KEHUKEE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

MEETS WITH THE CHURCH AT BRIERY SWAMP.

Holds Three Days' Session—Large Attendance of Elders, Delegates and Visitors.

The 145th annual session of the Kehukee Primitive Baptist association met with the church at Briery Swamp, this county, on Saturday morning, October 1st, and continued in session three days. Elder Sylvester Hassell, of Williamston, is moderator of the association and Elder T. M. Lawrence, of Hamilton, clerk. Elder Hassell has been moderator for twenty-five consecutive years, and Elder Lawrence clerk for twenty-one years.

The association is composed of forty five churches, and embraces that section of the State lying east of the old Wilmington and Weldon railroad and north of Tar river. Forty-three of the churches of the association were represented by delegates or letters at this session. About twenty elders of the association were present, as were also the following visitors: Elders J. A. Mansees, of Macon, Ga.; J. E. Adams, of Harnett county; P. D. Gold, of Wilson; L. A. Hardy, of Reidsville; L. E. Lundy, of Wilmington; C. C. Bland, of Ayden; G. W. Stokes, of Greenville.

The introductory sermon was preached Saturday morning by Elder G. A. Roberson, who was followed with sermons by Elders G. W. Stokes and J. E. Adams. The remainder of the first day was devoted to receiving and reading the letters from the various churches and compiling their statistics. A number of the churches showed gratifying increase in membership.

Sunday was the big day of the association and a great throng of people were there, the attendance being estimated at fully 4,000. The day was given entirely to preaching, with an intermission for dinner served on the grounds. The sermons that day were by some of the ablest men of the denomination, Elders L. H. Hardy and P. D. Gold preaching in the forenoon, and Elders J. A. Mansees and L. E. Lundy in the afternoon.

Today, Monday, there were also two sermons, which were preached by Elders C. C. Bland and J. A. Mansees. Following these the association concluded its business and adjourned at one o'clock to meet next year with the church at Flat Swamp, in Martin county.

The business of the association was marked with utmost peace and harmony, and the entertainment was all that could be wished for. The people throughout that section took care of the association handsomely, and left nothing undone that would add to the comfort and convenience of all present. While the attendance was large, the people had made ample preparation for many more. Every home for miles around was thrown open to the visitors. The association expressed its appreciation of the cordial hospitality extended.

The Atlantic Coast Line handled well the large crowds who went to and from the association by rail.

TO NOMINATE AUDITOR.

Democratic State Executive Committee to Meet October Six.

Chairman A. H. Eller, of the Democratic State Executive Committee, yesterday issued a call for a meeting of the state committee next Thursday night as follows:

"The State Democratic Executive committee, of which you are a member, is hereby called to meet in the senate chamber of the capitol at Raleigh, on Thursday, October 6, 1910 8 o'clock, p. m.

"The purpose for which this meeting is called is to name a candidate of the Democratic party for the office of State Auditor to fill the unexpired term caused by the death of Hon. B. F. Dixon, and to transact such other business as in the judgment of the committee, may be deemed necessary or advisable.

"A full attendance is desired.
"Very respectfully,
A. H. ELLER,
"Chairman."

CANNOT DEAL WITH THE TOWN.

Decision in Case of New Bern Aldermen Has Far-Reaching Effect.

The Supreme court handed down last week, in the case of state vs. Williams, from Craven county, a most important decision affecting State, county, and municipal governments. The Revisal of 1905, section 3572, provides as follows: "Any person, appointed or elected a commissioner or director to discharge any trust wherein the State or any county, city or town, may be in any manner interested, shall become an undertaker, or make any contract for his own benefit, under such authority, or be in any manner concerned or interested in making such contract, or in the profits thereof, either privately or openly, singly or jointly with another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor." This provision was substantially enacted in 1825, but "whether the law has been scrupulously obeyed or has gone into innocuous desuetude" is a matter of conjecture," says the court.

Mr. Williams was an alderman of the city of New Bern, and also president and stockholder in the New Bern Iron Works, and was convicted of violating the law given above. A contract was entered into between the city of New Bern and the Iron Works, but Mr. Williams took no part in the making, auditing or paying of the contract. Judge Brown, in the opinion for the Supreme court, says, "While we are glad to concede that there is no evidence of moral turpitude upon the part of the defendant, we cannot concur with his counsel that a finding to that effect is necessary to conviction, and that the act does not extend to an officer of a corporation when the dealing is between the corporation and the municipality."

The court does not decide the question whether a person who is merely a stockholder of a company dealing with a municipality of which he is an officer would be guilty of violating this law, because in the present case Mr. Williams was president and director and also manager of the mechanical department of the shop of the Iron Works, as well as city alderman.

The court further decides that it is immaterial whether the defendant had actual knowledge of the transaction, because occupying the official position he did, the law will hold him to a knowledge of the transaction and the fact that he retired from the aldermanic meeting when the bill was presented and paid is also immaterial.

Again, the court decided that it is not necessary that the defendant directly profit by the contract, the fact that he occupied a public office, also an official of the company dealing with the city makes him guilty of violating the law.

RESOLUTIONS.

Adopted by Republicans in Convention, October 1st.

We, Republicans of Pitt county, in convention assembled, do hereby adopt the following statement of our belief and purpose concerning national, state and county affairs:

1. We endorse the national Republican platform adopted at Chicago, in 1908, and the wise and progressive administration of President Taft.

2. We endorse the Republican platform adopted at Greensboro, August 10, 1910.

3. We specially direct the attention of the people of Pitt county to the following:

(a). We re-affirm our allegiance to the time honored principles of local self-government, and we denounce the successive betrayals of the Democratic party.

(b). We demand a fair election and honest count which shall permit every voter to cast his vote voluntarily, prevent dictation and bribery, and make a free expansion of the people's will.

(c). We favor the policy of the State's furnishing free of charge and under proper regulations, to every child in public school, all necessary text-books.

(d). We view with alarm the sentiment being manufactured to issue bonds to build public roads, and we pledge ourselves to oppose bonds for any such purposes.

(e). It is with regret that we again call attention to the insufficient provision made for the county poor, and we pledge our united effort to cause to be purchased a proper location and cause suitable buildings to be constructed thereon to care for our unfortunate poor in a manner in keeping with the advancing Christian civilization of the age.

(f). Believing as we do, in State and national alike, the policies of the Republican party are right and wise and for the best interest of our Southern people, we invite all patriotic citizens, whatever their party affiliations in the past may have been, to join with us, in supporting the measures announced above. We welcome all such citizens to our ranks that we may work together to restore local self-government and the continued prosperity of our Southern people.

NEW INVASION OF CITY.

Second Half of the 12,000 Bluejackets Loaded With Money.

The second half of the 12,000 blue jackets of the battleship fleet were let out on shore leave yesterday, invading Manhattan and Brooklyn and bringing with them the other half of the $800,000 which Uncle Sam handed out to his sailor boys after two strenuous months on the high seas.

And not all of the squad who swarmed over New York on Wednesday night with their $400,000 were back in their hammocks last night when taps sounded. Breaking liberty is a serious offense but the lure of the Great White Way and the confusing routes of the subway will result in many of the sailor boys being brought before the mast for various fines.—New York World.

Happiness.

The Chronicle has been attracted by the fine philosophy of Orison Swett Marden, a writer in Success Magazine, and it would pass to parents this writer's suggestions as to happiness. Marden says there is nothing better we can do for our children than to train them from infancy to form a habit of always being happy, cheerful and hopeful, and of making this life a principle. The habit of optimism, of facing life the right way will be worth infinitely more to them than the greatest fortune they may inherit without it. Children should be given a bright outlook upon life. There is nothing like a sunny disposition, a happy temperament, and if they are not inherited, they may be cultivated. Happiness is a great stimulator of growth. Nothing grows when discordant. When we shall have learned how to conserve our energies by getting our minds into harmony, even the hardest day's work will not tire us. It is nerve exhaustion, wasted energy through unnatural, discordant conditions, that makes us fagged and tired out, the result of friction in our machinery. If we could keep our selves in a happy condition all day, we should be fresh at night. It is by keeping ourselves in perfect harmony that we become more efficient and get the most out of life.—Charlotte Chronicle.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1910.

The Democratic candidate for governor of New York has a short name, just Dix.

Guess Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed his Sunday rest after the strenuous convention week.

The chicken at large is the reputed cause of neighborhood disturbances, Charlotte is having a wrangle over the coop.

About all the North Carolina Republicans hope to do is keep their names before the administration and line for the Federal picnic counter.

One of Charlotte's social clubs has been fined $500 for selling liquor. That is going the right way to stop it.

Col. Harry Skinner said in his speech Saturday that the Republican ticket just nominated would not be elected. Of course not, nobody expected it would be.

There are plenty of them who want the place of State auditor to succeed Dr. Dixon, and which his son fills temporarily until the election.

The county ticket the Republicans put up Saturday is as good as any other they could name for the Democrats to beat. Of course that is all it was put up for.

Demonstration Results.

The Southern Pines Tourist did a little figuring on the subject of Moore county corn the other day which is of interest to the many counties already having or intending to establish farm demonstration work. "Ten years ago," says The Tourist, "the Moore county farmer who was getting anywhere from 8 to 12 bushels of corn to the acre was fairly well satisfied while the man who managed to coax 15 or 20 bushels from a single acre thought he had done a big thing and no one disputed him." In contrast to this condition, The Tourist cites a particular acre which this season will produce between 35 and 40 bushels but whose owner thinks it necessary to apologize for such a poor yield. "What has wrought the change?" asks The Tourist, and proceeds to explain it as follows: "It has followed deep plowing, generous fertilization and shallow but frequent cultivation. The old shallow plowing gave the roots but half a chance and the deep cultivation ripped them loose and spoiled whatever chance they had. For the general improvement of the farm papers and the state and national Agricultural departments should have the credit, while the farm demonstration agents working under joint local and national auspices are bringing the latest methods of the department to the farmer's door. Not only does the demonstrator tell him what to do but shows him how to do it and explains just why he does it." At present there are in Moore county some 85 widely scattered acres under the direction of the demonstrator. Naturally farming methods which produce results are contagious and these 85 acres are calculated to be fuel of progressive farming but the actual increase in yield runs into more money than one would suppose. The difference between the old good yield of 15 bushels and the present by no means unusual figure of 50 bushels is $75. At 30 cents such an increase on 85 acres means a profit of just $2,380, an alluring amount to result from the $300 which represents the county's share of the demonstrator's salary.

With these figures in mind there can be no surprise that the progressive farmers of Robeson are raising a private subscription to insure an early establishment of such demonstration work in that county, or that from one end of the State to the other, the agricultural leaders are urging the farmers to support similar movement. By the time the generation now represented in the boys' corn clubs has reached its prime, North Carolina's corn crop figures will have reached proportions which would have been simply incredible if made the subject of a prediction a dozen or fifteen years ago.—Charlotte Observer.

Third Raters.

Discussing the progress of advertising from the earliest days, when the benefits of publicity were monopolized by charlatans and fakers to the present, when charlatans and fakers are practically driven out of print, Ashbaugh's Magazine says that "thirty years ago a good merchant in the middle West didn't dare advertise for fear of being classed with his third rate brothers in trade." So complete has been the revolution since that time, however, that even if there were no questions of profit and ambition involved, but only a question of pride good business men would feel impelled to advertise to prevent themselves from being classed with the third-raters. The columns of the leading daily newspapers in any community are an accurate index to the activities of its merchant. The public has confidence in the merchant who has confidence in himself. The dealer who does not deem his store and his goods worth talking about usually finds that the consumers do not deem him worth thinking about when they make their purchases.—Ex.

It appears that Chairman Morehead has adopted the late Senator Ransom's plank—never write a letter and never burn one. It's a good practice if he knows how to work it. The anti-saloon league wrote Mr. Morehead to know the meaning of its self-government plank. The first letter was answered, informing the league that a committee was soon to meet to make a pronouncement. After the committee had met a second letter was sent to him to know what was done, but Mr. Morehead has never answered it. The truth is that his committee, with the exception of the Hon. Thomas Settle, who is in reality the author of the plank, got scared and would make no definite announcement as to what the plank meant. Mr. Settle, it is understood, wanted to come out and say frankly what was meant, but the others got a bad case of cold feet. The Pure in Heart brethren are after Mr. Morehead and he had as well come out like a man and state the position of his party. This thing of trying to ride two horses going in opposite directions cannot be done. Had the party come out plain and without the least evasion in a statement favoring local option and opposed root and branch to State-wide prohibition, it would have made more votes, but by its tactics of evasion and cowardice it has lost more than it can regain. The honest voter hates a coward.—Greensboro Record.

A traveling man who has been going up and down the country for many years said yesterday that there was more corn, more wheat and more fruit of all sorts this year than he had ever seen before. He was speaking with especial reference to North and South Carolina and Virginia, in which states, he says the farmers are especially well fixed this year. Of the three states he says that South Carolina the best farming prevails. In that state much of the farming is of the "intensive" variety. The gentleman expressed himself as believing that scientific farming could be done more generally in Guilford than is the case and that Guilford county farmers should bestir themselves and be leaders in the "new" farming of the present day.—Greensboro Telegram.

Those who heard ex-Senator Marion Butler speak here yesterday went away with a considerably reduced estimate of his formidableness to the Democratic party in North Carolina. Riding a whirlwind of ready-made discontent eighteen years ago was one thing; the present enterprise is quite another.—Charlotte Observer.

FUN THAT FAILED.

Mark Twain's Burlesque of Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes.

IT SHOCKED THE IMMORTALS.

W. D. Howells' Description of the Dismal Effect of the Humorist's Attempt to Make Game of the Dignified Literary Trio at the Boston Dinner.

In his memories of Mark Twain in Harper's W. D. Howells tells of the dinner in Boston when Mark Twain, with fatal effect, made game of Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes:

"He believed he had been particularly fortunate in his notion for the speech of that evening, and he had worked it out in joyous self reliance. It was the notion of three tramps, three deadbeats, visiting a California mining camp and imposing themselves upon the innocent miners as respectively Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Oliver Wendell Holmes. The humor of the conception must prosper or must fail according to the mood of the hearer, but Clemens felt sure of compelling this to sympathy, and he looked forward to an unparalleled triumph.

"But there were two things that he had not taken into account. One was the species of religious veneration in which these men were held by those nearest them. They were men of extraordinary dignity, of the thing called presence for want of some clearer word, so that no one could well approach them in a personally light or trifling spirit. I do not suppose that anybody more truly valued them or more piously loved them than Clemens himself, but the intoxication of his fancy carried him beyond the bounds of that regard and emboldened him to the other thing which he had not taken into account—namely, the immense hazard of working his fancy out before their faces and expecting them to enter into the delight of it. If neither Emerson nor Longfellow nor Holmes had been there the scheme might possibly have carried, but even this is doubtful.

"I was the hapless president, fulfilling the abhorred function of calling people to their feet and making them speak. When I came to Clemens I introduced him with the cordial admiration I had for him as one of my greatest contributors and dearest friends. Here, I said, in sum, was a humorist, who never left you hanging your head for having enjoyed his joke, and then the amazing mistake, the bewildering blunder, the cruel catastrophe was upon us. I believe that after the scope of the burlesque made itself clear there was no one there, including the burlesquer himself, who was not smitten with a desolating dismay. There fell a silence, weighing many tons to the square inch, which deepened from moment to moment and was broken only by the hysterical and blood curdling laughter of a single guest, whose name shall not be handed down to infamy. Nobody knew whether to look at the speaker or down at his plate. I chose my plate as the least affliction, and so I do not know how Clemens looked, except when I stole a glance at him and saw him standing solitary amid his appalled and appalling listeners, with his joke dead on his hands. From a first glance at the great three whom his jest had made its theme, I was aware of Longfellow sitting upright and regarding the humorist with an air of pensive puzzle, of Holmes busily writing on his menu with a well feigned effect of preoccupation, and of Emerson holding his elbows and listening with a sort of Jovian oblivion of this nether world in that lapse of memory which saved him in those later years from so much bother. Clemens must have dragged his joke to the climax and left it there, but I cannot say this from any sense of the fact. Of what happened afterward at the table where the immense, the wholly innocent, the truly unimagined affront was offered, I have no longer the least remembrance. I next remember being in a room of the hotel where Clemens was not to sleep, but to toss in despair and Charles Dudley Warner's saying in the gloom, 'Well, Mark! You're a funny fellow.' It was as well as anything he could have said, but Clemens seemed unable to accept the tribute.

"I stayed the night with him, and the next morning after a haggard breakfast we drove about, and he made some purchases of bric-a-brac for his house in Hartford, with a soul as far away from bric-a-brac as ever the soul of man was. He went home by an early train, and he lost no time in writing back to the three divine personalities which he had so involuntarily seemed to flout. They all wrote back to him, making it as light for him as they could. I have heard that Emerson was a good deal mystified and in his sublime forgetfulness asked, 'Who was this gentleman who appeared to think he had offered him some sort of annoyance? But I am not sure that this is accurate. What I am sure of is that Longfellow a few days after in my study stopped before a photograph of Clemens and said, 'Ah, he is a wag!' and nothing more. Holmes told me, with deep emotion, such as a brother humorist might well feel, that he had not lost an instant in replying to Clemens' letter and assuring him that there had not been the least offense and entreating him never to think of the matter again. 'He said that he was a fool, but he was God's fool,' Holmes quoted from the letter with a true sense of the pathos and humor of the self-abasement."
