COUNTY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Holds First Meeting of the School Year.

The teachers' association of Pitt county had its first meeting today in the auditorium of the graded school with a much larger attendance than was anticipated on account of the inclemency of the weather, and none of the rural public schools yet having been organized.

The devotional exercises were ably conducted by Rev. J. H. Shore, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. The regular work of organization was then taken up with Prof. H. H. McLean president and Miss Barnhill temporary secretary, in the absence of Miss Elizabeth Boushall.

A nominating committee was appointed and after some deliberation, reported the following officers for this year: Prof. H. B. Smith, president; Prof. Ray Funderburke, vice-president; Miss Lizzina Moore, secretary; Miss Margaret Goddy, assistant secretary; Prof. F. C. Nye, press reporter; Prof. H. H. McLean, conductor of the reading course.

Prof. Robt. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers' Training school, was present and extended the association a hearty welcome to visit them every opportunity.

The outline of the work for this year will be worked out and announced at the next meeting.

Every effort will be made to make this year the best in the history of the association to this, and it will require co-operation on the part of every teacher in the county, and we feel sure that all will gladly do this.

The Country Schoolhouse.

The old country schoolhouse of not so long ago will soon be a relic of the past, said James Tighe, of Altoona, Pa. Although one traveling through the country sees many of these old fashioned structures, he does not realize that they are rapidly being deserted and that a consolidated schoolhouse will be met with farther up the road. These new buildings are graded and many have several high school courses, so that one teacher now teaches only one class, whereas in the old days the pedagogue taught everything from the alphabet to Latin. Of course, the consolidated schoolhouse is not so convenient to all the children as they have to go a greater distance, but all of them ride to school nowadays. The consolidated school is much cheaper to the community and what the farmer saves in taxes he puts in sleighs and wagons so that his children may ride. Pupils can also remain at their home schools much longer than they formerly did and this is also a great saving. We may expect great results from this change, for the farmers with their parochial schools have turned out some wonderful men, and they should do even better under the new conditions.

The Overshadowing Issue.

The overshadowing issue in the State campaign this year is the purpose of the Republican leaders, headed by Marion Butler, to get control of the legislature to force the people to pay the bonds the State has declared again and again that it will not pay. Nearly every Southern State that was controlled by Republicans prior to 1876 was looted of everything in sight and bonds were issued as fast as the presses could turn them out, and the carpet-bag and scalawag thieves in control of those State governments disposed of them for a song, for their enrichment. The State got little or nothing from these issues, and when the reconstruction knaves were driven from power and the white people came back in control of their own affairs these fraudulent bonds were repudiated, and all men who knew how they were issued approved the repudiation. There are now outstanding of such bonds more than a hundred million dollars owned by syndicates who are willing to risk a little money to try to compel Southern States to pay them. Only a few months ago the Greensboro News, Republican organ, said: "Many people want to know if the holders of the fraudulent State bonds are behind Marion Butler in his efforts to get control of North Carolina."—Concord Tribune.

Congressman Small at Grimesland.

Congressman John H. Small will speak with the county candidates in Grimesland on next Saturday, 15th. A large crowd should be present.

MAN IN DANGEROUS POSITION

Young Lady Rushes Out and Stops His Horse and Prevents a Tragedy.

A white man, whose name was not learned, who came in to the circus Friday and filled up on too much of what was not red lemonade, came near figuring in a tragedy as he was starting out of town late in the evening. He was riding along in his buggy on Cotanch street, and became so "top heavy" that he tumbled over the side of the seat and fell with his head in the buggy wheel. His horse was trotting along, and the spokes of the wheel were playing a tattoo on his head. Several ladies saw from their porches the man's predicament, and woman like, some of them screamed. Miss Allie Rives, possessed a braver spirit than the others, rushed out and ran ahead of the horse and stopped the animal by catching the bridle. She held the horse until other men came up and got the man out of his dangerous position. It was a brave act on the part of the young lady.

UPRISING IN HONDURAS.

American Interests Menaced and Gun Boat Will Be Sent

By Wire to The Reflector.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 8.—British counsel and all foreigners in western Honduras are in flight before an uprising, and the English cruiser Scylea is steaming at full speed towards the war scene, according to a cablegram received here today from Amalpa, Honduras. The message states that anarchy reigns and many have been killed and wounded. The commandant of the Honduran barracks at Amalpa threatened to burn at the stake every foreigner in town at the expiration of twenty-four hours. American interests are menaced and it is expected a gunboat will be ordered to the scene.

TROUBLE IN PORTUGAL.

King Manuel Tried to Kill Himself But Was Prevented by Mother.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Paris, Oct. 8.—It is learned here today that when King Manuel was apprised of the declaration of the establishment of a republic in Portugal, he tried to kill himself, but was prevented from so doing by his mother. Lisbon is under perfect order but the royalists still hold some of the northern provinces. A Jesuit convent was stormed today and a score of monks are reported dead, as well as several soldiers. The attack was precipitated by a monk who attacked through fear a crowd of people passing the convent.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN.

This Time Down in Dixie and Receives Hearty Welcome.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Rome, Ga., Oct. 8.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning in high good humor over the welcome he is receiving on his Southern trip. He is not talking politics in the South, the only reference being made at Bristol, Va., where he praised Republican Congressman Slemp. The Col. went first to Miss Berry's celebrated school, where he got off his usual platitude and was entertained by boys with some Southern songs and was presented with a "big stick," which he accepted with the remark that it "would come in handy at Saratoga." This brought cheers from the school boys and all were pleased. He is in Atlanta this afternoon.

There wouldn't be money enough in the world to make up to woman for some ashes for roses she had kept in a glove for years.

DRY ROT IN MEN.

The first external revelations of the dry rot in men is a tendency to lurk and lounge; to be at street corners without intelligible reason; to be going anywhere when met; to be about many places rather than any; to do nothing tangible, but to have an intention of performing a number of tangible duties tomorrow or the day after.—Dickens.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

Fayetteville, Oct. 7.—Seven miles from here today Charles Corks tenant on the farm of R. C. Leggett, shot and probably mortally wounded William Leggett, a brother and overseer of R. C. Leggett. Corks was brought here tonight and lodged in jail. Mr. Leggett is at St. Luke's hospital.

Spencer, Oct. 6.—A. J. Henry, residing near Spencer, has just found a long-lost brother, LaFayette Henry, who is living at Cornelius, Mecklenburg county, and who has been lost to the family for more than 20 years. The brothers have not seen each other for 22 years, the younger of the two, LaFayette Henry, having left the old homestead in Davidson county, when merely a boy. He was found through T. O. Harwell, manager of the Spencer steam laundry, with whom Marshall J. Henry, a nephew of the lost relative, was talking. Mr. Harwell stated that he knew a man of that name at Cornelius, and upon inquiry by letter, it was found that he is still living there and doing well. M. J. Henry, accompanied by his family, left Spencer today for a visit to the long lost brother.

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—This morning Ernest H. Muth, agent for Collier's Weekly, was bound over to the Superior court by Police Justice Stronach, charged with robbing the residence of E. C. Robertson, on Polk street of $75 worth of jewelry and some money. He found the family all away and entered yesterday forenoon helping himself to the valuables. He was captured by the police last evening as he was leaving town at the union station and admitted his guilt, returning the valuables which he had in his case. Muth is 18 years old and well dressed, with pleasing manners.

The State fair management has established this year special contests for corn growers and cotton growers, for men and for boys, offering large prizes, as much as $100.00 for the best corn grown by a man, and $100.00 for the best corn grown by a boy under eighteen. Samples are to be on exhibition at the fair during the week of October 17-22. All particulars as to these contests will be promptly furnished on application to the secretary, Joseph E. Pogue, Raleigh, N. C.

THE ADVERTISEMENTS.

Gives An Index to the Business of a Town.

The advertising columns of the newspapers are a certain index of the successful business houses of a city or town. The rule holds good in every metropolis in the civilized world. Printer's ink has made thousands of men rich and never yet made one poor. The bold advertisers are the successful businessmen. Those that launch out and scatter broadcast tracts and figures keeping business ever before the people never relaxing, never retreating, but always pressing forward, pushing ahead, never to have to regret "lost opportunities" or "what might have been," but unbounded success is theirs, to which the world pays homage and many attribute to luck as a favorite of fortune when the real source of this great success lies directly through the channel of judicious, persistent advertising.—Ex.

Feels Good To Farmers.

The Farmers' Union in this section is now laying plans to sow the biggest crop of wheat and oats this fall that has been sown in a long time. The farmers as a general rule are highly pleased with the returns from their sowing last year, so much so in fact that they are determined to go at it on a more extensive scale this year. It feels good to them to have their own bread at home and not have to buy it at the prevailing high prices. And the fact that Waxhaw is to have a good roller mill plant in operation before this time next year is no small incentive to farmers in this territory to sow a good crop of wheat this fall and make all their bread at home. All of this points plainly to a better day for our farmers just ahead, and every man who has the best interests in his community at heart will rejoice to see it come.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

WHY MEAT IS HIGH.

Burlington News Comments on Some Beef Trust Figures.

Thirty-five per cent is the amount of profit Armour & Company forced the public to pay last year. This became known through a statement submitted by Armour & Company in connection with the listing of a bond issue of $30,000,000 on the stock exchange. The company by its own showing made a gross profit of $10,582,000 for the year 1909 on a capital stock of $29,000,000 and earned a surplus of $7,127,926, or the equivalent of a dividend of 35.6 per cent. As the price of beef was boosted with the beginning of 1910 it would appear that in the opinion of Armour & Company a 35.6 per cent profit on capital stock is not ample, even though the commodity involved is one of the necessities of life. Armour & Company is one of the beef trust firms which enjoyed perfect immunity from prosecution by the government, until Federal Judge Landis, of Chicago, an insurgent, forced the Taft administration to "take cognizance of the fact that the beef trust was illegally holding up the public."—Burlington News.

A Love Story You Should See.

A human, appealing love story has ever been the magnet for the younger folk in Mr. Thomas Dixon's plays and novels. A story of this sort is his latest drama, "The Sins of the Fathers," coming to the Lyceum Theatre, Wilson, N. C., next Wednesday, October 12. The lovers are the son of a brave Confederate veteran and a young Southern girl who has been educated in a convent in the North. Theirs is a case of love at first sight, but they incur parental displeasure. A skeleton in the family closet, with grinning skull and warning bony finger, forbids the bans. The romance is shrouded with tragic horror, for death seems the only possible solution of the terrific problem. The play does not end unhappily, however. Like Captain Cameron and Elsie Strueman in "The Clansman," the lovers triumph at last, and the grisly visitor from the shades is cheated of his prey.

The Norfolk Southern railroad will sell round trip tickets from Greenville at 75 cents for the above afternoon.

Good Roads.

One of the big days of the State fair this year will be "Good Roads Day," Wednesday, October 19th. Road machinery of all kinds, the most modern and up-to-date that has been devised as a result of the recent agitation for good roads, will be on exhibition and working. This good roads demonstration has been worked up for a long time, and with the utmost diligence and it will be one of the chief educational features of the fair of 1910. The plan is to provide stone on the ground for crushing purposes, and a space 400 by 30 feet has been laid off for the construction of a modern road in sections by the different lines of machinery exhibited, so that each manufacturer can demonstrate his system of road making before the very eyes of the visitors.

Can't Laugh There.

Mr. C. T. Cox, the inimitable laughter, has been drawn as a juror for November court, and says that is not a laughing matter at all, as it looks too serious to him. We don't see how it would be possible to hold him down to the solemnity of a week in the court room without so much as even a chance to smile or loud. If he should turn loose one it would be sure to break up the court for the time being.

Low Rates to Wilson.

On account of the presentation of "The Sins of the Father" in Wilson on the night of the 12th, the Norfolk Southern railroad will sell round trip tickets at reduced rates. The fare from Washington and points east of Greenville is $1.00, and from Greenville and Farmville 75 cents.

Low Rates to State Fair.

The Norfolk Southern railroad will sell round trip tickets to the State fair and home-coming week in Raleigh at extremely low rates. Tickets will be sold from the 15th to 22nd, inclusive, good to return until 24th. Tickets agents will furnish information.

QUICKNESS OF MIND.

Quickness is among the least of the mind's properties and belongs to her in almost her lowest state. Nay, it doth not abandon her when she is driven from her home, when she is wandring and insane. The mad often retain it, the liar has it, the cheat has it, education does not give it, and reflection takes away from it.—Laudor.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

There are business men who find it easier to talk dull times than it is to advertise and make times better.

The circus brought a rain before it quit.

Now for the split-log drag on the streets.

It is going to be cooler now.

Those who left their umbrellas when they went to the circus had to take the rain on the way home.

The election is one month from today.

Notwithstanding the dampness, there was considerable cotton on the market today. The price was around 14 1-8.

The Baptist choir will meet for practice at the church at 7.30 tonight.

The weather is about to get in the disagreeable stage, but it has been pretty many days.

A big lot of building material is getting on the court house square.

The Farmers' Union held a meeting here this afternoon.

It was about the luck of the teachers to have bad weather for their meeting day.

Please Take Notice.

All members of Memorial Baptist church are requested to come prepared Sunday at the eleven o'clock service to make their final contribution to all objects of the mission boards. The association meets Tuesday, the 11th inst., and what is going to be done must be done Sunday morning. COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS.

LOTTERY IN ITALY

Gambling Under the Auspices of the Government.

THE DRAWING IN PUBLIC.

An Eager, Excited, Turbulent Crowd Watches This Ceremony With Intense Interest—The Prizes and the Chances of the Players.

King Humbert I. made the rules for the public lottery of Italy:

First.—The public lottery is temporarily maintained by the favor of the state under the following laws.

Second.—It is administered by the minister of finance, under whom the chiefs are chosen for their respective functions.

Third.—The lotto is formed by ninety, numbered from 1 to 90, inclusive, five of which drawn by chance determine the successful.

Fourth.—One can "play the lotto" in the following manner:

On one number (very rarely played).
On all five numbers (very rarely played).

On two numbers—the "ambo."
On three numbers, which is known as the "terno."

On four numbers, which is known as the "quaterno."

Fifth.—When one number is played the winner is paid ten times and a half his output; when two numbers are played the winner is paid 350 times his output; when three numbers are played the winner is paid 5,250 times his output; when four numbers are played the winner is paid 60,000 times his output. Therefore if one has by any chance bought a No. 1 ticket and wins the four numbers (quaterno) he wins $90,000.

At 5 o'clock on every Saturday afternoon throughout all Italy the drawing of the lotto takes place. In Naples the ceremony is held at the end of a foul, filthy alley known as the Impresca, back in a great courtyard, in full view of the people on the balcony of an old palace. From early in the afternoon until the fatal hour the streets of Santa Chiara and the alley fill up with the crowd whose hope on this day is to be deceived. The streets are always so full of life that for this extra crowd, jostling, pushing and eager, there would seem to be no place. It is comprised of the very poor. The better classes watch for the telephone or the showing of the numbers in the various banks in the city to discover their fate, but in the Impresca the crowd of people is as dense as a shadow. There are many here who have paid their last cent for a ticket. There are many here who are in debt for the shoes they wear and will never be able to pay for them. But at the stroke of the church clock the blinds of the balcony open and the paraphernalia of the lotto are brought out—a long green table, on which is placed a crystal ball bound with silver, and an iron box containing ninety other little boxes, in which the ninety numbers are locked by the state. The officers of this performance are coolly indifferent, and the only figure deserving of note is that of the little orphan child, dressed in snowy white, chosen by law from the orphan asylum to draw up from the crystal ball the five magic numbers.

At the sight of these familiar, looked for objects the crowd begins to cry and chant, to beseech and evoke. It begs the little orphan child to draw well. And the child in his white robe, his innocent eyes on the mass of people, looks down on the beggars with their yellow locks and on the appealing mass. One by one the balls are taken out from their sealed boxes, displayed to the people and dropped into the big bowl.

They have blindfolded the little bambino, and he stands on a chair, for he is only eight years of age and is small, in full sight of the people. The balls having been shaken around for the last time, the child puts his hand in and draws. The first number that he pulls out is called forth—"No. 5." Now every Italian who has bought No. 5 for place has either won or lost. No one holds this number in this crowd, however, and there is a murmur—and a fresh adjuration for the child to draw well. The people who have drawn for the terno and the quaterno still have their chance. The child draws again, this time No. 47, and the holders of the terno are now the interested ones, for the next will be their last chance. The enthusiasm breaks forth again with murmurs and cries and prayers, and the quiet child before the urn in his white dress hears them and trembles, for he knows that he is menaced. Before the people there is a blackboard, and a man posts up the numbers as they are drawn—5, 47, 11, 10 and 80. And this series of five is discussed, yelled at, challenged, cursed, for not one in the crowd has drawn a fortunate number. The child's eyes are unbound, and he is put down and set free. The balls are returned into their boxes sealed up and carried away under the eyes of the crowd, which after waiting for a moment, unable to believe its ill fortune, breaks up and disperses. Apathy is thrown upon the majority as much as such a state of mind is possible to a Neapolitan mass as they begin in groups to discuss the failure of their schemes and their combinations.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's Magazine.

Joy is more divine than sorrow, for joy to bread and sorrow is medicine.—Beecher.

Stage Snow In Spring.
In a play called "1812" in which Napoleon's crossing of a frozen river is shown with snow falling, the last act shows an old soldier's return home. It is springtime, there are roses climbing up the cottage walls, the fruit trees are in bloom, and the old hero sits in a chair in a cozy room with all the windows open. But, much to the spectators' amusement, snow continued to fall not only outside the room, but inside it. The actor who played the old soldier noticed the audience's amusement, and to account for the snow he gagged. "Pay no attention to the snow," he said to his stage wife. "It's a habit I contracted in Russia."—London M. A. P.

Early Statuary.
The earliest statues were, as a matter of course, of wood, since the first artists lacked the tools necessary to work in stone. From all accounts, the first to sculpture marble were Dionysus and Scyllis of Crete, probably around 500 B. C. The great edifices of Rome, as a rule, were constructed of or at least incased in marble. The famous ruins of Palmyra are of white marble. Regarding the cause of the superior excellence of the Greek sculpture no satisfactory word can be spoken. There is no accounting for genius. Like the wind, we see the work thereof, but know not "whence it cometh nor whither it goeth."—New York American.

Making It Clear to Him.
"It is very difficult to understand London English," said an American. "I know a man who had lodgings in Bloomsbury, near the British museum. On his return from the museum one afternoon my friend said to his landlady: "Can I have a cup of tea, if you please?" "Certainly, sir; at once," the landlady replied. "The kettle 'as been b'illin' for ours." "But—er—I prefer freshly boiled water, if you don't mind," stammered my friend. "The landlady reddened with anger. "Look 'ere," she said, "if I 'ad meant wot you mean I'd 'ave said b-ours." Its Use.

30 Days Trial In your Home

Our enthusiasm concerning The FREE Sewing Machine is so great that we are absolutely certain that if you once have it in your own home you will never think of owning any other—that if you once find out the convenience of its scores of 20th Century improvements then the time for you to think of possessing any sewing machine but will have gone forever. For that reason we propose that you try The Free for 30 days. We want you to keep it in your home—to sew on it—to test it in any way you choose—to compare it with any sewing machine you know of and then make your decision. Unless you are fully satisfied—more than satisfied—send it back to us—it will not cost you a cent—we will refund all you have paid on it. We know that such an actual test for 30 days will show you that all other sewing machines are thirty years behind the times, ugly and full of out of date imperfections. Side by side with its beautiful French Leg design, the old style machine will look like a relic of the past. To make it still easier for you to find all this out, we will sell you The FREE on your own terms and on payments as low as

The FREE

$1.00 A Week

The price of the machine we do not dare to publish because it is so low that you would think we exaggerated when we tell you in the same breath that it is the Lightest Running Sewing Machine in the World, The Most Perfect Stitching Machine in the World, The Fastest Sewing Machine in the World, The Most Beautiful Sewing Machine in the World, —That it has all the good points ever known to sewing machines, that it has eliminated all the bad points and that it has a score of special improvements besides. In order to learn of the remarkably low price, we want you to come to the store and first allow us to show you its many points of superiority.

KILLING THE UMPIRE.

It is an Essential Part of the Great Game of Baseball.

According to bleacher law, there are three particularly justifiable motives for doing away with umpires: An umpire may be killed—first, if he sees fit to adhere to the rules and make a decision against the home team at a close point in the game; second, if an umpire may be killed if he sends a member of the home team to the bench when the player in question has done absolutely nothing but call the umpire names and attempt to bite his ear off (an umpire has no business to be touchy); third (and this is a perfect defense against the charge of murder), an umpire may be killed if he calls any batter on the home team out on strikes when the player has not even struck at the balls pitched. That the balls go straight over the plate has nothing to do with the case.

There is ample proof at hand to show that killing the umpire is a distinctly American sport. Other countries have tried baseball, but they have not tried killing the umpire. That is probably the reason why they have not waxed enthusiastic over baseball, for baseball without umpire killing is like football without girls in the grand stand. It simply can't be done. That foreign countries know nothing about our king of outdoor sports was indicated forcibly when in the fall of 1909 the Detroit team made a trip to Cuba under the management of Outfielder McIntyre. In the entire series of twelve games with the Havana and Almendares nines not one single objection was made by either the Cuban players or the silent Cuban spectators to a decision of the umpires. The Americans did not know what to think of it—until they counted up the gate receipts at the end of the series. Then they realized that in their own country it is the delight in killing the umpire rather than the pleasure in watching the game that draws the tremendous crowds through the turnstiles.—George Jean Nathan in Harper's Weekly.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

Light Waves and the Wonderfully Accurate Interferometer.

At the bureau of weights and measures at Sevres, France, the standard meter of metal, which is the standard length of the world, is kept carefully in an underground vault and is inspected only at long intervals. In Great Britain similar care is exercised in guarding the standard yard measurement. As it was possible for these metal standards to be destroyed or damaged in the course of time, it was decided a number of years ago to determine the exact length of the standards in wave lengths of light, which would be a basis of value unalterable and indestructible. For this purpose the instrument known as the interferometer was invented. This instrument represented the highest order of workmanship and the greatest skill of the best opticians of the world. A series of refracting plates were made, the surfaces of which were flat within one-twentieth of a wave length of light, with sides parallel within one second, representing the utmost refinement of optical surfaces ever attempted.

With the interferometer perfected, the attempt was made to make the wave length of some definite light an actual and practical standard of length. For over a year scientists worked to secure this result, and experiments finally showed that there were 1,553,164½ wave lengths of red cadmium light in the French standard meter at 15 degrees centigrade. So great is the accuracy of these experiments that they can be repeated within one part in two millions. So inconceivably small is such a possibility of error that should the material standard of length be damaged or destroyed the standard wave length of light would remain unaltered as a basis from which an exact duplicate of the original standard could be made.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Buttons.

The Elizabethan era gave vogue to the button and buttonhole, two inventions which may fairly be regarded as important, since they did much to revolutionize dress. The original button was wholly a product of needle work, which was soon improved by the use of a wooden mold. The brass button is said to have been introduced by a Birmingham merchant in 1680. It took 200 years to improve on the method of sewing the cloth upon the covered button. Then an ingenious Dane hit upon the idea of making the button in two parts and clamping them together with the cloth between.

Dissatisfied.

The haughty looking woman upon whose features the dermatologist had been working for more than two hours sneered when she glanced in the mirror. "I certainly thought you knew your business," she snapped, "but you have not even given me fair treatment."

The man shrugged his shoulders. "If you had wanted fair treatment you should have been more explicit," he retorted. "I thought from what you told me that you wanted brunette."—Chicago News.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Oct. 8.—There was much excitement on the cotton market today when trading started with prices ranging from 12 to 15 points higher. Trading was most active in similar period so far during season. Many traders had sold out or gone short of the market, believing that the top of the bulge had been obtained Friday. Strong cables were mainly responsible for the bullish tone. Opening: October 14.56; December 14.65; January 14.69; March 14.85.

New York, Oct. 8.—Quotations were practically unchanged at the opening today, but after the first 20 minutes of trading fractional declines were noted in many instances. Losses of from 1-8 to 3-8 of a point were scored in some standard railroad shares and prominent industrials. Steel sold off 1-4 from the close, Amalgamated copper lost 3-4 and Canadian Pacific 1-8. Despite rumors of favorable reply by the Southern railway to be issued next week, that stock quoted fractional loss, both in common and preferred.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Weakness in Liverpool, following an upturn in Chicago, brisk statistics and unsettled weather, caused easy wheat market, 5-8 to 3-4 lower. Corn also opened easier, with small trade. Oates were lower with other grains. Provisions a shade easier. Opening: Wheat, December, '8; corn 49 1-4; oats 32 5-8.

Uniform Made a Hit.

The first Confederate uniform ever worn in a southern theater after the war was the one used by a young actor, himself the son of a Confederate soldier, for the first performance of "Held by the Enemy," by William Gillette and his company in Richmond, Va. That was in 1898. The appearance of the gray uniform, even when worn by one who had no lines to speak, was the signal for deafening applause in the audience, much to the surprise of the actors, who had grown so accustomed to it as to forget its significance.—Chicago News.

Brief and Sincere.

One of the briefest and no doubt one of the most sincere addresses ever delivered on the subject of capital punishment was made in Worcester county, Mass., more than two generations ago. A notorious character of the name of Charley James, standing on the gallows with the noose properly adjusted, was asked before the cap was drawn over his face if he would like to say a few words.

"Ladies and gentlemen—beg pardon, gentlemen," he said—"standing where I do, I am unalterably opposed to capital punishment."—Everybody's.

THE FAT GODDESS.

A Picture That Jarred the Nerves of a French Art Patron.

M. Durand, a French picture buyer of a century ago, had little wisdom as a critic, and his ambition, compounded equally of childlike vanity and genuine benevolence, was to figure as a patron of youthful genius.

One of the earliest commissions he bestowed was upon a young artist who selected for his subject a scene of classic mythology, in which the assembled gods were depicted upon Mount Olympus. When it was finished M. Durand was invited to the studio to inspect it. His face clouded as he gazed.

"Young man," he declared, "you have not treated me fairly. It is true I do not pretend to know everything about art, but I am not a fool, and I know that gods and goddesses should be no less noble than kings and queens. These people of yours are not even aristocrats! Madame, my wife, does not pretend to be a fine lady, yet when I put my two hands around her waist it is by an inch only that they fall to meet, and as for Juliette, my daughter, she is as slender as a needle. Look now at that big, clumsy woman in a loose gown who you say is queen among the gods! She has no figure at all. She is all the way down the same. Pouf! Call her a lady and a goddess—she is without stays and without waist! Mme. and Mlle. Durand would make a mock of her, your Juno! Pouf! She is a peasant, a pillow, a pig!"

Nevertheless he was convinced by infinitely tactful explanations that the wasp waist was unknown in classic antiquity, even to goddesses. It was with proud complacency that he finally accepted the picture and the knowledge that the sovereign lady of Mount Olympus had never attained the heroic compression achieved by Mme. and Mlle. Durand.

A GEOLOGIC PHENOMENON.

Raised Beaches and Caves of the Island of Arran.

The island of Arran is one of those places on the west of Scotland where the geologic phenomenon known as a "raised beach" is very apparent. All along the coast there are evidences that the land has been considerably elevated at some period of the world's history. One of these proofs is the presence of caves of various sizes formed by the action of the waves in the past, but which are now well above the present high water mark. The farmers use some of the larger caves as shelters for sheep in stormy weather.

In a remote corner of the island one of these caves has been converted into a human habitation, where a family of several persons dwell in absolute seclusion. Their occupation is the gathering of whelks, an employment which is said to afford but a precarious livelihood. As the gathering of the shellfish can only be done at low water and as the fishers have no boat or other occupation, they have ample leisure to enjoy the pure air and bask in the sunshine.

Except for the drip from the face of the high rocks above, which is skillfully diverted, the cave is absolutely dry. The interior is shaped like a triangle, the floor forming the base. Save at the sides there is ample room to stand upright and move about inside. Besides the beds and cooking utensils, the cave contains many articles of various kinds, giving the interior quite a homelike appearance. The apology for a fireplace is some way back from the entrance, through which the smoke finds its way outside.—Wide World Magazine.

When the Japanese Advertise.

The Japanese have an original way of advertising, and they apply to the art all the poetry that their oriental imagination is capable of. They have recourse to the most varied and improvised methods, and their combinations are sometimes as picturesque as they are original. A Japanese merchant informs his customers that his goods are sent off with the rapidity of a shot. A stationer calls his knowledge of natural history to his aid thus: "Our wonderful paper is as durable as the hide of an elephant." A Tokyo grocer borrows from psychology and in morbid language announces that "our vinegar of extra quality is sharper than the bitterness of the most diabolical of mothers-in-law."
