ETHEL CLAR LENEVE IS ACQUITTED.

HER TRIAL CONCLUDED IN LESS THAN DAY.

Crown's Counsel Could Not Sustain Charge Against Her—Great Crowd at the Trial.

By Cable to The Reflector.
London, Oct. 25.—The trial of Ethel LeNeve was begun today. She pleaded not guilty to the charge of being accessory after the fact to the murder of Belle Elmore. The small court room was crowded, mostly with finely gowned women. Outside there was a big crowd clamoring for admission, or at least to get a look at the girl. The morning session of the court was mainly taken up by the presentation of Crown's case.

Verdict of Acquittal.

London, Oct. 25.—Ethel Clare LeNeve was acquitted of the charge of being an accessory after the fact of the murder of Mrs. Belle Elmore Crippen this afternoon, after a trial of less than a day. The crown's counsel could not sustain the charge that Miss LeNeve had any knowledge either of Crippen's intention or of the crime itself.

AVIATOR MAKES DARING FLIGHT

Denounces the Course as the Worst He Ever Saw.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Aviation Field, Belmont Park, N. Y., Oct. 25.—With fitful gusts of wind sweeping over the international course Capt. Thos. F. Baldwin, American aviator, risked his life and limb in a daring flight here today. In his speedy biplane he flew twice around the course at times putting his motor at full speed and attaining a speed of 50 miles an hour. After he descended he denounced the course as a menace to the contest and predicted that if the contests took place as planned there would be loss of life. He says the course was the worst he had ever seen.

MURDERER BROUGHT TO PRISON.

One Colored Man Kills Another At Farmville.

Chief of Police T. H. Smith, of Farmville, today brought Claude Vines, colored, here and turned him over to the sheriff, under a commitment without bail from the mayor of Farmville, on the charge of murder. Vines will be sent on to the jail in Winston to be held there until the next term of Pitt Superior court.

On Saturday night several negroes were in a building together in Farmville. Ossi Johnson asked Vines to give him a cigarette. Vines asked another negro to hand him a pistol, and pointing the weapon at Johnson said "take that," and pulled the trigger. The ball struck Johnson in the neck, and he died Monday morning.

HAD TO USE CLUB.

Policeman Clark Pulled a Bad Negro Monday Night.

Monday night Policeman George Clark captured a negro named Silas Ross in the mill section beyond the Norfolk Southern railroad. Ross came here from Danville recently, and was not long in opening his trade of stealing taking a gun and some other things that belonged to another negro. The officer took a pistol off the negro when making the arrest, but on his way down to the lock up the negro showed resistance and had to be clubbed.

COTTON GINNING REPORT.

120,000 Bales Less Than Last Year to October 18th.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—The census bureau this morning issued the cotton ginning report showing 5,410,860 bales ginned from the growth of 1910 to October 18th, compared with 5,530,967 bales for 1909.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Loyal to Football Team—Illustrated Lecture.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 25.—A big, strong, whole-hearted mass meeting with 500 students in attendance was held in Gerrard hall Monday night for the purpose of letting the football team know that, in the face of the defeat by Davidson in Charlotte last Saturday, it still retained the confidence and loyalty of the student body. The speakers, among whom were Dr. Royster, and Rev. Mr. Hogue who had seen the game, seriously expressed confidence in the ability of the team to develop a strong scoring strength yet. The opinion was given that the squad handicapped by superior weight and a superabundance of material had not yet found itself. The game in Washington with Georgetown next Saturday will give the players a chance to demonstrate the reality of their ability to "come back."

Rev. John Little, of Louisville, Ky., gave an illustrated lecture, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night on the condition of the negro in the south. He described the poverty and disease-stricken negro slums of Atlanta and Louisville and attributed to these conditions the low status of morality that exists in the race. He made a strong plea for the physical, industrial and moral uplift of the negro race in the south.

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society met Wednesday night for the election of officers. Professor Stacy was chosen president and Professors Daggett and Hall vice-president and secretary and treasurer. The object of this society is to encourage scientific research and to record matters pertaining to the natural history of the state. The journal issued by the society is in a measure the bulletin of the laboratories of the university. It is now in its twenty-sixth year. It exchanges with over 300 scientific periodicals and by this exchanging more than ten thousand books and pamphlets have been collected for the university library. Dr. W. C. Coke is editor-in-chief of the Journal this year.

CANDIDATE FOR JUDGE.

Is Found Guilty of Improper Con- duct.

Zenobia Walser is the Republican candidate for Superior court judge. This is the same Zenobia who took money from E. E. Teague of Davidson county, to procure a position as rural delivery carrier. At the time said Teague agreed to pay Walser $150 to get him a job as rural mail carrier. Walser's brother, Joseph, was postmaster at Lexington, and his brother Zeb was—and is—a big-bug in Republican politics. Teague says he was induced to sign a note to pay for this improper service "through misrepresentation of plaintiff (Zenobia Walser) and his brother Z. V. Walser, and Joseph G. Walser, postmaster at Lexington, in that they represented to him that the plaintiff's said law firm could secure him said office (rural delivery carrier) by their political pull with the government of the United States."

Teague paid Walser $50 in cash and gave him a note for $100. Later he got this job, but he came to the conclusion that he got it through the civil service examination and not because of Walser's "pull with the government of the United States." In fact, to pay an attorney money to get a civil service job is contrary to public policy. When this note became due Teague refused to pay the note. Walser met Teague. The case went into the Justice's court and Teague won. When all the facts came out that Walser, a big Republican, charged an applicant for rural delivery $150 to get him a job and that he was aided by Postmaster Walser and Brother Zebulon—when the public got these facts, Zebulon dropped the case against Teague like a hot potato.—Raleigh News and Observer.

AGAINST ISSUING BONDS.

Favors Building Roads by Direct Tax- ation.

Fountain, N. C., Oct. 24, 1910.
Editor Reflector:
I often see sketches in your paper on good roads. Some have one idea and some another. I would like to give my views on the subject.
If we could have our roads improved without bonds, which I think could be done, it would save us from a bonded debt. Just suppose that we were to issue $300,000 of bonds. The interest at 5 per cent. would be $15,000 per year. Why not tax the people for that amount and spend it on the roads? Then in the course of five or ten years, with the help of the convicts and the road overseers, the roads could be made good. Then we would have the good roads without the great debt to tax the people on, as long as the world stands, which we could not hope to get rid of before.
We already have too much bonds, and I am against bonding our county and taxing the people for no use. It seems to me that some people never think what it will cost nor how much will be thrown away if we should issue these bonds that so much has been said about. I am afraid they and their children both will be sorry some day that they ever heard of bonds if we should get them.

IN THE CORN CONTESTS.

Boys Winning in Their Own Class— Also Beat the Men

The boys of North Carolina are the real articles. They have not alone won bog prizes for themselves in corn contests, but have beaten out the "daddies" of the state.

The department of Agriculture offered some nice cash premiums to the boys for the best twenty ears of corn and six stalks with ears of corn, these to be shown at the state fair, and there were three prize winners.

J. P. Lewis, of Reedy Branch, Wilkes county, won the first prize of $100. The second prize, $50 was won by Vester Blalock, of Norwood, Stanley county, and the third prize of $25 by Raymond Hill, of Lexington.

For the best ten ears of corn a boy beat out the men, with whom he entered into competition. In this contest, with a prize of $2.00 the prize went to Sairley Schofield, of Guilford, and the winner of the prize for the best single ear of corn raised in the state was awarded to Ekum Goodman, of Apex, R. F. D. 3. This shows that the older farmers will have to get a move on themselves.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Renston Items.

Renston, N. C., Oct. 24.—Miss Bessie Darnall spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Chas. McGlohorn.

Mr. C. H. Langston returned from Durham and Raleigh last night.

Miss Rosalie Dall spent Saturday with friends in Ayden.

Miss Pearl Dixon, of Ormondville, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fannie Holt.

Messrs. Herman and Dennis McGlohorn, Misses Eva Langston, Annie and Norma McGlohorn attended the fair in Raleigh last week.

There will be a Halowe'en party at Pierce's school house Monday night, October 31st. The public is invited.

Dennis McGlohorn's acre of corn measured 92 1-2 bushels. Who can beat that?

An Owl Attacked Mr. Lynn.

Mr. Pink Lynn, a citizen of the Lawsonville section, had an experience with an owl the other night which he will not soon forget. He heard his chickens making quite a noise. Going out to investigate, he found that a big owl had killed two or three of them. Obtaining a good view of the owl he shot at it but missed his mark. He picked up one of the chickens and sat down to investigate its wounds, when the owl came back and pounced down upon Mr. Lynn's head, clutching its claws in Mr. Lynn's hair and using its beak to pound him several blows. Mr. Lynn was frustrated by the assault, but finally regained his equilibrium and reached up and caught the owl by the neck and choked it to death.—Riedsville Review.

The greatest of mistakes is thinking you can't make them.

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Newsy Items About the Town and Its People—Progressive Community.

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 24.—Quite a number of our people attended the state fair at Raleigh.

Gov. W. W. Kitchin stepped off the north bound train Thursday morning and shook the hands of all in reach. He was enroute to Williamston, where he and Hon. Tom Settle, Assistant United States District Attorney had a joint debate on the issues of the day, and the best methods of draining Swift Creek and Clay Root swamps, all in Pitt.

F. Lilly's cafe for ladies and gentlemen gets fresh select oysters every day. dw 1230

Miss Fannie Hardee, of Greenville, is visiting Misses Anna and Cora Lee Garris.

The death angel visited our town Tuesday morning and laid its clutches upon the wife of Mr. James A. Newell, who for some time had been in the valley of the shadow of death. She was 83 years old, and a devoted member of the M. E. church. Her remains were laid at rest in the Ayden cemetery Thursday evening. Rev. J. B. Bridgers conducting the funeral.

Mr. Lee Humble, who lived near Ridge Spring, who for some time has been in feeble health, came over to Ayden Monday and was spending the night with his sister, Mrs. J. O. Wingate. While there he was taken decidedly worse, and while lying hand did all they could he died before day. He was buried Wednesday near Rountrees church, "Lee," as he was known was just entering young manhood, was quiet, sober and industrious, and his death is quite a shock to the family, though not very much unexpected.

Miss Minnie Cox, who had been attending the meeting at the Baptist church, returned to her home in Winterville Wednesday evening.

Mr. W. H. Kilpatrick, the champion cotton buyer, of Grifton, was here Thursday.

Rev. E. T. Phillips is attending the Free Will Baptist conference in South Carolina this week.

The clock at J. R. Smith Co.'s was opened Thursday amid a throng of merry shoppers, and stood at 10.33-26 Mr. Everett Stroud won the 40-piece set of china. Mr. Edward Drepece won the second, a hand-knife, all wool fascinator. Miss Bedie McCasky won the third, a china cake plate. You get a ticket with each dollars purchase and their store is a busy place.

Mr. John Lewis McGlohorn, wife, daughter, mother and brother, were all on our dry goods market Thursday.

Let us gin your cotton, give you bagging and ties, and pay you cash for your seed.—J. R. Smith Company.

There was over $35,000 worth of cotton sold on Ayden market last week. This is enough to make New York and Liverpool set up and take notice. Our buyers are still rampant and their orders are for no limited amount.

In time of peace prepare for war. Supply your home with a good cook stove or range for either wood or coal, also heaters and grates. Remember we can furnish you any quantity of coal you want.—J. R. Smith Company.

Mr. Abner Faulkner has purchased the house and lot of J. J. Edwards and son, on the Kimberlin height, or Venter's property, and has moved there.

Mr. Jesse Cannon can be found at the office of the Ayden Loan and Insurance Company, with the registration book.

A complete line of ladies' and children's cloaks and trimmed hats dress shoes, and shoes, to fit any foot, school books, tablets, ink, crayons, and school supplies.—J. R. Smith Company.

Dr. E. L. St. Claire, the old Apostle of education, is in our town. He tells us he is still working away for the Baptist Seminary with wonderful success.

Mr. C. C. Sumrell, who is one of the old land marks of Ayden and "Ghent," has moved to his more quiet and pleasant country home in South Ayden. When he moved to Ayden that portion of the town that is known as "Ghent" was a tobacco farm. He purchased a piece of farm land and erected him a small two-room house out on what was then his farm. Now he is entirely surrounded by beautiful residences, paved walks, stone steps, lovely lawns and exquisite flowers, homes, that are calculated to make an alien write "Home, Sweet Home." Mr. Sumrell will be to

The People Who Come and go on Our Trains.

Mr. C. F. Pilley returned Monday evening from a visit to his people at Pinetown.

Misses Hennie Ragsdale and Hennie Whichard came home Monday night from Raleigh, where they had been visiting.

Sheriff L. W. Tucker and Deputy Sheriff R. Hyman went to New Bern today to attend Federal court.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hall returned Monday evening from Scotland Neck.

Mrs. J. S. Cockrell has joined her sister at Halifax, where they go to their mother's home in Nash, who is at the point of death.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Whitehurst returned Monday from a visit to An-lander.

Supt. W. H. Ragsdale left for Washington this morning to attend the meeting of the northeastern district division of superintendents association, of which he is president; and has been continuously since its organization.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pender, of Tarboro, were here Monday to attend the funeral of Mr. Zeno Brown.

Mayor F. M. Wooten and Superintendent E. G. Couch, of the water and light plant, returned Monday evening from Raleigh where they had been to attend a meeting of the State board of health.

Back at Work.

Mr. C. F. Pilley, the Linotype operator on The Reflector, who has been off for a week with a bone felon on his index finger, was able to get back at the machine today. His finger is yet game and stiff, but he hopes it will not interfere with his work any longer.

Dr Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha Monday and Tuesday, November 7th and 8th, for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses.

MONEY REFERENCE IS RIGHT.

Boys and Girls Should be Taught the Wise Use of Dollars.

Much is said about the evil of money worship; and it is an evil. But there is a greater—and that greater evil is lack of true reverence for money. If every boy and every girl especially every girl—were educated right, he and she would be taught to reverence money—the stored-up toll of human beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expanded in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant only as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carelessly more imposing monuments of human effort.

If the boy, the girl—before spending a dollar, thought, "This represents the sweat, perhaps the blood, of some or many of my fellow beings laboring hours on hours; I must see that it is used worthily, that I do not give it up for less than its full value"—if some such thought as this were in his or her mind, perhaps—well, perhaps many things, including lower prices for food and clothing.—The Delineator.

This is the New York World's definition of crooks: "There are good crooks and bad crooks, just as there are good trusts and bad trusts. Good crooks contribute to Roosevelt campaign funds and vote the Roosevelt ticket. Bad crooks either refuse to contribute or they vote the Democratic ticket, or both. By keeping these distinctions clearly in mind our contemporaries will no longer be puzzled by certain apparent inconsistencies in Mr. Roosevelt's record. He is always against the bad crooks."

South Ayden what he has been to "Ghent."

To the friends and neighbors who were so kind and attentive to me and my wife, in our sickness, her death and burial, I wish to express my most sincere and hearty thanks; and pray that God may reward them for their unbounded kindness to me.—James A. Newell.

The Peculiarities of Mr. Hill.
The newspapers are having a good deal to say about the late David B. Hill. The public is familiar to a great extent with his political career. His private life was even more peculiar. The biographical sketch contributed by The Baltimore Sun brings out some traits of Mr. Hill's character which were not generally known. It says he has been described as "the man without a human weakness," and as "the cold, efficient politician, through whose veins runs ice water instead of blood." Probably both descriptions were exaggerated, but in the main, they were accurate. He had no recreations; work was his life theme, and there were no vacations. He had no irregular habits, cared nothing for accumulating wealth, cultivated no friendships, was never known after he reached man's estate, to love. He never married—two reasons for which have been advanced: When he was a young man his favorite sister died, and it was long before his health recovered from the shock. It is also said that he had a romance as a youth, but that the girl's death soured him against woman and life. He was always courteous and at home in the society of women, but he never sought them. With men he was austere and distant, save where interest made closer relations necessary—and as soon as the business was over he retired to his shell again. This latter peculiarity was in evidence on Mr. Hill's visit to Charlotte. He was utterly unresponsive to acts of courtesy and to efforts at hospitality. One might just as well have endeavored to draw responsiveness from the stone man. He was not restrained, but rather indifferent, yet he made perhaps the best 20th of May speech that has ever been delivered in Charlotte.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Building & Loan and Corporation Tax.
The National Association of Manufacturers sends out a fortnightly report of current notes of industrial interests and among them we find something of interest in regard to the liability of building and loan associations to the corporation tax, now under review by the Supreme court of the United States. The specific question of the liability of these companies has been raised in the case of Baltimore institutions and Washington has advised the Baltimore collector that their liability can be determined by the application of a test, which is thus set out in a communication to the Baltimore collector. "It has been held that building and loan associations are not exempt if they loan money to others than their members; thus doing a business similar to that engaged in by banks or trust companies. It is also held that building and loan associations, which receive sums of money on deposit which is not in payment of stock, and on which the depositor receives a fixed rate of interest regardless of the earnings of the association, are conducting a business similar to a banking business and are therefore subject to the special excise tax on corporations and should be required to make a return showing their net income." Our understanding is that the North Carolina building and loan associations do not lend to any other than stockholders, nor do they receive money except in payment on stock. They do a strictly building and loan business, and are therefore in no fear of the corporation tax.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The scientist are predicting that two great armies of the seventeenth-year locusts, will visit this country next spring and the Audubon Society is taking advantage of this prediction to get in a word for the protection of insect-eating birds. According to the scientists, the locusts are now preparing to burst forth in countless multitudes over the fields of both north and south. Apple, peach and pear orchards and vineyards will feel their destructive power, the government authorities admit, unless an abundant force of the wild birds is preserved to lead the fight. The locust-eating birds, as given by the Audubon Society are robins, woodpeckers, orioles, scarlet tanagers, cuckoos, goldfinches, nuthatches, cat birds, flickers, towhees, gnatchers, martins, pewees, thrashers, hawks, chickadees, flycatchers, and even that abomination, the English sparrow. We are in favor of protecting all the birds, even the latter.—Charlotte Chronicle.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

XI.—Rural Education—The Agricultural College.

By C. V. GREGORY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

IN 1862 congress passed a law appropriating money for the establishment of colleges of agriculture and mechanic arts. Today there are sixty-seven such institutions in the United States. The establishment of the agricultural colleges opened up an entirely new field of education. The study of science and the application of that science to the problems of everyday life began to take the place of the study of classics. Educating a man merely to have him educated began to go out of style, and the truer education that better fits a man to tackle the problems of life took its place.

The growth of the agricultural colleges was slow at first, and not until within the last fifteen years have they really come to fill the place for which they were designed. At first the idea of educating a farmer was laughable to many people who rejoiced in a little learning. Even the farmer himself did not realize the advantage of a college education to a man who must make a living from the soil. It took a good many years to bring people to realize that college education is as valuable for a farmer as for a doctor or a lawyer. The main difference is that the law compels a man to get a college diploma before he starts to practice medicine, while he may start farming with nothing but a team and a plow.

Even at the present time there are many men both on the farm and in the cities who doubt the value of a college education for the farmer. Many a farm boy is squarely confronted with the problem of choosing between four years in college or starting to farm at once. Four years is a long time to a young man. Fifteen hundred to $2,000 is a large sum of money to him. To spend both for a college education requires a great deal of courage and faith in the future.

The amount of money necessary to pay four years' expenses in college will enable the young man to start farming on a rented farm. The four years will, if he is industrious, enable him to earn enough to make a good sized payment on a farm of his own. If he goes to college he will have nothing at the end of the four years but the experience and knowledge he has gained there. Is it worth it?

I have put this question squarely to dozens of men in their last year at an agricultural college. Without exception they say that it is worth the outlay. Not one regretted the time or the money which he had bartered for his education. Few of them placed it on a money basis alone, but even from that standpoint they considered that the chances were in favor of the college man.

The boy who starts farming for himself without any education will run up against a good many snags which the college man will miss. He will learn by experience many of the things which the college man learns in school. In doing so he will pay much dearer for his knowledge. The old prejudice against "book farming" is fast disappearing. People are coming to realize that book farming is merely the fused experience of successful farmers everywhere, explained and illumined by the light of science. Probably in no one respect is the advantage of the college man more clearly apparent than in the case of soil fertility. Long after the untrained man has begun to notice and wonder at the decline of his crop yields the man who has studied the science of soil fertility will be raising undiminished crops. The art of keeping up the soil fertility cannot be learned from the neighbors, for they have not practiced it. It cannot be learned from father or grandfather, for in their day the fertility of the soil was considered inexhaustible.

The success of the agricultural college graduate cannot be measured in money alone. The agricultural commonities just now need leaders much more than they need men who can simply make money on their own farms. It is necessary for the agricultural college graduate to succeed on his own farm, of course. His every move is closely watched by critical neighbors. Even the shadow of a failure starts a chorus of "I told you so."

Success on his own farm is the first essential to the young man who would be a leader. Given that for backing, he can do almost anything he wants to with his community. Farmers have a vast deal of respect for the man who can do things. Their prejudice against college farming is lost in admiration for the results achieved by the college farmer. If he advises or organizes a club they are willing to join in and help. If he tells them the school needs reorganizing they are willing to be convinced. They may even consent to bringing two or three schools together and using the money saved to hire better teachers. The inspiration of one man's success and the energy imparted by him is sufficient to start a whole community to thinking. Once you get a man to thinking, there is no need to worry further about him. He will take care of himself.

If an energetic young farmer with an agricultural education could be placed in each township throughout the farming sections the results would be an enlightened agriculture that would be the envy of the whole world. A leading educator recently made the statement that three live agricultural college graduates could in ten years increase the value of the land in any agricultural county $20 per acre. That sounds incredible, but it is literally true. The community would become so progressive that it would be worth $20 an acre more to live there.

The charge has been made that agricultural college graduates do not go back to the farm. The facts do not bear out this assertion. While the percentage varies, it is safe to say that fully 50 per cent of the graduates go directly to the farm. The others go into some work closely related to farming. In my acquaintance with young men just finishing college I have known of very few who were not anxious to go to farming. A good many of them do not do so because of lack of capital. They have spent all their money in college, and it looks to them like uphill business to start farming without a cent. They are overwhelmed with offers of salaried positions at salaries of from $1,000 to $2,000 a year to start with. Experiment stations, agricultural colleges, agricultural papers and manufacturers of agricultural products are all looking for agricultural college graduates.

Many of the men go into some work of this kind until they can save money enough to start farming.

Of the college graduates who do take up farming as a business the greater number rent the home farm or go into partnership with their respective fathers. This is the ideal way for a young man to get a start. Under such favorable circumstances he cannot help but succeed. Often, however, there are enough brothers at home to occupy all the land. The young college farmer must look elsewhere for a job. Every year the agricultural colleges are receiving a larger number of calls for farm managers. Many of these offers are exceedingly liberal. They come for the most part from farmers who wish to retire from active work and at the same time do not wish to sell or rent their farms. They are often willing to take the right sort of a young man in on a partnership basis or give him a percentage of the net profits. A position of this kind is the next best thing to owning a farm. Although an agricultural college education is of great value, it must not be taken from what I have said that success without such an education is impossible. Many farm boys are not fitted for an education of this kind either by temperament or ability. Many others are so situated that they cannot be away from home for four years. Still others do not have the money. For these boys an agricultural college education is an impossibility. To teach them something about their business some other form of education is necessary. This is being supplied by the secondary schools. The work of these schools will be described in the next article.

A $350,000 BUILDING DEVOTED TO THE TEACHING OF AGRICULTURE.

The Tall Hat in France.
The tall hat, variously called "chimney pot," "stovepipe," "cylinder" and what not, became fashionable in Paris in 1790, soon after the death of Franklin, in whose honor it was known as "chapeau Franklin." In spite of numberless changes of style, it has maintained its ground ever since, unexpected as such a result would have seemed at its first introduction. For a time this style of hat was considered revolutionary in Germany and Russia. Any one wearing a "cylinder" was liable to punishment, but the evil reputation soon passed away, and the tall, stiff hat of the ugliest head covering that was ever worn and the most ridiculed, outlives all other styles.

Sex and Handwriting.
That it is possible to determine sex from handwriting in perhaps 50 cases out of 100 is a conclusion reached from an examination of the writing of 200 persons. The specimens were submitted to two "professional graphologists" as well as to fifteen persons ignorant of their art. The so-called sex signs are found to be largely influenced by the amount of writing done, by age and to a certain extent by practice and by professional requirements, as in the conventional writing of teachers and the rapid hand of bookkeepers.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Not Much Difference.
Brown—Now, my wife always consults me about everything she buys for herself—dresses, hats, shoes, gloves—everything. Robinson—So does mine—that is, she always asks me for the money. Comes to the same thing in the end.

Both Disappointed.
A man who leased a cottage at a seaside resort met the plausible real estate agent who engineered the deal, to whom he said:
"I took this cottage from you because you represented it to be only three minutes' walk from the ocean. As a matter of fact, it is fifteen minutes' walk instead of three. I'm disappointed in you, sir."
"Well," said the real estate man, "I'm disappointed in you too. I took you for one of those real rapid walkers."

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, of this city, "and have a heap to do."
"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors."
"You don't know how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."
Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay its finger on your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

ach tablets to cure even the worst case of indigestion, or money back.

If your stomach rebels after eating and food sours or ferments in the stomach causing gas, pain, heartburn, and heaviness, two MI-O-NA tablets will drive away the misery in five minutes and leave the stomach feeling splendid.

A large box of MI-O-NA stomach tablets cost 50 cents at Coward & Wooten's and leading druggists everywhere.

Have stomach trouble of any kind, start to use MI-O-NA stomach tablets today. They not only build up the stomach, but they act as a tonic to the entire body. They are makers of rich red blood and nerves that never flinch; they increase vitality and make the weak more vigorous.

There are indications that the vote all over the country in November will be a record-breaker for an off year.
It is going to be particularly heavy in North Carolina and in this fact is to be found encouragement for the Democrats. In Chicago the registration is 40,000 greater than it was last off year election. In size the vote is going to approach that of a presidential year.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Camels That Ride.

The Bedouins decorate their baggage camels in the most fantastic manner.
A huge pack saddle is surmounted by a still larger pannier. Above this again is a sort of chair in which the rider sits. The long strips of leather hanging down the sides are simply for decorative purposes. I have seen camels when too young to go on long treks being carried in these panniers, and they are always used for the Be-douin children.

This tribe has many quaint and curious customs. Perhaps the most curious of these is the manner in which they show their esteem for certain strangers. One evening when a young camel had been killed for the meal I noticed the women collecting the blood in a bowl. Then, to my astonishment, they started painting my camels on the necks and flanks with the blood. Unknowingly I was the recipient of the greatest honor that can be paid a stranger. The blood dried on and remained for a long time, acting as a talisman among all the Sherarat tribe.—Douglas Carruthers in Wide World Magazine.

A Tragedy of Instinct.

The processionaries are rather strange caterpillars. A single string of them five or six yards long has just climbed down from my parson pine and is at this moment infolding itself in the walls of my garden, carpeting the ground traversed with transparent silk, according to the custom of the race.
To say nothing of the meteorological apparatus of unparalleled delicacy which they carry on their backs, these caterpillars, as everybody knows, have this remarkable quality—that they travel only in a troop, one after the other, like the blind of Breughel or those in the parable, each of them obstinately, indissolubly following her leader; so much so that our author having one morning disposed the file on the edge of a large stone vase, thus closing the circuit, for seven whole days, during an atrocious week, through cold, hunger and unspeakable weariness, the unhappy troop on its tragic round without rest, respite or mercy, pursued the pitiless circle until death arrived.—Forum.

Kindness.

Life is short, and we have never too much time for gladdening the hearts of those who are travelling the same dark journey with us. Oh, be swift to love; make haste to be kind!—Amiel.

Specialization.

Doctor—What can I do for you?
Patient—I have cut my index finger.
Doctor—Very sorry, but I am a specialist on the middle finger.—Filegenda

Greenville cotton 13 7-8.

New York, Oct. 25.—Prices jumped from 5 to 24 points at the opening of the cotton market today as a result of the ginner's figures falling short of expectations. In addition to heavy covering, there was a good demand from some big interests. F. B. Hogue bid 14.10 for 25,000 bales of October.
Opening: October 14.10; December 13.95; January 14.05; March 14.24.

New York, Oct. 25.—Losses were quoted in almost every standard railroad and industrial stock at the opening of the market today. A lower range of prices went over from London and general hesitancy on the part of buyers caused today's decline.
Rock Island preferred was the leader of the decline during early trading, dropping 3 1-4 points under yesterday's close. There was a slight rally in standard railroad stocks during the latter part of first hour. Industrial were also off.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Wheat was 1-4
to 1-2 lower at the opening today.
Corn started with scattered but fairly general selling. Oats opened off a little with other gains. Provisions steady. December wheat 92 1-4; corn 45 1-2; oats 30 5-8.

A Barnum Story.

A story is told of the meeting of Matthew Arnold with P. T. Barnum, the great showman, in America. Mr.
Arnold when introduced said how proud he felt at making the acquaintance of a man with a worldwide reputation. "Ah, Mr. Arnold," said Barnum, "we are both public men, but the difference between you and me is that you are a notability, while I am only a notoriety."
