. Some of the modern types of silos are being built with a tank on top. A method that is as convenient, though a little more expensive, is a pneumatic tank in the cellar. The water is pumped into this and the air inside compressed. The air pressure will lift the water to all parts of the house.

For power to pump the water a windmill may be used, or a hydraulic ram if running water is obtainable. The most reliable power is a gasoline engine. Nearly every really up to date modern farm has its gasoline engine, which can easily be made to combine pumping with its other duties. With a little added expense the water system can be made double, so that both hard and soft water can be obtained. For the bathroom and the kitchen sink hot water is needed also, which can be provided by a heater in the range or by a separate oil heater.

With a good water system installed the work of the housewife is reduced

50 per cent. Cold and hot water, either hard or soft, is always at hand for use in the kitchen. The dishes can be piled into the sink and washed in almost half the time it took previously. A wash room with permanent tubs can be provided in the cellar. The washing machine can be run with the gasoline engine or with a water motor. While a room of this kind may not make washing exactly a pleasure, it will reduce the labor more than half. With a little planning a small tank can be arranged in the kitchen, so that all the water that is pumped for the stock will pass through it. This is almost as good as an icebox.

A good bath and toilet room is a great convenience to all the family. A shower bath in one corner of the barn will be greatly appreciated by the boys at the close of a hot day's work. The wastes from the kitchen sink and from the wash room can be run into a tile and taken away. For the wastes from the toilet room a sewage disposal plant will have to be provided. The most convenient method is the septic tank. This is an underground cement lined brick tank divided into two compartments. As one compartment fills it overflows into the next. Nearly all the solid substance will be destroyed by bacteria, and the water that flows out at the lower end can be disposed of through a tile drain. The entire cost of a water system such as the one described, with the compressed air tank, together with the sewage disposal plant, need not be much more than $250.

The cheapest method of lighting the farmhouse is by acetylene gas. This gas is generated by a machine in the cellar and can be piped to all the rooms and to the barn. If desired it can be used also for cooking. The average cost of installing an acetylene plant is about $200. This includes lights in the barn and in the yard. It costs little to run an acetylene plant after it is once in. The average cost is about a cent for a sixteen candle power light for four hours. Acetylene is the nearest like daylight of any kind of artificial light and is incomparably better than the old fashioned oil lamp. The newer types of acetylene lamp are provided with a battery, so that they can be lighted by merely turning a button.

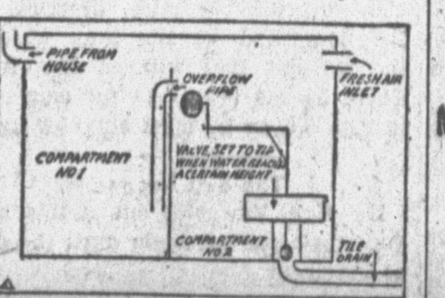

By going to a little more expense electric light can be had on the farm. If a gasoline engine is already at hand the total cost of installing an electric plant, with lights in house and barn, need not be more than $375.

A few electric fans will make the house comfortable in hot weather. One convenience of the city, ice, is still lacking. The way the ice problem is most satisfactorily handled in the country is for half a dozen neighbors to build a co-operative icehouse. The men club together and fill it in the winter, and a plentiful supply of ice is at hand all through the summer. With a small additional expense a cold storage room can be built in connection with the icehouse for keeping meat, poultry, eggs and fruit. In a number of communities co-operative fresh meat societies are successfully run. The members take turns killing a beef or a hog, and fresh meat is supplied all through the year at much less cost than it could be obtained in the city.

The cost of a heating system, a wash room, a vacuum cleaner, a hot water attachment and other devices of that sort is the same in the country as in the city. The cost of the water and sewage system in the country is about $250. The cost of operating a water system in the country is much less than the cost of city water.

An electric lighting system for the farm will cost from $375 up. The life of such a system can be figured safely at twenty years. The storage batteries will not last so long, but the rest of the apparatus will last longer. This would mean an annual depreciation of $18.75. Interest at 6 per cent would amount to $22.50. The cost of operating the plant will depend, of course, on the amount of electricity used. The cost for lighting the average farmhouse and barn for a year and furnishing electricity for sundry other purposes will not average more than $10 for gasoline. This makes the total cost for electricity $41.25 a year. In the city the average cost for electricity for an eight room house is about $50 a year.

The cost of an icehouse and of putting up ice varies so much with conditions that it is hard to give any general figures. These can easily be obtained for any particular locality, however. It is seldom that ice put up in this manner costs as much in the country as in town.

The farm home can be fitted with hot water heat, hot and cold water, bath and toilet room, electric lights, wash room in the cellar, etc., for $1,000. The interest on $1,000 is $60 a year. Ten per cent for depreciation and repairs is $100 a year. The saving in coal will pay for the cost of running the lighting and water systems. For $160 a year the farm home can be provided with every modern convenience that the city home possesses.

By using a furnace and an acetylene system the annual cost can be lowered to about $85. The city man pays that extra $7 to $14 a month and more in increased rent and thinks nothing of it. The farmer is beginning to realize that it is possible for him to live better, and he is rapidly taking advantage of the opportunity.

Birth of Modern Science.
Modern science may be said to have its source in the famous museum of Alexandria. Students went there by thousands to follow mathematics, chemistry, anatomy, botany and zoology. After the long interregnum of the scholastic period Lord Bacon took up the thread that had been dropped by the Alexandrians and in his "Novum Organum" laid the foundation of the inductive method, out of which most of our modern scientific discoveries have come. Bacon was not himself a practical scientist, but he furnished the instrument with which others were to work for the conquest of nature and her subjugation to man.—New York American.

Slavery in England.
Slavery existed in England without any mitigating features worth speaking of until the time of the wars of the roses. Bracton, the famous lawyer of the time of Henry III., informs us that the condition of slaves was fearful. It was indeed slavery, pure and simple. All the goods a slave acquired belonged to his master, who could take them from him whenever he pleased, the slave having no redress at law; hence the impossibility of a man's purchasing his own freedom. The only hope for the slave was to try to get into one of the walled towns when he became free, the towns-men granting him liberty on the condition of his helping them fight the nobles.—New York American.

Life of Air Leaks Away.
Air seems to spoil easily. Air traveling through shafts and special air chambers—in fact, air going through anything that cuts it off from the ocean of atmosphere—loses some of its indescribable vitalizing qualities and is liable to cause weariness and a feeling of depression to those who habitually breathe in artificially ventilated houses. Scientific examination may show such air absolutely pure, but all the same it is poor stuff to take into the lungs. This also explains the real rock bottom difference between town and country air. Highly artificial food and highly artificial air, no matter how good they seem, are not the real stuffs themselves.—New York Press.

Conscience Money.
"Conscience money" in Great Britain now amounts to thousands of pounds annually. The first sum noticed was on March 30, 1789, when £300 was carried to the public account in consequence of a note received by the chancellor. The writer with troubled soul implored him, "as an honest man, to consider the money the property of the nation and to be so just as to apply it to the use of the state in such a manner that the nation may not suffer by its having been detained and thus to ease the conscience of an honest man."

The Astonishing Part.
Lord Townshend at the battle of Dettingen was standing quite near a drummer boy whose brains were dashed out by a cannon ball. His lordship gazed on the horrible spectacle for some moments in silence:
At last an old officer spoke up and said: "Why is your lordship surprised? Such things must happen in war."
"I know it," was the reply, "but what astonishes me is that a boy with so much brains should be here at all."

A Bright Outlook.
"Do you—do you think, Miss Dobleigh, that you will be—er—engaged next Thursday evening?" asked Tompy very bashfully.
"Well, really, Mr. Tompy," replied Ethel, "I don't know, but if you can get up spunk enough between now and then to do your share I think there's a fair prospect that I shall be."
And Tompy did.—Harper's Weekly.

Where It Hurts.
"Say, I have an awful pain. I wonder if it is appendicitis? Can you tell me on what side one gets it?"
"Why, on the inside, of course."—Columbia Jester.

Bad Selection.
"Goodness me, but that woman's makeup is loud."
"It is that. She should have used noiseless powder."—Baltimore Amer.

Curious Baths in Penang.

One of the many things that strike the tourist as curious at Penang is the type of baths with which the hotels are provided. Penang is in the Straits Settlements, a British crown colony in the Malay peninsula, deriving its name from the straits of Malacca, which form the great trade route between India and China. From each of the first class rooms opens a dark, cement paved, damp smelling little room which serves as the bath. In it is an immense jar of porous brown earthenware about five feet high, nearly three feet in diameter in the middle and but one and a half feet in diameter at the top. It stands huge and graceful of outline, but dark and uninviting, and is full to the brim with water, not, however, to get into. Near it are a supply of soft soap and a long handled quart dipper. The proper procedure is to soap the body well, then throw several dippers of water over it, repeating the process until satisfied. There is water enough to keep it up for an hour or so, and there is a huge crash towel as large as a sheet to wrap up in when the bath is over.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Gamecocks in Panama.

The color line is not very distinctly drawn in the Latin republics. The San Blas Indians are found in and around Panama. Like the Seminoles of Florida, they never were conquered. A curious feature of native life in Panama is the cockfighting, which, like baseball in the United States, is more attractive to the public than any other form of recreation. Even the workmen on the streets have favorite birds tethered near by and seize every opportunity to test their prowess. The click-click of steel spurs as the birds strike each other, the spurting of blood and the clamor of men indulging in small wagers seem to supply the mental excitement that Spaniards find in bullfights and that English speaking races derive from less brutal contests. The backer of each gamecock stands behind it, and if his bird shows signs of exhaustion he takes it up and puts its bill into his mouth while he inflates its exhausted lungs. One gamecock in a fight witnessed by the writer, appearing almost dead, was thus revived, went back into the pit and finally killed its opponent.—National Magazine.

What is an Element?

In his little book called "The Elements" Sir William A. Tilden defines an element as "a substance from which by the operation of ordinary chemical processes only one kind of matter can be obtained." This is something quite different from the four elements of Aristotle—fire, water, earth and air—the salt, sulphur and mercury of the alchemists. Even in modern times the conception of what an element really is has changed somewhat. Sir William adds: "Until quite recently the elements of the inorganic world were supposed to be fixed, immutable with the lapse of ages or under the mighty forces concerned in the making of worlds. But within a few years we have learned that the atoms at least are continually crumbling away. It is impossible to say whether all may not be suffering a slow waste which in the long run may lead back to the primal chaos."

When the Plague Raged.

Sir Walter Besant in one of his books says of the author of "Robinson Crusoe" and "Journal of the Plague": "De Foe was born in the year 1661. His father lived in Cripplegate, where, as we know, he had a shop. The child, therefore, was four years of age in the plague year. A child of four observes a great deal and may remember a great deal. De Foe says: 'When any one bought a joint of meat he would not take it out of the butcher's hand, but took it off the hooks himself. On the other hand, the butcher would not touch the money, but put it into a pot full of vinegar which he kept for the purpose.' This must surely have been seen by the child and remembered. It happened in his father's shop before his eyes."

A German Legend.

The Germans have a legend of Frederick Barbarossa that he is not dead, but in an enchanted sleep, sitting with his knights at a marble table in the cavern of Kyffhausen, in the Harz mountains. His long red beard has grown during this long enchantment and, covering the table, descends to the floor, and he sits thus waiting the moment that will set him free. There he has been kept for long centuries. There he must stay for ages.

The Soft Answer.

He—Ugh, I'm going out of this, and you won't see me again until the day of judgment.

She (sweetly, getting the last word, as usual)—All right, dear, and if you aren't feeling in a better temper please let it be well on in the afternoon.—London Saturday Review.

Sympathetic Admiration.

Dinks—So you enjoyed the circus? Winks—Yes; I was particularly interested in the juggler. I'll bet that man could get any number of bundles from a street car to the train without dropping one of them.—St. Louis Times.

His Objection.

Scottish Bachelor—Will ye hae some tea? Visitor—Oh, please don't trouble! Bachelor—It's no the trouble; it's just the expense.—Punch.

It Would.

Ella—They say sugar alone will sustain life for some time. Stella—Life would be sweet, wouldn't it?—Exchange.

Accident Without Injury.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Siler City Grit, has been the medium for announcing to the world some very miraculous happenings recently in that section. Its latest chronicle of an almost unbelievable occurrence was that of a colored well digger falling to the bottom of a 40-foot well without injury save the dislocation of a toe, caused it was stated by a rather tight brogan being worn on that foot.

Without attempting to vie with The Grit in its weekly chronicle of monstrosities and almost unheard-of events, an accident which happened to a colored boy named Sam Burnett here last Monday is worthy of more than passing notice. This boy was hauling brick from the depot here when in crossing the railroad track he lost his balance and fell off the wagon. The wheels of the wagon (loaded with brick) passed over the negro's head, and several persons who witnessed the accident were sure that he was seriously injured. But not so, the boy got up, without assistance, and taking his place on the wagon drove on without any apparent discomfort and none the worse for the wheels having run over his head.—Pittsboro Record.

The Little Word "Yes."

"Yes" is a simple word spelled with three letters.

It has caused more happiness and more unhappiness than any other word in the language.

It has lost more money for easy lenders than all the holes in all the pockets of the world.

It has started more dipsomaniacs on their careers than all the strong liquor on earth.

It has caused more fights than all the "you're liars" that ever were spoken.

It has procured kisses and provoked blows.

It has elected candidates and elected scoundrels.

It has been used in more lies than any other expression.

It is not meant half the time it is said.

Will it continue to make such a record?

Yes.—Life.

A woman measures what she says by the gill and what her neighbor says by the gallon.
