TWENTY YEARS HAVE BROUGHT MANY CHANGES.

IN GREENVILLE THEY ARE ALL FOR PROGRESS.

A Visitor Gives His Impressions After an Absence of Two Decades—Factories Needed to Keep Growing.

The Reflector has a weakness for printing anything good that is said about Greenville, hence may be pardoned for using some extracts taken from a personal letter written by a business man of another state who left here twenty years ago, and recently spent a day here. We hope what he says about factories will especially put our business people to thinking. He says:

"I enjoyed my little stay in Greenville more than I can tell you. It has been twenty years since I left there, and I saw more of the place last Thursday than I had seen during my little trip in the twenty years. I could hardly realize the changes that had taken place and am sure I would get lost if I should try to find some of the places I used to visit, among them the old Greenville college and other places where some of my good friends lived.

"You have some as pretty streets as will be found anywhere, and all together the old town presents quite a city appearance. In talking with some friends here who visited Greenville recently, the first and only time we decided you have some as handsome residences as will be seen in any town.

"You all are justly proud of your Training school. I was glad to get a glimpse of the buildings and sorry that I could not see more of their interior. This school is a big thing for Greenville, but am sure Greenville will measure up to the responsibility of having it there.

"The Reflector, which has done so much for all these improvements, should feel duly proud of the results of its efforts, and the people should show their appreciation, as I am sure they do and always will by liberal patronage in every way. I notice you are still on the trail when you are talking factories. With so many stores throughout the country, convenient as they are to the country people, the cities and larger towns need factories to keep them booming and growing.

"While it was such a pleasure to note all these improvements, yet it made me sad to think of so many familiar faces are gone. Many I saw were getting gray, while 'Uncle John' (Crerry), who used to be such a fisherman, is now on a rolling chair. It made me think of my father who used one for ten years. I was glad to see him so bright and cheerful in the midst of such afflictions."

Suit for $150,000.

A big suit is on here now and being tried in the office of Messrs. Lucas & Spruill in this city, it being an action against Messrs. J. G. White & Company, big railroad contractors, to recover $150,000 alleged to be due Messrs. Good, Hart & Co., sub-contractors.

It will be remembered that Messrs. Good, Hart & Company were the first sub-contractors and threw the first dirt here on the new road. They brought a lot of Italians with them, but these soon tired of the job and returned north. Their part of the contract was completed with labor obtained in this locality.

The road went in the hands of a receiver, and Messrs. J. G. White & Company at that time alleged they could not pay their sub-contractors because they had been unable to collect from the road by virtue of the receivership and its inability to pay. Whether Messrs. J. G. White & Company ever received the entire amount of their claim against the Norfolk Southern, we are unable to say, but Good, Hart & Company claim they did not settle with them and are therefore suing to recover.

Mr. L. R. Varsler, of Kinston, is the referee, and the plaintiff is represented by Messrs. Pou & Finch, and the defendants by Messrs. Lucas & Spruill. There are a number of witnesses here from Chicago, New York and Pennsylvania. It will require several days to take evidence.—Wilson Times.

Grimesland Next Wednesday.

The Democratic county candidates will be at Grimesland next Saturday, 15th. Congressman John H. Small will be with them and speak.

CRUISER DEMANDS SURRENDER.

Of Honduran Fort—Washington Authorities Have no Information.

By Cable to The Reflector.
San Salvador, Oct. 12.—The Commandant of the United States cruiser Princeton today demanded the surrender of Gen. Jose Maria Valladoras, governor of Amapola, Honduras. The commandant of the fort defied the Princeton and sent word that he would fight to the death before giving up. It was reported that a detachment of marines would be landed to seize Valladoras. President Diavella, of Honduras, declared that he would move against the commandant, but failed to do so.

Nothing Known at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Acting Secretary of the Navy Wainwright, says he knows nothing of the demand by the United States gunboat for the evacuation of Gen. Valladoras at Amapola. He says the Princeton had been ordered to Amapola, but had not yet reached there.

WILL TIE UP FRANCE RAILROADS

Railway Unions Make Determined Move Against the Strikers.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The confederation of railway unions today voted to tie up every railway system in France, thus forcing a stagnation of strikers from northern and western railways to all lines owned by the state. More than a quarter million men and 25,000 miles of railroad are affected. Instructions were given that the vote should be made effective immediately, and it is believed that Paris will shortly be isolated. Soldiers will be used in moving trains as far as possible. President Fallieres reached the city today from his country seat and will deal personally with the crisis. More than 80,000 men were affected early today with the number being constantly augmented. Violence is anticipated here and elsewhere.

FREIGHT RATE QUESTION.

Railroads Are Asking to Make an Increase.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Presidents of several of the largest eastern railroads, attorneys and others representing various shipping interests, were witnesses before the inter-state commerce commission in important rate hearing today. The questions as finally determined will change railroad transportation and commodities from Chicago east and as far south as the Potomac river. President McRae of the Pennsylvania road was the first witness. He said net savings of the Pennsylvania was 5 1-2 per cent. and he thought an increase was justified.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

Thought to Have Connection With Blowing up Los Angeles Times.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 12.—George Wallace is under arrest here pending an investigation of his alleged connection with the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times building with a bomb. Wallace is supposed to be a miner familiar with working with dynamite. He was arrested while in the post office, and it is said attempted to destroy two letters when officers seized him. When pieced together one of the letters showed that he left Los Angeles suddenly the day after the explosion occurred.

WELLMAN DID NOT FLY.

His Backers Are Withdrawing Their Support.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 12.—Walter Wellman did not start to fly across the Atlantic today. His balloon was made ready but Wellman said the wind was too high. A great crowd had gathered to see him start, but all were pessimistic and a few smiled derisively when Wellman appeared. Members of the hotel men association declared at noon that they had withdrawn from the venture and refused to bear further responsibility for the proposed aerial jaunt.

"Mene, Tekle, Upharsin."

There is a great political upheaval in progress. It was started by the farmers and is being waged by them.

For the first time monopoly is waging a losing fight. The people are getting into the saddle. The Republicans see the handwriting on the wall: "Mene, tekell, upharsin," which being literally translated, means: "The Republican party has been lying and stealing and the people are finding it out." The farmers compelled the Republican party to adopt the tariff revision of the platform, but congress sold to the trusts and betrayed the people. The tariff schedules were written by the tariff beneficiaries. Not a single farmer, mechanic, working man or laborer was consulted, nor were their interest considered. No farm products are affected by the tariff. Their prices are the same the world over. They come in competition with the farm products of the world. Every necessity the farmer buys for himself and for the cultivation of the farm has no competition and the price is fixed by the tariff-made trusts. One hundred thousand farmers every year are leaving the United States and going to Canada because the price of their farm products are the same there while their necessary supplies are 50 per cent. cheaper. These people prefer a country ruled by a king, to our free United States under Republican tariff-graft rule.—Attorney-General Bickett.

WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 12, 1910.

Kings are not wearing easy crowns these days.

Since the census report gives Charlotte only 34,614, much less than was expected. Greensboro is mighty glum.

Even Durham can't pave her streets without having a dispute over it. Every municipality has its citizens who try to block progress.

Senator Elihu Root says the New York Republicans have nothing more than a fighting chance. That same opinion prevails throughout the country, senator.

Who cares if the price of radium has dropped a little! It is the price of hash that the folks have most interest in, and that stays up like it was anchored to an airship.

Charlotte's population of 34,614 as reported by the census is 88 per cent. larger than ten years ago when it was 18,091. The "Queen City" has done much growing in the decade, even if the count of noses was not as numerous as hoped for.

It seems difficult to get all the people of a community to agree on a matter that is largely in their interest and could not fail to prove beneficial. There was a meeting of Farmville township citizens here Tuesday, to take some action in regard to a proposition to drain upper Contentnea creek, but the division of sentiment was so strong that the proposition was withdrawn.

The One Crop Theory.

The Greenville, S. C., News is said to be propagating the theory that cotton being a monopoly in the South, should be planted to the exclusion of other crops. It seems to think that any diversification is all wrong. The News forgets that for the first thirty years after the civil war the South did not diversify much with the following results: For the first ten years succeeding the war, the South made an average annual production of 12,500,000 bales of cotton which sold at 25 cents per pound, making $300,000,000. In the second decade is made 5,000,000 bales, sold for 12 cents per pound and received the same $300,000,000. In the third decade it made 10,000,000 bales of cotton, got 6 cents per pound for it, and pocketed the same old $300,000,000 annually. These figures are rough average figures, but they are near enough to the mark to illustrate the principle that producing one crop and nothing but that crop will not do.

In the fourth decade, after quite a number of cotton mills were built, after the idea of diversification got a fair hold, the South made 20,000,000 bales of cotton, the same as in the third decade, and got $600,000,000. It seems that the world is always willing to take so much cotton at a fixed price. More cotton means less money and less cotton means more money.

The world will take 10,000,000 bales of cotton at 10 cents per pound, whereas, it will take 15,000,000 not exceeding 10 cents per pound. It seems irrational to talk about making 15,000,000 for the same approximate sum of money that 10,000,000 will bring. If we propose to use the monopoly to the best advantage for the home people, we had best make the equation so that we will produce the least quantity of cotton for the best sum. As a matter of fact the South has never been a one crop country. It has sometimes overdone the cotton business, but it has always been a big producer in other fields.

In regard to the staple crops the South is by the rest of the country, somewhat as the Texan claims for Texas, to-wit: More sugar than Louisiana; more horses than Kentucky; more mules than Missouri; more wheat than Minnesota; more corn than Kansas; more cattle than Wisconsin, and more cotton than any other two states in the Union. The South has always been a country of diversified crops. If we should approximately single out cotton and produce all we could cotton would fall to 3 cents per pound. There is easily such a thing as too much of a good thing, and all cotton for the South would certainly be too much of a good thing for the whole world.—Charlotte News.

The Spirit of Democracy.

Everywhere in North Carolina the glad cries of Democracy are heard. In every county in the State, Democratic speakers are on the stump, explaining to the people and pointing them to the right path. This argues well for deepest interest being shown, but, especially when one looks over the list of speakers it presents something stronger. The personal shows that not only are prominent men, and men, too of massive intellectual capacities, on the stump, having forsaken their business in order to preach Democratic doctrine, so that North Carolina will not go backward, but that the number includes many able Democrats who ran for the nominations of their party and were defeated. This latter vividly and well exemplifies great devotion to Democratic principles. Man after man who was defeated for some nomination is on the stump in North Carolina preaching Democratic doctrine. This shows as nothing else could, that Democracy is not love for office, a greed for gold, but that the man who has it in his heart stands for its principles in rainy weather, as well as in fair, and that he is going to always battle for it. It is such a spirit that makes North Carolina roll-up a big Democratic majority every two years. It is such a spirit that is going to carry the country Democratic in November.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Was The Penitent Thief of These.

In the precipices near the Galilean shores are a number of fortified caves which were the strongholds of robbers in the time of our Lord. Those robbers Josephus describes as having been finally dislodged by Roman soldiers, who were let down in boxes from the top of the precipice. Considering the dreadful oppression to which the common people were subjected under Roman rule, one can not doubt that many of these robbers took to the road from very justifiable anger at the cruel rule of such governors as Felix. I have, therefore, often thought that the penitent thief on the cross may not have had the mind of a wicked robber.—Designer.

Moist Air Saves Fuel.

Dryness of the air tempts to overheating of the living rooms, for dry air increases the evaporation of perspiration from the skin, thereby increasing the sensation of chilliness. Dry air at seventy five degrees will feel about as chilly as moist air at sixty-five degrees. Stoves, coils and furnaces should always have open vessels of water exposed to evaporation for the purpose of properly moistening the air. This moistening of the air will prove a saving of both coal bills and doctor's bills.—Designer.

The Greenville Reflector notes our recent remarks about 764 Wilmington women visiting a single store in a single day for the purpose of considering new bonnets, and caps the tale by declaring that a Greenville store entertained the other day no fewer than 609 of the fair creatures bent on the same errand. Considering the respective sizes of the two places, we are inclined to think that the Greenville husband as a type is considerably less well off than his brother at the mouth of the Cape Fear.—Charlotte Observer.

A woman is blamed for the downfall of King Manuel of Portugal. Of course, every fellow from Adam down to Manuel has had to have somebody to put the blame on.—Wilmington Star.

And Now the Fall Stove Question

And it is a question, isn't it? You've heard of so many stoves and read so many advertisements that you wonder what to believe. We don't want to try and tell you here about our splendid line of "Buck's"—we couldn't if we would; space would not permit. But, we know you want the best stove or range that your money can buy, one that will last you a lifetime and give you the best of service and that's why we want you to call and see our "Buck's"—we know they are best and that is why they are on our floors.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Greenville People Know How to Save It.

Many Greenville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. S. A. Simmons, 504 Heritage St., Kinston, N. C., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be an effective remedy for kidney trouble and headache. My back pained me for a long time and my kidneys were much disordered. I happened to read about Doan's Kidney Pills, and procuring a box, I began using them. They benefited me in every way and I am now free from backache and am able to rest well; in fact, I feel better in every way. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement." THE SHEEP AND THE GOATS

Matthew 25:31-46—October 16 "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

PREVIOUS studies have pointed us to the Kingdom and incited the Lord's people to strive to become members thereof—kings and priests unto God in association with the Redeemer. Today's study tells of the Kingdom, but from another standpoint. It explains the work of the Kingdom after it shall have been set up—after Messiah at his Second Advent shall have gathered his "Jewels" to constitute his Bride class—after these shall be with him in the Throne of his glory—after he shall have taken unto himself his great power and shall have begun his Messianic reign of righteousness "under the whole heavens." It is important in every study of the Scriptures that we recognize the Divine Plan as a whole and properly locate the teaching of each parable.

We know that the parable of the sheep and the goats belongs not to this Age, but to the coming Age of Mes-siah's glorious reign, because the introduction declares this, saying, "When the Son of man shall come in his glory and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the Throne of his glory, and before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats." Those sheep and goats will not include the Church, to whom the promise is,
"When he shall appear, ye also shall appear with him in glory"—sharing his Throne.

The salvation of the Church will be finished before the salvation of the world will begin. Today's study pictures the salvation of the world, showing us how every member of Adam's race will be on trial during the reign of Messiah and, by his obedience or disobedience to the light and knowledge then prevailing, he will be deciding his own everlasting future, either as a sheep or as a goat. It will require the entire one thousand years of Messiah's reign to complete the testing and separating work.

All then obedient will be recognized as children of God and brethren. All the disobedient will be reckoned as children of the Adversary and worthy to share his fate, because, under favorable conditions, they were rebellious. Such shall be destroyed with Satan in the Second Death, which is symbolically represented as fire, because fire is always destructive, never preservative. On the contrary, the sheep class at the conclusion of Mes-siah's reign will have reached perfection, the image and likeness of God, on the human plane. These will be invited to become the kings of earth under the Divine supervision—even as was Adam in his original perfection—crowned with glory and honor and set over or in control of the earthly creation (Psalm VIII, 3-5).

The terms and conditions which will test and determine who will be sheep and who will be goats, who will be obedient or disobedient to the Divine regulations, will be mercy, kindness, love. The loving and sympathetic character is the only one which God purposes shall have eternal life, either on the heavenly or on the earthly plane—all having either the wolfish or devilish character, or even the goat character—of waywardness and unsubmissiveness, will be accounted unworthy of any further blessing after the close of the reign of Messiah. The testing then will not be as to believing or disbelieving, striving to do well or not striving to do well. The church is dealt with now along such lines.
God's dealings with us make allowances for our unwilling imperfections.
But in the trial of the world in the future every man shall be tried according to his work, not according to his faith. In that time knowledge will have practically supplanted faith; hence faith will have no special rewards. Work will then have the rewards, and each member of the race will be expected to strive for perfect works and to be assistants of the Great King Emmanuel and his Bride, the Church on the spirit plane. Mankind will be enabled gradually to attain such perfection of mind and of body as will make perfect works possible. At the conclusion of the Millen-

... perfect works only will be rewarded.

Rewards and Punishments
We have already referred to the rewards that will be granted to the "sheep" class at the close of Messiah's reign—they will enter into life eternal and become possessors of the earthly Kingdom originally given to Adam, but lost through disobedience, and redeemed by the sacrifice of Jesus and restored by his Messianic reign, for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as in heaven."

As for the "goat" class, we have already intimated that their punishment will consist of destruction in fire, or destruction everlasting, the Second Death—the destruction which God has already determined for Satan and all who are his messengers and servants, after the manner of this goat class—because, with all the favorable opportunities, they failed to develop such characters as God could reward with life everlasting. The contrast is emphasized in the last verse of the study.
These (the goat class) shall go away into eternal punishment; but the righteous, the sheep class, into eternal life.

The contrast is perfect. The one gets life to all eternity. The other gets the specified punishment of destruction to all eternity. The Greek word here translated punishment is kolasin, which signifies restraint, cutting off—in this case cutting off from life—Second Death. "The wages (punishment) of sin is death."

Some one has well said:—
"Sow a thought and you reap an act; Sow an act and you reap a habit; Sow a habit and you reap a character; Sow a character and you reap a destiny." The Divine intention as respects the salvation of this Gospel Age and the salvation of the world during the coming Age is that only such as develop the God-like character shall be permitted to enjoy Divine favor to all eternity. God has determined that the time shall come when there shall be no more sighing, no more crying, no more dying; but instead, every creature in heaven and in earth and under the earth shall be heard praising God and the Lamb.

A Singular Request.
A peculiar fate is said to overhang the family of the late Sir Julian Gold-smid. An ancestor of his, so says the legend, once gave shelter to a rabbit, who at his death left to him a bequest of a mysterious box which was on no account to be opened until after the customary seven days of mourning. If opened before that time a curse would fall upon the family.
Curiosity got the better of superstition, and the box was opened before the seven days were up. In it was found a document which said that as the injunction of the rabbit had not been heeded no future owner of the estate would be succeeded by a son.
And such, strangely enough, has been the case ever since.

People Who Used to Eat Spiders.
The enjoyment of particular kinds of food is, after all, a matter of custom, and the African who revels in white ants is no more peculiar in his tastes than the European who eats cheese mites. A lady whom M. Reaumur knew was accustomed to devour spiders as fast as she could catch them, and a German lady gave it as her opinion that these creatures resembled in taste the most delicious nuts. A fellow countryman of this lady was in the habit of regularly hunting spiders in his own and his friends' houses. He used to spread them on bread, Rozel tells us, and vowed that they were far pleasanter to the palate than butter.— Cornhill Magazine.

Russia Leather.
When Marshall Jewell was minister to Russia he discovered the secret of making Russia leather by his sense of smell. The Russians use birch bark tar in dressing skins instead of tallow and grease. By literally following his nose one day on a visit to a large Russian leather tannery Jewell chanced upon the secret compound in a large kettle. He recognized the odor of the birch bark and reported the discovery to his government. As a result genuine Russia leather goods are now being made in this country.

Potato Production.
Germany, Russia and Austria exceed the United States in the production of potatoes.

A Hopeless Case.
Winks—Jinks never sees the point of a joke. Blinks—No; he usually the butt of it.—New York Herald.

Obituary Gems.
When John Sherman of New Haven, preacher, mathematician, almanac maker and father of twenty-six children, heard of the death of his good friend Jonathan Mitchell, a Harvard pastor, he explained (after due thought and many poetic pang):
Here lies the darling of his time, Mitchell expired in his prime,
Who four years short of forty-seven Was found full ripe and plucked for heaven.
When Thomas Dudley, father of the first American poetess, Anne Bradstreet, came to his deathbed, says the South Atlantic Quarterly, he showed where his daughter had received her surprising gift by composing such farewell lines as:
Dim eyes, deaf ears, cold stomach shew My dissolution is in view.
Eleven times seven near lived have I,
And now God calls I willing die.

Got it Exact.
"Why is it that the butcher always sends me more meat than I order, never by any chance less?" complained a young housekeeper to her husband.
"Let me give him an order," said he, and, stepping to the telephone, he called up the market.
"Send me two pounds of porter-house," he ordered, "and, say, if you can't cut two pounds make it a pound and a half."
He got the two pounds by the next delivery.—New York Sun.

A Fearsome Order.
She—Dear me, I hope the man at the next table is not a fighter, but his order sounds like it! He—What was it? She—He told the waiter to bring him a club sandwich and something to drink with a stick in it.—Baltimore American.

True.
An Irishman on applying for relief and being told to work for a living replied, "If I had all the work in the world I couldn't do it."

Made Her Pay Well.
A certain queen of Hanover once upon a time when traveling stopped at an inn called the Golden Goose. She remained two days to rest herself and retinue and receive such entertainment as was needed and for the same was charged 300 thalers. On her departure the landlord besought her with obsequious deference to favor him with her patronage on her return.
"If you desire that, my dear man," replied her majesty, "you must not again take me for your sign."

Very "Respectful."
The villagers used to make love in a solid, stolid fashion. "I'm sure, m'm," said a servant to her mistress, "nobody could have had a respectfule young man nor what Thomas has been to me.
We've been courting two years come Martlemass, and he's never yet offered to kiss me!"—From "Recollections of a Yorkshire Village," by J. S. Fletcher.

A Similarity.
"He's quite wealthy and prominent now," said Mrs. Starvem, "and they say he rose from nothing."
"Well, well!" remarked Mr. Border.
"That's just what I rose from—at the breakfast table this morning."

Closing the Incident.
Pulsatilla—Your latest young man, I hear, has written a play or two. Has he produced anything yet? Euphorbia —Y-yes; the last time he called he produced a diamond ring.—Exchange.

The greatest homage we can pay to truth is to use it.—Emerson.

Imagination.
It is imagination rather than reason that distinguishes man from brute, and no person who is devoid of imagination can know extremes of happiness or misery. Happiness in a great measure depends on the faculty for forgetting.

Old Enough to Be Good.

He was a liquid eyed Spaniard en-tour through Italy. She was a New England maiden lady doing Florence.
They met first at the pension table d'hotel and next in the Uffizi gallery.
"The madonna of which you spoke," said the liquid eyed Spaniard, "is across the hall and down to the right two doors. It hangs in gallery 3."
"According to my Baedeker," protested the New England maiden lady, "it hangs in gallery 5."
"Pardon. It is impossible," protested the Spaniard. "It stands here in my Baedeker that it is to be found in gallery 3."
"Perhaps," said the New England maiden, "your book is out of date. But it is easy to assure ourselves who is right. Let us go to gallery 3 or to gallery 5 and see."
"Madame," said the Spaniard, with some emotion, "it is not necessary to exert ourselves. This book, madame, is perfectly reliable. My grandfather himself assured me so. It is the very volume that he used when he himself toured Italy at my age."—Detroit Free Press.

A Breach of Good Form.

There is a little east end girl, still under six, who reaches the limit in the matter of sensitiveness. Likewise she has her points in respect to dead gameness. She was taken about a week ago to spend a few days with her aunt.
The little miss played around in front of her aunt's place for awhile. Then her aunt let a playful young terrier into the yard, saying to the child:
"This is your little four footed cons-in."
Five minutes later the aunt returned to the front yard to call the kid into the house, but she wasn't anywhere to be seen. The fox terrier was playing alone. There was a scrambling hunt for the child and all kinds of alarm, but the little girl didn't turn up. The aunt hustled into town. The little girl was home with her mother.
She had walked right to the car for town as soon as the fox terrier pup was presented to her.
"Why didn't you stay at aunt's?" her mother asked her in surprise.
"She introduced me to a dog!" re-

"The Soul of Golf."

One who knew the soul of golf saw it and described it. It was a tricky green, with a drop of twenty feet behind it. To have overrun it would have been fatal. There was a stiff head wind. The player would not risk running up. He cut well in under the ball to get all the back spin he could.
He pitched the ball well up against the wind, which caught it and, on account of the spin, threw it up and up until it soared almost over the hole, then it dropped like a shot bird about a yard from the hole, and the back spin gripped the turf and held the ball within a foot of where it fell. It was obvious to one man that it was a crude shot. It was equally obvious to another, who knew the inner secrets of the game, that it was a brilliantly conceived and beautifully executed stroke. One man saw nothing of the soul of the stroke. He got the husk and the other took the kernel.—

An Unusual Opportunity.

The young clergyman had been urged by his bishop to raise in his small parish as large a sum as possible to swell the fund for the people of a faroff isle.
The rector had put the need before his people as graphically as he was able, but he was not gifted with eloquence and felt that his appeal had not struck home to the hearts of his listeners. He made a last attempt to rouse their enthusiasm for the worthy cause.
"Think of them, so far away," he said earnestly. "Think of 20,000 persons living without the privileges of Christian burial, while any of you here in this little town may have the advantages of four handsome cemeteries, and give of your abundance, my brethren, to those who have nothing."—

Reassured the Judge.

A wife, joining her husband in a conveyance of real estate, was asked by the judge, who examined her in private, according to the act of the assembly, whether she acted without compulsion on the part of her hus-replied: "He compel me! No, nor twenty like him!"—Argonaut.

His Turn Came.

Ren Davis defeated President Madison for election to the Virginia house of delegates after Madison had left the White House. Old Davis, who seldom wore a coat, was sitting on a rail fence on the roadside in Greene county one morning when a young man dressed in dapper fashion and evidently from the city passed by.

"Good morning," said David, with the proverbial Virginia politeness.

To this the stranger paid no attention. In a few minutes, however, he came to a fork in the roads and was evidently in doubt which way he should go. He retraced his steps to where Davis still sat on the fence and asked him with great politeness if he could tell him which way led to Stanardsville. Davis made no reply.

"Will you please tell me," the young man repeated, "which road I take to get to Stanardsville?"

"You can," said Davis stolidly, "take any d—d road you please."—Popular Magazine.

A Lawyer's Paradise.

Naples, under Spanish rule in the eighteenth century, was overrun with lawyers. Of their profusion Joseph Addison had this to say:

"It is incredible how great a multitude of retainers to the law there are at Naples. It is commonly said that when Innocent XI. had desired the Marquis of Campio to furnish him with 30,000 head of swine the marquis answered him that for his swine he could not spare them, but if his holiness had occasion for 30,000 lawyers he had them at his service."

It seems to have been a golden age for lawyers, for, as the author says, "there are very few persons of consideration who have not a cause depending, for when a Neapolitan has nothing else to do he generally shuts himself up in his closet and falls a tumbling over his papers to see if he can start a lawsuit and plague his neighbors."—Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.

Technically Gentlemen.

There is only one strictly technical definition of gentleman—a man entitled to bear coat armor. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries it was used with this significance, and the secondhand bookstall hunter will occasionally find "So-and-so, 'gentleman,'" written on dusty and stained fly leaves. But this definition has dropped out, for now any one may use arms who chooses to pay for an arms license. The inland revenue takes your guinea or two guineas without inquiring as to your right to bear arms. And, though the heralds' college has the right to grant arms to those who can afford to pay the necessary fees, it cannot prevent people from using arms to which they have no right.

Bad Character Sticks.

The Republican party in North Carolina has "a horrible past" and since it has promised to become "respectable" it doesn't want us to dig up its odorous part, rake up old scores and stir the cesspool of rottenness of ancient and modern times. We don't blame the Republican party, but if a lawyer were to put the party on the stand as a witness the first thing he would do would be to undermine its character with a view to destroying its creditability and untrustworthi-ness. A witness has to stand or fall by his character when he goes on the stand and his "past" is exposed before the jury and his character is attacked by a counsel. When a man's character for credibility and integrity is successfully assailed, he has to take the count of ten and step aside as unworthy of belief, not deserving of confidence and not entitled to honor.

Hardly, therefore, can the so-called "respectable Republican party," with the same old cadaver sprinkled with ecolene, expect to go on the stump and hope to have its disreputable character and tell-tale record overlooked or forgotten. Memory of it and proof of it will not draw. In fact, the Republican party and the Democratic party are accountable for what they have done in the past and they cannot reasonably expect the people to trust them if the character they have established is bad. Political parties have to answer to the people for their sins of commission and omission and they cannot dodge the record if they would.

There is no immunity in public opinion for any party that has debauched and ruined North Carolina every time it got in power. We know the spectre, the past is horrible and haunts the Republican party at all times. It would like it's past to be forgotten, but that is impossible. A portion of its record in the days of "fusion" is too recent for any loyal North Carolinian's memory to be fatuously amnesiaed. Lots of people would like to have their past forgotten or overlooked and they would like themselves to forget what they have done, but memory is inexorable!—Wilmington
