THIRTEEN PITT COUNTY BOYS ENROLLED

AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Pitt County Club Elects Officers—Self Development in Newspaper Correspondence.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 4.—The Pitt county club met Friday night for the usual election of officers. The meeting was called to order by vice-President C. O. Armstrong, and nominations for president, vice-president and secretary and treasurer were declared in order. The following men were elected for the coming year: President, J. C. Lanier, jr.; vice-president, D. L. Turnage; secretary and treasurer, C. W. Haskett. After deciding to have a banquet some time this fall the club adjourned.

Pitt county is unusually well represented this year at the University, there being thirteen enrolled from the county. They are: L. Ames Brown, Bruce Hooker, C. O. Armstrong, David Turnage, Conrad Lanier, Carl Wilson, Joe Anderson, Charles Haskett, Alfred Schultz, Loyd Horton, John Moore, Howard House and J. A. Clark.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 3.—The press association at the University has come to be an important student activity. The membership of the association includes all the editors of the different student publications and all of the correspondents of the county and state papers. The students now publish, entirely with their own editing and business management, the semi-weekly newspaper, The Tar Heel, and the Monthly University Magazine, and among them are correspondents for all the state morning and evening papers of any importance and for over fifty county weeklies and semi-weeklies. The college publications keep the general student body and the alumni subscribers informed about what is happening in Chapel Hill and afford an interesting means for the self development of the student editors and contributors. The men who are corresponding for the county and state papers have the same opportunity for self development and also help to keep the work of the State University before the eyes of the people to whom it belongs.

The history of the University Magazine is an interesting chapter in the history of the University. Begun in 1844, it attained a state wide importance as a literary periodical. Its editorial staffs have included many of the most distinguished men whom the University has ever sent out. Its tables of contents have included articles by men of national reputations. Among its editors have been such men as Zebulon Baird Vance, Samuel F. Phillips, one time attorney general of the United States, Robert Pell, president of Converse College. Among its contributors have been Chief Justice John Marshall and Dr. Kemp Plummer Battle.

It is a surprising fact that among the 750 students now registered at the University more than one-third are in some way practically or entirely supporting themselves. One method of self help that has developed in the past few years is the way several of the students have of earning their clothes is by being local agents for clothing and haberdashery firms. The student agents do the advertising and delivering of the goods. Already this fall over fifty students have been agents for the firms that have visited the hill. Two years ago the agents of one firm cleared nearly $300.

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Newspaper Items About the Town and its People—Progressive Community.

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 4.—Mr. Elias Turnage has purchased of Mr. J. H. Cobb the commodious two story residence on S-cond street.

Mr. James Dougherty, of Tearrapin, spent Sunday in town.

Rev. A. M. McCullough spent Sunday night in town and preached in the Methodist church, where there is a revival in progress. Much interest is being manifested. Large crowds attend. Services will be held this week in the day as well as night. Rev. Luther Bridgers is doing the preaching.

Dr. Joseph Dixon left Monday to visit his ranch and stock farm in the valleys of Virginia. There seems to be a mania for Dr. Dixon's to succeed each other, as Dr. Harvey Dixon, of Beaufort county, has succeeded Dr. Joseph Dixon, of Ayden, and will move here as soon as he well can.

Mrs. Sallie Garris, wife of Mr. R. H. Garris, died Sunday morning after an illness of a few weeks. She suffered a stroke of paralysis from which she never recovered after a complication of diseases developed. She was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery adjacent the church which her husband built himself after the death of her only son, Luther, a few years ago. Funeral services were held from their church, Luther's Chapel, by Rev. J. R. Tingle and we think it, in our judgment, as impressive as the writer ever heard.

Mr. Stancil Hodges spent Sunday in Washington.

We are glad to see Mrs. Annie Coward able to be out in an easy chair since her attack of paralysis a few weeks ago.

We will gin your cotton, give you a full set of bagging and ties for the twentieth, and pay you spot cash for your seed.—J. R. Smith Company.

Mr. Elias Leslie Turnage has moved his family on Lee street, near Mr. Quinerly.

While making a trip to Greenville Sunday with our hearse, a rosette was lost from top. Will pay for its return.—J. R. Smith Company.

Mr. J. Carl Jones spent Sunday with his parents near Grangers and returned Monday.

Mr. H. C. Ormond and wife, and Miss Agnes Dixon worshipped at Salem, near Simpson Sunday.

Mr. J. B. Patrick and wife attended the Kehukee association on the north side of Tar river Sunday.

For hardware and mill supplies, we are with you.—J. R. Smith Company.

Mrs. J. R. Smith and children spent Sunday in the country.

GEORGIA LOSES CASE.

Franchise of Western Union Cannot be Taxed by State.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 3.—The Western Union Telegraph Company was held not liable for taxes on a federal franchise valuation of $950,000, by an opinion handed down in the United States Circuit court of appeals here today in the case of the Western Union company vs. W. W. Wright, comptroller of the state of Georgia.

In the opinion, which reversed the lower court, it was held that as the company already had been taxed on a valuation of $756,000 by the state on its property; that a further tax on $950,000 federal franchise value was excessive, especially in view of the fact that the profit made by the company in the state in 1908 was only a little in excess of $1,000.

Attorney Albert Howell, jr., who represented the telegraph company, stated that the case was of more than local importance. He said:

"By this decision every telegraph company in the United States which accepted the Post Roads Act of 1866 is exempt from state taxation on its franchise. This means that states which have passed franchise tax laws will be prohibited from collecting such taxes from the telegraph companies."

Pack House Burned.

Monday night, Mr. E. A. Moyer, sr., received a telephone message saying that a pack house on his farm about 12 miles from Greenville, was burned. Ten barns of tobacco and 3,200 pounds of seed cotton which was stored away in the building was also burned. It was a total loss, with no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

New York, Oct. 3.—In the presence of his frantic mother in a room at the Grand Union Hotel yesterday, Dr. Herbert Gudger, of Asheville, slashed his throat with a razor and died a few minutes later. Doctor Gudger was a young physician and was graduated from the school of medicine of the University of Pennsylvania in June of last year. His health broke down from over-work and he was brought here to be placed in a sanatorium to-day. He was accompanied by both father and mother and Mrs. Gudger persuaded her husband to go for a walk while she stayed at the hotel and guarded her sick son. She must have dozed in sleep, for the first thing she knew, the patient was heard moving about the room. She rushed to her son's side with a scream, but he pushed her away and with her clinging to his arm, slashed himself across the throat with a sharp instrument.

Mr. H. A. Webber, chef at the Southern Manufacturers' club, fell from the fifth story of the building through the freight elevator shaft yesterday morning and was seriously injured. At first it was thought that Mr. Webber had only sustained slight bruises and convulsions, but it developed during the day that his condition became more serious. He was unable to move a muscle late in the afternoon and gave evidence of having suffered internal injuries.—Charlotte Observer.

Thinks The Clubs Will Lose.

Judge Long has put it on the Colonial Club in Charlotte for handling the booze problem. A case agreed was made up and on the facts Judge Long adjudged it guilty and put a fine of $500 on it. The case of course goes to the Supreme court. In substance the statement of facts is that a member makes out a bill for beer or the liquors that he wants, addressed to a house outside of the State, gives it with the money, to the secretary of the club, asks him to order it and it comes addressed to the party, in care of the club. It is then put away and the party ordering it is given a book of tickets covering his purchase and he thus gets his liquor by presenting a ticket covering the amount. On its face, this seems to be a smooth proposition, but very little of it will be left when the Supreme court gets through with it. It is quite likely the court will "go prohibition."—Greensboro Record.

Thirtieth Anniversary.

Today thirty years ago, Mr. C. E. Leens, the efficient engineer on the Atlantic Coast Line train between here and Parmele, received his first order as a railroad engineer. Since that time he has handled the throttle ever since with satisfaction to himself, and to his employers. For the past twenty-one years he has been in the employ of the Atlantic Coast Line and for the past nineteen years he has been a resident of Washington running the passenger train between this city and Parmele. There is no more popular engineer to be found anywhere and his many friends wish him many more years of usefulness. Congratulations are in order.—Washington News.

LOG TRAIN ON ATLANTIC COAST LINE WRECKED

NO INJURY TO ANY OF THE CREW.

Eleven Cars Damaged and One Hundred and Fifty Yards of Track Torn Up.

The log train on the Atlantic Coast Line that left Greenville at 4 o'clock this morning taking logs for the Beaufort County Lumber company to Suffolk, was wrecked about 6 o'clock at Oak City. The train consisted of the engine with 40 loaded cars and a caboose.

The wreck occurred as the train was approaching the station at Oak City. The engine and ten cars had passed the southern end of the switch, when the eleventh car split the switch and went on the side track. This dividing of the train while going at a good speed wrecked eleven cars, tearing several of them into fragments, and the logs were scattered in every direction. Both the main line and side tracks were torn up for about 150 yards, but no damage was done to any of the crew.

The morning train from Kinston to Weldon, reaching Oak City at 10 o'clock, was delayed only about half an hour by the wreck. It was first thought that the delay would be longer and a transfer necessary, and a passenger train was sent from Hobbago to make the transfer, but the good work of the log train crew and all section hands that could be hurried there, got the main line track clear and repaired so that trains could pass by 10.30. A wrecking train from Rocky Mount arrived about the same time and at once went to work clearing up the wreckage and getting together what could be saved of the broken cars.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1910.

Wilmington has gone gunning after near-beer joints in that city. We hope they will get winged.

If there was co-operation among the business interests of Greenville, and all work to draw trade, you would see more of it coming here.

Between the automobile and the flying machine people are being sublimed off this mundane sphere at a rapid rate. Both are reaping a big harvest.

The Republicans claim to be a progressive party, but a reading of the platform adopted by their convention in Pitt county shows that they are not.

The fact that the government authorities are moving to place sixteen thousand post office department clerks under the civil service regulation, is a strong indication that they are looking for a Democratic victory.

Senator Overman, who has just returned from Mexico, came through the Western and middle States where he talked with many Republicans most of whom he found to be very much disheartened. Many of them were frank enough to admit that they see very little hope of carrying many elections this fall. They fear Massachusetts will follow in the walk of Maine, and Mr Overman is so confident of the outcome in New York, New Jersey and Indiana, which latter State he thinks will certainly elect a Democratic legislature thus insuring a Democratic senator.

Having been absent for a month Mr. Overman has not been in close touch with the local situation but he has no fear of North Carolina losing any ground. On the contrary he makes the prediction that the Democrats will gain 10,000 votes over their vote in the last presidential election. "All over the country," said the senator, "the Republican leaders, known as standpaters, with whom stood Morehead, Grant, and Cowles, have been retired to seats in private life, most of them being defeated by overwhelming majorities, thus showing that the people are disgusted with bossism, graft and the legislation of the Republican party in behalf of a few of the favored interests and against the struggling masses. The eyes of the people have been opened to the fact that this party does not keep its promises, and I believe a brighter day is coming and Democracy will soon come into its own."—Charlotte Observer.

Good For North Carolina.

This is cheering news that comes from our next door southern neighbor. The Charlotte (N. C.) Observer tells us that probably not less than fifteen counties in North Carolina will change from the free system of paying county-officers to the plan of paying every officer a straight salary when the next legislature meets. This is what we in Virginia are striving to bring about, and the press of the state is nearly a unit in urging this change. The success of the movement in North Carolina is therefore encouraging to us, who hope to do even better things in Virginia when our legislature meets.

We are also told in the same editorial that the sentiment for the commission for of government for cities is going hand in hand with that for the abolition of the fee system in North Carolina. We believe that there is a strong growth of the same sentiment here, and we are grateful to see that at the convention of municipalities of this state to meet in Charlottesville, in October, the chief matter under discussion, according to the schedule will be the question of the commission form of government. Wherever the commission form of government has been tried it has measured up to all that was hoped for it, and more. It cannot fail to gain strength and impetus. The antiquated and cumbersome system that now obtains in most of the municipalities of the country has been shown by a thousand examples to be ill-fated for modern conditions and for the purpose of municipal government. Our own Virginia municipalities have been infinitely better and more efficient than the great bulk of the municipal governments in other states; but they, from the very nature of things, cannot perform the necessary functions with the same promptness, economy and success as has been shown to be easily within the reach of the commission form.

A city is not a state; it is essentially a business organization; it is the business affairs of the city that should be looked after and attended to by the city government and not the affairs of the state or the nation. We are persuaded that the commission form of government is coming, and when it comes it will stay, and we are glad to know that our neighbor on the south is as deeply interested in the subject as we are.—Times Dispatch.

The fact that the home-coming jubilee and re-union of people who have moved from North Carolina to other states is to be held during the week of the state fair, October 17-22, at Raleigh, very naturally attracts a great deal of attention to the capital city, which is so distinctively North Carolinian, because it was bought and is yet owned by the state. The place will be a mecca of North Carolinians from other states and from this state during the notable week of October. Visitors will see by far the biggest and best fair yet held in this state but better still, they will see thousands of their friends, old and young, for the people are coming from far and near.

Raleigh is full of attractions. Its parks impress a visitor at once, notably the capitol square, and its noble oaks, two centuries old, its stately capitol, completed seventy years ago; the imposing Confederate monument, 75 feet high of native granite; the bronze statues of Washington, Vance and Worth Bagley outside the building; inside being the cast of the famous statue of Washington, by Canova, the bust of W. A. Graham and the bronze tablet to the women of the Edenton Tea Party. Then there are the cannons of the Revolution, the Civil war and the war with Spain. From the roof of the capitol the view is very impressive. In sight are state buildings and grounds representing more than three millions of dollars, Mason's temple many notable schools, the state fair grounds, etc.

Among the attractions are the State Museum, with its 150,000 objects, so well illustrating North Carolina, and its Hall of History, the Supreme court library; the State library and Confederate soldiers home; the State school for the blind; the Central Hospital for the insane and epileptics; the State Agricultural and Mechanical college, the State's prison; the Roney library; the Executive mansion, in which Governor Kitchin lives; Rex Hospital; the Confederate cemetery; the National cemetery; the public cemeteries, with monuments over the graves of a dozen governors; the female colleges, great electric power plant, using water and steam power; the Methodist and Roman Catholic orphanages; the public schools; the Country club; the textile mills; Pul-

"BACK TO THE FARM"

IX.—The City Man as a Farmer.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

THE "back to the land" movement is not confined merely to keeping the people on the farms who are already there, although this is the most important part of the problem. The boys and girls born and reared in the country have a better appreciation of its problems and its possibilities than a city bred man or woman could ever have. Yet there are many country boys born with a taste for machinery that nothing but a factory can ever satisfy. There are many born with the ability to handle men that might make them the head of a great mercantile establishment. The city needs men of this kind, and the country can well afford to spare them, for it is for the good of the nation that they should go.

At the same time there are many city born boys and girls to whom the air of the crowded streets seems stifling. They love the country, and they belong there. There are others who through no fault of their own have never been able to get higher than the first round of the ladder. The fierce competition for places has left them well nigh stranded. With them it is a question of staying in the city at a pittance that scarcely suffices to maintain life in decency or of going to the country and making a comfortable living.

The fable of the daisy who tried to change places with the rose is often quoted to discourage such people from casting their fortunes in with the country. The cases where the city man and his family have been successfully transplanted to the country are too numerous to warrant the assumption that it cannot be done. At the same time it must be admitted that there are difficulties in the way. The easiest transition is made by the country boy who has grown tired of city life. He is used to the ways of the farm, and it will be a short task for him to learn the new methods and take up the furrow at the point where he left it a few years ago.

For the man who has lived all his life in the city the proposition is altogether different and much more difficult. He has all the ways of the new life to learn. He is unused to country life, and country customs. Worst of all, he is unused to country methods. If a man listens too credulously to the land shark who tells him that on the farm he proposes to sell conditions are all so perfect that a gentle tickling of the soil will bring forth bountiful results disappointment is almost sure to follow. The real estate men are in the business for money, and if they can make a sale by minimizing the need of training for farming they are going to do it. Farming is composed of three parts—the art, the science and the business. Of the three the latter is the only one that the average city man knows anything about. The same business principles that apply to any line of business hold good on the farm. Common sense and a fair amount of business ability comprise the chief essentials to success in handling the business end of farming.

There remain the art and the science. For a young man undoubtedly the best place to learn the science of farming is in a school or college. The agricultural college offers the most complete course of instruction along this line. A considerable share of the enrollment at the agricultural college is made up of city boys who are there to learn the science of farming. I have known many of these college made city farmers—a combination that would have shocked the practical man of the past generation into insensibility. I have known many of them to go to farming or to follow some line of work closely related to farming, and I have yet to see the first failure.

A college education means a considerable cost in both time and money. The city man who wants to turn farmer seldom has a very large supply of the latter. To such men the secondary courses in agriculture, or "short courses," make a special appeal. A short course of a year or two years, one of these schools will go a long way toward grounding the city farmer in the principles of scientific agriculture. Even such a course is impossible for the greater share of the city men who see the opportunities of farm life and would like to become farmers. The next best thing is a course of home study. A number of agricultural colleges offer correspondence courses in agriculture, by means of which the science of agriculture can be learned quite thoroughly. Then there are a great number of experiment station and government bulletins which may be had for the asking. There are many good books on agriculture in its various branches. Last, but by no means least, there is the agricultural press. Much of the advancement that has been made in agriculture is due to the agricultural papers. They stand for all that is best and most progressive in rural life, and they contain a fund of information on methods of farm practice that are invaluable to a beginner.

There yet remains the art of farming—that is, the art of handling the plow, of caring for the horses, of feeding the cows, of regulating the machinery and the thousand and one other things that the farmer must know how to do. The only way the art of farming can be learned is by practice. The best way for the city man with limited capital to learn is to hire out to some good farmer by the month. Farm help is scarce, and farmers are always glad to get faithful men at fair wages. They prefer skilled men, but these are often impossible to obtain. It is not at all difficult for a sober, industrious city man who really wants to learn farming to get a job with a good farmer. In such a place he can learn how to meet all the emergencies that come up on a farm. It is even easier for a married man to get this sort of job than it is for a single man. Farmers have a theory, which is generally correct, that married men are more to be depended upon. Many of them are willing to furnish a house and garden to a man for the sake of getting one with a family.

After spending a year or two working for some one else who would be farmer will have a fairly good idea of the art of farming. If he has been putting in his spare moments studying, he will have a fair understanding of the science of farming. His own common sense and the training he has received in town will fit him to handle the business end. He is now in a position where he can plan on going to work for himself. He will have saved something from his wages while on the farm, and he probably had a little money saved up before. Then comes the question of whether to buy or to rent. A good many beginners in farming make the mistake of tying all their capital up in land and having nothing left for stock and equipment. In order to make the farm pay the farmer must have plenty of working capital. It is usually better to rent for a few years until enough money has been saved to make a fair payment on the land. Then a farm can be bought without robbing the equipment fund.

The question of where to locate is an important one and one which the conflicting mass of evidence makes hard to decide. The irrigated districts of the west offer some of the best opportunities to be found anywhere. The country is new, and settlers are welcome. Land is high, but it does not take much of it to yield a good living.

The dry farming districts of the west have been loudly boomed. This dry farming land can be bought very cheaply. It costs little to get a start. At the same time the man who goes on a dry farm must remember that only half of his land will yield a crop each year, sometimes not more than a third of it. The principle of dry farming is to cultivate the land for a year or two without sowing a crop. This prevents the rain which falls from evaporating, and by the second or third year enough moisture will have been stored up to raise a crop. No one should think of going on a dry farm without having enough money laid by to pay expenses for two or three years without any income. Dry farming means many losses and much discouragement, but the success of many dry farmers proves that it offers opportunities to the man who has the courage to stick.

The fertile lands of the middle west have been little advertised of late, and many people are of the opinion that this part of the country is already fully settled. This is far from being the case. The Mississippi valley could support four or five times its present farming population with ease. Land is high, but it is worth the price. The middle west offers the advantage of progressive neighbors, good churches, schools and colleges and modern conveniences of every sort. There are thousands of chances for the city man in this section.

In the east probably the best opportunities are found in truck farming. Only a small tract of land is required, and the returns are large.

The abandoned farms of New England can be purchased very cheaply. They can never be made as productive as the lands farther west, but under proper treatment the fertility can be restored and a very comfortable profit secured from them.

The agricultural opportunities of the south have been little advertised, yet there is no section of the country where the opportunities of the small farmer are greater. Diversified farming and stock raising are a comparatively new thing in this section. The men who are growing less cotton and more corn and hogs and dairy cows are getting ahead. Land is cheaper here than in many parts of the country and can be made very productive

AWFUL PAINS FULLY DESCRIBED

A Lady of Pizarro Tells Story of Awful Suffering That Cardui Finally Relieved.

Pizarro, Va.—"I suffered for several years," writes Mrs. Dorna A. Smith, "with that awful backache and the bearing down sensations, so fully described in your book."

"I tried doctors and other medicines and found little relief, until I was induced to try Wine of Cardui, when I found instant relief and today I can heartily recommend Cardui to all suffering women and think there is no other as good."

In some instances, Cardui gives instant relief; in others, it may take a little time. But in all cases of female trouble Cardui can be depended on to be of benefit, as it is a specific remedy for women and acts in a curative way on the womanly organs.

As a general tonic for women, to build up your strength, improve your appetite, bring back rosy cheeks and make you look and feel young and happy, nothing you can find will do so much for you as Cardui.

Your druggist has it.

PROJECT NEARS COMPLETION.

Inland Waterway From Beaufort to Pamlico Sound to be Opened.

Information received at the office of the United States engineer in this city is to the effect that at the present rate of progress, the inland waterway project from Beaufort to Pamlico Sound will be completed about November 15th at which time the canal will be formally opened. Citizens of Carteret county are planning a big celebration on the date of the opening of the canal and it will be a great occasion for the people of that section.

The distance from Beaufort harbor to Pamlico Sound is about 18 miles and all but about 4,000 feet of the canal has been completed. Two dredges are now busy cutting away rapidly the 4,000 remaining feet. One is on the Adams' creek end and the other on the Cor's creek end, going toward each other just as rapidly as possible, and if the present fine progress keeps up the two will meet about the 15th of November. The exact date upon which the waters will be connected cannot be told yet, for unforeseen delays may be occasioned on the work.

The canal that will connect the two waters is 125 feet in width and a high tide will have a depth of 12 feet and a depth of 10 feet at mean low water—sufficient to float a good sized vessel—and answer all purposes for which the big ditch is being dug.

Capt. Earl I. Brown, United States engineer in charge of this district and his secretary, Mr. H. H. Ford, are probably on their way from the Wilmington office, will be present when the two dredges and the canal is declared completed.—Wilmington Star.
