DELEGATES VISIT AMERICA.

Effort to Awaken Interest in Home Rule for Ireland.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Sept. 26.—John E. Redmond and other Irish leaders spent last night in the city and left today for Buffalo. Mr. Redmond says the object of their visit to this country is to put the exact status of the Irish movement before their countrymen. They are delegates of the national party in Ireland. They are trying to curtail the power of the House of Lords and trying to secure home rule for Ireland. Mr. Redmond declared "Once Ireland is free, we want every good Irishman to return to his country." Semmas McMannis, an Irish author and statesman declared it was total independence and not home rule that Ireland needed. He is a deadly foe to Redmond.

IMPORTANT CABINET MEETING.

To Consider Matters Affecting the Administration and Nation.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Sept. 26.—The most important cabinet meeting of Taft's administration began today and will be of three days duration. Matters of utmost importance to the success of the administration are to be discussed, and will place the administration in its true light. It will take up appointments of supreme court vacancies, the creation of new court of commerce, estimates of expenditures, operation of postal banks system, the national political situation will receive most serious consideration. All members of the cabinet are present by Secretary of War Dickenson, who is in China. Night meetings will be held.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

Will Name Either Gaynor or Sulzer for Governor.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Rochester, N. Y. Sept. 26.—Only a few of the leaders have arrived yet in preparation for the Democratic State convention which convenes Thursday. The work of decorating the hall was completed today and seats were arranged. The convention will be very quiet, in marked contrast to the Republican convention at Saratoga. Chairman Dix believes the Democrats will sweep the State in November. Chief among the names mentioned is Mayor Gaynor, of New York city. Predictions are that the nomination for governor will either go to Gaynor or to Congressman Sulzer.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

That is Finding of Coroner's Jury Against Crippen.

By Cable to The Reflector.
London, Sept. 26.—Verdict of wilful murder was returned against Dr. H. H. Crippen by the coroner's jury at the conclusion of the inquest into the death of Belle Elmore Crippen today. The jury was out only a brief time. The jury found that the remains disinterred in the cellar of the Crippen home were those of Belle Elmore and that her death was due to hyoscin poisoning. The jury never mentioned Ethel LeNeve as she is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

THEY PAY THE PRICE.

The Speeders Take Their Life in Their Own Hands.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Garden City, N. J., Sept. 26.—Another narrow escape from death in the Vanderbilt cup race trials happened today when the powerful Lancia car driven by William Knipper was side swiped by the Buick car driven by Burman. The Lancia turned over twice, throwing Knipper thirty feet down an embankment. He was cut over the eye. The car will be ready for use again by Saturday.

Yearly Meeting.

Sunday was yearly meeting at Great Swamp church, four miles from town, and there was a large crowd in attendance. Several people from Greenville went out.

HAAG SHOWS COMING.

Will Be in Greenville October 7th for Two Performances.

Lovers of the out of ordinary amusement will be interested in the announcement that the Mighty Haag shows are coming October 7th, afternoon and evening in Greenville, presenting decidedly the largest and greatest program of original, unique and thrilling featured act known today to the show world. This vast tented amusement enterprise is alone in a class by itself, without a rival.

Nothing like the imperial performance provided by Ernest Haag was ever before dreamed or dared by the boldest managers.

Whatever your performance, you will find plenty to interest, astonish and edify you; there are thrilling aerial acts during every moment of which one expects to see the intrepid performers hurled into eternity, artistic and sensational equestrianism, incredible and bewildering athletic and acrobatic numbers, blood chilling jockey, hurle and chariot races, amazingly venturesome bicyclists, and phenomenal exhibitions by fierce wild beasts. In fact, so numerous and varied are the novelties offered in the rings and upon the elevated stages, and upon the mammoth hippodrome track by these shows, lack of space will not permit each of these to be mentioned. The quantity and quality of the features are such as to really stagger comprehension.

It matters not what shows you have seen or how big the Mighty Haag shows have been in years gone by, this season they completely overwhelm all past efforts.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dixon, of Dixon, N. C., died late last night as a result of poison caused by eating matches. It seems that the child two nights ago found a number of matches and ate them. The little one became critically ill within a short time. Although every effort was made to save the child's life, death ensued at the time stated. A casket was sent for the funeral by Mr. Walter E. Yoop, the funeral director. Information concerning the sad tragedy was received here through a private communication sent to Mr. J. D. Brown.—Wilmington Dispatch

Mr. W. I. Linkhaw was kicked in a peculiar manner Tuesday at his sales stables, corner of Fourth and Chestnut streets. When he attempted to pick up one of a mule's front feet his muleship made a forward kick with a hind foot and landed with the front of the hoof on Mr. Linkhaw's face, knocking him against the side of the stables, which was all that saved him from being knocked down. The injury was slight. It is evidently dangerous to monkey around that mule either at the business end or in the middle.—Lumberton Robesonian.

Raleigh, September 24.—Lightning struck the cross on the tower of the church at the Roman Catholic orphanage at Nazareth, in Raleigh's suburbs today and set it and the tower afire. It blazed like a torch but the Raleigh firemen went two miles laid 2,000 feet of hose from the Central Hospital for Epileptics and saved the building except the top of the tower. The church is slightly damaged by water.

FEMALE SLASHER.

At Ayden Last Saturday Night, Man and Woman Have Difficulty.

Johnson Mills and Alice Ellison, both colored, had a little difficulty which they proceeded to settle among themselves, with the result that Alice did some nice carving of the anatomy of Johnson. One slash laid open the entire muscle of his arm and some other slashes made several openings in his back. Alice escaped such herself.

Small Fire.

At Ayden, Sunday night Mr. J. J. Stokes lost his feed house and stable by fire. The fire occurred about 8 o'clock and is supposed to have started from a lighted cigarette dropped in some feed stuff by some boys. His loss was about $50 worth of feed stuff and including the building and some other materials, a total of near $200.

CIVIC RIGHTEOUSNESS.

Rev. J. H. Shore Preaches Strong Sermon From Amos 6:1.

Rev. J. H. Shore, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church preached an excellent sermon Sunday night on "Civic Righteousness," taking as his text, Amos 6:1—"Woe to Them That are at Ease in Zion." There was a large congregation present and no doubt his remarks will accomplish great and lasting good for Greenville. Mr. Shore is easily one of the best preachers Greenville ever had and the good people should ponder and heed his words. He truly said that the members of the churches are responsible for this condition of Greenville. They have convictions, but not the courage of their convictions, for if they had, they could easily stop the desecration of the Sabbath, the selling of whiskey and beer, and close the so-called near-beer saloons. Mr. Shore did not say who was selling whiskey, but the fact that it is being sold is evident from the number of drunks seen upon our streets. And that it was the duty of the officials who have sworn to execute the law to put a stop to these things, and that these officials were traitors to the people who had elected them to office, and that they were cowards, afraid of a few whiskey bums; and that the citizens were responsible who would not demand that the officials enforce the law.

Mr. Shore scored the church members generally for failure to come up to their duty, and at the conclusion of his sermon asked every man present who was willing to join him in a stand to correct evils in Greenville, to come forward and give him their hand. A large number went forward under this invitation.

GREENVILLE IS AS GOOD

As The Majority of It's Citizens Wanted it to Be.

Editor Reflector:
Since the time of the primary many of our citizens have been talking about the quantity of intoxicating liquors sold in Greenville. From the number of drunks which are seen upon our streets, it seems that the time to act has come. The police should arrest these drunks and the mayor or magistrate who tries the cases should make these persons tell where they get intoxicated. If our officials wish to break-up these dens they can do so. It has been done in other places. Why not in Greenville?
A CITIZEN.

WILL GO TO NEW BERN.

Rev. B. F. Huske Closes His Work in Greenville.

On Sunday, night Rev. B. F. Huske closed his work in Greenville as rector of St. Pauls church. He will go to New Bern the first of October to be rector of Christ church in that city. Mr. Huske has been in Greenville two years and greatly endeared himself not only to his church, but to the people of the town and community generally. He is an able minister and a most excellent young man. Greenville gives him up with great regret.

Munford's Millinery Opening.

This has been an interesting day for the ladies of Greenville and community, and large numbers of them have visited the store of C. T. Munford to witness his fine display of new millinery, coat suits, wraps and other goods for fall and winter. His display was fully up to the season in style and quality, and the ladies were greatly pleased with what they saw. Every visitor to the store received a cake of toilet soap as a souvenir.

Mrs. Lawrence Hurt.

A few days ago Mrs. L. W. Lawrence met with an accident in her home, on Washington street, that injured her quite seriously. While passing through the kitchen she stumbled over something on the floor and was thrown down. In the fall one of her hips was badly bruised and the muscles strained, but fortunately no bones were broken. She has been confined to her bed since the accident, but is improving.

Avoid the green and overripe when selecting fruit and friends.

MRS. NANCY P. COX DEAD.

Survives Her Husband Only Five Weeks.

Mrs. Nancy P. Cox, widow of the late Mr. G. W. Cox, passed peacefully into eternal rest a little before 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Her husband died just five weeks ago at an advanced age, and her death has quickly reunited them after a happy union of more than 46 years on earth together.

Mrs. Cox was 74 years of age, and these years were filled with great usefulness. She was a noble woman, a fervent communicant of the Episcopal church, and served her day and generation well. She was a native of Greene county and was married to Mr. Cox in March, 1864. Three children survive her—one son, Mr. E. G. Cox, of Ayden; and two daughters, Miss Eula Cox, of Greenville and Miss Clyde Cox, of New Bern. These were all with her during the last few days of her illness. Being in feeble health for some time her death was not unexpected, yet it was a shock to her sorrowing children, and this double bereavement coming so near together draws the sympathy of all hearts to them.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. B. F. Huske, were held in St. Pauls Episcopal church at noon today, and the remains were taken to Ayden on the 1.12 p. m. Atlantic Coast Line train for interment there this afternoon. At the funeral service those favorite hymns, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" and "Abide With Me," which she requested in her last rational moments were sung.

The pall bearers were Messrs. R. C. Flanagan, James Brown, R. Williams, F. G. Smith, W. M. Moore, H. B. Smith and C. S. Carr.

CLOSES SUMMER PASTORATE

Rev. E. N. Johnston Leaves for Theological Seminary.

Rev. E. N. Johnston, who during the four summer months has been serving the Memorial Baptist church as supply pastor, closed his work here Sunday and left this morning for Raleigh. Mr. Johnston is a recent graduate of Wake Forest college, and in a few days will go to the Southern Theological Seminary at Louisville to complete his theological course. He is already an able preacher, and his work with the church here was most acceptable. He made many friends in Greenville, and the prayers of all go with him. He has a bright future in the Master's work.

WORM DAMAGING COTTON.

Some Found in the Field of Mr. Ivey Smith.

Messrs. R. C. Flanagan and C. S. Forbes spent Sunday with Mr. Ivey Smith, out in Beaver Dam township. In walking with him through his cotton field some plants were found on which the bolls were being considerably damaged by worms. Wherever the worm burrows into the boll it turns black and decays. Mr. Forbes was this morning showing some of the cotton bolls with the worms on them. Some thought this worm might be the boll weevil, but it is not. Possibly the worms could be destroyed by an application of Paris green.

Delegates to State Convention.

At the recent meeting of Singletary Chapter Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. R. R. Cotten and Mrs. T. A. Person were appointed delegates to the State convention which meets in Rocky Mount October 12th. Mrs. T. J. Jarvis also being an ex-officio delegate will give the chapter three representatives in the State convention.

Lightning Fires Fodder.

Mr. G. L. Moore, near Stokes, had the misfortune to lose a stack of fodder Friday. Lightning struck the stack pole and set the fodder on fire.

Meeting Closed.

Elder Lupton closed a meeting at the Black Jack Free Will Baptist church Sunday night, with eighteen additions to the church.

It is easy to love truth ardently when its edge is toward your adversary.

PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The People Who Come and go on Our Trains.

Mr. W. C. Johnston, of Washington, came in Saturday afternoon to spend Sunday here with his people and left this morning.

Mrs. Will Edwards, of Kinston, spent Sunday here with Mrs. E. A. Moye, sr.

Mr. Amos Tyson, of Rocky Mount, came in Sunday evening.

Mr. Lee Stewart, of Washington, spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Griffin.

Mr. William Bagwell came in Saturday from Rocky Mount to spend a few days here with his mother, Mrs. Nannie Begwell.

Mr. Clifford Rountree, of Rocky Mount, came in Saturday to visit his mother, Mrs. Joseph Tripp near here.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McLemore spent Sunday in Hobgood.

Mr. J. M. Gorman went to Kinston today.

Mr. B. E. Farham went to Kinston today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tunstall spent Sunday in Rocky Mount.

Mr. D. M. Clark spent Sunday in Weldon.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Clark spent Sunday in Tarboro.

Mr. B. B. Sugg went to Kinston this afternoon.

Mr. J. S. Stump went to Norfolk today.

Mr. W. B. Brown went to Norfolk today.

COLORED PEOPLE ACTIVE.

They are Moving to Establish Knitting and Silk Mill.

The colored people here are moving to establish a knitting mill and silk factory in Greenville and their enterprise bids fair to meet with success. They have taken an option on the site of the former Greenville knitting mills and will begin operations there when the company is organized. A meeting will be held in the First Baptist church, colored, on Tuesday night, in the interest of the movement. Several prominent colored men who are leading industrial enterprises among the race in other towns will be present and make addresses. The white people of the community who are friendly to this enterprise are invited to be present. Such a factory as is proposed would give employment to hundreds of people.

Marriage Licenses.

Register of Deeds Moore has issued licenses to the following since last report:

WHITE.

B. F. Sutton and Maggie Adams. Lorenzo Braxton and Maggie Moore. Herbert Shelton and Annie Bullock.

COLORED.

James Carter and Sophia Hodges. Amos Blount and Mary Daniel. James Phillips and Hattie Lang. Mack Jenkins and Ella Taylor.

Cotton Seed.

The present price of 50 cents looks like a big price for cotton seed, but they are worth every cent of it. It's almost astonishing to know the different articles of food that are made from cotton seed. Not so many years ago the farmers sold their seed for 10 cents per bushel and there was not much demand for this product at that price. Just think how we Americans are moving!

Amuzu Theatre.

Tonight the famous Woods will appear in their comedy novelty sketch, "The Night Before Xmas." This act comes highly recommended, having played in all of the leading cities of the south. The electrical effects are said to be beautiful and the music catchy. The act is refined and especially pleasing to ladies and children. Two new reels will be shown. Doors open at 7.15. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

Another Slashed.

In Newtown, a colored settlement in South Greenville, Joseph Daniel had some trouble with somebody Saturday and had to go to D. Moye for repairs. Dr. Moye had to take three stitches in a series cut under the left arm. It is said that a woman did the cutting.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

Greenville Chapter R. A. M. meets tonight for conferring the Royal Arch degree.

The Amuzu Theatre has a new line of vaudeville specialties for this week. Several bales of cotton are coming to market every day now, and the receipts will increase as picking progresses.

Townsend Sells for More Money.

I am having big sales every day and selling for people who have never been in Greenville before and they say that it pays to sell with Townsend. High prices, liberal bidding, by a large corps of courteous buyers, who want tobacco.

Doing a leading business in my second year on one of the state's leading markets makes a fellow feel proud of his business, and you will find me working harder each day to make friends. My sales are making new customers every day, for I am getting them more money than they expect for their tobacco. Come and see my sales and you will sell at The Peoples warehouse.

C. R. TOWNSEND.

Shot Man—Hit Train.

Today Policeman G. A. Clark, of Farmville, brought jail Will Cox, colored, for shooting a Norfolk Southern train at Farmville Friday. Some of the brakemen had been worrying Cox very badly and finally one grabbed his hat and jumped aboard the caboose. Cox shot at the man, missed him but the ball hit the caboose. He was given a hearing and sent to jail to await trial at the next term of court.

One of Its Tricks.

The Reflector's linotype machine got on a week end "jag," Saturday afternoon and much of the local and telegraph news had to be left out. The thing is given to tricks now and then, being so near human that it acts just like it pleases. Maybe it will not try to cut another caper before circus day.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1910.

Just the name of Marion Butler should be enough to turn any man away from the Republican party.

The number of cigarettes in a pack will be reduced from ten to eight to meet the increased tax. That is twenty per cent. less danger in a pack.

The fight is on in the New York Republican State convention this week, and it will be seen what kind of a hand Theodore Roosevelt plays.

If Greenville people do not be up doing to stamp out evils, they themselves will be to blame for conditions that exist here. Public sentiment should become so strong that every near-beer joint, and other evils that reflect upon the town will be rooted out. Agitation has started, and it should be kept up until Greenville is a moral town. The Reflector would suggest that a meeting of the men of the town be called at an early date to perfect a civic righteousness organization and start to work systematically with good leaders to bring about the reforms desired. In this way something can be accomplished quickly.

Judges for Special Terms.

A recent tragedy in Nash county serves to call attention at this time to a needed reform, which, while not necessarily immediate, should on account of the importance of the subject be given much thought. The chief of police of Spring Hope was mortally wounded by a negro whom he was attempting to arrest, and the criminal has been caught and is at present in Raleigh for safe keeping. The citizens of Nash county are reported to be anxious, for obvious reasons, the prisoner be given speedy trial and have petitioned Governor Kitchin to order a special term of court for that purpose. The Governor finds, however, that there is at present not a single occupant of the superior bench available for this duty and consequently the case must wait the regular November term of Nash superior court.

In South Carolina and as we understand in Tennessee, the judicial machinery provides for just such a contingency. Governor Kitchin is limited by law in his selection of a judge to hold a special term of court to one of the sixteen superior court judges, and at the present juncture it is impossible to send one of these to Nash county. Under similar circumstances, Governor Ansel or Governor Patterson would promptly designate some member of the bar whom he knew to be "learned in the law" to act as special judge for that term of court.

The record of the Tennessee Executive with regard to the judiciary of that State tends to emphasize objections which have been made to this particular method of extending court work. Not a few lawyers and laymen fear that this discretionary appointive power would lend itself too readily to abuse in the hands of a governor subject to strong prejudice. An easier and certainly quite as expedient a solution lies in increasing the number of superior court judges in this state. It is widely believed that the sixteen members of this court are the most over-worked of our public officials, and time would not hang heavily upon their hands should room be made for half dozen additional judges. The Nash county episode illustrates a need for some such action.—Charlotte Observer.

Bulletin on Scuppernon Grapes.
The North Carolina Experiment Station has just issued a very important bulletin on self-sterility of the scuppernon and other grapes. The results reported in this bulletin show conclusively that these grapes are self-sterilizing, that is, will not bear normal fruit unless fertilized by pollen from male grape vines. These results were obtained by (1) covering the branches during the bloom season, (2) a study of the germinating flower of the pollen, (3) microscope study of the dry pollen, (4) examination of the structure of the flowers, and (5) the influence of male pollen on the crop.

The second part of the bulletin discusses the application of these results. It deals with the kinds of male vines to plant, where to plant them for best results, and the number of such vines required in a vineyard. It also discusses the influence which weather and pruning have on the yield. One of the most valuable subjects treated is that dealing with the growing of these grapes from seeds.

This bulletin is No. 209 and is for free distribution to residents of North Carolina. It can be had by writing to Director C. B. Williams, Experiment Station, West Raleigh, N. C.

Abolish the Pistol.

Some days ago, a married man, the father of a child, eloped with a girl, who had scarcely fulfilled her third trimester. They started from Chester, Pa., and stopped at Alexandria, Va. The horrible sequel is known to all. The man, manifestly a miserable craven coward, was armed with a pistol. What use had he for the weapon?

He bought that pistol legally in the United States. In England he could not have acquired it at all without running a long and dangerous scrutiny. There the man who sells pistols must have a license that costs much, and he dare not sell a deadly weapon to any customer who has not permission from Scotland Yard to carry it. Even in that event, his name is printed in the advertising columns of the newspapers, thus proclaiming him armed to kill.

It is mostly the fault of the family economy in our country. Last Christmas thousands of fathers gave as presents to their boys toy pistols. In childhood the imagination dominates the reason and the little one argues that the pistol is given him to do execution on an Indian, a robber, or other outlaw.

What is the outcome? The boy, as he enters his teens, is bent on becoming a hero. How? He must kill somebody. The means is at hand, the opportunity is near. All he has to do is to get the price of a pistol, get drunk on mean whisky, meet a man against whom has a grudge, and fall to.

That is why our murders per capita, compared with England's are as 100 to 2.

Abolish the pistol.—Washington Post.

There is just now a great deal of interest in North Carolina in the middle west, where there are not only thousands of former North Carolinians, who have never forgotten their mother state, but great numbers of other people who are for the first time learning something about this state and its possibilities. In nearly every community in North Carolina there are people who have relatives in the West who would like to visit this state. They now have an excellent opportunity to inform these ex-North Carolinians that they can avail themselves of very low rates from Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana, on the 4th and the 28th of October, to come to Raleigh, to attend the home coming jubilee and re-union during the semi-centennial State fair, October 17 to 22nd, the tickets being good for twenty-five days, so there is opportunity also to visit any part of the state. The tickets are known as homeseekers tickets, and to show their cheapness it may be stated that the fare from Cincinnati to Raleigh and return is only $16.30; children under 12 years of age being given half fare. It would be well for people in this section to write their relatives and friends in the West about this opportunity, and urge them to bring some new people to look at this fair state of North Carolina, the land of opportunity.

Cowan charges that both the editor of The News and editor of the Greenville Reflector are "color blind." CATARH GERMS.

Move Out When Hyomei Moves In.
No stomach desing. HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus, taken from the eucalyptus forest of Australia, and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

In inland Australia the atmosphere is so impregnated with balsam thrown out by the eucalyptus trees that germs cannot live, and in consequence catarrh and consumption are unknown. Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same pleasant, healing, germ-killing, air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.

HYOMEI is sold by Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere at $1.00 a complete outfit.

An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. The inhaler will last a lifetime, but bear in mind if you need another bottle of HYOMEI you can get it at druggists for only 50c at any time. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup and throat troubles, or money back. Trial sample of Hyomei free to readers of The Reflector. Address Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

CURIOS COLOR NAMES.

There was Once an Extensive Group of Flea Shades.

"Flea," which was for a long time the name given an exceedingly popular hue, is when translated from the French simply "flea." It appears that the accidental admission of a flea at a court festivity in France and the subsequent discovery and capture of the uninvited guest gave rise to a host of jokes and anecdotes, and so a new color was joyfully named in the insect's honor. Indeed, there was an extensive group of flea shades—old flea, young flea, flea's foot, lively flea and others. Flee, which was a kind of drab, is still familiar to the reading public through its frequent mention in literature, drama and letters of noted personages in the past.

Few of us, however, know anything of the following colors, each of which was a favorite in its day and as familiar to the speech of fashionable ladies and gentlemen as are the cerise, old rose, etc., of our own time. Here is a little list of them:

Marathon blue, drooping poppy, green of the Oreans, triumph of Aspasia, robe of Venus, bridal blush, canary's tail, merry hunter, flying chaff, dolphin about to die, thundercloud, innocent infant, caterpillar brown, fading hope, Cinderella russet, smoke of Vesuvius, penitent hermit, dissolving pearl, Cupid's feather, captain's glory, beautiful savage, ambushed wild beast, rose of Eden, faithful shepherd, weary traveler's shoe, agitated nymph and dream of the beloved one pink-Exchange.

SLIPS IN WRITING.

Curious Blunders Made by Reporters and Correspondents.

Every once in awhile some school-teacher comes forward with a list of ludicrous mistakes made in composition by her infant charges. The following laughable "breaks" were not made by school children, but by newspaper reporters and correspondents. Writing is their business, but they often make ridiculous mistakes in the haste of "catching an edition."

In a story about a mad dog scare on Staten Island the reporter wrote, "Policeman Jones drove the dog into ambush and killed it."

The head of a prominent Wall street house, in telling about the action of the directors of a certain company, was quoted as saying, "It came like a cannon ball out of a clear sky."

The report of the result of a damage suit: "Carminl Carusini was awarded a verdict of $2,000 for injuries received by the jury from the Erie Railroad company."

This from a Brooklyn reporter: "He tried to end his life by suicide."

This one might have been due to an error in typewriting: "The girl was afflicted with typhoid fever."

A correspondent in a small town on Long Island, evidently laboring under great excitement, wired, "Mrs. George K. Blank was the heroine of the holocaust." (She played a garden hose on a burning barn.) In further describing the blaze he said, "The flames swept into furious environment."—New York World.

How Eggs Are Hatched in China.

There is in China a curious method of hatching eggs. First the eggs are placed in tiers in a large basket, twice the size of an ordinary barrel, which is thickly lined with hay and carefully closed from the air by a tight fitting cover of twisted straw. In three days' time the eggs are taken out and replaced in a different order, those at the surface being put in the lower tier. This is repeated every third day for a fortnight, when the eggs are removed from the basket and placed on a shelf in another room, being carefully covered with bran. In a day or two the chickens chip the shells and make their appearance into the world. The success of this method is attributed to the fact that the animal heat of the egg, being retained by the basket, which is formed of material not conducting caloric, is sufficient to support animal life and develop it.—Detroit Free Press.

Thought Once Was Enough.

The Sunday school lesson was from that Scripture which teaches that it your brother strikes you on the cheek you should turn the other also and endure even for seventy times seven. Johnny had listened to his teacher very attentively while she emphasized this fact, and after the lesson the superintendent rose to make a few remarks.

"Now, boys," she said, "how many times ought another boy to strike you before you hit him back?"

"Just about once!" promptly answered Johnny.—Judge.

A Bismarck Story.

Lord Amphill once found Bismarck reading Andersen's story on the "Ugly Duckling," which relates how a duck hatched a swan's egg and how the cygnet was jeered at by his putative brethren, the ducklings, until one day a troop of lordly swans floating down the river saluted him as one of their race. "Ah," observed Bismarck, "it was a long time before my poor mother could be persuaded that in hatching me she had not produced a goose."

The Sacrifice.

Mrs. Riebleigh (scornfully)—I wish you had more brains, Ferdinand, instead of so much money. Ferdinand (unmoved)—I did once, dear, but it took all of them to get the money.—Widow.

The main part is to do with might and main what you can do.—Emerson.

THE WHITE NILE.

Mr. Roosevelt's Description of Night on the Great African River.

We had come down through the second of the great Nyauza lakes. As we sailed northward its waters stretched behind us beyond the ken of vision, to where they were fed by streams from the Mountains of the Moon. On our left hand rose the frowning ranges on the other side of which the Kongo forest lies like a shroud over the land. On our right we passed the mouth of the Victorian Nile, alive with monstrous crocodiles and its banks barren of human life because of the swarms of the fly whose bite brings the torment which ends in death. As night fell we entered the White Nile and steamed and drifted down the mighty stream. Its current swirled in long curves between endless ranks of plumed papyrus. White and blue and red the floating water lilies covered the lagoons and the still inlets among the reeds, and here and there the lotus lifted its leaves and flowers stiffly above the surface. The brilliant tropic stars made lanes of light on the lapping water as we ran on through the night. The river horses roared from the reed beds and snorted and plunged beside the boat, and crocodiles slipped sullenly into the river as we glided by. Toward morning a mist arose, and through it the crescent of the dying moon shone red and lurid. Then the sun flamed aloft, and soon the African landscape vast, lonely, mysterious, stretched on every side in a shimmering glare of heat and light, and ahead of us the great, strange river went twisting away into the distance.—Theodore Roosevelt in Scribner's.

A DUKE'S LOVES.

The Force of the Attacks Were Measured by His Appetite.

In the late eighteenth century a Dr. Moore was tutor to the young Duke of Hamilton of those days, whom he accompanied on the usual continental tour. The duke was then eighteen and was susceptible to feminine charms. He had just fallen a victim to the black eyes of a married lady when Dr. Moore made this report to the youthful peer's mother:

"This is the third passion the duke has had since we crossed the sea. They generally affect his appetite, and I can make a pretty good guess at the height of his love by the victuals he refuses to eat. A slight touch of love puts him immediately from legumes and all kinds of jardinaige. If it arises a degree higher he turns up his nose at fricassees and ragouts. Another degree and he will rather go to bed supperless than taste plain roasted veal or poulets of any sort. This is the utmost length his passion has ever come hitherto, for when he was at the court with Mlle. Marchenville, though she put him entirely from greens, ragouts and veal, yet she made no impression on his roast beef or mutton appetite. He fed plentifully upon those in spite of her charms. I intend to make a thermometer for the duke's passion with four degrees—(1) greens, (2) fricassees and ragouts, (3) roast veal and fowls, (4) plain roast mutton or beef—and if ever the mercury mounts as high as the last I shall think the case alarming."—Argonaut.

Pawning Bank Bills.

"Pawnbrokers don't think much of ten dollar bills as pledges," said the city salesman. "I saw a man pawn one the other day for $6.50. When asked why he didn't spend his $10 instead of soaking it for a little more than half the amount he explained that he wanted to keep that particular bill. Twice before he had tried to keep a certain bill by giving it as security to a friend who had so many bills that he wouldn't need to spend that particular one, but both times the friend got his money mixed and the keepsake was lost after all. This time he depended upon the pawnbroker to tide him over. To pawn money struck me as a very curious proceeding, but the broker assured me that it is frequently done by people who attach a sentimental value to a particular bill or coin."—New York Sun.

His Choice.

"Yes," said the specialist, as he stood at the bedside of the miser millionaire, "I can cure you."

"But what will it cost?" came feebly from the lips of the sick man.

The specialist made a swift mental calculation. "Ninety-five dollars," was his answer.

"Can't you shade your figure a little?" wailed the other. "The undertaker's bid is much less."—Lippincott's.

Kept His Head.

"Miss Gidday," began Mr. Timmid, "I thought to propose"—

"Really, Mr. Timmid!" interrupted Miss Gidday. "I'm sorry, but"—

"That we have some ice cream"—

"Oh, I should be delighted to take"—

"Some evening when the weather is warmer."

Its Purpose.

Howard—That's a bad cough you've got. Do you do anything to cure it? Coward—Nope. It's this cough that wakes our cook in the morning.—Harper's Bazar.

In Boston.

"Say, I'm a stranger in this town. Can you tell me a good place to stop at?"

"Yes, sir. Stop just before the 'at.'"
—Cleveland Leader.

Every man holds in his hand a rock to throw at us in our adversity.—George Sand.

POLICE OF GERMANY.

Privacy of the Home No Bar to Their Far-reaching Authority.

To a foreigner no feature of German life is more striking than the prominence and almost unlimited authority of the police. Many of its functions are such as in the United States would be intrusted only to a court of law. What seems almost equally strange, the greater part of these functions are exercised quite independently of the local government.

The minuteness and thoroughness of the work of the German police are a constant surprise to the foreigner. The policeman not only preserves order in the streets, but exercises a far-reaching authority in private houses. For instance, he undertakes the nightly locking of one's street door at a sufficiently early hour. He sees that one has his chimney regularly cleaned. He inspects at stated times one's stores and heating apparatus, and while he is about it he will look into a few other matters of domestic economy.

One feature of his activity strikes a good many American visitors with favor. In some places slinging and piano playing with open windows are forbidden, and it is a common house regulation in large towns that no pianos may be played after 10 o'clock in the evening. The German policeman is also something of a food inspector in his way, and he keeps a sharp eye on vendors of food and of medicines. It is not an uncommon sight to see a German policeman halt a milkman's wagon and on the spot make an inspection of his wares. Should there prove to be anything wrong with them they are promptly seized and destroyed and the matter is immediately taken in hand by the higher authorities.—New York Press.

A BATHLESS AGE.

For a Thousand Years the People of Europe Went Unwashed.

When Egypt, Greece and Rome were at the height of their ancient power their citizens made bathing a social function, a municipal duty and a religious observance. The public baths of these nations were magnificent architecturally and important as centers of hygienic and municipal sentiment.

With the decadence of these countries the world seems to have reverted to a period of mental sloth and physical uncleanness. As an authority on the matter puts it:

"For 1,000 years there was not a man or woman in Europe that ever took a bath. If the historian of these times, Michelet, is to be believed, The ancient love of the bath seemed to have disappeared from off the land."

"There was no Greece or Rome to hold up the ensign of cleanliness to the nations of Europe. Small wonder that the people of the continent became physical decadents, as indeed they were in spite of tradition to the contrary."

"It is not strange that there came the awful epidemics that cut off one-fourth of the population of Europe—the spotted plague, the black death, the sweating sickness and the terrible mental epidemics that followed in their train—the dancing mania, the mewing mania and the biting mania."

"The bath was banished and filth was almost deified. Indeed, it was then thought that the sanctification of the body was only accomplished when that body was indescribably dirty."—Physical Culture.

An Island of Black Cats.

"The Island of Black Cats" is a name often applied to Chatham Island, one of the Galapagos. It is in the Pacific ocean, about 730 miles west of the coast of Ecuador. It is overrun with black cats, and cats of no other color are seen there. These animals live in the crevices of the lava foundation near the coast and subsist by catching fish and crabs instead of rats and mice. Other animals found on this island are horses, cattle, dogs, goats and chickens, all of which are perfectly wild.

A Startling Reply.

"It is very detrimental to the conversation if you play bridge while talking. A gentleman once entered a room and walked up to a lady who was deeply engrossed in correcting her score. 'How d'ye do, Mrs. So-and-so?' he exclaimed. 'I have just met your children with the nurse. By the way, how many have you got?'"

"The lady looked up and replied, 'Sixteen above and twenty-four below.'"—From "The Confessions of a Bridge Player," by Quilon.

How Stupid!

Mrs. Jones (reading)—It says here that a nautical mile is 6,080 feet and a statute mile is only 5,280 feet. Why is that? I thought a mile was a mile.

Mr. Jones (without looking up from his paper)—Well, a mile is a mile, but a statute mile is measured on dry land, while a nautical mile is measured on the water, and you know most things swell when in water.

Mrs. Jones (resuming her reading)—Why, of course! How stupid!—Ladies' Home Journal.

How It Looked.

"Why don't you eat your caviare?" asked the host.

"Didn't know it was to eat," replied Broncho Bob. "I thought there had been an accident and the cook spilled the bird shot."—Washington Star.

Domestic Bliss.

Mrs. Henpeck (with newspaper)—It says here that buttermilk will extend one's life to over a hundred. Henpeck (wearily)—If I was a bachelor, I'd take to drinking it.—Boston Transcript.

HE ASKED THE TIME.

A Question and Answer That Changed a Clerk's Position.

How many clerks measure up to the standard of the young bookkeeper in this story from Human Life? He was employed in the passenger department of a great railroad. It was just a little before lunch. Some of the clerks were putting on their coats, some leaving for the washroom, some consulting the clock; some were still busy. Suddenly the "boss" entered. He glanced about him and then approached the young bookkeeper.

"What time is it?" he asked. The young man kept on figuring, and the boss put a hand on his desk and repeated the question.

Instantly the other loved up, surprised to see the chief at his elbow. "I beg your pardon, were you speaking to me?" he asked.

"Merely inquired the time—that was all," said the other.

"The bookkeeper glanced about the room, located the office clock and said, 'It's ten minutes to 12.'"

"Thank you," said the general manager and vice president, and strolled out.

That conversation cost the young bookkeeper his place—in the passenger department—and put him under a higher officer "on the firing line." Nine years later he was assistant general manager, and while still in the thirties became a general manager, full fledged.

RAPID STORY WRITING.

A Boast That Dumas Made, a Wager and the Result.

For rapidity of composition the prize among novelists must be awarded to Alexandre Dumas, who died with over 3,000 books to his credit, in all of which he had some share. According to Mr. Arthur P. Davidson, one of his biographers, he often declared that when once he had mapped out in his mind the scheme of a novel or a play the work was practically accomplished, since the mere writing of it presented no difficulty and could be performed as fast as the pen could travel. Some one disputed this; the result was a wager.

Dumas had in his head the plan of the "Chevalier de la Maison Rouge," of which he had not yet written a word, and he made a bet of 100 louis that he would write the first volume of the novel in seventy-two hours. The volume was to be formed by seventy-five large foolscap pages, each page containing forty-five lines and each line fifty letters. In sixty-six hours Dumas had done the work in his fair, flowing hand, disfigured by no erasures—and the bet was won with six hours to spare.—London Chronicle.

Danced in Court.

An unusual scene was once witnessed in a French law court, the civil tribunal at Nantes. The proprietor of a local theater had engaged a young lady dancer, whose performances at rehearsals did not come up to his expectations. He therefore would not let her appear, and the fair dancer took action against him for breach of contract. The defendant alleged that she had not even learned the first steps of her art, and here being a plain issue, the judge determined to decide for himself. A space was accordingly forthwith cleared on the floor of the court, and in these unusual surroundings the young lady duly went through her steps and pirouettes. In the result the judge felt justified in certifying that she was quite an expert dancer and decided the case in her favor. Henceforth she advertised herself as the only dancer in the country with a legal certificate of proficiency.—London Tit-Bits.

Poets and Dogs.

Poets have always loved dogs. In this poets and boys resemble each other. Walter Savage Landor was devoted to his dog Giallo and Byron's epitaph upon his dog Boatswain we all remember:

To mark a friend's remains these stones I never had but one, and there he lies.

Cowper was very fond of his dog, and we know how Charles Lamb, who was a prose poet, loved his Dash and how Mrs. Browning appreciated the little Flush to whom she indited a poem. The Earl of Shaftesbury kept his noble collie in his library with him at all times and Samuel Rogers always walked out with his dog. Scott declined an invitation to dinner when his dog died, saying that he could not accept on account of the "loss of an old friend."—St. James' Gazette.

The Cassowary.

The cassowary is a natural boxer and the only bird, except perhaps the ostrich, whose method of defense and attack in warfare is the forward kick—straight out, like a man—is calculated to arouse envy in the breast of any save a crack athlete. Another peculiarity of this bird is his ability to perform a sort of war dance over any particular object, a bit of rag, a stick or a stone, that attracts his attention.

Varied Views of Marriage.

Marriage is a lottery to the bachelor, an urgent necessity in the opinion of the widower, a delightful temptation to the widow, a habit with a good many.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Good Talker.

Yeast—Did you ever have the acoustic properties of your house tested? Crimsonbeak—Oh, yes; my wife is testing them all the time.—Yonkers Statesman.

No man sympathizes with the sorrows of vanity.—Johnson.

SHE WAS NO SHIRK.

An She Had No Patience With Modern Cooking Methods.

Different persons have varying ideas as to what constitutes a good housekeeper. The ideas held by Mrs. Dana Goodyear were her own and firmly fixed. "I've got nothing to say against those that follow after these modern notions of cooking, like the minister's wife," she remarked one day, "but all I can state is that her ways aren't my ways and never would be."

"She's been to a city cooking school, I hear," said Mrs. Goodyear's visitor, "and does her work all the newfangled ways."

"I presume so," and Mrs. Goodyear's chin took on its firmest expression. "She was telling me yesterday how she could do a morning's baking—bread, cake, pies—and get the regular dinner, too, and only have three bowls and three or four spoons to wash when she's done aside from the dinner dishes. She told me 'twas by cooking school system she did it, planning and rinsing out as she worked, and so on."

"She seemed real proud of it, but it struck me as a pretty slack way of doing kitchen work. There isn't a lazy bone in my body. If I do say it, and when I've done a Saturday's baking I'm safe to say that there's hardly a bowl left on my pantry shelves, and I've got a good hour's work before me right in my kitchen sink where anybody that comes in can see it."—Youth's Companion.

An Easy Comparison.

Uncle Ethan was in a cautious frame of mind. "Which," somebody asked him, "do you think is the worst, a flood or a drought?"

Uncle Ethan scratched his head. "It always depends," he replied. "I should say that a flood was a great deal worse, providing, of course, that there was a flood."—Youth's Companion.

KING OF THE METALS.

The Importance of Iron to the Electrical Industry.

The very root of the electrical industry is iron. Without iron it is doubtful if the larger generators and the mighty motors could be built, for the powerful magnets upon which these inventions depend for their power are all made of soft iron either in the form of thin plates or long wires covered with insulation.

Nearly every one is familiar with the common horseshoe magnet, which is but a piece of steel bent in the shape of a horseshoe and charged with magnetism. When a steel bar of this shape is rubbed against another magnet it is "charged" and will remain so for a long time. The magnets used in electrical machinery are of the induction type—that is, the magnetism vanishes just as soon as the current is taken away from them. If you wind a long insulated wire tightly around a soft iron core and send through this wire a weak current of electricity the core will be instantly possessed of strong magnetic qualities. This fact is the basis of all electric motors and generators. The field coils are usually made of a soft iron core wound with yards and yards of insulated wire. When the current is sent through this wire the soft iron core is turned into a powerful magnet, and this magnetic power is used to drive motors or to generate more electricity.—Electrical Bulletin.

Elephants in Captivity.

The trainer flashed for an instant his dark lantern on the long line of elephants.

"They are asleep," he said. "In captivity elephants always sleep standing."

"Why is that?" the visitor asked.

"They lie down to sleep in the jungle."

"Yes," said the trainer. "I don't know why it is. But you'll never see a captive elephant sleep lying down. Some people say a captive elephant never really sleeps—sleeps sound, I mean—at all. He never has complete confidence, you know. He grieves. He longs to be free. Why, as a matter of fact, this light, standing sleep of his only lasts about three hours at that. All the rest of the night he rocks from side to side in the dark."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hopi Courtship.

When a Hopi maiden decides which of the eligible young men of the tribe she wishes to marry she goes and sits in his house and grinds corn until he is sufficiently impressed by her industry to marry her. After the ceremony, which is an elaborate one, the couple go to live in the wife's house. If she tires of her husband she can obtain a divorce by merely throwing his saddle out of the house. After marriage the house, fields and all their property except the herds belong to the wife.

The Hopis are indulgent parents. The right of the children to do as they please is never questioned.

Odd Way to Rest.

There is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair and, lifting the feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yaww.—Family Doctor.

The Only Trouble.

School Visitor—I hear, my good woman, you have a case of somnambulism in your family. Perturbed Mother—'Tain't no such thing, ma'am. We ain't never had one of them ketching things here. The only trouble is that Mamie walks in her sleep.—Baltimore American.

The Whigs.

In United States history "Whig" denotes those who in colonial times opposed British rule. It is also the name adopted in 1834 by the survivors of the old National Republican party after its defeat by Jackson in 1832. In the opinion of these survivors Jackson was a worse tyrant than George III. had been, and in their revolt against him they took the old name of Whig. The party after gaining several notable victories made way in 1854 for the present Republican party. Whig is a hortened form of "Whigamore," a nickname of the peasantry of the western lowlands of Scotland, derived from "whiggam," a sound used by them in driving their horses.—New York American.
