NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Gathered From Our Exchanges Today of Events Just Happened.

Hendersonville, Oct. 19.—Fire this morning destroyed five frame business houses and a new residence, entailing a loss, with contents of the different buildings of about $10,000. There was practically no insurance.

Wilmington, Oct. 19.—About one hundred and fifty feet of the steel pier built during the past summer in front of the Seashore Hotel was swept away this morning and it is feared that the entire structure will go at high tide tonight. The entire length of the pier extending over the ocean is seven hundred and fifty feet and was erected at considerable cost.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The United States court for the Eastern District of North Carolina convened in the county court house in this city this morning at 10 o'clock, with his Honor Judge H. G. Connor, of Wilson, presiding, and District Attorney Seawell, of Carthage, prosecuting. On account of no grand jury having been drawn for this session, the session lasted only one day.

Why He Located at Asheville

There are little uncertified stories which I have met with several times, and one of them runs about as follows:

When George Vanderbilt determined upon creating an estate in America similar to some of the French estates in Europe, his first move was to engage a scientific commission to determine the location of such an estate. He desired to have a home where it would be possible to live all the year, or in any part of the year. He desired to have soil and climate favorable to the best development of a dairy business. He desired a nursery for trees and plants, and an opportunity to demonstrate what could be done in these lines. He desired to provide the facilities to develop a fish and game preserve of large proportions, and, generally speaking, to make an estate whose various features would stand as a model for the surrounding country. He wished it to be east of the Mississippi river, and naturally expected it might be in the Catskills, Adirondacks, the White mountains, or the Green mountains.

His commission, after a careful investigation, reported in favor of Asheville North Carolina.

The unverified story goes on to say, that Mr. Vanderbilt was rather startled at the idea of going South, but, his commission exhibited facts and figures that could be compared, he promptly accepted the result of their investigation.—D. A. Tompkins in Charlotte Observer.

County Supts. Meet Oct. 25

The northeastern division of county superintendents of public schools, embracing twenty counties in this section of the state, will meet in Washington October 25th and 26th. Our neighbor town is making much preparation for the meeting, and one of the features of entertainment will be an elaborate banquet in Hotel Louise on the night of the 26th. A year ago the superintendents held their district meeting in Greenville.

Fair Will be Open Saturday

In a phone message from Raleigh today the officers of the State Fair request The Reflector to state that owing to the inclemency of the weather the fair will be kept open on Saturday, instead of closing on Friday evening as first announced. Those who go from Greenville on the early morning train Saturday can have an opportunity of spending the morning at the fair and also seeing Ringling Bros. circus in the afternoon.

Reading Lesson No. 8 for 2nd Grade.

Is that a stone sidewalk?
No, it is made of concrete
Why is it not kept clean?
Because it would make the street look nice.
Could it be kept clean?
Yes, and so could the back lots.
How could they be kept clean?
By increasing Joe McLawhorn's force.

All the leavings come to him who waits.

It's often a long, rocky road that leads from promise to performance.

BIG AUDIENCE.

Witnesses Dixon's Play—The Author Again in the Title Role.

Last night for the second time in his varied career, Thomas Dixon, Jr., played actor, the first time being at the matinee performance of "The Sins of the Fathers," yesterday.

Mr. Jerome Storm, the young man who is to assume the leading part, made vacant by the drowning of Mr. Fahr, at Wrightsville Beach Sunday, arrived in Fayetteville yesterday afternoon from New York, and last night sat in the audience and watched Mr. Dixon play the part.

While acting the part remarkably well, considering that it was his second attempt, it was evident to the audience that Mr. Dixon did not relish being an actor, even for one day. This is strange, considering Mr. Dixon's dramatic temperament.

The distinguished author, orator, playwright and divine, and actor-for-one-day, certainly had a magnificent audience to pass criticism on his ability as an actor and the verdict was manifestly a favorable one.

In response to repeated calls, Mr. Dixon made a charming speech which was received with tumultuous applause. He was evidently pleased with his reception in Fayetteville, even if he did not relish having to act.—Fayetteville Observer.

UNION PRAYER MEETING

Large Attendance at the First Service, Wednesday night

Coming in such inclement weather, the large attendance at the first union prayer meeting, held in the Presbyterian church Wednesday night, in preparation for the meeting to be held here by Dr. William Black, beginning the 13th of November, was a strong indication of the interest our people of all denominations feel in the approaching revival. This first service was conducted by Rev. J. H. Shore, and he made an interesting talk on "Preparation of the church for a Revival." He emphasized the need of church members first getting right and in the proper attitude toward God before any great work could be accomplished through their efforts.

The men's prayer meeting in the Methodist church at 4 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, will be conducted by ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis, and the union prayer meeting next Wednesday night will be held in the Christian church and be conducted by the pastor of that church.

The first song rehearsal for the meeting will be held in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MR. ZENO BROWN KILLED

Meets Tragic Death While Making Electrical Connections.

In a delayed telegram due to southern communication being broken by the severe storms, Mr. W. L. Brown received information this morning that his son, Mr. Zeno Brown, was killed Tuesday afternoon in Mulberry, Fla. The only particulars given in the message was in effect that a severe storm was prevailing there, and while Mr. Brown was making electrical connections he was killed. Mr. Brown was an electrician and worked for a large phosphate company in Mulberry. His father wired instructions for the body to be sent home, but up to this writing no further information has been received.

The news of the tragic death of this young man has filled many hearts here at his home with sadness. He had a host of friends and was held in high esteem. He was 22 years of age and is survived by his father, Mr. W. Brown, one sister, Mrs. W. L. Jenkins, of Charlotte, and one brother, Mr. Whit Brown. All hearts go out in sympathy to these in their sorrow.

Fall.

Observer R. H. Hearne reports that the rain fall here for the twenty-four hours, ending at 8 o'clock this morning, was 1.48 inches.

STORM REACHES NORTH

Has About Spent Fury and Shipping is Being Restored.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Rain and wind storms of considerable less severity than that which marked the passage through the Southern states yesterday and Tuesday, is moving rapidly along the Atlantic coast today. Indications are that the storm will continue to travel northeast, but with such reduced intensity that little damage is expected to result. Hurricane warnings have been taken down and shipping is oncemore under way in the extreme south, although still greatly hampered in the north. High winds and a heavy downpour of rain struck New York last night. The heart of the storm will reach Sandy Hook this afternoon.

PROSECUTION CLOSES

Crippen Scores Good Point in His Defense.

By Cable to The Reflector.

London, Oct. 20.—The prosecution in the Crippen case closed at noon. Solicitor Tobin in opening for the defense made a strong plea for his client and declared Crippen would take the stand and answer any question the court or prosecutor might ask. Crippen's fight for liberty will be the most spectacular in the history of British jurisprudence. The defense scored an important point today when Mr. Wilcox, expert for the prosecution, admitted that hyoscin poison could have been produced in the remains by putrefaction. Crippen is still calm and apparently fearless of the consequence of the trial.

STEAMER LOST IN THE STORM

Two Hundred Passengers Rescued, But Crew Not Accounted For

By Cable to The Reflector.

Key West, Fla., via Havana, Oct. 20.—The French trans-Atlantic liner Louisiana, bound from Havana to New Orleans, was wrecked on Sombrero reef in the southern hurricane. Two hundred passengers were rescued, but there were 347 passengers and the crew of 93 on board. The rescued passengers arrived at Key West today on board the revenue cutter Forward and told thrilling stories of the disaster. The vessel was driven ashore at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon during the hurricane. All contents of the ship were lost.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Elberon, N. J., Oct. 20.—General Thomas T. Eckert, chief of the war department on the telegraph staff during the civil war and for along time president of the Western Union Telegraph Co., died at his summer home here at 7:20 this morning. He was 65 years old.

DAVID B. HILL DEAD.

Great Democratic Leader Answers the Final Summons

By Wire to The Reflector.

Albany, Oct. 20.—David Bennett Hill, former governor of New York and former United States senator, died at 3:45 this morning at his home at Woolforth Roost, in the suburbs of this city. He was a famous Democratic leader. He was ill several weeks and was 67 years of age.

BOILER WRECKS MILL

Six Killed and Many Others Seriously Wounded.

New York, Oct. 20.—Six people were killed, three are missing and probably dead twelve others seriously hurt in a boiler explosion at the Jute mills of the American Manufacturing Co., at Green Point. The plant was wrecked and the bodies of the killed were blown a block away.

October 16th a Dry Day.

A lady who has kept a weather record for the past fifty years, informs us that in all that time it has never rained in Fayetteville on October 16.—Fayetteville Observer.

DEATH OF MRS. RALPH J HOUSE

She Was the Wife of a Pitt County Man—Home Near Oak City

The Raleigh News and Observer has the following:

"Her many friends will learn with regret of the death of Mrs. Ralph J. House, which occurred at the home of her husband's mother, Mrs. M. W. House, near Oak City, N. C., at 8:44 p. m., October 8th, 1910. She was buried at the family burying ground at four o'clock Sunday afternoon. Services were conducted at the grave by the Rev. Mr. Ballou, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Tarboro, N. C. She was the daughter of the late Dr. H. A. McSwain, of Wade, N. C., and was, for many years prior to her death, a consistent member of the Presbyterian church. She is survived by her husband; one brother, Dr. T. G. McSwain, of Bingham, S. C.; three sisters, Mrs. Walter S. Johnson, of Fresno, Cal., Mrs. J. M. Griffin, of Rocky Mount, N. C., and Miss Annie P. McSwain, of Washington, D. C.

"She was an ideal wife, a tender loving daughter and sister, and a devoted friend. Her life was such as to enable her sorely afflicted husband and relatives to feel, that all is well with her, her soul is with her Heavenly Father in Paradise."

Braved the Storm

They were brave folks who braved the heavy rain that was falling at the time, to start to the Raleigh fair this morning. Some left here on the 3.53 train and others at 7.51. As the day progressed, however, there was such change in weather conditions that it may not have been such a bad day in Raleigh after all. From 10 o'clock last night until after day this morning it rained almost constantly.

Train Delayed.

The Norfolk Southern train from Raleigh due here at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, did not arrive until about midnight. The delay was due to disability to the engine that occurred on the road.

PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The People Who Come and go on Our Trains.

Mr. F. C. Toepleman, of Henderson, was here today.

Mrs. C. C. Skinner and two children, of Jersey City came in this morning to spend the winter with her parents, Col. and Mrs. F. G. James, Mr. Skinner having gone to Turkey for the American Tobacco Co.

Mrs. D. L. Niven returned today from a visit to her parents in Norway.

Penny Postage in Sight.

So assiduously has Postmaster General Hitchcock applied himself to the task of cutting down the expenses of his department, without impairing its efficiency, that he is now able to declare that penny postage is certain of accomplishment in the comparatively near future.

The man who brings about penny postage will go down in the history of the United States as one of its greatest postmasters. In wiping out the deficit of the post office department, Mr. Hitchcock will have accomplished a real reform. Moreover, he will accomplish it without the aid of a brass band. And should he be able, before the end of his term, to put penny postage on the way to becoming an actual fact, his administration will stand out from amongst all the others by virtue of a great achievement, affecting the entire country.—Washington Post.

Thief Returns Diamond Ring.

About eight weeks ago Mrs. W. W. Phifer missed a handsome old-fashioned diamond cluster ring which had been her mother's, Mrs. Laura Davidson, engagement ring and which she had been wearing for some time. As no other negro had been in the house for months she had the cook arrested and kept in jail for several days, but nothing definite could be proved one way or the other, and the girl was released and the ring continued missing. Yesterday morning just as the family was about to go to breakfast, Mrs. Davidson happened to go into the butler's pantry, and there suspended from a string tied to the window shutters was the ring. Mrs. Phifer and Mrs. Davidson are of course delighted to recover the ring, and the supposition is that the thief had become alarmed and decided to return the property before she was apprehended.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Rooks and Cholera.

The present day security of this country against all danger of a cholera epidemic is matter for thankfulness not only in human circles, but in the rookeries too. When the cholera slew nearly 60,000 people in the insular United Kingdom of 1831-2 the rooks appear to have suffered with them. This was noted, at any rate, to have occurred on the estate of the Marquis of Sligo, which boasted one of the largest rookeries in the west of Ireland. On the first or second day of the epidemic's appearance an observer noted that all the rooks had vanished. During the three weeks through which it raged there was no sign of them about their home, but the revenue police found immense numbers of them dead on the shore, ten miles away. When the epidemic abated the rooks returned, but some were too weak to reach their nests, and five-sixths of them had gone.—London Chronicle.

The Japanese Policeman.

Japan has a police force modeled after the French system. In various places throughout Tokyo there are small kabancho, which resemble sentry boxes, but are larger. Three men are attached to each box daily. One remains inside resting, while another stands at the door, and the third patrols a beat, returning at regular intervals to the box. Stations are changed every eight hours. After twenty-four hours' work the three officers are given the same length of time to rest, and three other men are sent to the box. During their "off" days the men are employed in taking census returns, making reports regarding the condition of streets, bridges, embankments, drains and cemeteries. They also report weddings, births, deaths, theatrical performances and the presence of suspicious persons.—Harper's Weekly.

The Green Flash of Sunset.

One of the most rarely witnessed of natural phenomena, but one that has often been discussed at scientific meetings and that always awakens wonder when seen, is the so called "green flash" occasionally visible at the moment of the disappearance of the sun behind a clear horizon. The observer's eye must be fixed upon the rim of the sun as it disappears in order to catch the phenomenon. One authority tells us that he has seen the green flash, although rarely, at the instant of the setting of a bright star. Among the explanations offered is one based upon the optical principle of complementary colors. If one looks at the sun and then closes the eyes a green disk will be perceived. A sensitive eye might be similarly affected by a brilliant star.—New York Herald.

He Took the Blame.

"The guilty man always gives himself away," said a detective, "for, like the chap who bought the forty-cent bathing suit, he can't hide his guilty conscience. The chap I have in mind entered the water at Atlantic City in a forty-cent suit of blue flannel. As he splashed about he was joined by a girl friend. The girl flashed her bright eyes over the tumbling expanse of sea and then with a sigh of delight she said:

"Isn't the water blue today?"
"It's shameful," said the man, with a hot blush: "it's perfectly shameful how this cheap bathing flannel runs!"

How to Look Pleasant.

By her gracious and cordial manner the wife of a western senator has long charmed those so fortunate as to attend her delightful "functions."

On one such occasion a close friend was alluding to the hostess' graceful method of making every one feel at home. "How on earth do you manage to do it?" the friend asked.

"Oh, it's easy enough," replied the woman with the engaging manner. "As each guest approaches to shake hands I just pretend to myself that the person I am going to speak to is some one I like."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Have you registered? If not it is time you were looking after it.

If Raleigh could take a census this week the population of the state capital would head the list of North Carolina towns.

When they make a successful trip across the Atlantic ocean in an airship, then somebody will be sailing away for the North Pole.

Now we will hear that the state fair went in a financial hole this time, but the cause will be the weather and not the circus.

Dull business can usually be attributed to the fact that the business men themselves permit it to be dull. Trade comes to town when a strong and united effort is made to get it.

If Butler is so anxious to debate with somebody, why not take it up with the editor of the Greensboro News and discuss what the latter said about him before the convention?

People might lay more stress on what Mr. Roosevelt says if it had not already been proven that he is a man who has very little regard for truth. Surely he is the right man to head an Ananias club.

Hoxey sounds like the name of a patent medicine, but it isn't.—Wilmington Star.

It also sounds like the name of a fellow who once led an army of tramps in a march on Washington City.

Power of the Press

In an able sermon a Chicago minister recently called attention, to the present and its power.

"The power of a newspaper," he says "is greater than that of the clergy, and even greater than that wielded by legislative bodies."

The gentleman is perfectly right in this. Newspapers are not egotistical. They realize they possess faults as well as virtues.

Some newspapers do a great deal more harm than good when their columns are abused.

The newspaper, however, is the great national educator. It brings the happenings of the world before its readers. It is liberal. It educates the people. It stands for religious liberty. It appeals to the masses.

A minister, in addressing his congregation, reaches only those in hearing of his voice. The newspaper reaches into remote homes, into seemingly inaccessible districts, into places that are far removed from the church.

There have been boys who have learned the alphabet from the printed pages of the newspapers. Only recently a case was reported where a now successful business man educated himself in this way, being denied the privileges and opportunities of schools. Not only do ministers realize this, but men and women in all walks of life see in the newspaper the great distributor of light.

It was the republican press of Portugal which brought about the overthrow of the throne. It was the newspapers of the Young Turks which, three years ago, brought about the crisis at Constantinople. It is the Chinese press of today which is slowly awakening the sleeping empire into a knowledge of its greatness.

In our own county the newspapers make and ruin leaders in politics. They outline the destinies of the nation. The clean man has nothing to fear. The crooked one is always apprehensive. Newspapers defend the weak and crush the mighty. They support the good and denounce the bad.

The man who lives beyond the pale of the law and who is continually fearful of exposure and imprisonment dreads a newspaper more than he dreads the grand jury.

Some have done harm, with regret this is admitted. The yellow press lacks feeling at times. They invade the privacy of home. They enter the death chamber relentlessly and watch for the entrance of a child into the world. They photograph an unfortunate girl and flash her ruin through the streets. They too frequently try and convict men charge with crime before they are indicted. This is all wrong, but there is far more good than evil in newspapers of today.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A newspaper is considered the mouthpiece of the party with which the editor affiliates in some cases at least. This impression was brought about during the time when the average newspaper was at the bidding of the politician. Times have changed in many localities and the editor is supposed to know what is best for the party as well as any one else. If he is not capable of this service he has no business taking part in politics at all. He should be more capable because he is in touch with conditions and knows the will of the people better than any one else.—High Point Enterprise.

Of course Butler wants to meet Simmons; he wants to meet any respectable Democrat; he needs the association, hence his expressed desire. He is safe in extending a challenge, especially since the Senator, only last week, gave out an interview stating that no self-respecting man would meet Butler.—Greensboro News.

President Taft has selected November 10 as the date on which he will sail for Panama. This is two days after the election. Does the president want to be cut of the country while the Democrats are rejoicing over the election returns?—Statesville Landmark.

The Licorice Plant.
 The licorice plant resembles a rose with a single green stem, reaches a height of about three feet and bears a small purple star shaped flower. The first year's root growth resembles a loosely twisted string of tow and may run to twenty feet in length. The second year it assumes a woody substance when dry, and the third year it acquires its commercial value. The time for digging the root is the winter, when it is dried and crushed under heavy stones drawn round on it by mules, much as olives are crushed to extract their oil.

Queer Kaffir Custom.
 Kaffir women will not pronounce their husband's names or even use words which contain the emphatic syllable of those names. One old woman, being taught to say the Lord's prayer, changed the word from "come" in "Thy kingdom come" to something that made nonsense, and it proved that the proper "come" word was the main syllable of her husband's name.

The Unicorn.
Chinese annals of great antiquity contain numerous detailed accounts of the supposedly fabulous unicorn, in which the descriptions are identical with those handed down from the earliest times in the mythology or occult countries. From this it is inferred that at some time in the remote past there actually did exist a single horned equine or cervine animal of some sort.

A WEAK WOMAN AND HER STORY

In Floral, Ark., Lives a Lady Who Feels That Her Strength Was Restored by Cardui.

Floral, Ark.—"I must speak a good word for Cardui," writes Mrs. Viola Baker, of this place.

"About a month ago I was in very bad health. I was so weak and nervous that I was not able to do my housework.

"My husband bought me one bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic. I took it according to directions and now I am in good health.

"I think Cardui is a fine tonic for weak women."

And you are not the only lady who thinks so, Mrs. Baker.

Thousands, like you, have written to tell of the wonderful benefit Cardui has been to them.

Cardui contains no minerals, or other powerful drugs. It contains no glycerin or other mawkish-tasting ingredients.

It is just a pure, natural extract, of natural vegetable herbs, that have been found to regulate the womanly functions and strengthen the female system.

All druggists sell Cardui. See yours about it.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

Brass.

Brass is an alloy of tin and copper, and analysis of the earliest existing specimens demonstrates that it was formerly manufactured in the proportions of one part of tin to nine of copper. A notice in Genesis fixes the discovery and use of both these metals, according to the Bible, at between 4,004 and 1,635 years before the Christian era.

The Workers.
In the civilized countries of the world 60 per cent of persons over ten years of age have to work for living.

Linked Before and After.
Having entered the church at Rogersburg, in Germany, for the purpose of being married and taken his place beside the bride, a man named Wahl, who seems to have been of a somewhat nervous disposition, suddenly rushed out of the building, took a cab to the station and jumped into a moving train. We have always maintained that the bridegroom should be handcuffed to the best man until the conclusion of the ceremony. It is foolish to take unnecessary risks.—London Globe.

Happiness.
"There is an instinct in the heart of man which makes him fear a cloudless happiness. It seems to him that he owes to misfortune a title of his life, and that which he does not pay bears interest, is amassed and largely swells a debt which sooner or later he must acquit."

Her Long Dream.
Estelle—Ah! His proposal was just like a dream!
Agnes—Well, you ought to know, dear. You've been dreaming of that proposal for years.

Proving His Contention.
"Jones is an optimist, even in the most discouraging circumstances, isn't he?"
"Why, no. His mother-in-law is slightly indisposed, and he thinks there's no hope for her recovery."
"Well, what did I tell you?"—Cleveland Leader.

Chess in Ancient Ceylon.
In ancient Ceylon the game of chess was played with local variations peculiar enough to note. The king may not castle, but he is permitted to jump like a knight till checked. The pawns are exchangeable on the last row for the pieces on whose row they stand.

Though the world may owe every man a living, only the persistent collector gets it.

A Double Purpose.
"They say that melody will make cows yield more milk."

"Then the installation of a sextet of operatic milkmaids might increase the dairy output and also keep the boys on the farm."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Horses in the Time of Homer.
The horses used in Homer's time were war horses. The warriors were drawn in chariots. The art of riding was known, but it is alluded to as something unusual. Ulysses at the time of his shipwreck "beat a plank, like a horseman on a big steed." There are reasons for believing that the practice of riding was much later than that of driving, and the myth of the centaur, where, according to Shakespeare, "man is incorporated and dematerialized with the beast," probably originated at an early period when the appearance of a man on horseback was a novel sight.

A Long Wait.
At a Denver hotel a woman went into one of the telephone booths and sat down. It is not possible to get a telephone number from the booth—the girl at the board has to call it. The girl went to the booth. "Did you want a telephone number?" she asked of the woman.
"No," replied the woman. "I'm just waiting for this elevator to go up."—Argonaut.

Very Considerate.
George—Do you see that pretty girl in the hammock? Harold—Yes. What of her? George—I saved her life last summer. Harold—Indeed! At the seashore? George—No; on the front porch. I proposed to her and she said she'd die if she married me, so I excused her.—Stray Stories.

A Question of Ownership.
"Are you the man who advertises 'Own your own home' said the dejected looking caller.
"I am," answered the real estate dealer.
"Well, I'd like to get the recipe."
"The what?"
"The recipe—the modus operandi. I want to know what to do to own my own home. Our cook has a temper like a raging lion and muscles like Hercules. If you can, tell me how to dispossess her. Money's no object."

FOR THE NEXT 30 DAYS I WILL offer my entire stock of goods at cost. No goods charged.

REINDEER IN LAPLAND.

They Furnish the People With Shelter, Clothing and Food.

Some people have said that the reindeer of the northern regions is to the inhabitants of those countries what the horse, cow and sheep together are to the dwellers in southern lands, and very probably they are right. What would the Laplander be were he deprived of his favorite? How could he travel without his pair of reindeer harnessed to his sledge?

The reindeer has large black hoofs, behind which are false or secondary hoofs; the result is that when running they make a clattering sound, which may be heard a good distance away. The reindeer has much endurance and takes a long journey without seeming tired, though it is only about four and a half feet in height and not very strong. Its horns are long and slender, with branched, rounded antlers, but they are not much used in combat, like those of some other deer.

The largest reindeer are found where the weather is coldest, and their color is lighter. Usually it is brown and white, but in the case of old animals the hair is sometimes quite white. From the skin of the reindeer the Laplanders get not only their clothes, but also bedding and tents; the milk is drunk and made into cheese and the flesh is also good to eat, the tongue and haunches being particularly liked. Pemican, an important article of food, is made by pouring fat over the pounded meat and mixing them well together.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Truthful.
Angry Father (to son)—You never saw me getting into a scrape like that when I was a boy. Filippant Son—No, dad, I never did.—Exchange.
