MORE HIGH PRICED COTTON.

High Price Was Offered But It Sold Low.

Snow Hill, N. C., Sept. 2, 1910.
Editor Reflector:

I saw in your paper, a few days ago something about high priced cotton. I have a cotton story to tell, and your statement brought it to my mind.

A man had a bale of cotton and he asked a broker to go out and sell it for him. The broker was offered $1.95 per pound for it. He acquainted the owner of this offer, when the latter said "No, I will not take it, but will take $2 a pound." He could not get the price he wanted and held the cotton for 25 years, the same broker then selling it for him at 8 cents per pound.

By working the interest on the money at compound interest, the owner lost $2,500 on the bale of cotton. This is a fact beyond doubt. The person who told me was as reliable man as lived in his day. He is dead now, and I have no doubt you know him. It was Mr. Jos. P. Elliott, raised in Perquimans county and died in Baltimore.

Mr. Elliott had the figures on a paper and showed them to me. Now let some one else come forward and tell a cotton story.

W. H. DAIL, SR.

[Surely we knew Mr. Elliott, as did many people in Pitt county, and we do not believe any man's veracity stood above his.—Ed.]

ZEPPELIN MAKES A RECORD.

He Flies at a Speed of 49 Miles per Hour.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Berlin, Sept. 3.—Count Zeppelin today vindicated the worth of his type of dirigible, when in his Zeppelin No. 14, he flew from Baden to Heidelberg, 53 miles, in 65 minutes, carrying a crew of seven and twelve passengers. The average speed of the balloon was 49 miles per hour, which is believed to establish a record for dirigibles. The flight was watched with interest by the entire nation from the Kaiser down. In view of the loss of faith in this type of airship that resulted from the many accidents to Zeppelin in the last few months, the aged inventor was highly pleased with the result of this flight, as were the thousands who saw it.

TRYING TO ROB TRAIN.

Bandits Stop Engine and are Driven off by the Crew.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 3.—Five masked robbers early today, thinking they were holding up a New York fast mail, stopped a light engine on the Lawrenville and Nashville road at Bayou Sara, 14 miles from here. The robbers were driven off in a pistol battle with the crew, and escaped in a gasoline launch. The engineer saw the obstruction on the track, and as he slowed up the bandits climbed on the engine. The crew opened fire on them and the bandits had to retreat, perhaps realizing also that it was not a mail train they had stopped.

Second Collapse of Walls.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Sept. 3.—For the second time within two months, the walls of the big excavation for the municipal sky scraper on Park Row collapsed early today. Pillars supporting Third avenue elevated road sank an inch and the tracks of the surface cars sank a foot and a half. All traffic is suspended. Throughout the morning surface tracks continued to sink.

Insurgent Chief Captured.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Manila, Sept. 3.—Simeon Mandook, insurgent chief and deposed governor of Ilocos Norte, was captured by the constabulary today. He had first been seized by people of the province where he had tried to incite to an uprising. A number of his lieutenants were also captured and his band depressed. His following had dwindled from 500 to less than 200.

BEAUTIFUL YOSEMITE VALLEY.

Young Pitt Countian Visits It and Describes Its Grandeur.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26, 1910
Editor Reflector:

Having just returned from my mid-summer vacation, which I spent in the Yosemite valley, and being so impressed with its wondrous natural scenery, I will write and give your readers, many of them whom I have the honor of claiming as friends, a slight description of the valley.

The valley is situated in the heart of the Sierra Nevadas, almost in the middle of the State of California, and between the eastern and western foothills of the mountains. Formerly the valley was inaccessible for almost half the year because the snows in that region fell with so much abundance that they completely obstructed passage over the highways. But at present a railway line goes to El Portal, which is distant only some few miles from the valley, this distance being covered by stage coach over a magnificent highway constructed by the Federal government, under whose control is the valley, thus eliminating the obstacles which formerly made the trip so disagreeable. Now the valley can be visited at any period of the year.

The railroad goes from Merced to El Portal. It traverses the picturesque valley of the Merced river and crosses it at various points. On reaching the foothills of the mountains, the railway follows the course of the river, which at times is at a very great depth below the road, and at others almost on a level with it. The line from El Portal to the Yosemite is traveled, as has already been said, by means of a stage coach, and is very comfortable as well as picturesque.

On the way to the valley, still at some distance, there is presented to the eye of the visitor huge rocks and mountains of the most capricious forms; one is like an elephant; farther on another has the aspect of a camel; still another has the form of a castle; and from all these stand out sharply those called "El Captain," "The Sentinel," "The Cathedral," and "The Three Brothers."

As the road ascends the grandeur and beauty of the landscape are enhanced; look whatever way one will, he sees foaming rivulets falling from high rocks; old and mysterious pines sigh to the measures of the music of the waters; here and there are seen mountains, gigantic rocks and precipices, the contemplation of which inspires admiration mingled with awe.

While the mountains constitute the element of grandeur in the landscape, the streams of waters give the touch of beauty; nothing more picturesque can be conceived than the torrent, the pools, the falls of the Merced. In some places it flows below leafy trees, in others it rests in placid pools, that it may precipitate itself afterward with vertiginous rapidity in cascades like mantels of foam and drift of diamonds. At many points enormous rocks obstruct the course of the river, fragments of the tall rocks that lie on either side of it; surrounding them or leaping over them, the water follows its indefatigable way.

There are no two sights alike; and the journey is for the eyes of the traveler a succession of delight after delight, such is the variety of the landscape. "The Sentinel" is perhaps the greatest and most picturesque rock of the valley. At its left are the falls of the same name, which are active only during the summer, feeding from the melting snows, and such is the strength and volume of the water rushing down at the foot of the rock has been hollowed out in a deep ravine. Then, there are the "Fall of Illionette," the Nevada Falls, the "Vernal Falls," and many other magnificent rocks.

It is difficult to say which is the best period of the year to see the valley, since in each season it possesses its own peculiar attractions. In summer, naturally, the vegetation is in all its vigor, the cataracts are more imposing and the flowers are innumerable, therefore I rather believe one can more thoroughly appreciate the valley during summer.

EDMONDSON-CRAWFORD.

Runaway Marriage at Hotel Taylor This Morning.

This morning in the parlor of Hotel Taylor, on Dickinson avenue, Mr. F. A. Edmondson and Miss Venie Crawford were married by Rev. J. H. Shore, the couple leaving immediately after the ceremony for a trip to Washington City.

There was somewhat a romance about this marriage. Mr. Edmondson who was formerly connected with the Bank of Winterville, but recently took a position in a new bank at Stantonsburg, went to Winterville a few days ago, stole his bride-to-be, and the two came to Greenville Thursday evening. The young lady was left at the hotel and Mr. Edmondson went on to Wayne county to advise his father of the approaching marriage, intending to return in time for the ceremony to take place Friday. He missed a train on his return, and did not get here until Friday night, and the marriage was this morning as above stated.

INVITATION TO FRIENDS.

Whichard Brothers Co. Invite You to Make Their Store Headquarters.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 2, 1910

Dear Friends:

Norfolk will be turned over to the North Carolina Confederate Veterans, their families and friends from everywhere next week.

General Julian S. Carr has chartered a train for their benefit at his own expense and says they are going to bring them all "and then some," and Norfolk's citizens are preparing to give them the best time they ever had at a re-union. The re-union will take place on September the 6th, and 7th, but tickets at one cent a mile will be on sale September the 4th, 5th, and 6th, good until the 14th.

This is the prettiest season of the year at the seashore. Surf bathing and fishing were never better than now and whether you have had a vacation or not, you can not miss this opportunity.

Our store will be "North Carolina Headquarters," where our Virginia friends may meet their "Tar Heel" friends and relatives and make themselves at home. Have your telegrams and mail sent in our care, let your friends meet you here, and use us in any way you can whether you are buying anything or not, but don't forget that we are also headquarters for everything in our line.

Yours very truly,
WHICHARD BROS. CO., Inc.

DEMAND FROM DR. FOUNTAIN.

That He be Given a Trial in Regard to Recommendation by Grand Jury.

Greenville, N. C., Sept. 2, 1910.
Mr. J. P. Quinnerly, Chairman,
Board of County Commissioners,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir:

My attention has been called to a report made by the grand jury of Pitt county, at its recent session. I quote from this report:

"That we visited the home of the aged and infirm, and found everything clean and apparently in good order.

We further find that the superintendent of the county home and the superintendent of health are at enmity towards each other; and that the superintendent of the home and some of the inmates are also "at outs." That the superintendent of the home has failed to visit the Campbells for at least a month.

We recommend that the superintendent of the home raise a sufficient amount of vegetables to feed his family and patients.

We further recommend most emphatically that the superintendent of health be removed at once. This seems to us the most advisable way of settling this dispute or difficulty and we recommend that the county commissioners attend to this matter at once."

I am addressing you, for the reason that I know of no other person that I can address a letter on this subject in order to present my view of these conditions to the public, and I will furnish the Greenville Reflector a copy of this letter for publication perhaps before you have even seen the same.

I understand that the superintendent of health is elected conjointly by the action of the county commissioners and a physician appointed by the chairman of the county board of commissioners, and the mayor of the county town, and this board constituted by a physician appointed by the mayor of the county town and a physician appointed by the board of commissioners, together with the county commissioners, constitute the board of election for a superintendent of health.

I was elected to the position of superintendent of health of Pitt county on the first Monday in May, 1909. The board electing me consisted of, under the regulations recited, Dr. W. W. Dawson, of Grifton, Dr. J. E. Nobles, of Greenville, and the board of county commissioners then comprising of J. P. Quinnerly, N. T. Cox, Dempsey Holland, B. M. Lewis and J. J. May. At the election, I received the votes of Commissioners Lewis, May, Holland and Cox, and was declared elected.

I have been advertant to the fact that my administration of the office has not given satisfaction to my enemies and no one regrets this more than myself. Being a humble practitioner and having been honored by this position, I regret that my election should have incited so much enmity, and occasioned so many uncalculated attacks.

I have honestly endeavored to discharge the duties of the office and have assiduously attended to my practice, which has steadily increased, and I hope this has not incited any jealousy from any source. I certainly would do no one any harm and I am sorry to believe that some enemies of mine have instigated this. I won't say investigation, because it ought to be termed an attack upon me.

I have examined the statutes governing my rights in the premises and I find that the only authority that the county commissioners have in the premises is to fix my compensation. This you have done from time to time. While, at times, not entirely satisfactory to me, yet, being appointed to an office, I was compelled to regard you as auditors of my account, but I distinctly deny that you have any authority to follow the advice of the grand jury to discharge me. Before you attempt to take any such unwarranted action, I petition you to give me a fair trial before the board that elected me, naming time and place, when and where I will have the opportunity to be represented by counsel and witnesses to show that I have faithfully discharged the duties imposed by the statutes upon me, and I now and here enter a protest against any summary action on your part that shall attempt to displace and discharge me, under the recommendation of the grand jury, or anybody else, unless I have a trial, as I now pray. On the trial, that I request, I will be able to show that I have strictly conformed to the statutes regulating my duties. I will further show all the trouble at the county home arose out of a willful neglect of duty on the part of the superintendent of the county home.

When it becomes necessary for me to file a bill of particulars, I will cite instances and furnish testimony to prove that the result of the confusion and of any disarrangement at the county home is chargeable at the doors of A. L. Tucker, superintendent of the home.

It is not my desire to make any direct charges against the superintendent of the home, but I am prepared to do so. I would perhaps be justified in doing so now, for the reason that I believe that he and his friends have influenced the grand jury to make the report referred to in the beginning of this letter and all other reports of the grand jury respecting the same.

I am a law abiding citizen, a practicing physician, I trust, of good standing. At least, my profession is of such moment to me and my family that I don't propose to have it broken down in this community by an ex-parte report of the grand jury or the action of the commissioners without the opportunity of a fair and impartial investigation, in which forum I can be represented by counsel and witnesses. I do not fear such investigation. Under the circumstances, I pray for it. In fact, I demand it, and unless it is granted me, I shall demand compensation in another forum from all parties that, in such a manner attempt to assail me.

Yours truly,
WM. FOUNTAIN, Supt. of Health.

GREENVILLE THE BSET MARKET.

We hear nothing but expressions of satisfaction from the many farmers who had tobacco on the large break in Greenville Friday. Prices on all grades run considerably higher than they were last season and it puts the farmers in better spirits. At no time in its history has the Greenville market been in a better position to buy tobacco than now. There is a large force of buyers here, and the market has steam plant facilities for handling half a million pounds daily. Having such facilities for taking care of tobacco gives the Greenville market the advantage of smaller and less equipped markets. Buyers here feel more certain of not losing any of their purchases because of weather, or other conditions, hence can afford to pay the very best prices and run no risks. Yet with all the advantages Greenville has—and it is the best market in Eastern Carolina—we again advise the farmers to be cautious in selling. Do not crowd the market and do not glut the sales. The crop this year is short and it ought to bring a good price any time. Grade your tobacco properly, give it careful attention in the pack house, watch the market and sell leisurely. Above all, sell in Greenville when you get ready to sell for here is where you will get the best prices.

The Louisburg Times wants to know how can the Republicans afford not to re-nominate President Taft. That all depends upon Mr. Roosevelt. Whether they can or not, they will afford to do whatever he says about it.

The Stanley Enterprise calls attention to the fact that it is not the cradle born Republicans who get the pie, but that class have to stand off and look at the converts from other parties take the places at the counter.

Fifty years after the war, the people of Kansas have become so interested in John Brown that they are talking about erecting a monument to him.

Georgia Democrats are so elated over the choice of Hoke Smith as the next governor, that they have endorsed him for the presidency.

A Charlotte man disturbed a spooning couple at Atlantic City, and a police judge fined him $7.50 for meddling in such a scene.

Just think of it! There is Greenville dirt that is worth more than a hundred dollars a foot, yet a big pile of it can be had for the hauling.

If the next legislature does not knock out the near beer business, it will fail to do its duty.

Greater New York has nearly five millions people. That's going some.

It is a wonder that Mr. Roosevelt did not try to catch a jack rabbit in Kansas.

Says the Greenville Reflector: "Editor Cowan, of the Wilmington Dispatch, is inclined to resent the Charlotte Observer's imputation that he is red headed. Humph! He don't know when he is placed in good company." However, as it was the Charlotte News and not the Charlotte Observer that showed a tendency to slander us, the brother doesn't know what he is talking about anyhow. So we pass it by.—Wilmington Dispatch.

None so blind as he who don't want to see. It was the red headed company we had in mind, you chump.

A doctor says "the human race will never be saved until kissing is abolished." Too bad, of course. But we shall never be saved if that doctor is correct. The price he prescribes is too high.—Salisbury Post.

Mr. P. C. Thomas, an aged Republican politician of Davidson county, figures it out in the columns of Sunday's Charlotte Observer that a million dollars goes out of the State annually for whiskey as a result of State prohibition law. He asks the question how many miles of good roads would this build if kept at home. Perhaps Mr. Thomas will inform the readers of the Observer next Sunday how many miles of good roads the license system built in his county and the other counties of the State during all the years that distilleries and bar-rooms held full sway.—Reidsville Weekly.

Estimates of cotton values for the three States of North Carolina and South Carolina and Georgia of $235,000,000 based upon a price of 13 cents and reports of the crop conditions in the states named indicate but a fraction of the new capital which their years' agricultural results will create for the South. We have not at hand any estimate of the value of the cotton that will be raised in the larger producing states, Mississippi, Texas, Alabama, Louisiana, but the total should far more than double that of the three States named. "King Cotton" should this season turn into the coffers of the South more than a billion dollars for the sale of the raw staple alone. When it is recalled that the bi-products of the cottonfield, in meal and oil, will add other hundreds of millions to the total; when it is realized that the return of the raw product will be doubled and trebled in the hundreds of factories which now dot the South; when it is remembered that these figures are for but the one crop out of the many which the South is profitably engaged in creating, it will be seen to what proportions the wealth of this section is growing. A striking example of Southern confidence is shown in the optimism prompting the building of new cotton mills, in the face of a condition of the market in which many mills are shut down, and in which practically all of them are being operated at a loss. In stead of indicating a want of economic wisdom, this policy is one that seems to us to be in line with the better faith in the South and its future. Precisely because the market for manufactured cotton goods has been stagnant it becomes the more logical to look hopefully at the situation. Demand for a necessity cannot in the nature of things remain stagnant. With the high price of raw cotton, established as a certainty, the demand for the manufactured product will take heart. The mills that have weathered the storm will again become prosperous. Those that are building will catch that prosperity on the wave. Out of a refusal to see the disaster in a temporary check to a great industry will have been taken another long step toward the manufacturing destiny of the South, the time when it will not only itself consume but import the staple for its manufactories, when to manufacture cotton with success it will be necessary for the mills to come to the fields.—Richmond Virginian.

His Opinion.

The Dear Girl—I am really astonished to hear you advance the proposition that a child should not be corrected in the presence of strangers.

The Savage Bachelor—He should not be because he should never be in the presence of strangers; that's why.

Different From a Mountain.

A certain Philadelphia who is at once a minister of the gospel and a registered physician had an amusing experience in his attempt to corner a Christian Scientist. Every time they met this Scientist took occasion to scoff at medical science and to dwell upon the wonders that could be performed through faith.

"You are convinced that through faith you can do anything," said the medical man one day.

"Yes," he replied; "faith will move mountains."

A week later he was in the doctor's office with a swollen jaw, due to tooth-ache.

"What, you here?" the doctor exclaimed, with feigned astonishment.

"Oh, doctor," he said, "I have suffered agony all through the night. I simply can't stand this pain any longer."

"Have you tried faith?" the physician asked him. "You know you told me faith could move mountains."

"But this is a cavity, doctor."

Pleasing the Sultan.

Kaid Belton told the following story, which illustrates exactly the attitude of the sultan of Morocco toward the French:

One day the sultan asked a lady, the wife of his dentist, to play one of the pianos that were in the room of the palace. She played several pieces, one of them at length catching the sultan's fancy, whereupon the following little dialogue took place:

Sultan—That piece is very nice. What is it called?

Dentist—It is the "March on Cadiz." It was written to commemorate the Spaniards driving the French out of Spain.

Sultan—What! Were the French in Spain?

Dentist—Yes.

Sultan—How many of them?

Dentist—About 200,000.

Sultan (in a surprised tone)—And the Spaniards drove them out?

Dentist—Yes, every one of them.

There was a slight pause while the sultan was thinking hard, and then:

Sultan (quietly)—Play it again.

His Interference.

The twists and turns taken by faking horse dealers to get out of their bad bargains are proverbial. A little incident illustrative of the tribe took place recently at a stable on North Broad street, where an irresponsible settler had succeeded in palming off a defective horse on a too easy buyer.

The new owner turned up with the horse a few days after the purchase and angrily exclaimed, "Didn't you say this horse was perfectly safe and wouldn't trouble anybody?"

The dealer coolly asked, "What's the matter with the horse?" The dupe replied: "You know well enough. He interferes badly." With a curt "Well, he doesn't interfere with anybody but himself, does he?" the fake dealer brushed the matter aside, and the purchaser found himself without a remedy.—Philadelphia Record.

A Great Military Feat.

Nonza, in Corsica, is very proud of the story of a great military feat performed there long ago. It is told in "Romantic Corsica," by George Renwick.

The French in 1708 had subjugated all the northern cape with the exception of the tower of Nonza, which for a considerable time sustained a close siege. Attacking parties were driven back by a fierce fire, but at last the garrison agreed to surrender if allowed to march out with all the honors of war. This was conceded, and old Captain Cascella appeared, staggering under a load of muskets and pistols.

"Why is the garrison so long in coming out?" asked the French commander.

"It is here, sir," replied Cascella. "I am the garrison."

Glass Solvent.

Hydrofluoric acid is an acid compound of hydrogen and fluorine. It may be prepared by the action of sulphuric acid upon cryolite in an appropriate apparatus made of lead or platinum. It may thus be readily obtained in a liquid form and is colorless. Its vapors are exceedingly poisonous, and the liquid itself, even when mixed with more or less water, causes severe swellings on the skin. Great care must therefore be taken in working with this acid. Hydrofluoric acid dissolves glass, forming hydrofluosilicic acid with its silica; hence its use for making etchings on glass.—Exchange.

They Come Later.

The Young Wife (showing her furniture)—Here's the rocking chair for the parlor. Isn't it just lovely? Mrs. Oldley (rather critically)—But I don't see any rockers, dear. The Young Wife—Oh, they'll be here next month. You see, we are buying the chair on the installment plan, and we have paid for the rockers yet.—Chicago News.

Well Settled.

Riggs—Did your wife's father settle anything on you when you married his daughter? Briggs—You bet he did. He settled himself on us, and we can't get rid of him.—Boston Transcript.

Fashion's Whirl.

"How long do we stay at Jupiter Junction, John?" "Twenty minutes, my dear. You won't need over two gowns."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is no beautifier of complexion or form or behavior like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around you.

The Tempter Won.

When the late Baron Nordenskjold was at Ceylon on the way home from his journey along the northern coast of Siberia he received a telegram from the Russian government asking him whether he would accept from the czar a certain decoration as an appreciation of his services to Russia. For many days the famous explorer wavered, as he was a member of Bjornstjerne Bjornson's Anti-decoration club, whose members were solemnly pledged never to accept any decoration from anybody. Nordenskjold, however, could not resist the temptation, so he replied to the telegram in the affirmative. It is not hard to imagine his disappointment when, upon reaching home, a friend of his, a high official, told him the following: "The Russian government was well aware of your antagonistic views in regard to decorations and had, therefore, placed in readiness 300,000 rubles to be paid you in the event of your refusing to accept the insignia, but before paying that sum they wanted to try your faith. Russia is certainly grateful to you for your failure to live up to your pledge."

Death Was a Live One.

While on the way to the race track in New Orleans one day several winters ago an undertaker named Mr. Dooley passed a funeral procession on its way to the cemetery. Dooley had a friend with him, another Irishman, who exclaimed, "Sure, death always wins." There happened to be a horse entered that day named Death, and he won with ridiculous ease, Dooley winning a good bet on him. Dooley told all his friends of the incident, and they all went out to the course the next time Death was entered. He won every time he started for thirteen races. It was near getaway day, when every one was packing up ready to take the last train for New York. The horse was sold that afternoon at an auction sale, and the buyer was Mr. Dooley. He hitched him a month later to a hearse, and the horse became frightened and ran away and was not stopped until the graveyard was reached. After the burial Dooley had the horse shot and buried near the cemetery. "You're a dead one now, Death," said Dooley, "but a live one in those thirteen races."—Baltimore American.

The Fashion of the House.

A servant girl happened to be engaged at a farmhouse where the mistress was known to have a hasty temper. On the first Saturday night the girl was at the farmhouse she was told by the mistress to clean the boots ready for Sunday. The mistress on coming into the kitchen later on saw that the girl had cleaned her own boots first. So she took them up and threw them into a tub of water that was standing by and bounced out of the kitchen. The girl said nothing, but when she had cleaned the other boots she threw them also into the water.

"Whatever possessed you to do that, girl?" asked the mistress on coming again in the kitchen.

The girl simply replied: "Well, ma'am, please ma'am, I thought it was the fashion of the house, ma'am!"—London Tit-Bits.

Saved by Her Voice.

When traveling to Paris with some other ladies on one occasion Mme. Gris had a thrilling adventure. At a small wayside station a man entered the carriage, and it soon became evident from his threatening gestures and eccentric behavior that he was a dangerous lunatic. Though her companions were panic stricken, Mme. Gris retained complete presence of mind and with the utmost composure began to sing. At once the maniac was quiet. His whole attention was riveted on that magnificent voice, and he remained the most appreciative of listeners until the train reached the next station, where he was secured. It transpired subsequently that he was a maniac with homicidal tendencies who had escaped from an asylum.

WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD

Lady Learned About Cardui, The Woman's Tonic and is Now Enthusiastic in its Praise.

Mount Pleasant, Tenn.—"Cardui is all you claim for it, and more," writes Mrs. M. E. Rail, of this place.

"I was a great sufferer for 2 years and was very weak, but I learned about Cardui, and decided to try it. Now I am in perfect health.

"My daughter, when changing into womanhood, got in very bad health. I gave her Cardui and now she enjoys good health.

"Cardui is worth its weight in gold. I recommend it for young and old."

Being composed exclusively of harmless vegetable ingredients, with a mild and gentle medicinal action, Cardui is the best medicine for weak, sick girls and women.

It has no harsh, powerful, near-poisonous action, like some of the strong minerals and drugs, but helps nature to perform a cure in a natural easy way.

Try Cardui.

Gates in Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

ITALIANS RIOTING.

Fighting Because They Could Not Eat Figs.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Bari, Italy, Sept. 3.—Twenty-three persons were injured in a battle between Carabines and a mob of two thousand persons here today. Rioting was caused by an ordinance being passed prohibiting the inhabitants to eat figs.

Most of people think other people eat too much.

ROOSEVELT ENDORSES TAFT.

Comes Out in Speech Commending The President.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 3.—Theo. Roosevelt unexpectedly came out in a speech here today with the endorsement of President Taft's attitude, and some features of the tariff problem. He commended Taft for his recent letter in which the president discussed the necessity for a tariff commission, commended maximum and minimum provisions of the tariff law, and said on this point the administration had done excellent work. He said he was anxious to make this declaration in Iowa, an insurgent state, rather than wait until he got in regular territory.

Question for Mr. Corey.

Editor Reflector:
We are glad to see the announcement of Mr. N. R. Corey, as a candidate for the legislature. He has many friends that would be glad to support him, provided his position on long term office is satisfactory. Will Mr. Corey please state at once if he favors long official terms, and by so doing, it might mean many votes on September 10th.

"Peddler's Acre."

Lambeth "old" church has numerous historic monuments, and in one of the windows is the full length figure of a peddler with his pack, staff and dog. This is supposed to represent the unknown person who presented "Peddler's acre" to the parish upon condition that his portrait and that of his beloved canine companion should be preserved in the church and that his dog should be buried in consecrated ground.—London Saturday Review.

A Jolt.

A middle aged matron addressed a middle aged woman who sat next to her in the street car, whom she thought she recognized as an acquaintance of her girlhood. "Pardon me," she said, "but wasn't your maiden name Blank?" "It is," was the icy reply.—New York Sun.

Surely Not.

Mariner (relating some of his active service adventures)—An 'me an' my mates, was lost in the virgin forest—virgin, so to speak, because the hand of man had never before set foot there.

Good Luck.

Mr. Jiggins—A black cat came to our back fence last night. Mrs. Jiggins—Did it bring you good luck? Mr. Jiggins—That's what it did. I hit it the very first time I fired.

Her Pet Name.

Judge—What is your name? Young Wife—Caroline Augusta Emma. Judge—And how are you generally called? Young Wife (bashfully)—My sweet ducky.

Fine Graft.

"The proudest boast of the old time robber barons was that they never robbed a poor man." "Those fellows were amateurs at the game," explained the great captain of industry, "and didn't understand how much money there was in it."—Puck.
