CLARION CALL TO YOUNG MEN OF NORTH CAROLINA.

NORTH CAROLINA'S GRAND OLD MAN.

Appeals to Young Men to Take Part to Preserve Good Government by Working in the Democratic Ranks.

Greenville, N. C., Oct. 15.—Ex-Gov. Thos. J. Jarvis, the grand old man of North Carolina, today issued this clarion call to the young men of North Carolina:

I have always taken a deep and abiding interest in the young men and I have done what I could to promote their welfare. I have in public and private life tried to make it easy for the young men to become educated, fitted and trained for the duties of life and have in public addresses and private admonitions urged them to make the most of their opportunities.

I have associated much with the young people and to this fact, I attribute much of the continued active, hopeful, happy life I lead.

Because of these things I do not feel that I am violating the rules of propriety in these words of advice and encouragement to the young men of my state.

I cannot and do not advise you to become politicians and seekers after office, but I do insist that you owe a duty to your State and to society that you can only discharge by an active participation in public affairs.

But how shall you discharge these duties?

In the first place you should set a high standard of Public Morality and Public Service and insist that those who seek the favors of the Public shall measure up to them. Set high ideals and strive to live up to them yourselves and teach your fellows by precept and example to do likewise. In public matters seek only the public good and use only methods that are honest and just. Avoid the man who would prostitute the public service to his private gain. Shun as you would a deadly pestilence the party that would debase the young manhood of the State for party success or that even directly or indirectly advocates measures which tend to produce results. Having fixed upon high ideals in public life stand by them and defend them.

But ours is a Government by Party. Whether we would have it or not the fact is that party policies and party practice largely determine the policy and practice of the Government. So if you propose to take an active part in public affairs in our State it is necessary for you to ally yourself with one or the other of the two political parties which seek control of the State Government. WHICH SHALL IT BE?

The principles of the Republican party as a National Party are fundamentally wrong. It teaches that the power to levy taxes and collect revenues for the support of the Government carries with it the power to distribute the burdens of supporting the Government equally. Under the guise of protecting certain industries the government may make laws to enrich one class of men at the expense of another class. Democracy says that the burdens and blessings of Government should be distributed on all alike. Republicanism says not so, but that these burdens and blessings should be distributed according to the sweet will of the few who dictate the making of the laws. It is the privilege and the duty of the young men to stand with the party which stands for equality of opportunity in the race of life. I warn you against the seductive appeal that is sometimes addressed to you to join this or that party on the plea that it may offer personal advantage. Public service and human welfare, are the considerations that ought to weigh with a high-minded manhood.

When the young men come to form their party affiliations in this State not one should have the slightest difficulty in making his selection between the Democratic and Republican parties. The Democratic party has ever stood for high ideals and has wrought magnificent results. The Republican party has stood for low ideals and when it was given power has brought wreck and ruin in its wake and shame and disgrace upon the State.

I became a worker in the Democratic party in the days preceding the war and I saw its victories and achievements then. I assisted

DR. R. T. VANN PREACHES.

Mrs. Charles Williams Sings Beautiful Solo.

The congregation of Memorial Baptist church were fortunate in having the pulpit occupied Sunday morning and night by Dr. R. T. Vann, president of Meredith college, Raleigh, and the services were truly delightful and inspiring. Those who have heard Dr. Vann know what a pleasure it is to listen to him. His morning sermon was from the text: "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb;" and the text used in the evening was "For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

At the morning service Mrs. Charles B. Williams sang a beautiful solo "The Ninety and Nine." She has a superb voice and sings with great sweetness. Miss Lillian Carr was organist, and her excellent playing added much to the musical part of the services.

NO WORD FROM WELLMAN.

Supposed to be One Thousand Miles Away.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Oct. 17.—Not a word has been heard from Walter Wellman since yesterday noon. Then only the word "yes" was given in answer to the question "Is all well on board?" The location of his balloon at that time was not known but it is supposed to have been off Nantucket. If still headed towards Europe, he is supposed to be out about 1000 miles this morning. All steamers equipped with wireless are trying constantly to pick up a message from Wellman. The marconi office here believes that Wellman's wireless apparatus is out of order as it is felt sure some vessel would have gotten in touch with him otherwise.

MAKES CLEAN SWEEP.

All of the Royal Family Banished From Portugal.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Lisbon, Oct. 17.—The entire Braganza dynasty of the royal house of Portugal, was banished from Portugal today by the official decree issued by the provincial republican government, which also abolished the house of lords and suppressed all titles of nobility. Should any man of the royal family return to Portugal he will be deported. Court trial will follow a second offense.

The less salary a man gets the more his wife can pretend he gets.

in its re-organization after the war and I have worked with it and for it ever since. I have seen it go down in defeat twice during these long years from 1865 to 1910, and oh! what dark and damnable pages were written in my State's History during these two Republican Administrations. There cannot be one among you who would not wipe out blots upon the fair name of our dear old State if you could. That cannot be done, but I will tell you what you can do. You can unite with the party that has twice redeemed the State from unworthy rule.

I have seen the Democratic party take charge of the Government of the State when she lay prostrate under Republican oppressions, when her people were poor and almost hopeless, when the school houses were closed and the teacher was silent, when ruin and despair seemed to brood over the land. And under Democratic rule I have seen the dark clouds pass away and hope revive. I have seen the school house opened and the teacher abroad in the land. I have seen good government take the place of bad government and law and order hold sway everywhere. I have seen poverty give way to prosperity and the mourning of the people turned into joy. I have seen the State rise from the wreck and ruin wrought by Republican misrule and take her place under Democratic rule among the foremost States in this great Union of States.

It is into the ranks of this great and glorious party whose records are so full of magnificent achievement that I invite my dear young friends to come and share with us in labors and triumphs in upbuilding the State.
THOS. J. JARVIS.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE ON A. C. L.

People Can go Straight Through to Norfolk at Night.

A new passenger service between Rocky Mount and Norfolk will be put on about October 30th by the Atlantic Coast Line. A night train to and from Norfolk will be operated, connecting at Rocky Mount with north and south bound trains on the main line of the company. While the exact schedule has not been compiled, officials of the company have decided to have the northbound train from Rocky Mount to Norfolk leave Rocky Mount at 3.30 a. m. and operated on a fast schedule reaching Norfolk before 8 o'clock, or thereabouts. This train will connect with the night north and southbound trains, the Florida and West India limited and the Palmetto limited in Rocky Mount. The night train leaving Norfolk is slated for about 6.30 and will arrive at Rocky Mount about 10.30, connecting with southbound train No. 85. The advantages of these two new trains may be readily appreciated.

These trains will be of the most up to date equipment and will be in keeping with the night through travel trains now being operated by this company. Sleepers will be put on both north and southbound trains, though it is thought though not definitely decided, that they will be continued through from Rocky Mount; handled to some of the Southern cities on the lines of the company, while there will be handled a Norfolk sleeper or sleepers from this same city or cities, and the same will be taken from the northbound main line train at South Rocky Mount and put on to this train.

Wonderful North Carolina.

The Star has often called attention to the fact that North Carolina has more varieties of climate and soil than any state in the Union. Beginning with the sub-tropical climate in southeastern North Carolina and going westward to the high mountain regions in western North Carolina, it is said there are all the varieties of climate to be found from Florida to Maine. The Winston Republican last week furnishes as a good example of the different kinds of climate which North Carolina is so fortunate in possessing. Says that esteemed contemporary:

"North Carolina is a great state. The east, the central and the mountain sections furnish climate and productions to suit every taste. Let us illustrate: Strawberries were ripe in eastern Carolina early in the spring and immense shipments were made to northern markets. A few months later the strawberry came to its own in the central and more western section. Still later the past week Dr. S. F. Pohl, and Mr. S. G. Rogers, returned from a pleasant cutting at Roaring Gap in the big hill country and brought with them a basket of ripe strawberries which they picked there. Truly North Carolina is a great state in very many ways."

In the great strawberry belt around Wilmington in April fast refrigerator trains carried thousands of crates of strawberries to the northern markets. In the central portion of the state strawberries do not ripen to any extent till way up in May, while we see that in the great mountain regions they have strawberries ripening as late as September. So we see that covering a period of nearly six months the delicious strawberry is getting ripe somewhere in this wonderful old state.

The fact is, there is such a varying climate and diversified soil in North Carolina that more horticultural and farm products can be grown in this state than in any other agricultural country in the world.—Wilmington Star.

Arresting Suspected Anarchists.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Paris, Oct. 17.—Ninety-three persons have been arrested by the police who are trying to get the ring leaders of a gigantic anarchistic conspiracy which has resulted in the continuous explosion of bombs. A bomb was exploded early today before the residence of the editor of a newspaper, and another bomb was found in another section of the city unexploded. Some of the strikers are still refusing to return to work, despite the major portion of their demands have been granted.

REVIVAL MEETING MIDDLE OF NOVEMBER.

BY DR. WILLIAM BLACK, STATE EVANGELIST.

Will Hold Meeting in Greenville, Beginning Sunday, Nov. 13th—Laymen's Meeting Appoints Committee.

Dr. William Black, Presbyterian State evangelist, will hold a series of meetings in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here, beginning on Sunday, November 13th. Dr. Black is one of the strongest preachers in the State, and has done untold good in his evangelistic work. On two occasions he held meetings in Greenville both attended by much success, and our people are glad that he is coming again. Surely there is no town more in need of a real religious revival than Greenville, and it is hoped that such will be the result of the coming meeting.

An indication of how all the people of the town, regardless of denomination, feel toward the coming of Dr. Black, was shown in a laymen's meeting in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members of different churches to discuss plans for the meeting of Dr. Black. Several committees were appointed as follows:

Executive—Rev. J. H. Shore, chairman; T. J. Jarvis, C. W. Wilson, F. M. Wooten, B. W. Moseley, H. B. Smith, J. L. Little, D. J. Whichard, H. E. Austin, G. E. Harris.

Publicity—D. J. Whichard, chairman; A. B. Ellington, E. B. Ficklen, W. A. Bowen, J. G. Latham.

Music—H. E. Austin chairman; W. L. Brown, E. G. Couch, W. H. Ragsdale, Mrs. T. E. Hooker.

Ushers—G. E. Harris, chairman; H. B. Smith, C. C. Pierce, W. B. Brown, D. S. Spain.

All the members of all the churches were appointed as an invitation committee to do personal work and get people to attend the meeting.

It was decided to hold union prayer meetings preparatory to the meeting on each Wednesday night, the meeting for this week to be in the Presbyterian church conducted by Rev. J. H. Shore, and such meetings will be held in the Methodist church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, preceding Nov. 13th. On each Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock a men's prayer meeting will be held in the Methodist church.

Rockefeller Makes Another Gift.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Oct. 17.—Announcement was made today at the Rockefeller institute for medical research, of an added gift of $3,820,000 from John D. Rockefeller. This makes all told the sum of $8,240,000. This gift is in securities the greater part being in Standard Oil shares. The institution has elected its first board of trustees and they have taken legal control of all money and property belonging to the organization.

Closing Service.

On Sunday in the Presbyterian church, Rev. R. C. Deal held the closing services of his pastorate here. Large congregations were present at both services, and Mr. Deal preached excellent sermons. He expressed that his leaving the church here was accompanied by much regret, as he had become greatly attached to the people of Greenville, but his health necessitated his going to the western part of the State. The church here greatly regrets losing him as a pastor.

Short Trains for Dinner Gowns.

While skirts continue to be very short in almost all day dresses, the couturieres have had to lend ear to the cry of the women who absolutely refuse to give up trains in their evening gowns. I have seen several very smart dinner dresses lately cut with short, slightly pointed trains, and I have no doubt that there will be others before the winter is over. One that was worn recently was of ochre-colored satin but the rather vivid yellow was very much subdued by an overdress of dark aluminum gray net. The satin underskirt had the short train I spoke of but the tunic, of course, was short. It was gathered in a little at the top and its waistline was raised somewhat above its natural position. The bottom of the tunic dropped into points at the sides and was hemmed with a deep band of the yellow satin, which drew it in a trifle without giving it any appearance of awkwardness or constraint.—Delineator.

Teeth of a Shark.

In respect to its dentition the shark is a very remarkable creature. The white shark has seven rows of teeth, while other species vary in the number of rows they possess. It must be understood, however, that the shark only uses one row at a time. The other rows lie down inside the mouth behind the edge of the jaw, erecting themselves when it is time for them to take successively the place of the first row. When one observes how keen edged these incisors are it seems no wonder that they can bite off a big rope as readily as if it were bread.

The Cobweb.

A story was told the other day of a little girl who discovered a cobweb and then, seeing a spider emerge from it, called out: "See the cob run! How fast the cob runs!" As a matter of fact she builded better than she knew, for cob, or cop, is, according to the dictionaries, the name sometimes given to a spider, whence the word cobweb, which is, strictly speaking, copweb. Cop in this sense is probably an abbreviation of the Anglo-Saxon uttercoppe, a spider.—London Notes and Queries.

The Brotherhood of Intervention.

The railway managers of America despite the legends of the great political poker, have not been strong enough to secure in all cases fair play from legislatures, congresses, commissions and executive. The discontent of practically every railway president in the United States is sufficient proof that the government is not under railway control.

The investing public, which owns the securities of the railways, although more than a million strong and having the sympathetic support of business men generally, has not been strong enough to secure in all cases fair play for the railways. The doubt entertained concerning the value of railway securities is sufficient proof that the government is not under the control of the owners of the railways.

Now enters a third influence to demand fair play for the railways—namely, the employees of the railways. The great railway brotherhoods, through their officers, have prepared a memorial calling attention to the fact that, while everything the railway has to buy—labor and material—has gone up in price, the only thing they sell—transportation—has gone down, and that process cannot go on indefinitely without menacing railway wages. Will the brotherhoods be able to do what the railway managers and the railway owners have been unable to do—that is, guarantee fair treatment of the railways when rate orders are made?

There is a reason for hoping that the railway managers, exercising such legitimate influence as they possess, plus the railway owners, exercising such legitimate influence as they possess plus the railway employees, exercising such legitimate influence as they possess, will be strong enough to counterpoise the producers, shippers, and middlemen, who demand lower and lower rates without regard to fairness. We may be nearer to an adjustment than we think, and a removal of the shadow that has rested on the railway business—that the public could not be relied on to be just. The intervention of the brotherhoods is of the highest degree important.—New York Sun.

Train The Children to Read.

We believe that the desire for knowledge, for and because of the power which gives life's work is the most important ambition any boy or girl can possess and that the formation of the reading habit offers the best means of satisfying this ambition. We have never seen a farm home where the parents were readers that the effect was not plain in the increased refinement and comforts in the home, and the greater efficiency of the work done inside the house and out in the fields.

If, however, father and mother do not read, and show neither desire nor respect for the knowledge and power which reading brings, the boys and girls are not likely to form the habit and thereby they miss the greatest pleasure of life and a means of acquiring knowledge which gives power in the work of life.

We believe in reading for pleasure and culture, but with reading, as with teaching in our schools, we believe that as great pleasure and culture may come through reading that which will furnish us facts and knowledge to better meet the responsibilities and do the work of the life we lead as from any other. We can recall no keener pleasures than those which we have experienced in reading for the first time an explanation of the true reasons for doing certain things which we had been doing over and over again without understanding. Ever after there was a new pleasure in doing those things and they were done better because of the better understanding of why we were required to do them. An understanding of why he is required to cultivate a clean crop, and how cultivation conserves moisture, can not fail to interest the boy, improve his mind enlarge his understanding and encourage him to do his work better.

The girl who learns by her own reading why and how milk sours, how and why bread rises, or why canned fruits ferment can not fail to take more interest in her work with these things and do it better.—Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Happiest Woman in Smart Set.

Do you want to know the happiest woman in the smart set of New York? Well, it is Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

And do you want to know why she is so happy?

Well, it's work; hard work.

She was saved by something very wonderful and very beautiful—work. And her work is along the lines of beauty. The gods gave her genius. She is a sculptor busy day after day in her studio, in a narrow alley miles away from her beautiful home, among the studios of other artists who haven't the smallest fraction of even one million to their name. She wears a clay-stained apron and a straight frock, and is as busy as a bee over her modeling. It is not dilettantism either, I will have you to know, but genuine sculpture that stands the test of the most relentless critic and has won praise from no less a person than great Rodin himself. It's big, strong work, not delicate and finicky like that of Sarah Bernhardt, but executed in bold masses. Her "Paganism Immortal" has Rodin's bigness about it, and is not a mere "pretty" thing, like those groups of the divine Sarah's.—Designer.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Greenville People Know How to Save It.

Many Greenville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. S. A. Simmons, 504 Heritage St., Kinston, N. C., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be an effective remedy for kidney trouble and headache. My back pained me for a long time and my kidneys were much disordered. I happened to read about Doan's Kidney Pills and procuring a box, I began using them. They benefited me in every way and I am now free from backache and am able to rest well; in fact, I feel better in every way. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."

Cold Comfort.
Modest Amateur (showing his latest painting)—I'm sure, Miss Ethel, you think I'm still some little way from being an artist. Fair Critic (anxious to say the polite thing)—Oh, no. Very, very far from it, I assure you.

Puffs.
"Miss Footlittie's reputation and her complexion are very much alike."
"Meaning that they are both brilliant, eh?"
"No; they are both made with a puff."—Boston Transcript.

Pope's Preference.
The Prince of Wales of Pope's time once said to the poet:
"Mr. Pope, do you not like kings?"
"Sir," replied the poet, "I prefer the lion before the claws are grown."

He Told Her.
"What is it, do you suppose, that keeps the moon in place and prevents it from falling?" asked Araminta.
"I think it must be the beams," replied Charlie softly.

A Pearl in the Trough.
"How are you today? Feeling well?"
"Do you really care a rap?"
"Not a rap. I merely asked out of politeness that I see was quite wasted."—Pittsburg Post.

Changed Her Opinion.
"What is the mausoleum, dear?"
asked the wife.
"It is one of the most beautiful tombs in the world," explained the husband.
"It was erected by King Mausolus in honor of his wife."
"How perfectly lovely of him!"
"Yes. He had it built while she was alive."
"The wretch!"—Chicago Post.

The Assent Sarcastic.
He (at the end of a fishing story)—
My word, it was a monster! 'Pon my word, I never saw such a fish in my life! She—I don't believe you ever did!—London Mail.

FOOLED HIM BADLY.

Now He Kicks on Letters Written in the Third Person.
In one of the Paris restaurants a party of literary men were discussing the merits of various epistolary styles.
One of them, Monsieur A., made a fierce attack on letters written in the third person, such as "Monsieur X. has the honor to inform"—and so on.
Another of the party defended them, maintaining that they were not only more ceremonious, but that they were more polite.

"That's a good idea" replied Monsieur A. "The foundation of all politeness in letter writing is to express clearly what you mean to say. Now, nothing can be more ambiguous than these confounded notes in the third person. I will just tell you what happened to myself. I received from my friend D., the chief of division, a billet doux, which I will show you."

Taking the note from his pocket, Monsieur A. read as follows:
"Monsieur D., chief of division at the war office, hastens to inform his friend, Monsieur A., that he has just been named chevalier of the Legion of Honor."

"You can fancy my delight at reading this note," continued Monsieur A.
"I was the happiest man in the world.
I ran to an engraver and ordered him to make the flattering addition to my cards, 'Monsieur A., Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.' I ran to a mercer's and bought a piece of the richest red ribbon for my buttonhole. I ran to the houses of my friends for the pleasure of receiving their congratulations.
At last I ran to my friend D.'s. As soon as I caught sight of him I threw myself into his arms. 'Ah, my dear friend,' I exclaimed, 'you have no idea what pleasure you have given. How shall I ever thank you sufficiently?'"

"You are an excellent fellow, my worthy A., to sympathize thus with my happiness."

"Thank you for that expression; the decoration is mine, and the happiness is yours."

"How is that? Have you received the order?"

"Certainly; have I not?"

"No, my good friend; 'tis I who am now made chevalier."

"You?"

"Yes. You deserve the honor more than I do, but, nevertheless, it has been conferred on me."

"But you wrote me word that I had received the cross." I took his letter out of my pocket and showed it him.
Alas! I now understood clearly what meaning I ought to assign to the ambiguous phrase. "The deuce take you and your note," I said to D. "Instead of your affected and formal announcement in the third person, why could you not write to me simply and plainly, 'My dear friend, I have the pleasure of informing you that I now am decore chevalier?'"

Quakers Never "Nervous."
It is not in my memory that a professing Quaker ever came into my hands to be treated for nervousness.
If the opinion I have already stated so often is correct, namely, that want of control of the emotions and the over-expression of the feelings are prime causes of nervousness, then the fact that discipline of the emotions is a lesson early and constantly taught by Friends would help to account for the infrequency of this disorder among them and add emphasis to the belief in such causation.—From "Self Help For Nervous Women," by Dr. Kearsley Mitchell.

A Remarkable Man.
John Ziska, the great Hussite leader of the fifteenth century, was one of the most remarkable men that ever lived. His life story reads like a romance. Nothing in history is more interesting, more thrilling, than the account of his heroic deeds. Though blind and always greatly outnumbered, Ziska invariably beat his enemies and established for himself a fame that will last forever. He was never beaten in a battle. His very name was a terror to his enemies. He died in 1424, while besieging Prazabslaw, at the age of sixty-four.—New York American.

Spoons.
The origin of the spoon is uncertain.
It must have been invented at a very ancient date, for it is found among people that have never come into contact with civilization. The necessity of having some implement for dipping water seems to have led first to the invention of the calabash or the use of the coconut shell and later on to the spoon.

Didn't Know "the Uncle." Aunt Jane—I guess Mr. Spender must be a very neat person. Edith—And what leads you to that opinion? Aunt Jane—He told your Uncle George all his clothes but those upon his back were hung up. Some men, you know, throw their things round anywhere.— Boston Transcript.

Mistook the Punctuation.
The Young Woman (surprised and indignant)—How dared you kiss me, sir! Pentest Young Man—Why, you said you'd like to see me do it. The Young Woman—But you know as well as I do that I said it with an exclamation point at the end!—Chicago Tribune.

The Assent Sarcastic.
He (at the end of a fishing story)—
My word, it was a monster! 'Pon my word, I never saw such a fish in my life! She—I don't believe you ever did!—London Mail.

ROYAL STANDARD TYPEWRITER

The Royal represents economy in more ways than one:

It costs less to keep in order, because it STAYS in order--doesn't waste time by breaking down on a busy day. It turns out MORE work, because it is easier to understand, easier to operate, and capable of unlimited speed. It does BETTER work, and lasts LONGER, because it is simpler, has fewer working parts, and they are made of better materials.

soon save its own cost.

MEASURES ALTITUDES.

The Use of the Barograph on Aeroplanes and Balloons.

What the compass is to the mariner the barograph is to the aviator. The barograph is an instrument for measuring altitudes. The pressure of the air as it increases or decreases causes a delicate needle to trace a wavy line upon a cylinder which revolves by clockwork. This line indicates not only the exact height that is reached by the aviator, but also the speed at which he is traveling.

The barograph is kept in a weather proof box with a glass front, which is attached to a bar of the aeroplane or to a rope on the balloon. It is officially sealed before the aviator embarks, so there is no possibility of tampering with it, and the seal is taken off in the presence of witnesses at the end of the flight. In this way it is possible to establish absolutely and graphically the altitude which an aviator attains in his aeroplane or balloon.
It is necessary for the aviator to watch the barograph constantly, as it indicates a change in the elevation almost to the foot. The sky pilot has to keep his eye on the indicator much as the man at the wheel of the seagoing ship watches his compass. Should the aeroplane or the balloon rise or fall ten or twenty feet the aviator would not be conscious of it unless he looked at the wavering needle tracing its permanent record on a chart before him. This tells him immediately of any changes in the nature of the air currents and gives him timely warning of aerial dangers.

These instruments are so delicate and so accurate, it is said, that a man might hang one of them about his neck in its glass case or carry it in his hand and climb a flight of stairs, the height of his ascent being graphically indicated by the inked needle on the machine.—New York Press.

A CAREFUL MAN.

His Indecision in the Matter of Employing a Doctor.

The parsimony of the old New Englander of the type now almost vanished was nobly exemplified in Mr. Benny Huntington, who lived with his maiden sister in a little town in western Massachusetts. Neither had ever spent a penny unnecessarily and when in his old age Mr. Benny became crippled with "the rheumatiz" and had, as well, strange flutterings of the heart, which were unrelieved by the best recommended "yarb teas," they were greatly shocked at the suggestions and warnings of their friends and neighbors that they ought to send for a doctor.
Mr. Benny refused, declared his scorn of the entire medical profession and continued to save his pennies.

But the pain grew worse. Mr. Benny was confined to his bed in great agony and overheard some of the neighbors telling his sister that he was going to die. Then he sent for an old schoolmate, a man as "careful" as himself.

"Josiah," he asked, in a low, confidential tone, "have you ever had a doctor?"

Josiah shook his head. "Dunno as I have," he answered.

Mr. Benny reached out and laid a trembling hand upon his old friend's arm. "Josiah," he asked again, "did you ever hear how much one o' them doctors charges for a visit?"

Josiah looked at his suffering friend with pitying sympathy. "Well," he said, breaking it as gently as he could—"well, I have heard, Benny, that they charge as much as $2 a visit."

"Two dollars!" Mr. Benny repeated.
"Two dollars!" Then he sank back on his pillow and sighed in a voice of strangely mingled relief, regret and resignation. "Well, I dunno but I'd rather spend $5 than die!"—Youth's Companion.

His Inheritance.
"Did Merger inherit his money?"
"Indirectly. He inherited the ability to get the best of others."—Life.

Genuine Genius.

"Jones is a genius."
"I never thought much of his poems."
"They are not the reason. He surceeds in selling them."—Buffalo Express.

Zeno's Paradox.

Many persons will recall the famous paradox of Zeno by which he sought to prove that all motion is impossible.

"A body," he argued, "must move either in a place where it is or in a place where it is not. Now, a body in the place where it is stationary and cannot be in motion, nor, obviously, can it be in motion in the place where it is not; therefore it cannot move at all."

Bodies do move, however, and that is a sufficient answer to the ingenious philosopher.

Ready With His Tongue.

James T. Brady, a prominent member of the New York bar in the last century, was noted for his ready wit.
Quick as Mr. Brady was with the readiness of his race for repartee, he sometimes met his match among his own countrymen. He was once examining an unwilling witness who persistently called him Mr. O'Brady. At length, even his proverbial good nature being a little ruffled, he said to the witness: "You need not call me
Mr. O'Brady. I've mended my name
since I came here and dropped the O."
"Have ye, now?" retorted the witness.
"Pon my sowl, it's a pity ye didn't mend yer manners at the same time!"

Why He Was on Time.

Beranger was one day complimented by a lady on the punctuality with which he kept his engagements. "It is a pleasure," said she, "to invite you to dinner, for you never make us wait."
"I am no longer young, madam," replied the poet, "and experience has taught me one thing—it is dangerous not to arrive at the precise hour, for the guests who are waiting for you will pass the time in discussing your faults."

Spoiled the Evening For Her.

"I suppose you had a perfectly lovely time at the dinner party last night?"
"No. Through some mistake they seated me next to my husband."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Blunder.

Two students traveling through the country to procure their meals and lodging gratis adopted the method used by the deaf and dumb. The extended slate had invariably produced good results.

One noon they halted at the front door of a farmhouse. The housewife read the appeal on the slate. She looked from the one who carried the slate to his partner.

"Are you deaf and dumb, too?" she
put to the latter.

New York, Oct. 17.—Cotton opened easy, 9 to 17 points lower owing to weak cables. The call was followed by heavy unloading. Opening:

October 14.64; December 14.56; January 14.26 (bid) March 14.76.

New York, Oct. 17.—Favorable bank statements and reports of increased trading in Europe caused the stock market to quote a still higher range of prices than the high price scored during the past week. Great activity was displayed in practically the entire list, with Reading the favorite. Gains running from fraction to a point and over were scored in almost every standard railroad.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Wheat opened steady 1-4c higher, but heavy selling beat prices back 3-8 to 1-2c from the top. Corn, oats and provisions were easier. Opening: Wheat, December, 95 5-8; corn 47; oats 30 3-4; pork, May 16.65.

A MAN'S GLOVE.

In the Old Days It Served as Proxy
For Its Owner.

In the early days everything was not regulated for the people as it is now by the government and the law courts.

Europe was still young then, and people had rough and ready means of dealing with one another, of buying and selling or giving goods and property and settling disputes. A glove, as it was very close indeed to a man's hand, came in course of time to be looked upon as taking the place of the hand itself, and sometimes took the man's place and was made to represent him.

For example, to open a fair it was necessary then to have the consent and protection of the great lord in whose country it was going to be held. Those who wished to open the fair would come to the nobleman and petition him to be present. He might be very busy or bored at the idea of having to go, yet he would know that it must be opened or his people would be discontented. So he would say to the leaders of the people: "No, my trusty fellows, I can't open the fair in person, but I will send my glove to do it. You all know my glove. Nobody has one like it in the country. It is the one my lady mother embroidered for me in colored silks and silver wire, and it has a deep violet fringe. You can hang it above the entrance of your fair grounds as a sign that you are acting with my permission. If any one disputes your right or touches his master's glove I will attend to him. That's all!" So the glove would travel in state to open the fair.—Westminster Gazette.

Ready With His Tongue.

James T. Brady, a prominent member of the New York bar in the last century, was noted for his ready wit.
Quick as Mr. Brady was with the readiness of his race for repartee, he sometimes met his match among his own countrymen. He was once examining an unwilling witness who persistently called him Mr. O'Brady. At length, even his proverbial good nature being a little ruffled, he said to
the witness: "You need not call me
Mr. O'Brady. I've mended my name
since I came here and dropped the O."
"Have ye, now?" retorted the witness.
"Pon my sowl, it's a pity ye didn't mend yer manners at the same time!"

Why He Was on Time.

Beranger was one day complimented
by a lady on the punctuality with
which he kept his engagements. "It is a pleasure," said she, "to invite you to dinner, for you never make us wait."
"I am no longer young, madam," replied the poet, "and experience has taught me one thing—it is dangerous
not to arrive at the precise hour, for
the guests who are waiting for you will pass the time in discussing your
faults."

Spoiled the Evening For Her.

"I suppose you had a perfectly lovely time at the dinner party last night?"
"No. Through some mistake they seated me next to my husband."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Blunder.

Two students traveling through the country to procure their meals and lodging gratis adopted the method used by the deaf and dumb. The extended slate had invariably produced good results.

One noon they halted at the front door of a farmhouse. The housewife read the appeal on the slate. She looked from the one who carried the slate to his partner.

"Are you deaf and dumb, too?" she
put to the latter.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the student soberly.—Detroit News.

No More Cheap Cotton.
All remember the year when cotton sold at 5 cents and the general distress that resulted from it. As the day of 5-cent cotton passed, so has the day of 10-cent cotton passed. We do not expect to see the day when cotton will get as low as ten cents. The market is going to fluctuate between twelve and twenty cents. The nearer the latter figure it gets, the better it will be for the country. (High priced cotton has come to stay. The bears have lost their grip on the market.
They cannot control it as they did in former days, and the general conditions of production and manufacture make a high priced cotton a permanent certainty. A good day has dawned for the cotton farmer and for the South. Many of the farmers will be able to hold their cotton for twenty cents and the chances are that they will get it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Death Rate.

Thirty-three millions of people die annually. This is equal to 90,410 deaths per day, 3,767 per hour and 62 per minute, or one in less than every second of time. One-fourth of all the people born into the world die before arriving at the age of seven years; one-half die before reaching the age of seventeen. The average duration of human life is about thirty-eight years.
Of 10,000 persons one attains the age of 100 years, one out of 500 reaches the age of ninety years, and out of 100 only one will live to be sixty.—
