N. C. MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Sensational Publications in Charlotte Regarding College.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 3.—The Chronicle today issued an extra carrying a sensational story involving the standing of the North Carolina Medical College located here, and which promises to provoke an interesting fight among the medical profession of the State. Last summer the college was severely arraigned in an article in the New York American, following which exploitation the Forsyth county medical society took up the matter and passed resolutions which have been forwarded to members of the medical profession in the State. The Forsyth county society quotes an investigation of the college recently made by the reference committee on medical education of the American Medical Association and the Carnegie Foundation in which the college is assailed as having practically no laboratory and being poorly fitted, manned, etc., and unworthy to bestow the degree of M. D. The Forsyth resolution asks that the State Board of Medical Examiners recognize no further the degree of the college and that the legislature be petitioned to nullify that section of the college charter which permits the granting of diplomas.

The American Medical Journal of recent date also contains severe strictures upon the college by Mr. Flexner who went to Charlotte to make an investigation.

Dr. J. P. Munroe, president of the college, when seen about the report, said that the charges were the outcome of a political fight in the State Medical Society, which involves some of the college stockholders, but with which the college has nothing to do; that Flexner is not a doctor and wrote his report of the college laboratory standing in the door upon his visit to Charlotte; that he did not look neither was he asked into the laboratory.

PRESIDENT AT ST. PAUL.

Makes Speech After Viewing Labor Parade.

By Wire to The Reflector.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 5.—The greatest crowd ever gathered in St. Paul waited the arrival of President Taft when the chief executive reached the union station here today. From the hour of dawn until the arrival of the president's train, a continuous stream of people moved toward the station. Governor Eberhard and the reception committee met the president and escorted him to the reviewing stand, where he reviewed the labor day parade. Half a million people were on the streets before 7 o'clock. After the labor parade the president spoke at the conservation congress.

N. D. WANTS ROOSEVELT.

And The Colonel Says They Are very Kind.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Fargo, North Dakota, Sept. 5.—Theo. Roosevelt was the feature of Fargo's labor day celebration. He arrived here last night and got a spirited reception. Governor John Burke who is a Democrat, came from Bismarck, to extend a state welcome. Colonel Roosevelt was again reminded that the Western people want him for president in 1912 and was asked for a statement. He said he could not talk about that, but it was very kind of the people to want him.

Big Crowd at Brighton Beach.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Brighton Beach, Motordrome, N. Y., Sept. 5.—An excited throng throng began to pour into the grand stand today, the disappointed ones who were given rain checks when the meet was postponed Saturday being swelled by the holiday crowds. The country's dare devil rides were entered and the program gave promise of many thrilling events. It is expected many records will be smashed.

Raleigh Observes Labor Day.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Raleigh, Sept. 5.—All the state offices are closed and most of other offices and stores will close at noon in observance of labor day. There is no regular observance of the day here however, and the only amusement is two ball games with Goldsboro, one this morning and one this afternoon.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

Approximately 14,000 persons were hauled over the suburban line, between Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach during the month of June, July and August, according to a statement made yesterday from the office of the Tidewater Power Company. In June there were 35,000 persons to travel on the suburban line; 58,000 in July and 47,000 in August. The travel during the month of September is expected to be heavy, which will run the total for the summer considerably above the 150,000 mark, it is thought. It is stated that the crowds were handled without serious delay or accident, which is a most enviable record for the transportation company. —Wilmington Star.

Apex, Sept. 3.—With a foul oath, Almon Rains shot and killed his wife, Stella Rains, at Friendship, a lumber siding, 2 1-2 miles below Apex, this morning at 10 o'clock. He used a breech-loading shotgun which he borrowed from a neighbor for the purpose, firing a load squarely in her eye, tearing off the top of her head. Death was instantaneous. Loading the gun again he dared any to follow him. He came to Apex and caught a north bound passenger train. Authorities at Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Durham have been notified to look out for him. No cause is assigned for this rash act. The woman killed had a bad reputation.

Elizabeth City, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Thomas P. Wilcox, wife of the ex-sheriff of Pasquotank county and mother of Jim Wilcox, who is now serving thirty years in the State penitentiary for the murder of Nellie Cropsey, died here this afternoon at 5.30 o'clock. Mrs. Wilcox had been ill for some months, and has been a great sufferer. The principal cause of death it is said, was a mother's grief over the plight of a wayward son. Her last illness was caused precipitated. It is generally thought, by undue excitement and shattered nerves as the result of carrying a petition from house to house some months ago in hopes of securing a pardon for her son. During her illness many touching scenes have been enacted, when some other child or visitor would be mistaken by her in her delirium for her only boy.

ROAD AND LAND VALUES.

Good Roads Increase Values Fully 25 Per Cent.

Discussing the effect of good roads on land values, a correspondent of the Kansas City Star makes some interesting comparisons. As an example he cites the fact that two roads run in a western and Southwestern direction of Washington, Mo. One is an ordinary dirt road and the other is a turnpike. There is no material difference in the land lying along the two highways. So far as productiveness is concerned it is about a stand-off, but "the land on the earth road sells at from $60 to $80 per acre, while at an equal distance from town on the gravel road land is worth from $80 to $100 per acre." The correspondent adds: "The construction of good roads near Springfield Mo., is increasing the land valuation along these roads 25 per cent and upward. In Boone county, where the gravel roads have existed almost since pioneer times, the lands along these roads sell for 20 cents more than the lands on the ordinary dirt roads and yield an income greater in the same proportion. The same is true in Pike in Ralls, in St. Louis county, in Cape Girardeau, in Jackson, everywhere throughout Missouri, where are the rock or gravel roads to afford the comparison.

"These enhanced values are permanent and not temporary and fluctuating." The results are the same everywhere. Good roads unquestionably increase land values, but there are land owners, it is regrettable to say, who balk at road improvement on the score of increased taxation. Any sensible man should welcome any improvement which adds to the value of his land. And in pondering the road question the farmer who fears taxation should sit down and figure a bit on the indirect tax he is paying because of the lack of good roads.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

County commissioners in session today.

COTTEN FOR THE SENATE.

He Favors Substituting Questions to Vote of the People.

Falkland, N. C., Sept. 5, 1910. Editor Reflector:

The day set for the county primary comes off next Saturday, and the people in his home township are practically sold on naming Mr. R. R. Cotten for the senate. We feel the time has come and conditions are such that Mr. Cotten can and will, serve us best in the senate. His many friends over the county wanted him to head the ticket two years ago, but he yielded to his friend, Mr. Blow. We need progressive, but conservative representatives. It has been circulated in some sections that Mr. Cotten wanted bonds issued to build good roads. We know he is opposed to this, unless the people so decide by a vote. In certain sections, we hear some apprehensions of Mr. Cotten's position on the stock law. It does seem that his record in the last legislature should be a guarantee on this. We know Mr. Cotten would not favor forcing this on people who did not want it. We have heard him so express himself. Mr. Cotten is progressive in all things, helpful to his county and state, and especially active in promoting the best interest of the farmers. He is himself, one of the best and most successful farmers in the county, as well as a successful business man.

This, with his extensive experience in state matters, makes him a fit representative. We call upon the qualified voters next Saturday to cast their votes for Mr. Cotten for the senate and they will make no mistake.

T. L. WILLIAMS.

20 CENTS NOT THE HIGHEST.

Records Show That Price Was Higher in Several Years.

The recent statement in the press dispatches when August cotton went to 20 cents on the New York exchange, that it was the highest price since the civil war, has brought out much information about high priced cotton in other years. The Reflector has already published two instances of cotton selling for much higher price than that of 20 cents, and a Florida gentleman has written to the Charlotte Observer giving some statistics covering several years since the war in which cotton sold for a higher price than this year. The figures are taken from The World almanac for 1909 and are as follows:

1866 highest price 32c.
1867 highest price 36c.
1868 highest price 33c.
1869 highest price 35c.
1870 highest price 25 3-14c.
1871 highest price 21 1-4c.
1872 highest price 27 3-8c.
1873 highest price 21 3-8c.

In 1865 cotton was sold at $1.20 highest price and 35c lowest price. Above are all New York quotations.

CAN'T BEAT NORTH CAROLINA.

No Land West as Cheap as Ours for What it Produces.

Mr. M. Frank Teeter, of Harrisburg, one of the largest farmers in this section, returned Thursday afternoon from a month's trip to several western States. Mr. Teeter stopped at several points in Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico. He went on a tour of investigation to see what he could find that might interest him. He found, he says, improved lands worth all the way from $50 to $1,000 an acre. The highest priced land he saw was in New Mexico, where artesian wells abound. Mr. Teeter says he found no land anywhere as cheap as North Carolina lands for what they produce. Mr. Teeter says unimproved lands in the western States are dear at any price. He says in all his travels he saw no better looking cotton than we have right here at home.

Mr. Teeter says he will not move out west, as has been reported he will do. He says, however, that if he should take a notion to move he would go to Oklahoma.—Concord Tribune.

NATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

North Carolina Will Send Delegates to The Congress.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 5.—Not only will South Carolina and Florida, pioneers in interest and participation in the National Irrigation congress Pueblo, September 26-30, but North Carolina will also send a large delegation. This was assured by the receipt of a communication by Secretary Arthur Hooker, of the National Irrigation congress, stating 23 of the leading men of the Old North State had been selected by him to go to Pueblo, and attend the congress, and that a good attendance might be looked for.

Last year at the Spokane congress, South Carolina and Florida, the former headed by a personal representative of Governor Ansell in E. J. Watson, commissioner of agriculture of his state and now fifth vice president of the congress, and Florida's delegation headed by Governor A. W. Gilchrist, went by special trains all the long way to the extreme north-west part of the country. This year they are preparing to do the same, with only about one-half the distance.

South Carolina has its problems akin to the work of the Irrigation congress, including drainage, swamp reclamation, better agricultural and soil methods, and even irrigation. Florida has its great work of Everglades reclamation, after which will follow irrigation when the several millions acres of Everglades will be converted into truck gardens. Then the question of home-making enters strongly into the work of these two states, and home-making is one of the principal tenets of the Irrigation congress.

The delegates from North Carolina are:

R. L. Knowles, Hartford; W. A. Mauney, Kings Mountain; Dr. J. H. Pratt, Chapel Hill; H. A. London, Jr., Pittsboro; J. N. Pruden, Jr., Edenton; Dr. R. W. Haywood, Greensboro; J. B. Sherrill, Concord; Frank D. Hackett, North Wilkesboro; W. H. Phillips, Lexington; J. P. Fritzel, Snow Hill; H. E. Fries, Winston-Salem; W. S. Cobb, Lumber Bridge; Henry Perry, Henderson; W. M. Boone, Louisburg; A. L. Sarr, Mooresville; Otho Holding, Wake Forest; J. A. Noell, Roxboro; G. H. Haigler, Haysville; A. S. McNeill, Gibsonville; E. A. Hamrick, Ellenboro; R. L. Huffman, Morganton; Hall Johnson, Marion.

PITT COUNTY CROPS.

Should be Exhibited at The State Fair in Raleigh.

Mr. J. F. Evans, agent for the farm demonstration work in Pitt county, dropped in to say that Pitt county ought to make an exhibit of her resources at the coming State fair. With this suggestion we entirely agree, for there is no use of the farmers in Pitt shutting themselves up and not letting the outside world know what they are doing.

Mr. Evans says that a number of farmers who are engaged in the demonstration work this year have splendid crops, and they could well afford to put them on exhibit in competition for prizes at the fair. In addition to crops of various kinds, we are sure that Pitt county could also make a creditable showing in the way of live stock and poultry. Let the farmers take hold of this idea, and begin work now getting something in readiness for exhibit at the fair.

Bird With Human Face.

Mr. N. M. Plummer, a prosperous farmer of Mount Ulla, was in Mooresville a few days ago exhibiting a strange freak in the shape of a bird with human face. It was evidently of the owl species, but unlike any that has ever been captured in these parts.

For several years along the back creek bottoms in that neighborhood Mr. Plummer says people working in the field were often startled by a cry like a human voice, giving signals of distress, but upon investigation nothing could be found. The bird was captured last Saturday, having been discovered by Mr. Plummer while crying like an infant, he having slipped upon it unawares. The bird would not eat, and while exhibiting the fowl on the streets, the human-like thing died in his arms, crying "Go-go." Its voice was clear and could talk plain er than the ordinary parrot.—Concord Tribune.

The exchanges observing labor day, there are no telegraph market reports today.

PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The People Who Come and go on Our Trains.

Mr. W. J. Blow, of Goldsboro, came in today to visit relatives.

Mr. S. B. Tucker left Saturday evening for a trip to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Mr. Frank E. Brooks left Saturday night for a trip to Ocean View.

Mrs. Ada Cherry went to Tarboro today.

Mr. Van Steton went to Rocky Mount this morning.

Miss Pink Manning and sister, left this morning for Robersonville.

Mr. A. A. Forbes returned to Robersonville this morning.

Mr. J. S. Stump went to Norfolk today.

Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis returned home this morning from Lincoln Litchia Springs.

Mr. E. H. Thomas went to Ayden today.

Mr. D. E. House went to Kinston this afternoon.

Mrs. Paul Mitrick has returned from a visit to her people in Germany.

Miss Sidney Davenport, of Pactolus, is visiting Miss Sophia Jarvis.

Mr. C. S. Harris, of Raleigh, spent Sunday here visiting his sister, Mrs. E. G. Couch.

Mr. Walter L. Cherry returned Saturday from a trip to Washington City.

Mrs. W. J. Pope, of Enfield, came in Saturday evening to visit her sister, Mrs. W. R. Smith.

Miss Harper Entertains.

LaGrange Sept. 3.—Miss Sadie Harper delightfully entertained a few of her friends on Wednesday evening in honor of Misses Katherine Murchison, of Seattle, Washington, Dilzell Capel, of Raleigh, and Estelle Greene, of Greenville.

The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music, Miss Harper sustaining her reputation as a charming hostess.

During the evening a delicious salad course was served.

New North Carolina Industries.

For the week ending August 31st, the Chattanooga Tradesman reports the following new industries for North Carolina:

Gatesville—Cotton seed oil mill.

Greenville—$50,000 cotton seed oil mill and gin.

King's Mountain—$200,000 cotton mill.

Salisbury—$100,000 fertilizer plant.

Winston-Salem—$50,000 automobile company.

New York's Biggest Show.

"The Summer Widowers" at the Broadway Theatre, is the biggest show hit of the season. This being the case, the songs published by Chas. K. Harris for that show are attracting lots of attention. Ever alert to get the best, The New York Sunday World has secured the "rights" of printing one of the best songs in the piece. It will be given with The Sunday World next Sunday, words and music complete.

Foolish Boys.

Some of the boys in town did a very foolish thing Sunday, and if they keep it up there need to be no surprise if some funerals result. They went down to the bridge and dived off into the river. True the water in the river is high, but such high diving would be risky for experts, to say nothing of the danger to boys, doing such stunts.

Regatta in Philadelphia.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—At 10.20 o'clock this morning the pistol of James Poud, starter for the middle-stakes regatta, broke the quietude of Schuylkill river neighborhood and the annual contest of snell and oar was on. Fifty-four crews were entered for the regatta.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

Labor day.
Masons meet tonight.
County primary next week.
The young Womans' society of the M. E. church will hold its regular meeting in the ladies' parlor Wednesday night, September 7th, immediately after prayer meeting. All young ladies of the church are requested to attend.

Ten Things to do This Month.

1. Begin sowing winter oats. Keep on working all land intended for winter grains, making it as fine and firm as possible.
 2. Sow cover crops rye vetch, crimson clover, rape, etc., whenever you can. Sow some pasture lots for the hogs, and one for the chickens.
 3. Cut up the corn when ripe, shock loosely and shred the stover if a shredder comes your way. This, of course, if you haven't a silo to put it in.
 4. Save the cow peas, soy beans and other hay crops. Don't neglect even the crabgrass. Too much hay in the South is a thing unknown.
 5. Save seeds—make the best possible selections in the corn field before cutting, and in the cotton field before picking. Insure cowpeas and soy beans for planting. Save also a supply of garden seeds.
 6. Plant fall garden-stuff—lettuce, radishes, onion, etc. Prepare land for setting fruit trees and small fruits.
 7. Keep the hogs going their best. Add some grain to what they get in the pastures. Give the cows some grain, too, if pastures get dry.
 8. Get next winter's supply of wood ready, and put it under a conveniently located woodshed where it will keep dry.
 9. See about your roads; if they need improvement, talk it over with your neighbors and decide on a plan. Make a good drag some rainy day.
 10. Visit your schools; help the children all you can; consult with the teacher, and then co-operate with her.

The Country Paper.

I am glad to commend the work of the country newspaper. It can be owned by the editor who edits it and therefore, has behind it a conscience and character which can be identified, which is close to the people and can give voice to the sentiments of its readers. We have to depend more and more upon the country papers for an educational work that is necessary to correct understandings of public questions. There is a lot of difference between a man who writes what he is told to write and the man who writes what he believes is a message to his readers. At this time, when the great dailies are becoming more and more business enterprises rather than exponents of opinions, and especially when a number of them have become the property of predatory interests the country paper increases in importance.

President Taft must feel better since ex-President Roosevelt has given his administration a boost.

The primary for the nomination of candidates in this county will be held next Saturday. There are more candidates than there are offices, and of course some are not going to be nominated. We hope the primary will occasion no bitterness or dissension. Whatever the result of the primary may be as to nominations, it is the duty of every Democrat to abide by that decision and support the nominees in the November election.

They are holding it against Congressman Godwin that he has done nothing for his district. But come to think of it, this charge might be brought against every congressman in the state.—Durham Herald.

You are wrong there. This charge cannot be brought against Congressman John H. Small, of the first district. He does things for his district, and is constantly at it. In fact there is no member of congress who comes nearer being on his job 365 days in the year than Congressman Small.

That is a rather queer case developed by the postmaster of Charlotte who wrote the government supervising architect to know when money appropriated by congress to improve the Charlotte post office would be available, and received a reply in effect that while congress passed the public building bill it made no appropriations. That sounds strange in the face of the dispatches from Washington when the bill was passed. Greenville was one of the towns included in that bill, and if the supervising architect is correct in his statement, in the language of the Georgian we are wondering "where we are at."

An Italian savant estimates that his own country yields a beautiful woman in every 2,200 and Spanish women in the same proportion. English women lead in the list with one beauty in every 1,200, while French women fall at the foot of nationalities considered with only one in every 2,200. Americans the statistician is reluctant to pass upon, classing them as a hopelessly mixed race, but he does make an estimate for the single city of New York and places it as high as England. We almost feel like offering to pay the expense of a visit by this learned, but not perfectly well-informed, man to North Carolina.—Charlotte Observer.

That's right, bring him to North Carolina. And when he comes tell him to put Greenville on his list of towns to visit for here he will find more beautiful ones, according to population, than in any place on the map.

The Torrens System.
The man who owns a share of bank stock worth five hundred dollars can borrow $400 on it any day without publicity or expense. But the man who owns a piece of land worth five hundred dollars cannot borrow even a hundred dollars on it without paying a lawyer to investigate the title, paying to have a mortgage written, paying the fees to have it probated, and recorded, and then the whole transaction is made public. The Torrens system changes all this and makes the transfer of land as simple and inexpensive as the transfer of a share of stock in a bank or corporation. It is a reform that ought to come in North Carolina and the farmers and merchants are particularly interested in securing that system. The Farmers' Union and other citizens of Anson county, had a big meeting a few days ago and passed the following resolution:

"We, the members of the Farmers' Union and citizens of Anson county, in mass meeting assembled, believing the Torrens System of registering titles to be the simplest and best method, do request our representative to use every legitimate means to enforce the use of the Torrens System of registering land titles."

There is no single change in the law that is so much needed in North Carolina as to replace the present expensive and cumbersome system of land titles with the simple and inexpensive Torrens system.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Without An Advertising Man.

"In the year 1844," says The Point, Oil and Drug Reporter, "an average of ninety-three persons a day were shown the wonders of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky. In 1909 the average was less than twelve. And in those sixty years the population of the United States has grown from twenty millions to eighty millions and the transportation facilities has been wonderfully increased. Why this falling off in interest and numbers? The Mammoth Cave is still there and the stalagmite chair in which the famous Jenny Lind sat is still pointed out by the guides. But the visitors go elsewhere. And when we look for a cause for this lack of appreciation we find it to consist of this: The Mammoth Cave no longer has an advertising man." It would be superfluous to attempt to emphasize the moral. Nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand business men who may peruse this paragraph have probably forgotten the existence of Kentucky's once-famous show place. They can figure for themselves the part publicity plays in directing the footsteps of the crowd, and how the lesson may be applied to their efforts to keep themselves from being wiped out of the public memory.—Ex.

When the farmers resolve a gainst the newspapers, charging a lack of zeal in their interest, they are attacking their friends. It is a fact that the newspapers have fought for good roads while the farmers were fighting against them, and have advocated longer school terms, diversified crops and other things for the betterment of the farmer while he was sitting by holding his hands. The newspapers have also not only encouraged the corn-growing contests, but in some instances have hustled around and helped to raise the money to be offered as prizes. The farmers need to be told some things that would be to their benefit even if they were not to their liking.—Durham Herald.

The Greenville Reflector brings cheering news of the tobacco market in its town "There seem," declares our contemporary after a recent visit to the warehouses, "to be buyers for very grade that is offered from the meanest trash to the highest wrappers. The warehousemen are active, wide awake and alert to the interest of the sellers. The buyers are here and want tobacco; the way they buy shows that they are anxious for it." With good schools and interest in good roads, Greenville is rapidly forging to the front and this report indicates that tobacco must by no means be omitted from the list of its assets.—Charlotte Observer.

ONE WEAK SPOT.

Most Greenville People Have a Weak Part and too Often It's the Back

Everyone has a weak spot. Too often it's the back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day and night. Tells you the kidney needs help—For backache is really kidney-ache.

A kidney cure is what you need. Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney-aches. Cure headache and urinary ills. Good proof is the following statement:

Jackson Baxter, 424 Bonner street, Washington, N. C., says: "I suffered from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. The kidney secretions were scanty at times, while at others profuse, and the passages were attended with pain. I had severe backaches and constant, gnawing pains through my kidneys. I was feeling miserable when I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. They gave me such great relief that I obtained a further supply and since using this, pains across my back have disappeared. I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone troubled by kidney complaint."

A Tiger Story.

There is a story current at Kuloung, central China, about a tiger which gave trouble in that quarter. A missionary and his wife had been worried by the tiger prowling nightly around their home. They determined to be rid of it and one night tied a cow up in the back yard and a dog at the front of the house. Then they armed themselves with guns and kept watch. The tiger appeared. The missionary fired and killed the cow. The wife rushed to see what had happened, and in her absence the tiger ate the dog.

RIGHT HAND RULE.

The Way it is Applied in Driving and In Navigation.

London's drivers, sitting on the right side of the driver's seat, turn to the left. Why? In order that looking down at the right side of the vehicle they may gauge to a fraction of an inch the hubs of a vehicle meeting them. In the United States the driver still preserves the right side of the seat and in turning to the right of the roadway has the least knowledge of where his hubs may be in passing.

But in international navigation the right hand rules always obtain. It is the narrow channel winding into a port where the extremest of emphasis is laid upon the vessel keeping to starboard, no matter how many crooks and turns and loops the channel may make.

This was illustrated in a collision on the Whangpoo river, in China, when the Pekin and the Normandie collided. The Normandie was descending the stream, keeping to starboard. The Pekin was ascending the channel, keeping to its starboard. At a sharp turn in the channel the two boats collided. The Pekin's master declared that owing to the sharp bend in the river it was a "crossing" case, in which the Normandie was to blame.

In the house of lords, however, it was held that the right of any channel of any degree of sinuosity lay at the right of the channel's center; that, therefore, when the Pekin failed to observe the rule in the sharp bend and "cut across" it became an offender against the law and must pay damages.—Chicago Tribune.

The Picture It Brought From Out a Dark Cavern.

Dr. Francis Clark told an interesting story of a youth living in Maine who was out in the woods one day taking photographs of attractive bits of scenery. He came upon the mouth of a little cavern between the rocks, and he said to himself, "I will see what sort of picture I can get out of that cave," and as it was a dark day he decided to take a "time exposure" instead of a "snapshot." Steadying the camera upon his knee as well as he could at the edge of the cave, he gave the sensitive plate a long, deliberate look at the semidarkness within. Then he continued his tramp through the woods and after a few hours returned to his camp.

Several weeks afterward, when developing his plates, you can imagine his astonishment to see in the picture, in the very center of the cavern, with arched back and bristling fur and within springing distance of the spot where he had balanced his camera, a huge Canada lynx that might easily have destroyed his life. And yet he came and went and saw no signs of danger.—Christian Herald.

Proving a Statement.

A certain minister, who is an emphatic preacher, is at times at a loss to give his utterances proper weight. For instance, he'll say:

"This statement is as true as is the night which will follow day," or "as true as that the trees will bud in spring."

Sometimes it happens that the doctor has more statements than he has illustrations to give them weight. On one such occasion he remarked, "This is as true as the"— Here the doctor halted. He paused a few moments, and then his face illumined—"as true as is the statement that some member is yet on his or her way to church."

A few moments later a lady entered the edifice and swept grandly up the aisle. The doctor's face assumed an "I told you so" appearance. The congregation began to smile, then to laugh. Sympathy for the embarrassed lady, however, soon subdued the apparently uncontrollable mirth.

The Parrots of Mexico.

What the wild pigeon once was in point of numbers to the United States the parrot, of varying shades of color and all sizes, is to old Mexico. Flights of these birds frequently darken the midday sun in the hot country, and they become so tame around the camps of engineers that the birds are given individual names and soon become regular pets. Whenever the parrots desert the forest and alight on the ground in the open spaces of the jungle the natives recognize their actions as sure warning of an impending earthquake. American engineers endorse this belief and assert that serious accidents which might have been averted have resulted when the warning of the birds was noted, but unheeded.

A Line on Mother.

"I don't see how I ever got to get a chance again with this boy around," wailed the little widow with the small son. "The other day a man I like awfully well asked me how old the town was that we came from. The boy spoke up without giving me a chance to put in a word:

"I don't know just how old it is," he said, "but it must be pretty old because mamma was born in it."—New York Press.

ARSENIC POISONING.

The Torture That Ensues Before Death Brings Relief.

When a single dose of arsenic in sufficient quantity to be felt has been taken colicky pains, bowel disorder and perhaps nausea result. In the course of an hour after a poisonous dose has been taken an intense burning pain is felt in the esophagus and stomach. This spreads to the entire anterior portion of the lower part of the trunk. A sense of constriction at the throat and an acrid, metallic taste accompany the pain. Then vomiting and relaxation of the bowels begin. As the case progresses the symptoms increase in intensity. Then comes a thirst that water will not allay, although it apparently increases the stomach disturbance. The victim groans and writhes.

Now he implores the doctor to save him. Then he begs to be killed and put out of pain. The extremities become icy. The pulse is small, feeble and frequent, and the breathing is labored, embarrassed and painful because of abdominal tenderness. The surface of the body becomes dark and of that bluish color that medical men call cyanosed. Violent cramps add their torture, exhaustion becomes collapse, convulsions or coma ensues, and death ends the agony. The torture lasts sometimes from five to twenty hours.

In some cases these symptoms occur, but in a modified form, and the doctor will apparently get the better of the disease. The remission will be but for a day or two. Then the abdomen will swell, and icy coldness will pervade the frame. Shivering will become pronounced trembling, then cramps, convulsions and death.

AMERICAN MANHOOD.

An English View of the Common People in This Country.

In all I spent four months traveling and lecturing in the eastern cities of the United States and met many men of varied classes. In my wildest dreams of the race I had never foreseen such wealth, such freedom, such equality. America is the land of the common people, as England is the land of the classes. If I were a young workman I would go to the States as soon as I could earn a passage, because, once on her soil I should cease to be a laborer and become a man, which is a very different thing.

Better than the boundless wealth of America, better than any material benefit she can bestow, is this sense of manhood and equality that is as all pervading as the air. Worse than the earthen floor of our peasant's hovel, still found in England's southern counties, and the starvation wages on which he lives is the slavish spirit that drags the cap from his head before the squire or crowds him into the ditch as the carriage passes by. He is not a man, only a laborer, one step above the serf.—Joseph Burt of London in Leslie's.

Trapping Muskrats.

Numbers of mechanical traps to catch muskrats have been invented and tried, but none gives more satisfaction than the old floating barrel trap that has been in use for many years. Both ends are left closed, and a hole about eight by twelve inches square is sawed in the side. A strong cleat is nailed across each end, the cleats projecting six or eight inches beyond the barrel, and upon the cleats are nailed two boards, one on each side of the barrel and several inches longer. Water then is placed in the barrel so that it will float with the board platforms about on a level with the surface of the pond or stream. About one-third of the barrel remains above water. Apples, carrots and other delicacies that the muskrat likes are placed in the barrel. In their attempts to get the bait the animals fall into the barrel and are unable to get out.—Exchange.

Proving His Authority.

There was an Irish foreman of a gang of laborers who went to any lengths to show his men that he was the real boss. One morning this foreman found that his gang had put a handcar on the track without his orders.

"Who put that han-car-r-r on the track?" he asked.

"We did, sor," one of the men answered respectfully.

"Well," he said shortly, "take it off ag'in!"

The laborers did so with some difficulty.

"Now," said the foreman, "put it on ag'in!"

Great Scheme.

"What do you do," asked the one who had been married only a few months, "when your husband comes home late at night?"

"I pretend not to notice that it's late, and pretty soon he asks me if I wouldn't like to go to the theater or somewhere tomorrow afternoon."

Startling Encouragement.

"Was Amelia's father encouraging when you went to him to ask him for her hand?"

"Not very. He asked me to put the proposal in writing, so I couldn't back out, as all the others did."

AN ORIENTAL GARDEN.

It Is Not Planted With Flowers, and It Has No Lawns.

A garden does not necessarily mean a collection of flowers arranged more or less symmetrically, with spaces of lawn, shelter of trees and paths hither and thither. There have been gardens that, beyond a terra cotta jar or two holding a rosebush or a flowering almond, have had no green thing within their gates.

I know of an oriental garden in Fez where white garmented Moors come in the cool of the evening to sit and listen to ancient stories that they know by heart, or to music that was old when the pyramids were new, or perhaps to look at a dancing girl or two taking soft steps while they smoke their nargiles, yet that garden is nothing more than a series of arches upholding walls beyond walls, toned a faint, mysterious yellow that is not yellow, but white, and yet not white, but rose. In the middle is a pool of water in a stone basin that looks blue because of the intense sky overhead and that shimmers with gold in reflections from the walls.

In the corner stands a mighty jar full of strange scarlet blossoms, and rugs of deep color and intricate pattern lie on the sun warmed flags. There is always the fairy music of dripping water, and wonderful shadows move among the arches.

This place is a garden for all that it is so builded of man. The word court will not do for it.—Century Magazine.

FIGHTING FATIGUE.

Jacking Up the Tired System Without Using Stimulants.

If efforts to keep at work are continued in spite of fatigue the quality of the work is poor and the exhaustion inordinate. Students constantly make this error and do all sorts of things to keep awake to burn the midnight oil when if they would go to bed and rest they could accomplish far more in half the time in the morning with little or no fatigue.

Yet there are times when sleepiness and fatigue must be overcome without resort to stimulants which injure the judgment. The tired physician with a critical case, for instance, must have his wits about him, and it will aid him vastly to go to an open window every fifteen or thirty minutes to take a dozen or two deep inspirations of cold air. His exhaustion in the end will be great, but he can make it up later.

As a matter of fact, surgeons and others whose work requires the keenest perceptions instinctively choose the early morning for their best efforts, reserving the afternoon for "low pressure" tasks or recreation. That is, it is far better to so live that we do not need the stimulus of these extraordinary methods of respiration.—American Medicine.

A Dime Better Than Two Nickels.

A professional panhandler approached a man crossing City Hall park and demanded a nickel, which the man good naturedly handed out, saying, "I suppose that goes for a glass of beer." "Surest thing you know," replied the panhandler unblushingly. "And by the way, while we are on the subject, I have now in my possession two nickels. Would you mind giving me a ten cent piece for them?" "I will on one condition," said the man, whose curiosity was aroused. "What's the answer?" "Well, you see, it's this way," explained the panhandler. "If I have a dime I go into a saloon and ask for beer. I have a nickel comeback, which enables me to amble over to the free lunch counter and fill up. Maybe you don't realize that getting change over the bar gives a man a certain tone that doesn't belong to him if he just coughs up a nickel."—New York Sun.

ROYAL ACCOUNTS.

Methods of the King of England in Transacting Business.

No advertisement is more valuable to a British tradesman than the royal warrant, which allows him to place the royal arms over his place of business and describe himself as "purveyor by appointment to his majesty the king."

Each tradesman who has the royal custom must send in his bill at the end of the month. It is compared with his ledger account kept at Marlborough House and if correct is paid in the first week of the month. No discount is asked on any of the royal accounts. A tradesman who receives the royal custom is informed that he must supply goods at the lowest reasonable prices, and there is never any attempt at bargaining by the official of the royal household. If a tradesman is thought to be making extortionate charges he simply loses the royal custom.

Coal is supplied to Marlborough House by contract, the contracts being made for three years and the contractors paid in equal half yearly payments. Window cleaning, carpet cleaning and chimney sweeping are all done by contract, and the glass frames of large pictures are also kept clean by contract.

Servants' wages are paid monthly, the upper servants being paid by check sent to each from the treasurer's department. The king's accounts for clothes, cigars, theaters, newspapers, books and other personal articles are sent to his secretary, not the treasurer, and are also paid monthly.—Toronto Times.

CORE OF THE EARTH.

One of the Enigmas of Nature That Science Cannot Solve.

Human beings know only a mere skin of the surface of the earth, not more than thirty miles deep, while the globe is 8,000 miles in diameter. There is probably no oxygen at all below thirty miles, and it is difficult to guess what are the elements within. Probably the heaviest elements form a dense core near the center.

It is in some respects astonishing, most alarming, that we are so completely devoid of any direct knowledge of the constituents of the vast mass of globe beneath us and really only know the merest film. A skin or membrane one-twentieth of an inch in thickness (the thickness of kid or brown paper) spread over a ball a little more than a foot in diameter represents the proportion between the known crust of the earth thirty miles thick and the great globe itself.

We are dependent on inference and speculation for our notions as to the constitution of all that is beneath the mere skin of thirty miles thickness on the globe's surface! Even what is thrown up by the biggest volcanoes does not come from below this depth or tell us what lies hidden there.—Exchange.

Helter Skelter.

"Helter skelter" has been suggestively defined as a jingling expression vaguely imitating the hurried clatter of feet rapidly and irregularly moved. Most dictionaries, however, led astray probably by the ordinary orthography, have missed the true etymology of this phrase. It should be "helter kelter." "Helter" is an old word for "hang," probably connected with halter, and "kelter" is used by old writers in the sense of "order" or the proper state. Thus Barrow, the divine, says, "If the organs of prayer be out of kelter how can we pray?" "Helter skelter," therefore, is literally "hang order" and means, "Oh, hang order; let us do it, or let it take its chance." Ben Jonson in "Every Man in His Humor" writes, "Helter skelter, hang sorrow, care 'll kill a cat," and Shakespeare, using it to express rush and hurry, says, "Helter skelter have I rode to thee."

Horseradish as a Vegetable.

In Germany horseradish is frequently made into an excellent cooked vegetable which goes particularly well with boiled mutton or chicken fricassee. It is made as follows: Grate as usual and stew till tender in butter; mix well with grated Parker House rolls, one cupful of the latter to three of the horseradish, and boil up once more, adding a heaping teaspoonful of sugar. Served with very firmly jellied currant jelly, scooped out with a teaspoon and laid in solid little ovals like a wreath round the white mound of horseradish, this delectable dish looks almost as good as it tastes.—Suburbanite.

The Attraction.

Tourist—I must confess that I can't see why so many people want to come here—no scenery, no amusements, no good things to eat, absolutely no attractions. Innkeeper—Ah, signor, zey come because we 'ave ze gr-r-ran' label to stick on ze luggage.—Mexican Herald.

Civilization.

The upward sweep of civilization is not unlike the rising of the incoming tide. It advances and recedes, but each advance carries humanity to a higher altitude than it had reached before.—B. O. Flower.

Insulting a Humorist.

"Did you write this joke?" "I did." "Ha-ha-ha!" "Well, what are you laughing at? Ain't it a good joke?"—Toledo Blade.

The wise man is cured of ambition by ambition.—La Bruyere.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

O. Henry Was a Shade Smarter Than the Magazine Man.

A friend of the late O. Henry writes of him: "He was reckless in spending money and frequently gave elevator boys and bellboys five and ten dollar notes. But he wasn't 'easy' despite his financial regardlessness."

"His friends recently narrated an incident showing the man's shrewdness. A magazine noted for 'slow pay,' they said, contracted with him for a three part story for which he was to receive $1,500. He got $500 advance before starting to work and when he turned in the second installment (none of it had been printed yet) got $500 more and asked for the third $500 as an advance before finishing the tale.

"The editor in an effort to save money apparently declared that, after all, the story didn't appear to be worth more than $1,000—this when he had the two installments in his office.

"'All right,' said O. Henry; 'I won't write the third one then.' And he didn't. He laughed at the editor.

"'Well, then,' said the latter, 'I'll run the two parts and then let our readers have a guessing contest as to how the story ends—and put up, perhaps, a $500 prize to the winner.'

"For a moment the author thought he was outwitted. Then he said: 'Go ahead, and I'll win the prize.' He intended to win it too!"—Boston Herald.

A WEIGHTY REASON.

It Told Why One of the Nineteen Commissions Was Executed.

Before a certain gentleman set out for Japan and India his relatives gave him errands. One wanted an Indian shawl, another a silver Buddha, a third a chryselephantine carving, and so on, till the list of commissions was appalling. He agreed, however, to fill them so far as possible.

But when he returned he had executed but one of the nineteen commissions that had been given him. He had brought back only the chryselephantine carving. This he gave to one smiling cousin amid the disappointed looks of the other relatives. Why, the disappointed ones asked, had he executed that one particular commission and disregarded the rest?

The traveler smiled. "It happened," he began quietly, "that each of you had written your commission on a sheet of paper. On the second day of the voyage out I took all these sheets of paper from my notebook, opened them and spread them on my lap as I reclined in my steamer chair.

"The air was very still at the time, but suddenly a brisk wind sprang up, and every sheet was blown away except that of Cousin Max. Max's sheet was weighted down with the gold coin he had given me to pay for his carrying."—St. James' Gazette.

Missed the Squeak.

Some persons like one sort of shoe and some another, but the kind which was desired by Pierre, the French Canadian mill hand, has never enjoyed a wide popularity.

"Shoes for Sunday," Pierre stated to the young man who advanced to meet him as he entered the salesroom of the big shoe factory.

He then sat heavily down on one of the red plush seats and allowed the salesman to insert his feet in a pair of bright yellow shoes. When they were fairly on, Pierre stood, moved his feet this way and that, took a few steps and, shaking his head, sat down again.

"What's the matter?" asked the clerk. "Do they hurt you? Are they too tight?"

Pierre shook his head violently. "She no tight," he said, "but also she no talk. Shoes for Sunday must talk, talk, all the way up in church for to soun' stylish, see?"—Youth's Companion.

Oil of the Porpoise.

The porpoises killed in winter are the fattest and produce most oil. The largest size measure about seven feet in length, five feet in girth and weigh about 300 pounds. Such a porpoise yields from six to seven gallons of oil. The blubber of a big porpoise weighs about 100 pounds and is one and a half inches thick in summer and two in winter. The jaws of the porpoise yield a superior quality of oil. When hung up in the sun it readily drips away into cans provided for the purpose, the quantity of oil thus procured, however, being not more than half a pint to the jaw. The oil from the blubber gives an excellent light and is in demand along the coast for light-house use. It has no offensive odor.

Busy All the Time.

Little Howard came in the other day, crying and rubbing several bumps caused by a series of "butts" administered by a pet sheep.

"Well, Howard," said his sympathetic auntie, "what did you do when the sheep knocked you down?"

"I didn't do anything. I was getting up all the time."—Delineator.

The Trouble.

"Do you find any trouble writing stories, Dawdy?"

"None whatever. But I'd pay a man well that could sell them for me."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Winning Play.

Old Friend—Your plan is a most excellent one. But do you think your wife will agree to it? Married Man—Oh, yes. I'll tell her some one else suggested it, and I'll call it an idiotic idea.

She Knew It. A Philadelphia man thought he would be more successful than his wife in securing servants. So he cut out a number of advertisements from the "Situations Wanted" column of a newspaper and started out in a cab to visit the various addresses. The first place he stopped at was in front of a little house in a narrow street, from which a cook had advertised. He saw her and was favorably impressed. "I want a good cook," he said. "Sure, an' don't OI know it!" exclaimed the cook. "OI only left your house yestidday!" He made a hasty and undignified retreat and decided to allow his wife to continue in her direction of the household affairs.
