INTERESTING LETTER FROM MEXICO

MISS LAURA COX WRITES OF HER WORK THERE

MISSIONARY SCHOOL AT GUAYMAS

This Pitt County Woman Sends Greetings to Her Friends at Home—Interesting Notes on Life and Habits Across The Borders in The Mexican Country.

Guaymas, Mexico, Oct. 26, 1910. Dear Reflector:

Many times have my thoughts gone back to dear old Pitt since I left its borders. "There is no place like home," has been so truly said. I have been trying to get time to write to you for more than a week, but every minute has its place on a missionary field.

I have found the Mexican people in Guaymas a very progressive people. They live here very much like they do in the States. I'll say for the benefit of the ladies, that they, too, wear puffs, rats, etc., in their hair. That was one of the first things I noticed with the women. They do not wear hats very much. Some of the girls do, but most all the older women wear silk scarfs of bright colors and black. Their clothing is very much like our own.

Now for the benefit of the men, let me say that we have a goodly number of "dudes" while there are others who dress like most American men. Very few wear the Sombrero (the large spiral shaped crown) that they have so common in the interior.

The natives as a whole seem to be what we would call the second class, however we have some very intelligent families. One patron of our school is a doctor and seems to know his profession very well indeed. We have other wealthy families represented. The line between the rich and poor is very distinctly drawn, which of course is very unfortunate.

We opened school October 3rd, with forty-one pupils, we now have seventy two. This to us is very encouraging. We have many bright hopes for the future.

Our home is on the gulf of Doan, California, so you see we get the gulf breezes all the time. For once in my career I am sleeping with the starry heavens as my blanket. A goodly number of the Mexicans sleep on the top of their houses, but I thought may be it would be a little risky for me to do that, so I am sleeping in the upper porch. The days are oppressive at times, but most of the nights are delightful. Just think of seeing flowers all the year.

Some of my friends have asked me about the fruit. No, we are not in the midst of the fruit belt, but we are close enough to get it when we want it. That is one of the blessings we have. I said once, but not the only one, no, not by any means, for they are numberless.

Oh, I must tell you about our "outing" on the Pacific. There is a missionary and his wife by the name of "Marrs," living in the building with us (that is one of the greatest blessings I have, for they are lovely to me) and on October 5th, they chartered a boat and took us out for a sail. What a treat! My, it was perfectly glorious to sail on the bosom of such a mighty body of water. We crossed the bay, went out to a rock cave and while there gathered star fish. After spending about an hour there we sailed around the point and went over to a bank and gathered some of the most beautiful coral and shells I have ever seen.

The time came all too soon to return, so we very reluctantly sailed homeward. On our way home Mr. Marrs and I fished. He and I made a bargain which was, he was to catch the fish and I was to cook it and his wife to be the guest. The bargain was all there was to it tho, for we did not get a bite. I had the pleasure of seeing him try, just the same. On the whole we enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

The people here are very anxious to have their children learn English, so I am trying to teach that while I am learning their language. It's a difficult task tho, at times for the dear little boys and girls know only their native tongue, and I in turn know only mine. However, we talk by signs and pictures and in that way learn a few things. I have one boy who did not know one word of English and before the close of the third day was saying, "May I get water," "may I get knife," etc. Now what do you think of that?

Well, I hope I have not wearied you for the first time and I shall try to give you something more interesting next time.

Your missionary,
LAURA COX.

CHANGE OF NORFOLK SOUTHERN SCHEDULES

New Night Service Between Norfolk and Goldsboro.

The management of the Norfolk Southern Railroad announce the inauguration of daily Pullman sleeping car service between Goldsboro and Norfolk, with the first car leaving Norfolk 9 p. m. Sunday, Nov. 6th, and first car leaving Goldsboro 10.15 p. m. Monday, the 7th. These cars will be operated on night express Nos. 5 and 6 between Norfolk and Chocowinity; new trains Nos. 15 and 16 between Chocowinity and Goldsboro, arriving Goldsboro 6.30 a. m., connecting with all lines, and arrive at Norfolk at 7.30 a. m. Night express train No. 6, at present leaving Raleigh at 9 p. m., will leave 9.15 p. m. and arrive at Norfolk at 7.30 a. m. Night express train No. 5 at present leaving Norfolk at 9.30 p. m., will leave at 9 p. m. and arrive at Raleigh at 7.30 a. m. Trains Nos. 1 and 2 between Norfolk and New Bern, will be operated upon a fast schedule, stopping between Norfolk and Edenton only at Elizabeth City and Hertford. Train No. 1 will leave Norfolk daily at 11 a. m., arrive New Bern at 5.15 p. m., arrive Goldsboro 8 p. m., arrive Raleigh 8 p. m. Train No. 2 will leave New Bern as at present and arrive at Norfolk at 3.35 p. m. in time to make connection to Richmond and all points west. Train Nos. 1 and 4, between Norfolk and Edenton and return, will be reserved and operated daily from Norfolk to Edenton, leaving Norfolk at 8.35 a. m., arrive Edenton 11.30 a. m., leave Edenton 2.50 p. m. and arrive at Norfolk at 5.45 p. m. in time to connect with all trains.

Beaufort division train No. 1, at present leaving Beaufort at 4.50 p. m., will leave Beaufort at 4 p. m., arrive at Goldsboro at 8 p. m.

With the schedule change announced, the Norfolk Southern will have two sleeping car lines on between Raleigh and Norfolk and New Bern and Norfolk; three passenger trains each day between Norfolk and Edenton, Raleigh and Washington and Goldsboro and Washington, via New Bern, with two passenger trains each day between Raleigh and New Bern.

Management of Poultry.

A bulletin on the feeding and management of poultry for egg production has just been prepared by Prof. J. S. Jeffry, poultryman, and issued by the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station.

At present, probably three to four million dollars worth of eggs are produced annually by the poultry of the State. On account of this and the steadily increasing price of poultry and eggs, poultry keeping is attracting more attention now than possibly ever before. As this bulletin gives information that should be of practical value in poultry feeding and management, every progressive poultry raiser should secure a copy of it.

It discusses the kinds of stock best suited for profitable egg production as well as their proper housing and care. The breeding up of heavy laying strains is also dealt with in such a way as to develop material of value to all those interested in this branch of live-stock growing.

A comparison is made of different rations, both as regards the cost of egg production and the best development of the stock.

The importance of cleanliness and of keeping the house free from mites is also brought out and recommendations are given.

Any poultry raiser in North Carolina may receive a copy of this bulletin (No. 21) free by addressing Director C. B. Williams, West Raleigh, N. C.

AN HEIRESS ALWAYS MISSES GREAT JOY

Although She Has Everything Money Can Buy.

I suppose it is a matter of temperament—the amount of enjoyment one finds in the possession of money and the things it brings with it, says the author of "The Autobiography of an Heiress" in The Delineator. I do not think I ever cared very much—certainly not for very long.

My cousin used to tell me that I said so only because I had everything I wanted before I knew I wanted it, and so far as outside things are concerned, that was true enough. I did live—and may still live—in a charming house; I have been able to afford myself the surroundings that please me. To wear "purple and fine linen and fare sumptuously every day, like the accursed rich man in the Bible, is no novelty;—only, though I confess to a preference for pretty clothes I should infinitely rather have a chop on a tray than any elaboration of cookery.

I could, and can, fill my ears with music and my eyes with beautiful sights; be luxuriously warm in winter and cool in summer; chase climate and scenery round and round the globe from year's end to year's end if I choose, but, upon my word, I have often felt that I should have been happier living in two rooms with a nice old servant to look after me. At all events, I'd have been freer. The only thing I should have missed would have been the power to help people—so far as they would let me—without thinking twice about it; and I dare say any one else in my place would have done it better!

TODAY'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

Crisis in The French Cabinet—Chicago Officials Sent to Grand Jury—Police Taken Off Wagons in New York—New York Tenement Fire—Rebaters Face Indictment in Toledo.

By Cable to The Reflector. Paris, Nov. 2.—Premier Briand today tendered his resignation of cabinet to President Fallieres. The country now faces a ministerial crisis as the result of socialist attacks upon the government following the railroad strike. Briand was forced to abandon his office by assaults of socialists who declared he had betrayed them. The present cabinet was formed July 24th, 1909. Socialists who rejoiced when Briand was chosen premier were jubilant today. For his work in crushing disorders during the recent strike he had been branded as a traitor to party tenets. Briand will probably be asked to form a new ministry.

Officials Sent to Grand Jury. By Wire to The Reflector. Chicago, November 2.—Judge Bruggermer today held Frank B. Harriman, Charles B. Ewing and John M. Taylor for the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each on the charges of defrauding the Illinois Central railway out of $1,500,000 through a car repair swindle. The three men formerly were high officials of the railway. They owned stock in the car repair company which did work for railways and sent in padded bills.

Police Taken Off Wagons. Strikers Say No More Men Will be Called Out. By Wire to The Reflector. New York, Nov. 2.—By order of officials the police were removed from express wagons. Hereafter mounted police will accompany the wagons to prevent disorder, but will have nothing to do with handling them. This order was made in response to the demand of the teamsters who threatened to call out all drivers in the city, if the police were not taken off the wagons. The strikers are encouraged by this action and say no more men will be called out.

NEW YORK TENEMENT FIRE. Heroic Work of a Brave Boy in Making Rescue. New York, Nov. 2.—Men were overpowered and women and children struck with their fists and kicked as they tried to get down the fire escapes of a five-story tenement house to escape from fire this morning. When the fire began there was a mad rush for the fire escapes. One boy, however, in bare feet climbed the steps to the floor above where there was a family of five and awoke them, carrying out two children.

REBATEES FACE INDICTMENTS. Bill Has Many Counts Carrying Heavy Penalties. By Wire to The Reflector. Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 2.—The Federal grand jury which has been considering the charge of rebating, today returned an indictment of 28 counts against the Haching Valley Railroad and an indictment on more counts against the Sunday Creek Coal Company. The penalty for each count is from $1,000 to $20,000. The case is regarded as one of the most important ever brought under the interstate commerce law.

Moved. We have moved from where we were to where we are, where we will be when not elsewhere. When here we will hear your wishes regarding The Mutual Life Insurance Company, of N. Y. BENTLEY HARRISS, Manager Greenville District. Next door to Taft & VanDyke's.

GREENVILLE'S PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS ITEMS

The People Who Come and Go on Our Trains.

Mr. O. B. Bowling, who has been sick with fever since July, is able to be up some and was out driving today.

Miss Lalla May Willis, of New Bern, who has been visiting Miss Mary Smith returned home today.

Rev. J. R. Edwards, of Sanford, who has been spending a few days here, returned home today.

Messrs. B. C. Pearce and Carey Warren went to Grifton today.

Mr. Albion Dunn went to Scotland neck today.

Best-Forbes. Mrs. Alfred Forbes requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter Mabel Glenn to Mr. William L. Best Wednesday evening, Nov. sixteenth, nineteen hundred and ten at nine o'clock Jarvis Memorial church Greenville, North Carolina. No cards issued in town.

Go to The Feast. The ladies of the Episcopal church will serve oysters, chicken salad, etc. Thursday night in the building formerly occupied by Messrs. H. B. Harris and E. H. Shelburn, next door to the Amuzu Theatre. They should have a liberal patronage. 113

Moved Their Offices. Mr. H. B. Harriss, district manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. and Mr. E. H. Shelburn, broker, have moved their office a few doors further down the street and are now next to Taft & VanDyke. They are nicely fitted up in their new quarters.

Dr. Hyatt Coming. Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha, Monday and Tuesday, November 7th and 8th, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses. 61227

CO-OPERATION IS ASKED. Captain Brown Requests Masters of Vessels to Keep Informed. A circular letter has just been issued by Capt. Earl I. Brown, in charge of the United States Engineer office here, asking that masters of vessels on the various streams in this district keep the engineer office informed as to navigation conditions on the streams on which their vessels are operated.

It is desired to know if for any reason boats are not making regular trips the location of any known important obstructions or shoals, etc., so that if practicable the engineer department will remedy the conditions complained of.

The engineer office desires to maintain a continuous and uninterrupted navigation on the streams under improvement in this district and any information relative to difficulties in navigating, etc., will be appreciated by that office.

The streams mentioned particularly in Captain Brown's circular are the Tar River, Fishing Creek, Contentnea Creek, Neuse river, Northeast river, Black River and Cape Fear above Wilmington.

This is a matter in which all persons interested in vessels should keep in mind, and their co-operation with the engineer department will be a help.

Those in the vicinity of New Bern should communicate with Mr. Harry T. Paterson, assistant engineer at that place; and those in the vicinity of Wilmington should communicate with Mr. Robt. C. Merritt, assistant engineer at that place.—Wilmington Star.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC. Mayor Closes All Public Places of Meeting. By Wire to The Reflector. Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 2.—With 20 persons already dead and about 45 dying from a sweeping epidemic of a violent form of smallpox, Mayor Stevens has issued a proclamation closing all theatres, schools, churches and other public meeting places. There were two deaths yesterday and nine new cases were reported.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1910.

Roosevelt is not helping his party in New York much more than Butler is in North Carolina.

It is not an easy thing to make New Yorkers swallow the claim of Republican prosperity when they look at those thousands of striking teamsters and laborers.

A man shows how low he can get in the scale of decency when he slanders a dead man. In a speech at Concord, Saturday, Marion Butler said things about the late Dr. B. F. Dixon that led Rev. Plato Durham, a step-son of Dr. Dixon, to go to Butler and tell him he would have to apologize or take a thrashing Butler was quick to apologize.

Characteristics of Infantile Paralysis.

But of what nature is the disease infantile paralysis, or acute anterior poliomyelitis? It is an infection characterized by inflammation especially of motor neurones in the anterior horns of the spinal cord, though the medulla and pons above and even the cerebrum may be involved. A very sufficient definition is that of Drs Chapin and Pisk: "It is an acute inflammatory process taking place in the anterior horns of the spinal cord, accompanied by a complete paralysis of various groups of voluntary muscles, followed by a rapid wasting of the affected muscles." The motor neurones are the nerve or ganglion cells (telegraph stations, at it were), concerned in muscle development and muscular movements; in this disease these neurones, if the inflammation proceeds without arrest, degenerate, liquefy and shrivel up; the nerve fibres emanating from them and which in health convey their messages to the given muscles, degenerate and atrophy. This process may go on to complete destruction of these precious tissue elements; or it may happily be arrested at any stage. If checked early, repair may ensue, and the neurones, with their fibres (their telegraph wires), will regain fairly well their normal condition and function. If unfortunately the inflammation is progressive, the size and shape of the spinal cord at the points involved are contracted and pathologically so altered that the muscles concerned become paralyzed atrophic, degenerated and incapable of their proper and normal function. When recovery does take place these muscles are apt to remain small, perhaps throughout lifetime.

The little patients suffer also retarded bone growth, deformity of the joints involved, "dropfoot," sometimes lateral curvature of the spine, sluggish circulation, and generally impaired body nutrition. From 9 to 15 per cent of these patients die; and three-fourths of those stricken who survive are more or less crippled for life. The disease is generally acute, and by far the greatest number of its victims are infants and children from one to five years of age—though not all; deaths from infantile paralysis at sixty and sixty-three have been recorded. The outbreak is thus fairly good as to life, yet the severity and fatality of the infection accurate widely in various epidemics and localities; and, taking it all in all, infantile paralysis is sufficiently disastrous and melancholy to give the medical profession anxious consideration, as it should give the public grave concern.—American Review of Reviews

Prices Here and Abroad.

While in consequence of good average crops except cotton, the prices of cereals have declined, the general average of the prices of all necessities was only one-fifth of the percent. lower on October 1st than on September 1st. Bradstreet's index number shows that the average price of commodities on October 1st is the highest ever recorded for that month and is only 3.2 per cent. below the highest ever recorded, which was on January 1st of this year, or 62 per cent. higher than on July 1, 1896. So present prices are now a little less than 60 per cent. above the low prices in 1896.

If wages, salaries and incomes would all increase uniformly with prices there would be but little to complain about; but prices increase much more rapidly than do wages and incomes and that is the reason for the present business depression. People cannot buy more than they have wages to pay for, so they cut off luxuries and even some necessities; thus there is a lessened demand for such articles and the manufacturers decrease production, the whole sales buy less and so do the retailers. Whatever the reason for the disparity between incomes and expenditures, the result is to greatly disturb business.

The Democrats show that one of the chief causes of these abnormally high prices is the tariff protection to the trusts and combines that every generally control production of not only manufactured goods, but also many food products. The Democratic contention is fully born out by the difference in the increase in prices in Great Britain and here during the same period, as shown by the index number of the London Economist. The percentage of increase in the average price of commodities in England from June, 1897, to September 1, 1910, has been 33 per cent.

As England is virtually a free trade nation, the tariff being low and on but a few articles, the rise in prices there must be from a world-wide cause, and the 27 per cent. higher prices in the United States can be fairly charged to the tariff. As England buys great deal of food stuffs from us, the greatly increased price of food here has increased the price of food in England, while clothing and other necessities have been practically stable there. So, the real difference in the cost of living in protected America and free trade England is actually greater than 27 per cent. as the figures show.

If we all could buy what we now purchase for 27 per cent. less, we could save over one quarter of our incomes and wages, or could spend it in better living or luxuries. What "boom" times that would make!—Greensboro Record.

CATARH GERMS.

Move Out When Hyomei Moves In.
No stomach dosing. HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus, taken from the eucalyptus forest of Australia, and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.
In inland Australia the atmosphere is so impregnated with balsam thrown out by the eucalyptus trees that germs cannot live, and in consequence catarrh and consumption are unknown. Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same pleasant, healing, germ-killing, air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.
HYOMEI is sold by Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere, at $1.00 a complete outfit.
An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. The inhaler will last a lifetime, but bear in mind if you need another bottle of HYOMEI you can get it at druggists for only 50c at any time. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup and throat troubles, or money back. Trial sample of Hyomei free to readers of The Reflector. Address Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Maple in the Days of Old.
 Scarcely any wood was considered more valuable in the "days of old" than maple wood, tables constructed from a mottled variety being particularly favored. Such a table, according to Evelyn, was Cicero's, costing 10,000 sesterces—about $2. Another was estimated at $75, and yet another, belonging to one of the Ptolemies, is said to have been sold for its weight in gold. There was, in fact, such a craze for tables of the rarest maple among the male sex in Rome and so wildly extravagant were they in this respect that when they reproached their wives for lavishness in pearls and other valuables the ladies would remind them of their costly maple hobby, thus "turning the tables on them," hence the phrase. Virgil represents Evander, who was a provincial king, as receiving Aeneas seated on a maple throne. Chaucer speaks of the maple as forming a bower for the fair Rosamond. In Evelyn's time the wood of the maple was much esteemed for all kinds of turnery.—Westminster Gazette.

Galilei's Caustic Humor.
 In a biography of Galilei some stories are told of the caustic humor of that bold investigator. Lotario Sarsi, a writer on science, having said that the Babylonians used to cook eggs by whirling them in a sling, Galilei replied: "The cause of such an effect is very remote from that to which it is attributed, and to find the true cause I shall reason thus: If an effect does not follow with us which followed with others at another time it is because in our experiments something is wanting which was the cause of the former success, and if only one thing is wanting to us that one thing is the true cause. Now we have eggs and slings and strong men to whirl them, and yet they will not become cooked; nay, if they were hot at first they more quickly become cold, and since nothing is wanting to us but to be Babylonians it follows that being Babylonians is the true cause why the eggs became cooked and not to the friction of the air, which is what I wish to prove."

She Didn't Mind.
 A girl with a Gibson face and a green feather in her hat boarded a Chestnut street car the other afternoon. She carried something in a paper sack under her arm. The car was crowded with passengers, and no one offered to rise.
 The girl looked worried, but set her lips and grabbed at a strap. Just then the car lurched, the girl made a wild effort to keep on her feet and threw her bundle straight in a large man's lap. There was a peculiar grinding sound in the sack, and then something seeped out that looked suspiciously like the yellow of an egg.
 "What in the thunder is this stuff?" he started to say, when she sweetly remarked as she clung to the strap: "Oh, never mind making apologies. I can get another dozen of eggs at our grocery."
 The conductor removed the sack of eggs, and the man looked so savage that no one dared laugh.—Louisville Times.

A Weekly Birthday.
 Dr. Marks, who for many years was head of St. John's college, Rangoon, which the young Burmese princes attended, once granted a day's holiday because it was Queen Victoria's birthday. The king asked Dr. Marks what he meant by it. On hearing the explanation he said graciously, "That's all right, but will you give them a holiday on my birthday?"
 Dr. Marks said he certainly would if his majesty would inform him what was the day on which the world was blessed by his birth.
 "According to Burmese national custom," said the king, "my birthday is every Tuesday!"

The Pepper Vine.
 The most common and widely used of all spices is pepper. It is a native of the East Indies, but is now cultivated in various parts of the tropical belt of this hemisphere. The plant is a climber and has a smooth stem sometimes twelve feet long. The fruit is about the size of a pea and when ripe is of a bright red color. In cultivation the plant is supported by poles. In some localities small trees are used instead of poles, for the best pepper is grown in a certain degree of shade.

The Gentle Art.
 "I adore intelligence!" she cried.
 "So do I," said he. "All the same, though, beauty and intellect never go together."
 "And do you think me intellectual?" she faltered.
 "No," he confessed frankly.
 With a faint blush she murmured, "Flatterer!"—Los Angeles Examiner.

Light on Ma.
 Little Brother—Mr. Poseyboy, won't you go and stand before the window? Poseyboy—Certainly, my little man. But why? Little Brother—Oh, ma says she can see through you. I want to see if I can.

A Big Difference.
 "Don't be unscrupulous in a small way, son."
 "All right, dad."
 "There's a big difference between watering milk and stocks."—Washington Herald.

Woman.
 Woman has been defined as "an essay on goodness and grace in one volume, elegantly bound." But she doesn't like to be put on the shelf all the same.

Fire in the heart sends smoke in the head.—German proverb.

ADAM'S PEAK.

A Shrine Sacred to Three Conflicting Religious Sects.

Throughout Asia "holy places" are almost as numerous as leaves on a tree, but in Ceylon is a mountain which enjoys the unique distinction of being a very holy place to the devotees of three absolutely distinct and conflicting religious sects. This is Adam's Peak, or Samanala.
 According to the Mohammedan belief, Adam, after the fall, was taken by an angel to the top of Samanala, and a panorama of all the ills that through sin should afflict mankind was spread out before him. His foot left an impression on the solid rock, and his tears formed the lake from which pilgrims still drink. The Buddhists contend that it was not Adam, but Buddha himself that made the footprint in the rock, that being the last spot where he touched the earth before ascending to heaven, while the Brahmans have still another legend. All, however, Brahmans, Mohammedans and Chinese, agree that Samanala is a very holy place, and to perform a pilgrimage to the spot is to the Buddhist what a visit to Mecca is to a Mohammedan. In mixed crowds the worshippers come, each pitying the ignorance of the other, who is so far from the "true way."
 It requires no little faith and some imagination to trace in the depression in the rock the likeness of a human footprint. It is 5 1/4 feet long by 2 1/2 feet wide, on the top of a huge boulder. The natives, however, insist that it is the footprint of Adam.—Elliott Campbell Hall in Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

MINIATURE GARDENS.

Tiny Lakes, Trees and Houses in Diminutive Japanese Parks.

The Japanese have the art of dwarfing trees to mere shrubs and of cultivating plants in a similar way. The people take great delight in their miniature gardens, which require a special gardener to keep them down to desired limits. A Japanese garden is generally about ten yards square, and in this small space is found a park and demesne, with lake, summer houses, temples, trees, all complete and in keeping with the dimensions available.

One such garden shows a lake four feet long and full of goldfish. On the border stands a pine tree exactly eighteen inches high and fifty years old. Beneath its shade is a temple carved out of one piece of stone the size of a brick. On a lofty crag of some two and a half feet stands a fine maple tree, perfect in form and shape, fifteen years old and twelve inches high.

One household in Japan boasts of a complete garden contained in a shallow two dozen wine case. Everything is complete down to the fish in the lake, a sheet of water only a few inch square, and the footbridges over the water courses. Tea houses there are and numerous trees of various kinds, each about six inches in height. Old as the hills are these diminutive trees, but full of vitality, and yet never growing bigger.—New York Press.

One Consolation.

During the time he acted as United States consul in Glasgow Bret Harte occasionally indulged in a day's sport with the gun, and it was during one of his shooting excursions that the humorist met with an accident which might have disfigured him for the remainder of his life, his face being badly cut through the recoil of an overloaded gun. Fortunately the doctor's skill prevented him from being permanently marked.

Writing about the occurrence to his friend, T. Edgar Pemberton, who quotes the letter in his "Tribute to Bret Harte," the novelist concludes his letter by telling of an amusing effort which was made to console him on account of the accident.
 "When the surgeon was stitching me together," he wrote, "the son of the house, a boy of twelve, came timidly to the door of my room.
 "Tell Mr. Bret Harte it's all right," he said. "He killed the hare."

A Superstitious Musician.

Schumann was always inclined to superstition. When he visited Beethoven's grave at Vienna he found a rusty steel pen lying on it. This he carefully and reverently preserved and afterward used in writing his B flat symphony, believing that it would bring him inspiration. But this superstition, harmless enough in his early years, became accentuated later in an alarming manner. He began to take an unhealthy interest in table turning and spirit rapping. He was, moreover, intensely influenced by dreams and omens. One night he dreamed that the spirits of Mendelssohn and Schubert appeared to him and gave him a theme which he afterward wrote down and developed.

What He Was.

A man of letters—of poor physique—recently knocked a policeman down and is still at large to tell the tale. It was on the bank of the upper Thames, where a notice bids pedestrians to enter the towing path by the roadway. The man of letters, however, knew the short cut and took it, running into a huge Berkshire constable. "See that notice board?" remarked the constable, blocking the narrow path. The man of letters looked, considered and replied, "But you see I'm not a pedestrian." The constable considered him from his hat to his boots and back again. "Why, what are you then?" he asked. "I'm a Congregationalist," said the man of letters. The constable dropped.—London Chronicle.

RULES FOR WIVES.

To Which is Added Some Feminine Advice to Husbands.

Some presumptuous Frenchmen published a list of commandments for wives, one of which ran: "Now and then acknowledged gracefully that thy husband knows more about some things than thou. After all, thou art not infallible." A second and still more daring rule for wives was, "Never be aggressive in thy arguments with thy husband, but always consider him as superior to thee." This was too much for French feminists, and no wonder. One lady answers the presumptuous man indignantly:
 "The weaker sex has not merely duties; it has also rights. Feminism is advancing, and nothing will stop it. The weaker sex is the equal of the sterner. Equality forever! Here are the commandments which women oppose to those of men.
 The lady then gives her rules for husbands with more spirit than logic:
 Woman has a right to have whims, it is a privilege of her sex. Never put her out. She might have hysterics, which would impair her health and cost the money in doctor's bills.
 Another commandment runs:
 Remember, good man, that thy wife is thy superior by her grace, her beauty and refinement. Therefore always worship at her feet.
 Where, then good lady, does "equality forever" come in, if woman not only has privilege because she is a woman, but is decidedly superior to man? Surely, the strong minded suffragist would spurn privileges of sex. In another rule the lady seems to show some sly knowledge of her sisters.
 If, good man, thou desirest mountain air ask thy wife to come to the seaside; she will immediately propose a holiday in Switzerland.

But this is a very mild gibe at her own sex compared with her final thrust at the other in her last rule for husbands:
 Man was created before woman as a preliminary sketch for the masterpiece. Remember, then, O husband, that thou art but a rough draft.
 This ought to shut any husband up finally.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

TRAVELERS' TALES.

Some That Were Discredited and Vindicated Long Afterward.

Travelers' tales have often been accused of being mere flights of imagination, and in the past stay at home people have sometimes erred in treating travelers' tales with scorn. There was, for instance, the description by James Bruce in 1770 of the barbarous Abyssinian custom of eating raw meat cut from the living animal, which was ridiculed by everybody. Yet Bruce has even recently been proved right. When Paul Du Chailu explored equatorial Africa in 1861 and described the wonderful gorillas and also the nation of dwarfs there he was discredited none too politely by the British Royal Geographical society. Yet subsequent explorers amply vindicated his veracity.
 In the matter of discredited travelers' tales vindicated long afterward it will never be possible to beat the classic instance in Herodotus. He tells how King Neco of Egypt commissioned certain Phoenician mariners to circumnavigate Africa if they could. They did it, starting from the Red sea and returning by the straits of Gibraltar after very many months. And they reported, says Herodotus, that in rounding the southern end of Africa they had the sun on their right hand. "I, for my part," he says, "do not believe this, but perhaps others may."
 In modern times that detail is precisely what proves that the Phoenicians did achieve the wonderful voyage. Such an "improbable" fact could never have been invented in an age which was not familiar with the equator.—Chicago News.

Blowing Flowers.

When amateurs speak of flowers "blowing" they are not using a mere vulgarism. They are speaking real old English. In the early tongue the verb "blow" was used to indicate the opening of flowers. Instead of "blow" being a corruption of "bloom" it is the other way about. "Blossom" comes from the same root. We do not grow the costard apple nowadays, but our forefathers set great store by the sort and bought it eagerly in the streets from the "mongers." From costard monger to eastermonger is a short step. Hawthorn, too, has its interest. The old form of haw was haga, which means hedge. Hawthorn is therefore simply hedge thorn.—London Graphic.

Lives Saved by Tobacco.

John Wesley was saved from disaster by tobacco, as is shown by this extract from his journal:
 "Came to Turner's hall (Deptford), which holds (by computation) 2,000 persons. The press both within and without was very great. In the beginning of the expounding, there being a large vault beneath, the main beam which supported the floor broke. The floor immediately sank, which occasioned much noise and confusion among the people. But two or three days before a man had filled the vault with hogheads of tobacco, so that the floor, after sinking a foot or two, rested upon them, and I went on without interruption.
 himself in the sufferings of the present and in the glories of the future (1 Corinthians x, 16 17; Matthew xxvi, 29). The antitype of the cup in its higher sense will be the new joys of the Kingdom which all the faithful in Christ will share with the great King of glory, when he shall take unto himself his great power and reign.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Greenville Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, headache, sideache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Greenville citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. J. S. Stokes, Twelfth and Evans Sts., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered severely from kidney and bladder complaint. I had bearing-down pains through my abdomen, and sharp, shooting twinges across my loins. There was a tender spot over my kidneys and at times my limbs pained intensely. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and was so much impressed that I procured a supply at Wooten's drug store and began their use. They soon relieved the pains in my sides and loins, and restored my kidneys to a normal condition. At present I am feeling in every way, and I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this great improvement."

THE DRAGON'S BACKBONE.

An Odd Incident of Railroad Construction in China.

When there was undertaken the construction of the railway between Kirin and Newchwang, the seaport of Manchuria, it was proposed to make a junction at a place called Lanpin, outside the city of Mukden. For this permission had to be obtained from the Tartar general of Mukden. This functionary at once proceeded to call in his geomancers, a species of soothsayers, who gave information concerning the good fortune and ill fortune of sites and were supposed by the Chinese to know what demons and dragons inhabited the earth under the surface.
These wise men reported that the dragon whose body encircled the holy city of Mukden lay coiled up in such a way that if the railway came through Lanpin the long nails driven into the ties would pierce his backbone and in all probability set him to raging violently, to the great detriment of the people of Mukden.

The general consequently refused the application of the railway people and directed them to carry the road in a straight line from Kirin to Newchwang, avoiding Mukden. The engineers thereupon appealed to the viceroy, showing that, as this proposed route would go through a marshy and uninhabited country, it could not be profitable for their enterprise.

The viceroys wrote to the general of Mukden, highly commending him for his discretion in consulting the geomancers, but suggesting that these sage persons go over the ground again and see if they could not find a place where the nails would not be likely to strike into the dragon's back. Accordingly, at the command of the viceroys,
the general had his geomancers indicate a spot for the junction at Lanpin where they thought that, after all, the dragon's backbone would be safe.—

RICE PAPER.

Shaved From the Snow White Pith of Trees in Formosa.

The so called rice paper is not made from rice, as its name implies, but from the snow white pith of a small tree belonging to the genus aralia, a genus represented in this country by the common sarsaparilla and the spikenard. The tree grows in Formosa and, so far as is known, nowhere else. The stems are transported to China, and there the rice paper is made. It is used, aside from a number of other purposes, by the native artists for water color drawings, and sometimes it is dyed in various colors and made into artificial flowers.

The tools of the pith worker comprise a smooth stone about a foot square and a large knife or hatchet with a short wooden handle. The blade is about a foot long, two inches broad and nearly half an inch thick at the back, and it is as sharp as a razor.

Placing a piece of the cylindrical pith on the stone and his left hand on the top, the pith worker will roll the pith backward and forward for a moment until he gets it in the required position. Then, seizing the knife with his right hand, he will hold the edge of the blade after a feint or two close to the pith, which he will keep rolling to the left with his left hand until nothing remains to unroll, for the pith has, by the application of the knife, been pared into a square white sheet of uniform thickness. All that remains to be done is to square the edges.

If one will roll up a sheet of paper,
lay it on a table, place the left hand
on top and gently unroll it to the left he will have a good idea of how the feat is accomplished.—New York Herald.

Sawse Sawge.

Here is the old King Richard II. way of making sausage: "Pyggs in sawse sawge," or pigs with sage snuce. "Take pyggs yskaldid (scalded) and quarter them and seeth them in water and salt; take them and let them kole (cool); take parsel (parsley), sawge (sage) and grynde it with brede
and yolkes of ayren (eggs) harde ysode (boiled); temper it with vlieger somewhat thick, and lay the pyggs in a vessel and sewe onoward (the sauce over them), and serve it forth." "Take pyggs" is pretty good. Size or number seems of no consequence.—New York

RIDING THE BILLOWS.

A Few Pointed Suggestions For Ocean
Travelers.

Do not interfere with the captain in the performance of his duties or offer suggestions in navigation based upon your own experience in running a routboat on Lake Mohonk. There are few captains now in the transatlantic service who have not crossed the ocean several times, and we know of none who has acquired his knowledge of the sea in a correspondence school.

If the lady with golden hair seated in the steamer chair next to yours inadvertently puts her head on your shoulder and groans do not rudely remove it, but whistle a soft lullaby, as if you did not notice the act. Bear in mind that two heads are better than one. The lullaby may put her to sleep, when her curls may be gently removed to her own sofa pillow.

Should you desire to go below before she goes to sleep send the deck steward after her husband and ask him to remove them himself.

If in the midst of your dinner you feel a sudden emotional qualm arising within you rise with it as nearly simultaneously as possible and hasten from the saloon, taking care in your flight to stick to the aisles between the tables and not go leaping from table to table like a frightened antelope toward the exit. This latter course would cause considerable confusion in the dining room, and in your haste you might inadvertently trip over another passenger's Welsh rabbit, which is not considered good form in polished circles either on the land or on the sea.

If on your way to the upper deck you find the staircases blocked by others hastening upward like yourself
do not step upon them, in your mad flight upward, but slide down the banisters to the lower deck, which you will find just as well adapted to your needs as the upper. Any deck is good in a qualm.—John Kendrick Bangs in Harper's Weekly.

POWER OF A WORD.

Why France Changed the Name of the
"Life Saving Belt."

A vivid illustration of the power of mere words over human beings was once brought to the attention of French people by Francisque Sarcey.

After the wreck of the Bourgogne
many passengers were found floating drowned with life preservers on. These life preservers were fastened upon the bodies, but round the middle instead of under the arms, and the greater weight of the upper part of the body had tipped the head under water and the person of course was inevitably drowned.

Now it appears that the greater number of the persons so drowned were French. The French term for life preserver is ceinture de sauvetage, or "life saving belt." This word ceinture suggests to the mind in its moments of disorder and unreadiness, such as a great catastrophe brings, the idea of putting on a belt, and as a belt is put round the waist and nowhere else the frightened person instinctively adjusts
the life preserver close about the hips.

The result is that as soon as the person so provided falls into the water
his body tips over, with the heavier part downward, and the head is plunged beneath the surface.

The word "belt," therefore, was the cause of the loss of many lives in the Bourgogne disaster. Sarcey accordingly proposed to counteract the fatal effect of the French word by renaming
the article and calling it a brassiere, which is a kind of waist, and by bringing the word bras, or arm, to mind to teach people to put a life preserver on just underneath the arms.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Greenville cotton 14 cents.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Nov. 2.—While the cotton market started steady three to seven points higher, there was considerable cotton for sale on a bulge
from Wall street commission houses, and local traders, which eventually caused a recession of a few points from the top. Opening: November 14.40 (offered); December 14.45; January 14.35; March 14.41.

New York, Nov. 2.—Most stocks quoted gains of from 1-4 to 3-4 and in some stocks a point or more above closing. Most of standard railroad stocks were quoting fractional gains.
Southern Pacific was the leader, quoting 3-8. Considerable activity was displayed by industrials.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Wheat was off
5-8 to 3-4c, corn started a shade lower but rallied; oats were 1-8 to 3-8 lower. Opening: December wheat 89;
corn 46 5-8; oats 31 1-2; pork May
