MUCH RIOTING IN BERLIN.

Fierce Battles Between Police and Striking Miners.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Berlin, Sept. 29.—The situation was tense throughout the city today following a night of violence, when mobs of striking miners raged through the streets and 200 persons were hurt in battles with the police. Mounted troops patrolled the streets today and orders were issued for all residents in the mob districts, where trouble occurs to keep in doors. Some of the wounded were fatally hurt. Harsh criticism was directed at the police today. It was declared that nearly half of those knocked down or stabbed were bystanders who were taking no part in the rioting. Berlin authorities are thoroughly alarmed over the situation.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

State Convention Will Have Two Fights on Hand.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 29.—With a dozen gubernatorial booms to draw from and with Tammany apparently in control of more than two hundred votes out of the total of 450, the Democratic State convention opened here shortly afternoon today. There is a prospect of two bitter fights, one over the selection of a State standard bearer and the other over the direct primary plank in the platform. Tammany favors Edward M. Sheppard. Two other strong candidates are Congressman Sulzer and Havens.
Rochester, Sept. 29.—Alton B. Parker was elected as temporary chairman of the Democratic convention.

COMFORTING THE PRESIDENT.

With Prophecies of Republican Success in Congressional Elections.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Sept. 29.—President Taft today received confidential reports on the outlook for Republican success in the congressional elections. Among the callers today was Representative McKinley, of California, who although defeated in his own district by an insurgent, has been touring the country in the interest of the Republican candidates for congress. Many other prominent leaders called, but nothing was given out as to the tenor of their reports.

AFTER BUCKET SHOP OPERATORS

Post Office Inspectors and Detectives Make Sensational Arrest.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Sept. 29.—Post office inspectors, aided by central office detectives, swooped down on offices of B. H. Sheltels & Co., commission brokers today. Barney Sheltels was arrested on a warrant growing out of the recent bucket shop investigation. Another partner for whom a warrant had been issued escaped. The raid was sensational and was witnessed by several thousands of people. The police had to be called out to restore order.

FATHER KILLS SON.

And Also Attempts the Life of His Daughter.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—John Green Carpenter, living at Oakview, is under arrest today charged with shooting and instantly killing his 13 months old son, and perhaps fatally wounding his wife, who was carrying the baby. He also attacked his 16 year old daughter, but she escaped by jumping from the third story window. He had quarrelled with his wife early in the day.

Chicago Aviator Flies.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Chicago, Sept. 29.—Aviator Kookins started his flight to Springfield, Ill., shortly after 9 o'clock today. His machine was in perfect running order and the aviator sped through the air like a giant hawk. A special train is accompanying him.

Some men live in the country, some in the city, and others just board. The man who isn't proud of being honest is ashamed of being poor.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

The drug store of D. T. Taylor & Company was entered last night between one and two o'clock and about two hundred and fifty dollars worth of goods were stolen, consisting of fountain pens, cigars, cigarettes, perfumery and sodawater checks. The thieves made good their escape and have not as yet been apprehended. —Washington News.

Last night Lee Riggan went possum hunting with a party of his friends and when "ole brother 'possum'" saw them coming he took to the tall timbers. Riggan was determined that he should not escape, so he climbed the tree after him and in his haste, he lost his footing and fell, breaking his leg just above the ankle and bruising his shoulder. He was brought to town in an automobile and taken to the hospital, where his leg was set and his other injuries attended to. —High Point Enterprise.

Fayetteville, Sept. 28.—Well under way is a movement started here yesterday to secure for Major E. J. Hale, of Fayetteville, the appointment to the office of State Auditor, made vacant by the death of Dr. B. F. Dixon, as a result of a meeting of a number of Major Hale's enthusiastic friends held yesterday afternoon, after it became known that he would be a candidate for the place. The movement is well organized and an active campaign in his behalf will be waged if necessary.

Beaufort, Sept. 28.—A million and a half of fat-backs were caught off here today and fishermen who came ashore tonight reported that as far as they could reach the ocean was red with the fish. Nearly 200 men are employed in catching them. The fat-backs, properly called Menhadens are not fit for food, but are dried and manufactured into oils and guano.

Burwell Stuart, colored, shot and mortally wounded his wife, in Northampton county, between Weldon and Garysburg, Sunday evening. The woman died of her injuries Monday night. Burwell came to Weldon Monday morning and went to work at A. C. House's saw mill, in South Weldon. Later in the day he left for parts unknown. Chief Dickens had a warrant for his arrest, but when he went out Stuart was not to be found. Particulars leading to the shooting have not been learned. —Weldon News.

Mr. John V. Sherard, of the Salem church section of Wayne has a hog of his raising, now three years old that measures 7 feet from tip of nose to tip of tail, and is 3 feet high, and Mr. Ben Beans has a pig from him two years old that measures from tip to tip 9 feet 4 inches stands 4 feet high. And now John and Ben are going to have a contest this fall in fattening these hogs up to killing time, to see which can bring his hog up to the heavier weight. This is the kind of competition that makes farmers prosperous. —Mt Olive Tribune.

Raleigh, Sept. 28.—At Garner early this morning an unidentified automobile running at high speed toward Raleigh frightened a pair of mules hitched to a wagon. They ran and Alfred Stevens, well known farmer of Shiloh near Clayton, driving them was caught under the wagon and dragged two miles. He was dead and his body terribly mangled when extricated from

Because a Greensboro man concluded that it was more simple and economical to burn a trash pile in his back yard than to have it carted away he started a fire that caused damage amounting to several hundred, and perhaps a few thousand dollars, this morning. The barn of Mr. C. C. Townsend on Arlington street was destroyed, and the Jewish synagogue, on East Lee street, an hour later was practically gutted. —Greensboro Record.

Son Takes Father's Place.

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—B. F. Dixon Jr., will be appointed to succeed his father, the late Dr. B. F. Dixon, as State Auditor. It is learned on good authority the appointment will be given out tonight. Governor Kitchen is out of town, and the executive office is rather secret about the matter, but it is known the governor drew and signed papers making the appointment before he left town. No call for a meeting of the executive committee has yet been issued.

HORSES ARE HIGH PRICED.

From Shetlands to the Great Percherons, None Are Cheap.

Horses in the West continue to command high prices. There was a speed sale held at Chicago recently at which 471 horses were sold, and the prices paid seemed to the old-time horseman something outrageous, but they all went like hot cakes. Horses from Kentucky with a bit of saddling breeding in them that were anything but good-looking, brought $300 and $400 apiece. The 471 horses sold realized almost $40,000.

An auction sale of Shetland ponies was held under the auspices of the Shetland Pony Association, about a dozen members contributing 100 ponies. These men did not put the pick of their farms in the sale, but notwithstanding this the average price was over $100.

Draught horses are selling still higher, a pair of gray grade Percherons realizing $1,000 a short time ago. These prices hold good all over the country and are not confined to any particular breed of horses. Any useful kind of animal brings much more money than he would have brought years ago, and you cannot look at any of the better individuals of the fashionable breeds without being staggered at the prices asked. A number of polo ponies were sold in New York the other day in the rough and realized exceptionally good prices, and so it is all down the line.

Of course, the automobile is usurping a great deal of the work that is done in the large cities, and has also done away with a tremendous lot of horses for fashionable driving purposes, but this, except in the cases of non-horse people and for those whose business requires rapid conveyance from place to place, will right itself as time goes on.

In England, although the trade in automobiles is booming, a great many ladies are returning to carriages for afternoon calls and for driving in the parks. There has not yet been a marked increase in the purchase of carriages, but this is largely due to the fact that fashionable people have still a variety of conveyances which they have not sold and which they are now beginning to use again.

VACANCY AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Examination to be Held Third Tuesday in April.

Washington, N. C., Sept. 29, 1910. Editor Reflector:

Please announce that there will be a vacancy in the spring of 1911 at the U. S. Naval Academy, and there will be an examination of nominees on the third Tuesday in April, next. I am directed to nominate a principal, and a first, second and third alternate. The candidate must be between the ages of 16 and twenty years at the time of admission. I shall be glad to forward to any young man a pamphlet containing regulations governing admission of candidates. Before any young man decides to make formal application, he should inform himself as to the probability of his being able to stand the mental and physical examinations which are quite rigid. I invite correspondence.

Very respectfully,
JOHN H. SMALL.

His Profits from One Hog $324.45.

W. E. Duke, a Logan county Ok., farmer believes he has made a record in raising hogs. Fourteen months ago he paid $12 for a sow that shortly afterwards brought a litter of nine pigs, three of which were killed for meat and six were sold for $105. From a second litter of nine pigs Durkee sold eight for $116.47, keeping the extra hog. The sow now has a third litter of nine pigs, weighing about fifty pounds each, and worth not less than $4 apiece. Counting the sow's progeny that he did not sell as being worth as much as those that were sold Durkee has received in fourteen months $324.45. The sow has brought him a gross income of $23.17 for each of the fourteen months. —Monroe Journal.

LEG WAS CUT OFF.

Boy Gets in The Way of a Mowing Machine.

Mention was made in Wednesday's paper of a telephone message coming to Dr. Laughinghouse to go out to the home of Mr. F. M. Smith, in Beaver Dam township, to amputate the leg of his son, the only information at the time being that the boy had been caught in a mowing machine.

The boy who met with this misfortune was about 10 years of age. He was out in the field watching an older brother cut hay with a mowing machine, and it was not thought that he was near enough to be in any danger. Going about watching the work, in an unguarded moment he got too near the machine as it was turning and the end of the blade caught his leg above the ankle, cutting the bone in two and leaving the foot hanging by a part of the flesh. Dr. Laughinghouse took the foot off.

WOMAN JUMPS OFF TRAIN.

Strikes Embankment and Breaks Her Neck.

A few evenings ago as the Atlantic Coast Line train from Norfolk was approaching Palmyra, the porter in keeping with the rule, called out the station. A colored woman on the train who was going to Palmyra, without waiting for the train to get up to the station, left her seat, went out the door and jumped off the train. She went head first into an embankment and her neck was broken.

COMPLIMENTS JUDGE WHEDBEE.

Declared One of The Most Able on the Bench.

Of Judge Harry W. Whedbee, who has just held a two weeks' term of civil court in New Hanover county, the Wilmington Star says:

"Judge Whedbee has impressed the members of the bar and all others in attendance upon court, as one of the most able judges who have presided over court in this county, and the rapidity with which he dispatches business is a subject of much favorable comment. Deputy Clerk of Superior court W. H. Harris stated last night that the criminal side of the docket was the nearest clear that he had known it in the five years he has been in the office."

The Strong Man.

Says Asbaugh's Magazine: You've heard of Eugene Sandow, haven't you?

You've never heard of Peter Treeter, have you? Well, Peter Treeter can do everything that Sandow can and then some.

Sandow came to this country about twelve years ago as a vaudeville headliner—lifting cannons, horses, and things. He soon made a fortune and retired to old-world obscurity.

Peter Treeter drove wells for farmers around Indianapolis, chopped down trees, and when business was dull moved a house or two. His feats of strength attracted the attention of some local sports and he did stunts at local burlesque theatres, but his fame never got beyond the county line.

Still he could do all that Sandow could and then some yet at last accounts he was still driving wells. Now, what's the difference between Sandow and Treeter? Answer—Advertising.

WHO ARE TO BLAME?

You sometimes hear men of intelligence, men who really prefer morality to evil, say that "prohibition does not prohibit," and it would be better to return to the dispensary or to bar-rooms than to see liquor sold as it is through blind tigers. This is a strange sentiment for such men to express, and it would be equally as reasonable for them to argue that the laws against murder and stealing and other offenses should be repealed because they do not prohibit the commission of crime and crimes occur regardless of the laws against them. Who are the persons who engage in blind tiger selling of liquor? They are principally a horde of negroes and a few characterless white men. Because these negroes and sorry white men set a law at naught by violating it, will intelligent men give them encouragement in this by saying it is not a good law and should be repealed? If they will think a moment we believe they will see such an attitude is wrong.

Who are responsible that "prohibition does not prohibit? Are they not those same intelligent men, the better class of citizens, even the church members, who know the violations are going on yet take no part in enforcing the prohibition laws? The violations would stop, and that very quickly, if these people would just make up their minds that they should stop. Public sentiment should be so strong behind officials that they would be impelled to do their duty and enforce the law. It is a reflection on a community, or on the state, when the better element of people keep silent and let the class that operates blind tigers set the prohibition law at naught.

A Chinese prince visiting in Philadelphia wanted to take a nap in the day time, but the noise of vehicles on the streets disturbed his slumber. He sent a request to the mayor, and that official immediately ordered all traffic to stop on streets within four blocks of the hotel in which the prince had quarters so that his royal highness would not be disturbed. That was certainly an accommodating mayor.

Government officials of the treasury department are puzzled to know where all the pennies go and why they disappear so rapidly from circulation. Last year 146,000,000 of them were coined, and 100,000,000 are to be coined this year, yet with this large coinage and the many millions already made, there are not enough to be found to meet the demands of trade in making change.

The Pennsylvania railroad has brought up an unpaid transportation bill against ex-President Roosevelt for junketing over its lines while in office, and is insisting on its being paid. If the former president does not pay the bill an effort will be made to get congress to do so.

If the lateness of cotton is going to make it bring a better price, then it is worth while for it to be late.

The president and his cabinet have declared in favor of Governor Hughes for chief justice of the United States Supreme court.

An Example, Mr. Cotton Manufacturer.

Some time men will wake up to the farce of protection. The law of complete free trade between the United States and the Philippines Islands had been in effect just one year on August 1st. During those 12 months our imports from the islands increased 50 per cent.

During the same time our exports to the islands increased 70 per cent. One of the chief articles of export showing this increase is cotton goods, and since the natural demand of that country would be the staples manufacturers of this trade; and since the South principally produces these, it is fair to assume, in the absence of figures, that the South has been the largest gainer.

Yet Republican spell-binders are trying to commit the South to the dead body of protection, and just at a time when the balance of the country is beginning to see its rottenness.—Monroe Journal.

Enforcing the Law.

The police of Lynchburg Va. are now engaged in rounding up dealers in tobacco and cigarettees who have violated the State law which forbids under severe penalty the sale of cigarettees to boys and youths under the age of sixteen years. Four dealers of that city have been reported for violating this statute, and the accused will be prosecuted by the officials Lynchburg's example in this respect is worthy of emulation everywhere. It is an everyday occurrence to see boys of tender years, some of them mere children, puffing away at cigarettees of the ready-made varieties, which have evidently been sold or given to them. The children should be protected as far as possible against their own folly, and it would greatly stimulate the anti-cigarette movement if the parents of small boys would administer castigation upon their young sons who disobey and deceive them and smoke cigarettees surreptitiously.—Salisbury Post.

Got 'Em Bad.

The Portland Oregonian has a real bad case of jimmies over the recent election in Maine and the things elsewhere of a political nature. The Oregonian is a Republican paper and is sick at the craw. In a recent issue it printed this:

What is insurgency?
It is a sort of epidemic which has spread all over the United States.
For what object?
To split the Republican party into two factions.
What is the result?
Thus far the election of Democratic congressmen in districts that have always been safely Republican.
Is the disease spreading?
Read the returns from Maine. "As Maine goes, so goes the Union."
What is the remedy?
There is none. The Democrats are playing both ends against the middle. That party presents a solid front.
Will the next congress be Democratic?
Maybe two to one.
What about Oregon?
The worst duck in the puddle.
Will Oregon elect a Democratic governor in November?
Possibly.
How about congressmen?
We are worried. But what's the use?
There is no Republican party in Oregon.
What has become of the party that

Remarkable Violin Test.
An ingenious test of old and new violins, in which an instrument of modern make was voted the finest, has been made in Paris. During the performance both critics and performers were in complete darkness, so that it was impossible to see which one of the seven violins selected for the test was being played. Then immediately after being used the instrument was placed under a cloth, and the lights were turned on for a few moments to enable the critics to write down the votes. All the violins were played by two musicians of high standing, and the compositions were written especially for the test. The two violinists tried to bring out the best in each violin, and the result, decided by the votes, was interesting. The modern make of violin led the list with 102 votes, and its nearest rival for favor was a Stradivarius with 96 votes. Other old and famous makes of violins received 82, 85, 83, 82 and 80.—London Telegraph.

Tender Hearted Maid.
Once upon a time there lived a child of gentle mien and manners mild; she was so tender and so kind she wept to see window blind. She feared it might give the window pain to leave it standing in the rain. Her maiden aunt she would beg not to stone raisins, beat an egg, or from potatoes take the eyes. Oh, how this maid did agonize! And when she saw her whipping cream with horror she would sob and scream. The very thought of killing time appeared to her a dreadful crime, and, though to music she inclined, to beat a measure seemed unkind. To see the cowslip by the river with apprehension made her shiver; to cut a page or turn it down would cause a deprecating frown. And when she saw them shivering in the chill autumn air she knitted stockings for the trees because their limbs were bare. Her heart so oft with anguish wrung caused this poor maid to die quite young.—Widow.

Sensitive to Art.
Said the art gallery guide, "Just watch the crowd awhile and see which of their antics impresses you most." Presently the visitor said, "I think it is the queer attitudes so many of them strike."
"Exactly," said the guide. "They are imitating the poses of the figures in the portraits. Anybody who sits for a portrait is supposed to strike a graceful attitude. All these people who have never been painted realize the grace there is in the pose of the head, the turn of the wrist, the slope of the shoulders. They wish they could look like that, and unconsciously they try it. The men are as bad as the women. They straighten up; they droop; they tilt their heads; they arrange their hands and feet in imitation of the figures they admire most. Sometimes their attempts are very clever; again they are simply ridiculous."—New York Times.

The Waiting Championship.
An Atchison woman who looks for good in everything is glad she married. "It has taught me patience," she said. When a girl she flew into a temper if she had to wait five minutes for something she wanted, but now she waits and waits and waits and says nothing. She waited nine years for her new front porch, six years for her husband to take her to the theater and eleven years for him voluntarily, when there was no company around, to offer her a rocking chair. "This," she said recently to a friend who heard she was sitting up half the night waiting for her husband to come home, "is nothing. I can wait longer and say less about it than any woman who ever lived. I am glad I married; otherwise I could never claim the waiting championship belt."—Atchison Globe.

Work of the Beavers.
The formation of the plateau on which Dubois is built is a matter of great curiosity. Beavers are responsible for it. Long before the white men saw that section of Pennsylvania beavers built a huge dam in a well set valley. Year by year the stream washed rich mud into the dam, and when the body of water was destroyed 640 acres of land flat as a table top were left. On this stands Dubois.—Altoona Tribune.

His Hardships.
"I suppose," said the kind lady as she handed the husky hobo a generous wedge of apple pie, "that your lot is full of hardships?"
"Dat's de proper word fer it, ma'am," replied the h. h. "In de winter w'en de farmers ain't doin' nothin' but eatin' apples an' drinkin' hard cider it's too cold fer me to be trampin' aroun', an' in de summer people's allers offerin' me work."—Chicago News.

Wanted It Matched.
Mrs. Pride—Jimmy, dear, would you mind doing an errand for me today?
Mr. Pride—What is it? Mrs. Pride—The cook says we won't have enough chicken for dinner, so I wish you would take this bird down to the shop and see if you can get it matched.—London Mail.

Extravagant Economy.
Economy often consists in doing without something you want now in order to get something you don't want in the future.—Atlanta Journal.

A Deep One.
Doting Mother—Tell me, professor, is my son a deep student? Professor (dryly)—None deeper, ma'am. He's always at the bottom.

Gravity is the ballast of the soul, which keeps the mind steady.—Fuller

Bringing Her Round.
Bingo (knocking into his wife's room, in a whisper)—I've brought three friends home to dinner unexpectedly.
Mrs. Bingo (aghast)—What?
Bingo—Yes, I have. They're down stairs.
Mrs. Bingo—You wretch!
Bingo—Now, my dear, I couldn't get out of it.
Mrs. Bingo (haughtily)—Then you'll have to take the consequences.
Bingo—But—
Mrs. Bingo—You'll have to put up with practically nothing.
Bingo—That's what I told them.
Mrs. Bingo—You did?
Bingo—Yes. I told them that they needn't expect a single thing; that we'd scrape round in the kitchen if necessary and pick up whatever we could and that, as I hadn't let you know, that was the best we could do.
Mrs. Bingo—What did you tell them that for?
Bingo—It's the truth, isn't it?
Mrs. Bingo—Certainly not. As if it makes any difference to how many friends you bring home! I'll show you!—London Tit-Bits.

Little Known Republics.
Within the domain of the United States on the North American continent there have been divers independent republics, says Mary W. Hazeltine in Harper's Magazine, the very name of three of which is known to but a few. How many Americans of today have heard, for example, of the commonwealth of Watanga, which in 1772 was organized as an independent community by North Carolinians who had crossed the Alleghenies and, descending into the basin of the Tennessee, had made themselves homes in the valley of the Watanga river? How many remember the commonwealth of Transylvania, which was organized in the eastern part of what is now Kentucky in 1775 and which sent to the Continental congress a delegate, who, however, was not admitted? How many have heard of the short lived state of Franklin, or Frankland, which at a somewhat later period was self created out of certain western counties of North Carolina?

A Remarkable Concert.
A Carlsbad letter calls attention to a remarkable concert which took place at the Spa on Aug. 6, 1812, a program of which is still preserved in the city archives at that place. The entertainment was given for the benefit of the sufferers by the fire which had laid waste Baden and took place at the Saechsicher Saal. The only performers were Beethoven and Polledro, who played their own compositions. There were two pianoforte and two violin solos and several numbers in which both took part, says the writer. The account of the entertainment also mentions the fact that one of the interested listeners was a "tall, elderly man, wearing a great blue coat, who sat perfectly erect throughout the performance, never looking anywhere but at the stage. This was Goethe." The amount realized for the fund was about $200. The letter ends with, "Beethoven at the piano for clarity and box receipts $200."

A Dog's Tongue.
Have you ever wanted to know why a dog's tongue lolls out of his mouth on a hot day or when he has been running? People sometimes say that it is because he is thirsty, but that isn't exactly right. If you look at it you will see little drops of water dripping from it. Well, you know that when you get very warm you get covered with perspiration. The dog's body never perspires. When he gets hot all the moisture comes out through his tongue, and as the moisture on the tongue dries up the dog's body cools.—Philadelphia Press.

How He Took It.
"In training," said an instructor in athletics, "the strictest obedience is required. Whenever I think of the theory of training I think of Dash, who, after eighteen years of married life, is one of the best and happiest husbands in the world."
"Dash," I once said to him, "well, Dash, old man, how do you take married life?"
"According to directions," he replied.

The Sixth Sense.
In a primary school examination over which I once had the pleasure to preside one of the questions was with regard to the five senses. One of the bright pupils handled the subject thus: "The five senses are sneezing, sobbing, crying, yawning and coughing. By the sixth sense is meant an extra one which some folks have. This is sneezing."—Woman's Home Companion.

Merely a Question of Comfort.
"Now, doctor," complained a libulous patient, "my great trouble is elephants—lak ones. Not that I object to elephants, you understand. I like them, but they do crowd me so."—Success Magazine.

Kindness.
Kind looks, kind words, kind acts and warm handshakes, these are secondary means of grace when men are in trouble and are fighting their unseen battles.—Dr. John Hall.

Hearing the Silence.
Little Phyllis was at a concert. The leader rapped, and the buzz of conversation ceased. "Oh, mamma," exclaimed Phyllis, "listen to the bush!"—Exchange.

There is always room for a man of force, and he makes room for many.—Emerson.

The National Flag.
The first display of the national flag at a military post was at Fort Schuyler, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y. The fort was besieged early in August, 1777. The garrison was without a flag, so one was made according to the prescription of congress by cutting up sheets to form the white stripes, bits of scarlet cloth for the red stripes, and the blue ground for the stars was made from a piece of the blue cloak belonging to Captain Abraham Swartwout of Dutchess county, N. Y. This flag was unfurled over the fort on Aug. 3, 1777.
The national flag was first unfurled in battle on the banks of the Brandywine Sept. 11, 1777. The flag was first hoisted over a foreign stronghold June 28, 1778, when Captain Rathbone of the American sloop of war Providence captured Fort Nassau, on the Bahama islands. Captain Paul Jones was the first man to display the American flag on an American vessel. This flag was made by the women of Portsmouth, N. H., for the Ranger, which was fitted out at that port for Captain Jones. The Ranger sailed from Portsmouth on Nov. 1, 1777.

Buried Landscapes.
One of the most curious results of geological exploration is the discovery of "buried landscapes," by which is meant parts of the former face of the earth now covered under later deposits, but yet retaining so many of their original features that the geologist can ideally reconstruct the scenes that would have been presented to the eye of man if he had been present among them. Sometimes buried landscapes exist in countries now densely inhabited. Investigation has shown that one lies beneath the region in England known as Charuwood forest. The rocky projections seen there are the peaks and aretes of a buried mountain chain belonging to the old red sandstone period. Several different phases in the history of this landscape have been traced. At one time it contained salt lakes and desert expanses. In its modern form it is a pastoral region, with barren, stony tracts and rocky eminences where the ancient mountains project through the soil.—Detroit Free Press.

Where Ears Grow Sharp.
A French balloonist has recorded the clearness with which sounds coming from the surface of the ground can be heard at a high altitude. At the height of 5,000 feet the ringing of horses' hoofs on a hard road was clearly audible. At 4,000 feet the splashing sound made by ducks in a pond was heard. The barking of dogs and the crowing of cocks could be heard at seven or eight thousand feet. These sounds penetrated through a white floor of cloud that hid the earth from sight, says Harper's Weekly. In the perfect silence of the air the investigator was startled by what seemed stealthy footsteps close at hand. It was ascertained that this noise was caused by the stretching of the ropes and the yielding of the silk as the balloon continued to expand.

A Synonym.
"Being a printer, Mr. Dash," said the hotel proprietor, "maybe you can advise me. I want to get a sign painted, 'Writing Room Free to Our Patrons,' or something like that."
"I don't like 'patrons,'" said Mr. Dash.
"No? Maybe that doesn't sound just right. What would you suggest?"
"Victims."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Lucky One Way.
Jackson—Your daughter plays on seven instruments? Man, you're lucky.
Grouche—I often think so—when I consider the number of instruments there are.—Chicago News.

The Right Solution.
The reason why newly wedded men are called "Benedicts" is because they are supposed on marriage to give up all the bad habits to which they have "benedicted."—Lippincott's.

Ambition is but avarice on stilts and masked.—Laudor.

GOLDSBORO HEARD FROM

A Lady Who Lives in Goldsboro Joins in the Chorus of Praise for Cardui, The Woman's Tonic.

Goldsboro, N. C.—"A physician treated me for many distressing symptoms," writes Mrs. Etta A. Smith, "but gave me no relief.

"I suffered with neuralgia around the heart and was troubled at times with my head. I had pain in my left side, bowels, left thigh, shoulders and arms.

"After taking Cardui, I am now well and can recommend it to other suffering women."

Just such doubtful symptoms, as those from which Mrs. Smith suffered, are the ones for which it will pay you to take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

It is at such times, when there is nothing to show, for certain, the real cause of the trouble, that you need a tonic, to give the body strength to throw off the illness that evidently threatens.

Take Cardui, when you are ill, with the ailments of your sex. Take Cardui as a tonic, to prevent illness, when you feel it coming.

Your druggist keeps it.

The Lions and the Roses.

"An admirer in my younger days," said a woman lion tamer, "once sent me a bouquet of red roses, and I wore them in the ring to do my act. They came near doing for me. I had got my eight lions arranged in their pyramid when the lion at the top saw the red roses in my corsage. He mistook them for meat—lions have poor sight—and down he leaped. He came for me open mouthed. Though I fired a blank cartridge in his face, he made with his paw a sweep at the roses that ripped me open from chin to waist. The other lions bounded forward. They weren't angry. They were hungry. I had intelligence enough to perceive that, and just as they were leaping on me I tore off my roses and threw them across the ring. The big brutes left me at once, and while they sniffed the roses with disappointed growls I staggered out of the iron door. I was young at the time, young and light headed, or I'd have known better than to wear anything red among hungry and nearsighted lions."—Buffalo Express.

A Coin in the Sea.

A coin dropped into the sea will sink to the bottom, however deep it is, owing to the fact that the metal is heavier than the volume of water it displaces. It is a common but mistaken notion that the density of the sea increases with its depth and consequent pressure, as does the density of the atmosphere, which we all know is greatest at the earth's surface. The air, however, like all gases, is elastic and when under pressure (as with its own weight) shrinks in volume and gains in density. Water, on the other hand, is absolutely incompressible, and, although the pressure in the sea increases at the rate of one pound for every two feet we descend, the density of the water remains the same; consequently the penny continues to outweigh the water it displaces, and the coin sinks until it finds a solid resting place. The pressure of the water has no influence at all on the coin, acting as it does on all sides equally.

Decline of the Mustache.

Permission to wear a mustache was eagerly sought after in the middle of the last century. But now the virile decoration is discarded. Why? In those old days the Bank of England would not allow its employees to wear it and issued an order which might have come more appropriately from a bank of Ireland. It was to the effect that the mustache was not to be worn in business hours! A large drapery firm in London objected not only to the mustache, but to hair parted down the middle. There is more tolerance now. Men look younger when clean shaved. They are also more readable without the protection given by the mustache to the upper lip. If hearts can be worn on sleeves thoughts can be read on upper lips. But is it always wise to leave the legend unhidden? Men seldom like to be divined, as La Rochefoucauld remarked once and for all time.—London Express.

An Old Alarm Clock.

At Schramberg, in the Black forest, there is a respectable alarm clock that warned sleepers it was time to get up when Charles I. was king of England. This was made in 1680, and it is deemed a remarkable piece of workmanship. In form it resembles a lantern wherein is a lighted candle, the wick of which is automatically clipped every minute by a pair of scissors. The candle is slowly pushed upward by a spring, which also controls the mechanism of the clock, and at the required hour of waking an alarm is sounded, and at the same time the movable sides of the lantern fall, and the room is flooded with light.

A Spurned Gift.

A charity expert was discussing promiscuous almsgiving. "Promiscuous giving," he said, "is money thrown away. Nothing should be given to beggars except work. A friend of mine said the other day to a beggar: "I can't give you any money, my poor fellow, but if you call at my house I'll give you plenty of work." "Thanks," the beggar answered, "I've got plenty of that at home."

Conscience.

"On what grounds do you desire to withdraw the plea of 'not guilty?'" "On the simple ground that we are guilty. However, we must call the attention of your honor to the regrettable fact that the statute of limitations lets us out. Too bad we were not asked about this matter earlier."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Very Good Man.

"He's forever prating about what his conscience tells him. What does his conscience tell him, anyway?" "It usually tells him apparently what awful sinners his neighbors are."—Philadelphia Press.

The public service corporations are re-assessed only every four years, except for improvements, this being an off assessment year.—News and Observer.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Sept. 29.—Cotton opened today easier with November 15 points lower and other months from 1 to 8 points lower. Poor cables were mainly responsible. Much apprehension has been felt over the strike and lockout of textile workers at Manchester. Later cables were optimistic and there was a good buying rally which became general. Opening: September 13.45; October 13.46; November offered 13.42; December 13.58; January 13.60.

New York, Sept. 29.—Gains ranging from fractions to one point were scored in almost every active issue at the opening of the stock market today. A fractional clearing of state political conditions, prominent brokers declared, was the cause of the upward trend. Other advances are looked for when the Democratic convention at Rochester comes to a close. Strong tone was displayed all through the market and considerable trading was indulged in. Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific were leaders among railroad shares and amalgamated copper and Western Union in industrials.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—The wheat market opened today higher on unexpected higher cables. Corn started steady to 1-8c lower. Oats opened a shade higher with wheat. Provisions were higher with light offerings. Opening: September wheat 98 1-8; corn September 52 1-4; oats 32 1-2; pork January 17.25.
